'The 'Nevaeh Saga' is a narrative focus on the thoughtful look of a young girl, facing pain- as she bares her soul and what lays within.'

'A fourteen-year-old Nevaeh is having a midlife crisis likewise doesn't seem to bode well with her life expectancy. Her so-called school friends bully her, whatever semblance of a foster mother drowned out her fights with life by loathing her for being alive, falling and grieving her way to mental delusion. Now a fallen angel Nevaeh speaks when she did not have a voice, to do so before, her untimely death- as she bares her soul.'

'Just because Nevaeh is the small girl and has someone putting her down; doesn't mean that she can't rise above it all and shine!'

‘I started countless novel-writing mostly by chance, and it was self- highlighted in my life. My undertaking has been and will remain to be to create stories, which will engage interest in reading, comprehension and expand critical thinking. I believe that all my stories capture’ the many scenes, moments, and expressions throughout the chapters. My first book was titled ‘The Many Adventures of Cuddles.’ Then I published a book titled ‘Sammie and Ellie’ I became an author, Illustrator for children's books- knew I wanted to start writing novels.’

Acknowledgments:

This story is what is it today, because of some very special individuals, and I would like to give thanks to them for everything they have done. To my literary agent, thank you for selecting me from obscurity, thanks for your kindness, your patience, and wisdom. Thanks for all the long hours you have spent working with me. I am so grateful for everything you have done.

I also want to say thank you to those of you that have endorsed my work way back when it was just a manuscript sitting on top of my desk, next to my antique typewriter held together with a few old rubber bands.

Enthusiasms:

Joy M. Duriez. The person who has inspired me from day one. 'You'll get where you want to go, you just have to trust that you can, and you will get there, have the faith.'

Walking the Halls

Interval Section: 1

The book of Choices-

Preface: Have a voice:

'I never invested much thoughtfulness to where or with I would expire, nonetheless fall, though I would hold reason enough in the last few months, despite if I had, I would not have thought it would be like aforementioned, I have been a good little Catholic girl, all my life; I can sin a-little- right?'

'I watched outwardly exhaling athwart the great fields, into the mysterious eyes of the sole snatching demon; that took the look of a young girl holy ghost. Furthermore, she observed thoughtfully back at me.'

'Admittedly, it was an immeasurable way to depart, in the position of someone else, someone I adored, cherished, and embraced; good, indeed. This ought to score for something, of where I am going.'

'I grasped that if I would never fly away from home, I would not be meeting death immediately. However, frightened, terrified, and scared as I lived, I could not make myself to mourn the determination I made. If experience allows you a vision so far exceeding each of your expectations, it's not prudent to bewail when it reaches to a conclusion finish.'

'The captivating angel beamed lovingly as she roamed forward to hang me, a part of me felt as it would die, and others would never.'

'If you all are taken by novels with delighted conclusions, you would be better off reading some other book.'

'On the morning I was scheduled to die, I saw my life as if I had lived it to its whole.'

'The Amsel girls were unquestionably the most mischievous kids in the memoir of the experience of my childhood.'

'Not every 14-year-old girl is indicted for murder, brought to trial, and found guilty.'

'Yet, the power behind words and voices is substantial to all life! I dedicated this book to all of you readers before you even read it, to understand - the book of misunderstandings for the misunderstood.'

'To have a voice, when you were made not have one or told not to have one. Maybe if you are like me, trying to get your voice back this is the story you need. Nonetheless, let us not fail to remember all the voices, which will never speak again, for being rejected and misunderstood.'

'Yes, be that voice with this book, this book is for you, to speak up, and be heard. Why?'

'So, there are no more lost and forgotten voices of life. This book is a steppingstone to abolish bullying altogether, along with your help; we can take that step forward and forget about the past!'

'At this time, I would like you all to take a moment of silence, to remember someone, that is no longer with us. So, they are not forgotten.'

'To understand, you must read, between the lines of a story just like mine, sometimes more than once.'

'My wronging if you do not read this book is, you'll find out fast that life is going to suck, and then you make the discovery, that you are going to die alone, and the hex - I have will now be on you.'

'At least that is what I thought; I thought I read, my story before it was written, and this note was the last thing that I was going to write.'

'However, I never realize that there was so much more to life, which I did not appreciate. I came so very close to the edge. Yet, I got additional unplanned lifespans.'

'Yet, was the second chance what I needed?'

'Nevertheless, there were things that I concerned my mind with, which was not substantial to my existence.'

'If anything- learn from me. Try to do the virtuous things I did and not the mistakes I made. Though it is up to you to decide what was great or immoral, it is what you feel and believe is morally right in your mind.'

'Yeah, it would be right in saying- I never really establish any thought into what was going to happen to me someday and the others that are part of my surroundings.'

'However, life goes on, and the existence of what was stands for nothing but- a memory of what you can and cannot have. If you are someone like me, but all I ever wanted to be someone that appreciates me.'

'Everybody around here would say life is free, yet or is it?'

'Like, do I even want it?'

'No- not anymore!'

'The existence of life...! Is what I mean.'

'This belief is what I do not want, to have any more.'

'There must be a way out of all this misery, suffering, pain agony, and distress, that I relish in day today?'

'They say dying departing, and falling is easy, as well as lasting, and living is difficult, uncertain, ambiguous and unpredictable.'

'While with wild careless heart and reduction of insight I am going to find out!'

'I presume life is all about what you want, need, love, desire, respect, and love.'

'Furthermore, existing in life comes down to what you cannot have in it. All I have to say is don't let anyone or anything pin you down and make you less than who you are. Always be whom you were meant to be, regardless of what they say... because who in the hell are, they!'

'This is a warning to my story, I will only say this once, this is my life, and others I have loved and lost, and it is graphic at times.'

'Just like looking into a book of Sh-h, of deep dark girly secrets, photographs in the mind like black and white still frames of the past developed, or like a painting of time last just at the moment- a picture with my words of how I will be remembered, the story will come to be perceived sharply and with much clarity.'

'All the color in it washes away over time, yet not all, they become soft and pastel, and some things fade yet it's all been said, yet not hidden.'

'So, one way or another- you now have memorabilia, of lives until now never had a voice. Besides all that is left is still frames that keep on fading, and distorting.'

'My normal, dull, everyday common, and ordinary life goes into much detail about me to it is explicit and labeling, disparaging to the point I like the ones that were part of me had or have little worth; to the point of derogatory, defamatory, sarcastic, and my loved ones equal to my malice as a teen girl.'

'Just so, you know that 'y'all' have been informed of what to expect!'

'Let's go through this excursion combined with a mighty voice, and our heads held up. Let's be proud of- 'Who we are, not what we are.' Furthermore, in time you'll know what that means if you have trust.'

Chapter: 1

Sisters from Hell

'Hey, I am only fourteen, what do you expect, I can be remembered as a sinner. I need to rewind the time turner some and relive the past to see what I am missing; I have the magical power.'

'My time turner is a device used for time travel. It is an extraordinary timekeeper that favors an hourglass on a chain, just another thing, I keep on my necklace.'

'All my days, weeks, month go back, even years, until the beginning of my freshman year of high school.'

'I have gotten to have the great pleasure of having these fore girls around me, at all times; 'yeah me,' the girls I call the sisters.'

'Unseasoned, gentle, sweet, sympathetic, winsome giving, innocent looking girls. Then turn in to horrifying shapeshifting demons sometimes, into wendigo's, or even banshees.'

'Additionally, I know that they show up in children's lives as shadow people, long before any of those to come afterward. Asking as if their benefactor, allies, protector, and sympathizer, everything that is an angel.'

'Most would just call us just ghostly, yet most of the time we would take the humanoid shape of one of those.'

'I was once a white angel, the chestiest type I could be, nevertheless, I was the hunted over this, and that had to arrive at an ending.'

'Although over time, I have fallen with them as you know, now just as weak as them hunting young girls for the sweet taste of blood and souls, to keep for their own, to take them in the most sheepish, timid, cowardly and spineless way a child like me could do; acting like a sweet fallen angel.'

'Just to victimize, when they are just like me looking for hope, that I give misleadingly, in the time of their need, just like I was in too.'

'I am no better than the bullies, that picked on me, and I could not live with myself, as I was falling more every day, thinking, I was still ever-so good when I was just as wrong as my sisters and even my grandmother that made me this way.'

'I remember, that demons can take the shape of anything and hide within anything even you and me, and in me they did.'

'Sarah's soul was assumed to be lost, but to me I think she lingers within a toy doll; to find a new body to stay within someday.'

'Despite, this can take months years, even decades at a time.'

'They were always a pain in my butt!'

'However, in high school what they did became, so much more arousing for them, more hardcore. Likewise, you will see why now they like to find pledger in all the pain they think is a turn on, that is what I mean to say, like everything will be relieved, at a point coming up, soon!'

'Okay, the four Amsel sisters were also known as 'The Blackbird Clan' to me all my life, or that is what I call them, in my book of life.'

'In my mind, they peck and stalk all human life, which they think is below their perfection, supremacy, mastery, and superiority.'

'Hence, you know that I am one of them that they chew on and play with and not the sweet childish play you would think.'

'Alissa Amsel is a blonde hair, blue-eyed girl; she cannot weigh any more than one hundred pounds. Although, she is taller than most of the boys' kind of gangly looking- conversely, so it seems to me when looking up at her from my worm's eye perspective every time.'

'She is the head of the girls! She is the main squeeze, that gets all the others to participate in her girl's group as a horde.'

'She is the one that created this pulsating, diddling, and banging bullying gang in the school halls.'

'Still, I just call them the clan sisters, yes they are my sisters from hell.'

'Alissa, she towers in her overall authorities, control, and influence, in the society's ranking of rheostat within the hellhole.'

'Indeed, Alissa is a senior the head cheerleader, she makes everyone that she wants to be associated with being her friend, and the ones she does not want to be her fools.'

'Since, she has to have consistent attention, in any forms imaginable.'

'Yes, a refusal to bow down to her authority, she does everything in her power, to make your life miserable; and I know that she does for me and others like me!'

'Alissa is constantly smothering Chiaz Naztherth, with her crazed oversexed clingy nature.'

'That pisses me off, he is mine! As if, he is her plaything. Nevertheless, she knows that she has the power to date, anyone she wants, without any remorse or compassion for his or her true feelings, the door is always open for her, and it goes both ways.'

'Though, she closed my door to get anyone a long time ago. Everything, I have prepared love linked, past and present are hiding away for that reason.'

'Sometimes, falsifying it is the only way to make it real for us. As expected of him, Chiaz accepts the relationship grasp, and all that comes with it or else.'

'She sure holds onto him with both hands, hugging so tight, kissing sucking face, and God knows what else, and all the other things too, more than we ever did.'

'Yes, me knowing that she is fondling him as well as, forcing all kinds of bonking on him, it makes me sick to my belly.'

'He is mine... mine... mine!'

'She like they have said to me doesn't know the difference between good touch- bad touch.'

('Can you see me stomping my foot while making a pouting face! This is my man!')

'I have already pinned him... AS... MY... BOY, so back off! Yet, is he going to make me soon? Oh, he could, yeah, he so has dibs on me, and I would not fight him! I want him too, I would even do all the work, in that way, I am the bad girl.'

'Although, I do not like or want to be his dirty little secret, like being in the front of his car bobbing for apples and pogo-sticking; like most girls here. Moreover, if that is what I have to do to be his I well.'

'Though if I get the chance, I would take it, I am not going to pass that up, for the world. Still, I want true love, with real passion in a romantic place! Though I cannot have everything, I never did.'

'There has to be a way to make this happen, I am sure I will think of something, the way it should be, the way I want it and need it to be!'

'So, call me a dreamer and old fashioned, that is okay with me. I can see me pinned up against the lockers or something like that.'

'Yeah, he could merge with me over one of these school desks.'

('Oh, honey!')

'He could overtake me in the bathroom if he would follow me in there.'

('Laughing- aloud foolishly, strangely, and oddly. I was making plans.')

'He could get me in the library, and in-between the bookcases too, so many places we could make love.'

('Yah- that could be, 'Marvelous!')

'I am going to find a way; I was having this chat with myself out load in-class you no with that little voice in my head going crazy, which likes to be bad now and then even when I am not.'

'I am going to find a way, even if I have to run into his arms and have a dry humping performance, of me being mad and covering him with crazy love kisses.'

'Yeah, we could fasten into one another; all the time.'

'Am-hum... humming sound, I make in class daydreaming as I do, yet that is better than dumb school, were the teacher in the front of the room almost becomes voiceless to me as I tune him out, and get lost in my feelings, ideas, opinions, beliefs, plans, images, and thoughts.'

'Yes, I want more from him too, I want more than just friends online on Facebook; I would love him to follow me online and not have someone care that he does if he only could, and be with me in real life, and online too, as his girlfriend.'

'Until now, I do not even have a tagged picture of us yet! I am so sick of having a single status, which refuses to transform me; into a somewhat popular girl!'

'Sometimes, I make myself snigger in class. While thinking of something funny, in a lecture class, and it is silent in the room, and yah start to entirely bust out laughing, thinking about everything I want.'

'Have you ever done that, changed my relationship status?'

'Then everyone looks at you like you must be stoned, or in my case quite retarded. Because with that look upon on my face, of kind of like ideological.'

'Furthermore, then it is like no time has gone by at all and I don't even remember getting to this point and place.' 'Where I am staring, gawking looking, watching, staring and gazing into the sunshine, so intensely feeling warmness, temperature, and heat, along with glowing gracious, with the thoughts, predilections, sensibilities, and emotions of liberation after getting dropped off by the school bus.'

'Amidst all the disturbances and characteristics of not wanting to remember the day, is the freedom look upon my face now.'

'Likewise, so intensely showing that it makes me laugh foolishly; as the thoughts did in class, thinking about my freedoms to appear, as they are now.'

'Then again, I have been rehabilitated until some consider and imagine, that I need life support.'

'I remember that I was squinting my eyes, all at the same time, in class to see to the blackboard. Which are more odd faces, they think I make, just to report, in a false script about whom I am going to become.'

'Remarkably, while holding back a smile, I sometimes do this, plus holding some really weird sounds back, I try to not do in a class of the work being so childish. When they all looked right at me. Then, I feel anxiety, panic, dread, and worry.'

'Yep, this girl here me, myself and I, just had that moment sitting in this room, where you can hear a pin drop.'

'I am laughing out loud.'

'That reminds me that Hope, she thought (LOL) or 'laughing out loud,' stands for 'Little Old Lady,' when I finally started to text message!'

'Ha!'

'Hope she is my garden, just so yah-know.'

-And-

'Nevaeh, do you have something, which you want to share with the class.' Asked, Miss. Bradbury.

'What...?' She replied.

'What's so marvelously funny?' The teacher questioned.

'No, it's kind of an inside joke!' Said, Nevaeh giggling.

'OKAY, then sh-h!' Said, Mr. Bradbury questionably.

'So, I just look down at my little 'her,' and tell her to sh-h.'

'Right- 'Sh-h,' I place my one little finger to my lips and make the sound.'

'Despite, I snickered, myself to the principal office, for being distracting.'

'However, in my mind, at that time in class. I was thinking could it be either Lily or Chiaz, which gets to sway me one way or the other for my passion, devotion, admiration, and love.'

'I walk out the door surely, certainly, clearly, unmistakably, undoubtedly, and unequivocally smacking me on my butt; with my plaid skirt up, showing my bare white ass.'

'At some point, you stop caring. They want to see it all anyway's, it all these kids talk about.'

'You know, this place is making me messed up, like them this act was beneath me!'

(I am giggling so hard in the office, to the point of delirium! Punished for being like them, although- I cannot be, I see.)

'What, are you doing here?' I was asked by the blond secretary out of two in the office.

"I do not know, I am just a good little girl,' I say to them, I just needed to have some entertainment; as they all do, where are kids, after all, and told to grow up, yet in the head, you say we can't ever be grown-ups. 'So, tell me here and now, what is that you want me to be, and your right."

'Yet there are hands-on me at this point, and I am being talked down, by officers and teachers alike, and not always the ones that I want to have their bodies on me, do not get frustrated, they say, she is mental, you will see what I mean shortly if you do not retrain her in handcuffs and ankle shackles- NOW.' Said Mr. Bradbury.

'I am now taking time away from my teaching all the others in her class now, that want to learn, over this one being decidedly bad and acting out and being disrespectful, and sexual.'

'Lady you're the one that is twisted in the head.' Yield, Nevaeh.

'You see what I mean?'

'We do.'

('Next day, same class, I am drifting off in deep thoughts.')

'I am thinking about him, Chiaz- like, I can tell that he is not in love with Alissa at all; it is obvious, in his body language.'

'However, I do not think he is in love with me either, but maybe he is, I do not know?'

('And again, I am making faces to the thoughts.')

'Nevertheless, she is with my dream boy! This reminds me of the fact that he is always near me, and I do know why.'

'Still, he cannot figure out a way to get away with me. I pray for the day that he does. That is only if he feels the same way I do.'

'Additionally, I am not going to wait forever, if he cannot get away from her then, I will understand where I need to be, and settle.'

'I will have to settle for someone else then, and I know that she will be a girl like me.'

'Furthermore, he looks at me from a distance, with the expression of helping me, then again, she has him grabbed by the family jewels, I think he is saying, all the time, the words like save me, and them too, with his mouthed silent words! Besides, I just look away most times of panic and bashfulness.'

'Sometimes, I give him that flirty look, I just look up slightly, but then again, I cannot be caught doing this; for the reason that- I do not need Alissa's glaring eyes peering into my soul like a hunter if I did not do something unequivocally wrong.'

'Previously, in her mind, no other girl can talk, look or even think about him. Though she keeps me away from him, and other boys and even girls the most of all the one she hates in the halls the most.'

'Unquestionably, my reputation category is bad, dangerous, critical, dejected, inferior, and bad enough, without her finding more reasons to diminish, wane, abate, and lessen me more.'

'I do not need all of her three other jerking-off sisters jumping me in the halls, or anywhere earls for that matter.'

'Anyways there is Adriane Amsel she is the junior and part of my family also. She has black hair with red tips. She has green cat eyes, or at least- that is the way they look to me.'

'She is squat and bumpy; yes, that is about how to sum this one up. Adriane, she is also known as the emo-gothic girl's ringleader.'

'She was like a satanic power over everyone, which is part of her surroundings, this girl is a real sucker. I think she does this by manipulating, and brainwashing the prey, which she wants. She sucks the life out of me.'

'She is the one that likes to find arbitrary, random and stray objects and put them in places in my body they should not go, that they should never even go in, or be in, and I am not her only victim.'

'Naturally, I know all too well what she does, and I am not afraid to speak such here. Nevertheless, I would be any other occasion!'

'She wears all black with a star around her neck, blood color lips that are never shut, just like her legs. She also makes other girl's lips bloody too.'

'She has a pale white face that is evil, wicked, sinful and clown-like.'

'It is so safe to say that she is the badass of the hellhole; and yes, I have seen all that too; all her victims being used as I was for her entertainments.'

'She knows that she can get away with anything like all my sisters. Why...? Because of our family's stature in society my grandmother letting them get away with anything. Just like our sister Alissa, she has a crazed oversexed obsessed clingy nature also, it all over our history to feel needed, I think.'

'Adriane's object of affection in her selection is Lily Anderson, the cute little good girl with pigtails; the one I let be my last hope. Love but not truly in love.'

'Although nobody in society finds this to be wrong for anyone, meanwhile when I am with her it is so very wrong. Adriane is attached at the hips to this girl constantly. She was using my girlfriend, who is my sweetheart!'

'Once more, get off her. She doesn't like you; she doesn't want you getting off, by you using her, and beginning like all pressed upon her!'

'Although Lily prefers to date boys, yet she loves me... however, she has to do whatever Adriane wants her to do, regardless of her true emotions.'

'The refusal leads into Lily undertaking the vengeance, fury, rage, and wrath of the Blackbird Clan. Her and I giving denial leads into open demonstrations of them all being placed upon her somehow someday, they go down on her, while on top of her body while she loses everything, she has to them.'

'Oh yes, that includes being undressed in the hall that we both walk of the school, stripped of all forms of dignity in front of society within the high school, as we always were even in middle school some things never change. There is no authority like teacher's observation of caring to hear her cries or my out for help in these hellish halls, no one cares about us as the rejected.'

'All the students choose to look away because, they know they have no control, and nor do they even care. This one- time Adriane used a hairbrush handle on her, while her class friends watched her push it inside lips of Lily's hole and back out forcefully repeatedly.'

'As well they duct-taped her mouth, so no one could hear her scream, even if she did no one concerned about her and me in our category!'

'Then they tied her hands with her top to her legs, and her skirt went out on the flagpole as did mine, Adriane just pushed her undies to the one side, and her legs were just held spaced-out, until she was tied up, by the two other girls that used her for horizontal refreshment, as she was lying there in the hall on the floor.'

'Furthermore, no one reports, on cameras at all in the halls, in this old nonconformity unending, seemingly limitless, and lofty halls, with very low daytime light.'

'Furthermore, artificial light, ever-so dark, dem, and dull sable stained wood-paneled walls, lined with old undusted lockers, scream, yell, and shriek you can do this- yet, no one cares.'

'Besides, even if they do tattletale nothing will be done about this, you're the 'BAD GIRL,' and the instigator, and have it coming to you.'

'Additionally, specifically, principally, if someone reports to teachers, they have the fear they might be the next person, to face the wrath if they snitched, living in fear, is what you do if you walk these halls.'

'So-o, the next one to the title is Allison Amsel is the redhead; she is a momma's girl that cannot do anything wrong in our mom's eyes.'

'I know that what I am saying- about them is not nice, but these girls are not nice individuals, so that makes it okay, or that is what I think.'

'Allison is immense for a girl her age, eyes always squinting. All she needs to do is sit down on top of you, and you are doomed.'

'Her hobbies included selling and injecting and ingesting whatever she can find for herself and others alike. She loves the heron and abusing and popping medications and getting all kinds of high with her 3-foot bong as do most in my main classes to do the same, and she is their drug dealer.'

'Though I am blamed for that too and she gets away with this, and I as always get the blame, and I don't do drug or could even think about doing them.'

'She is a distributor for most if not all the stoner student population; her main headquarters is the third-floor bathroom.'

'Allison's hobbies also include drawing very artistic graffiti illustrations of rockets in flight on the bathroom walls. I find most graffiti beautiful, but some of these images are morbidly disturbing, to say the least.'

'Allison spends all her time in the bathroom stalls fantasizing about having a boyfriend or girlfriend for her play toy.'

'While she let's, say- dismisses all her day's stresses in there, going number three, masturbating and pooping at the same time. I think she smoked and drugged her brain cells away. However, this does not stop her from going to all the hellhole's activities.'

'Our mother makes sure, that all her girls have dates, but me and Lily so that they feel as if their asses are gold. Yet they're as ugly as homemade sin, just like their evil grandmother.'

'Although most of the guy population thinks that Allison is nasty and ugly, however once again, this does not stop her from being popular.'

'Also, for her, there is no need to attend classes, she has an assured diploma, in her chapped up, and snack leftover covered chubby hands.'

'Yes, mom and grandma's side of our family fixes that for her also.'

'Allison does nothing and blames everyone else for being lethargic, sluggish, idle, and lazy.'

'I just do not get this! Sometimes, I ask myself question of why is it that some butt holes, can fall into the shit house, and come out smelling like a rose?'

'Additionally, as for me over this truth, reality, fidelity all I get is a very sincere anguishing with torture.'

'Nope, nothing was ever handed to me by my bloodline, that is for sure. Although that is okay by me, I am the kinder and sweeter person, for all the heartache.'

'The youngest the best of the worse is this last one to come out of mom kicking and screaming, Ava Amsel, she is a brown-haired girl.'

'Like, I think she is so petite, though she is bigger than me, yet everyone is bigger than I am, and she calls herself an athlete.'

'However, she is not coordinated at all, she trips over her toes.'

'Though, she has a guaranteed scholarship to a prestigious university for sports already upstate.'

Thus, she still has three more years here, sometimes- like, I ask if I do too. If I don't start passing my bashful, slow-witted, slow, and listless classes.'

'Accurate to say that, Ava bounces around and gets with any guy or girl she wants to be with also and bounce on.'

'That is just the way she commands, doctrines, rules, and habits. She blames everyone else for having sexily transmitted diseases when she is the one on her back most days.'

'Ava is the one that is in my grade yet, I will always be behind her and the rest in my grade.'

'Nevertheless, she makes up so many stories telling the community, civilization, fellowship, and societies.'

'That she is touched inappropriately, preferentially looked at, or divulged along with talked to by unwanted persons, though she is asking for this; by boys and girls alike. then lies, falsifications, tricks, and fables.'

'Further, she gives all the male teachers a free show of her girly parts, boys to she is a sluttiest- slut to ever be a slut, just so that she can get good grades.'

'Then like in class, all you have to do is look up her skirt and see it all. I mean that is okay, but at least cross your legs like me, try to be ladylike.'

'Also touching and feeling can get a girl a long way here in the hell hole as I call it, known to others as high school.'

'Moreover, Ava, she likes all the attention, mutiny, insurrection, treason, sedition, and sensations.'

'It is manageable, plain, clear, simple, and obvious that she finds it all stimulating, lascivious, ever- so hot plus at times lewd, being inside arousing including having the wet warming, and even exciting moments; by the ways, she acts with them all teachers and girls and boys alike.'

'Oh, and how they all get sucked in by her. She is one elusive creature.'

'Yes, I must see all of Ava in the gym, History, and Music classes, thank God that is it. Like sometimes- it is good to be gifted to getaway.'

'It has become known around the school that she is into older guys, that are in college, and older than that like old man type like in their late forties.'

'She thinks that high school boys just do not have enough experience in life, simply mostly for her familiarity in the like the bend me over, front, back, and sidewise, preferentially held in all compromised, bang me hard sexy coitus, but she will give one or two a thrill and tumble throughout the school day even in the halls we call a place of learning, boy, girl young, old she gets what she wants, and what she wants is me, in the scariest sexiest, most sensual, most libidinous, lewdest, most suggestive, way possible.

'This girl is messed up, and no one chooses to see it, she has even said she wants to savor, ginger, tongue, and smack, on my genitalia.'

'Therefore, she has an 'A' in all Mr. DeVolcano's music classes, all taught by the same man. Yes, sucking the flute backward, I swear she would be that dumb, yet she is better than me, he had the condescending speech to say to all in the class, no truth to this, yet he made the long run-on statement.'

'I had a dirty comment in my mind- that I should have said. Nevertheless, I did not say it aloud. However, it was like he read it anyways, by his blood pursuer going up and his face getting flushed.'

'Nevertheless, he would know all about that after all, he was her most highly-grade teacher, and she is the pet. It's sick the love they have for each other even in class, like PDA even, just kiss, suck face, and privates.'

'Yeah, take your student in the class, hold hands and make a baby- dude, go for it. You can do no wrong here- can you?'

'Nonetheless, every guy in the hellhole wants to be with her. They stare at her as if she is the centerfold of a magazine, and she most likely could be she post nudes all the time on Snap.'

'She has over a 3,000-fan base. They cannot see the ugly that lies on the inside. All the guys and even some girls drool over her with their tongues hanging out, and their hands stiffed down their fronts.'

'I am a sick freak pervert if I do it, yet when she posts she is a model, all they see is a perfect fourteen-year-old curving object of desire; nothing more than the nympho.'

'A nympho is someone, normally female, that eats, breathes, & lives for sex. She dreams about it, often playing it over so much in her mind that something she has never tried can be exceptional the first time done with another person.'

'She is insatiable and always ready to play but that does not always make her a slut or whore, for she can be picky in her selection.'

'Oh, yes to be under the spell of a girl like this, is like getting hit below the belt. Or some of the guys say as I hear them talk, just like a banged pushed in taint until the point it looks like a girl's fleshy hooded nub.'

'They're all like stockers, you know that it is going to be like instant nausea when being around them. Ava also has crushes on a girl's too, here in the school; although I bring that up, that girl is me.'

'So, these sisters of mine, they are part of my everyday life; they exist in my conscious and subconscious too, it's scary.'

Girls, what do we think about Nevaeh?

'She is a dumb ass slut!' Said, Alissa.

'She is an idiotic tramp!' Said, Allison.

'I am 13 years old, and she could die tomorrow, and I would not care, and neither would my sisters.'

'She is a no-talent hoe-bag!' Said, Adriane.

'She is a psycho tart!' Said, Ava.

'Yeah- our mom and daddy, said to stay away from that.'

Nevaeh- 'I remember how I said, that if you are popular, you have it all, and if you are not then you do not have anything to look forward too?'

'While- I recall the night of the winter formal boy-girl dance for all students that had dates.'

'It was such a long night, every minute seemed to drag on as if it was hours. I thought that it would never end, conclude, or have an ending.'

'No one asked me, all the ones that I asked chuckled in my face, and said, 'No!'

'They all were abruptly rude, and unkind to me. I would get answers like this. 'I have someone to go with.' I love this one. When you know they do not...?'

Or this one, 'Why would I want to go with you?'

Dead air- nothing replied to me, yet I still ask- 'Why, not?'

'...I questioned, I would say this, and they would run away.'

'I think that I asked one hundred and twenty-five different boys, they all said, 'No!''

'I recall that I even asked a boy at the beginnings of the year, that I thought just might say yes.'

Plus, he said- 'If I don't forget!'

'I did not know that I was so forgettable, that was a no, I mean come on?'

'Some, meanies said, to go 'Stag!' I ask this, why would I want to do that?'

'Besides, going with Lily was not allowed, she had a date anyways with someone, which was planned for her and out of her hands.'

'Additionally, I want to be with someone and dance... to have a good time too like any girl.'

'I do not want to stand by myself with my thumb up my butt while looking at everyone else having a good time.'

'Completely looking like a loser, yet I need to remember that I am one, leaning against the wall.'

'I could see that, and it is not pretty. It seems to me, that no one wanted me to be there anyway.'

'Everyone that I asked about the dance... like the day, time, and how to get a ticket, they all just gave me the run around about this.'

'So, when I found out for myself where to go to obtain one.'

'The girl that was given them out named, Angelina Nolan. She asked me why I wanted a ticket.'

'Why not?' I responded.

'Because no one likes you.' She answered.

'Go back to your little classroom and leave me alone.' She replied.

'I remember I left without a ticket nearly in tears.'

‘Ah, is the little-retarded baby girl going to cry!’ Angelina announced.

(Acting and speaking like someone, which is mentally challenged.)

‘I said ‘no,’ yet I did cry at school.’

‘Yes, I was the only girl in the freshmen class that did not get asked to attend. I even had the perfect dress all picked out it was pink with shades of lavender.’

‘I was not about to go all alone.’

‘So, I sat at home eating popcorn and watching old movies. I eat when I am feeling hopeless; besides, detesting myself even more during the wallowing process.’

‘Chocolate is a girl’s best friend.’

‘Consequently, I am going to polish off this entire chocolate pie, as well as sit here and cry, yes just sitting in my white tank top, and light pink comfy old short shorts, with the black drawstring in the fronts, tied, into a big floppy bow.’

‘I sit looking at the TV, hugging my teddy bear. Tonight’s movie line up is ‘Shawshank,’ ‘Misery,’ ‘The Notebook,’ and ‘A Walk to Remember.’ While my black mascara from the day runs down my cheeks.’

‘Life is not a fairytale, so maybe I can go next year, I know the prom is not going to happen either, yet I want to go at least once in my life. Yet, some get to go to prom, and dances for five years running. They go all four high school years.’

‘Plus, they get asked for their date, which is still in school after their out, even though they have gone many times before.’

‘Then someone like me never gets the chance; that is not fair! I am not jealous; I just want to have the same opportunities, the photos, and the involvements.’

‘I could envision in my mind the couples swaying to the music.’

‘I could picture the bodies pressed against one another. With their hands laced with desire, all the girls having their poufy dresses pushed down by their partner’s closeness, as they look so in love.’

'I know is just dumb dances, but I want to go. Why am I such a hopeless romantic? I could visualize the passionate kissing.'

'I can see the room and how it would be decorated, but all I have is the vision of it. That is all I have! Yeah, I think I know how Carrie White feels too, well maybe not like that, but close. I might get through that one tonight too because I am not going to sleep anyway.'

'So why not be scared shitless! Ha, that reminds me of another one, he- he.'

'I am sure, that this night, which they had, would never be forgotten about! I will not forget it either. It must have- been an amazing night which is shared, with that one special person.'

'That singular someone, who only wants to be with you! I think about all the photographs I will never have. All the memories that can never be completed and all the time lost that can never be regained.'

'The next morning, I have to go through the same repetition over again. Something's changed slightly but not much; I must ride on the yellow wagon of pain and misery. Yet do I want to today?'

'I do not want to go after the night that I put in. I was feeling vulnerable, moody, and a little twitchy.'

'I do not feel like listening to the ramblings of my educators. Yet knowing if I do not show up at the hellhole doors, I would be asked a million questions, like why I did not show up, the next day I arrived there.'

'I guess saying that I need a mental health day is not an excuse. Then again, some can take off a week, and nothing is said about that.'

'Although for me if I miss one day, it is an amiableness of imbecility. So, Like- always I am going too dragged myself out of my bed, brush my hair, brush my teeth.'

'Grab a bra out of my dresser and slide it up on me. Today it is an adorable baby pink one with black dots, and a little bow in the middle, so sweet- like me.'

'So anyway, I am going to clasp it in the back, as my long hair falls forward while doing it.'

'Then spin a white blouse through my arms and on top of my shoulders, I will fix my collar. Button everything it up, to a point; tie it up at the bottom so it is snug to my lower ribs. Then I slide a skirt up over my body, zip and button it in the front. I will use the bathroom one last time.'

'Fix my hair for the last time, while looking into my oval bathroom mirror, which is lit from both sides. That is where I do all my makeup. I like to use a nude shade of powder, pink blush on my cheeks, and a soft eyeshadow.'

'Black mascara, I always line the inside of my eyelids too, some girls do not, and they look like a sad raccoon. I use a beautiful light pink lipstick. After all, that I am ready for my day, I must keep my perfect attendance- yeah right. So, then I bound' down over the rickety staircase.'

'While I continue walking out the door of the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams, like always I stroll down the lane of emptiness then wait in the chilled weather for the arrival of the repulsive number 9 yellow bus.'

'The ride on the bus, it is always annoying, to say the least, everybody is staring at me like always. The bus slows to a complete stop many times with its yellow and red flashing lights on and off. To pick up more of them only to drop us all off at the hellhole of shallowness.'

'My day consists of the same schedule: Homeroom, Music, Mathematics, English, Science- Biology, and Gym two days a week or Health, Lunch, History, elective of Family Consumer Sciences, that is a fancy way of saying Home Economics. Study Hall and Library classes if wanted.'

'Someone thought it would be good to play with all of our heads, so everything on that list rotates days and classes- fun, fun, and fun!'

'Yes, 180 days of hell, only 90 more to go I am counting!'

'I remember day 161 one girl a face without a name, tricked me into John Hancock-ing the freshmen hall poster with a blue pan.'

'When all names needed to be in black, big deal, that is what I thought too, I was wrong. The music teacher the one that is an asshole to me, he was the head of that project, and the yearbook it- seems' like he has to have his dirty stubby fingers in everybody's pie. Anyway, the poster was going in the yearbook at some point.'

'He called me out in front of everyone and said sing- 'One of these things is not like the other.' That song is from the show Sesame Street if you do not know.'

'Nevaeh, can you see what is different? Along with Nevaeh, do you not see what you did? Then just after saying that he said. What did you do?' Mr. DeVolcano said.

'He is contemptuously speaking down to me; he was trying to belittle my intelligence. I thought at the time, what is next, are you going to dance down the hall, while clicking your pointed-up feet together, and say- 'Nevaeh sucks, Nevaeh sucks!'

'Therefore, at that moment, I just said photocopy it, and that pissed him off; I would like to say to him to stop wasting my time.'

'Sherry drew the girl, that made the poster for our spirit week; she was upset because I ruined her artwork. I felt bad too, however, she made a new freshmen poster for the class and my name was excluded from it. Which is what everyone wanted in the first place, she was noted for her creativity, yet not me?'

'She could not even draw in my opinion. Yet she has a certain spot in the yearbook at the end of this year, for doing that new sketch poster, whatever.'

'Days like that I feel that my mind is going 1,000,000 miles an hour, visions of the past, present, and future race through my mind. It races, like a train as if I was looking out the window of the car while it is speeding down the line. I am on a track that will never end.'

'I feel that I am going to derail, from this runaway train that I am becoming. I cannot sleep at night, because of the fear inside me.'

'I feel restless, depressed, and loveless as well as not content with myself. I would have to say that my passion for life is gone; my imagination is the only thing that keeps me going.'

'I write the day's events that have gone by in my book of life of all the pastimes, while dreaming of what could have been in it, and besides what has not been in it.'

'If this does not stop, I am going to crack. I look into my mirror, and I do not see me, I see an impression of what I used to be.'

'I see my long brown hair that covers part of my face and covers my blue eyes of emotion. I see the cross around my neck that brings me confidence.'

'I hide behind a smile; I see the body in which nobody thinks is without drought flawless.'

'The bare body that is on touched in all ways, yet I tried to hide behind my makeup. I gasp at my pale skin and the look of my body.'

'I am 95 pounds, really tiny; surely there is someone that would find me attractive?'

'I wonder if I can find someone who can think for themselves. I want someone who will love me, for who I am- and not what they want me to be.'

'Most importantly, I need someone that will not use me. Is that too much to ask for?'

'Fear!'

'Anxiety is something that I have inside, it is the source of the things in which lead to distress. Not finding someone that loves me, for who I am, is some of my fears.'

'I fear the fact that I am most likely going to be alone forever. Another being that everyone that has meaning in my life is fading away from me it seems.'

'I fear not having a family by my side at all times. I have tears about the overwhelming struggle to rebuild my reputation, which has been destroyed.'

'I ask this question if I was to die tomorrow would anybody come to my wake, to see me lying there?'

'I fear what society has done to me. I fear that I have no trust in anyone or anything. I fear that my life has no meaning.'

'I fear that I will never get out of this hell.'

'I just want to start my life and get a degree in nursing someday from- 'The Conemaugh School of Nursing,' if I can make it through all of this. I do not think that is too much ask for or is it?'

'I think that if I could be left alone, with the one that I want. I could have a life; you know what I am sure of it. I fear that the towering entity will never collapse, and the demons will keep playing in my head. I fear that I will never have a social ability, to be part of the nobility of compatibility.'

'I fear that the terror will never stop in these innocent lives like mine, and they will not be saved. I fear that nobody will ever see my creativity or recognized me for the good in which I do for others. I feel like I am the only one left in this world, that I call my life.'

'All the beauty in life has been dejected, and it is all ablaze around me. Yes, I fear to be in the outside realm of things.'

'I want to scream yet no one is going to hear it. I ask- am I becoming institutionalized?'

'Help!'

'I fear the vehicles that follow behind me at night. To this very day, I still fear lightning at night, though I do love to stand in a thunderstorm while completely open to the world.'

'Of course, I know you know that about me already. I fear that the world is becoming like a bunch of androids, with no leader in which to follow.'

'Most of all I fear loneliness!'

'What is a hero?'

'To me, it is someone in my opinion who sticks up for somebody else and does not let someone else's opinions influence what they do.'

'You do not need to have anything to be one, you just need to be a true friend, with eyes that see the truth, ears that listen for what is truthfulness, and a voice that will speak up for you.'

'You know, I think all of us have a hero inside; we just need to let it speak out.'

'For instance, for me, I want him to show his brave, sweet and loving side, absolutely to someone like me, a damsel in distress!'

'What girl doesn't want that?'

'That to me is the true definition of a hero, another person that is helping someone who is unfortunately in need of comforting from another person.'

'Yes, you can have heroes in the forms idolizing human life and cartoons, but I do not recommend that you do.'

'Why would you want to they are not going to help you when you need them?'

'Always do this, do not mistake courage for wisdom; being wise in your choices, it will help you make the right choice.'

'Remember it is better to be sometimes a coward than a dead hero.'

'Make the right choice at the right time, which will please the divine hero.'

'Always help if you can!'

'Remember that your adversaries can help themselves to you at any time, so always be on the lookout for your hero, if you are a damsel in distress like me!'

Chapter: 2

Contacts with Foes

'This school year, I had to work hard, and I had to take things very seriously. As well as let, the others who are part of my hellhole society fade away into my memory, if I can.'

'I have realized, I need to get out of the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams more often.'

'Even if I feel isolated from others, I need to say goodbye to my teddy bear, and get out of the comfort zone of my pink bedroom, if I can.'

'I feel like I have something to say, yet nobody chooses to listen to my point of view.'

'The year 2009-10, has been frustrating with its substantial collecting of energy, which could not be satisfied, which left me exhausted, as I look back at the time now as it has rewound for me.'

'Besides, I have a couple more weeks to go, I hope I make it through this. This energy or lack of it did not benefit me any in establishments in the existence of life.'

'However, life is not always sunshine, unicorns, and rainbows, life keeps going long after the thrill of living is gone.'

'So, I have made music my life, the lyrics that I sing tell the story of my existence.'

'I put my words of poetry to the cords of my guitar expressions. I like to let the music move my soul to another dimension.'

'I do not think I will ever get so depressed that I start to play or like country music, I mean that I am not going to hate it.'

'However, when they start singing about their tractors that is when I am done.'

'Plus, you can be a country girl without liking that type of music.'

'Today's music for me is like sticking guitar strings into my eardrums. I do not like it; some yes, but not all.'

'Ha, I could see me rapping, yet I am to country write to do that, and squeaky.'

'So, I have also cultured myself in the keys to delights through the belief by following the beacon of motivation and inspiration.'

'Like that one night, I did when I cheated death, you have to see the light for yourself, but not like that.'

'Plus, I am not up to that day I tried that either. Just keep tight there is more you need to know, okay. So anyway, that is why I try to teach myself everything; that I can, that is if I can get my hands on it.'

'Oh yes, I am determined too. Someday, I will have my hands on him to, he- he- he!'

'Even though I go to Catholic school, they do not go into much about what is right, or what is wrong. They do not go into detail about what to believe or what not believe.'

'They do not say what you should do with someone, or what you should not do, they do not teach anything.'

'Besides, if you are a girl like me, they just let you sit, and rot in a sorry for yourself tiny room.'

'I always respected this too: 'I am the light of the world; those who follow me shall not live in darkness.' I love that quote that is one of my favorites.'

'I try to study the teachings of eternal love. I know that I do more than most in my class. Yet I just a girl, I am not perfect.'

'Therefore, I try to clean away my sins with the Holy Spirit, and it will if I have hope, that can bring countless blessings.'

'Besides, I cannot say that I have any major sins. I have not done any like that, yet I do not think anything I have done counts.'

'I try to remember that all the good things are from the divine. Worthy things come to any life that follows the light, in the heaven's there is no sun.'

'God,' is the light of the word that shines on the golden streets of the heavens. I loved reading that fact, yet the people in this school they all think I cannot read, ha.'

'However, I have read the teenage 'Bible' cover to cover in my bedroom.'

'What is more, a lot of it is recurring wording in different phrasing. Still, if you need to know something that is when it is said repeatedly, so it sticks with you.'

'That is what it is all about, doing the right thing, to have the gospel of hope, to share!'

'Nevertheless, that is not what life is all about anymore, time's change everything changes over time, perhaps, which is a good thing for me to recognize.'

'I think revelations are scary, like the moon turning the color of blood and all that.'

'I wonder if I will have to put up with all this crap until the rapture. I love- love- love, to study the alignment of the planets, and all the galaxies so that I have a guideline to the existence of my life.'

'Oui (Yes,) I have to say I see it coming someday, and I can say bonjour to all of them.'

('The end is nearing') - 'La fin est proche!' Yet they say I am not smart enough to take French in school.'

They can- 'Embrasser mon petit cul.' ('Kiss my ass.')

'You can decode that one... He- he! So, yeah- I believe that everything lines up like a big universal clock, like the one I have around my neck now, that is lost in time looking back, that you have a place at that time to remember all things past, and see why they should not be changed as destiny.'

'Although I just have to figure out when my time is going to come, that is when I'll know I belong in life, I think that is what this is going to be all about.'

'I asked, is it my end of time?'

('Is my end of time.')

'Est-ce ma fin des temps?' Oh yes, I have learned more than anyone else around this school on my own.

I know that a toxic tongue can lead to the abomination conclusion to an innocent person's existents.'

'It is just like, if I ignore the shuffling of my cards it will lead to ignorance, and discontent within a crumbling deck- do you see what I mean?'

'I am going to let my hands be my lifeline companion, and then write the existence in which I want to lead. I am not letting the hands from society write my establishment in my life's novel.'

'I try to believe that if you let, your heartbeat freely and openly with others who are trustworthy. This can be amazing, I try to refuse to let any hellhole society still my heart away, and make it play a different beat than my own. I have learned not to feel guilty for mistakes, and some actions are needed.'

'Either way, I think there is always repentance, since some things I have done are just out of spontaneous mood changes in life's analysis, like things that just happen spur of the moment.'

'I would say, always' make the right decisions that will benefit your life regardless of what is acknowledged by society.'

'I feel looking back, that you need to do what you want, what you think, and what you need. Only if you think it is the right thing to do for you, as it was for me.'

'See, with me, the choices I make will be private, and not be plastered on the walls of publicized misinformation of social networking.'

'I know you are going to ask me why, okay- for the reasons in that, I know what is written about me, and what others say about me it all can be twisted; plus used against me in non-beneficial ways.'

'So, just keep this in mind- 'Keep your face to face friends close, and your cyber friends closer.' I guess you can see that I am a fan of the 'Godfather' movies.'

'Oh, do not get me wrong, I like a good love story too, oh like something from Nicholas Sparks.'

'Despite, I do love a good romance story, like in the 'Twilight Saga!' Also, if I feel I want to pee my nightgown from being horrified, I watch something from Stephen King.'

'Though, Someday- I hope to see those movies again only with him next to me. That is the movie that keeps playing in my head.'

'I have learned to look back over my life in the spinning haste backward in time looking down at myself as I was; that interaction is not always in your regulations.'

'Whom they think you are, your name, and where you come from has a lot to do with your establishment and placement?'

'All, labeling was created for the reasons of jealousy, hatred, and inferiority.'

'Furthermore, most of the time, if not the main reason these people who are classifying you are just trying to make themselves feel more superior, in their miserable existence.'

'I try to not let this keep me down, remembering that I am my person. I am not going to fit into anybody's mold other than the one that was created for me.'

'Remembering that I am the child of the Most- High, and it is better to have a belief, then regret in the afterlife. I do not have to answer to anyone that is not worthy of my presence.'

'I have learned to always respect authority no matter if you want to or not, it will benefit me in future societies.'

'I know that humbleness, wholesomeness with confidence makes for a well-rounded person.'

'I like to say that- 'One has to develop confidence and trust in one's self, if not then one will never have confidence or trust in anybody else.'

'I believe it is better not to have loved, then someone taking the dignity out of a beating heart. Plus, all good, things come after a great struggle.'

'One should not confuse lust for love, as well as love, which is not the same as in love.'

'I should no- yes?'

'I live my life by my rubrics that I have invented in my many stories to come and learn well, as I and many of my friends have contested.'

'I do this hoping that there will be comforting in my existence in society, and so well you in yours if you read a story like mine.'

'Furthermore, the girls I have advocated just being me, in away finding my place in this world, and showing them how to find theirs. I do what I think is right and making this long novel was how I did that.'

'I was summoned and remember for being something, 'Angel's in Disguise,' to a lot of young girls with this bible of several, I have made recalling all things past and forthcoming; I never would have thought this in a million years, it could help you too.'

'I believe that ignoring the confidence of the past teachings, along with modern knowledge is an outrage to life.'

'I think knowing is believing and believing is what life's all about.'

'Just like I wish, I could truly believe in his love for me, I have fallen in love with that boy, sadly to say I did not want to fall in love! I don't, I don't! Because he is something, I cannot have.'

'But I cannot help it, I just can't!'

'Why is everything, so-o frustrating, trying, and somewhat annoying to me?'

'I guess being the girl that I am; I have to have faith that it is going to happen someday.'

'It all comes down to faith with me in everything really, when I think about it. I need to get faith in him too. I know what I want.'

'I guess sometimes my faith is a little shaken at times.'

However, I am just a girl, and I am never going to be flawless, I know this, but I try to believe.'

'One thing that I believe is that our culture is slipping away, mainly because of the devices in which the others hold in their hands.'

'Instead of seeing the beauty of the world which has been painted for us every day, the society chooses not to see it, I hate it!'

'I cannot talk to kids my age younger or older, it is like they have their faces smashed in their phones at every flipping time. I see them there but, it is like they're not even there.'

'Nor do they speak or look at me.'

'Yes, some speak to me, but it is nothing worth listening too.' Unless they are, the soft words from him, when he walks past me.'

'The kids in my school do not think I am worthy to talk too.'

'So, I am not on the text list, and lists of lists. Yet, my name comes up in all their fragmented and misspelled illegible talks, which they send.'

'Even when some of them talk aloud, they do not make any logical expresses to me, in like, what they are saying. Thus far, most just make fun of me, as they speak looking down at me.'

'I am not even in their little world, I am just someone they talk about- they say she did this, and she did that, along with what is she doing now.'

'I guess that is okay too, I guess it has to be, right?'

'So far, I like to think of the world like 'she' is a masterpiece, every day.'

'She has been created time and time again, for everyone's enjoyment to live on.'

'With different strokes from the master artist's paintbrush. Yet no one cares, however, if you think like me, then someday it might not be there for the taking.'

'So, look up at her, because someday she might not be there anymore. She might just die in front of you all!' 'Yet you do not care to even see that, do you?'

'I appreciate what has been created like I appreciate everyone and everything in my world. Why do they not appreciate me- is it because of them? I will comfort others; why do they comfort me?'

'I think to keep the main dwelling in life living and loving affectionately in the societies around the world; she needs someone that will take good care of her, which is what she needs, just like me! I am going to stop chatting for now.'

'Because, it is time to go home, and when I get there, I want you to take with someone. I am at home!'

Hope- 'Okay... so the house was once part of the working farm in the 1900s. As you can see from the old windmill and horse-drawn plow, sitting in the front yard.'

'Look you can see the rope swing that is hanging from the angel oak branches it is still here, after all these years.'

'I have thought about taking the rope swing down because it could be hazardous; even so, it is not like anyone is going to hang themselves using it.'

'No, it is not likely that someone could or would attach themselves to those ropes, or get themselves hooked unless it was done intentionally, with something that could loop around the wooden set.'

'Nah, that is just never going to happen around here, so why take it down it is not hurting anything.'

'Plus, Nevaeh likes to play on it when she unwinds and unrobes when she gets home from school. I say have fun, no one can see you out here.'

'Yeah, that is one less uniform; that I need to get the mud stains and whatnot out of, if she puts it up on the porch, it is not going to be ruined. She has three as of now; it keeps me working hard to keep them ready for her every day.'

'I surely do not have the money to get her anymore. She has three jackets that were $85.00 each. She has three tops, and they were $30.00 each. I got her three skirts, and they were $25.00 each.'

'She has one necktie of $10.00 for all three. Nevaeh's school tuition per semester is $1,200 that is about $65.00 a week payment.'

'But the best part of all is everything is too big for her that she where's. So, one of her outfits is about $150.00, so $150.00 x 3 is $450.00!'

'I do not buy her anything more than what is necessary. If she wants something, I tell her to work for it, as I did.'

'Let's not forget that 'Uncle Sam' has to get his share too, and my bills keep coming in. All that is not included...'

'Consequently, I am on my fixed income, I cannot waste what I do not have on her. All of the other miscellaneous things she needs, or wants too, that all adds up also.'

'Yet, she can go without; she has one pair of those things girly panties, which I wash for her Gym class twice a week, which is all she needs, and one-night top if she needs it, one pair of shorts, and one tank, and as of now three 32-A training bra.'

'Yet she has a bad habit of getting her uniforms messed up.'

'Ah, that child, she is something else.'

'Do I love her?' Questioned- Hope at that moment.'

'Ah, sure, she is all I have, and what I have is a girl that I will never understand. But- yeah, I would say that- I love her. She knows that without me saying that.'

'I don't say: 'I love you.' Even if I did, she is in her little world, to ever hear it.'

'Anyway, let me talk more about what matters, look at the windmill; yes, it is missing half of its blades. Yet it still twirls in the breeze, look over there the ancient Water Mill is still standing yet decrepit. Looking at it, how it is still turning in woe; clanking, and cracking as the giant wheel goes around.'

'You know I know how it feels; I feel the same way as it does. I would have to say, I love and hate it here, I cannot make up my mind.'

'It is probably the only thing, which I still love in my life; but it is all dead, and that is what I hate the most! I can see the treehouse that I played in as a child, which was the place I learn the differences between me being a girl and him by a boy, with my late husband.'

'That day was amazing, and it still is amazing to me even now, oh how I remember back when we were just kids.'

'The house was put together by the Janz family. The dad of that family back in the 1900s has made that treehouse for his little girl named Megan.'

'This was her spot also, back in her time. The treehouse is about 47 feet off the ground and has a swing that I was telling you about, hanging from one of those old branches.'

'From my house porch, you can see the hayfields that seem to go on for miles. That was when I held his hand for the first time, walking through them.'

'I would say where about the age of seven, time goes by so fast.'

'I remember my first date, some would call it quite bland in today's fast-moving standards, but that is just what we did back in those days.'

'We used to walk along the railroad tracks and watch the stars. With the many galaxies up above, sometimes we used to play chicken with the oncoming steam trains.'

'Dumb but fun, a lot of the time, we would lie down on them, while locking lips under the moonlight. To be a young and crazy girl like that once more!'

'My first kiss was not until date number three at the ancient tree with the swing; we would climb the tree, and sit holding hands, that was so long ago, you never forget that first kiss though.'

'Looking at it now not much has changed; the spiral steps still wrap around the trunk; the wood and rope bridge spans over 20 feet between the two old trees. It was like a little castle that was only ours when we were kids.'

'Meghan's name is scratched in the hardwood on the inside. Generally, every day at its end I sit in this antique chair and stare out the window and watch as the world goes by.'

'I think, and I think, to the point that I am probably going to end up with dementia.'

'I find myself laughing in my head for no reason, and then becoming very sad as I think about the life I had.'

'Sad to think- that we never really had much of a life and neither will Nevaeh.'

'I would give up everything to have them, to bring both backs to me.'

Nevaeh- 'I am sure, she did enough talking about me, I am sure. She probably said way too much about everything, being a boy and the girl-crazy magic obsessed young girl, that has just gone through puberty, and it is making me hormonal.'

'While at least you now can see what she is like, and why some things in my life are the way there are... but that is okay, I am blessed with what I have, and I have to be okay, with what I do not have.'

'So anyway, if I think back on it, I do remember some bus rides that I enjoyed.'

'Back in the days when all cell phones had black and white screens. When I was about ten years old... back in my, 'Glory days.'

'I remember his name was Kris Douglas; their family lived down the lane, and every day I looked forward to getting on the bus just so we could have time together. We would talk about what was new in our lives.'

'We had so much in common, yet both of us were too young to be together. We just enjoyed one another's company.'

'However, the blackbird clan could not stand to see us gather just as friends. So just like that, that was the end of our time riding on the bus together.'

'To this very day we cannot be seen together or have conversations it is forbidden by the tower and the sisters. We were just friends, now where are not even that.'

'Just like all of them, I am forbidden to even look at the boy I am in love with. Yes, even up until now I still wonder if our relationship would have bloomed, if it had not been for these circumstances. Just like I wonder if, this one with him will work out someday.'

'Will... it?'

'I have no clue!'

'Let us not forget the fact I had lost another person who cared about me. This is one reason, why I must ride on a bus of misery.'

'This is just one part of the reasons, why I live on the edge of the lives summit of dizzying heights.'

'I feel that my life would not have to be like this for me as it is now. It is all because of one bitch that needs to feel triumphant, no it is not whom you are thinking it is. It is someone else.'

'Hope is not that bad; I know she does not pamper my butt, no pun intended. However, she is not my main pain in the ass; trust me others are far worse at the hellhole.'

'Kris, what do you think about Nevaeh?'

'What can I say I knew- Nevaeh Natalie; she was a nice and polite girl. Said, Kris Douglas.'

'Then he said, however, I do not bother with her much anymore, from what is known about her. You know her not being into guys and all and has problems. I thought she liked me?'

'Do not get me wrong, I think it is okay for two people that love one another to be together regardless of their gender selection.'

'On the other hand, once you start playing around with juveniles that is when I draw the line. That is just pathetically wrong, disturbing, and overall revolting what she does with them. Ava made it very clear to me that I should run.'

'Run the other direction when I see her, and to just stay away from her altogether, because she has a sick twisted mind.'

'That she likes to engage in revolting sexual activities with little girls.' That was enough for me to say: 'No!' I do not want to be bothered with her at all!

Nevaeh- 'So, do you remember your childhood? Because I struggle too with parts of the mine. Mostly I have blocked out entire portions of my life out of my mind. I believe that I was living my life in the past on autopilot to keep from going insane.'

'The past, I recall some good times. However, I remember more corrupt, wicked, and evil times in my existence.'

'The grandmother and my sister's evil little clans were standing from day one.'

'All the days' go back to events when I held hands with the relations in the community and was free of the weights of humanity.'

'Everything that does not work out in my life is the undertakings of the tower I call my grandmother this over the card, in magic showing me, she is standing in my way of having the life I want to have.'

-Anyways-

'Do you remember your third, grade class and the kids that were associated? I have a class photo; however, I could not put names to all the faces. Looking back, all the students that were in my life now, was part of my life back then.'

'However, it seemed as if cinder-blocks were blocking me from the others along with bars on the doors. With the only escapes, options being the electric chair or hanging, that is the way it seemed to me, and it still does!'

'I still do not have any selection in the matter; I was left to fade away in my cellblock of solitary confinement. So that the tower could go along making her mouth run rampant about me, in her processes of her, attempt to segregate me from everyone. A heinous plan that took fourteen years to be known by everyone but myself. The only thing I remember about third grade was recess.'

-And-

'I remember walking along a concrete tarmac of loneliness day in and day out. With the only joy in this land being the swings, which made me feel untroubled as a bird that is soaring. I could fly through the air without a care.'

'While having the breeze rushing through my hair and up my skirt, yes it was magical, even if I knew at that point I had a hidden gift of being magical, and found my first wand, that I played with under the covers while reading 14-century witchcraft.'

'Magical until I was ripped out of my daze of flying, by a stone that smacked my face so hard my vision blurred. I was shot down, out of my flight by Andy Sandio I had blood running down my face.'

'I fall to the ground with broken wings. I ran to the nearest adult supervision. I was screaming from the agony of the gash down the side of my face.'

'Also, the bones in my arm were moving around out of place, and not as they should. Which reminds me I got a pink arm cast back then, and no one put their names on it!' 'Yet the teacher Mrs. Ellsworth did not give two shits about the matter.'

'If you would have given him the swing this would not have happened.' She said.

'That is all I remember about that day. Furthermore, that brings to mind she watched me like a hawk, and the others they could do no wrong.'

'They were all that way with me only. She was one of those- Teacher Support Specialists.'

'So-called expert... yeah- right, expert of nothing as far as I am concerned. She did nothing for me, other than making my label worse.'

'Nevertheless, she thought at the time she had total power over, what I could and could not do; it is humorous to me how my teachers can be the blame, as to why I was a child did not interact with others my age. Just- think about that. So, what kind of picture do you see developing?'

'I remember what I saw, so did they; I would like to say to them, do not try to pass that all off as if I was the one that is the blame.'

'No!'

'It was yours, not mine! All the days just kept going in repetition like that, so I just tuned them all out, until I got back to the house of lost and lonely dreams, where all I did was think about the day's events that to place throughout those seven hours that day.'

Nevaeh- 'I am coming home from another long day from the hellhole, I just want to be by myself, I want to be alone!'

'However, as always, I opened the door to be greeted by several questions that rape my ears like nails on the classroom chalkboards, then our conversation starts.'

'Certainly, with the same questions that are asked of me every day, I come home. Do not get me wrong Hope is a sweet- considerate lady. However, I just want to have some alone time.'

'Likewise, I do not think she realizes that she asks the same questions, day in and day out.

'So how was your day at school? Is there anyone in your life yet that you want to tell me about? So, is there anyone, that captures your interest?' Said, Hope.

Nevaeh- 'The same as always.'

-'Yes and no!'

'What does that mean?' Said, Hope

'What do you think that means? If you do not know then I surely don't.' Replied, Nevaeh.

'So, what did you do today?' Questioned Hope, along with asking.

'Doing your laundry and mine along with all the other household chores, if you must know.'

'It sounds like so much fun! And, no, I did not need to know.' Said, Nevaeh.

'Okay then, Ms. sarcasm!' Said, Hope.

'Do you want me to make you something to eat Nevaeh, or are you just going up to your room and mope?'

'I am not hungry, and I do not mope, and yes, I am going to my room.' Nevaeh said in a sighing breath.

'Whatever, it is your decision honey.' Said, Hope.

'Maybe, I will go for a walk later.' Nevaeh said while walking up the staircase.

'Okay then, Ms. sarcasm!' Said, Hope.

'Do you want me to make you something to eat Nevaeh, or are you just going up to your room and mope?'

'I am not hungry, and I do not mope, and yes, I am going to my room.' Nevaeh said in a sighing breath.

'Whatever, it is your decision honey.' Said, Hope.

'Maybe I will go for a walk later.' Nevaeh said while walking up the staircase. Sure, be back home by 10:00 pm. Said, Hope, shouting from the foyer. Then Nevaeh's bedroom door slams shut!

Hope Huber- 'One-minute I am proud of Nevaeh and the next not so much. She needs to get out more and find a boyfriend... or any friends for that matter. She is a good kid; she is just different from most of her age. I worry about her! Then, on the other hand, I am not her mother. As a result, what can I do?'

'I am almost sure that she will be fine; she just needs to be more social and be nicer to people. Nevaeh needs to stop living her life in high gear. She is so thin, yet- I cannot get her to eat anything. I do not know how she keeps going! She hardly sleeps at night.'

'All she wants to do is sit in her room and cry, and stare at the computer walls on her old laptop, I try not to temper; I have too much work to do here in the homestead.'

'Hey, if she wants to sob her life away then- so be it. Someday she just might have something that she needs to cry about, because, I do not know how much more of her moods; I want to take here in this house! She can go and live with the girl she plays with.'

Chapter: 3

Eyes Are on Me

'The blackbird clan follows me everywhere I go. Not always in human form... I cannot seem to shake them away from me, yet they're always shaking me. Their black magic surrounds me, and it strangles the life out of my fragile body.'

'They make it their life's mission to hassle me. As well, I like to know what I am doing at all times so that they can terminate any future contacts with relations.'

'I hope that my shackles will loosen; the words have crucified me in every way and form. I guess that my bloodshed for life is a victory and will nurture another life someday.'

'Why?'

'Because that is what the tower asks of them to do.'

'If I wave at someone, they know about it. If I talk to someone, they get to him or her.'

'Plus, voice more lies about me to them. If I need something or someone, they make sure that I do not get it. It is enough to drive any person nuts. I cannot seem to illustrate a way to show the society what the hell is going on.'

'It is nerve-racking, to say the least. It is so hard to prove that some bastards are stalking you if you are the one that is marked for life.'

'Why?'

'Because most of the time they make it as if you are the one that is psycho. In addition to making, you look like you are desperate for affection to everyone and anyone that is in your civilization.'

'Sometimes, I get love notes. When I open, my locker door they are shoved in there through the top vent, from him I would have to say; either that or someone is just trying to be mean and play tricks on me.'

'I kept them all anyway. He is the only boy, I want attention and affection from... that I truly want, so everyone else they all can just fade away. Just like the sisters, for example, they all say that I am desperate for anyone.'

'Meanwhile, there are the ones that I think need consistent attention, they have to have it, or they feel insignificant in their influence and we all know what disapproval leads into.'

'I ask why-why must I be forbidden to love. Forbidden to lust, and forbidden to touch anyone that I desire? Is it all because of one higher power is known as the tower and her clan of bullies?'

(Thinking back)

'I still have that photo that you gave me years ago, of you. Do you remember? We were young at the time, but recall that we were to gather, sitting next to one another. I remember the first time we met too, it was in music class, and I want to say you were in fifth grade.'

'Do you remember?'

'I knew you were the one for me back then! I was too shy to say how I felt about you; I should have said; yet could I have said? Would you have- said 'yes,' or is it meant to be in the future?'

'I would have loved to have been with you all those days if only it could have been.'

'We started as friends we made memo depictions on the steamed windows of the yellow carriage, while our little faces lit up with splendor when we sat together, and as more than friends, however yet not a couple... you were with your girlfriend.'

'I wanted to get to know your friends too, yet that did not happen either.'

'Oh, I remember on the school trips, I sat behind you just hoping that I could talk to you, however, that was almost impossible, forbidden it seemed, by the others that were around us at the time.'

'I remember you used to look back at me... being playful and a little silly with your friends.'

'Yet, I just gaze, and did not say anything; it is like I forgot how to speak when around you.'

'I am sorry, you give me butterflies, yet at least I finally got enough bravery to speak to you to me, it is like time has stood still with you, if you let it with me it all could be.'

'We were still together then; we could be in the future, yet closer than ever before. We can remember some of the past, which was good. Forget what was not.

We could start a new trip together. I want you in my book of life forever!'

'All I have is the fantasy of you, and it is like a slow-motion movie, this plays in my mind when my eyes are closed.'

'I can see us we run off together out in the open, and then finely hug, in that golden field, that we found as we were on your 4wheeler mudding together.'

'At that very time, we get off and walk to our spot, then together our bodies embrace one another at last. I have kept that dream for years.'

'Yes, don't let the eyeliner and perfume fool you. I am the type of girl that can go from, makeup to mud in three seconds flat!'

'To me, it is extremely romantic, and we kiss passionately, but that is all the farther we get, the film rips, and the screen turns black. My eyes open and you're no longer there, I am locked back up into real life, but hoping for the day that the tower collapses; So that we can finally be together, however not in fantasy.'

'My honey, the secret message lies in the combinations of all the pieces. Oh, how I would like to let you know that the tower is nothing but a legend of fantasy.'

'However, that would not be so. There is a missing piece to my puzzle, but your photograph fits in the slot. You can be the one to unlock the chains, and free me from my imprisonment of being locked in the tower's donjon; do you see the picture I have; would you want it?'

'We can escape and travel upon the white horse and ride into magnificent freedom, with the many journeys that follow looking into the sunset as a united duo, my cowgirl boots and all... that I can finally wear that day and all day after.'

'With new independence to love, we will see the tower as she is left behind to wither away, and crumble to dust in the background along with the clans in 'The Land of Many Steeples.'

(Present time)

'Do you know what it is like to hear rumors about you, yet you cannot do anything about them because they want to believe all of them?'

'Or they have to?'

'Do you know what it is like to hurt?'

'Do you know what it is like to be hated?'

'Do you know what it is like not to be able to be friends or have a relationship, with the ones that should be your friends?'

'Do you know what it is like not being able to talk to people, to see people, to go out?'

'Do you have to look over your back, and have to double-check your thinking, before doing what it is you want so that someone does not get you in trouble for something that you never did?'

'I do not even do anything, yet they say in this town and all around that, I did.'

'Do you know what it is like to be rejected, every single time you try to find what it is you are looking for?'

'If so, you are so like me... that it is not even funny! I find it to be said that people do not see me. They only see the picture of me of what they hear.'

'Why does 'God' not punish these people for what they do to me?'

'Why does 'God' let this keep going on, all this time? Why do they have so much power over everyone's thinking- about me?'

'Why is it I am a good person and get this, and there immoral, and they keep going, doing what they do.'

'Why can they not see that? Walking down the hellhole's halls, on one of these days that run together, he made his eyes lock in with mine, many times before but never like this. I knew of him and his ranking stature in the society.'

'He would be perfect for me. I know that there is not a snowball's chance in hell that we would ever be together.' 'Just like he must act like I do not exist in his surroundings, and that he does not even care about me.

Saying to his friends- 'That it is never- ever going to happen.'

'Nevertheless, I do not care anymore; in all honesty. If he wants his friends over me then just go.'

'But I hope you see the mistake you have made!' Yet I cannot stop finding Chiaz Naztherth interesting and intriguing.'

'However, I know that every time I see Chiaz I am blushing, and he makes me feel uneasy, yet in a good way. Yet I know to not even try.'

'After a while, caring goes away, with everything. Then again, with Alissa, there is no way we could even look at one another.'

'The school year was about to come to an end, so... I did not need the drama of boys, and I still had Lily. Yet I must lose everything, someone makes sure of that!'

'It was said that Lily Anderson could not take any more teasing, bullying, violation and over-all harassment from the sisters and clan.'

'So, she ran down one of the schools many staircases, right through a glass pane window, three stories down to her death. I guess that she saw the bright light and stared into the eyes of the sun.'

'Then she must have preferred to follow the tunneling stream of light that led upward beyond the clouds, to the getaways to the infinite existence. Did she decide to fall from the dizzying height, and leave me behind?'

'I do not believe that she did, the blue glass shards are glittering around her, and for some reason even in her death; she has the schools demeaning colors all around her.'

'The red is the blood she splattered, blue for all the glass spikes that are sticking out of her figure, and the white is her nude body jackknifed in the middle.'

'Yes, in its all-natural almost stage diving pose. She will always be labeled, just like me. Branded for what she was not and misunderstood for who she was.'

'She just laid in the parking lot of the hellhole, without anybody even caring or knowing what happened. Because she was a reject just like me, we had one another and that was it.'

'The only covering on her little body being the ribbons that were in her sweet pigtail hair, this was a horrific sight. Lily, she was all cut up and covered with her bodily fluids.'

'This leads me to think that the sisters had something to do with this, and they have taken it way too far this time. Yet it is a mystery to everyone else?'

'Did Adriane and her clan push her to her death, or did she drive her to the point of no return?'

'I guess it will never be known! The only one that did know what happens will never speak again, so I thought.'

'All bullies take by way of forces, it is all they think about, and all they know. You can most definitely get busy existing or get busy becoming drained out until you are dead - that's damn right.'

'I remember saying to Ava, I know it was you and your clan in the locker room the next day in the showers.'

'Oh, that's funny, you're going to look funnier sucking on my p*ssy without any teeth.' Ava said.

'Shut up you- dumb shit.' Was said by others in the class along with others like obscenities.

'At the same time, she was groping my breast and twisting my nipple until it was black and blue.'

'Do not screw with me retard because I will rape and ravish the shit out of you!'

'It does not matter regardless, it is all about what they want to have, and what they can take from you. So, you give and give them whatever they want.'

'Then they grab ahold of your body and suck the life out of you until you turn blue. Lily's story is forever unknown to everyone, and it was covered up and left to be forgotten.'

'Once again, the stature and popularity get some individuals out of everything including manslaughter.'

'The days continued without anybody even bringing up her name, even though, it was known by everyone. It is depressing to think, that there were only ten more days in the year until we were all free.'

'That is why that upcoming summer, I sit in the graveyard with her. I knew I did not have anything else to do really. All these years I said this is true love?'

'However, to this day, I do not know if love is real or just a state of mind; my love life can take place because of a past ghost that haunts me like the one that hunted Lily.'

'How do you love something that really cannot be shown to everyone that they love you back?'

'I still have her heart-shaped nickels around my neck that she gives me, I will wear it forever. Love is not loving unless it is shown to the world-right?'

'Is love just getting it on, or is it about being soul mates?' 'Why is love so hard to find if you are like me?'

'It makes me think; like I believe when someone passes on that their soul hovers over their body for a half-hour.'

'While they see the guiding light, although their useless human figure chills, this is when they obtain your spiritual frame.'

'I have an understanding that you can hear everybody's conversations after you pass. I am sure that Lily did, she knows that I was the only one that cared about her human life.'

'However, her spirits remain with me as I see her in front of me with her newly formed wings, which are going to take her on the journey home.'

'Yet the lifeless torso remains with us, the new spirit is felt, but not spoken. I try to ignore the blackbird clan and their siblings as much as possible, and what is said and known by others.'

'Yes, although difficult, I will not let them ruin my every day, or anyone else is for that matter.'

'It's an awful thing to live in fear, Lily knew it all too well, so do I! I look at the world that has been created for my day in and day out, and I think to myself how I cannot enjoy what has been created for me, yet the world is looking more and bleaker.'

'Yet, just because somebody else, who is ignorant of the life and bliss, does not mean that, I need to let them try to take the bliss away from me. I have to keep going, yet it is hard.'

'Yes, I have meltdowns... that is life, but if we have hope, it will all work out. The keys that I have learned in the ones who are trying to steal your joy do not make it obvious to them that you are ignoring them.'

'I am always be- friendly and have a 'How are you doing' kind of attitude, and just walk away. If you see them coming down the hall... go the other direction.'

'Then again, in my case, I have a towering entity that follows me everywhere I go. Yes, I try to ignore this too, and put a smile on my face, even though it is difficult.'

'Nevertheless, I remember that all creation crumbles at some point in time. So, I remember that there is hope for any situation even if someone or something is towering over me.'

'Tip- remember that your stalker's plans might backfire and may work against them in many situations... this can happen. Like- I said just because it is thrilling to them now, they will have consequences to face in the future.'

'However, they do not realize that at the time. Never fall to their level, and fight back in a non-beneficial way, it just makes more drama, and makes life more difficult than need be.'

'The saying- 'That sticks, and stones will break your bones, but words will never hurt you.' It is a complete lie the words scar just as much as having broken bones and cuts.'

'But- you have to listen to your own words, and not what somebody else's words telling you what to do or think. In other words, you have to have confidence in what you tell yourself every day, rather than someone else's negative conversations.'

'So, I have learned even though it is difficult, and I do not fit into most groups, that being around others at all times is a good thing, for example, if I am leaving a class or need to be at a place at a certain time. I try to be with as many groupings of other people as possible so that I feel safe and comfortable.'

'There is power in numbers, so I tried to join in with as many groupings as possible. Nevertheless- remember to only join groupings that are trustworthy so they cannot gang up on you.'

'Do not always be so trusting of people. Do not feel bad by asking for help, or telling on a situation that happened, in your hellhole situation, for there is no shame in asking questions or looking for help from a higher authority.'

'However, like most times in my situation, the higher authority does not give a shit about you or me. This is sad, but you have to find someone or something in which you have confidence in so, that you have a way to release your stresses and worries.'

'All I have to do is think about the good that I have in my life like for example, I have a caretaker, which truly loves me, even if she does not know how to express it in the right ways. I understand that she will always be there for me.'

'I have a roof over my head, and I have shelter, even though it is not one of the nicest structures in 'The Land of Many Steeples,' it is still a place where I can call home.'

'Home to me is more than just a box of sticks. I have to remember that, I am getting an education and am living in a country, which is free.'

'I know that there are chains that drag me away from my fellow peers, and after graduation, I can make my keys, free my destiny, and have the higher divine power authority be in control. The chains on me will be lengthened or let go completely.'

'Yet, I have three more years... help me!'

'Yes, I would have to say that I am very grateful and blessed for what I have in my life.'

'On the other hand, I still feel that some things are missing; for example, I would like to find love and compassion for someone who is my age.'

'I would like to have the experiences that others my age has in their lives.'

'Maybe I had it, and now she is in the ground, or maybe they're out there somewhere and I have not found them?'

'Maybe someone will find me, do you think so?'

'Also, I would not like to feel as if I am not being tied down by a higher power authority such as the tower, and the blackbird clan and their bloodcurdling sisters.'

'I feel that Lily Anderson is now my Guardian Angel!'

Lily- 'The feelings I have had were more intense than anyone could imagine.'

'Some of them just hurt, and some of them hurt so well. Yet the worst was only with her when I was alive.'

'I am happy to dye to be away from the pain of life. When I was alive as a young girl, I reason with myself drawing in a breath and letting it go slowly.'

'I cannot remember whom I was, back then, besides looking back into the depths of my mind, I can see that she was a wolf in sheep's clothing, and I was the prey.'

'Will you do pay for your sins, yet I never did any wrong in my life. Yet she is enduring, and she played with my brain when I was there and everything else, and the visions or so real even now, but are they illusions or something more?'

'The sisters tied up my thoughts, yet I only wanted to be with Nevaeh, but is it all a waste? It is enough to drive you out of your mind; my mind was not blameless the day I dyed.'

'You know that I cannot say that I have any regrets, for not being on earth. Also, I cannot say I have any regrets about loving her.'

'The only regret I have is not spending my whole life with her. Nevertheless, at that time, I could only do so much. I was the pray, but I see it as more like being scarred for life.' 'Though back then I was praying to get away from her in any way possible. If I could only talk to myself back, then... you know it comes around in time.'

'She was the one that was going to take me to places, and give me expressions that could not be expressed or had with any other girl. To this day, I am not sure what to make of my own story, because it is never going to be easy for me to explain.'

'What was in the past is in the past, and I do not care anymore of what is in my future. What I have lived for was a dream that was never going to be, a dream that burnt me out, and I will arise from the ashes someday. You know that some of these times sadden me even more now.'

'Knowing that all the coldness, that I am feeling was me dying inside, I can close my spiritual eyes and all I have are photographic snapshots in my mind that show my short life hissing by, it was ripped away from my grasping hands.' 'Just like that last hug Nevaeh gave to me when she has pulled away in tears when she saw me lying nude on the ground in my blood, I was dying in her arms, and I did.'

'The last words I said weakly muttering. 'Nevaeh don't forget about me.'

'Never,' she said.

'While holding me with my limp body on her lap as she sat on the ground next to my glass, blood, her uniform and all. She was the only one that cared about a reject like me.'

Chapter: 4

Part: 1

First Visions of Emotions

'The PEOPLE, SCHOOL, EVERYONE, and EVERYTHING is so FAKE AND GAY.'

'I shrieked, at the top of my voice fingers outspread and frozen in fear, unlike ever before in my young life; being the gentle, sweet, and shy girl that I am.'

'Besides always too timid to have a voice, to stand up for me, and forced not too, by masters.'

Amidst my thoughts racing ridiculously, 'I feel that it is all just another way for the 'SOCIETY' to make me feel inferior, they think, they are so 'SUPERIOR' to me, and who I am to them.'

'Nonetheless, every day of my life, I have felt like I have been drowning in a pool, with weights attached to my ankles.'

'Like, of course, there is no way for me to escape the chains, that are holding me down.'

'The one and only person, that holds the key to my freedom: WILL NEVER LET ME GO, it's like there within me, and have been deep inside me!'

'I now live in this small dull town for too damn long. It is an UNSYMPATHETIC, obscure, lonely, totally depressed and depressing place, for any teenage girl to be, most defiantly if you're a girl like me.'

'All these streets surrounding me are covered with filth and born in the hills of middle western Pennsylvania mentalities of slow-talking and deep heritages, and beliefs, that don't operate me as a soul lost and lingering within the streets and halls.'

'My old town was ultimately left behind when the municipality neighboring made the alterations to the main roads; just to save five minutes of commuting, through this countryside village. Now my town sits on one side of that highway.'

'Just like a dead carcass to the rest of the world, which rushes by. What is sullen about this is that it is a historic town, with some immeasurable old monuments, and landmarks.'

'However, the others I see downright neglect what is here, just like me, it seems. Other than me, no one cares. Yet I care about all the little things.'

'I am so attached to all these trivial things as if they are a part of me. It disheartens me to see anything go away from me.'

'It's a community where the litter blows and bisects the road, like the tumble-wheats of the yore.'

'Furthermore, if you do not look where you are going, you will absolutely, fall in our trip, in one of the many potholes or heaved up bumps in the pavement, or have an evacuated structure masonry descending on your head.'

'Merely one foolproof way of simplifying the appearance of this ghost town.'

'There are still some reminders of the glory days when you glance around.'

'Like the town clock, that is evaporated black that has chipped enamel; it seems that it is always missing a few light bulbs.'

'The timepiece only has time pointing hands on the one side, and it nevermore shows the right time of day.'

'The same can be assumed for the neon signs on the mom and pop shops, which flicker at night as if they're in agonizing PAIN.'

'Why? To me is a question that is asked frequently.'

'It is all over negligence!'

I get the sense and feeling most of the time, as they must prepare when looking around here at night.'

'The streetlamps do not all work, as they should the glass in them are cracked.'

'The parking meters are always jammed, or just completely broken off their posts altogether.'

'The same can be said, for the town sign that titles this area. It is not even here anymore as it should be now moved to the town square or shortage of a park.'

'The town is nameless, yet not it lost their valid names, but the post is all that is left behind. Yet, I call this town- 'McAnulty' or 'The Land of Many Steeples,' as I like to call it.'

'Simply look around from a high place, you'll see why.'

'The red brick roads have been covered over yet not all, along with the tram tracks underneath.'

'Now covered over with lumpy tar patches. I think it stripped away the beauty of the postcard former boom town.'

'Don't you think so?'

'I mean just look at the plywood that is covering over the windows of: 'The Bayard Hotel.' It seems like every other building is falling around me and made into a parking lot.'

'No one cares, that it is happening. Yes, falling apart just like me!'

'Yeah, I have no postcard envy- about this place!'

'Sometimes, I walk along the railroad tracks. Which goes throughout this land, which truly has been forgotten about. Back to my home 'The Dwelling of Lost and Lonely Dreams,' as I call yet others would call this the estate, of my caretaker.'

'This is one of the places that consume my every moment of every day when I not sitting in the hellhole- alias I give to going to high school.'

'Yes, that is what I call the establishment, the hellhole! Here in this rural town, I sometimes do not think there is intelligent life, most are red-nick, gypsy trash, brainwashed farm-like simpletons, that forget they fall off a boat too to be here, locked in redwing- catholic purgatories nevertheless still thinking their good Christians and people, blasting their guns into

Outerspace, and showing flags of demanding hate and selecting foes, when you are the bad one, for think you can't be anything more than the same shade of gray, into Outerspace when you are the bad one.'

'Why do I think this? I lived it!'

'Will because the only thoughts that go on in their minds are who is going out with whom, or media, evidence more signs.

'And the simple questions of- With. Who? What. When. And Where. Including with whom, of what is 'sucking' or 'freaking.'"

'In my age group, it seems all they want to know, is if they are dating, faking, or taken. Like, sucking face, sucking off, sucking on, sucking it, sucking at it, freaked up, freaked off, freaking up or even up freaked.'

'As well as if, they are gay, straight or whom they're making a baby- without making the baby, with some boy, they never know. for some this is okay and others not.'

'I like to say, that this sweet old town has become more like a wild habitation over time of animals.'

'Where the guy's faces look as if smashed by a frying pan and have not made caveman standards, a place- where the libido is the only part of the brain that is not dead. 'Where the dresses, toilettes go up, the pants, panties go down, and everything goes in the HOLE.'

'You know what I mean right? You can't have a girlfriend or your gay, were you can't talk to a boy or you're laying him, or taking him away, or have a friend or a buddy over paranoia.'

'Where seeing someone your age is harassment, and you'll never- ever know them, or its stocking, and touching a hand is now statutory rape.'

'It is an inhabitant or natural selection; everyone knows your name or your slur replacing it.'

'However, they all do not even care you exist in life at all. 'Turley, I have my coffin color chosen now.'

'It's occupant's main concerns in their existence of life are the status updates, they are getting from everyone they think they know, on their cell phones, laptops, and other networking connections.'

'All these kids have to contend one way or another. It is like the most important part of their day- surely it is. As for me, I thought I could, care less about what other people SAY, DO, and THINK.'

'That I am my person... that does her own thing to go agents the normal, yet I was never-ever normal.'

'I will not let any devices roll my life.'

'That this is the problem with my generation. Like they have their heads up their ASS as if it is a top hat, and they cannot see what is going on around them.'

('I wanted so hard to be just like them.')

'Nevertheless, they are not seeing what they need to see.'

'Stop being so naive about what is going on all around you!'

('I understand this now, I didn't them.')

'Here are some things, I see on weekdays in my week. These days consist of me having to ride on these disgusting yellow school buses, with their STICKY FLOORS and RIPPED UP SEATS while having everyone; staring at me with simple smiles on his or her faces, the bus is transporting all of us to the hellhole of a school.'

'Oh my, I have to endure this every day, other than Saturday and Sunday.'

'This is my existence in life?'

'It is all repetition constantly.'

~*~

'It is, Saturday, I am in my room like most of the day I am working around the house helping out, what I can.'

'Then it ends...'

'Sunday, it is going church- not loving the idea, yet I demanded to go, homework; shower earlier than on other days, and off to bed early at 8 P.M.'

'Like the day before it ends.'

'About that time every night, that is when I put on my favorite pink nighty, which I remove when I am under my cozy bed covers and comforter.'

'Always making sure, I am with my teddy bear and naturally, I am safe from all of them at least until morning comes.'

(Daybreak Monday morning)

'The lights flash on the bus, and I swear the faces are pressed against the windows looking at me as if I am gifted and soon to be bleeding offering to the bullies.'

'Then when on the school bus, I sit and watch these poor innocent kids like me, as they are harassed myself included in it all, yes picked on constantly; as if they are reigning towers over us like the four sisters that live up the way from me, we are their victims on the bus and at school.'

'They smash our faces into the crud covered floor until the words no longer hurt.'

'With the higher authority bus drivers and teachers of trusted doing nothing to STOP what is going on with us, most of the time they're just as corrupt. Yet it is mostly me that is in the line of their rage.'

'They the higher authority, in this case, the bus driver, she chooses to look away! Then after the fact, at school, they ask these feeble-minded questions.'

'What did you do?'

-And-

'Why are you there then?'

-And-

'Leave them strictly alone.'

'No explanations on my part stand, they already know- I was the bad girl.' This is said, with a hand in my little face; like do not speak.

'Why should it matter... what we did or did not do when we did nothing wrong?'

'No one is guiltless.'

'If there is BLOOD, and my tears, and the teddy bear that makes me feel safe, and pencils and books falling onto the floor it really should not matter either way.'

'Am I right- I think so? Then again, I have the developments of a girl that is on seven years of age, so they say.'

'You know I believe, most of the time, I along with some others we do not do anything to provoke the persistent bullying; in which we all tolerate.'

'It is just so upsetting to me; knowing that I cannot do anything to stop what is going on, and all I can do is squeeze my teddy bear in a strong hugging embrace.'

'Why? Because- If I would help them or even try to help myself... then, like I would have to endure more things that they do even more than I do already.'

'I have enough shit to deal with; I do not need it anymore. I just keep silent. Furthermore- 'What can I do?' You know, I have come to the realization there is nothing I can do.'

'Exceptionally if you are a girl or miss just like me.'

'I do not have the ranking or the power to do what most would be able to do.'

'Do you comprehend what I am telling you or no? I have come to believe that if you comfort others you get nothing but grief, depression, sadness, anxiety, and pain.'

'Sorrowfully, I have discovered this one thing the hard way!'

'Like most lessons in my life, not always by choice either.'

'Don't me not forget to mention, if you help or try to care about someone that is bullied that is way down on the crap list, you help then you are going down with him or her like the 'Titanic' you know the ship hitting an iceberg thing, and you know that you do not have a lifeboat or a way out, once you start going down with it.'

'I am observantly at the lowest point, you see. I am so low, down on the list, that in the ranking levels of notoriety, I will never receive back up. It is all part of life's vicious circle of suffering, agony, misery, and torment.'

'That makes them feel more attractive, stylish, fashionable, and popular, and satisfied in their life, I presume. I do try to find within everyone peace all the things that make them all of those things.'

'I try, to love them for who they are, and not what they are.'

'I do, I care about every person.'

'I do try, but what has it gotten me... other than a broken heart.'

(At school just like every day or any day)

'At school, all these days, I have to sit in this hellhole! Where the only Independence, freedom, emancipation, and privilege I have would be- the color, shade, and intensity, pattern, of my socks and the color, tone, and brightness of my fingernails.'

'I feel, and I am just like a uniformed little robot, overreacting at times, or like someone that has Dementia lost in bewilderment.'

'I have to sit here and do as they tell me to do. I cannot bloody stand this!'

'I want to uproot my long HAIR OUT, more than I do over tensions, strains, and struggles, with my fingers, while I am twirling it with my left hand; and tapping my fingers with the other as I fidget.'

'At the same time, out of anxiety biting on my fingernails on the right hand at times when not tapping the seconds away. All at the same time I am, being isolated in a 'STORAGE CLOSET' that they call a classroom for most of the day.'

'I ask why?'

'Why do I need to listen to all this mindlessness, and nonsense, rubbish, garbage, stupidity, and foolishness that WILL NOT have any purpose in my life at all!'

'Aw-gr! my hand's clinch.'

'My God, why?'

'This what I said, under my breath, it is a master's stroke proficiency of wonder to you that I am not retarded, backward, slow, special needs, yet you think that is so don't you.'

'Those that have said, being a high school freshman, is supposed to be the most fabulous, likewise most prominent years of your life. like, you know what they are wrong and unwise!'

'Being a fourteen-year-old girl, you have your ranking, your status, as a place in society, community, and culture.'

'For instance, you have your 'Preps, Jocks, and Nerds, Horny Bandies,' as you do in any school in the 'United States of America' what is so intriguing about me is that I do not seem to fit into any of these categories, or my I do and it did not seize me to mind?'

'I hypothesize that I am not snobby and stuck up enough to be in the preppy girl's group ever, or that stupid; yet not judging.'

'Um like, I am you know that shaking my ass along with pom-poms is just not my thing.'

'Neither do they want me to be around them doing all that, as I would? Not to say that I have not tried out to no avail.'

'Then there are these boys like alpha male chauvinistic pigs in a habitation of their own, lolling their loins, to all the damsels that will gaze, slang would call them 'Jocks' they are just a grouping of boys that have no life, other than sweaty stinky sports; and playing with balls others and their own.'

'All they do is try to get with many different girls every night, and play patty cake in the day, like most in school do, instead of studying. 'You know what I mean, and I think you do.' 'That is GROSS... yes?'

I well sit here incapacitated, damaged, and undermined in a catatonic state, as I am said to do by kids and teachers alike in class and at the school.'

'Nonetheless, I respect myself more than that, but it is getting harder to regardless. If that is what it takes to be popular, I do not want it.'

'These types of guys just are not worthy of me I suppose, yet I can help but wonder what it would be like to be under one, as all these girls have, and brag to me about experiencing, mocking and rubbing it into my face.'

'The other girls can have them all they want, and you know they do, and I don't.'

'I miss out on it all!'

'Then lastly, 'Nerds and Horny Bandies;' a tragic and pathetic group of creatures that are so misunderstood. Yet still, higher up than me.'

'Really through no fault of their own there just horndog creeps. Most of the time, it is just the way they all are- like being gay, and not what they choose to be. Just like most of us out there, I get it.'

'You know I am not even on that list either, maybe it is over asexuality I have.'

'As for me- and my category, I would have to say that I am in the 'Rejected classification- or as I like to say equals (=) part of the (LGBT) lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (often used to encompass any sexual orientations or gender identities that do not correspond to heterosexual norms.) I am and misunderstood,' 'Reject, know to me as and (=)' ...and over is what they call 'SPED.' (Special Education) without needed to be it is all over not having a voice as being a child, and as a child I am overruled.'

1. 'One who attends special education classes.'

2. 'The special education program.'
3. 'An insult used when someone does something stupid.'
4. 'She is a sped.'
5. 'Nevaeh you are such a sped.'
6. 'No one will date you or give you a job you're sped, and braindead.'

(You got it, don't run away, I have more to say.)

'Still, I do not want anybody's pity, yet I am not going to get it anyways.'

'I just want RESPECT!'

'That is just something I cannot have been in this unwanted grouping. Being in this rejected category is not always pleasant as you can see. I have learned to adapt and overcome life's many difficulties up to now at least.'

'I have learned that some people can do harmful and heinous things to others, yet they prosper. Then someone like me has to SUFFER through it all.'

'It eats at you over time, 'people are fake anger and frustration will eat at you like cancer. Until it kills you, or they do within you!'

'When I look back at everything in my past, the whole image comes into focus.'

'Yet this is the way I want to see this, over I believe.'

'I believe that revenge is not the answer, everyone gets a turn to face justice. It is just a matter of time.'

'They, kids, educators, and physicians, will get there's Those who speak tales will pay profoundly for their slanderous phrasing, I well make sure of that.'

'All the individuals who talk crap behind your back and put on a front for others. they think they are deceiving you, yet I know who they are.'

'Then again, you know what they have been saying.'

'They may be fooling everyone, yet they're not fooling me.'

'I have been living under their false rumors all my life, it has been questionable just why I have.'

'Simply never this serious; in the past, I have triumphantly prospered, in have pieces of information held in my little brain on my part helping myself for the most part, in understanding the hex on my life.'

'I have not done anything to any person; I just really want to help people and to get to know them, that's all.' Yet I do not think that is happening any time soon.'

'Although I can't have friends, others won't let me.'

'I know who they are that stop me from having a life, as well as I, know all the lies that they have been saying about me.'

'Although I know something that everyone else doesn't know in this town. Individuals like them are pathetic for destroying innocent lives like mine.'

'Those people need to get lives of their own! Why so that girls like me can have ours.'

'The entireties that are saying this slander needs to stop and think about their actions before they write or communicate lies.'

'Just remember you think it is thrilling now, but you will have consequences to face before it is all said and done.'

'That everything you do may come back and haunt you forever!'

(The very next day)

'I do not think that even matters to you, my that name is... it has been replaced and it is not significant anymore. Nor does my name matter to anyone out there for miles around. At least that is the way it seems to me, standing here now as I see the bus come to take me there.'

'Some of the others like the kids I go to school within this land, they have other titles for me.'

'However, you can identify me by the name of 'Nevaeh.' That is if you want too.'

'My life was not always like this! Still as of now, I stand trembling on top of this cruel land, which I call my hereditary land or my home-town.'

'I am enduring on alone bare and yes, I am completely naked to the world outside. So, unprotected by the atmosphere above and around me, so unlike- the day, I was born into this hellish world.'

'Some still call me by my name, and that is 'Nevaeh May Natalie.'

'Names or not said to me, 'I feel alone!' I whispered to myself.'

'It is like I am living a dream. I didn't think my nightmare of orgasmic, tragic, and drizzling emotions pouring in my mind would last this long.'

('Class, faces, names, done.')

'It like a thunderstorm pounding in my brain, as it is today outside. I have come home from yet another day of hell that would be called- school to you.'

'I don't even go into the house until I have this restricting schoolgirl uniform torn off my body. I feel like my skin is crawling with bugs when it is on my figure from being there.'

(Outside in the fields, next to the tracks)

'It's the middle- September and I am standing in the rain. It is, so cold, so lonely, and so loveless! Additionally, this is not usual for me, I am always bare around my house, I have my reason you'll see.'

'Thunderbolt clattered, more resonant than anything ever heard previously.'

'The rain is falling on me like knives ever since the moment I got off the yellow bus.'

'All rain is matting my long brown hair on me as it lies on down my backside longer than most girls. Yet I okay with that at last, I am free.'

(I have freedom)

'To a point! I still feel so trapped by all of them.'

'Ten or twenty minutes have now passed; I am still in the same very spot. Just letting water follow down me. I'm drenched!'

'I can feel the wetness as it lingers in my hair for a while, so unforgivably soaking my body even more as if sinking within me washing me clean.'

'Counting my sanctions, I feel satisfied in a way when I do feel it dropping offends my hair as if 'God' is still in control of my life, even if I was sent to and damned to hell.'

'Like it is wiping away everything that happened to me today, away from the day of the past too.'

'The wetness is still running down the small of my back thirty minutes must have passed, and it is like my mind is off.'

'Currently, it follows the center point on my back. Then down in-between my petite butt cheeks. Water and bloodstream off my butt to the ground near the heels of my feet. I can feel as if that part of me is washed clean from the day that I had to go through.'

'Some of this shower is cascading off my little face, and it slowly collects on my little boobs, where it beads up and separates into two different watercourses down to my belly button.'

'I eyeball this, as it goes all the way down the front of me. It trickles on down me, to where it turns the color of light pink off my 'Girly Parts.' As they would never be the same.'

'Almost like a waterfall gushing in-between my legs at this moment at this time. Kissing, loving, and creasing me like, as my mud-covered toes, as I sink them in the dirt. My legs are so weakly holding me upright, after stand so long.'

'Ultimately, the pounding rains get more powerful. Making me fall to the ground with a soft thud, now covered by the clay. Where I will remain until I feel that I can get up and over what has transpired from the day of hell I had and what has happened to me. That's if I can, like if I can accept this all, as I look down at me. I feel the dropping rain is weeping for me, like 'God's' tears, even after this I still believe in.'

'The pain triples within me also like the thoughts all at the same time, I start rolling around, like a pig in mud. I have the sensation like I have been ripped in two parts in my centered hips and vagina.'

'However, it is like it is all pounding down on me at once. I look, up to the sky, lying on my backside. It jostles me, the thought of what it is that I want to do... with myself to escape.'

'Even with all this rain. I feel that my vagina will surely never feel the same, or like it's clean again. It's all because of them!'

'No! The rainwater can only wash away somewhat of what they have done to me. Never all of it... never- ever! It cannot wash away all my fears that I have. They have sucked my bean above the hole! Tugged on the hood, until I thought they would bite it off me completely. That is why I'm bleeding! Nevertheless, the school they would not do anything about this, over I was the one that started it all; as the instigator.'

'They rubbed and touched me in all the places, yet this one the most. They ripped my black hole wide open, with their hateful fingernails and slashing teeth.'

'I cannot run away from them. They always find me! Always, I have nowhere to run or to hide!'

'I cannot stop them from fingering, stabbing, and sucking on me! My nipples are raw! They beat me up for enjoyment. Pledging with 'God' saying this has to stop. Yet it goes on every school day.'

'I must get away from them. I need to get away! ('I just need to okay!') It is like these visions of what my life existence about comes and goes away from me.' I see my life before I live it out in its entirety.'

'Sometimes, it's like I am black, I am not biased, bigoted, discriminatory, prejudiced, antiblack, and racist, let's get that clear; yet this is the category, I was placed in, as a girl owned by man, that think I should never do anything more than be something like a worker in a field, as a slave to pay back my debts to be who I am to them in their hate.'

'The air that is around me now, is making my slit labia skin hurt with burn and sting. Burning hotter than a flame, before snuffed out! I know how a candle feels, struggling not to be blown out by the rushing air.'

'It's they have a new addiction and that is the hole in my body that makes me a lady.'

'Just if you are wondering, I put my teddy in my backpack right after getting off the bus, after getting hazed by having him. after all, he is very significant to me.'

'I walk over to my bookbag, and see him down in their look at me, and find my one pink notebook. I open it to that one page I penned, the one that I have dogeared. 'There it is!' I say as I rip it out, it recollects the day.'

'The paper is jagged and wet, but I have an adieu note in my hand. I made it earlier in school, at lunch, when I was sitting alone; on this wrinkled up pink notebook paper. The black ink is running like a watercolor all over all my trembling, quivering, shivering, and childlike penmanship handwriting. All it has on it are all words that need to be said, about my existing in life, not living! Decidedly not.'

'They're all there the notes the things, places, events, and even smalls, maybe spelled incorrectly, but there regardless, all have gone in this book of life I call- Sh-h as if making the most long-spun book in the world, with all my pages, are thick; all pasted, shoved and slammed together, furthermore mismatched, yet all has been said, in my enchanting written long run-on's of memories, the way I fancy to remember.'

'I believe that like I am existing not living! I have that down, as the first line of this page; next to all the doodles.'

'It is as if I have all these flashbacks, to the point it haunts me. Even at the strangest times, my mind drifts off, to dreamlike places.'

'It is all because of them!' I thought to myself, as I see the note, and read it back to myself under my breath.'

'I have every right to be annoyed, feel disturbed, and scared moreover troubled. Why not record everything in a story, and hope not to sound too crazy, yet a little is okay.'

'Look at me! Now and close your eyes tightly. My mind is like- 'Yes, no, maybe...' and what do you believe, and think? Yes, I have contradicted myself I care too much what you think of me as if damaged, by words, and wicked hands.'

'Now can you see me?' I believe, like, I can still see all of them, in the past and now, and maybe even you are judging me now.'

'I was never more like some of you: popular, accessible, attractive, and stylish and loved. Oppositely maybe you're like me, which fits into everything that category is- or oppositely is not.'

(I scream)

'Do you see my teardrops, that splash out of my blue eyes? Do you see everything I do? Do you see my brown hair that covers them and hides my true emotions in class? Do you even care? Do you feel, what I felt right now? Can you feel my hurting insides? Nope did think so, no one can feel that unless they exist it!'

'Have you ever had to feel just like I do? Can you see my makeup mixing with my teardrops, as it all falls to the ground like my emotions, passions, and caring? If not you're just as heartless as them!'

'No one is born condemning another soul because of the sensuality of or skin or their background or their faith, it just seems that everything in my life is like trickling down my body, and away from me in every way imaginable.'

'As a result, the only thing I can do is get up and raise my hands to the heavens in the rain. While shouting the question- 'Why did you let this happen to me?'

'I hear that small voice in my head again it's a small whisper saying: 'End it! End it! As I was looking into the glow of the light of the envisioned angel of death.'"

'I have nothing but my split thoughts rushing in my head. Like a screaming bolt of lightning cracking in the sky above me.'

"Hum, should I just end it all?' I mean I'm only fourteen years old. Though there is not one person around here for me. Not one which is going to miss me at all.'

'I proceeded to that gloomy conclusion a long time ago. I would not be remembered. Would anyone remember me? Would anyone care? I should end it all right now?'

'I reminisce about me clutching my uniform, and how I would achieve my departure. The same awful uniform that I tugged, unsnapped, and ripped off myself, an hour ago, I see it over there like it's staring me down with a glint of evil.'

'Calling out as it's lying in the mud. I crawl over on my hands and knees, grabbing my minor skirt away from the button-down top, pulling the tie out of the collar. To do what must be fulfilled obeyed.'

'Holding the tie in my small hands. I pause and glance at my fingernails, which are painted lime green with pink straps, knowing this would be the last time I well.'

"Curse them all!" I say, will make the undone dark blue tie into a noose, looping, twisting, and coiling it through itself making it snugger around my neck.'

'Notwithstanding that pain is nothing like what they put me through. just like chivalry is dead, just like everything I do is mainly felonies attached, by trying to live.'

'Notwithstanding that pain is nothing like what they put me through. just like chivalry is dead, just like everything I do is mainly felonies attached, by trying to live.'

'Nevertheless, if I was truly blessed by the holy water, from 'God,' then I am taking all the excrements that are in 'God' flush, with this rain shower as of this moment; as if it is only dumping on me.'

'At most inconsiderable with aforementioned, it's accomplished and finished speedy.'

'Forgetting, I also remember regarding that last fall, that I would relish as my legacy, never thinking it would be my writing that would stand the test of time.'

'I have the belt and the tie around my collar attached to the angle oak tree, next to the swing the rope from the childhood swing.'

'Now with my eye one twitching, I hang above the girl by three feet. Death has found me.'

'Oh yes!' Ha, it would be my peace, tranquility at last, yet still, I did not know where I was going.'

'Certainly, I don't desire to hang myself, but at the same time, I did, the angel was right, after all, she knew me, and I loved her more than life, yes a girl.'

'The voice's in my head is going away and the light is more vibrant.'

'I did not have a choice at duration, as if someone was thinking for me? Oh assuredly, I dangle!'

'The drawing of the monarch butterfly, the pointed star, the hand over my face, and my one blue eye in the triangle, now litter the ground in my notes and drawings.'

'Yes, the ultra-freedom of tree branches above me, the hinging of the foliage, the sun cascading until night, to the shooting stars to the following daybreak.'

'This ancient tree is next to the rundown house, next to the tracks! The home of loneliness and it feels as empty inside as I did, yet it is not empty at all.'

Exceptional, I look here the next day, when I am found, some asked 'why?' And with 'she's too young.'

'Yet, it was good riddance in mocking me with a stigma, 'to have one less retard with disabilities on the streets, that we someday have to pay for with tax money that would molest our children, or creep on them, like a stocker, over not knowing better.'

'Nothing lost,' said the town, looking at me, along with 'just an unwanted expense, and waste of life and time; she was doing nothing but taking away from some child that wants to learn in their education.'

'All she wanted to be more attention, the sick freak.'

'I wanted to show them what hate looks like! And this is it, I did this mainly so that everyone from my school of hell, and ass hole of a town can see me up here in the tree naked and hanging, after all, I the idea from them.'

'Dope out and kill yourself.' There true words, not mine.'

'That way everyone, even here would be able to see me, with their own eyes.'

'One grave would not change a society's mentality of mind; I would be another left-behind.' Furthermore, like an art piece, so, they can see the wounds that they did to me; if they did not care maybe the outside world would out of this three-mile radius, from where I am at.'

'Realizing all the gashes, which they gave me over time, and the ones, I give myself because of them. They all can look at me like this just art, and see it all, just like this, I see it every day when I look at my reflection anyways. They all can think- about what they have done to me.'

'However, I do not think they would care, and they didn't. Yet the world that would be another story, if they did see me hanging there bare, lifeless, and limp; this story would not have been said as a teen voice of hope.'

'I thought at that point, that I dyed at fourteen as a virgin, said, I know, yet that may not be true. When I was sure, by the girls bragging to me always, they were solely were all made woman around and near the time they all turned the age of twelve.'

'As a girl, you are letting out part of your body to a boy, and most young men don't get this, and trusting them of letting you start the gift of life.'

'Remember you do not need to get knocked up at any age, you girls have contraceptives, as they did.'

'You have to lie there spread, to make a baby; even I know that. Yet that is why we have a marriage, before getting it on, a commitment of you being your daddy possession still virgin with his name until you now have given to a man for 25 dollars to only now be taking your new loves last name and his hard loving, as he claims you as his possession, yet he should keep you for all that understanding.'

'They have no emotions for me in their pea-brained minds, to feel anything. I ask- can you grasp me like a hug; can you feel me, as I feel now? Can you get the impression of me hanging there, all by myself, have you been there? I am so lonesome and afraid!'

'I wanted to be like them, to be plagued pretty and guilty in the ah of such surrender.'

'You know, I do feel as if I would be better off being dead! Don't you think so too? I know you do. How did I let things get so out of hand? Or did I? Is this all meant to be? Really... I don't know?'

'I just do not know what to believe anymore. I swung through the air and plunged as I jumped off the branch. I arranged it right!'

'Simply, like I planned this, as it was said. One way or another, I never come to my senses. I never got loose from the noose, on my tree next to my child-like swing. I know that I was dead and everything, yet something happened to like the day rewound, to that moment, of the big fell, of me falling. Yet this time, I slipped out of the tie, and fall hard to the ground below, as if I was, I was still yet not alive the day of the attempted suicide.'

'That is when, I walked into the home as if I would have like any other day, with my head down, going to take a bath and get ready for supper, with guardian Hope. Plus went up to the steps up to my room dripping wet my braindead mind puzzled.'

'My sweet brown shaggy teddy bear was the only thing, I grabbed covering my body from dinner, then I went into my room. My pink nighty top on my bed from the night before. Truly, I did not care about my nakedness anymore; after all, I am wild, continuous, unbroken, and untamed.'

'Moderate retardation books,' said Hope when she picked them up under her breath, showing them back into the unzipped backpack.

'I feel so weird, like never before; I sat stark naked in my bed soaking wet, rocking hoping for nightfall to come. to see if the next day I would have to go to school.'

'How? I don't know. Just like fast-forwarding it will only dawn another day. That's going to repeat all the hell ones more, I just sure of that.'

'Previously this is my question, I asked myself, as I am laying in my bed holding onto my teddy bear far too tightly. 'Is it me who is the problem, or the ones that are all around me?''

I answer myself- 'I know that there is not one person on this planet, who truly cares if I am even here or not.' Oh, 'God' - 'Why does my life have to be like this?'

‘I do not think, I can take any more of living in this town or the school!’

Chapter: 5

Natural Life

'Call me 'Ms. Natalie."

'I was born into this insignificant little town on a warm summer's day in 1995, so the story would go of what I know.'

'Nevertheless, I thought, what more picture-perfect way for me to start my story of about me, then with the beginnings of my life, really I am no one special just made to be for all the wrong reasons. Don't understand you will.'

'I kind of remember being ripped out into the realities of the world, with my fingernails tearing gashes into my mother's birthing walls like a wild cat's claws. Naturally, I guess, from the day of conception, my goal was to see the light; I was always rushing towards the enlightenment from day one.'

'It is amusing, how when you are being pushed out of the womb. You go for the wisdom, and you see the world for the first time; the information is slowly tunneling in front of you. Yet all your life you wish that you were back in there, not knowing.'

'Just to think that small opening is what starts all forms of creation in life, and what the sisters want from me. Most around here know that I am their target, and Ava wants me, Lily is the only thing that is the only good about life. No- to them, it is not about the life that comes from this; it is just getting a thrill.'

'It is more like the thrill of just doing it and doing it. I am sure that is fun, and that too, but I want something more to come of it all. I want to love and feel the love!'

'Meanwhile, when I was being born, I do recall seeing all these faces, and it like I was there from other views of perspective for the first time, and that was when I made the bond with my father. The first time he held me in his arms. I could see it, yet was it all just more lies? Everything about my life was lies.'

‘He cut my umbilical cord, and that was the promise that will never die.’

'I was his girl forever he said. What intrigues me is when you die you see the same light. If you are like me, then you are wishing that you would see that light for the last time.'

'I was a premature baby a plan to be, yet that was not why I was where I was in school; there was nothing wrong with my brain. No trauma to my mind, body, and spirit.'

'While she was carrying me inside of her, it would be a wonder. if they were not right, that something would be wrong. My mother smoked three packs of cigarettes a day and was on drugs, more drugs then they think, I should be on, like a happy pill of Ritalin or off the street like my profile would suggest, as others in my classes are of childish aesthetics.'

'While she was carrying me inside of her, she was not considering me. I can see how stereotypes could happen, my mother was third-class white trash, and my dad was second-class wealthy.'

'I hope that I kick her in there, so hard that one of her boobs would have smacked her in the face. For being irresponsible that is why. I am a very loving girl; however, she would have deserved that! As far as my mother goes, she did nothing but give childbirth to me.'

'Of course, I was the product of two people that were not married. They were not truly in love. I guess I was an accident, which just happened one night in a random sex session in some random place. My mother always had a way of getting what she wanted.'

'My parents lived together, but they were never truly happy together. The makeups after the fighting are what kept their union going for them.'

'A relationship of lust only, not love, and they surely were not in love with one another. I would say that they were just friends with benefits. I was an unplanned event that just seemed to come-to-pass.'

'Nonetheless, my parents were pleasantly surprised to find out that, I was a baby girl and their first child together when they went for an ultrasound.'

'Mainly since they thought that they were being, so careful every time they did it, guess not! I still have my birth card with my little footprints on it.'

'Sure, they were a young couple; my mother was fifteen the first time she got pregnant with my step-sister and somewhat older with the others.'

'My dad was thirty years of age when he first hooked up with my mother.'

'My mom's name is Leah, she looks like me yet, I am fairer skin toned then she is; I am just country white or so they say that in a way that is backward to me. I guess it is just what is in my blood just part of my inheritance, which I got.'

'The one good thing, I got is her eyes, they are the same as mine, and her hair long and the same shade of color as mine too. Yet I have my dad's personality, thankfully, and his big loving smile, which seemed to sparkle down at me.'

'She was the fifth teen at the time she had me. They even had to stop her labor. Since I wanted to pop out too soon, yet I did anyway. Mom is a smaller woman, so I would say I was cumbersome for her at her last stages, yeah- I guess that is why I am smaller to maybe. I would have to say that, I brought them together, mom and dad; if only for a little while at least.'

'On the day of my birth, my mother looked into my eyes and said, 'she is just like a piece of heaven.' Therefore, at that moment, that is how I became 'Nevaeh' heaven spelled backward. My dad said yes-a heavenly baby let's, spell it in reverse, and that can be her first name.'

'My mom said- weakly while trying to draw in a breath, through her nose; after being worn-out from pushing. While I was placed on her chest, I was clamped down on her, drinking the ever so needed milk from her nipple, I needed to get the much-needed nourishment from her breast milk because I was so frail! At the same time, she said- yes- yes, she whispered.'

'That is completely fine with me, I like that name for her. Look at her go- 'Isn't she cute,' said- my dad, 'Yes' said my mom, and 'cute is the word for her.'

'So, having a unique name, everybody seems to know you. Besides, know where you are from, and they think, that they know what you are all about; from who your parents are and where they live.'

'Names are just one of those things that, I have learned to deal with throughout my life.' I am not saying, that I do not enjoy my name- I do.'

'However, my name is kind of a motto for my whole life. It seems that everything I have done has been a struggle and has been all ass-backward. I have always taken one step forward and taken ten steps backward.'

'Consequently, that has been my existence at the starting of my life too, and that set the tone for most of my life up to this point, as you could have assumed.'

'My mother was an unemployed person around that time, who cared more about her social life, than anything else in her life at that time. It was not long after me coming home everything fell apart.'

'Yes, that included me too. Although, at this time, she had everybody fold thinking that she was the 'IDEAL' young mother. She had children from her previous engagements to men whom she did not truly love.'

'They all just used her, and they knew that she had to put up with their shit because she had no means of establishment in her life. I predict she was addicted to their ways of life.'

'My mom only had an eighth-grade education, seven more than what I have now as a freshman; 'I guess you do not need to have a diploma just to know how to reproduce.'

'You just have to lay there; it does not take much effort at all. That kind of work in my mother's eyes was the ideal job that fit her criteria. She knew how to do it well. Besides, some kids do not let me forget about it either. I cannot choose my mother- what can I say?'

'My father's name is Ray Jay; he decided to take my mom in off the crud-covered streets in 1994. He treated her like a little princess. I mean anything this girl wanted he would get it for her if he could.'

'That was one fatal mistake he made. Then again, on the other hand, I would not be here, if it would not have been for these events that took place. So maybe it was meant to be, or maybe things would have been so different without me? I guess it is worth thinking about.'

'Daddy is remembered for his unique sense of style, and expression in his joking personality. He was always wearing cowboy boots, and leather jackets, along with having silver chains hanging from his blue jeans.'

'He always had long hair for the duration of his life. I can still envision in my mind what he looked like when I was a baby and young toddler. I SO WISH, he was with me.'

'However, he passed away a long time ago. Nevertheless, it is as if I can still see his brown eyes looking down at me even though, I was young at the time.'

'He was the one, the only one- that truly treasured me. I was his pride and joy- his little girl, and he made sure everyone knew it. Yet I was- ripped away from his clutching hands.'

'I somewhat remember that night he was mysteriously gone away from my life forever. Yet it is faint in the depths, and cobwebs in the back of my mind.'

As always, everything is covered-up instead of having an investigation. They rolled his death and early end as a suicide. To them, it is all the same, just another dead person, decomposing on the bathroom floor.'

'My only question is how can someone that is right-handed pull the trigger of the pistol, with his left hand? How can the clumsy hand manage to do that, when their skills are on the other hand?'

'It had to be murder it was either my mother or my grandmother from her side, whom I never met! That is what I believe- yet not what the kids on the bus scream in my ears though. That everything I think is a tale of my brain-damage.'

'They like to rub it in, that he is gone, and how he did it. I think I know who committed the crime, and I think you do too? I believe that he will not be her last victim either.'

'From what I know about the blood splatter on the walls, it clearly shows that somebody smashed his head into the bathtub. I was told, that his skull was cracked. Furthermore, his eyelids were forced wide open, which gives the impression that he was in shock, and I think if you were holding a gun to your head, you would close your eyes.'

'The outcome of all of this was not a result of him falling naturally to the floor. With an intentional effort, here, there was too much momentum to it than just one last drop. The bullet was fired, by someone like my mother or my grandmother; I was sure of this!'

'You know it would have been hard for him to run because he was using walking canes at that time.'

'That was all a result of being crippled in a classic bike motorcycles accident, which happens sometime before I was born.'

'His last breath on earth was the beginnings of me living a silent life of misery.'

'Nonetheless, this was also mine too, at my death in less than five minutes, when we embraced for the first time; just past the gates to the beyond in the mixed the mists of soft clouds, yet come to find out, I would not be there long before, I would lose him again when I would learn what it means to fall.'

'Without having a father to comfort me, I had no one to stand up for me. Just like that, just like the same way the coroner took him away, he was gone!'

'All I have left is to look at is a gray stone in the graveyard, which calls out to me sometimes. Some nights in the past I would go and walk in the cemetery to see the stone looking at me, yet it is cold and does not say much. It does not tell any stories; of who he was to anyone or me when it's my time, and all I got was five minutes.'

'Somehow, I feel closer to him being over his plot.'

'My mother Leah took advantage of all situations, as she knew that it would benefit her life. That was just the way it remained for her.'

'She was also the product of an unwed family. She was, treated very carelessly as a child, locked in dog cages when bad, or so my faint memory recalls, an odd living hell with strange love.'

'Her father was, known around town for being a very loving, thinking he was a still a cop for the town. Nonetheless, he was a molester, and really, I should already know this, has not remembered anything since the 'Vietnam War,' where all I get is a montage of baby-killing 1960's songs playing in my mind of 'Eve of Destruction,' and 'Running Through the Jungle,'

'Anyways, he was an affectionate person, he was always kissing, caressing, feeling, rubbing, stroking, licking, fingering, touching, and teasing, her and her sisters inappropriately.'

'This can mess a person up mentally, or so I accept as true, and they say I should know.'

'Like why, I still go to bed and fall asleep sucking my thumb, as I always did, all bunched up with teddy, and my blankie; like I always did and still do.'

'Besides that, is why I believe she could not love anybody? Why do you ask? She did not love herself, because of shame inside.'

'Her innocence was stripped away at a young age. Thus, she felt she had to give it all away to any man, in any way she could; just to make up for what she lost.'

'Her mother whom in my mind, I have not yet met, used to slap her around and was verbally and psychologically abusive to her. Saying things like she was nothing but a piece of shit to her; that she deserved everything that her father would do to her at night.'

'My assumption is that is why she treated me the same way, and all the mind direction, I have had could never take that away.'

'When you grow up in that kind of environment, that is what you know - and it becomes almost instinct to you.'

'I believe that all children are like a clay form, you mold them into what you want them to be and become.'

'I think!'

'Therefore, no wonder that is how she turned out everything is linked to responsibility.'

'I think!'

'You can either pass or fail!' Thus- 'I think that someone can only take so much before they crack. It is sad because generally, the persons that they turn on are the ones that cared about them the most.'

'My father was a well-liked man who cared about everyone, even individuals that he did not know, yet my mother not so much, or so my memories would hold.'

'Daddy tried to be the most trustworthy person that he could be. He was murdered without explanation they found his body; on the bathroom floor of my first home, somebody went and put a bullet through his left temple; on a cold night in December of 1996.'

'As I said, I was only a year old, and I lost the first person in my life, that truly cared about me. The case to this present day is still undetermined in what indeed happened.'

'However, as I said, I feel that I know who committed this crime all at the hands of the mummy; and I know that this is why my life turned out the way it did thanks to her. There is only one person to blame for all this hatred, (HER,) for the torment, torture, and pain.'

'The person that- deceived us all, the mother, and my granny! After my father's death, my mother decided to skip town with me in her care.'

'I remember this one night. I would not say that I had what most would call an ideal situation of being raised. I was tossed into the environments of turmoil.'

'A dark gloomy situation, where you end-up in ghetto style homes with illegal actions, and situations that were just part of the everyday surroundings. This was part of my unordinary life at that time.'

'I remember one housing situation in particular in my childhood. It was a stormy night, and I was- locked into a dark bedroom in the house. I watched the lightning streak across the sky from the broken window-pane in which I was starting.'

'Like seeing all these raindrops going down the windowpanes like lonely teardrops, reminded me of my every emotion at that time, and times when I am said. With lightning, it brightened my room for split instants.'

'Until I saw a silhouetted figure, it was my mother walking into the room, as she did many times or one of her crazed boyfriends of the night.'

'She threw me on the musky sheets of my bed and began strapping me down. I was stripped of any forms of dignity naked stark every night for a couple of years, as she was as a child.'

'She would always say, 'Be a good little girl.' 'Because your mother loves you.' All those nights, she was having guests over; I remember is I could hear the headboard knocking on my wall saying, 'suck me,' and would that rhyme, all night long. Yes, along with the sounds of her gagging, on all that too, if you must know.'

'I recall that one night she and he was so drunk and high in their minds, they did it in my room, cowgirl style I remember. Funny, yet said, and cheap, when you think about it, isn't it?'

'Anyways she did not want a child disturbing her from her arrangements and jobs that she did, that is why she doped me up on things to knock me out. Yes, it is safe to say my mother was just like Casey Anthony's mom.'

'Thus, this was her solution to her little problem with me. Locking me into total isolation with no lights in closets, in my room, in the basement, in the attic, or outside chained, like a dog with all having no comforting sounds, with only the thoughts in my three-year-old mind to console me, as I ate from a dog dish.'

'This must have gotten around my teachers did the same things.'

'I to this day remember being in that dark room, stripped down to my bed. I could not move, because of the ropes holding me down. In addition to the fact, even if I was able to escape that darkness of that room.'

'There was always a soda can between the doorknob, and frame, which would fall on to the floor; when the knob would be turned.'

'Consequently, they would know that I was escaping. If I was caught fleeing the room, I had to face the wrath of my mother's boyfriends, and there were many. All of them twisted in the head in their ways, and what they would do to us.'

'I remember one of my mother's boyfriends was named Rick Chino; he had issues and other things. He was abusive to all that were around his presence.'

'I recollect this one time in my memory. The boy, my mother's son did not do much of anything just being a free-spirited child as most five-year-olds are.'

'This kid had the worst punishment that I have ever witnessed in my life. I was not able to do anything to stop all of this from happening.'

'I evoke this as if it was yesterday. Deven, he was hanging their undressed upside down in his closet tied by his ankles he was house whipped, with his belt. He is screaming, with nobody to help him as mom placed his pissed underwear on his mouth until he passed out from the blood rushing to his head, saying to 'suck it, bedwetter.'

'Secondly, that was the time he hung around at my place... they chopped him up like all the others; they made a coffin as I watched, just like the others and I wondered if I would end up like the others.'

'I remember them saying most tauntingly... I could be next.'

'This could be you, Nevaeh!' Said, my mother.

'You think we like doing this?' The boyfriends.

'You're just bad kids!' Said the Grandmother, and Grandpa agreeing. Grandpa calls Grandmother Big Muma, we kid all just called her 'Grand-bow.'

'All the evil faces hazed in my mind like if expunged.'

'The wooden handmade coffin only about 3 feet long if that, was made crudely as they drained his blood by slashing his feet and hanging him from the children swing set that was at the far end of the extensive field of gothic tombstones.'

'The swings were never used, the kids never outside, to play, the yards never used by us kids of over 200 orphans' kids, give or take they come and go fast.'

'The home, I call the '1890's Mountain House,' is large with many sprawling rooms, strange, eerie, hanging heavy air of death feeling; most of the home is dilapidated and can't even be used any longer, as it should be condemned, as you would go through the floor, or there would be more of an abundance of children, furthermore, the count of them would be much higher, I am sure.'

'An orphan, as I always felt like one, just like one of them made to be the same, as I observed, still having heartbeats the blood of nude children as it ran down the bodies, as if no longer wanted by them to live, as they made shallow graves for kids ages five up to fourteen years of age, at the grandma's property, where she has the orphanage the home for unwanted children, it was made known to me know as the 'Children Cemetery,' the land, and the home the, 'House of Horrors.'

'Where there is only a cross's and tombstones marking the place of 1,000 children, if not more, with no name just identification numbers; just like mine, nonetheless this was the last time, I saw that boy also in my life. I ask does anyone deserve that kind of punishment just for being a child?'

'Notwithstanding meriting death sentences, was the last quarrel; where the grown-ups would win.'

'Nevertheless, there was not a thing I could do. I had to sit back and watch as these children were being terrorized and slowly losing their lives all stripped-down bodies in my mind haunt, so many died by Saturday morning, after the killings, they would be lined up, next to the holes in the ground.'

'Just like the rejected of unwanted I ask the questions.'

- 'I ask would you marry or mate with a retard?'

(Yes or No)

- 'Would you work with a retard?'

(Yes or No)

- 'Would heir a retard?'

(Yes or No)

- 'Would you have kids with a retard, like when you grasp you would have retired youngsters?'

(Yes or No)

- 'Would you give a job to that retard?'

(Yes or No)

- 'Would you be-friend a retard?'

'Think the word 'RETARD' is offensive in a book to be called it every day at school by teachers and kids alike.'

'NO, to all, neither would I, over a misunderstanding, or believing the worst, so why-live, with the existence of being known as nothing more than that, yet I am just in denial they reply to me repeatedly day in and day out.'

'For being this, a retard, I was now the same as the rejected my mom and her family thought were wastes of life.'

'One of my Mother's forms of punishment was to insert a broken light bulb into a floor lamp and shock my step-siblings and our bare-skinned asses until we would beg for mercy. Or smack our butt's until we could not sit down the next day.'

‘What we did that was so troubling to her is still now surmised.’

'Young girls ages five up to fourteen, they are screaming, crying, screeching, and shrieking, and peeing themselves, in anguish, sadness, grief, and anxiety, as she was shouting at all them including me.'

‘See what I have to do to you-little whore,’ as I saw all the girls in their room bed chambers in their beds. 'Your smart-ass c*nts wh*re's.'

'One girl was in a restraint jacket in now for a week without a bath or to go pee, for not consuming all her rations on her tray.'

'Do you see, Nevaeh there more intelligent than you, are or will ever be, this should be you, yet I have to do this to them over having you!'

'My mother would abuse all the young sweet and innocent girls in the orphanage nightly, as she did her shift, for a $1.44 an hour for her mother, and I was there to see to build she said creature.'

'This is why, I am a drug dealer too, said, my teachers over my demographic in my small town, or simple-minded ways, even my 'Teacher Support Teacher' would say the same in her notebook of recording my every blink in the needs classroom, yet I still ask if she would like to whip my vagina after, I pee over I am not able on my own.'

'This is why kids take guns and spray for fame, yet I am not volant.'

'This is why kids are taken rifles and spraying for fame, they have nothing to lose, yet I am not volant, and I have seen too much of that in my life.'

'Yet the kids that do this are mad, crazy, and insane for being nothing more than retards, that are wastes of time and life in the schools, or a town, yet take my amendments away too, I never had them, being the rejected misunderstood child.'

'I do not have freedom of my speech anywhere, or I am shipped out to retard school, our go to the orphaned, I know I could never have weapons, yet don't need too, yet I can't defend myself either, or I am wrong, I don't feel safe as a walking target.'

'Nothing more than the fifth amendment is what I can do, as I stand there as the bad girl sucking your thumb, to take slander and a label, where you only have one advocate to always be nothing more than the deviant.'

'Cruel and unusual punishments are my life, and taking my money, and giving to some that could give a crap about my life. Excessive fines and bail also is my life.'

'That you all are nothing to me, but a waste of life to me.' Oh, yes one moment she loved us, and the next minute she wanted to thump us.'

'She would even put a mousetrap on my finger, and not come into the room until I would stop crying.'

'I can still feel the broken glass, and the currents are running through the filament of the light bulb on my butt crack, as it was touching my body.'

'Yet we all had to watch, as each of our siblings and these other girls was- tortured one by one, we did not have a choice.'

'How could I forget the most common method of punishment I received from her, was the beating with a garden-hoe.'

'I ask what kind of sick, twisted mind even thinks of this kind of torture; and abuse for their children and one's you look after?'

'Furthermore, this is what goes on behind closed doors. You can, believe me, I was there, yet it was- left to be unknown, and if it was known, it was not spoken by the society around us. I do not think the others on the outside, new we were on the inside looking out after all the home was 5,000 yards back, 1,500 feet from any road around out of the minds of others.'

'Things got so ailing in our isolation from human life that she brought in a wheelbarrow as a replacement for a restroom.'

'We were fed rations and I was now living with these girls in the same room and not bathed for weeks at a time.'

'What has happened in the dwellings- that were, linked together on 'Misery Mountain' will be left to be forgotten about I guess forever?'

'One of my siblings was, named Sarah she was, shaken to death.'

'Sarah was hurled into one of the industrial 50 pounds 1950's Milnor washing machines, with full soap and hot wash cycles and that is what killed her, not by one of us kids as they would say, by our Mother, and Gramma and Grandpa giggled, like xenophobe demented children when the wash was over.'

'I can still hear the scrambling for help, yet no one did this was her punishment for being a bad girl, and if you would help, like you would face the same fate.'

'This was the true shaking to death, that was not reported, I was there and saw this happen, I would know it was true, yet who would believe me.'

'I can still see all the washers lined up in a line in the basement of the orphanage, next to the washrooms for all girls, to mass shower 100 at a time, all running around bare for a bath as water jets splashed upon the young naked pubescent bodies that were acting out in the only freedom to play.'

'Truly she was older than me, she is currently buried up on the west end of the remembrance mountain in the graveyard, in 'The Land of Many Steeples.' With all... the others!'

'Sarah, like all the others, does not even have a grave marker because no one cares. Yet mother is free to do as she pleases, with no punishment or consequences for her to receive over grandpa being the head and the only cop of the town, running his little mafia; making others fear him, his word is law in the town of indecencies.'

'We did not even realize what she has done to all of us until I was much older. One by one we would have all been gone like Sarah, last name unknown, and if things would have remained that way for me; I would not be reading my story now, I am sure of this.'

'What happened to the other is also unknown to me? So not, having a stable home, and being in different locations led to the upset of my life. During this time, there was a battle for my custody.'

'The powers at being thought it was best to have a new parent, so, at that time, I was going back and forth between mother Leah and a guardian named Hope.'

'I remember times where I mislaid my lunch on the ground at my feet, when Hope Natalie- Black had to give me back, into the harsh hands of my mother from week to week.'

'This was an exhausting experience at such a young age.'

'What did you feed her?' Mother asked questionably.

'Good meals.' Said Hope.

'She just hates you that is all' She said back.

'That is why she did that' she gets upset when she is around you! I am going to take her away, you just wait and see.' Said Hope.

'During this time, I was very malnourished and needed a caretaker. It was through the kindness of this one person I survived, and started, a new beginning, a new chapter in my book of life! that was nothing more than a hush of don't say that out loud.'

(My child custody fight in court)

'It was thirty painful months more until that all ended, and I was next to death. I was most likely going to die if I did not get away from my mom completely, and there were only 10 girls left at the orphanage. Where it was closed down forever around 2010.'

'My mother did not care if I lived or died; Nonetheless, Hope took me under her wing and embraced me as if I was one of her children, yet she was still not the most loving. I remember court after court all my life, it was a long drawn out process, to say the least yet that existing as a girl like me.'

'I would love to have this boy named Chiaz Naztherth just part me, with our hips so tight together I would not stop squeezing down of for an hour or more, in being taken.'

'I would love to be able to put my finger up to his face and say I your wife, and he is all mine, if an argument, I would win.'

'I would love to have this boy named Chiaz Naztherth just part me, with our hips so tight together I would not stop squeezing down of for an hour or more, in being taken.'

'I would love to be able to put my finger up to his face and say I your wife, and he is all mine, if an argument, I would win.'

Chapter: 6

Observations

'Do you remember those first days when you started going to school at the age of five? Kindergarten you meet and interact with the new individuals, that have never been in your life before.'

'The joy and happiness of being in someone's life are so extraordinary. However, as you learn anything as time goes by things will change. Because you will slowly lose contact with those around you, this is inevitable, or maybe that only happens to me. I do not really no. I call these days the 'Macarena' days... so do you remember, that I guess the better question is- do you want to?'

'Oh, and I irrevocably got home with Hope, to stay. Yet I still had many of those sleepless nights, so I started keeping my mind occupied with my rhyming words.'

'Like this one, 'worries surrounding you will try to annoy. If you have hope and joy, fear will always try to destroy. Positive thoughts, I will have to deploy.'

'At that time, I did not know that it could be called poetry, really at that time, I could not spell either. Yet, that was why I was doing this. I have many notebooks of pomes from age five and up, by the time, I was ten I had all the home library shelves in the home full of my manuscripts, that you are now reading as this long published story, you know just cut and paste clip pages of hand-penned writing all my thoughts together, and you have my memoir.'

'Anyways, what can I say you got to love the 1990's! That dance was so easy; we little kids would do it repeatedly. Yes, I remember doing that! Anyways at that time together we were learning the alphabet, seemed like such an extraordinary task at that time. Our friendships grew, as they should. Nevertheless, nothing ever lasts in my life; there is always someone there to take my happiness away.'

'At this time, I did not know why, as the years went by, I slowly discovered it was all because of lies, from the past, that I penned down to remember what I have forgotten, as the years went on; even my psychiatrist did not know I had these books bracing a world recorded in writing, 'The Longest Novel.'

'They were only seen after my transition, yet I saw what could have been, and even now I have more to add to this never-ending story, nevertheless, back then, I was too young and innocent to realize that anybody could be so heinous. As well, as far as love goes, I am the type of girl, that wants to have a courtship, not a bump and grind in the night, I was in love with the thoughts of love and it was taking over my mind.'

'Like marriage is everything to me, I dream about, as most girls do since back in the days when I was little dreaming of having that white dress.'

'Additionally, I know that is never going to happen for me either, it was my mind at that moment not clear, yet always forbidden and still is.'

'Why, and how? Why is everything so grim? 'Yet If my crush would ask me, right now, I would say yes!'

'I have and had daydreamed, sheepishly in my mind, I fantasized about him proposing to me.'

'I would love to fall into his arms and say take me, and he would kiss me all over! Yet, I would say, never-ever leave me; do not leave me at any phase of life again; you're mine!'

'I am seducible, maybe? I do not know, I will let you know, if I think that could be happening, that would be a first.'

'Yes, I assume if he makes you giggle. Kisses your forehead, and says he is sorry about nothing he has done wrong, tries, holds your hand. Works hard for you, and attempts to understand everything about you, then it is my belief he is quite perfect to me. That is all I ask for, what more could I want?'

'Yeah, if I tried to seduce someone, that I like, yet it was nothing more than a trip to the school's office, to have displaying actions take place.'

'A girl like me liking a boy, I swear the sister's clan, would rip my tongue out and shove it up to my ass, or there's. I do not need black and blue eyes, butt and arms.'

'Nevertheless, I do not like to be the one that is involuntarily made into doing their favors for them. Yet they make me do what they all need and want. I must take what they give me. Yes, have it all gone down, then carry the shame all day in the back of my head, I choke on life day in and day out, from being so rattled.' 'Yes, they beat me up, and I must beat them too, in other ways!'

'This is my question, why is it that there is always someone's nose up your ass?'

'I do not want someone to act all nice, and friendly to me if it is not genuine.'

'Stop wasting my time!'

'Oh, because to me, the time is a rhyme, just another nickel, and dime; we are just moving on down the line. Furthermore, I know that everything is going to be fine. There will be no more wasted time of mine. All the walls, like flaming skyscrapers in my life, shall crumble to dust. With a newfound lust, they will all burn themselves out, with their many moments of doubt. I have to think about this.'

~*~

'Hello, I am Chiaz Naztherth.'

'True, I see her every day as she walks down the school corridors here at the school.'

'She is being Nevaeh?'

'Yes.' He said.

'I am thinking that she is the most amazing girl, which I have ever seen in my life.'

'Just like a modern-day 'Romeo and Juliet' story, I am sure she has kept all my notes, that have to be anonymous, to add to her story; that she has only told me about to append to the story of her life.'

'I know that it is impossible for me too ever be able to date her, because of her past and what others think, and her situation would kill my reputation.'

'Most girls are complicated, whiny, and have a bad attitude.'

'Despite this, there is something, about her something mysterious.'

'Although, there is something about her that I, as well as most of my friends, do not understand her, and her ways she goes about herself.'

'I know this because I love her, I have had those moments myself that make me wonder and scratch my head why I do. Still, there is something genuine and different about her, that I call love, it is like she is more real to me than anyone else.'

'She does not put on any false errors. She is who she is, and she is proud of it, and she does not let anyone change what she deems, believes, or does.'

'She is a true definition of a girl, which I could be happy to be around all the time.'

'Nevaeh death was already ruled that night after the hanging, she was dead from an exception, and found in her room, yet she sprang back to life.'

'Never did I think, I would be in a sanatorium looking at this girl like this, as the only one that cares, in Nevaeh's room, not even Hope was here, she did not care to see her like this, on giving up.'

'Yet, I would not believe that she was dead, nor did I think she was alive, she was immortal; yet the more prominent question is what kind of immortal.'

'If only she knew before, she tried to terminate her life, that it was me, the writer of the notes.'

'Then maybe it was my wish that she would still be alive, that she would come back to me, that I would always be there if it would of if I could change my ways and not care what others think, I could spend my days with her, and give up on all of them.'

'That is only if it was let to be. Why is everyone so defensive, shielding, watchful, and suspicious?

'It has become acknowledged and distinguished to me, that unless you are a complete douchebag phony; you cannot get a physical, true, and caring girlfriend in this town.'

'Nevaeh Natalie!'

'She is such an influence in my life.'

'Nevertheless, I know that she and I could never be together. Since there are situations that one hateful wicked grandmother has created for her.'

'Why are some people so pathetic? Why don't they get lives of their own?'

'Why do they still live's away?'

'Why do they have to sit on using all networks, and conjure up lies?'

'They create rumors, which are not true, just to make them feel more superior? To the point, that they make the lies real and they become true in the school halls and the town for that person.'

'This is disturbing, or is it an ailment; that these people have? Either way, it needs to be terminated, it is just too easy for someone to say that they are somebody, of trust or not.'

'Then destroy someone's reputation; completely, totally, and entirely.'

'Oh, she is like the gasoline that lights my match on fire, and only she has the right moisture to extinguish it out.'

'I guess she fills me up with hopes and desires, and dreams. Let's not forget about the compassion she makes me feel as I dream about her in class, at home everywhere, and even now looking down at her. I think about her nonstop!'

'I have completely fallen for her. Everything she does, everything she is, everything she says. She is the first thought in my mind in the morning, she is the last thought I have before, I fall asleep at night.'

'She is almost every thought in between that I have! I know it's not going to be a walk in the park for us, I know that.' 'Yet, I believe, and I rely on someday, we would have a walk to remember if we could be together.'

'I want to be in the notebook that she has with her all the time! I like to show my sweetheart that I care by putting notes that I stuff into her locker, between classes.'

'However, I cannot put my name to the notes, or they would kill me for being her friend, or have my mom's job, or take me away with children in youth, even have mob hits on me and my loved ones.'

'Nevaeh is bad news, like know to be the school walking STI, or you die, or have a reputation death.'

'One day, I made her a friendship bracelet that is pink and white. I placed it in there when her locker door was open.'

'She can't have a lock for her locker, for being in her needs programming, it would be an endangerment to others, over her being bad news; nevertheless, all others can.'

'Hence she is searched at any instant by any academic teacher at any given moment, for whatever they want to speculate is the need too; of all her possessions and patted down in frisking by the school principal and officer.'

'Yet she did not see me do this, know I would be threatened, intimidated, browbeaten, terrorized and coerced if everybody knew.'

'So, now she where's that bracelet, on her little wrist every day; so maybe she knows it was me, that made it for her?'

'I like to make her handcrafted gifts. Although in my hometown that is harassment and stoking, with the independent laws of crazy around here.'

'All made by the one and only pig cop in the same family line, that runs the entire thing, even the town mayor is Masel Amsel.'

'Furthermore, she runs the one town Sheriff's department, the full Town Council is underneath her, that was also rigged to her liking in the voting pole, true if you have the wealth you can have your way into anything, and the rest are peasants begging for the leftovers if they feel ever so generous. Consequently, everyone fears her, yet I don't.'

'Oh, to be a red wing radical, if you're not republican or catholic your wrong, its nothing more than mind-diddling.'

'Small gifts, I know that she loves those kinds of things; as do I.'

'I think it's good to make it look like she has a friend, only in secret shame.'

'My God the horror stories coming from the orphanage was the kids were like eating the corn back out of their shit, and I believe that is true.'

'Little does she know, that I want to be her boyfriend; from this day on even if they kill me for loving another!'

'The sisters and the evil grandmother, they can't stop love, can they?'

'I know, it is going to be extremely challenging. yet I am going to have to work at this every day, and so will she if I want this to work for us, we can do this!'

'My life ceasing in notoriety that is okay with me. I want her. I want all of her, forever, and never let go of her ever.'

'Sure, if she only knew how much those little moments with her mattered to me, she would know it was me all along that was in love with her, and none of this would have happened!'

'We could fill each other up on the porches and surrounding grounds like all the others, if we had the chance, I would love too, do not get me wrong; yet dating anyone in this town is controlled by Masel.'

'However, I am not like all my friends that bow to this woman of power over their moms and dads, and friends say so.

'I am not like all my friends that just one thing from a girl, I want more, I want it all, just say, that I am more grown-up.'

'Yes, like, there is more here than just young stupid lust, at this moment looking down her next to lifeless.' 'It is something deeper that engulfs down on you, to the point you do not know what you are going to do.'

'Because, you feel that your head is going to explode; it will make your brain numb, and your appendages go senseless.'

'This and that is what this girl does to me, every time, I see her walking past me. She does not look left or right she is always looking down.'

'Carefully she moves along, and I can see her, with colorful pink socks with bows on them.'

'Thinking in my memories, her socks as I was saying are placed ever so cutely in her schoolgirl black polished leather shoes.'

'They are placed partway up her silky-smooth legs, which contrast harshly with her short tartan blue and black skirt.'

'That seems to bounce up just like her long brown hair, and they both seem to wave back as she treads forward.'

'The shoes she has on today have little bows on them near the toe part. All the girls here have black shoes, yet she just seems to make them look sweeter, because of her style, and expressive, yet hesitant why's that she demonstrates.'

'Yet unlike the other girls here, since she is so small, she has to tie her white button-down blouse, into a bow in the front, yet that matches her famish style.'

'She does that to her tops, mainly, because, the school where they could not get her any smaller top.'

'Therefore, she ties them just above her belly-button. The not school code, yet she is allowed to do that, surprisingly.'

'Yet many girls do not follow the codes.'

'Neveah is modestly sexy, compared to what I see around me.'

'Her blue jacket just hangs on her, yet the school logo should be on her upper chest, yet on her, it is more at her mid-torso in the front.'

'Yet, it looks prettier on her than all the others. As well as, her bow tie around her neck, sits very differently on her too. Her bow tie is the school stander colors of navy blue and red. Yet her ribbons hang down so much lower on her, than her jacket and skirt, so unlike the others.'

'She looks down as if she is studying the ruby red and cerulean speckled floor tiles, that she is walking on. Like she is counting every spot on them in her mind, or something like that; as if there is a sum to every one of them to add.'

'She is watching the surface as if she is making sure she does not get hit, preferentially trip practically drop anything, that she has with her.'

'Notwithstanding, everything she has, that she carries is smashed against her miniature figure. I mean everything she holds; it is like it is being bearhugged by her, it is near to her slightly below her chin, and on top of her chest most of the time.'

'One other thing that she always seems to have with her is a small handbag with 'Hello Kitty' on it.'

'Nevaeh even said, she had spent time in a snack pit in the basement; at the home, they call the orphanage.'

'The grandmother would screech to the girls, 'whom that shed the blood, by persons shall her blood be shed, by being with the devil's kind.'

'Told here in this line of hand pended text, the grandmother's eyes were like rolled back in her head holding a Bible, her white hair pulled back in a loose bun.'

'For the payments of sin is death to hell, but the gift of 'God' is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord, you repaint for forgiveness child.' She said evilly.

'As she would drag Nevaeh to the basement of ghostly dungeons cells, the grandmother helped by tranced like stepchildren assisted by the small hands of her sisters, now in the chambers with heavy still doors covering the pits, one was opened and the snakes hissed in Nevaeh's you little gentle face, as they uncoiled, as Nevaeh was wholly pushed in the abyss by the other girls naked.'

'It goes on to say for months on end. She said she only was hearing the screams and cries from other girls, younger and older than she, in cells adjacent to heirs were there were just bar openings at the top, in salary confinements of sh-h.'

Mealtime Nevaeh would pop out head would protrude out the little hole of the door, where sister ladies would then be holding her head wedged with a nightstick to her neckline in the opening, to give her small bights of fruit and bread.'

'They would then push her in the room hard and spray her down with a fire hose, 400 psi for stinking up the cell with her pee-pee and poppy, just to be slammed back in the cold dimly lit room, with no running water, dripping and damp, needing love or something to hug.'

'That explains the teddy bear,' he solved in his mind.

'The grandmother screaming, from the notes that I have.'

'The Lord shields all who love her, but all the mischievous he will destroy.'

'Along with saying, 'furthermore these will go away into an eternal trial, but the righteous into eternal life.'

'I wonder if that is true?'

'I read in her notebooks, that was stolen by me, and this is just book one, of many on the shelves in Hope's home, were just a day before Nevaeh and I just had made a crime of my unsnapped pants, no time to protect, it or I was all up to her schoolgirl uniform skirt from the front, now sing her slight lust she was sliding down on me more than I was her, in high pinched groaning, of 'HO's with airy gasps,' her back against all her works of many white spines covered and homemade bound books, when the one I had felt to the floor, and I keep without her knowing after she ran off after she gushed, not mine saying 'you must go.'"

'Yes, it is true she and I had standing quickie sex, the first time for us both ever, for all of two minutes and thirdly seconds to when the book cracked the wooden floor, before she ran into the next room after being called, and there was on tear rolling down from her eye, on to her pink flashy cheek.'

(Memories started to play in her mind.)

'The grandmother would say to her and others.'

'The soul who sins shall die.'

'The child shall not suffer for the evil of the father that made you in sin, nor the father suffers for the iniquity of the child.'

'The honor of the good shall be superimposed herself, and the sinfulness of the evil shall be superimposed herself.'

'The backtalk she gives was Nevaeh said, 'you would not go from the bad.'

'Do not be fooled child: 'God' is not mocked, for whatever one sows, that will she also realize.'

'She rambles on about many beatings and a butt spanking for an hour a day, where she would scream her surrendering's.'

'The grandmother said to Nevaeh and another, the name was passed over with a blemish mark of ink, 'then desire when it has deemed supplies start to sin, and crime, when it is fully matured, yields forth death.'

'This brainwashing all was instilled in her mind from little girl up, yet to them premonitions.'

'Consequently, just as immorality spread into the world through a child, and loss through sin, and so death spread to all children because all cursed.'

'It went on to say, that she remembered her saying, 'I remember getting all the beatings.'

'Notwithstanding we need all appear ere the ruling seat of 'Christ,' so that everyone may obtain what is adequate for what she has made in the body, whether genuine or sinister.' Said, the Grandmother, and Mother.

'I believe, something here is not right about the daddy of the others, or there were no marriages, to make all these babies, Nevaeh being one of them, and it worked on the grandmother's mind to madness, yet to most, she is just as ordinary as any other in the town.'

'Observe, all souls are mine; the soul of the father as well as the soul of the child is mine, the soul who sins shall die; by the one that gives life to both.'

'It's the blood of a girl that makes a sin.' Said, Leah Amsel to the girl's ages 10 and up.'

'I am sorry.' She would scream repeatedly.

'It's all said, in this book yet go to the cops about it, and Nevaeh is crazy, and so would I be to for thinking this was true.'

'Apologize, therefore, and turn again, that your sins may be blotted out, and kept locked away.'

'Despite, Nevaeh spoke the words to law enforcement the grandpa.'

'Everyone who makes a practice of sinning also practices lawlessness; sin is lawlessness.'

'You are no better than I, she said screaming and kicking.'

'Oh, child, do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body and will go to hell. As I can, to you for being law.' He said back.

'Plus, if anyone's name was not found written in the book of life, he was thrown into the lake of fire.'

'Yet, here is the book of Nevaeh's life, she made, and I do not fear this at all, yet others would as if it is witchcraft.'

'This is why I am here; I believe her.'

'Anyway, think back to the last day, I saw here, like every day. I see the handbag, that is gray and pink with a white cat on it, and yes, the cat has a pink bow on it as well. It seems that it hangs off her one shoulder, I guess, it holds her pencils, she doesn't need to use or said that she can't use, furthermore holds all of her other girly things, that she needs.'

'Of course, that is different from her too, then the other girls. She is everything that I like and wants to love!'

'Sometimes, she smiles modestly, she just rolls her eyes up, yet still keeps her face pointed downwards at me, yet her blue eyes capture the lights from above when she finally looks up at me.'

'Her beautiful reluctant eyes seem as if they get a wet glimmer in them when she sees me, yes, every time.'

'How I would love to hold her hand or carry her books for her, but I cannot.'

'It seems that she only looks up when she feels that she can; yet while still looking down at the floor while holding her books to her chest shyly.'

'As if her outdated books could shield her entirely from all of the others, that is in the hall with us.'

'Everyone seems to glare down at her.'

'All the same, she walks slowly yet swiftly clinging to those books as if she was invisible behind them. She would never be invisible to me, which is an impossibility.'

'Sometimes, she stops dead in her tracks to roll her eyes up at me, just for an instant, and then she is gone. She tries to mutter something, yet no words are coming out of her mouth.'

'It is just a small sound of panic, or sigh, why does it seem that she is holding her breath when she sees me?'

'That is okay, but why is it when she moves past me; it is like she is panting?'

'I know that I have butterflies, and my heart pounds so fast when I see her; I wonder if that is what she feels towards me, I wonder, like if I had more of her books if there would be something about me in them.'

'Yet she is always looking to the ground as if she has been browbeaten. That is what I have come to understand that she has had bad experiences. Which is what I think has happened.'

'I could make it all right if I could for her!'

Am I falling in love with her looking at her, and reading more about her? I hardly know her! Yet then again is this what you would call love?"

'Is this what we all come back for, and want more of, even if you cannot have them in your life?'

'All this is what I think of, what I have, and what I have missed out on, because of what is known about her in the halls, it all holds me back.'

'I have confidence in saying, that she was or is browbeaten, she is like a lost puppy, which has been smacked on the snout to many times.'

'I think that is what happened here.'

'Oh, Nevaeh's she thinks that she is never going to be good enough. Yet she would be perfect for me. I do not think that she knows it is not her fault at all, the way she has to be, or acts.'

'She is and has become just an avatar of what someone else has created for her. I understand these people do not know her at all and what to get the best of someone to be mean and nasty.'

'They just see a fake identity of what someone has placed upon her. You just need to think about this.'

'It is like, one or maybe more person, that is jealous of her filter all her; decisions, all of her situations, and choices, and even her emotional state, in her life too.'

'Why I don't know, yet I have my suppositions?'

'I do believe, that she is oblivious to the fact of what is going on around her.'

'Yet, 'It!' Is what is said about her- it all has to stay unspoken to her, yet we all know this. I know it, but I would not dare to say it to her.'

'I think it all is because of this one person, which has done nothing but slander her constantly.'

'All these unnecessary problems and torment she has to face in her everyday life. It is so unfair to her. She does not have much; I know her family life is not that decent.'

'Although, I would give everything I have, to make her happy we could make a family I know if my family would get to understand her, they would love her as I do.'

'I see her I wonder what she is all about, so mysterious, so unique, and so unlike all of us who are part of her surroundings.'

'Nevaeh seems timid and shy like I said, but she is approachable. She tries not to stand out- yet does not blend in. I want to get to know her.'

'Then again, I know if I do, I will have to have the same turmoil and consequences as she does. What to do, what to do, think, and think, is all I do! It is one grouping who controls our situation.'

'What can I do? I have concluded, that it is not meant to be until now.'

'Not getting to know her makes me very wretched. Still, the mystery of what can be is overwhelming my mind. Still, I am going along with my strategy of knowing this could end ineffectively. Still, I know that it would be impossible, nothing is hopeless.'

'However, it is also tempting, for the reasons of the love that I must find in my life, and not the stupid lust I have. All things can change it is just a matter of time they have too.'

'One person cannot control someone's life eternally. Can they...?'

'I do not understand why this occurs. How did it become to be like this for her? I assume that it is just jealousy, maybe more.'

'Nevaeh is mysterious, attractive, and creative most other girls cannot even compare to her in my classes or this school. I believe, her overall beauty and appearance are what draws me to her the most.'

'However, I just have to sit and look, as the days go by or and over. I cannot make a move at all, all because of one individual grasp. I see her in only one of my classes History, all she does is scribble in her notebook, in a daydream so it seems.'

'She sits in one of the desks in the middle of the room. What is different about this too is, I do not see her in too many of my other classes; like most of the other girls that, I see more of.'

'Most of her classes are not with mine. I have an idea as to why, yet I am not sure. Yeah, that would not surprise me in the least, if that is what she is classed as.'

'Before that class, I see her sitting in the lunchroom. As I am socializing with friends, she is sitting alone scribbling in her diary of day's events, or thoughts that were in her mind.'

'I sometimes wonder what her stories are all about I going to read them all, that she writes. I would love to no! Still, no one has time for her, no time to see her creative side or any sides.'

'No time to see her abilities, the society here chooses not to see them. Why is this, I ask?'

'Are we just blind or, do we choose not to see?'

'I ask this too, 'do the others make all these judgments for us? It makes me wonder.'

'Nevaeh's eyelashes could put you in a trance as she blinked there now fastened tightly. I should know they have done that with me, in that one class, where she is only with her grade.'

'She is so petite in her stature; she has it all! I am going to get into that skirt someday I hope, anyway I can. That is if she wants me as I want her so much.'

'She has those sweet pink lips that I want to kiss, which I know that could curl up my toes, oh yes, she is perfect!'

'She is the perfect girl, but the nights are so long. Time goes by and you are alone and have to drift apart. Where is she now, oh she is sitting there.'

'The perfect girl, I am thinking about you. It is not our fault it is the way it must be. I can see you there, you look so unhappy.'

'The perfect girl, do you need me? I am sitting here all, yet I feel alone too?'

'The perfect girl, I am thinking about you. I think of you every night, just want to hold you tight.'

'When the moment is right; when we are all alone at one another's sides on that special night.'

'I want to hold your hand all night. I want to kiss you until it breaks daylight.'

'Will you be my angel, you're going to be one, aren't you?'

'Why don't you come along with me? Let our relationships be free. You are so lovely, so I asked why you don't come along with me?'

(Holding her hand)

'I promise, if you hold on, I will treat you right; I will tuck you in every night. I will comfort you and make everything all right. I will cherish you forever; I would spend every moment of my life getting to know you better. If only we had a chance together.'

'Will you be my best friend? Will we last until the end? You have a smile that brightens my every day, which makes all the wrongdoings go away.'

'Your eyes showed me that you care. I know this by the way you adorably try not to stare. I would like to tell you how much I care.'

'How not being with you is not fair. I want you to know that I do care. Just remember that I will always be there. I will promise you that we will always be friends.'

'Now it is your decision; so, I hope that you see my newfound vision. Of what can and will be, because someday soon it will be you and me. That is if you decide to choose to be with me.'

'Yes, I am writing this down, while I am trying to eat the inedible food of the school lunch, in which I am trying to cram down my throat.'

'I see everyone staring at her as if they all could tear her face off and eat it. Yet all over again, I ask the question of why?'

'Yeah, I sit with an unfulfilled heart, thinking that life is so unfair. Listening to my mind as it spins like a tornado through Kansas.'

'Likewise, all the thoughts of what can and cannot be rushing like a racing bolt train through my brain. I have to be in love with her.'

'Oh, love, desire is a wicked game that we play.' She said here, in this line of the manuscript.'

(I was reading more and more.)

'Have you ever admired someone so much, yet you know that you cannot have her in your life? I have and it completely sucks. It is like living without them sucks the life out of you. Besides, it slowly kills you inside, until it shows on the outside, of how much you require them.'

'However, can she see my yearning, or not? Or is she yearning for me, I guess I may never know, yet there is a way I can. So, have you ever had to live with the emptiness of not having someone to talk to, that you want to get to know? I have, yet you cannot even have them as a friend, yet you see them occasionally, it is maddening.'

'I have broken in the Hopes, I know from notes that this room she never goes in there, it was thought by me where we can have moments to be alone and in lust, as we thought about doing in notes of anonymously, or find other hidden passionate spots of meeting-up then she would have found out it was me, yet I never did over fear.'

'Anyways after leaving her for the night, I did not want to, yet I had to at 9 P.M, now in the home. I got into the unused living room with the library is and it all ambiguous and dusty, yet has writings, after volume notebook pinned by Nevaeh herself.'

'Furthermore, got the last book, I go right to the last chapter, that I was hoping was all about me, I could not take any more of not knowing, page after page if was loving hot lust of a 14-year-old, to this date, and I was in love.'

'She also talks about her diaphanous nighty and no underpants.'

'Then I read about the big stiffed teddy, that is light brown on the soft fizzy fair pink sheets of her twin bed, she wanted so badly, with the allowance money, that she used some pink rope on the bear she bought that is the same size as her, just to be like me as she was giving him a girl on top loving long hard and then slow, using a tan rubber him for soloing, like being me, as if me in her mind I was under her, and I was lost in lust, of wanting her in that way. and mad in moments of humming hugging and kissing, as it says here, in the text.'

'It was said that all she wanted to be more attention, yet if that was true this would be the first time, she got that.'

'Have you ever had to go through life, without knowing what it is like to be in love; or no that no one cares if you're alive or not?'

(Yes or No)

'Have you ever gone through your life, not knowing what it would be like to hold someone's hand or kiss them on the lips, and know that you cannot?'

(Yes or No)

'If you say yes, then you are like a girl like Nevaeh. I kind of know what she is going through, and yet, no I don't.'

'Even the district attorney has been up to her butt about here doing this and that, that is not true said by the cries of the sisters, from what I gathered.'

'It is the same for me, yet different for us both.'

'The tower is the Grandmother and her Grandkids the clan is what we call the group leaders of control, who will not leave me alone.'

'I bet she knows where I am now, it like she is in my head even this girl that belongs to the family line, like the grandmother and the grandchildren have the power to keep me dumb and in love with the girl of their choice yet still one of their granddaughters.'

'I will explain her name later, if I don't, just ask her about this, I am sure she would say she owns me.'

'Although you should already know that, it has to be one of the others, it is not loving she feels for me at all, it is to keep me away from Nevaeh.'

'While hopping back out the window of Nevaeh's home, as I was running back to my running truck down the lane, I saw eyes looking at me in the fields or so I thought, it was this girl that owns me as if sold by the Grandmother, as all of us are in this town.'

'Everything seems flawless when looking at her in my eyes, but everything changes and everything moves on because of the tower's words.'

'Her fetish for me is about as strong as mine for Nevaeh.'

Nevaeh- 'That boy!' She said, along with this, as she was waking up in her hospital bed, that she was in, of room number 114.'

'All I member about him being here is when he touched my face and said, 'you're the one.'

'Look at this, I have all the candy, like, I could ever want.'

'I still attempt to talk to him, and yet the clan girls whirl around me stopping me, one in my mind, and two face to face in confrontations of hardcore bullying; and I am thrown around like a rag doll.'

'We cannot be together as we would like to be you see, I would love him if I could.'

'Those days were over a long time ago for me, to feel love.' 'So, have you ever been in love, like this? Have you ever been in love with someone that did not love you back or that cannot be of fear, or cannot love you because of who you are? I have, and it frustrating.'

'Have you ever loved, and not got any love back from him, or them or anyone? If so, then you are like me now.'

'Have you ever had someone in your way, to what you know is right?'

'Have you ever had the pain of being heartbroken every time you try?'

'So, have you ever been threatened to stay away from when all you want to do is talk?'

'I do believe that it is all meant to be, he is my angel and I am his.'

'For some reason, and you feel, that you have the one in mind, that is right for you.'

'Simply, you cannot make it happen ever. If so, then you are like me.'

~*~

Chiaz- 'Yet, I know if I do this, I might lose all my friends. Yet, that is a chance, which I am thinking about making if I find away.'

'Because she is all I would need! If you have lived a life like me, then you know that I have tried, and it has gotten me nowhere fast.'

'Additionally, if you are like me then you fall in love too fast. I have to stop doing this to myself.'

~*~

Nevaeh- 'I remember when I started to try not to love things.'

'I remember being the age of six, and seeing my father's lovely home, being demolished down to nothing. Nothing more than a big pile of rubble on the dusty ground.'

'All the memories are now gone, as the breeze blows, as the house crumbles to nothing but dust. I stood there while thinking about all the lost moments in time, which we could of the head together.'

'That never happened, and never can. They were all taken away, just like everyone and everything in my life, that I have loved.'

'I do not want to fall in love over the fear of love and loss, yet, I need the love from someone that understands me.' 'Why do I get so attached to what I cannot have?'

'I am frightened of love! All I have left is a picture of the home, with my dad holding me on the front porch. It was a cute little country house.'

'Nothing fancy, just a small one-story bungalow, with a pitched roof, and one dormer on the right side; and a lighting fixture on the chimney, that would glow softly at night.'

'The shaker-shingles where a creamy coffee color and the windows were trimmed white with blushing red shutters.'

'The porch was elevated with steps that went up, to a rosy door. I remember in the spring, there were flower boxes on the left and right side of the windowsills.'

'It was the nicest home, I lived in up to that point; this home did not need to be ripped down.'

'However, that is what people do these days, ripped things apart, and leave empty spaces,' and gaping holes to feel. I mean just looking at all these photos spread about my bedroom floor, they are just snapshots lost in time.'

'They tell a story of a past that has been, forgotten. However, they cannot replace the moments where you or they did not exist. I look back over them all, until I see this one, and reflect on it.'

'This photo is my first-grade class snapshot. I see the faces, yet I do not see the friendship. Where did it go? Why did it not last?'

'Besides, what do I do to fix the situation? It is just like, black-and-white faded into color, photographs of one another.'

'Moments of time and splendor, moments in which, I may or may not want to remember.'

'Moments that gray, as I get older.'

'Moments that once was in vivid color.'

'I remember being in my first-grade class, with the acquaintances, that I have met throughout the year. I recall not fitting in from a young age.'

'The other students would be learning their new lesson of the day, while as for me, I was off doing my own thing like always. Yet, I was made too, I always like being creative; I guess that goes along with being withdrawn from others.'

'However, I cannot help but wonder was it all a forced seclusion at work? Additionally, all children learn and do things differently.'

'If anything, I am most certain, that there is no one set standard, in which someone learns how to do something.'

'That there is no need for separation, just to gain an education. I did not know, those judgments were made for me back then, that they did without my admiration.'

'Let me not feel to mention, that having somebody's thoughts being placed down upon me, without me being aware of that fact they were, was just to hold me back.'

'They all were just making my life more difficult for me at such an undeveloped age. That is what started all of this, snowballing downhill for me.'

'This all happens because, of their lives. Without the whereabouts of me even knowing how significant this dark cloud, which is forming overhead, would be.'

'They followed me around as if I was a danger to others and myself, yet that is local law and school boards were the counties and courts are as one of being controlled by my Grandmother.'

'My Grandmother would like to tap me on the shoulder with her mahogany wood hand-carved walking stick that was electrically charged with the silver-plated flying lady angle on the top, with ruby eyes, she said 'I had another one of these' she pointed to the decorative piece, then she went on to say, 'yet it was stolen from in gold.''

'Just like my Grandpa would use his gold time-worn pocket watch to hypnotize me as it would swing across my face at any time he wanted, where they could do anything he wanted or anyone could do anything to me they wanted by command, as the slave, even now I have triggers to do by command.'

'You can gather that It is going to follow me everywhere, I go.'

'This is how the tower formed her stories about me.'

'I remember all my nights of being confused, as I lay on my bed frightened here in my home. I was and still, am always alarmed by all the evil in my life.'

'Sometimes, I put my pillow over my head. Yet, I can still envision all the faces playing back in slow motion.'

'Seeing all these faces looking at me, at the hellhole and even back, when I was with my mother.'

'I recall the school days repeatedly, from the past to this very day. I can see the water dripping from the asbestos-exposed ceiling tiles, onto the filthy cover floors.'

'I can see all the locker doors slam, as I watched the water as it falls onto the floor from above me. This reminds me of my heart every time, I go to school.'

'When in school, I always wonder, what is going to be said about me?'

'Who is starting actions that will slander, labeling, attacking, belittling, defaming, maligning, and cursing my life?'

'It is just like lockers that are closed, will I ever know the combination? Will I ever be able to open it, so that I can see what lies within?'

'Will the contents ever be known to me? I recall walking up and down the many darken hallways, that seems to lead to nowhere.'

'With their many fluorescent lights flickering on and off, they are suspended from the ceiling. The lone window at the end of the hallway is the only shining light of freedom.'

'Everyone and everything faded, to black and white to me. As if, I see them moving in slow motion as they lose their color, as they all swarm around me with their stingers out, I never know what is going to happen to me.'

'These days are forever etched in my mind. They all seem to find a way to crawl into my blood and play around like spiders in my brain.'

'They make my skin tickle from the inside out, just thinking about them. It is like they leach on me, that is why I feel so creepy-crawly in my uniform, and I cannot wait to get it all off me. I watch as nerds are stuffed into lockers.'

'The jocks are making out with random preppy cheerleaders, with their hands going all over one another, with their fingers going up and down and in their uniforms.'

'Yes, I just stand there at my locker, looking like I am trying to catch flies in my mouth.'

'Everyone is making out, yet not me, I just the good girl, that is to know to be dumb and forbidden too.'

'I recall one of them getting a swirly, and by that one, I mean me, flush! It is not that bad of a hairstyle, yet I just washed my hair last night and did some loose curls in it.'

'So, it did not need to be washed and styled in the toilet bowl, but okay. No, I do not mind at all looking like I have a unicorn spike on my head.'

'Most days, for me I am walking along carrying books, that have no meaning. As I go up and down the numerous staircases between classes. Well watching the faces go by.'

'Yet, there are no relationships for me that I can rely on here in the school.'

'So, with me being so timid and shy, I do not make any pronounced movements. I just walk down the staircase minding my own business unlike everybody else. All the perverted boys are trying to look up my skirt like always.'

'They are making comments and saying stupid alternate things.'

'Like this one. 'Hey Nevaeh, so does the carpet match the drapes?''

'Nevaeh, because we know you do not have smooth hardwood floors?'

'Hey Nevaeh, 'spit or swallow?''

'I roll my eyes.'

When I overhear, 'We no girls like you don't know what it means to do either over you are retarded.'

'No, but I do trim my lines and as far as that goes, maybe, but I am not commenting on that one, to them! Then there are my favorite quotes, which they ask me yet that not all of them as you could imagen.'

Some of them are asking- 'How is your Period?'

'Can you read the 'Cat in the Hat' yet?'

'Virgin,' they chant.

'Crazy girl,' they chant also.

'So, are you and your lesbian, going to scissors smack your p*ssies together tonight?'

'Sometimes, I think boys if you had the cramps, moodiness, drippy feelings, that I have you would flip out running down the hall saying, 'my dick' is bleeding.'

'Furthermore, repeatedly while screaming in pain doing just that! As well as, roll on the floor like a crybaby!' I giggle out loud.

'Then I could throw used girly things like pads with discharge on it, bloody tampons at your face like you do me; plus see how you like it, for a change!'

'This is another one asked by dumb girls and boys alike. 'So, have you not gone through puberty yet?'"

'So, is that why your voice squeaks like that?' They ask me.

'Sometimes, I just say I don't know maybe I have a lifetime supply of helium!'

'Furthermore, I guess my small boobs are just for show.'

'Dumb questions, yet there asked by them repeatedly.'

'Nevach, they say- 'Why does your voice sound like that. I say- 'I do not know, why does your face look like that!' I do not know why that concerns them.'

'Nevertheless, welcome to my High school, and the way they think and act around me. I think that you can get the picture.'

'Sometimes, I wonder if my kids or grandkids will have my voice, someday oh- hum.'

'However, listening to all this mindless chatter, it makes me wonder what is going on in their heads. 'I must be in hell.'

'Then, I hear the eerie sound of the bells ring out, they are calling me; yes, calling for me to go back to my total isolation.'

'I have been left behind, not allowed to shine. Will I ever have anything that I can call mine? Am I going to be fine? Please, someone, give me a sign. Should I not worry about being one-of-a-kind?'

'One class I detest, even though it gets me out of the entire separation, is a gym. The teacher is fond of staring at us while we are running our laps and doing our activities. She has even walked up to me while topless and said- 'you are developing quite nicely.'

'Okay- if you say so.'

'Miss. Stackawitz she is one of those butch looking women, that has boy shorts on at all times, or sweats. She likes her tight-fitting sports tops also. Yeah, that shows everything she's got- ewe- wah!'

'Nothing on her seems to be where it is meant to be. She has 1980's style glasses and a whistle that makes my ears ring.'

'Yet, I always try to be nice to her. She seems to act all sweet to your face, but talks to all the kids, and teachers about how you look in her class, and locker room.'

'The locker room smells of sweat and cheap perfume. I have to change out of my outfit and mess up my make-up and hair. While having all these girls, in there staring at me; yes- while I am standing there in my bra, panties, or less.'

'You know, I did not know that lacey, pink polka dots were so fascinating.' 'What are they staring at?'

'Hello, I am just a slightly naked girl standing here changing, nothing.'

'Yet the mindless chattering is going on all around me. 'Talk about awkward!' In this private, type of school, they can make us shower after Gym class.'

'Yet-I do not feel like being traumatized again, with all of them. However, I can still envision all of them looking at me in there.'

'Why are all these shower heads all out in the open in this room? I have all the other girls circled me; all ten of these showerheads jet out from one central point, from the only support column, in the middle near the ceiling on the one pillar.'

'We ten girls- we are face-to-face, and front-to-front, with are bare butts hanging out in the back. As we, all are in a circle with the sporting, spring, and smacking water drenching on us.'

'The mist does not cover my body entirely, and there is no towels insight. However, they all seem so perfect to me. Besides, of course, I am going to get touched in there by their soapy little fingers.'

'Yet they all laugh like it is fun to them. However, not to me, I guess it could be fun; if I was with someone I wanted to be rubbed upon.'

'Taking a shower, in my opinion, is a private all most spiritual cleansing of the body and mind, which should not be publicized in my opinion.'

'I believe that there is only one true alternative in my mind, and that is being with the one you love.'

'But then again, it needs to be candlelit, or at least that is what I think, for there is nothing like seeing the steam resonating off the water droplets, that fall upon the entwined torsos in a graceful shining of zenith; while having all the vaporizing, and steam helixing all around us, in passion and adornment.'

'Yes, that is the fantasy I get when showering. That is what I think of; I just put my mind there, to complete the shower in school too. I just pretend that the hands that are touching me are his hands, and not the girls fingering me.'

'In my mind, I picture the shower has the light of a dancing flame of a candle that shows true intimacy. Like having the silky slick shadow on me and the flame of my heart.'

'I guess within that moment; I would feel flawless. I know that you are not going to understand why I feel this way, as of now.'

'However, as you go through my story. It will all make sense, and this is the only time, I have to myself.' 'When I daydream like this, I am gone- go to another place it seems like I said, I do not hear what they say when I close my eyes, I just let them fade away.'

'Although, I can feel what they are doing to me, yet, I am in my fantasy with my eyes closed. Yet, I cannot help but look at them all to, and I see what is different about them when looking up at them and back down.'

'Every girl looks dissimilar, yet as for me, I still look like a little girl with a bit on top, and an innie one downward. I guess that's why the other girls try to pull the lips apart; yet, I do not want to break anything! Why do they want to do that anyway?'

'I asked the teacher and she said- 'You'll figure it out.' I said, okay?'

'I am going too, and I did, that night outside when I got home from school. I never knew that could happen, and I did not break anything either!'

'Anyways, I also do not like being in the locker room, since there is no one I can trust.'

'Why do I feel this way you ask? Will even though students here are not allowed to have their cell phones during school hours. That does not stop them from snapping a photo of me while standing in my underwear or less or even in the shower.'

'Then posting it all... to their social networking sites. Nice- don't you think! These photos cannot be destroyed it is on the web, and it is going to last for eternity, even if I do not want it to or not.'

'I cannot say that I was ready for my close up!'

'Just remember someone's contribution to the internet can never be taken away.'

'I am on there in my pink polka-dotted glory and lathered wet pose forever.' While- at least now some of the boys in school, now have one of their questions answered.'

'I think of life this way; life is like a blade that cuts in all directions. Yet, I am like that one daisy flower that you and I have to turn away seldom.'

'Sometimes, I have to close myself to you, and all the surroundings around you, just drift away.'

'Then let that heavenly shower let me grow. Well hoping that someone's blade does not cut me away from my roots, so I blossom for you, so we can both be together in our divine destinies.'

'That is what I want for you and me. To blossom, while never getting detached from each other, never to be cut away, that is if I could fall in love again.'

'After gym class, I am completely drained, half-sick to my stomach and then it is off to lunch.'

'The smell of the food makes me want to gag. With the main course being pizza, and the vegetables of tater tots, I think I will pass.'

'I look around the lunchroom; I see- Nathaniel LaMarsh picking his nose like always and rubbing boyish snot in his books, that others have to use for class.'

'So gross!' I say out loud.

'Jenny Valentino is sucking on a banana. Yet, she thinks I suck on glue sticks in the Sped room.'

'Jonathan Eisezn is trying to ram his religion into everyone's ears and going into convulsions. Even if the Bible is prevented in my school.'

'All they talk about in this would most fantastic fiction book is waking of d*ck's, and make others feel bad about being themselves. Shut up your being to load.' Said, Edward Gonzalez.

'I snickered so hard, I snorted at the thoughts of letting the sequence of through he said work in my mind.'

'Yet I am told 'The Catcher and the Rye,' is wrong for me to have, being a band to all in the school, and I can't read anyways, even so of what you think, the true message is just having the book in my possession or my hands time from time, and if you don't understand why you're a fool.'

'Just at that moment, I saw, Ainge campo is dumping her spoiled chocolate milk down another girl's blouse.'

'In addition to that, Paul Navis is feeling up his girlfriend- Hannah McGruben, which leads into her playing with him under the table.'

'She has her own found banana to unpeel. Yet no one sees that they only see me.'

'Yes, I am in hell.'

'Trauma and hypnosis have been my life, it all part of splitting my mind, therefore they think I act like a little child, just a color or a sound can make me do as they say, like a human-robot. I even think a time, that I am an unpolished diamond.'

'I can stay up days on end, and think about long things to write that seems imposable, and have endless stamina, sometimes I feel like nothing more a courier, and a byte comfort woman for my master and their picks for me to be with.'

'Just like a human-robot to disable looking, I have to be forced to use a computer to teach me reading and writing, as if cute by my masters, yet never really use one, yet when I do it is less than the ideal computer as if an enables robot fixing what they take away from me in programing like a computer robot of idiosyncratic ways back and forth.'

'Just like a sound or a scent can bring froth memories, only at that time, that is most like blackout of my mind until, having the sent or small made to feel as if Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder without really having this in moments of rapped eye moment, and higher sensitivities to all sights and sounds and even shadows.'

'In my first year of school the teachers were so loving, just to after having torchers at home and be locked away for hours at a time, in cages, testing to see my I.Q was done, and it was said I was highly gifted so my mind could be shattered by my teachers, kind then shock, and I wonder why, I cannot trust, yet the question is why?

'My conscious mind took flight like the butterfly, and to expose this the end of a mind would come, I knew, within and the unconscious was wide open in a highly subjectable state I was trained to be Special Ed, or a nut, just a sick experiment of giving pain for enjoyment.'

'Take a brilliant mind and kill it, over you can't be brilliant in this town when all kids have to be the same. or that is what I want to think is why so it's not so sinister even though the devil was in the details even my dream is not my own.'

'I am so frightened, yet I would be crazy to say my mind is not my own.'

'Do you even believe me?'

'Just like the delusion now from being the experiments of your teachers.'

'The range of communication they say, about me as the made to be rejected, is now all published worldwide for the world to see, all the labeling of my life.'

'Plus, it is written in writing, using the logic of consciousness, over some made not to have one, yet they have a brain more than me.'

'What do you all think about Nevaeh? Inquired stealthily, on a website pull on Facebook.'

'Who in the hell is Nevaeh? Oh, is she that creeper girl?' said, Paul Navis, in a Facebook post.'

'Yeah, she freaks me, and my friends out.'

'This was said, by another in a footnote the following many awful comments.'

'She is crazy!' Said, Nathaniel LaMarsh.

'She is a stocker!' Said, Jenny Valentino.

'She has an STD! She is not the type of girl that, I want to take home to my momma!' Said, Jonathan Eisezn.

'Isn't she like- bisexual? No- I wouldn't even go for that girl.' Said, Ainge campo.

'Isn't she- simpleminded!' Said, Hannah McGruben.

'Although, I am the one with a mind that is not valid.'

'I have read her reports by are teachers and district and have given informed all my students the right to know about her (IEP) and her endangerment.

'I have given them the vocal statements and made online booklets of her 'Individualized Education Program' her documents. Moreover, so has everyone else that can get their hands on a copy.' Said Mr. DeVolcano.

'Mr. DeVolcano then went on to say, her IQ is below what is normal, it is at less than 55, which puts her in the extreme the disability categories; we have informed all the parents about Nevaeh, and all the parents their children; so, that their kids are not in any danger, from this damaged child of endangerment.'

'Also, if they're smart, they stay away, we make sure of that, by segregating her from all others, but her like kind.' Said, Mr. DeVolcano.

Nevaeh- 'Even the teachers are in on this, yet why?'

'Yet, they would say to me that this is all just Epigenetic Memories.'

'I along with teachers, we think she needs emotional sport also!'

'He went on to say, I think she needs help in every class too; she is a hold up for the others that want to learn. I think the girl needs help, in everything here at the school! I disagree with the guardian and Nevaeh; they do not believe she needs learning support accommodations!'

'Sad this protector's denial, the school staff and I think she does, and that too is the law, we have our experts that say so that we have hired at our expenses. It was either sign or find some other school for her to attend for the mental handicaps.' Said the highly regarded teacher.

'He went on to speak, you know, her reading level is second grade; she cannot write sentences, without having six ears in them. In my class, it is like her mind wonders. She does not want to be taught; she is a waste of time to us all here, that why I lock her in the closet and say don't come out until class is over.'

'This boy has been my head for about six months, as a shard mind lover. I wonder how he got in without them knowing; where I trusted him, yet should I? Conversely, is he being nice to just trick me, like all of them?'

'I thought over wanting to be in my memoranda, to see what it is like to be me.'

'They see everything of my body, at all times, like from my head down, all objects I see, and my lower body as if me, out of my eyes, as if my eyes are now cameras for them to see my everything.'

Nevaeh- 'As for me, I like to keep my ears and eyes open, and my mouth shut.'

'Yet, I am still taking for belligerent for having my thoughts at any moment, that my teachers read at any time they want in are in my body, hide in my mind, and play in my soul like a hidden possessed clown-like child, where you can't stop a thought, they take an action that will be acted out are what you're going to say.'

~*~

'In the lunchroom and in the halls too. I see the Jocks are just being plain stupid, making inappropriate immature gestures.'

'I see all the faces staring at me once again. I see the preppy girls laughing hysterically about their superficial existence.'

'While they all speak loudly. I see the Nerds talking about, most likely about computer-related things. Plus, wrapping tape on their crossbars to fix their eyeglasses, after getting hit in the face repeatedly by the Jocks.'

'They also talk about the fact that they cannot find any girls that are willing to date them; yet, they kind of fade away in the background.'

'As for me Nevaeh, I just want the day to be over. I sit alone- Yet 'If you are by yourself you are in good company.' I feel everyone's emotions fall upon my body, like icy cold snowflakes that chill me internally.'

'After lunch, I go to history class, everyone in the class is half passed out from the boredom in which they have to endure. However, it may be from the overwhelming amount of tater tots that they have eaten.'

'Either way, Mr. Mendocino is rambling on about the destruction and the overall horror of the Holocaust movement.'

'Definitely, in his monotone voice, half the guys in the class have their hands under their desks playing with it and sending text messages that are extremely significant to their passion person.'

'I just draw black and white sketches in my notebook! Like- 'You all just cannot wait until class is over.' I do not want to see that, nor have it next to me, or have what is leftover on me.'

'That is why I hate when some of the guys and some creepy girls in class touch my hair. On the other hand, just touch me in general; yeah, I just do not know where their hands have been.'

'I am not a germaphobe, yet I like to say clean in school, and only get down and dirty when I want to!'

'So, in my classes where I am still the outcast of being the same grouping of needs, Elizabeth Smith is twirling her hair.'

'Megan Davis is applying another layer of makeup.'

'Besides, to using one of those things to fix her lashes, John Jackson is pulling Lily Anderson's pigtails.'

'My dream love is sitting behind me. I am in one of my average classes with him, yet after this one, it back to me being in the small room, where I sit for the rest of the day, with the rejects that are not wanted.'

'One of the girls in this class with me is Lily she is a soft-spoken, shy sweetheart type of girl, that has a warm loving personality. She can always find the good in any situation, which crosses her path.'

'Lily, she is peaceful and calm in her expressions, her hobbies include drawing, singing in her church's choir, and braiding her hair with ribbons that match her outfits.'

'She is one of the good girls; she is a lot like me in a way! I think I could say that she is a friend of mine, maybe more.'

'One Speder is- J.A Cowering he is shouting things like- 'I like tater tots!'

'Along with other profanity in his slow voice, while he is smacking himself in the chest, with his one hand.' 'Yet this is me, too right?'

'The poor kid requires his needs, (I don't,) yet regardless of the needs overall being thought to be the same puke to your masters, I am placed with highly retarded disabled kids, yet some like me are not that severe to extreme, yet they're all throw in the same room, meaning you only have at the high second-grade education, do the others holding me back, I get what they think I can handle.'

'Yapper that is what they have me classed as also nothing more than a brain dead a chest tapper, and the kids and teachers reminded me every moment of every day that I am, and next to a child molester or not knowing better, like I have the understanding of that of a 5-year-old.'

'In reject classes like always, Lily is with me, she sits next to me most days. Along with Taylor Brown that is asleep snoring, with her lips parted while drilling a puddle on her desk.'

'Again, before passing out paraphrasing to the teacher that the first-grade childlike book, we need to read is fake and gay.'

'There are no windows, the doors are not even that of the same style for a classroom, this was nothing more an old mop closet, made into a classroom, no more than ten old still and wood desk linked together are lined in rows of 5 hold us trapped, the wheelchairs are off to the side, looking at us all cockeyed.'

'Your tooled to be your teacher's toilet in this program, just open up your mouth, so they can take a hot steamy long tard of crap in it, then again poopy in this room seems to be a theme, like self-playing with one's privates, or the child next to you privates.'

'The sounds and the light seem way too bright as if meant to be to chatter the fragile minds even more, in this basement hole of a room with no heat, and it smells of rat tards, and sofa, like in Granny's home with too many cats, along with black mold, the air is tight and stale, the walls mawkish with many years of kids whipping whatever on them and not being clean over no one cares about us, in the room of the insufficiency.'

'Joseph Shaw is tearing his textbooks into spitballs and blowing them on others and me.'

'Kassie Row is popping her gum tapping her pen, farting, asking dumb questions to the teacher that are sexual, and looking at me like she wants a piece of me, she knocks her books on the floor just so she can look up at me, and they, I not doing any of this bull sh*t, and I going to think about you as I go lefty, right now with my hand in my skirt.'

'Anxious to say she was using her right hand, even I know that, and so did the teacher who did not see a thing, only me.'

'Candy Sheldon she is cracking her knuckles and tapping her led pencil on her tabletop that she is carving bent over love depictions into.'

'I think, I even saw a paper airplane go by me, and the teacher did not even blink, as if his intelligence was wasted by tolerating the kid's childish enjoyment, that becoming nothing more than a babysits for the class, this is true unrelenting, of all that is grim, and an inexorable horror, that just suppressed and made to be pent up in the mind, never angry am I, just sorrowful, filling tragic, and grieving about the loss of time and memories.'

'Nevertheless, none of the teachers even care outside this room to think, I more than a chest taper.'

'They all are getting paid the same amount of money if we students want to listen or not, and none of us want to learn they say anyway so they don't teach anything anymore to us.'

'These kids jokingly say, now, 'it's time to goes back to the hating on others and conic masturbation,' it is all they can do in school.'

'That is just part of the teacher's existence in life, yet should I feel apologetic for them.'

'No, I think not.'

'Yet, this is some of what my existence in life is like here in the hellhole known as the High school also.'

'What do you all think about Nevaeh?'

'She Sped in the head!' Said, Elizabeth Smith.

'Yet he is in the same classes I am in.'

She is a pedophile! Said, Megan Davis.

'Yet he is in the same classes I am in, so your one too.'

'She is the sweetest girl in the world!' Said, Lily Anderson.

'I understand why she said this.'

Taylor Brown- She is a waste of life! Just like all of us in this class.

'Don't even say her name around me I'll throw-up!' Said, Joseph Shaw.

'I feel the same about you.'

'She is one nut job!' Said, Kassie Row.

(Next class the bell rings)

Miss. Stackawitz- the P.E teacher, 'I tell her to leave my class or just do it.'

'That girl can't even throw a softball, yet she tries to run away from everything.' I remember this one day in class the girls were playing Dodge-ball.' Said, Miss. Stackawitz.

Along with saying, 'She was giving me a hard time. She did not want to play along. As a result, I asked her why, and Nevaeh said quote- 'I do not like balls in my face!' And- all the girls laughed until they cried, and so did I, I mean come on, that was hilarious. Because it is so true, she can come out with them, without even knowing.'

(Next class away from the incapacitated)

Mr. Mendocino- is the History teacher, 'No comment, on that girl, it would take me too long, to express how I feel about her.'

Then he went on to say, 'Previously, I often wonder why so many people were splattered, in the Holocaust, and yet someone like her is still walking free.' Said, Mr. Mendocino.

Along with stating, 'Nevaeh did not even get, 'Who was Hitler' right on my test.'

Then he said, 'she said quote- 'A bad guy, with a weird mustache.' I was not amused... she said I was not trying to be funny I don't find this cute.'

He responded, 'Besides, she spelled that wrong too. The only thing she got right was her name, surprisingly she did that! 'Fail!' However, Nevaeh cried in class while watching the movie 'Schindler's List' so she got something out of it I would hope when she saw the girl in the red jacket, and also when the girl being a wheeled way. She said, 'I know how she feels.'

'That disturbed me! like really are you that illogical.'

Nevaeh- 'Do I take this for them being right, when all I can be is wrong even if right or wrong? Preferentially am I just in loser denial, of sucking hard at life, where I cannot win?'

Chapter: 7

Naughty Daydreamer of Nightmares

Nevaeh- 'Next morning the date of September 18, 2009, I am counting down the days, so when I have a break from- this hell once again.'

'The only thing keeping me going is the thought of him in my mind and moments that are cut to short.'

'It is a Friday, and I am thinking, that I have no plans for the weekend like always. I am sitting in my reject class; I am daydreaming about my loneliness, which I am going to face over the weekend.'

'With no entertainment, other than me staring at my selling in my bedroom and my classroom, most of the time I just drift off into a trance while every room I am in spins, and the color fades from my eyes.'

'The color fades from them all to, and then I am the only one in color wearing my blue and red uniform, just like that girl in the movie that I saw in my history class the other day. I am afraid of them, just like her.'

'It haunts me now! Just like the red for the blood that we shed, and the blue is there for me it shows me dying slowly inside as I turn that color, all alone I am just like her, nowhere to run, no one that cares, no family left or friends; in the end just to be wheeled away, and not remembered.'

'I am just like her, yes! I am very familiar with how she feels, are existences are very much alike! I am a little Jewish girl, and they are the Nazi's killing me.'

'I can look out my window and the world move fast in time, I can see the others have their happy little lives when I look out, yet I can look in my room, and time moves so slowly, yet this is mine, this is my life.'

'At the hellhole, all the days run to gather, my first class of the day, and I am sitting in the music classroom. I am surrounded by a bunch of zombies, yet the chorus-musical director thinks I am the one that is brain dead.'

'Mr. DeVolcano as so-known as- the 'Tiny guy!' as some of the students call him, yet he is huge. He is the type that gets pissed if you do not reach his so-called standards of superiority. He makes his presence known by throwing pencils across the room and getting all up in your face.'

'It is like he gets so worked up that his eyes rattle in his husky balding blockhead, as he glares right at you. He has a voice that will make you jump ten feet in the air when you are not expecting him to shout everything that is on his little mind out in the open.'

'Once more, I try to be nice to him, but a lot of good that does me. He made all the others in the class completely lose respect for me. He has his pets, and I am surely not one of them. If anything, I am his main target.'

'He has been trying to kick me out of this class from day one. I would guess he is prejudice against my type. Sad to say that, I will have to put with his bullshit for the next six years. Yet- someday he will get his repayment. I do not know how; I do not know when.'

'However, I am sure of it. His method of teaching is cursing you up and down, in front of your classmates. Shouting at the top of his lungs things like 'I'm the director, if you do not like it then take your ass out the door.' He thinks he is God's gift to music, while we watch him demonstrate singing, and playing out of time and key.'

'Mr. DeVolcano figured his way to the top by using deception. I conjecture the fact that if you know someone, you can become a teacher here at this school. Yes, even without having the degree that you need.'

'He tries to make himself feel like less of a failure, by making everyone feel insignificant in the processes of his developments in his class. By screaming and yelling at the freshmen just the same as he does the seniors. Just because he thinks, it builds character.'

'Talk about issues.'

'The day drags for seven long hours. Then the end of the day class bell rings out, for the trip back home on the bus and it seems to run back to the way it did in the morning when I got here. Now it is off to my home, where I sit and think for the remainder of the day.'

'It is Friday night, and I just do not want to stay at home all night. Therefore, I thought I would go to the game, and watched the Jocks smash themselves into one another until they have brain damage.'

'If they all know he was in my head now lost and sweet to me when I feel shy, they would not stand for this, he is why I live and why I die, cry, try, and sigh, and yet, I still ask my questions of why.'

'Walking around the football field it is either the first or the second home game, I can hear the same disorienting school theme song playing repeatedly. It is sounding horribly out of tune in the background, and its reverberation goes all around the old stadium.'

'The cheerleaders are shouting their battle cries, as they jiggle and wiggle to their chants. A sea of navy blue and ruddy red hues in the stands, combined with the band's uniforms. Besides, everyone's faces old and young have the look of war and frenzy.'

'One middle-aged guy even has a cowbell and an air horn, and he is just losing his mind! Woot- Woot... I think sarcastically in my mind, who cares!'

'The falling raindrops from the skies they shine like diamonds reflecting off the lights. I can smell the scent of rain, as I draw in a savoring breath, and yet letting it out my mouth sighing slightly, with a humming sound.'

'As I walk to the ancient bleachers, mud is everywhere, mixed with confetti that is littering all over the ground along with the leftover food from the concession stands. I am surrounded by people, yet I still feel as if I am all alone.'

'Football games in the rain. Yet nobody feels my pain.' 'Should I feel shame?'

'While I stand to look up at everyone just like a freeze-frame.'

'Everyone knows my name, yet they all do not feel the same.'

'The game is over everyone is gone, yet I just sit in the rain as the lights go black on me.'

'Then slowly walk out of there and begin my walk home in the rain alone! While ringing my uniform out as I go alone down the empty pathway. That reminds me, that I can meet someone throughout the day.'

'I can have great associations underway. However, the very next day it all goes away. I wonder why, yet I am not surprised, by that fact. Nothing surprises me anymore. Maybe it is because of who I am? What I stand for, or is it my belief?'

'Maybe it is because everyone has ways of destroying one another. How do you ask? Well- I think one way is by using their communications technologies and the other by the words of cheap talk. Either way, my life has changed. Similarly, mine seems to be metamorphosing into something even more ugly than I thought in previous days of my life, and existence.'

'What is a friend?'

'What are people that you see day to day, and they see what they think you are by what they see?'

'Do they only see what they know of you?'

'What do they see in me?'

'I see them yet; I don't know them. So, what are they? Are they acquaintances, contacts, or enemies? Is someone you know someone you can trust?'

'To me, it seems like the moral beliefs of friendships have been breached, to me no one is a friend, yet I am open to companionship if they come my way. What people think is not something that can be fixed just by changing a status online, or in the halls.'

'Trust me it cannot!'

'The trust will not be regained with them, or me. Therefore, they do not see me for who I am, because of status, and their friendships that they trust in seeing what they want to see.'

'Do you see?'

'I look at my social page, and it is an empty canvas. With no identified photography, that corresponds to additional individuals from the past or present time. The towering entity will not allow me to be seen with others, nor them to be seen around me.'

'Can you see my picture developing?'

'Yes, to me the meaning of friendship has been redefined. As I entered the modern age of electronics with my so-called friends.'

'Sure, I can see your profile, sure- I can see all your faces, sure, I can see the description, but then again, I do not know who you are. I do not know your intentions, nor do I know what you stand for. So, should I be paranoid, or should you be?'

'I wonder sometimes while pacing the floor in my room, or just sitting on my bed with the laptop that is pink in color. Should I live with the freedom that has been established to link me together with them?'

'Must I decide to deactivate, as they sometimes make me do to, I am childlike?'

'So, I can be isolated furthermore; or should I remain ignored while active?'

'I come home before the game is over it was over for me before it started, I look at my old typewriter that is sitting here on my desk, a reminder of how things were done in the past, and think that was a good way of communication.'

'So not, like today. I thought about using it but- am I good enough to say anything, they say that I am not. They must be right; I am not even sure if I know how to work the fifty-pound clunker of a thing.'

'I have thought about making a story of fantasy a reality. I love old things and old ways, of doing things; yeah- I can't help it.'

'I surely have the time to do a story someday. I could see my writing, a forbidden romance or something like that... yeah right.'

'Maybe, by all, I would need is some paper that will not smudge, I guess- I could do it on the computer, but why?'

'I am not much of a writer; I am not much of anything.'

It is just like the Vintage Camera, that I use because I feel that it adds emotion to the moment in time that I have captured. Just like the Victrola player, I have from the 1930's.'

'I love different things. They say I have an old soul and a young heart.'

'For once, I think that they are right in saying that.' 'Frustrated, with only getting one up and down looking font typed line down, I stopped. Using two fingers on the typewriter does not work all that well. Sticky typewriter keys are annoying.'

'So, that night I went to bed earlier than I normally do. It was a long day anyway because of all the negative spectacles that took place, throughout the day.'

'Also, my mind was thumping just like the sounds that blast from the past machine make as well.'

'I recall I was lying in my bed with my favorite pink nighty on.'

'Before I knew it, I was undressed under my covers with my many thoughts of, school, life, everything, and him. Mostly him, in whispers in my consciousness.'

'Then, I was in the land of pleasant dreams. There in my dreams, I am in a land where there is no evil, hatred and no need for lust. My dreams were always my fantasies.'

'However, that night All of a sudden, I am jolted out of my dream, and a cold icy breeze moved across my face, after all-knowing as a child I was sold to satanic sacrificing for sin, thanks to my mother's side of the family.'

'I sat up in my bed rapidly, asking if it was all in my head, or real; the room was pitch-black, and my covers were pulled off me and I felt exposed, as it was an inch over the full length of my body, engulfing feelings from my remembrance.'

'Then, until I cannot believe my eyes at what I was seeing it has dark wings, and eyes that were too temptingly cloying to not look into to have as engulfing into soul travel.'

'It was a creature that was not human, a dark mysterious what I call a fallen angel, I have the gift of seeing them with my subconscious over dissociating, it was staring at me looking into my soul, taking all that happen in the last weeks for my masters, who are cacodemon or fallen flowers of the following the demons demotivators thinking its 'God's work hidden in dark magic, sorcery, astrology, voodoo, and witchcraft,' like over cognizance possessions, the sweet deception of true evil was peering into my eyes as if it could abolish my quintessence of ethos.'

'I look at myself as a child of pure sorcery, a 'White Angel' when death would come, thus of pouring, I will not be stolen to purgatory, yet that is becoming harder to endure tirelessly when this is what I was born for to slaughter, yet I got away, I got away before, I was killed in a naked virgin child sacrifice, to the 'Angels of Darkness.'

'These girls sometimes on Earth other than being just like normal-looking girls they transform into 'Blackbirds,' or girls with black wings with bloody when in their angel form with wings, having feathered tips, blood-sucking fangs, omnipotent powers, of desire and revenge, of strength, and voltage, even fiery in the wings at a time, they are my sisters are divided angels the Amzel's are the darkest of 'Fallen Angels.'

'The Natalie girls not so much, they went for the genuine, even if born into evil and made of sin.'

'The Fallen Angel had long fangs, almost cat pulling in my eyesight of frame- the moment of like having aesthetic abilities, with a face with sharp-pointed horns that protruded from the top of its head. Am I dreaming, I knew I was not?'

'I was frozen in my horror of knowing I was slowly being taken to the dark side of enchantment; I did not know what to think.'

'I know what it wants with me?'

'I know what this meant, until the edge, coming stronger every day?'

'As for me, I am pure-like some of my other sisters, who like me are at war for our souls.'

"White Angels,' like me are heavenly, holy, divine, celestial, sweet, charming, yet sadness, will make them shed light gray as if the light dying within me, in the wings like me, over depression, grief, sorrow, catastrophe, and misery, yet I think this boy, I like knows what I am, I wonder how? Internet, my books, and religions?'

'Therefore, I can read his mind like I can anyone around me, I let him in, I think? Maybe, or it is just one of my gifts or so they think?'

'Yet something you demand to perceive about my Earth life is that I was half-human half- pore white angel, now ending by hanging over mind games, in a dark death was the change they wanted to take me to the dark side lost in purgatory, where death can't be had, nor can my soul that was damned rise, I didn't want immortal, as a teen girl locked in my limbo angel body.'

'I wonder what he would say if I let wings rip as they do only when I want them to penetrate my smooth fleshly white skin before his eyes?'

'Notwithstanding that night, as I sat staring in my bed, in an instant I watched as this entity was sucked into my dream catcher, it was absorbed away like a vacuum in a swirl.'

'Was that just a dream?'

'It has to be a dream; it is just a dream I kept thinking in logic- I was saying.'

'So, I lied back down in my bed. Besides, I got my covers from off the floor, and it put them back over me and my head.'

'Scared, I begin repeating my prayers. Until I drifted, off into the land of blissful dreams once again. I still do not know what that was.'

'Just a nightmare, I guess. The start of new days, sometimes I hope that all the stars will align so that God's grace can shine down on me. So that I can feel, the ray of the sun as it gives me hope and strength.'

'Sometimes, I start my day with reading I light my candle and start laying them out, as I get ready for the day. I started to do this when I was feeling hopeless. Lily she gave me her old deck saying try this, it may work for you as it does for me, and I said, 'okay.'

'I have been doing it... oh my, yeah- all the way back then; Like when I was in seventh grade or so, is when I started, and that is when they began in full swing on me.'

'My readings for today, as I shuffle my deck, the cards fly out on their own, right out of my tarot pile. I know what I am going to face throughout the day before it happens sometimes. Like today and most days, it is not good. Today let's see what we have!'

'Tarot Card One- I got the Fool- yet I wish that all the fools in my life would not have any beginnings... in getting me to do as they do. I am not a fool... they are the ones that are the clowns around me.'

'Tarot Card Two- the Tower- I get this one every day, and to me, a tower is a person or persons. Yet I have to find why they keep towering over me! Yet the mighty tower may be strong now, in making them, make me.'

'Nevertheless, as with anything, like the card cries. They will smash themselves at some point down on me, and they do just about every day that they can get on top of me.'

'The towering clans will make me have the circulation of an explosion in the hall, bathroom, and even sometimes in the classrooms. Wherever they could get their hands up, and on me.'

'They are the destruction of me, with fires within their eyes. That collapses down on me, just like the girls in the clan that sits on my face.'

'One by one on me, just like the fiery body on the card in my hand exposed; which shows the tower falling to its knees. They all just ooze their heated hate on me, and all over my body. What they do to me, is what keeps the tower in power!'

'Tarot Card Three- The Lover's shows that I have a lover, I love him, yet we cannot have a love, which I want so badly.' 'Yet at the same time is it him, which I see in this card? Who is in love with me? Maybe it is some other boy or girl. That is worth thinking about- oh-hum!'

'Tarot Card four- Temperance the learning to bring about balance, in life, for me that balance never comes. I am forever on the wheel of misfortune, when is it going to be my turn to have the thing go right?'

'I did not even get that out of my mouth, then card number five an extra one, just seemed to pop out at me and flew out my hand out of the deck, and down on the floor in my room and that was the Devil card.'

'Now it is lying at my feet. That card holds show me being hauled back in chains in everything.'

'Yes, I saw him in my nightmares, I think last night... or was it a vision? Yet I know that all I have to say is be gone devil, I am a child of the highest God!'

'You are not getting my soul! These cards show me that I need to beware. Yes, I will keep my telling deck in hand, to know when they will try to deck me, in the face or even more that has to come. I will use astrology as my philosophy, why not; I do not think it is evil!'

'Yet, the nuns and priests that sin more than me... they do. Yes, life is a will of fortune it is always in constant transition.'

'I never know which section the arrow is going to land on, it changes with discoveries and my mayhem. I know that each day is a gift it shall bring me the perfect someone in my life in the future from the heavens.'

'I know Just like the apple tree in the background of the lover's card; I shall blossom and grow with this new-found inspiration in my life.'

'That is if he finds me before it is too late for me! This can only take place though if the entities in my dreams, and also in real life lose their grips on me.'

'That is draining all the exquisiteness of passion, lust, and caring of chastity out of my body. I refrain from acts that cannot be satisfied by a divine stimulation.'

'Yet, I am overwhelmed in not making associations, like shaking hands with the diminutive porthole to my soul that leads into Satan's darkness.'

'I do not like confessing that, yet I have. I remember father Joel, saying to me in a stern voice, 'Do not do it again Nevaeh!''

'Yet, with a dumb smile on his face through the mesh, at the church booth in there, my feet do not even touch the ground. I can kick my feet, and they swing freely when I am so nervous just like that.'

'Yeah- he knew it was my voice talking to him. I told him everything I did solo and with my shamed fobbed lover like a good catholic girl I am, I even said, I do not know why, he was there inside me, but I think he liked, and so do I, what I was saying for some reason he was understanding, I said to Priests, 'what we did that night will last forever in my mind, it could never be erased.'

'All things are not a sin child, even when you know they are if good for the mind-body and soul.' He said. I recollect the last thing He said was- 'Just try to be a good girl- Nevaeh.'

'Okey-doke-y!' I said, squeakily. Then, I went on my way out of the old church.

Father Joel- 'What a kid, cute as a button, and the same as all her age!' He shook his head thinking my 'God,' at how cute she was.'

'I know that I am misunderstood, most people just don't get me. I always feel different as if I come from another planet. I know that I have sensory overwhelming, sometimes my senses are too sharp.'

'Every sight, touch, sound, hearing and sense of smell can be excruciatingly strong at times.'

'I am sometimes angry and have explosions with meltdowns, at school, and at home, this may happen when triggered or feeling trapped, as I do always.'

'Although I mostly avoid situations like this, it can happen that when overwhelmed or extremely painful I explode with rage.'

'To the point of crying meltdowns, I know a girl my age crying, yet happen when bewildered. After shaking in anger, I may feel distraught and cry uncontrollably.'

'So, I have a teddy bear. Yet still, have many silent shutdowns, times when you can't speak or socialize.'

'Seldom, I may prevent noises by going silent and withdrawn. When this happens, I want to get away from people and to be quiet until I am calm again.'

'I use avoidance, not going places you imagine will be troublesome for you socially. To withdraw and not have meltdowns, sneaky escaping habits may develop. There may be many situations I avoid out of the fear of being overwhelmed or uncomfortable. However, since the avoidance is sneaky it is often hard to realize it about oneself.'

'I am a sensible person who thinks and analyses everything too much they say. Although realistic and make decisions based on the analysis.'

'I find a pattern in everything, the way I look at my life, I see patterns in everything. I am having the talent to connect the dots to come up with original ideas or ways of understanding people and the world.'

'To the ones that I love they say I am an open book, when comfortable, I am extremely open and honest, like a being with him. More open than people in general when feeling comfortable and accepted.'

'Some say, that I have a bluntness and directness, that my words are straight-talking. My favor literal and direct communication. I may be confused when people say things they don't mean or say things to me when talking to them I'll take them as false politeness.'

'I know in a normal friendship is alienating, feeling alone and empty when being colleagues in a normal way, yet I ask is it me or them.'

'Being friends in the 'normal' way is either something that I can't do, or it is social behavior I had to learn by observing to stay away or its charges and court.'

'I try to dissolve my boundaries when I find intimates boundaries truly dissolve completely. I am far too clingy or bossy.'

'I am a 'genuine advocate,' I enjoy spending time with those that understand me. However, relationships with such people may be rare. Close tenderness lacks with me firm boundaries and I have been described as being to cling, bossy or controlling by a friend or partner.'

'I have monotonous eating habits; you always eat the same thing or follow a rigid diet. I prefer to eat the same thing most of the time or follow a specialist diet that restricts certain foods. I prefer an eating plan for various health or personal goals and then stick with this (isn't tempted to go off the diet like most people are.)'

'They say I make funny noises, when comfortable the sounds you create carry meaning in communication.'

'Plays with the voice and accent or speaks with sounds instead of words. When feeling comfortable and accepted may make wet noises, high pitched noises or other noises to express feelings in the moment rather than use words.'

'I am stubborn about time and plans; I know- I may freak out if plans change unexpectedly if your time is taking away mine. True I don't like plans being changed. Lateness can trigger my biggest fears.'

'I know- I am awkward about social touch, I don't touch other people or if I do you don't like this. I know that my demurral is that you may enjoy your touch with your romantic touch only.'

'Oppositely social touch such as random holding on me, patting on the shoulder, is not that big of thing yet, I don't like men's hands on me. This is all essence that has to be learned and forced, preferably than comes spontaneously.'

'Some say- I have a dissimilarity or hypnotic speech patterns at times, even if squeaky. The normal speaking is cracking at times and raised needed. I know that I have strong self-discipline, I reminded every day, I like to keep to my chosen routines. I am remarkably focused and dedicated to the things I chose to do or work on.'

'I have been told that my mind going blank and empty, most of the time, this is said to happen when I am surprised or overwhelmed.'

'I have the feeling of the mind going blank is like a frozen empty pause in which the mind is not able to think for at least a second, though it feels like longer it lasts for longer inside.'

'I have eccentric interests, I know, I have many unusual hobbies or collections; yes, I know.'

'I know that I have mastered somethings in researching hobbies or daily activities, anything and everything I love to learn, about most of the time something unusual to what other kids my age like to do.'

'I have been told and believe that I do have child-like imagination, a part of me has never grown old after 14 years or so.'

'Meanwhile feeling comfortable, I express a childlike quality, no matter what age I am.'

'True to say- I am really bad with hair, somedays, I just can't do it! I am not good at styling my hair. Also, over it being so long, my hair feels uncomfortable at times.'

'I have a crystal ball, sometimes, I see a girl's face within, that looks just like me yet is not me. I wonder who she is, or is this me, as a prophecy?'

'Ah, bedtime is a sweetly, gently, soft, pleasantly, comfortably, definitely an innocent time for me, of feeling guilty, lustful and sinful, yet as a girl as all do, like yourself I am sure.'

'I feel the shameful need to feel, think known in just those wonderful moments of escaping, explore, touch, sense, even taste, even if I have said I would stop to be most holy of a girl I could be, know in my mind this so varies wrong until I am much older or with a man.'

'Although my body needs to feel of being safe warm and naked in my bed, my mind damning my soul gives many fibs that are unstoppable, in my loving, crazed, ever so natural, need of feeling the freest I can feel as being well me, being so aroused mind is dumb with being excited, my breath quickens so heavy and stimulated, truly the horniest I could ever get, upsetting at the time as a young lady to not sin, when purples are black and wide with passions, the most alive I can honestly be.'

'Sin is pleasant, balmy, comfortable, I love before bed I read all things that are magical, in the phantoms of my investigations on life from the afterlife, wondering where, I will go when dead yet like loving me, eating too much, or not eating enough, magic, music, and smarts, and loving a female is all a sin too then; I cannot say I am a good Catholic.'

'Nevertheless, at least, I am not taking it up the butt, and saying- 'I am more holy than you,' not worded that way, yet you would get this, attitude, like every 12 up 17-year old girl: Walks the Hall's would say they think they are, as they think they don't know after 8 ½ years, or think they do in there mislead understanding.'"

'The more that I think about life this way the more, I pull away from Catholic thinking, of judging what is not the same, or dooming someone from loving the lord, as I do, still after having a life of shady, dubious, dishonest, unethical, and unfair, from those that think their Godly I question the why of it all.'

'However, I do sometimes at night in bed; I do, just by laying on top of my pillow or my big teddy bear, and I straddle it and embrace it like I am with him- only if I need, nothing wrong in that.'

'Then sometimes, it is like it just happens in my dreams when I am with my lover in that perfect fantasy. I do not have to confess that too... do I?'

'I don't want to!'

'However, I cannot help but think about that kiss. Nevertheless, is it okay if it happens in my dreams? Why is it that what feels good in life is wrong, and what hurts others is what feels good to them, yet not to me?'

'Either way, I just seem to squeeze taut, with a fizzing bubbling that is heavenly in the finale. Yet, I do know if I do not refrain from these engagements, instead of having a crown of purity. I will surely be cast into the eternal lake of fire and burn forever in the afterlife. That is what I know, what I been told.'

'Yes, oh how I believe that guy should ruin your light pink lipstick, by kissing you.'

'Not ruin your black mascara by crying over them, I get sick of crying over what I cannot have!'

'However, that is hard to find. When all they want to do is overpower you, and not love you- yet you love them, and they control you it seems.'

'That kind of love is scary to me. I know, what I want!'

'If you are truly meant to be, life and god will find a way to make it happen.'

'Yes, even if you are forbidden.' I have to believe that!'

'Oh, yes, my dream lover is someone I see in the halls every day. I can see him in my dreams too, with his brown eyes, black hair fair skin.'

'He is so laid back in his ways just the way he looks at me makes me tremble in a good way as you have gathered. Yet in bed I toss, turn, and roll around, then morning, it comes, and I did not get any sleep.'

'Also, I am so scorching warm, flustered, and exhausted. Because all I thought of all night was being with him, in every way imaginable.'

'Yet, I know that it cannot be. It is just a dream in my fourteen-year-old mind; just my starry-eyed fantasy.'

'Good-God! I am going to need a cold shower, after confessing all of that!'

'So, anyway, the next morning comes and it is the start of a new day. It was just going to be another Monday morning; I was being dropped off at school because I did not want to be part of the school bus association again.'

'Consequently, I was getting out of the car to go to school. It was not all that warm outside I could feel the light frost in the air and falling upon my skin.'

'Of course, I did not realize that I had my skirt caught in the car door. The car pulled away along with my skirt and what was underneath... was all... me showing, not another time I was thinking.'

'Maybe I was getting paid back for the night before? Yet, there goes my blue and red skirt it was flapping away in the door, like a flag of a sham!'

'Hopes rumbling chocolate brown- I think it is a 1963 Chevy Impala, did not stand out enough in the school's turnout as it was... yeah- No!'

'That surely got everyone's attention from the start just pulling in with her in that car! Yet, that was not shameful enough, hell- no!'

'I had to go and add more to the spectacle, and boy... I sure did! Consequently, to all that, her car just kept going, all the way home.'

'She did not know and did not see it when she got home either, she got out of the driver's side, and my skirt was on the passenger side looking sad all frayed up, from the road muck while flapping on 'God' knows what down the uneven pathways. So, if you have not figured out yet, my uniforms are red, white and blue the schools' colors.'

'Accordingly, there I was standing in my glory once again. It seems like in my life what can go wrong will, and with every occasion, this kind of thing happens to me, it seems.'

'Like always the jocks get a free show, the nerds start forming at the mouth. Furthermore, the girls say something like- 'oh- would you look at that!' So, ounces everyone is done staring, and taking pictures. I just think 'This is not happening again!'

'Yah- now I know how a naked flagpole feels. It is moments like these, I feel like they will remain forever, and never end.'

'They just keep happening in new ways, one way or another. Because as always, everyone is laughing hysterically.'

'Equally, I hope he did not see me like that; I am so terrified, so I just ran like a bat out of hell out of site, to the nearest shelter, whatever I could find.'

'Yeah- I found a bush and waited until everyone went to the school.'

'So, that I would not have, to have them all looking me. Naturally, I knew that no one was going to help me out, yet he wanted too I precisely recall, as I was running, he called my name- 'Nevaeh, you okay?' He said, No!'

'I squealed, bolting down the sidewalk, past him like a crazy girl off her Mids. With me holding my handbag in front of me.'

'Yet, I think he saw my but cheeks rubbing together as I ran by. I thought I could have died of embarrassment, of all days to go to school like this, for that to happen. I mean really, who thinks that their skirt is going to get ripped off.'

'I mean days when I have Gym class two days out of the school week, I have something on underneath. However, days like this one, yeah- not so much.'

'I hope- I did not do anything to him to make him think I am a jerk. Because, I was so freaked- out! I mean I am an open person, but not that open. Now I am going to play that over in my head.'

'Certainly, I always dreamed about him calling out my name sweetly like such. Yet I did not ever think it would be like that! Yeah- I was on my own.'

'It is just one more Kodak moment with I will never forget.'

'That was the longest, yet fastest, run home ever... for me to do.'

'Just to come back with a different uniform on, one hour later the same day.'

'Yes, I have learned to look before closing the car door.'

'I have read, studied, absorbed, digested, and received.'

'I have learned!'

'Yet, that day I walked through those big doors late, just to have to face all of them inside.'

'That was fun explaining, that one to the school office ladies, with the principal one door down. I walked out of there, and it was back to my day as normal; while what is normal for me, that is!'

Chapter: 8

Steeple, Dwellings, and Tracks

'My home- 'The House of Lost and Lonely Dreams' as I have named it, is an antique structure, with peeling paint that appears to be tearing away from the wood-clad siding.'

'It has its original lead glass wavy windows, which whistle, rattle, and leak when the wind blows; or it is raining heavily.'

'My home has a foundation of stone tan and gray rock, which is crumbling under its weight. I would say that it is a result of old age.'

'Because it has seen, numerous frigid winters that contrast with searing summertime and time over. The home displays a wraparound porch that has old wooden plank flooring, which is cracked and blistered. We have a bench swing hanging by rusty chains that cry in agony as it swings back and forth in the wind. The crying swing is adjacent to the over-sized door entry into the dwelling of loneliness.'

'When I come home from the hellhole, I slowly open the heavy wood door with all my might. Besides, I drop everything from my day next to the door my books, handbag, and shoes.'

'Everything is placed, that I had with me, out there on the porch. Yet before closing the door, I cannot help but look over the land.'

'The mailbox is all dinged up in its light tarnish, reddish, and blueish paint chipped colors, and totally somewhat limp, catawampus, and yes completely cock-eyed!'

'It is hanging by one nail; it seems like on the post. The red flag that is part of it is broken off, just hosed down in the ground also like it is trying to be erect, straight up with a slight bend in it off to the one side too.'

'That is okay with me I guess; I do not get any mail anyway. He-he, our mail girl Marsha just loves us, she always says when I see her delivering the mail.'

'Your box reminds me of my husband, it needs a little help getting up!'

I say- 'yeah,' with a confused look on my face, asking my mind if that is funny or not?

'Yet, I did not get it- whatever that means?'

'The grass is tall and needs to be whacked down with the brush hog, the sidewalk cracked, and the weeds and dandelions pulled out from in-between the orifices.'

'The gothic gate at the end of the sidewalk is hanging by one hinge wide open for anyone to come penetrating through our yard at any time day or night.'

'The old farm tractor is sitting in the front yard next to the hand plow and garden hoe, along with whatever else all that junk is, yeah lookout for where you step, you just might find that missing pitchfork.'

'Oh, and that green thing it is not a snake, I can assure you I have tried to kill it! Nope, it is just a garden hose.'

'You know none of that stuff has moved in years. That is why this place looks as it does.'

'The barns hardwood is rotting away, that holds its treasures inside. Yet once you get past my yard you can run free in the fields, I know I have entirely unleashed, with the grasses rubbing up on me.'

'Try it it's fun!'

'So, the silo looks like 'The Leaning Tower of Pisa,' it's surely going to fall one of these days, and certainly plummet.'

'I know for a fact, one night, we are going to hear a thud, and it will be on top of those bushes or fall into the barn, and I will cry.'

'Oh, let me not forget about that junked car over there rusting away. Looking down the fields, I can see the many bales of hay, which have been there for some time.'

'Hope- she has a sparking fire shooting up from the metal rusty burn-barrel, to get rid of our garbage... out here, which is not all that uncommon, I guess.'

'Furthermore, over there I can see my other uniform parts and the only pink nighty, it is on the line that sags nearly to the ground.'

'There is a stick holding the lineup, yet everything I always smelled so good, because of the wind that blows through here, and the citrusy scented soap we use. I guess that's why my bedsheets are so cuddly and soft'.

'Hope must have gotten those chores done for me; I do not like using that ancient wringer washer anyways. It is just too easy to get my fingers caught in there. If you have not guesstimated, the washer is on the back part of the porch, next to the droopy lines.'

'It is just like the 1930's Frigidaire in the kitchen with the broken handle, which will not lock when I try to close it, and the cabinets that are way too high for me, that I need a chair to stand on to reach.'

'Yeah- just to name some of the old pains in my butt, which I have to use here on this farmstead.'

'Yet, I am blessed with what I have! Undeniably, it is gratifying just to come home from school, and have my bedroom that is mine.'

'Though on cold nights, I have to heat the upstairs of the house with the potbelly stove, that is right outside my room in the hallway, next to the staircase.'

'I guess that is uncommon for most of the other girls that go to my school. Like the other animals far off in the distances of the land, I may too, tonight have grazing period on something at some point.'

'To keep from passing out, or I may just go into town for something too... I do not know yet. It would be the first thing I have eaten all day. Maybe a midnight snack feast is in order, or something like instant macaroni and cheese, and a cold tall glass of Iced tea... tonight, yeah sounds yummy!'

'Oh, with something that is chocolate on the side also, ewe-yeah! Chocolate! Anyways, like I was saying before, I went off on a tangent, I step into the foyer of the dwelling when I come home.'

'I am greeted with the timeworn wrap-around staircase, which has been well acquainted with me over the years. The end column of the banisters shakes, rattles and trembles as I walk up and down, the squeaky risers of the steps.'

'It reminds me of myself every time I come home from the hellhole.'

'I am looking down the main corridor of the hallway, with its old incredible woodwork, and its yellow faded scrolling wallpaper.'

'The tarnished French lightings sconces flicker their soft glow onto the dusty crystals, that seem to rain down from them. The round Victorian hall table still has a bouquet of dead roses on it.'

'The pink and red roses were on there as long as I can remember. Overtop is the dusty, dirty, partly burnt-out cobweb-covered chandelier. The whole house has a gothic feel.'

'It is spooky, ominous, uncanny, weird, and mysterious, yet lovely at the same time.'

'The worn-out mismatched rugs are tearing under my feet, and underneath them are the tattered wide, dark, and uneven wood plank floors. That makes my feet, so sore as I walk on them.'

'I can see Hope she is slaving away over the cookstove. I wave, she ways, as the fire is blazing, with the smell of cinnamon rolls; which has been baking during the day.'

'She is not in touch with modern-day technology, she does everything the old-fashioned way. I will make sure to get one of those hot gooey rolls when they're done!'

'Hope- she does exactly what she has done over the year's inconsistent repetition and refuses to change. She lives life in a trance doing the same routine day in and day out. It is the lifestyle; she was born into and raised into, so that is all she knows.'

'Her dad was devoted Catholic and her mother in a tranquil Baptist grace. She believes in both ways, yet some parts more than others.'

'So, which leads to me being raised with both styles. Catholic at school, then somewhat of a relaxed Baptist, when I get home.'

'Additionally, she is continuously in the state of mourning over the loss of her only son, who died in the line of duty in the war against terror on 9-11, eight or so years ago, in 'The World Trade Center.'

'I try to comfort her nevertheless; I know that I am never going to be a replacement to Benjamin Huber Black, which was her blood relation.'

'I kind of remember him- yet not really. I kind of remember that day too, yet not really.' It is time to let Hope say something I think, Hope- 'Yeah while whatever... hi- there, what do you want!'

'Nevaeh- 'So, just say something to them...!' Hope said, 'Okay... what should I say? Nevaeh- whatever you like!'

Hope- 'Oh-hum- so, I am getting older by the moment, and feel as if I am weathering away. Yes, just one day closer to the casket.'

'The life I have had has done nothing but pressure me into becoming what I never intended to be. how is that so far?'

'Nevaeh goes on!'

Hope- 'Then again, look what I got to show for it. I got everything I ever wanted, just not in the way I wanted it to be.'

'Everyone that I cared about died, so I grew old too fast. Yeah- if you do not have anything keeping you young. What in the hell do I have to live for- Nevaeh; she is no comfort to me truly.'

'My Benjamin was only twenty-two years old fighting in the battlefields. Nevaeh is just there, just like all this work I must do. Nevaeh- thanks a lot... keep talking I am learning so much!'

Hope- 'Don't you talk back to me... you little brat!' She said to Nevaeh.

She went on to say. 'So, like I was saying every day, I like to sit in my chair in the living room when she is a school and go through the pages of the family album one by one.' 'Always knowing that when I get to the end, I will most likely close the book then start all over again, just so, I can remember my boy.'

(Nevaeh- she is yelling loudly!)

Hope- 'Girl... do you want me to smack that small blushing ass of yours, just keep it up!'

(Nevaeh sticks out her tongue and rolls her eyes.)

Besides, it speaks- 'Go for it, then!'

Hope- 'Nevaeh does not have any photos in my book; all the photos in this book are from my family. So maybe I will see if I can find something that I missed from before.'

'Maybe I will have to find one, that I can add to her that is if I can find one.'

Nevaeh- 'While who's fault is that?'

Hope- 'It is not my kid, why don't you, go be somewhere?'

'Then, looking in this book, every time something comes to mind that takes me back to when I had my son in my life.'

'All the things that happened during that moment in time, that are escaping my mind slowly are all there.'

(Nevaeh runs out of the room crying, to go play by herself outside.)

Hope- 'Let her go she knows when to be back!'

'Anyways like, I was saying it is comparable to beholding the photographs, reading all the notes he sent from the war and looking over them so intently by the light of the fireplace, my eyes shoot blood from doing so. Maybe I need to get new bifocal glasses.'

'That is my- boy, my baby, just look at him!'

'He is gone!'

(Hope- sobbing.)

'Each page comes to life, and the photo starts to move as if I can look into that time, and place just like a slow-moving film clip.'

'I can see all the scenes play out. I can feel, taste, and even hear it. I look at what was going on in the frame; as I view into every one of them, just like a porthole of the bygone.'

'Okay...!'

'I am okay now- one of the other photographs that I find unique and intriguing depicts this very house with nicely painted white siding and white trim.'

'And in the distance along the lane or walkway it used to be lit by flickering lanterns, those lanterns are long gone, no- there here somewhat, but they don't work.'

'Some I just had replaced with modern electric candlelight, so now some of them work and some do not, as of now I am too old and soberly to change the light bulbs.'

'This property is becoming too much for me; I was hoping that I would live long enough to have someone inherit my empire of dirt.'

'However, as of now, it seems like a far stretch to me. Some of these relics in this place make my heartbeat rapidly fast, and others bring tears to my eyes, some make me joyful, and others very disheartened. I am just tired.'

'I think that I have been blessed for all this time that I have had. Blessed for the times we had, and all that was part of my life, most of them are gone, and I am getting older, and she is an image of what I cannot be anymore, it is annoying.'

'Oh- hum, to be like her, and know what I know now! In my book with dark green covers, I start from the beginnings. I see the little faces in shades of gray.'

'Though faded I can still make it all out. I see me as a little girl and see all the places, that we saw as a family as I got older, like a timeline.'

'The first pages are ripping, tattered, and torn from being so upkeep. The binding on my book is hardly there anymore, you can see the string that holds it together, and some pages are falling out.'

'All these notes of my life are now stained, all the love letters he and I wrote with a pan that I had to dip into an inkwell; all of this is my life, he is gone too, I loved them so.'

'All these notes, some from my husband, some from the war, some from others that say that they loved me, this all tells a story, and it is just all history now.'

'Nothing lasts forever it is all going to be dust in the wind.'

'Evenhandedly, I gave you everything, just for you all to die with a smile; all we wanted is for you all to live for a while. No, you took everything and left me empty.'

'So much I do not understand, all I ever wanted to be was a happily ever after.'

'Yet, I am still hoping for it. I am so tired of being here, without you my loved ones; you are the evanescence of my Immortal love.'

'All of this time has passed, after you all pass away, yet it cannot erase them from me, now or ever. Both of your faces haunt me in this book, and also in my consciousness!'

'How you wiped my tears then, when we were young; I feel that nothing has changed, only the moment in time.'

‘You still have all of me!’

'In the summer days, after Nevaeh goes to her room at night. I look out my window in the summer, and my wondering eyes overlook over the honey golden fields and thick dark woods.'

'It splashes the sun's light and it shines my life before my eyes, in one blink.'

'As the sunsets, and I sit there eagle-eyed. The darkness comes to let me know, that I am sitting here in my home alone, on a summer's day.'

'My life is just like my husband's red 1932 Ford convertible, which was his first car; he loved his old cars. The 1932 automobile he paid 417 dollars for the car.'

'That was a lot of money back in the day, and I can still hear that horn.'

‘AHOO-GAH!’

'He always planned to fix it back-up as a showpiece, but with that said it never happened.'

'However, it was nice when it was new, not like these tiny wagons of today. It is rusting away now in the weeds in the front yard; it is somewhat next to the barn, which holds the other cars.'

'The 1932 automobile has a chrome grill that is pitted, and the headlight glass is now smashed, and the inside is trashed, from getting wet too many times.'

'It needs some love, just like me. Nevertheless, it is more work than what I can do, so it is just another memory of our memories.'

'Oh- hum, I remember, cherish, treasure, value, and faithfully honor that we used to drive around, running all the traffic lights, wild, crazy, a little insane as could be, and we shared our time.'

'In addition to that, we made are secrets in the front seats. He would kick up dirt in the air, as he would drive to our spot the gazebo on the pond.'

'If that vehicle could talk, it would remember more than I do.'

'I believe that pain is love!'

'Pain is all I have; pain is like the rain without my lover next to me, it is like the rain brings my pain and it- washes the memories away from my mind.'

'Pain and the rain are all that comes from these old eyes, which I rub red, pain as the rain that, I will cry over the spot in the graveyard, where more than one stone holds memories for me.'

All a little way away from the mansion home, that was part of me, as it is with Nevaeh. This is the same ground that will hold my old bones someday too. Said to say, just to be next to them; as I want to be as of now at this moment.'

(Out on my long walk around the ground and railroad tracks, I start to get into deep thoughts like always.)

'Sometimes, I wonder if Hope knew what she was singing me into in the school system, they had her deserted, in thinking she is delayed in the brain also, over her upbringing, or if she knew that my mother was saying, I was more than slow, as an act of revenge for stilling me away.

'Nevertheless, Hope had to sing me in or it would have been money out of her pocket for schooling for my delayed kind, where it was the school doing me justice for them to give me what I could handle in their mindset, or you're out a free public education.'

'Made to be nothing more than backward, yet I know to this day, Hope did not have a fair fight for me to stand, it was taking it or leave it contracts.'

'I am back!' Said, Nevaeh.

Hope- 'Where have you been it is 11:59 pm, girly, you should have been home at 10:00 pm, start explaining; you know it is a school night!'

'I was out!' Said, Nevaeh.

Then moments after said under her breath. 'Wow- she is so dramatic isn't she, sarcastic even, scornful still!'

'Right, I can just guess, you little hussy, seductress, I know what you have been doing with that boy, I am not stupid you know!' Said Hope.

Nevaeh- 'I do not even have a boyfriend, geez!'

'You don't think, I know what you did that night with that boy I do, shame on you girlie.'

'Confess?' Said, Hope.

'NO ONE!' Said, Nevaeh.

'...Tonight, yet you have been in the past; don't lie to me.' Shrieked Hope.

'So, we had quickie sex.' Said, Nevaeh shrugging.

'He smells like a boy, and I love that small.' She said.

'You are going to end up with a baby, that I will have to care for or lose the child by the courts, or this town madcap sources of you not being able to care for him or her. When I will not or have to have an abortion. Again, I will have to pay for, to hush it all up. Then where have you been.' Said, Hope.

'I was all over town and the land, and that boy is too scared to be with me, okay get off my back please!' Said, Nevaeh.

'He loves me more than you do, that I am sure of.'

'Just be safe.' Replied, Hope.

'Like I am not, it is all I think about being.' Announced, Nevaeh.

'Nonsense girl.' Whispered, Hope.

(At that moment, they both stroll from the main doorway to the formal living room.)

Nevaeh- 'So, anyway, what has happened to Benny is forgotten; then again, they brought what was left of his remains back in a cardboard box, without even the echoes of the bugle, call sounding off in the background for surviving his county as a young man.

'Hope held that military funeral the guns going off, she was handed a flag; yet, I don't remember everything.'

'For Benny's bravery, he got nothing in return, he was placed with all the rest that no one cares to truly remember.'

'I don't care to live.' Said, Hope.

'I cannot take much more, I feel the same way, I feel rather than being burnt up after I die, just roll my lifeless little nude body down the hill in a wheelbarrow, and just tip it and dump me in the Susquehanna River.' Said, Nevaeh.

'However, in all truthfulness, I do think that after my death though, I should be placed on the ground next to my loved ones; yet, I know I will, and so will you Nevaeh.' Said, Hope.

She also stated moments after, 'Notwithstanding, that is if I have any to pay for my way to be there, after all you know we're poverty, and your other side took everything, I have had for the most part, but this home, yet they wanted that too, I had to fight to keep, and yet I got you, they let me win. I get why, do you?'

'I remember when your husband Henry had a heart attack on September 11, 2001. When he was gazing at the TV, when he saw the airplanes go in, knowing his boy was inside the Pentagon in Washington D.C.'

'So, just like benny he also was left to be forgotten, upon the same mountain, with all the other forgotten bodies in the Gothic graveyard.'

'He haunts me, Nevaeh.' Said, Hope.

'Henry was one of those, 'where are my teeth- girly type of a guy's,' not much of a father figure in my life when he was here with us, more like an ass hole.'

'Then again, you are going to think, I don't like anybody that is not so, I just seem to find myself around all the butt-heads.'

'He was always so cranky, irritable, cross and crotchety all the time.'

'He likes to tap you on the head with his cane too, just to get your attention, saying, 'girlie.'"

'Furthermore, he smoked a pipe all the time. I remember he smelled of peppermint tobacco.'

'He is gone, yet, I always tried to be nice to him. So, it is just me and Hope here, in the old farmhouse now.'

'My room, the bedroom of mine is pink; the room where all I do is think. I have a bathroom attached with an antique claw-foot tub and pedestal sink. It is a land of imitation fur, which is pink.'

'The bedroom, where the day's events are a blur to me that runs together like black ink.'

'My stuffed teddy bear is my only true friend; we lay together on my bed at the days' end.'

'All the feelings that will never mend, all this time in my room I spend.'

'In my room, I wake up to the beep, beep, beep of the alarm clock, and throw my sheets off me, and I stagger to my feet on the weekdays.'

'Then, I see my undressed body in my mirror like always when I get up.'

'I grab one uniform from my closet in my room, and I start buttoning and zipping everything up on me. I do my make-up and hair.'

'Go down the steps; get my shoes on my feet that partly cover the fun socks that express me.'

'I open and shut the door; yes, that is every weekday. Then walk down the lane of emptiness, the trees stand like soldiers in a tension.'

'It is six in the morning, and the lane is eerily calm and quiet, there is nobody around for miles.'

'Yet I do not feel alone, I feel like, I am being followed by eyes in the sky others kine me of my kind, it is like it is constantly following me within the parting clouds, kind of like the moon, seems to walk with me, you know.'

'It is like something or someone of the occult, or even magical realm is advising, monitoring, proctoring, and directing, even my wings wanted to expand, in fear of what was around me while demeaning me in all the ways of the Earthly life, I had just the day before.'

'Even, just walking down my lane, I know what I now was, I am forever on the route, that seems to never go away or end; I have fallen like them, white to gray, gray to black the wings I hide from them all will be, I am certain of this now.'

'I was kind, good, considerate, helpful, generous, and tolerant they made me evil.'

'The sunlight slowly rises, and my face and skin start to glimmer, glint, and gleam with friendly affinity, and the sun shines through the trees.'

'The various animals speak up often; while the mysterious fog burns off which was once part of the night's low clouds.'

'It reminds me of myself every time, I get up to leave the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams, but unlike days past now it is like my hearing is sharper, and my eyes can see everything as if zoomed and for miles, and I can hear things movie that is way off as if my hearing is amplified.'

'I can move swift-like and run great distances in a way that is not human, from here to there and back in record time. Even run towns in minutes flat.'

'One- to hunt, something, I must do now even if I feel it is nothing more than killing, destroying, and murder.'

'True, I have to take young souls like mine, even if- I feel I don't want to linger within them to take them to purgatory if I don't that is where I will stay.'

'Two- to be able to spread my wings and fly, high in the heavens where there are no non-magical souls to see.'

'Three- also to let my glittering skin twinkle, and warm my cold unoxygenated blood, in the true sunlight without fear of how it looks.'

'Songbirds and they make their music, I remember days past, as I march along skipping down the path as I never did before. I step to the beat of loneliness, on a path of emptiness for the arrival of awareness.'

'I am in a haze and fog thinking about everything that would be going to 'The Underworld,' and then- I slowly awaken to the rays of reality, as I glow, and remember my past faith. Even now losing my faith, I still have it within me to believe in what is right.'

'I think about all the kids on the bus knowing, I could rip them apart now by the throat, and drinking the heavenly blood, with my fangs holding them down with my newly strong arms, and keep their souls, yet still, I can't yet think lingers in my mind as revenge. I could kill the bus driver to kind of like a bonus.'

'I whisper to my mind. 'Be strong, Nevaeh, remember you're a newborn fallen angel.'

'Walking along at my stature of under five feet tall, on this route, my shoes on my feet and my toes gripped in them tightly.'

'Like days past, I am left to be greeted by crossing roads, with nothing more than golden fields, and many lush big and small trees, as far as my newborn eyes can see; I only have one choice to make.'

'You know that scarecrow is not going to talk to me or get down on his pole and dance, and help me; yet right now, I feel like Dorothy, after learning my lesson. 'There is no place like home.' Nonetheless, I will never get that back after what I have done. Why did I give in, or did I?'

'Likewise, I cannot help but say 'good morning' to him- the scarecrow, yet there are no charms, spells, or magic, there only within me, I can see, it makes me question realities and even my state of mind or did I just lose my mind? I questioned everything and anything.'

'Oh yeah, I forgot all this was taken place in moments, yet time seemed to stand still. I giggle and say, 'you don't have a brain either, whoopsies, yet you have seen, and know more than them, by hanging and being unliving too!''

'I wonder if... I will?'

'My only choice being, the road that leads into the land of simulated hell. And as the bus meets me there, and I step foot upon the yellow vehicle of impulsive mistreatment, along with all the combats of retaliation; knowing I could prevail if in a battle.'

'The branches flutter by like arms that want to carry me back to the 'Dwelling of Loss and Lonely Dreams.' However, the vehicle is thrusting forward, sucking me onward into the pits of the hellhole also known as high school, to all the others, that seem so weak to me now, yet they have no idea what I am.'

'The road has its twists and turns; it seems to go on forever- yet not long enough.'

'However, there is always an end to the tunnel of trees. The light breaks through, and the sunshine's bright as it hits my face, with the hope of delight, but most days it is nothing but fright of darkness and gloom.'

'Also, now unlike before my mind was blank as if all voices were now off, I wonder if they would come back, it was defeating the silence.'

'I also wanted him in my mind, so all I did was squeeze my teddy, and suck my thumb the whole way to school, like the cute sweet girl, I once was.'

'Just like all these days, I wait for the revolting yellow bus to take me into the land of my most freighting, panic, horror, terror, and loathing.'

'I wonder, if I can make it through another day until it is the night, then this is unlike other days even if feeling the same yet not.'

'Remembering at the day's end there is no one to hold onto me tight, I wonder now if I will ever get someone to do just that. Nothing in my life feels right, as the day goes fast at times then fluctuates slowly at others. I just have to follow the guiding hope within me to keep it together, feeling baffled, perplexed, puzzled, and most bewildered.'

'I take my first fight, where the tracks hangover on the fare side of the steel viaduct, that has twisted and bucked from a storm hundreds of feet in the air I dive arms to my side with no fear, wings ripping out of the flash of my back, where my back is fully exposed, and even ripping irregular slices into my uniform top and jacket magically.'

'With the hope of optimism and faith, I take my end of the day walk, along the tracks, thinking. I do not wish to fall from the dizzying height unless most sure, as I have thought about doing many times, in the past walks along the rails of all falling bridge that hangs like questionable, mysterious tracks in the sky, piercing the line of Earth and the Heavens; and that I will never see more then, I do at this moment.'

'Now, I don't have to think- I can just jump freefall, and spread my wings and flap, fly, and climb great heights faster the railroads did in the yesteryear making it from one end to side in the stream of air beneath my wings, at last, I felt free, and found the place I was born to do this.'

'I sword with all the fog and mist so and the structure weaving in and out of the supports, I can see all the lovely sites all the valleys and trees, the river below, and all the mainstays of the bridge that still stand, and lie on the ground below me. This night for the first time in years, I was happy to go home, and the movie on living, even if not, I felt alive.'

'There was only one other thing on my hushed mind was without thinking was him like never before, as the true feeling of love, with my power of mind not being overruled.'

'I am a girl, at last, that is free.'

Chapter: 9

Dwelling of Hell

'The Oak View Catholic High School,' is the name of the place- that I nicknamed the hellhole. From the outside, you can see it was built in the 1940's it was meant to be an Art Deco style structure.'

'Though in the 1960s, they added on to the school and killed its former glory. They tried to make some of the buildings look modern and contemporary, which looks cold and unfriendly.'

'This building is so stupid in its floor plan, that rooms are cut off from the main hallways, for example on the basement floor, they only have one way in and out, and that is going up or down a long set of stairs.'

'Just like, I must walk through the woodshop classroom, to get to the other classrooms on the basement floor where I stay most of the day. There are no hallways down here everything is just linked up with no rhyme or reason.'

'What so curious is that if you are trying to get from the basement to the third floor you have to walk through some classrooms and the teachers get pissed off? Because you are annoying, irritating, threatening, and disturbing there- so-called teaching.'

'With that only path, the way I use, to get where I am going, I know that I am never going to be on time, until now.'

'Notwithstanding, there is only one main staircase in the configuration, good luck gotten up when the others are coming down!'

'The building has split-levels, what can I do? If you are trying to get to my one class on the third floor, will you know to just forget about getting there on time, most of the time, I am docked as late on the roll-call records.'

'The school is made like a labyrinth, a total puzzle, network of dead ends and doorways, and a complete maze.'

'However, if I am late it is my fault, even when the teachers that follow me around know what happened.'

'They do not believe that the other kids, slow me down over my being tiny, they are the blame or the poor building planning, yet go figure?'

'Therefore, so much shit goes on in these walls, teacher's eyes cannot be everywhere in these dead-end cellblock hallways and unused classrooms, that is still too good for the likes of us.'

'Oh, this is my favorite pathway for them all; I love this one. In this floor plan design, someone thought that it was okay to have one staircase going from the second-floor entrance down to the girl's locker room. Despite everyone uses it and they can look at us in the girl's locker room changing for class.'

'Yes, they can see us girls standing there they can look at our vulva's, all of us being smooth-shaven and completely hairless, and only one other girl in particular not so much, she is a tad bit trimmed with a triangle.'

'Yet, I am not going to say any names, you're smart you figure it out who she is you would know that girl is me.' 'Anyways the girls are all out in the open, with the unsympathetic air blowing in from the door, because of the observing eyes of the boys that are peaking at us.'

'Yes, the girls are standing in their nude postures, defenseless at any time in the beginning, and end of gym class.'

'By whoever opens the door that is linked next to, that staircase that goes up to the next floor to another door to the knower.'

'Hitherto, it seems that all the classrooms lead to other dead-end hallways, and random bathrooms, or random places. Where I sometimes, find the popular kids hooking up, you know having kiss time and fast pocking touching genitalia sex, as I do sometimes with him, and even her too, yes you can hear some of the girls thanking God, as I look at them in lust, with their dirty talk; as I push past, yet yesterday, I found out why, I feel like them now a slut, yet as a girl my age that is what you have to be to feel alive.'

'My lover even asked me why, I have scars down my back, as we had our affection bond, yet this would not be with whom you would think, yet I will get him today, I will pin him to a locker, and no one will stop me.'

'Then, I saw him walking towards me, I graded him by the pants and placed my hands in his pocket. I know he was planning to walk past me. Yet, I nabbed him knowing the eyes would be on us. However, I did not care, like what are they going to do to me now, I was becoming like one of them?'

'I pushed him to me, then very hard to the lookers with a bang, and I made him love me, like all the others, around us, and time stood still for me.'

'Yet, I like to thank God in other ways, yet now I wonder, like if I should, after all, hanging yourself is a lingering to purgatory then hell. I wonder if God could understand, or if I can make him in all the time in this world being ever-so trapped, I will grow yet much slower than the individuals around me.'

'I understand what I am.'

'You know what is thought-provoking about the name of the school is that no landscapes are looking outside anymore; because the school covered up most of the large split pain arched windows, with bricks, when they added more classrooms instead of replacing them because it was cheaper.'

'Although, in their eyes, that was meant to be a good thing, or so they deem.'

'However, the money that was meant to go for the building, I guess that it went into the pockets like some of the teachers get paid more than others, of the higher authority like my Grandmother and Grandpa, who pull the strings of the school system. We the kids sure did, not see any of the funding's for books, papers, technology, and education, they don't care about us.'

'Heck no they will not even put butt protectors, pads, and stuff like that in the girl's room for free, I would know just days before I was here, and you know how revolting these toilets are, that none of the girls seem to flush, I mean it is not that hard to do, push the handle.'

'Yeah, the dispensers are there, yet it is not like, I have the money needed, to get what I need, that is not a necessity as Hope would say to me.'

'Yet, I have to bring what is needed from home they say, which I buy, yet have no money too, and I run out long before, I can get more when I do, I cannot afford to get more. They don't understand I am a poor girl.'

'Therefore, I go to the school nurse and get one a day, all the days that I need to, and I have to beg and plead for it! Miss. Davies, she hands me what looks like a diaper pad, yet I use this over not being able to afford my own.'

'Come on really...!'

'I want something a little cuter maybe pink with flowers, and that fits me! I mean am a small girl! I am not complaining, but it is not comfortable, they are damp, and irritating, yes, and not all that flattering for me to walk in.'

'Okay, I am sorry...!'

'That is enough of me ranting on about that!' 'Yet, go ask for condoms, and you will get them no questions asked? I do not get this.'

'Oh, yeah that was just my life as a teenage girl bleeding out a lot, I am thrilled to announce I will not be doing that like that again ever!'

I will never have to say in ditto, 'forgive me, I am a little bitchy today!'

-Or-

'I just want someone to hug me!'

-Or-

'I want to cry!'

-Or-

'I feel emotional!'

-And-

'Oh, I need some chocolate!'

'Plus, I remember that kept going from hot to cold, yet my hands feel like ice.'

'I was jumpy all the time, around my time.'

'I was nail-biting are knuckles cracking, and the polish is falling off from chowing my hand.'

'All the young girl days lost to the remembrance of the past were, I had that itch that, I cannot scratch right now.'

'God, I feel fat, and can't button my skirt!'

'I am now delighted to say those days are now over for me.'

'No more, 'someone kill me please, oh- my- God, admin pain!'

'I remember just three days before; I have to squirm here sitting in class!'

'Not, saying- anything, with all the dumb pocking fun, in the room not getting what a girl like me has to go through.'

'Additionally, odd to say the blood of others now is what I want then anything to sink my fangs into, yet I need to control, and they can't find out what I am.'

'That night was, no dream, the demon hunter that was once seraph the purest too of white angles, I remember her how she once existed, yet now dark and she has power over me, to do what I have done as if taking over me, I was an ever-so succubus young woman.'

'So far, like- I don't abhor what I have become, and afreet, a female demon, know to our world as a fallen angel, believed to have sexual intercourse with sleeping man or young girls, to cast them to 'The Underworld.'

'And take over their minds, control their bodies, to they find they pleasure of wanting complete death in the vilest ways imaginable.'

'So, I, like my sisters, can still their souls, to the promised land they asked for, of 'Hell's Purgatory.'

'All for our masters, our evil grandparents, who sold us at birth for satanic sacrifices, to the devil's cult they serve of Death-deviator's, the shield of arms 'The Black Crow,' over us girls, all of us sisters were made of sin, by being bastard children to or unwed whore of a mother, that we must now obey her and the cult, to not prevent the wickedness they want us to keep forever in the afterlife.'

'And to think, I was worried about, the fact we are given one pencil for the whole year, it seems silly now, and I do always have a pencil for this class.'

'So yes, we must get our supplies- along with all my notebooks, folders- and whatever!'

'Yet my day is filled with light and dark magic now, oh yeah, the awesome, dark powers to bewitch the mind, positions to make them drink, to fascinate the ideas, that I want to give!'

- 'Death Spells.'
- 'Hurt Spells.'
- 'Resurrection Spells.' (I like my one sister has done for me, at the ending of my true life.)
- 'Banishing Spells.'
- 'Binding Spells.'
- 'Conjuring Spells'
- 'Energy Spells.'
- 'Nightmare Spells.' (As I have had pulled on me by them, to be here now.)
- 'Power Spells.'
- 'Revenge Spells.'
- 'Bad Luck, and Misfortune Spells.'

(I was taking up my time in my class of endless hell, thinking of a master plan, to save my kind with the light magic for the dark stolen throwing magical girl, yet of all things noble in hope for the fallen angel girl. I was thinking about a site, where this all could be a study in its world, all girls like me, I could see it already in my crystal ball at home that night; I knew what I was going to be, it was glorious.'

'So, the plywood covering the big windows on the inside was covered gold shag carpet where the windows should be, except for a few small openings that are covered up by old dusty blinds, that is over what is left of the cracking antique windows, that are broke and do not open anymore.'

'Despite this what is most odd is that the largest windows are in the stairwells the go from the first floor to the third story ceiling, and they are single pane glass they are shattered and leak air.'

'Sometimes the rain runs down the inside, they get covered with this like fog, that I can see the ghostly childlike faces of my world from the past children that went here looking back at me in looking for a savior, to the point it is eerie to look through them; yet, I wonder if that is just all in my mind too or not.'

'On the outside of the school, the contaminated brick is crumbling, mainly because the building is sliding down the hill that it was constructed on.'

'Everything in 'The Land of Many Staples' was built on the side of a hill or down in the valley where most of the town remains.'

'On the outside of the school, the contaminated brick is crumbling, mainly because the building is sliding down the hill that it was constructed on.'

'Everything in 'The Land of Many Staples' was built on the side of a hill, or down in the valley where most of the town remains.'

'I swear that the architectural engineer was stoned when he made this floor plans for this high school remodel.'

'Either that or he went here and wanted to get back at them. Who knows?'

'So, it is a new class, as of now, I am sitting in Miss. Lewis mathematics class observing the same stem and leaf plot lesson for the tenth day in a row. My mind slowly drifts back into time.'

~*~

'Back to a day that will remain in my mind forever.'

'The year was 2005 spring was in full bloom. I remember walking down the pathways, that lead through these lush gardens.'

'While I was standing along the red brick path that was part of 'The Andrea-Morgan Gardens and lagoon.' I reminisce about how, I would walk over the arched bridge with the stream that ran underneath, all the colors of the flowers overwhelmed my senses next to the gazcbo.'

'My rudimentary perception of the outside world of how it could be as a child.'

'The gardens, past the railroad tracks, and the whistle and X crossing sing, and split tracks were the tracks cover North West to the coal mines and to North End of town where there is on last village church from the 1900s, past all the hay fields, sunflower fields, barley fields, and yes also all the cornfields.'

'Sometimes, on my trails, I would make a stop along with the thick timbers, where this older man, would hideout and, would want me to run a few jars of moonshine for him and I did 10 jars for a dollar or so.'

'I could see the warm heat of the hot flames, the worm, the clear liquid running from the raccoon-pecker into more jars; I could see the copper still making corn whiskey, and I remember the small corn biscuits.'

'I just called him Popcorn, from the day we first met, when he said all youngsters like me did, and he was singing and dancing about, and did not even think to mind the oddities of that name; conversely, understand he was a legend in many states. or what I was doing was illegal.'

'Anyways that is how, I made a little side money, that no one needed to know about, it was about the only job I could get being me.'

'I walk through old stone train tunnel with a keystone arch, my little young feet in my girlie flats with my socks pushed down in them, one foot in front of the other on the shiny still rails, strolling through, however, this is my only path through the hillside in my walking path, that I want to for self-analysis and meditation that felt almost blessed from the heavens.'

'The place where- I could remove myself away from all the awareness that is in my life's past.'

'A land where there was no pain, no hatred, and no fear, that was not far from home new home yet far away from my old, yet far enough, from the new and old that I was at liberty to do as I wanted or needed or wanted.'

'This was a place where the stream trickled softly and the plant life grew wild, a relaxed atmosphere, where I finally felt as if there were nobodies' eyes upon me.'

'This was the outside, after being locked up for years.'

'I remember that this was such a tranquil, location, I was truly comfortable, spacious, rich, and happy, and I felt carefree.'

'All these pathways led me out of my hellish habitations that I remember always, as well as 'The Dwellings of Lost and Lonely Dreams.'

'This one time I was wearing a pink sundress and white boots. I had come to the end of the path. I sat with my knees folded up almost next to my face, to take a rest under the massive weeping willow tree.'

'The tree shades the flowers that are hanging slightly over the stream.'

'The tree seemed to move mysteriously in the cool spring breeze.'

'The gardens and its trees, and waterfalls upholds the creation of a misty fog which created the stream next to me. The bubbling waterfall adds to the divine, spiritual, apostolic, and consecrated feelings I need.'

'Some days, I would take off all the restricting clothing that I had on, and go swimming in the glassily golden looking pond, with all the orange sparkles.'

'I used to swim over to where the waterfall is, also get out nude to dive 200 feet into the waters below, and then I would get out of the water.'

'There is this leg under the falls, I would walk up to stark and stand on the immense rock, next to a hollow pool opening with soft glowing green water- where the sun would give waves of light.'

'The waterfall shower was falling on the outside of that entrance, where the cascading water would fall on top of me, moderately. Still, I was pressed against the grotto walls.'

'At that time, I was so much younger. Wow, that always felt so amazing to stand under and even to lie under as I did.' 'However, this one time, I was there, and sometimes had passed.'

'I opened my eyes out of surprise, to see that Codi Martinez was nearing the end of the path, he was my first crush. My first kiss on the cheek, he was, he held me in his arms as I would sit in his lap.'

'Like most days, I was sitting in a grassy patch under the weeping willow tree drying myself in the open air, that was the first time, I let a boy see me this way.'

'Yet most of the time the girl that, I spent time with, and swam with was a thoughtful, gentle, tender, sensitive, winsome, and kind young girl named Lily Anderson, she is why I came here most days.'

'I have admired, loved, caressed, saluted, soft petted and kissed a girl and loved this, I had just gotten done with my swim and I was putting on my dress.'

'I looked up, and that is when that girl she was looking over at me the whole time. She decided to sit down beside me, most days.'

'She reached over and held my hand for no reason, to find the weakness of needing love.'

'No one had ever shown me that kind of affection before, I was so nervous, I barely spoke a word; my breathing became rapid just, because of the way I looked at the time.'

'It was a hot and bothered lust to find young love, girl or boy at this point did not matter to me.'

'I was too young to know what true love meant, I was captivated by him, yet loved her more, and did not know why.'

'Furthermore, what all I saw, that he showed me, was the first time a young man ever did this, that was not mean, signify, intend, and anticipate.'

'That swim that we had that day together, was one that I will never forget. I still cannot believe that I did that!'

'Most nights from that day on we sat under the tree every night until the day became nightfall, one of those many nights, and soaked in the grotto.'

'I use my magical scepter of enchanting power to make a lustrous, zealous, and phosphorescent ball of glowing pulsating light to make the waters gleam, redden, radiate, and glow from underneath.'

'I was hoping that we would kiss even more than we did, after all, she was like me in many ways even with magic and falling like an angel, in that perfect setting. She became my best friend she was a girl that was a girlfriend like most girls have a boyfriend, yet she was the only one I could trust with all my thoughts.'

'Moreover, love was something we could not honestly hold, not over being same-sex- (girls,) more like we had the same bloodline down the line somewhere. How? I did not know. Yet I was told, by others in my class that seems to know more about me than I do about myself.'

'There is nothing more disappointing, than being in the friend zone as long as we're over feeling shame with each other, including descent, mostly blood, even if everything was ever-so right when together, and not genuinely knowing why it was.'

'Notwithstanding wanting move onward that way regardless of our relationship stigmas.'

'All I know is that to this very day, I dream about that time we had together grasped, that I can't live without her, but only with someone else that I dream about less seems unfair, if only he loved me.'

'I wonder what that first kiss would have been like back when I was about ten with that boy. I can say now it was more.'

'I ask this because being fourteen and never been kissed at all by someone I loved, yet have been kissed by man I did not, maybe that is why I can't find love in a boy yet like damaged, even so, all moments were a virtuous sensation to have, remember what it was like to my mind in the past.'

'I wonder what might have taken place if she would have been more open with me, without thinking as we are both accused of not doing.'

'Yet someone like Lily she was, I wonder why?'

'Yet after her death, I did not wonder anymore.'

'Although, I still do not know what it is like to have someone, which truly loves me now as she did even if so wrong.'

'I wanted her sex!'

'I do appreciate what that first passionate kiss would be like and miss it every day now. I have held hands and miss them now to hold, yet it did not mean much until she was gone without a goodbye.'

'It is like, liking someone when you are that age, and liking someone, as you are a teenager is such different things. As always everyone is taken away from me. Codi Martinez and Lily all that; I have loved either move away at the end of that summer or have passed on.'

'I have never seen or heard from him again, yet Lily I have. I still wonder why he never tried to find me; though, that is okay, because he is not my dream guy anymore, and Lily needs to let me go in her attachments to me, he like Lily were more than a friend to me in a time of need, yet I feel selfish to say that.'

'As I got older, the gardens withered away just like me. Depress, discourage, oppress, and saddened I heard the end of the class bells ringing out, snapping me out of my daydream of the remembrances of all things past.'

'Yes, I am now back into the real reality of the hellhole, looking at the black and white checkered board like a floor in this classroom, only on this floor, hand-colored butterfly dangle from stings dancing about above my head, from the ceiling ironically it a class about the study life, yet still thinking about my grandmother being my handler like a dirty crazy secret, that is my true existence in life.'

'All the catholic nuns that teach my main classes also in black and white, it was a theme to my life, yet the color is coming back gradually.'

'I sit and wait for my next class to start, I think and hum about 'Somewhere Over the Rainbow,' where bluebirds fly over the rainbow, yet why can't I?'

'I have my life's saving out on the old wooden desk in front of me, of seventy-five cents in the shape of Mickey Mouse ears.'

'I vow silence, as the teacher wants us, kids, to hack up a dead white rabbit for every two kids, for a piece of information, yet that I will not do, I am scrambled to the office for more enforcing discipline on me to muffle my brain, even more, where I can be anybody walking into the door by them, and sometimes, I pretend with my games and seldom not.'

'As I am making many black and white drawings depicting me at stages of my life for my book covers; maybe some color we wash in when I find happiness, I start thinking and make little riddles in my head, that I add to my book of life, that well become long drawn out novels.'

'At this time, in the moments that I have I look into my purple feline compact mirror that is cracked and a little shattered, that looks like a kittens face.'

'At that moment after getting yet more in-school suspensions tacked on to my growing list of 'The Bad Girl,' stigma.'

'Like, Pinocchio nose, listing more lies by them grow; yet, I am the liar, and the child just handled in the same a doll on strings, denominated as the child that is nothing more than an article of rubbish of misusing teacher and student participation, that takes away from them that want to discover what I don't want to receive in their teachings.'

'At that point, for being 'The Bad Girl,' my teacher's assistant ad teacher helps me go to Speech therapy class by holding my hand going down the halls, for all the others to see, as she drags me there as I am more than limp.'

'Oppositely, I am turned over to the local cops for crim charges, and handcuffs, of fighting my teachers and kids and given yet another uniform by the young kids holding jail, when all my teacher is doing taking me down when I need emotional support for being, 'The Bad Girl.'

'Speech class is only for me and two others that divide classes for me that should matter to my future, we do what is said to be testing in the subjects they think matter yet, I do not, in reading and understand words as we have word stupidity to the max, but that is a cover for what it is- truly brainwashing.'

'Simply, I open my eyes, and time has passed, yet have no memories of why, to see a bored grin of the creepy the teacher, of trust, being far too nice to me, know what she did.'

'She taps on the table with her pencil and it trains me to have triggers to the sound, sight, and even words.'

'Immediately, I am is in deep hypnotism, to keep me drain-dead so my teachers can keep me 'Sped,' at the tap of a click of a pencil hitting a stack of paper.'

'Finally, she gives up on what's made to look like an attempt to being trained nonsensical words, that I can't do, where I make no progressions in learning, yet have been trained to go backward in understandings of reading and writing.'

'Little do they know; I write it all down; even if they try to erase my mind.'

~*~

(Daydreaming, as I do a lot in school.)

'Someday, I would like to be part of the steel city and go out and live in Pittsburgh. I need to escape all my misery, which is surrounding me in the small town. When I come of age and am left go off by them.'

'Where the moon is shining throughout the night on the demand glass statues buildings which embrace the silky black sky.'

'So that, perhaps I can find what I am searching for in my reality, somewhere there is purpose more than think about my past. I need to find a brand-new place of signifying freedom.'

'Yes, I have come to believe that it is a cutthroat world, in my hometown; either you learn to cut or be cut by others. I have been there just more issues I have had, yet I don't expect anyone to understand.'

'That reminds me of some nights, and I do not know why, but just like roaring steam engines of the past, I walk along the lonely rails road tracks rails that are forever apart; never to be joined in harmony.'

'In a way, there are many crossing rails but no connections for long distances of those parted rails.'

'This reminds me of myself in every emotion in a romantic sense of my existence of life, long times without love or thinking I am lost, and just crossing intersections of tracks when romances happen; just to keep traveling the same line lost.'

'Although, in my real life of the past and yesterday, as a pre-teenage girl, to this very day, I started to wander, walk, and step along the railroad tracks, every day.'

'They have been neglected, overlooked, disregarded, forgotten, and ignored by the community; I live in.'

'I go through the cornfields of delight, enjoyment. Yet there are no fun, kicks, joy, pleasure, and thrills for me; It is like I can find happiness.'

'I pass the windmills that twist, twirl and turn in the night's cold breeze and zephyr.'

'This reminds me of the ones that mock, counterfeit, sham, and burlesque me to my face. That has someone in the night to tumble with similar as they do.'

'Nevertheless, they like to rub it in my face at school, that I don't, conversely, so they think.'

'Accurate for me in saying- yes, they remind me of the windmills, just like acrobats dancing in the night's sky, and also with me in the past with ones I never genuinely admired, cherished, loved and even chosen, I was adopted for what love and affection denoted in a state of mind, damage to me in my thinking, investigating, and discerning to this day what it really could be.'

'I can hear the haunting notes, tones, and sounds of the whistles from the ghostly railroad, which once traveled along here, as I am now, of the part they play in my mind in visions. I can feel the pressure as it builds inside of me, like the steam; I have to let it out, or I will scream.'

'I can feel the vibrations; though should I get off the track, there is a new modern-day train coming. I can see the lights now and here the dinging of the bells, a highspeed commuter diesel.'

'I don't get off until the very last moments when my heels slip off the rails. Furthermore, I know when I derailed, that it was not the end of the line; It is just the beginning of a new course for me.'

'It was in a shiny blurred and the air horn sound stretching in the air around; I mean yes, I do balance one foot in front of the other as I go back home.'

'These old tracks, run next to my home, in a long cover, about 10 feet away from the one side of the house as I walk along until I come to the bridge of dizzying heights, that has been bypassed with a new 8 miles longer; yet a much safer route.'

'This line was shut down in 2000. Therefore, like I still walk up to this bridge, yet can't get home this way even if shorter over it has fallen in places anyways it's a structure, that has been forgotten by the amenities.'

'The bridge was built in 1882, It once stood in bewilderment, surprise, wonder, and amazement of its engineering marvel. It was strong, durable, stable and magnificent at about 1,025 feet high.'

'Um roughly even higher than that, call me crazy, stupid, insane and absurd; but I would say it is still the highest in the world.'

'Moreover, I know that it was about 2,100 feet long, now that only about 600 feet are now still left standing.'

'However, one night one stiff breeze came through here, and it collapsed under its weight.'

'It was built of wood and steel it is a crumbling pile at the bottom of the valley.'

'It has served its purpose in the establishment of life; just like me I am slipping away, plus crumbling just like the steel beams, and wood planks that once was a masterpiece.'

'I wonder if my story will be a masterpiece too?'

'The bridge is dissolving just like I was every day, as I must undertake the weathering of the hellhole or high school.'

'I would wonder when I would get to the broken-off end that hangs like an arm in the sky if had I come to the end of my line too or not.'

'I taught this daily, to the day my ending if today was or should be the end of my journey along this run like this forgotten railway, and take the leap?'

'Including if I should I go back home? Where no one cares, if I live or not, go to school, where I have to go, even if, I don't want too, and they wish to my face; that I would kill myself, like the townspeople what me to do for being a waste of life.'

'I asked myself daily if I should go down to the bridge, and fly to silence, harmony, and rest?'

'I asked myself daily, which decision should I make, with that small voice in my head saying do it, and other screaming not too?'

'Despite daily I turned in the opposite direction and put one foot in front of the other then slowly caress the rails that lead me back to, 'The Land of Many Steeples,' to the dwelling of Lost and Lonely Dreams; where I would do my life on repeat.'

'Sometimes, I step off the tracks, I walk through the cemetery, and Lily grabs me by the ankles.'

'It is like she rises to hold close to me, yet this terrifies me quite truthfully, yet now we are the same, I understand.'

'Nevertheless all the day of the past up 'till now; I loved it, because, I cherished, treasured, worshiped and adored her, she was one girl that knew what she and I went through, and what I put up with now still.'

'Now it is just me, left agents them. So, I will tell you about her shortly, and why she was gone before me.'

'She grasps me in all ways, as I did her, yet she follows me on the trail back to the homestead. She is the warmth that I have now, as my blood is getting so icy feeling, as I transform into what she is now.'

'I look at her headstone on 'May 30, 1995, to May 29, 2010.'

'It is overgrown with tall grasses now, yet it was not all that long ago she walked in the halls, with all of us. I missed her so much, yet now she is back to me, as I am to her!'

'She was only fifteen, and her birthday was the very next day, yet she never got to see sweet sixteen, she did not make it nor did she want too, or her sisters.'

'I see my one pink rose, the only one she had, that I placed for her the time before; I was here over her grave plot.'

'I see myself in the glossy stone ones more, and I see that that young girl's face looking back at me, she looks just like me looking back into my eyes.'

'Also, this stone was all I have left of her until now, yet it is like her spirit is with me, now more than ever. I can feel it; I can feel her, and I even see all of her now in front of me, also fallen just like me, thanks to are evil sisters.'

'This is all that reminds me of what she used to be, yet a birth of what we both are now, the eyes that watch me here tarnishes her and me to the town, unlike me, she went into the ground, she keeps me from being next to her laying in the graveyard, just like her I can be in other souls, take them to save them, or steal them for my own, yet she chooses for me to keep my body as long as I can, as if magically persevered, thanks to her death wish, to go lower place in the afterlife to save me.'

'They don't wail about her being in her grave, and part of my soul going with her, when she died, they think it hilarious to see young girls die.'

'Yet, as for me, I'd cry for her in the past; intertwined entangled with her.'

'Some of these nights without her, I sit there until the moon shines on me in the twilight, furthermore, the rocks are shown as colorless shadows of gray; against the blue-black starfield heavens.'

'The graves are all that are alive to me even now, plus the world is dying around me.'

'If I could label what she was to me, I would say she was my girlfriend, and still is; Lily, she was so sweet, never felt, loved, kissed, or admired by a boy.'

'I think about her often, now that she has remained gone as I once knew her lost to memories that get succumbed in my mind, brain, and spirit.'

'Oh, some of the things we did, yet seldom it makes me feel down reliving the past, knowing she is not here for me anymore, alive, and I couldn't be there for her when she needed me the most.'

'Besides, I know that she is far better off than I was, that why I decided to join her.'

'I have to remember that some angels on Earth, are not meant to suffer, they're warm, caring, and loving. Will carry them away by their soul, like a French Kiss to me in a goodbye, on a magical school day night, and they will fly away and find genuine freedom.'

'Although, I cannot help feeling depressed because, I know that she was the only girl in this emotionless world that, I had an identity with?'

'Nevertheless, the part of me that knows that it was a sin... to let her pass before my eyes are okay with it because being locked up with her was the only delight for us to share were death was long-time peace, reconciliation, rest, and tranquility.'

'Yet the halls here that I walk in are that much paler, colorless, cold, bitter, boring, and dull. Now that she is absent forever!'

'I can picture her in my mind sitting next to me, yet- I guess I just miss my girlfriend, mortal!'

'I have done this for a year now think about life and death, how it is so final, every day until the last true day of my mortal life.'

'I could see my breath wobbling within puffs out of my mouth as I exhaled, as I still made my walk and saw all the seasons change; yet my mind I was numb, to terms and seasons.'

'Even at school, and days after Lily's death, so days it was like almost too cold to sit here in this form, in all senses tolerable, mediocre, poor, and common, yet I had too, yet she was always in my thoughts and prayers.'

'You know it is very true, I prayed to have her back as she was.'

'I can see now why I have become what they say looking back on my last year, I had an incomprehension, I had an unawareness to everyone and everything.'

'An unconsciousness state of writing my life down in notebooks as it happened, so that someone would discover, perceive understand and even discern them for what they unquestionably mean, yet I had naiveté to wanting to move on and learn; an innocence to myself and others even, with a pure unfamiliarity with whom I was on the inside and within.'

'I know the lack of enlightenment, I had regarding everything and everyone close, next, and near to me; I was walking around ever-so cluelessness.'

'I honestly weaved my caring toward nescience and lack of education, influencing me into what they wanted me to become, stupidity, foolish with idiocy and denseness of brainlessness, mindlessness, even more than what I used to be, making me have a case of: 'What is the Use.'"

'All this just to find comfort slow-wittedness, likewise, I did not heed in caring.'

'Yes, it is very true, I have found my stiffness, my thick-headedness, in my classes, now that have a dimness, of my full day- where I owned dumbness, and dopiness. Furthermore, was lost to a doziness of not minding anymore.'

'Yes, I have tried to walk away and leave it all behind me, but the bond was just too tight, she was always so snug to me, preferentially at least that is what the sisters said about her too.'

'She was so tight she could squeeze; I suspect as she squeezed me as we would hug.'

'You will get to meet the relatives and see them as I do; yet you make your judgments don't let me influence you.'

'Good luck you are going to need it; I know I do!'

'Like, I have said, she called me to her grave at night too, and what can I do? I have to go and talk to her.'

'She hugs me, and then, I come home and sit at the in the window undressed while looking over the train tracks that are next to the oversized bow-window, and fields of gold.'

'I just sit here in the window, while I am thinking about how I could tell someone what goes on in my life, more them writing it down in my books.'

'Including how my life is for a girl like me; I can still hear her voice calling out to me.'

'I have to stop, and just overhear it in my mind, as I did on that day, she was screaming for me, for help, and I did not go to her, in time over I was observed by them, no not aid.'

'I know that someday it will all come out in the open in an immense, huge, deep, and enormous way, of what they do to girls like us.'

'However, as for now, I just have to sit in my closet in a classroom and think, until I cannot anymore over pain.'

'Although is it okay, for a girl like me to come out of her closet, over my type of breed, and or would in the same moment of being pro-gay say, 'I should go to hell' over it? So, they tease me about.'

'Lily, she follows me everywhere as the spirit of a girl, that is fallen, she calls herself an archangel, yet I know that is not altogether true.'

'When people die, they stay the same age even in the afterlife this is something that, I found out as of late.'

'They look the same just translucent, natural, straightforward, plus manifest, and at times she is even like transparent to my sight.'

'Lily was always a tiny girl just like me, she stands at five nothing also, in a way we resemble identically.'

'Yet I never let it in, that she was born the same day as me so maybe we are long lost, twins, I know of another girl that was said to be the same as us to named, Naddalin. So, I would say, that I am a triplet; nevertheless, I never really meet her.'

'Still, her eyes peer into my eyes, and they look into my soul like they always did. If only, I could have helped her out sooner, but I was in a softened, reduced, an exhausted and weakened, position they had a hold on me.'

'Still, I cannot help but think we all have some type of value, even if I don't and neither did, she.'

'She was just like that spark of lightning that I see, when I stand in the rain with my arms wide open, pleading to God why she was taken away from me.'

'Additionally, I do not blame 'God,' even if I want to at times!'

'I can never be angry with 'God!' Yet that makes me simple to believe in something, that I cannot see, yet now after death, I can say that I have, and I can also say, that I was turned away.'

'She had a hell at school, and at her first home I retrieve fascinatingly deep in my mind.'

'I remember, that reminds me that Lily's adopted dad was her hero; because, for seven years a woman her real mother would stomp, beat, slam, sodomize, and tie her down, to a bed.'

'I should remember, yet I don't. I had to succumb and die to yield to remember everything, that was taken away from me.'

'Her mother, like my mother, so I would say our mother, would twist her feet and limbs until the bones would crunch; she even had her toes nailed down to the footboard on her little bed, so she would not run.'

'If she sprinted away, she would not get fair now, or if she talked back, they would wire her mouth shut after breaking her jaw. I know, I had it bad, but heir beatings were worse than mine.'

'Sometimes, she used a ball-peen hammer on her feet, and her toes would be where her heels should be. Meaning that her feet would completely spin right around.'

'Lily was given blinding with light, punishments one thing they did to her in the basement of the orphanage.'

'Given visual impairment, also known as or eyesight loss.'

'A decreased ability to see to a standard that causes problems not fixable by usual means, such as glasses. After all, that is the main reason, why she was in the program she could not see well, or walk well, with learned helplessness; making many difficulties with normal daily activities, reading, socializing, and walking. She will never be able to drive.'

'Lily her life was truly churlish; water torture was one of mom's and Grandma's methods in which water is slowly dripped onto the scalp as your naked on a wooden board tied down with straps.'

'Supposedly making the bound prey of us girls go insane, this is why we're both in emotional support in school now.'

'I remember the screaming, and long subbing of crying in my ears all night long asking for love, and help; most of them under the age of 10 years of age.'

'All some of us girls locked in solitary confinement always totally naked, where we sleep in their shit and piss.'

'In many stone chambers of a cell with jail-like bar doors, unveiled as the day they were born of sin, a lined in the corridors like a death row.'

'A death row for the so very wrong ones like us- the 'The Bad Girls.'

'Just the proper punishment for all the young girls, that were told they were crazy, erratic, insane, stupid, and mad.'

'Just like, I made powerlessly and had a helpless to escape the hell of the mothers, grandparents' hands of abuses, as their wardens.'

('Girl-81433, as the little silver tag would read.')

'She was drug out of her cell, by her arms next to limp, she was murdered not fully dead yet by the beatings she received, of thrashings, drubbings, whippings, and floggings by my sister's and mother no that wasn't threatening, creepy, frightening, and painful enough.'

'No death- would be far worse than death by boiling water while still alive as all had to stand as a witness, over the open flames of the furnace, in a massive corn pot was this girl bobbing, this was a means of execution, by the child in fighting back, in which the little five-year-old girl child was killed by drowning in a boiling water liquid.'

'Furthermore, that night she was served to us bad girl as a meal, and a reminder we could be next.'

'There was a girl that was crossed from me, I can still see her young face. Despite trying not to remember the pain of seeing a face I cannot forget, and life has taken.'

'I remember her only identity, being what I have here in my hand; this identification tag, that I kept to this very day, to not forget, even if I was helped to not remember.'

('Girl-81433') I remember when I took the tag of the nail it was hanging on with all the other ID tags, like all the other numbers in a row naming young girls that don't have genuine names of anyone caring to give, the other ladies would say to me. 'It doesn't matter what her name is like we're all going to be dead, that girl you care about is soup now, she's gone, and we need to exist.'

'Bone fracture with a wooden staff and even garden tools, for us all was common, even I have had broken bones, given to me by my sisters.'

'It is a true wonder, that I did not have a disfigurement, some of the others were not as fortunate.'

'I like all the children still have our human branding or stigmatizing denoting the method by which a mark, habitually is a symbol is burned into the skin of us living girls.'

'Moreover, also the number tag as a hooped piece of jewelry, with the purpose, was the resulting scar makes it permanent on the head.'

'The mark of the 'Fallen Angel,' this is what I was given, just like Lily including just like the foreign Naddalin.'

'That I forthwith cover over with my long hair. Just one type of body modification; or under coercion, as a punishment or to identify an enslaved us, young ladies.'

'Combing long nail torture was used on Lily's back, a signifying a red blood jacket showing that she was now a woman if she did not cry.'

'I thank God, I got out, just two days before they planned on doing that to me. Nevertheless, I have had rusty nine-inch nails through my young seven-year girly nipples and have also spent a night hogtied sleeping on a bed of nails.'

'Crushing or pressing was a method used to kill children, I even saw them use bricks to the heads of young girls, having intense weight upon a person by placing heavy things on their little bodies.'

'I never saw this, although, I was informed about ('Girl-30265,') being in this room, where the walls would slowly close in on her in a room engineered by the Grandpa; to mash children. I don't know, if that was true, she was before my time, so- I took it is nothing more than a rhymmer.'

'I have been through cutting, dehydration, de-nailing, the drowning feeling of been held down by my mother in a bathtub. I have experienced dry-boarding, flagellation all of this was done to me, and others in the back courtyard next to the graveyard, that was the playground.'

'Some girls skins were flayed, and their skins lie around, like bear rugs as the bones are sorted in the basement in pills.'

'Genital modification or even forced circumcisions were done on Sarah and Lily, I was there standing over the girls when Grandpa did it, who said 'I was next,' they did not do that to me, yet it was close.'

'I ask why?'

'I still don't know why, they did not; like, maybe over Ava wanting me for her love interest, and to keep the butcher knife from my clitoris. I announced in agreement, that I would be her delicate lover for life.'

I am sure down in the passages of the orphanage, oxygen deprivation was a factor to my education claims now, like Lily's.'

'I remember at time pliers, and to this day they make me cringe when I see them.'

'I remember them being used on me and others. I remember Sarah had a full teeth extraction by Grandpa, so she would not bite, the other kids and them anymore, she spent her days drinking her food through a straw.'

'My sisters finding all my pressure points, with their fingers and hands and tools, of their liking, when I was up with them in the bed chambers.'

'I retrieve all the remembrances of all the rape and roping of young girls for their giggles.'

'I recall all the sensory overloads, and all the sexual assaults of us young girls.'

'I remember all the sleep deprivation, all the rats poking around even in the beds as we tried to sleep, they were even crawling all over my legs and upper body too.'

'I remember all the sounds some extremely high volumes, some just at the active range, some at low frequency to make the mind hurt, some at high pitched noise, intended to interfere with rest, cognition and concentration.'

'God, I remember all the starvation.'

'I remember all the stoning's by other kids, in the yard, as they would throw rocks at me for being smaller and weaker.'

'I remember Lily being on 'The Rack,' a torture device consisting of a rectangular, usually wooden frame, slightly elevated from the ground, with a roller at one or both ends meant to pull the body apart.'

'I was on this thing ones too, for something- I don't remember doing, like if I did anything at all other than being alive.'

'I like was attached at the ankles and fastened to one roller at the wrists and chained to the other. As the interrogation progress would take place, of questions I don't remember, I think I was in too much pain and shock.'

'A handle and ratchet mechanism attached to the top roller was used to simply gradually retract the chains, slowly building the strain on my shoulders, hips, knees, and elbows and causing excruciating pain; until I agree to everything they say.'

'This was done to Lily to the muscle fibers they became so stretched extravagantly, she started to lose the ability to contract, rendering them worthless.'

'You know, I cannot believe that she was able to walk as well as she could.'

'I guess that is why she had an Individualized Education Program too.'

'She had a cute shambling walk; it was sweet, like her. Yet she was perfect, in her body, and her mind. We had so many similarities, yet we did not get to talk about that all that much, she did not like too. So, we talked more about that, what was happening in the now, and not then.'

'This woman would keep her locked up in a chamber that was cold, damp, and dark with only one light bulb hanging from wires under the tin roof tiles in the long hallways that seem to go on and onward.'

'I retain in my memories, there was no bathroom, the windows covered up with wood planks, with the smell of excrement everywhere in that cell room.'

'To this very day, nobody knows where this evil person went to our mother that is. It is like she was there and gone before anyone got to know the true story of Lily's mom, being my mom too.'

'Lily did not know that she could get away. So, that mother got away with all of this, I guess that she had a fear of the rage, fury, vengeance, and wrath that is why she never attempted to flee again, after being somewhat hobbled by Grandpa and Grandmother's walking stick's smashing into the tops of her feet.'

'It is amazing how someone can brainwash someone, that is that young. What can a little girl do? And what does a little girl do to deserve this? Additionally, she was just like me; she had someone that fights for her, which saved her from certain death too.'

~*~

Mr. Anderson- 'So what could I do? He said, along with, I was not going to leave her out in the cold the night she came crawling to my home, she said to me everything that happened to her, and I got to adopt her as my own.'

'Like how could, I resist that adorable little girl?'

'You know, I do miss Lily so much, now that she is gone, you have no idea. It is just not the same here without her around here in this home we shared, yet I am getting by, I have too.'

'I saw Nevaeh going down the same path, I was concerned. She stopped over sometimes, and it is like she is not even on earth anymore, I do know what is wrong, yet I am powerless to heal her pain.'

'She used to spend more time here when Lily and she would have their sleepovers. I do not know how to help her; I could not help my own, that I cherished so, I feel as if I have failed.'

'Yet, if I see Nevaeh, out and about, I always ask her to come on in and chat and have some milk and chocolate chip cookies.'

'Nevaeh, she is not like others her age, she is one of the once-in-a-lifetime types of young ladies, that speaks her mind, yet she is polite and charming, engaging, endearing, lovable, and endearing.'

'I remember that Lily always did have a way of melting my heart too, and I guess she always will. It would not have been for this little girl; I would have given up on life a long time ago.'

'It is not easy being seventy-nine and lose your whole life- my life was that girl. I guess that my assignment in life is over my next stop is up on the hill, next to her I presume.'

'Life goes by like a blink of an eye. I did the best I could, but I frequently wonder if my best was good enough. Maybe, I was too hard on her.'

'Maybe she was unhappy; maybe it was me? The only hobby I have, as I get older is looking at the scenery that surrounds me.'

'Looking over the pond that cascades a reflection of the trees on along the walkway. Plus, stumbling back and forth from the kitchen, I mumble in whispers, remembering her voice in my mind, while trying to write my fragmented thoughts down on paper, as they rush in my head faster than I can scribble with my pencil.'

'Oddly Nevaeh is the writer I am not, yet I have given her all my notes about my memories.'

'As you may have guessed, I do blame myself for her being gone! I always tell Miss Nevaeh, to put her life thoughts down on paper! Because of it a story that will be marvelous in the end good or bad.'

~*~

Nevaeh- 'Mr. Anderson was not Lily's real dad; awe, he is a wonderful older person, even so, he was like a daddy to her.'

'The story goes that one night; he had knocked on his front door. They're sitting on the doorstep was a little girl. She was only five years old at the time.'

'She was nude with a tattered blanket wrapped around her, she looked up at him and said- save me, and that is what he did.'

'Mr. Anderson was friendly, kind, cheerful, polite, and pleasant to everyone, but his love in life was caring for a girl he named Lily, that is what I remember him for.'

'He liked me too... however, the past two months after she did, yes, he was another one out of my life too. I still think about him, now and then, he was a friend to me.'

'It was said, Mr. Anderson when he first saw Lily when she was five, he did not know how he felt.'

'The feelings of being overjoyed led to the feelings of being horrified at what he was seeing, she had a broken cut up wrist and feet, and her fingernails were chewed right down to the bones.'

'Her eyes bloodshot, with tears running down her cheeks, and everything in-between was cut up, you could even see all the welt markings.'

'She did not even know her name, so she was named after his favorite flower, that he had everywhere in his home, as I remember.'

(Present time)

Nevaeh- 'I feel that I have been cut away from the umbilical cord to the womb of society's connection, yet I have to breathe on my own and develop my life-cycle.'

'People will come and go. Things will come and change. The pages will turn; the chapters will open and close, in my book of life, regarding all the sh-h.'

'Some of the text, which was written, will fade away, and a broken heart will mend. Yet some of it will remain in my memory bold and vivid.'

'Nonetheless, I have to understand it is all that I want to remember, and not what they choose for me to evoke.'

'Yet, I can hear whispers, undertones I can feel, whispers that used to give me a thrill.'

'Murmurs from the ones that kill, whispers that give me a chill, I recall whispers while trying to find love.'

'I hear them whispering from the wings of the dove, even the whispers from the above one. I hear whispers!'

'You know I think that life is all choice; one can either choose to live content or choose to live in suffering, torture, pain, anguish, and agony.'

'Sometimes one cannot have a voice, preference, and choice, furthermore, will have to live with the results, outgrowths, outcomes, consequences, and weights, of a towering entity and dangerous person's, that takes everything away from her, and that girl is me.'

'Yet, in my life, it is like someone is filtering, channeling, and monitoring all my life's events. They are the ones that give the allowances in the establishments in the society's circle for me to have.'

'They are the string that is attached to my like a puppet; nothing can correspond or takes place in society without the approval.'

'Just like the mystic, magical cards this one here is showing the 'Tower' in my life is my grandmother.'

'Everyone has to bow down to them or live a life of failure or killing.'

'Either way, I and the ones around me lose out on a life of liberty to decide on their selection or you could die just being my friend, or go to jail for saying, 'hey.'"

'I have a question, 'so, is it nature that drives us, or nurture, which possesses all of us?'

'It is just like now, 'The Land of Many Steeples,' has its houses of horrors and its many mockeries to the true faith.' 'The people contribute nothing to the utmost following of God's instructions.'

'There are more souls made than saved, no lives in this country have a clear understanding of what they are doing.' 'Most live life in their brainwashed rituals, which keep them in purgatory. Besides they do not know what to follow because it has become a routine of what they think needs to be known.'

'So, they prefer to not follow anything, and those are the one that seems to be lost on their path, or that is the way I see it. My path has its ups and downs also.'

'I have learned, to follow my heart, and go with my gut feeling. I believe that I do not need to be a bible fanatic to have true faith; I have faith.'

'All I need is to have a love for the man who breathed his last breath so that I could breathe freely, yet I was asked to see more than what I did at death, I still don't know why.'

'I ask him to do more for me. Yet, I have to do more for myself, and I'll know that someday he will answer me, with what I will become!'

'Still, I feel like this, there is nothing to do in this town. There is nowhere to go, no one to see, and no one, that cares about me.'

'I wondered before my death, how could I live a life of glee, happiness, joviality, and merriment; if I am not surrounded by people who are happy, or do not need me?'

'I like some in my grouping was just a part of the towns and school's unknown history, of no one, cares, and have been chosen to be forgotten until the time of remembering my legendary, and the others that should not be forgotten.'

Book: 2

The Forbidden Touches

Freshman to sophomore days, I am sick of chasing a fantasy that is never going to be a reality; truly, I just do not care anymore. It is like she is not the same girl anymore what happened?

~Chiaz~

So far, I cannot stop my feelings of wanting her here. I just cannot move on. Just tear out my heart and slam it on the floor. Your blue eyes shine it makes my heart sore.

You are my life; you are like an angel. You are like a knife, you are everything, that I never needed and everything that I ever admired. I wish you could see that; I am trying to move on. I wish you could see that; you are the one. I wish you could feel that I no longer care. I wish you could feel that I am still there. I can see you; I can feel you, and- do I need you?

Girl, I do need you.

Yet she is always in control, even now. I am nothing but a fool; I can tell you whatever you wanted to hear. All the words from the past there still unclear, I can tell you do not have to cry a tear anymore. You do not need me up there... do you see me? I need you... yet you are not here. What can I do without you? I do not want to say good-bye.

Yet you made me cry!

Blooming, yet Blurring Sentences

Nevaeh- There is nothing like the smell of blossoms in the springtime at night, in early May. The nights are long and the sent in the breeze is awe taking. I stand outside in the elements, and it is so lovely, yet it contrasts with the way I feel inside, it is like everything is taken away like it is fading away.

Everyone else can have their moments in elegant apparel ones more, yet I feel like that tree in the background that has no leaves on it. It has been left behind; with no beauty anymore, it is dead to the world.

The blossoms are gone forever in my mind, unlike my surroundings that are covered in pinks and whites, the beautiful colors that cascade to the ground that show the end of what is no longer a season of time. The white blossoms are like the memories that I can never have.

They symbolize to me what was there when I was younger, and like that- now she, the girl in a white lace dress that was named Lily, she has been sealed away in her casket, that is now in the ground under my feet for all time.

Yet, everyone else they are blossoming all around me, yet I am not part of their surroundings anymore.

The little girl has fallen like a petal in the wind without me, and the dead tree on the inside is all that is left behind.

The time we could have had together is no longer there, or going to be. Just like the holding hands of the past are now part of the white blossoms of the springs of days gone by.

I have forever disconnected away from the branches in which bring us together. The beauty of my life is gone, and the flowers have bloomed for the last time.

Nevertheless, the memory of white, not the colors will be the memories that will never be forgotten, since I have never been allowed to blossom with another.

All my colors fade to white. On that spring night, moments that do not feel right, observing all the blossoms in stunning white, wishing that I was part of the magnificent sight. Then again, we could have the only blossom when the time is right, on one of these beautiful spring nights, I guess that was not what was right?

Summer break seems to come and go so fast, and then it is back into the same routine of hell. Yet with some new faces, the classes are all the same, the teachers are all the same... as for me, my life is the same.

Yet with one girl in my classless, yet- 'One year down, three more to go.' In my time of grieving, I sometimes went to The Jena May's Family Restaurant, I did not eat much there, I tried to make new friends with the girls on the job. I cannot have what I had... No- that was a waste of time. I knew that... but I tried, no one can replace her. In that restaurant there is a relaxed country atmosphere, it is the only restaurant in the town really, in 'The Land of Many Steeples', which slops out what most would call respectable food. It is an enjoyable place for all, yet the faces in the crowd still stare when I am in there. Most of the girls that work there that are my age or younger just hide in the kitchen when they see me sitting there, and talk about me.

Likewise, because of that, they stick me with the same crappy, snotty, and just plain creepy- freaky waitress every time, will saying I stock them to the town and the police. Ha, yeah right keep dreaming. The people in the restaurant see me and they turn away in fright. It is the most common method of disapproval by society, for instance when two individuals are sitting in their booths.

Yet slightly turned away from me with their one hand pressed against their face, while looking at the other person and talking about me, at the table, I know the whispering is about me. Whatever, say what you want, I am not going to stop you, or change your mind and what you think. Life is all about reading someone's body language and figuring out what they are truly thinking. I know that I am not welcome... anywhere in this town, it is so apparent to me anymore what they are thinking, and projecting to me.

However, they just do not realize the signs that they are giving off... or maybe they do? Hello- I am over here, I am not a piece of shit, you no! I find this to be kind of pathetic, to think that I am the one that is supposed to have a staring problem. If that is what they want to say, I cannot stop them from making judgments.

If you stay at home, and mind you are on business then they labeled you like a creeper. However, if you go out, and try to be nice to people, talk, and socialize with them then you're considered to be a stalker... you just cannot win at their games. I did not know that small talk could be so terrifying.

Nor do I care what they think anymore, I have learned that I have to be perfect in everything I do, why? For the reasons that everything I do is amplified by the tower and her clan. In other words, everything I do is known or twisted to be known in different non-beneficial-ways.

Do you understand that? I always have to think twice about doing something or being with someone, since there is always a setup waiting around the corner. I wonder what it would be like to have so-called normal parents, and not an adoptive parent. I have a so-called family, but they do not truly care about me.

I am forever an orphan in my mind, and that so-called family, they're just a waste of life in my opinion. Besides, the ones that want to be part of their lives existence they just let them slip away, while they turn their backs. Yet they cannot figure out that I do not care what they do, nor do they understand that I do not want to be in their existence. They have no time for me, nor do I have the time for them.

Then life moves on while the others fade away- that is okay!

This comes to my mind, for instance, being at this restaurant, I see a family together and the parents were socializing with the children. I wonder what it would be like to have a family. I see a father as he affectionately runs his fingers through his teenage daughter's hair. I wonder what that would be like, to know that he cared that much, and cherishes every moment of being together.

Though just like everything else in my life, I was cheated out of that too.

Nevertheless, I know someday that I will have my own family and something that I can call my own. It is just a matter of time- hopefully. All the same, I see her mother sitting there staring at her cell phone, without a care about anyone or anything except that device. I wonder what that is like too.

It makes me cringe to think us a society cares more about electronics than our families; yes, I find this to be disturbing, but what can I do? So, some-time has passed, so I get up, and I put my money down on the counter, next to the register, $3.00 for a cold cup of coffee. I give her a tip of what was leftover from my five to that girl. What is her name...? While the two other girls look at me bashfully in the back. I think that they both have the same names if I recall.

Anyways I walk in-between the tables, I see the door, push the door open and I hear the doorbells jingle, and slam on the glass. Besides, they all can come out from hiding now. I am leaving. Yapper- I think... I will go home now while walking I ponder this- Life is rebellion, either you are told to do something, which you do not want to do; or have to do it because it is what you think that you need to do. Either way, you just cannot win the game of life.

We as humans are born helpless, and we pass on helpless, only if we can survive to old age. We live in a land of death, yet we still have hope in this cold world.

You just have to look up to see what you need. Besides, what I need is a way out of this hell! It is like some of this human in my life have infernos within their eyes; it is like they are the ones that are trying to extinguish all the unity of compassion out of me.

Either way to them the world with me in it is never going to be at the right Fahrenheit, the book of life has been set aflame to burn, so they can get rid of me too, or so it seems. I find myself getting more and more disturbed, and disturbed by them and what they do. Nobody wants to listen anymore.

No one hears what I am saying... yet I can scream it, and nothing happens. It is like I go to, be left only with an empty void of spun webs, in my brain for validating this life I have to live. The unacknowledged barrenness that was once thought to be wise in my mind it seems to be fleeting before me, as I become more like the others in my grouping, there are trying to make me senseless and to know only what they want me to know. As the days passed, I learn nothing, nothing at all!

Zip, zero, and zilch, the only things I learned are the feelings of pain in my emotions and regressing in my education. I find that I get so upset, by not getting out of this, and knowing I cannot ever, it makes me glitch as if I do have some kind of not right thing to me; I cannot even write a word down, because they make me so tense, annoyed, and humiliated.

That is what they needed for their label. They made me be like this! Just like this is the same books I had from before, I am not in first grade! I am not like this; I have been seeing Spot, Dick, and Jan... Run for over nine years. I know the fucking story! I do not need to do these little notebooks that are so insulting to my intelligence, which does not even form real words.

Most of the time it is like just match the pictures. I do not need to have books withdrawing in them; I can invasion in my mind as I read for myself what the story is about... I do not need your educator to read my novels for me day in and day out. Like it is storytime... to gather around. So, do you want me to suck my thumb too?

Besides, the schools shrink, hell- she is a lot crazier than I will ever be... yeah- so, suck on that! Oh, by the way- 'You did not raise- Me.' If anything, you are a scar on my life. You are not a help to me at all. If anything, you, Miss. Roth is a hindrance. Yeah- I think she is losing it... kind of like her pantie hose, which she has on in the beginnings of the day, yet not at its end. Hum- do you have to wonder how that happened?

Yet, it is no wonder to me why she drives a big fancy Cadillac. For the reason that with all the money I have made for her over the years... while you can get the picture. They mandatorily forced me into that brain-numbing bullshit for a reason.

Their greed leads to a rich retirement of accomplishment, while as for me I only have a trademark of being a loser in not having a life or being able to make a life for myself! All you so-called teachers at the hellhole you can shove you are- 'Hooked on Phonics, Woodcock test, and you are Speech exercises up your asses, until you choke on it, as it comes back out of your mouth!

You think that was tacky phrasing. Ha- I was holding back, ask me in person, what I think, and you will get an earful!

Likewise, you reading to us every book, and every direction, along with every- single-thing else, like the Scantron tests is beyond embarrassing. It is like... we cannot do anything for ourselves, or so you all make it appear. Yet, I just have to sit not chit-chatting anything here falling apart, just like the chalk in my special teachers' hands.

'What is the use!' Sure- I write the notes, that look as if the teacher is trying to go for world domination. It could be in Spanish; I would not notice any difference. This is not learning. This is abominable!

Yes, it is bad, it is kind of like this pungent musty, dusty, moldy odor smells that are in this room right now, it sorta' of leaves a bad taste in your mouth doesn't it.

Oh, a bit like those poor dead cats in the bio-room in their boxes with their embalming fluid- yuck! Anyways I have most likely have done this before in this class too, just like all the same lessons I have completed repeatedly of my years in school. This is so beneath me, knowing that I have seen the same thing for years now, along with the same rejects' faces, and the thoughtless actions they do.

Like them running around the room and yelling, breaking the teachers' chairs from whirling around the floor, slamming books on the ground, grinding and snapping pencils, banging the erasers together to make a dust cloud, making farting noises from both ends, some guys making sounds like the girl makes when she is getting it on... like- owe yeah.

One can even rap, jumping over or sitting on the on stable desks that tip over. Broken calculators, whiteout splashing, ink dipping, paperclips bending or linking, Paper cutting with kiddy scissors, and staples through the finger or ear.

They will try anything to piss the teacher off in any way possible- you know, that kind of stuff is just my existence. Wow- how do you like that for run-on sentences!

‘See, see... I- is smart he- he!’

Like the others, they get the proficiency, and all I got was my brilliance of what I know completely sucked out of me. It is as if it was beaten, hit, and bitch-slapped all of it out of me.

Now I have left with nonentity; nil- not a thing, but their substituted ways for me that are recurrences day in and day out. That goes for everything, it goes for my sense of mind, how I talk- if I can, think- if I can, and act- if I can. They make me have the- ‘I can’t attitude.’

All the same, just like I look and try to speak on the walls of the spun networking webs, on these computers that they have in the labs when I have spare time.

Only for me to think that on my walls there is nothing but cobwebs to an empty, block wall of gray and that blue ‘F’ for the failure of sucking at life. Since there is no one on my profiles they have unknown and unfilled spaces.

How do you add, what does not want you, and blocks you out? For the reason that I am a reject... it is just like the spiders that crawl up these walls here in this little room at the hellhole next to me- that is what I am placed as- just like that spine-chilling and gross insect of a bug that needs to be exterminated, before it creeps away on you.

No, UN-ah- I do not like spiders they make me squeal in class when they crawl up my inner upper legs. I believe that this place needs to be condemned it is just that bad. I can scream at the wall, with no one to view it, or hear what they have to say?

Either way to me, listening back for their reply on the walls and what they say just leads to more cracks in me, and in my foundation, that I call life existence. While some rambling and incoherencies make no sense, yet it is liked. However, the scripts that have meaning behind them do not realize when they're read... if spoken at all. I just do not get it!

Like- Sam did this, and Sam did that, Sam posting haphazard photos, No- I do not care if you have Sam in your skirt right now, He- he! Wow- I need to get out more! I have confidence in saying us as a society holds the torch; we need to make the right decisions so that we do not end up being the fuel that is burning. Society is not allowed to think for themselves, because of the towers that rain their fire hoses of destruction makes sure that they abolished all wisdom in someone like me.

We have become fools the rejects to the walls, wearing a cap with bells, and tagging judgments just so that others can hear our crying out for attention.

‘We have become its jester.’

We have grown into hermits to the screen's lights, we are seeking the answers alone in the dark. Even so, the soft light is no comfort, why because it needs to come from the sun and its hope, and we must learn to shine in the absence of the light of the lit walls of cyberspace, to become lovers to one another, and the world.

That is what I think is right. What do you think? Just like that one card I have the hanged man- Do not become hung by anyone or anything.

As you know I have tried that and it did not work, yet I got a second chance at life, also with a strange ability to see things differently, which is out of this world. It is funny how that night I thought it was all over, we are up to the night of my attempted suicide.

Well, you will see what I mean shortly.

Yes, after my first year and Lily were gone, everything and anything, which happened to me... I did not want to live anymore. Yet, I feel that I was born again if you understand what I mean. You know if I thought that it all was hard on me then... I sure did not foresee what was coming up.

So anyways I feel that you do need to cram your eyes with wonder, however, make sure what is being seen is moral. I feel that it is more eccentric to dream about reality, then being part of an irresponsible fantasy. Just like you will never know who is at the other end of a workstation! From listening, comes wisdom, from speaking comes repentance and ignorance.

That is what I have learned. Back at the hellhole for the second year on one of the days that run together, I am sitting in Mr. Kingsburgh's English class; he suffers from Parkinson's disease, his voice trembles. His body rocks side to side, he takes his sickness out on all the students referring to them as idiots.

Saying things like 'How did your children get up here, in this high school? You cannot read, you cannot spell, and you guys cannot do anything. Why do you all not just drop out, and go to hell? So that I do not have to look at your ugly ass adolescent faces anymore!'

Yes, Mr. Kingsburgh is such a positive role model in all our lives.

While Mr. Kingsburgh is stuttering and spitting all over everyone, I look around the class, Jackson Alfaro is making that annoying clicking sound with his pen. I see a vacant desk where Ava Amsel supposed to be, she cut class to be with the higher authority in the janitor's closet. Jack Baez is our class feminist; his hobbies include performing in the band with the color guard twirling silks and rifles. In addition to David Dawalinsky's having his hand between Liz Remaro's knees, her sighing breaths are propelling on my nick, or so it seems.

The Keyboard avatars or that is what I call them. Anyways the hellhole society refers to Jack as a faggot or quire on the walls, those names have replaced his true identity, yet his gender selection is on known. Yet he just seems to be that way. However, it has become known as what is implied, I ask: even if so, who are they to make such judgments? Yet some people can touch and feel, and nothing is said about it, and others like me, feel like we are constantly looking into the glass of reflected rulings by the others that only see what they want to see. Brandy Pacheco is composing love notes to Lenny Sanchez and passing them around the room, while the paper airplanes fly around the chamber. Andy Galvez is staring a hole through me, with his I wonder what is under the clothe's eyes.

'All girls know that look.'

Jenna Ordonez is picking her wedgie, she thinks that no one is looking at her, or she just does not care about modesty... geez- either way I am stuck... looking at what she is doing, because she sits directly in front of me. A bunch of thoughts, are running through my head like, why is it that there is never a clock in any of these boring classes? Why is it that the rooms are always dimly lit? Why is it there are always blinds covering the windows, with no natural light? Why can we not lookout, and see nature?

Why must all these walls be made of cinder block, why is this I ask? It seems like the classes are never going to end, until you are ripped out of your daydream, by the eerie sounds of the end of class bells once more. Just to have to go to another one, and then have to sit through its torture.

‘I have become comfortably numb.’ and I do not feel anymore. My dreams feel like real reality, and day-to-day life feels like I am not even there. My body is just like an empty shale that I am stuck in now, that seems to be cracking.

My mind is still sprinting around the room. What to say, what not to say, what to do, what not to do. Do I look okay, does this uniform look good today, my hair looks like crap? AHH! Is it time to go home yet! My internal voice does not shut up; it runs fragmented thoughts constantly.

Yet my exterior voice does not stand up for me, yet all those words have to make sense. So why say anything at all. Sometimes I jump five feet in the air when the voices come over the intercoms, and it screeches in my ears like Miss. Manco’s nails on the blackboard. The message sounds like it has no rhythm or conclusion.

Just more shit my brain has to process.

Who did this, and who did that, I do not care to hear about it. It is always the same names over and over anyways. I do not know how to show love and passion, but I want to learn. But - up until now I do not have any teachers that care.

My mind is itchy with curiosity, yet I have no way to scratch that itch.

‘Most just stick it in your face, and make you smell what they presume is wrong.’

The so-called higher authority they are just as guilty, if not more than the youth for being despicable. I wonder if I should just give up on him too like he has given up on me!

The hellhole is just like jail the walls hold you in and compresses your thoughts. At first, you hate everyone, and everyone hates you.

Time goes by and you get used to it. Why? Because you have no choice... then you start to look to them for guidance, you listen to what they have to say and you believe what they are saying.

Without a freewheeled thought to do whatever is right for you.

Now that is what institutionalizing is all about.

Do not let someone tell you who you need to be, you have to be your person. If someone's critiquing- analysis about you does not meet their so-called standards than that is their problem. That is just how I feel about it anymore.

If you do not like the way, I look for example my hair, clothing, and aesthetics of style... then do not look. I do not have the time to satisfy you. You are all alike! All of you that cannot think for yourselves and text sixty lies per minute.

Your chatter is all just ill-advised opinionated views of judgment, from the society, which all traces back to the tower's- the grandmother's words of slander. I just ignore them and keep being whom I want to be, not what they think I should become. I think this because you can never please an ever-changing society's opinions; it is not worth the time or thought of mind.

'Shut up and mind your own business!'

The English teacher Miss. Bradbury, she is so mouthwateringly evil. Anyways she is the same one that I will have all my years here, makes us feel as if we are mentally incapable of comprehension. Her process of teaching is for us all to clap along with every syllable to every word.

'This woman is just aching to get me into trouble or write me up for some ridiculous reason.'

Yes, she will even give us detention for not participating in her degrading rituals. All the workbooks that are used for the class are beneath our standards of acknowledgment and ethics.

However, she is demonstrating all the alphabetical sounds and vowel shouting at the top of her power of speech- flapping around the room like a chicken, making the floor shake from her big chubby plump ass, which jiggles side to side. While she is tripping over are five or so desks, which are crammed in this tight room. Do not rub that thing all up in my face once more; I know there is not that much room in here- but please. Ewe- it is butt sweat!

Yet, in a way, she roars at us like a grizzly bear, with her snarling teeth. There is snot dripping from her nose. She is eyeing us, little children, with terrific intent.

There is always some kind of stain that looks like tea on her shabby flapper out of style dresses, yet who can get past the face that seems to be drummed up from the depths of despair of the underworld. Why does she do this? So that the entire hell hole establishment acknowledges her vocal performances,

‘What a bitch!’

We have to sit in this closet, with the door hanging open, and everyone viewing walking by or going down the corridors.

‘Ha! And I wonder why I cannot get a date?’

They all are observing this despicable embarrassment of us having to follow the leader in what is called the sophomore year of high school. It is like having white fangs that annihilate your willpower every day when you walk into that classroom.

She likes to narrate and spit and sway while reading books like ‘White Fang’, ‘Frankenstein’, ‘The Giver’, ‘Fahrenheit 451’, she is spitting out the words as if we do not understand the storylines, every Wednesday. Yet for me to read something for myself that is wrong.

Just like- ‘A Tale of Two Cities’.

‘It was the best of times it was the worst of times.’ ‘This is not an age of wisdom for me. It was only the age of foolishness, as I perceive her tongue wording.’ Every other day it is back to the baby books and workbooks, other than on Fridays, oh just wait until I tell you about that.

So, just like ‘The Giver’ is only transmitting pain; the receiver has no pleasures allowed within this controlled civilization of education. We are just like ‘Frankenstein's monster’ people are never going to accept us into their society.

Why, because of what ‘The Giver’ our instructor takes away from us with their segregation. Yet, ‘The Givers’ feel like superior teachers.

How do you like that for comprehension!

You know I think that some people have the objective to just get at you; I seem to bust my ass to become someone in this society. Yet the higher authority does not want me to succeed, they want to see me, founder, in the bombardment of flames, like kerosene on a book's pages, until I disintegrate and crumble to nothing but black soot on the floor at their feet.

I suppose that it does not matter because; the country is going to blow itself up long before I have to struggle to find a job. Yes, a job that only pays two dollars an hour, all I have to say is save your money now... because you can kiss your retirement goodbye. We all are going to work to the day we die. That is if they do not find a way to kill us first... like with boredom or mortification in what they do here in this room!

I think that history repeats itself; a revolution is on its way. Are you going to be ready or is your head going to be buried? Then again, do we have a choice in the matter? I say that to my teacher, and he looks at me as if I am on something.

Okay- see for yourself someday. Just like I do the work, I put in the time, and I like to be challenged. I do not do the homework anymore, for the reason that if I would... I would get the same grade as if I did it or not. Still, there is a limit to the point that, I just do not care anymore.

Why?

Because- what is the use of caring if I am not going to be anything in their eyes or appreciated. But then again if I am forced into something, I guess I would have to go through with it though? On the other hand, when someone says that I cannot do something that is when I have a new fire under my ass; to show him or her just how wrong they are in their judgments. It seems like everyone is trying to piss me off. Me, unlike the Amsel sisters that show, and uses everything they have just to get extra credit, I would never put out just for higher grades in any classes.

In a way, it kind of turns my stomach to even think about what they do.

What goes on behind some closed classroom doors- will never be known...!

So-o!

(Saying groaning!)

Do you remember your fifth-grade classes?

The only thing that I recall is my teachers saying one word over and over again. The hair, the face, and the fiery eyes, it still creeps in my mind. This person makes my skin crawl. Let's go way on back then...

Welcome to classroom 202 that I called 'The Mind Warp.' Miss. Caballero is teaching style was to hand me a worksheet that I did not know how to do, at the time. Then scream at me saying quote- 'fix, fix, and fix.'

'How do I fix something, that I never learned how to do?'

How about instead of playing Solitaire on your computer, why don't you do your task, to motivate and educate. This is your obligation and occupation to do so! So, damn-it just do it already, and stop wasting my time, because, in all honesty, I don't give a shit...!

Fix- it is just a dick-faced word! A word for those that do not want to explain and clarify, a word that teachers use to make us kids feel as if we are the problem.

So, that they can have a high paying job and have their authority and power over the meek like me.

What do they want from us? If we try... what do, they want us to know- obviously nothing? You know there is not a day goes by I do not have shame... not for the reason that I am here.

No- it is more because they thought I should be. Anyways just, stamp me as the failure, besides stop assassinating with your words, which echoed around that I suck at life, and I do not want to learn! Just stop it! It is not me, that needs fixing!

In addition to that, what is so intriguing about this is most of the time I had the work correct. She just wanted to SCREW with my head. Yes, she did a damn good job, in making me-numb to life, and my surroundings, all the way- back then! Yes, if I was not isolated up to this point in my life, I sure was after this black hole that pulled me away from all interactions. I did not think straight for several years after her brainwashing... if I could think at all.

'I forgot everything... yet remembered it all.'

I can still see the red pen that made all the slashes on my documents as if it has been written into my mind.

The stories of the past will never go away, and the new one cannot be written the way I would like them to be, do you see what I am saying?

Looking around the room you would see the books that twist your brain into knots. In the far back of the room, you would see the Apple II series computer with its awe-inspiring eight bytes of power.

In the middle of the room, you will see the blackboard that sucks all- common sense out of your mind, every time something is scribbled upon it. Along with the dumb names are reading groups had- like this one The Gun-Dumbs... yeah- I do not know what it means either.

You can see me chomping on a lemon Jolly Rancher candy as a reward for becoming lonely and loony. Until this very day when someone calls me Kid-o it makes me cringe! I remember the teacher's assistant Miss. Ramirez; she had to leave halfway through the year because she could not stand it any longer.

Oh, how I was screamed at, and unequivocally mentally battered from it. Most likely, it was a good thing she was there when she was or I would have lost it. Furthermore, to report it... the situation would not go anywhere, and she would lose her job in doing so, always silenced and hushed- up was way it had to be!

Yes, seven hours in the mind warp every weekday, with the other rejects is enough to drive anyone insane. I feel bad for all the kids that have to sit through this philosophy of being programmed to fail and being marked, as a waste to the society in future classes, just as I am. There is just no need for this sinful diminishment.

Kids are not stupid, if they see that you are being classed differently for some reason, then the interaction is not going to happen. This is despicable to even think that the higher authority marks this as developmental issues, what a joke!

I remember the day I wrote this- Sharpened pencils in a cup, all the days I wanted to give up, will I ever get caught up, and all the wrongdoings that have been erased or covered-up. Oh, yes just slap a gold star in the middle of my forehead.

Brainwash me, until I start thinking that I need to stand in the corner and suck my thumb. You would like that, wouldn't you? ha, ha, ha, I find myself laughing myself silly- then crying!

The Ways of Life

(Present time)

Social Studies now there is a fun class, not! The teacher is named is Mr. Trudeau he still is rocking the long hair and the 1970's look.

He sits behind his desk and the computer screen lights up his face; because the room's lights are always off. He does not say more than two words to the class.

He lets the movies and the projectors do the teaching for him.

It is hard to have an attention span in this class.

'Does this guy not give a shit about us and the upcoming generations?' What is his malfunction?

No one in the class is caring about the movie, most are texting and talking loudly to one another, looking around the room you will see the class clown Aaron Montez answering every question that is asked to him with 'That is what she said.'

Judd Espinoza is rambling on about drinking two six-packs last night and making out with Selena Enriquez who is only in the seventh grade.

'That is a sick dude!'

Selena's hobbies include horseback riding, mudding and lying down on her backside riding him, yet she is a wonderful girl to know, or so people say. Then there is me taking it all in, and I am wondering how much more of this I can take. Mr. Trudeau is too engrossed in observing whatever is on his monitor to look up yet we all can guess what is on the screen.

Yet, that is amusing to me because the teachers are too focused on meeting state standards, 'You can kiss the arts goodbye.' So, they cram too much information through our eyes and ears at once, and we absorb nothing. All this shit on these multiple-choice questionnaires adds up to be nothing, but an ambitious failure.

To me, a worksheet is nothing compared to having educators communicating on a high level to the class, with all the students that learn differently. Sorry to say handing us a worksheet is not going to teach us anything but frustration and saying the word fix is not the way to teach.

Plus- having segregation provisions that some have to do against their will is just going to put everyone farther behind. This annoyance should not even exist in my opinion.

When you finally get out of your cell long enough to take a class with other individuals, the rejects still get segregated. One of the higher authorities calls out your name in front of everyone, and they make you feel like you are, so special... like that you cannot even walk down the flipping hall by yourself. Just so that you can enter back into the closet once more to do the work that should be completed with the others in your class.

At that point, there is nothing you can do, because all eyes are on you, and you cannot refuse or they will put a big fat red failure on your paper.

The hell hole society does not let you forget about it either.

‘They like to take a big wet juicy bite out of your ass.’

Yes, just to remind us of our existence every day, especially if you are in the rejected category. Oh, the higher authority wants to make everyone think that we are unable to interact freely. But then again how can we when we are only around the others for two out of seven hours out of the day.

You learn what you want to learn, and if you do not pick up on it at the time, you will at the right time for you.

I do not know what I am looking for anymore. Everyone and everything looks the same to me, I do not look at someone from the outside, because that is so deceiving. The beauty is only skin deep, I can see through you. I have a good idea of what you are all about.

I know if you are going to be for me or against me at first glance. I can read you just like an open book.

I know that all book covers are misleading. It is a must to read between the lines of the individual characters, and that is when it is acknowledged with me what to think.

I can figure out what anyone’s interpretations are, and if I want to be a part of their story or not. Just because one is well cultured, and observes the world that is before them does not make them strange.

Each one of us has our unique way of expression- like me.

Besides, sometimes, an expression can conflict, yet not meaning to; just move on, do not fear rejection.

‘Do not let the fear of the black ink spilling all over your drawing stop you from creating a masterpiece.’

The laughter is seen in my conscience, yet it plays out silently in my mind. My entire secret admirer base is left to admire, they have to close the door from the heart, and they are shut down if they desire, Because of the control of the tower, she holds the master keys. The tower and her clans can turn their backs at any time or face me, yet, there are cowards and fearless at the same time.

They cannot look at me because, they know that I know what they have done to me over the years, and also her, and the others in my group. All I can say is turn your back no one wants to see your face anyways.

You have nothing, nothing at all, yet I cannot stop you from turning on me! All that you care about is making up lies; to try to heal your abandonment that was in your troubled past. You are a miserable excuse for a human bean, so pathetic you have to feel wanted no matter the impossibility and your lust for acceptance.

So, I ask: How does it feel to be breaking and crumbling down to nothing in society- or are you? What you have done to me is nothing compared to what you have to undertake, before your existence concludes. This will affect you considerably more than it ever has me.

I always try to find the good within anybody or anyone including my expectations. I am not going to stress over trying to make myself appear to be something I am not. So... what I am saying here is just be you, plus that is more interesting to anyone than putting on a bunch of fake lines that mean nothing to them.

Oh, I can feel you calling out for me, but yet you have no voice as of now. Only with the time that can change, what is branded will truly be known as false, so that we are redefined you and me, and we can establish this just by are phrases that yell loud and proud.

We are stronger than ever by the powerful voices of harmony, which brings us together. This is only a melody that we can make together that is us being united with one another. If you stick up for the underprivileged, you can kiss your life goodbye.

Here in 'The Land of Many Steeples'... Some of their dates and their mates, some just have them handed to them. While some have powerful parents that do the dirty work for them, a prime example would be the Amsel sisters. This is life give or take!

What I want seems to not mean a thing to anyone but myself, and even so, I am still forbidden unlike everyone else that has their moments in the golden hayfields. Their bodies ride against the breezes just like the windmills that are in the hazed background of the rolling hills.

Oh- yes, they can have their many escapes from 'The Land of Many Steeples.' They can express their deepest desires of expression to their significant others. But not me... I have been forbidden to, I thought it would have gotten better with time, however, the words that are expressed go down the line to the next set, and it proceeds down to the next generation, and so on. It is hard to lie in the fields of gold when there have been so many false stories that have been told. As for me, - I keep steaming down the same old path, seeing but never being stopped to take on any passengers, that I desire or that desire me. My moments walking along with hayfields of gold remain as withered memories that sting because they do not exist, all I have is the colorless snapshots in my internal vision of what I think it should be like. However, I know I have admirers, and their lips are stitched shut, yes always forbidden to speak out.

Then again someday soon you and I will walk upon the fields of gold together, and we will be united when we become a couple.

Can you see the waves of barley?

Can you see it as it moves and whispers peacefully?

Can you see us together hand in hand?

Can you see as my hair falls upon the ground?

Can we stay for a while with one another as we are holding-?

Close to what is in the silhouette?

Can these all be shining memories they will last forever?

Can the sun rays join us while we are upon the blanket of gold? Will you ask me to go there? Is this something that you would like to share? If you only make the dare...!

Oh- how about fair...! Back to reality, I have learned that some people think they're so much more superior in their overall existence. 'Will I have a reality check for you?'

You are not as good as the gum on the bottom of my shoes. If you do not want me all the time then you do not need to want me at all. Do not be my friend in secret, to have me gain trust in you just to have me lose all faith in you forever. When you turn your back for someone else you think is more superior, just remember; I do not forget, and it is hard to forgive, especially if I have not done anything to be sorry for, yet you act as if I should. Even until now, I still have to pay the price to the tower and the clans.

'I was in the path of the blizzard, who knew that it would last this long. Is it bad luck, or a hex, maybe it is a curse?'

Mother's Day- and Father's Day, and most holidays are a depressing joke to me because I do not want anything to do with my mom, and as far as I know, she is out in some big city driving all the men crazy in more ways than one. My dad is most likely a skeleton by now, and his headstone is all I have now that repeats to me of what a family must be.

Halloween, you cannot give out candy anymore for safety reasons, carving pumpkins and dressing up as a slut is just not my thing. Whom needs Halloween I have enough witches, and devils pounding down my door and infiltrating my domain, in the true day to day reality, plus the tower and clan make sure that no one is knocking on my door.

You just got to love Valentine's Day; it is summed up to me as a national single awareness day. The last time I had a valentine was when I was in the second grade, and I still have it on my nightstand... him.

Yes, I am a train wreck and I know it... I wish that people would stop breaking my heart. I guess I do not need anyone to eat lots of chocolate! Just like Easter comes and goes, with its depressing consumption of chocolate once again.

Is it wrong to get the pleasure out of biting the ears off a chocolate rabbit? I do not know... nonetheless, it makes me feel better. Yapper, chocolate makes any girl feel better!

On the 4th of July other people's fireworks go boom and bang and have been popped, but not mine... but I could care less. What good are fireworks if you cannot observe them with someone that truly cares about you or you care for them?

Thanksgiving what do I have to be thankful for? Let's see the only thing that comes to mind is... me being around so that people can torment me.

It is not like we can sit down at the table and have a conversation anyways. The food is slammed down and it is always cold and tastes many days old, with the only words whispered being 'Pass the gravy.'

It is just she, and I at the head ends of the ancient wood table, which wobbles, there is a matchbook under one leg. Of course, our chair's creek, and slightly fall apart as we sit down in them; we do not eat until 9:00 pm.

Why?

I do not know... so maybe that is why we are so cranky; we just pain ravenous.

How could I forget this... now there is my birthday June 19 is not much of a holiday but it might as will be for me, it goes by just like any other day. There was only one girl on the web of friendship, that said- 'Have a good one.' yet she is gone... not going to have any this year! Yet anyways friendship should go beyond getting a birthday wish on your wall. No- I have not unwrapped a birthday gift in years, if ever.

Christmas comes and goes as if it never happened. The white lights strangle the tree half on and half off, just like the new lace thong string panties that I got myself for Gym class days it was a gift to me from me. I had them on today... yet they were uncomfortable there to nice I do not want to stain them, so I took them off myself- this time, so I set them beside me on the floor. My old ones have been torn they were washed far too many times.

I am sitting just like the lonely tree in the living room, in the bay window nook, I am hugging my teddy bear, yet for me- this is what happens every day; even when it is not Christmas. However, as of now looking over this room, the tree is dying and the mantle of the fireplace is completely naked too. Why has the mantle remained untouched?

When I masturbate with one finger slowing going inside and out of me, until I come all over the window bench, looking downwards at myself well arching forward, breathing heavy, to the last finger push inwards, pulling the one middle on out seeing it all bubbling out down my vagina, see running down my in between my cheeks in past the butt opening, I am cover in the creamy whiteness that I do so well, myself, not sure if that is right yet feels so good, yet dirty all at the same time I may just do this more.

I did think I was able to do this like that, for me without feeling this way, I always have someone there looking so look at me from the window it's okay... if she walks into well so what, I have to girl-cum as I heard the girls say at school, I want it too, like they do more than I, ever thought possible in one sitting, lying back feeling sliding in and out! Pinkie, ring finger out and like the index, and the nasty long-on in the come here yet upside-down finger movement slipping inside and me pushing down doing the reverse to bring it back out over and over fast and fast until it guesses out of me, and get this it feels good, so why is it so wrong, in the past to me?

Make sure to trim and file your fingernails beforehand to stop any little accidents. Once I am all ready and set up and in the mood, all naked, like- I am when I come home and have the nightie off that hangs from me and get annoying, it's time to start fingering myself, and see what happens, I have done this since I was nine, yet felt like something bad would happen like I would push that little pink button in I would die, I surprise myself by want to touching my boobs, more now than ever like a boy was in my dreams.

Or even her, I seem to be liking her more and more, for she makes me feel good about what I do. I knew she was looking at me, so why do, I feel that it was all so wrong to do; if she would have said stop yet she said she did this two when she was alive I have seen her do it, way more than I in her room with me to show me what to do, saying why not. That on the finger is now sliding down my chest over to stomach until you can feel my button (clitoris) which is just a little outside my black porthole (vagina) and I can see is all now, the hairy is there, yet trimmed up at this point, I feel there right I have to grow up, and not hear my caretakers' old ways of thinking, no longer will I just shave up to the knees, I will do it all.

(Flashback- Lily flourishing)

I said, what do I do here? I asked Lily the award little nasty question as she was looking at me standing there with face up close looking at it is snickering cutely. Besides she did it for me, saying here, this what you do in the font, and then she said I don't mind bending it over and will get that too.

Pre-trim your pubic hair, she said, here let me have these so you don't hurt yourself! God- girl you are clueless about life! I- am? Razors are designed is not fun, so I'll do that too. (See it happening) umm- she swilled out eyes closed tightly, she was tripping, it all good it's the early 2000's now shaves this shit fairly short hear, I don't want to clog dull thing up with your gross long hair, so just look at me doing this so I don't have to again. Trim it UP- GOD, gently pull the hair out and cut it away, and we'll move on here.

Cutaway from the body Nevaeh God Freaking shit, you're seriously not that dumb, and then cut it back with smaller sharp scissors, do you even have clippers? If at all possible, find some Jezz-us, some equipment here please with safety guards to the dumb girl doesn't have to go to the ER, shaving her lips off. Okay just get that raiser you do your legs with it is old but it will do the job, stretch your skin tight. If it's loose, you'll end up cutting yourself. Got yah that why I did want to do this...!

Razors... they can only do their job well on nearly flat surfaces... awe. Or new dumb-ass, I get you one from my home. With your free hand, stretch your skin tight and hold it firmly, see, how easy this is to do, go do I have to do it all! Make it easy on yourself, she starts below her bellybutton saying you know what comes after this...? I think so...? (Cute and award fooling around girlfriends) pulling the skin just above your foamed-up hairline upwards. Where you go from there is up to you.

Chop it all off? ALL!!! She said. Hello, see this here; look it's going to be like that now! It feels nicer! Here if you want just to do- this with the line. And the girl may stop picking on you in Gym class. God, I have to do the butt hole too, like- do I get paid for this shit, Nevaeh? Oh, just kiss me and get it over! Your ass, or your lips? My lips, okay I will... (She kisses the one that she wanted to kiss the most and that was them down there.)

Nevaeh, I did mind it was nice to have some that wanted to do that to me like know boy was... so yeah, I will go with it is all the same if she is wanting me, and I want her too, even if that is weird for me to say. So, I did what I felt was right in the heat of the moment, like she did. Just kiss it off I said, 'Oh shut up you know you want it like this.'

'Okay I do, then do it all.'

Lily- Baby powders this little thing down, it absorbs into the pubic area, which can reduce irritation and bumpiness, and with the thing I sure that is going to happen. 'WHAT! She said.’ However, some care must be taken not to get any of this powder onto the very sensitive areas of the vagina. ‘Nice!’ Just dance- now for that- looks good too!

You’re such a weirdo! Lily’s methods showing herself to her: Below your clit that is this thing here, using just one finger, you will be able to feel fleshy folds of skin on either side of your vagina. These are your labia. To be right about this all you need to see it, and if I have to be like your girlfriend, lover or sister then okay, I will be your anything at this point for you to be with me the way I want you to be. And that just has sex with me. And the girl on girl you have to do it like this... or alone thinking about me. I think about you doing this all the time. I know creepy right, I said. ‘No- it’s kind of sweat’ she looks at me with big eyes, turning her head.’

These are the outer folds on each side is called the labia majora which is much bigger, while the inner fold of skin is called the labia minora, and is much thinner and ‘lose yours not so much, you’re a virgin.’ And you’re not, will not to a boy yet... have I lost it, to you if you say yes? ‘That’s on you, and I’ll go with it, (I am not gay you know) oh come on it just girlfriends playing and feeling.’ I have to break you open you know that it needs to be done away, like who were pads these days, just use there... here is a box of them, when you feel that you need to, instead you have the choice to, hide them so they don’t get tossed out. She twisted up her lips to her mouth and said:

Begin by lightly trailing one finger over your outer lips here. (Labia) Most girls like me will find that as they run around the outside perimeters before going into the line, they naturally start to get wet, see this as she pulls her finger away, and it was sticking the goo-ic-ness. If they are already turned on, there is nonstop, just ask my panties and skirt this in school when I see you there inform of me. I get so wet for you; this wetness will act as a lubricant on your finger also see mine going in you so easy. Now you try, on me, and then one yourself, and I will see you do it, and the other way around. I broker just some to get one in, I know that she wants to be with a boy someday, I did not want blood, just the band in-between was open for me. It will be hanging there like mine, yet be daring like this bit here, in a snapped rubber band, of skin at the top of the black hole as you call it, in a V-ship. I will rip it at the bottom so it stays there until someone rips this in or off, and that can be you or your boyfriend if you ever get one, and if not, I’ll love ya. ‘Where just to girls that know we can get a boy.’

(Read in a cute, yet very sensual way.)

As your finger gets covered in my inner body made lubricant, I start to slowly press the tip of it in and that rips, once in, I start going in and out of her vagina to check how it feels. And see if she is sighing the way I want her to, and she is.

We both did this- She pushed her finger in and out, it will get covered in more and more of this wetness and pre-cum, allowing you to easily slide your finger deeper and deeper in the cunny- whole. Slowly run the tip of your finger along the walls of your vagina paying attention to what feels most pleasurable. Feel it out and see if you find the spot that makes you feel like you're going to gush it all out of you, stay with and do it until you do, it's not hard if you find it and are relaxed, it just like squirting!

If not right find what is with you or her, by the way- she looks and moves for you. What you find most pleasurable will be different from each other is not all the same yet enjoy it anyways- right? So, focus on the movements that you find most satisfying and don't worry too much about being right on or there the first time, get better and feel it out. As well as, it's okay to go as deep as possible, I want to feel as if I am having sex, pushing down and in, that how it works, fingering yourself should be about getting as much pleasure as possible. On the other hand, if you have never fingered yourself before, then it's a good idea to experiment with how deep you like it and that what we both did to ourselves and each other this night.

Fingering Your G-Spot push your finger in and out of your vagina, I said to her, you'll notice that pressing up against certain parts of your vagina feels good, and has its feel that in-golf like somewhat rough, If you have slid your hand down your stomach and then started to finger yourself, try curling your fingers backward as we did before, so that you are pressing against the upper wall of your pussy just like this, now I will pull out and you do it to me to see if you can find it, This is where your G-Spot is located, she said.

Yepper- that's right! (I was one happy girl.) You'll know it when you press and rub it because it feels like the back of your palate in your mouth when you suck your fingers like I had you do for me too. Some even describe it as feeling like a wet raspberry. In other words, it feels soft with tiny ridges. Try concentrating on the G-Spot for some intense orgasms.

Ahhh- the spot comes, there are many different G Spot massage techniques to use to make yourself squirt that I cover in the squirting article here.

Before continuing to the more advanced techniques, there is just two more quick, but important kneed-bits I need to cover with you. So, if you feel the need to pee every time you finger yourself and stimulate your G-Spot, it's not pee...! Just let it gush out! don't worry, it's perfectly normal.

A great tip that will minimize this 'needing to pee' feeling is peeing right before you masturbate. Simple :) Now that we've covered the ABC's of girly-ness down there, here are for keys on fingering methods, which you can use to make yourself cum and have a lot of fun.

Pressure Pressing technique works mainly well if you find it tough to have spot sprays. The tricky part of this many girls like you face is that they just can't put enough pressure on Spot to have its build-up, during fingering themselves. The fix is easy... you just need to squeeze your tight down on yourself down the and spot contort from the other side, or like this see this moving in and out as it dips in and out of there.

So just finger your spot as you normally would, and then place your other hand at the lowest part of your stomach thrusting upward to your ceiling it may seem firm, yet it's not, just above your bone where the hair was, then softly push down, on your finger or toy, if you get one like this, so that you can feel your spot protruding more than normal, just doing this... You'll notice that this makes it easier to provide yourself with more spot stimulation than normal, do you have a hair-brush?

Mid-fingering from behind, we can this too, it's fun and not hard to do together or apart I said to her. Another way to finger yourself is from behind, like this. Put your hand down your lower back, over your anus and then into your vagina. Once you enter you're the lips and are in start rocking like this, if you curl your finger backward you can do that too, this time you will be stimulating the opposite side of your vajaja to your spot, and you gush like before, it may be more for you will find out- won't we.

Dual hands, one over top the other, fingers in-between fingers' this last fingering technique is the best if you are someone who normally struggles to reach orgasm when masturbating, like here, the use of both hands. Or just to have one that is hard and sprays all over you and your bed.

I do this for clitoral stimulation, for the most part. Fingering, after all, should be enjoyable, not shameful as you think, everyone is made differently... You-no!

(Looking at the lady-lips, and the hips, and the hooded-ness-)

To look at you and me and you'll see that...

I have this...

You have that it is right- okay don't say it not.

So, have fun and enjoy your orgasms girl, you see that I do.

With me or thinking about me or even a boy, like it's not wrong to do that!

Fantasize about a boy even if you not in- love with him, it helps. If you enjoyed my tips on this article but want a true sex master-or the class, then you may be interested in watching this blow job tutorial video where you'll learn my most powerful techniques & tips for giving your man incredible oral sex.

(Me on the same bench doing conclusion or her existence-)

This room is always bare just like me; the falling needles are littering the hard-wood floors, just like the teardrops and blood that is falling from my blue eyes, and my upper inner legs. They spatter to the ground, just like the trees red satin balls that drop from the branches that are older than me.

A small red orbit is just the same as my- a hollow cavity and the red colors remind me of the stands that on my skirts, all the threads are snagged from being rubbed raw until my interior trimmings explode onto the floor like this broken ball.

Outside the green garland on the front porch is mismatched and it hangs insecurely, and just like me the icicle lights are hustled by the sisters as they walk by my home, and they jerk on my white braided strings so harshly till they snap and the plug is pulled out completely, left to be tattered.

On the Holladay nights, I generally look openly and naturally lying out on the window bench, sometimes I will draw a heart on the frosted windowpane while feeling the icy cold air blowing up and down the entire length of my nude body- why not.

This jogs my memory like how my fingers touching my body gives me chills to the point of having Goosebumps stippling my skin all over, yet having the fantasy of us in my mind is what warms me. It is the twelve days of relapse and unfulfilled wishes it is just like every other time in this part of the month... the time I am most- needy.

Yet again, what I want cannot fit under the tree. The carols make me sad and annoyed; I just want the New Year to start and have the same- New Year's resolutions as always. Then there is New Year's... I never gotten that kiss either, it is all about making stupid promises that you know that you are not going to keep, and old people drinking themselves drunk, till they cannot even see straight.

Then there are vacations it is just like the red death... to me. Because the only trip I take is to the bathroom, where every girl knows that you have to stab, poke, and prod yourself repeatedly, while you cry because you ruined your cutest pair. I have learned the lesson on my own too. The same can be said for every family voyage I have been a part of; it is always like stained- epiphany and moody.

Besides it makes me grown to the point of carling up into the fetal position, just like having a period cramp. 'So, lay down, the threat is real, when everything in sight goes red again.' Then just like that, my restlessness can go away when the gravity falls like the rain, and the midnight sun begins to shine at day's end. I am finally at peace when the breeze blows twilight.

The stars shine the light upon a world of darkness when the smokiness in my mind clears. Just like always, I go to bed... in my pink room and I can breathe tranquility for a while, until the whimpering of the animals outside that are freezing in the negative cold- like me, for another days' start to begin. Some nights I think the barn is warmer than the house.

Hay it can be worming... yes, I have slept in there on the nights that I was locked out- I do not mind, on the nights when 'I give Hope so-called- horse shit!' that what she calls it when she thinks I am in the wrong. 'Some people have to play the field, yet I just play in them.' Are you catching my drift, as to what I am saying? I have a railroad lantern in there, and a horse blanket, yet I do not have my teddy!

Sometimes, I do it just to get away. Yeah, she will put me out for a stranger to stay over in the summer, as if she runs a bed and breakfast, it just one way to get the money I guess for us. Oh, I get my payback, I am not one for revenge... but I can resist sometimes, like this time, I waited until Hope was asleep in her chair, with her mouth hanging open sawing logs, and I just stick a wiener in there, you know a raw hotdog. I was thinking ha- ha- ha, see how you like that! Just like- the darkness is mysterious like me, and in that, darkness seeds constant spontaneous change and creation.

The Ingenious creativity of thought of mind comes at your lowest darkest point of life. Just like I have the towers densities of being struck by their lightning... that pulls on me constantly into their constellations, yet that makes me reflect on the extraordinary level, or so I think. I always have to be one step ahead of them!

You never know where they are at... they could be in the barn for all I know! Up to this point, I have never had anyone tell me what he or she truly thinks about me that goes for appearance, personality or anything. So, if I would have to describe myself this is what I would say. I would have to say that I find my eyes to be the most striking thing about myself, at least that is what she said- what she has told me... the first time I met her. Oh- finely things were looking up for me when I met her.

She said that my light blue eyes tales the stories of my life. You can see the emotional- feelings when gazing into them, or at least that is what she made me believe. So, we got a new reject in class this week named Maiara, she is a transfer student; I liked her as soon as I saw her, she is wild, sweet, and outstandingly suggestive! She was what I was looking for and everything I needed. There was a glowing connection at first sight on both of our faces.

The look of shock and surprise from both of us at that moment was dreamlike! Our eyes were fixated on each other the first time in the tiny room, she was like a love dove that flapped her wings my way, I knew, at last, I had someone that will brighten my drab cell for me. She came in there with a breath of fresh air; she is the hope I needed. Maiara- Hi everyone...! The others groaned their welcomes in false enthusiasm, one even yawned loudly. So, who are you? She walked up to me and bent a little into me in front of my desk? Nevaeh! I am shrieking said with butterflies' like jitters. Then she touched my hair, and brushed my chin and lower lip with her soft fingertips!

Maiara- 'Nevaeh! That's a pretty name, for a very pretty girl!'

Nevaeh- 'Awe- thank you- I said kindheartedly!'

Then the teacher said. 'Okay? Please take a seat Maiara.' She sat where Lily used to. Wow-what just happened there? I was thinking, feeling that all over in my thoughts and body like how it made me tremble... I had to let it soak in, the rest of the class, I felt wet with splendor. Just like the rain was pouring outside, that we could hear hammering the flat roof above like my heartbeat, and some of it was dripping from the ceiling on me.

Yet the same can be said for my thoughts I felt like there were just dripping down, me also, like that light leak in the room, Dr-ip! Dr-ip! Dr-ip! I hope that does not stain or show on my skirt. I guess my books come in handy for something, covering me up until I dry. So, at lunch the same day she sat with me she said- Your eyes show your solitude. I understand that you feel by yourself in all that you do, you are looking for comfort from someone in this cold cruel world, and there is no one there. Nevaeh- I was like-

'Yes, Yes, Yes- you so got me!'

Maiara- I see in your eyes that you have been looking for someone to care for and listen to what you have to say. So, I am going to be your friend now and for as long as you need knee in your life. You no longer have to feel like your life is so hopeless.

'Wow really'- I said!

Maiara- Do not think that good friend is hard to find, you make it harder than you need to because you do not trust anyone. I know that you are not terrified of meeting people, but you are a very shy and cautious person. 'Just be who you are, and do not change a thing about yourself.' you need exploration, because if they are right for you, then you cannot do anything wrong in their eyes. 'What is right for me'- I asked?

Maiara- Only you know that... sweetie, when the time comes. Though, stop having a barrier of being in your comfort zone. I do not care what others think about me, and neither should you. You feel like nothing's making sense, in your world that you live in. Stop fretting and take the risk to make the change. 'How and why'- I asked?

Only you can make the change, only you can do this. 'You have to rise above it.' You will not understand what I mean now, but you will. You feel like you are facing this whole thing by yourself, with not anything but a false smile, and tears to show for it all. 'I know'- I cried.

Maiara- awe, do not cry- 'Do not worry yourself all things are meant to be, and if not, it was not meant to be.' Know it is not a waste of time to think about what has happened, or what is going to happen. If you live your life with that attitude, you will never be disappointed in anything you set out to do. Besides, if you believe in yourself you can do anything you set your mind out to do. 'You think that about me?' I asked Maiara- 'I sure do- love... you will be okay!'

Nevaeh- as a result, I started hanging out with Maiara Chenoa, she is so expressive with style, because of her Native American Indian family's history, that truly fascinates me. She always has some kind of fashion accessories like feathers or beads in her coal-black shiny hair; it always flows down on her uniform perfectly. It must be nice to be that confident and self-determined. Maiara told me that her last name Chenoa translated means dove; which I immediately thought was awesome. The first time I met her, she told me all about her family. This was interesting to me, mainly because I do not know much about my family's history.

All I know about my last name Natalie is that it is either French, English, or German.

Yet, some say I have like a slight squeaky accent... I do not hear it... yet some of them say that I do. My words are sometimes drawn-out. Hum- like me saying longer words... I guess. Yet she said that it was cute... my high-pitched voice, and the way I talk with my country Pennsylvanian accent.

I am so glad I have her now after everything I have gone through and still am... maybe I can tell her, what is going on with me in more detail? I do think she is trustworthy. Anyhow, her family immigrated to California around 1917.

She lived in one of those classy homes, which looked over the golden gate; she said Pennsylvania was a wide-ranging culture shock. One instance like- when she has to drive twenty-five miles, over these back roads, just to get to the insufficient shopping mall in the city, she said the only thing she likes about being here is me, that is so-o sweet of her to say! It is funny how life-changing events come in your life at your lowest points.

Maiara Chenoa attempts to be creative like me; she is a strong-willed determined individual. Our personalities clicked the first time we spoke to one another.

Like- I said I know if you are for me or against me by the first conversation.

It was just something about her that I said yes, this is somebody that has some common sense. I can relate to her... she has a sense of yearning for beauty unlike most that attend at the hellhole. Plus, she did not live here all her life, so she doesn't know what they say about me. She is not indoctrinated, with their many fabrications of lies. Plus, she is classed like me, so it's all good! She has an acknowledged understanding of life from a different perspective like myself. This is how friendship should be kindled, all conversations face-to-face without the interaction of the webbed walls.

Friendship is based on compatibility in real-life situations, not based off of the keyboard avatars beliefs, and not the foraged words of mouths that have ignorance. That is what we both think; maybe she had a life like me, which is why she came here, I do not know?

You have to follow your heart and not the power holders in 'The Land of Many Steeples.' Refuse to follow the downward path of destruction. This is what I like about Maiara, she is not afraid to be blunt, and tell you how it is... but beautifully. She has specific goals and standards in which she believes. She is constantly looking for new forms of originality. With the tendency to resist the authority, the stubborn anarchy intrigues me.

Yes, I would rather have one good friend than a bunch of so-called acquaintances, which have no substance in my being.

Logically, I think I have a new girlfriend!

Chapter: 12

Why Do I care, If They Careless?

I remember fighting off the sister's clan's time and time over. It was always like seven against me, just like Lily. They each got their ways on me, whatever they wanted to try they did. I would have to say that I put up a good fight most of the time, yet I am small and they over muscle me. This one time, I remember vagina slapping Alissa so hard, to back off, she fell crying to the ground. They always started on me for no reason.

Yeah- I was sent to lockdown for that one, for a week.

Nevertheless, they got nothing every time, yet it was easy to time for me. Other rejects in my class say that a week in lockdown is comparable to a year of being isolated in 'The Hole' at a prison. The higher authority only saw what I did, and never what they did to me.

There were no reasons at all other than getting a piece of me and making fun of me. While the other two girls like Allison and Adriane tried to hold me back from running away... and they did every time.

Sometimes, they used my belt to strangle me, and they would kiss me all over, and their lipstick would smear on my face and their tongues would be flicking and their lips pulling on; they loved to rub up on me. They would spray their perfume all over and in me. Along with putting their used Secret deodorant, stick in my mouth to shut me up, I could taste them, and I could feel them. I am still horror-stricken, petrified, and terrified of them. My words do not define how I feel!

Like, I could feel and sniffle, and whiff their aromas, along with their spearmint gum, red-hot pop rock candies, and their cheesy puff leftovers, along with whatever item else they would drill and practice on me. They even drew unique tattoos on me with their ink pins, which I had to wash off, because of what they depicted, and said. Yet you could see the red raised irritated markings on my skin! You can just see how they looked- can't you? Besides, where they all were? I think of how they even considered putting a pencil through my ear if I would not swallow and lick what she and her sisters dripped into my mouth and rubbed on my lips.

I am a fighter though, just like this one other time, I punched Ava square in the face and I broke her two little perfect front teeth out. I guess I was the replacement girl after Lily was gone... because I knew, and, so did they.

Yet, Ava- and of them, all got me back... oh, did she get me back!

Yet, I recall that she had to drink her baby food in lunch for a month, because her mouth was all swelled up, and wired shut. The others in the lunchroom knew what happens, however, it was not talked about.

Oh, the drawings on me- naturally, Ava even made one that looks like a butterfly using a very specific part of me, as the main body, as the focus. Payback for me slapping her sister there, and knocking her teeth out. Furthermore, things kept going like that, the paybacks just kept coming.

Yet, like- I can still feel all that.

Like, their long hair strands that would fall upon me as they brushed too and fro on my frail and fair body. With their uncanny physiques, which would make my body answer back in jolts and jerks, involuntarily as resistance, and they would dig their fingernails into me, on my back and hips. I was clawed and bullied... to the extreme!

Furthermore, all that was leftover from the beatings were in my sensitive places too, which made me sting and pain! So, similar to a pulsating ice cold, or a fiery hot sensation depending on the place. They were always so rough, that I would start to bleed out. As you, all know! I remember that day was the first time they took it further than ever before, with me... that was the night... I wanted to end it all!

Maybe I should have kept my big- little mouth shut!

Yes, they teased me... and pushed me around, yet they never did all that, or would they have anyway?

Ava has a thing for me. So, no matter where I go, I cannot say that I have warm and fuzzy feelings. You can stop following me everywhere I go. I know who you are; you have made it very clear, and obvious. I realize what you are trying to do.

‘All I have to say is you better watch yourself.’

All your tales are like blue streaks; the sound waves that are echoed from your stations resonates around the lands. They have been retold and spoken over and over, by your troops to become known and twisted. Just like you the station's towers, are going to crumble, especially if my representatives and I have something to do with it.

So, let me not forget about the principle of the hellhole, and their staff of evil monkeys.

They are controlled like puppets; one person holds the strings while the rest of them do as they are told.

‘Oh, these are going to be more memories scratched into my brain.’ I just know it!

There is nothing like being pinned down and bent over backward, while having an evil monkey screaming in your face, bent over just the same as the sisters do, while they have all control over your mind body and soul... especially if you did nothing to cause the ear-splitting conversations, except having much concern about everything.

There defaulted word of advice is to 'Just deal with it.'

Like- nothing is going down like there is not a bigger issue going on here then what meets the eye. So, let us just say that was the last time that I asked any of them for any advice, on what I should do about any situation. My response became almost robotic, and I would say quote- 'Once I graduate... and get out of this hell hole, I will never set foot in this place again.'

'They would say why don't you just drop out now!'

Also, for the record, I would like to let it be known... telling fellow students to kill themselves, and dropout is not a very good way to motivate them for success.

Plus- having affairs and having your moments of public demonstrations of affection around the students is revolting. So, now you know why my shrinks' pantie hose comes off, she is having an affair with the principle, yet all kinds of scandals with the higher authority runs rampant here in the hellhole.

All the evil monkeys, and the so-called higher authority with their fiery eyes, yes, all these eyes that are everywhere but where they need to be. They do not think that we pick up on what is going on.

Will- do I have news for you... we do! Plus- we all think you are a repulsive joke. Dammit, grow up, and be educators and do your jobs.

'I just thought you would like to know!' Do you know what is an interesting fact?

Most of these so-called educators and staff are going to retire after my class graduates. Why mainly for one reason they are scared that somebody is going to report them for these offenses that happened in this establishment. You quitters stand up and face what you have done to all of us.

You should be ashamed of yourself. What we have learned we had to do it on our own, no thanks to you. Some are going to shine, and some are left to burn out, either way, I hope that you think about what you have done. As well as that, you cannot sleep at night, and it slowly drives you insane. Your secrets are no longer a secret, and your marking of rejection is going to stand no more, for the reason that you are going to fall, along with the tower who started this all. My day to shine is vastly approaching. I do hope so!

(Two weeks later)

Maiara gave me a homemade dream catcher as a gift on one of these days that go fast and slow at the same time. It was pink with white and gray feathers.

She said to put this in your room, and when the time comes... you will know what to do, and that is all she said. I did not ask questions, nor did she go into great- detail.

I believe she reads my life like a deck of cards. Oh, she told me that my cups, to life, would overflow eventually. That there will be balances, I will have the world in my hands that there may be obstacles as of now in my surroundings, but that will soon change, it was hard not to believe her.

She is like my fortune-teller. Have I finally reached the next level of my existence; the floodgates are going to open it seems? The judgments will be over, and I will sing in harmony with her. The journeys of the undertaking are going to begin on the extraordinary, with great expectations of life, and hope and the cycles are going to be completed at last.

Yes, it seems that 'I am a traveler of both time and space.' The stars are going to align once more. I will soar like an eagle over that time and space; to I reach the highest destination of divine expression surely with her. When all hope is gone, you will realize that nothing was lost in that path of transition, with the will of fortune comes a new journey.

Once the arrow has landed on or upon it the discovery that is when I have my new direction to go. Looking back the only things that were lost were the defined destination that was my thought of mind- at that time, because of them and them only. With time eventually, all things cross the path that leads down the many roads to temptations. However, I believe- that I make the right choices, but the main question remains what do you choose to do if you were me?

So, do you want to go the high road, the one that everybody else follows, that only leads you into a pit of darkness and destruction? With its smooth shimmering roads that shine like a diamond, or will you be like me? I have selected to go on the journey of the rocky road, which leads to faith in the divine. I know that the sunlight of the master's star that has the hope within is all I need. The light may not always be the sunshine. It may just be that the stars that light up your darkness, and will bring you to hope in times of need or despair, is someone that cares regardless... even if they are a girl just like you.

They are the star that twinkles for you, as you do for them. The stars can be the guiding light that leads to the marvelous. That is if you choose to ignore the path that is well-traveled by others that pull you down with them, and away.

‘Sometimes you have to drop everything and run, to have something, and when you have something to run too. You want to hold on to her tightly, and never let her go.’

The stars, in the human form, are most likely the ones that were once strangers. The unfamiliar person can be the greatest meaning in your life, only if you can gain trust, which is how companions of courtship are determined. These people radiate a warm soft caring, comforting glow that shines when you gaze upon them. This is when one knows how to feel and the rest is left to fate. That is when you will know that they are a true lifelong friend and companion. As well as if they are there for you at all times, no matter the situation, and its consequences.

Like- no words of the alleged tower or clans that fall upon you will stop them. They will not fade from your life, and their soft light will shine from day into night and will make you feel that everything's going right. There may be temperance in which to follow at some point, but sometimes the only things to do are go if it... and it will all work out itself, over time as you radiant on together.

Sometimes making a risk is a good thing... it leads to more. Just like us being there for each other, are blackness in our space it is not so dark, when being with them, as a star that shines the passageway to security for one another. If we have to be a couple to be safe, then it is okay with me.

It is like we both can now go far in our time travel of the light-years being together, ‘Meaning is a relationship is moving fast, rather they like it or not.’

Also, for the reasons that we both feel so comfortable, in each other's hands and embrace. It works for her and me, what can I say. Furthermore, the others that are against us, they streak by like the meteor shower in the skies. Just like us in this black space that we are in, we walk past all of them as if they are the meteor that we have to dodge. In the hall hand and hand, we can protect one another from being hit from all flying debris and strikes.

Okay- that is a little far out there, but I think you get what I mean. I think my faith comes when I have a free mind, and I can be in the admired categories by the others. But- having an unconscious acceptance is one you will be accepted by all, and they will stay in their same thinking, and place along with you... that is if you choose to be a part of them, I made the choice to do what feels right, even if they think it is wrong.

Having a belief in nothing leads to nothing, having a belief in something leads to something. Having the pressures of the past existence pressing you down will lead to nothing. This is the building blocks given to you, which can be whittled by you to carve into an extraordinary recovery of mastery. Even if it has to be like this. 'I hear what you have got to say and it is- okay. Yes, I will go with you, we made us official are the second week together.'

Maiara- She said- 'Deprived of pain, ache, and aching, there would be no sympathy, kindness, and understanding. In a way, we have to see the light by having to go through all this darkness. Now we can do so, as a twosome.' So, I just told her to always. 'Look after my heart- I have placed it in your caring small hands, and I will do the same for you! Don't break it, because, I will not be able to take it!' she said- Same here.

It was a done deal, from that point onwards. Perfectly side by side looking inwards, yet silent with her glittery brown eyes open, and fixed upon mine, so ocean blue. While everybody else falls to nothing and resembles pebbles. It is like ones you are on the right pathways, the others may want to take you down, with their destruction to make you break down too little gravel... however; we try to get around these individuals. These are the ones, who have done her and me wrong. We will stand here solid like a rock!

At this instant is the perfect time for you to shine your beacon of hope to someone else to, who is less fortunate than you are. That is only if you choose to speak out, and have voices of harmony, that unites you together. That is a very powerful tool in the prevention of lost lives, and the rebuilding of lives to come. At this very moment is the right time for you to do your part for someone. I wish I could have done more for Lily, but as of now, I know I could not have, I have to stop blaming myself so much.

(Two days later at the hellhole)

Would you just look there; they are not in their sitting in their desks in class! Paul Navis and his girlfriend Hannah McGruben, they both cut class to go study anatomy together in the girls' locker room. I think I can hear their voices in the vent next to me in soft mumbles; I guess the school needs to invest in some textbooks so that the teenagers do not have to learn from life's goings-on. 'No one knows, and no one cares!'

I guess that public speaking class is no longer needed for them or anyone it seems. Brandy Pacheco is absent; Taylor Brown went to the nurse's office because of her stomach cramps, and Megan Davis spent the whole class period in the bathroom. Jonathan Eisezn, he is rambling on... he is trying to quote a passage from the book of Job, which is in a section of the Bible. It is what he has chosen to read in front of the class. Yet, the hellhole is trying to stop Jonathan from having his bible with him, they want us to only follow what they say- I guess. I ask- do they have the right to do that?

This school does not believe in what they preach to us in being a Catholic school, I do not get it. I guess they are trying to kick that habit too, just like the nuns that teach some of our boring and strict classes. I can still feel that roller smacking on my bitten fingernails, and backside until they both bled or where red, and I cried. Sister Maggie would scream- 'Nothing great is ever achieved without much enduring, there are consequences for your actions!'

What do you think of Nevaeh? Sister Maggie- Only the hands of God could help that child, and that may be asking far too much. I have tried, yet with no improvement what-so-ever. Nevaeh-? What kind of a name is that? She has 'Blasphemy!' for a first name. Sown from the seeds of unmarried parents and abandoned, she is the afterbirth of the unholy, what more should you expect. That she would be backward in her ways also! I will have to pray... that she finds her way! Besides, she is making my hair gray!

(Nevaeh at home from, yet another school day.)

I sat in my room flexing my thoughts, in the fragile moonlight that is outside my window with its eeriness. While trying everything to type something down, and then just like out of the midnight blueness of the night, this page just seemed to fly from my fingers on to the keys, and onto the paper in a eureka surprise, and I heard that bell ding for the first time without any mistakes at all. Joy, at last, bursting out with a burst of giggle laughter, I have done it! My first typed page!

This is the first page-

'People are not what they say; people come and go every day. Some People have nothing good to say, some people do not stay, yet the words that they say portray. People are like my flickering ghosts, that I try to pray away, in their shades of gray. Some people only bring forth dismay. Some people can speak gaily, yet for them it is okay.

Yet no one hears me, however, I am with these people all day. Why do I have to stay? Held at bay, listening to all their nah-say, though I want to be home and play in the hay, to lay there in the sun or rain, the rest of the day. People do not talk to one another anymore. People are careless, cold, blank, and bleak in their frenzy of life. People; do not understand what living is anymore, they sell themselves short and upset others in doing so. People are letting everything, which they see, have, and lust for gently slip all away, day by day, with what comes, and with what may.'

Which made me think... one because it was a couple of good paragraphs, and two because it was so true and had some meaning behind it. So-o, maybe I can write, what do you think? Maybe I was saying this because everyone else has their face smashed into their cell phones and babbling about nothing and everything that has no substance. I wonder why I typed this, in this all most possessed like trance.

However, I read it once more and realized that, if you do not have a number that you do not stand a chance in this land of smartphones and other electronic devices. So far, I would rather have a dumb phone or no phone then be a smart-ass that controls it with no outlook or wit or logic behind what is expressed and received. This also reminds me of the fact that Health class is just a waste of time in high school. We all had those talks, a decision of a plan 'B' without really going into what needs to be identified. Do this... do not do that... or you will go blind. 'What a big steaming pile of bull shit.' Do you remember the Health class in fifth grade? How could you forget about that film... you know the one, oh god-I do not want to see all that... in that much detail up on the silver screen. Maybe that is it... Was I traumatized all my life?

I think back on that day-

Hello!

We are only eleven years old, 'Yet there are some girls like Ava that was giving it all away long before this class.' Please do not take is innocence away from us, oh... yes scarred for life. If you want to stop teens from doing things, then stop given them misleading information. 'Now that is a Google search that most teens do.' Besides, just like everything else, there is a Fix. Yet to me the fix should not be capsules handed out freely without a thought of what can be, or what is stop forever. Giving kids the green light at the age of eleven is going to lead to a crashing explosion, with some of them moving on, and others left behind with broken dreams and split harts. I am not taking birth-control, if there is no need to, that is my decision, now and forever, I just do not like the idea of it.

(One day later)

Sitting here vegetating... yet thinking as always of thoughts... as of now, I am thinking of thoughts, that makes me so angry. What pisses me off beyond belief is when kids pick on kids. When teachers do not do their jobs not only are they supposed to educate us, but they are supposed to protect us we are in their environment their dwelling... it is their job to oversee us.

Now I am not saying that they are supposed to be there holding our hands every waking moment of the day, but they should be there to oversee that others do not do things that would be catastrophic. I have seen it too many times not just in Lily's case but also in others that have been around the world other kids telling kids to kill themselves because they are worthless and have no meaning in life, what a bunch of bull shit...

This is my question- 'Who the hell do you think you are.' You should be ashamed of yourselves for even making such judgments. Not only do I see kids picking on kids, but I have also seen the higher authority picking on students until they cry. Furthermore, if we cannot trust the teachers that are the backbones of the school system who do, we trust? I think the teacher was wondering why I was making faces at him while I was thinking- will oh well.

Pissed off- is not even the word for this category however when individuals tell others to kill themselves...

Really!

How can someone make someone feel that they need to die? Who are you? You are despicable and you must have a black hole for a heart, how can you make somebody else feel like total and complete shit constantly. 'Stop it now!'

People like this need to take a long deep look inside, and if they cannot find anything then they are inhuman. Think about your actions before you speak or do something, just remember what you do, and what you say will come back to haunt you that is a promise. If somebody is bothering you, just remember there is a light at the end of any tunnel. You will get through it; they will be the one left to crumble to nothing but dust.

That is if you keep your composure, in a matter of time that is rough you will have to stand strong and fight your demons, 'Do not be a victim, be a Victoire!' You will make it through to another day, another week, another year. You will be the one that is better off at the end of these misfortunes because you will know how to react in every situation. Trust me I know; I have lived it! When you hear and look at something or someone, do you use your full comprehension to determine a thought?

Listen to others- words think about their meaning. What do they have to say? Is it positive or is it negative? Is it deceitful, is it hateful and is it distasteful? If so, that is when you make the decision not to listen or look. That is what I do, and it works for me, it just might work for you. We as human beings are programmed to listen to nothing but negative words and dwell on it that is just the way the brain works. We could get twenty good comments throughout the day; however, the only comments that remain in our minds are the nasty ones, negative comments that someone said and it plays over and over in our minds. At least that is the way, it is with me, I know. Why? Because, that is how our brains are involuntarily set to think, and we need to stop thinking in this way. Just remember that- 'positive thoughts, bring on positive actions.'

How do you stop their words? How do you rebuild self-esteem and image? How do you deal with the embarrassment of rejection, and being put in categories that you do not deserve to be in? How would you handle all this? What do you do if no one is listening to what you have to say? How do you make people open their eyes and view what is going on around them? We all make mistakes, but does that give anyone the right to call someone out for that mistake over and over?

Should we dwell on what they have done wrong or should we let it go? However- What is the better question is- what would you do? So-o, what are you going to do?

Chapter: 13

A Closed Book, Sealed, and Sheltered

Do you remember middle school? All I can remember was the clocks that ticked my life away, that was hanging from the ceiling. Along with the smell of chalk dust floating in the air, opaque's with a tunneling effect in the halls. All the walls where either tissue paper-thin, or cinder block, which makes no logical sense for a place of learning. All these dented, scraped, and beat up lockers; I can vaguely see the faces without the names as they opened them. All the hallways that interlinked to one another and the staircases that went on forever. A cavernous hole in the middle that interweaves the entirety of its geometry, with its moldy shag carpet... oh yes that space that is generally in darkness, yet they call that room the auditorium.

Just out of curiosity, aren't you supposed to do activities there? All the windows in the courtyards, which once shined the light of day where all now boarded up and gone away forever. Also, who could forget the black slate countertops in which we engraved our names and all the pencils that were thrown into the ceiling tiles just for the hell of it, to leave a legacy behind of what we have gone through? I cannot say that all the educators at the hellhole are ruthless, that would be a lie. One educator, in particular, stands out and his name is Mr. Ashmore he cares about the students; he worked with me along with others. Yet he is an old school type of teacher. This class brightened my day; he cares about the arts and my creativity.

Furthermore, how the others brought me down... yes, I was still with and around a bunch of rejects, which just do not care. However, with this person I excelled some in my education; even if it was not documented that I did... I was very grateful for having such a positive role model in this land of despair my eighth-grade year, it was so nice to know that someone cares, at least more than the rest. It is not that all rejects do not care... they either do not have a stable home life, or they do not have educators that care about them, they need to be pushed to be motivated. It has become, too easy for people to put other people into categories instead of looking at the real problem.

About this time in middle school from seventh to eighth grade, this is when the groups start to form. Do not get me wrong some of the judging's start long before these years if you have the words of a toxic tongue that slandering you constantly this can change the outcome of your existence, for the upcoming adventures of high school.

My Hell started in first grade; mainly because of one teacher, when she said I needed individualized assistance. For the reason that I could not read 'See Spot Run!' as the others, or maybe I could, and they did not want me to. Maybe she was waylaid into letting me slide behind. Who knows, they are never going to talk.

Do you remember the examples of preps, jocks, and nerds, and let us not forget the outcasts of rejects? This is all determined long before you walk through those double doors; your fellow students are going to be part of whom you are going to become, but also the higher authority has a big say in it all. If you are programmed to be beneath the rest, that is where you are going to remain, versus having popularity and establishment along with the superior name.

This establishment is created, and it will automatically place you and them. Yet those that have higher levels of popularity have more establishments, and the ones like us get nothing because we are the scum on the floors of the lowest levels that they have made for us.

You are probably wondering the question why is this important? The explanation is the ones that are in the higher popularity, and society is the ones that obtained the education, also the ones that are handed the scholarship, and the best overall outcome of experiences. Which is not fair to the ones that work just as hard, if not harder than the others do?

Mr. Ashmore brought me up to heights of excellence in my schooling that was never thought possible by the ones that doubted me in the hellhole establishment. He also helped me deal with my surroundings, which overall service my well-being by being a positive listener. He likes to joke with me saying quote- 'Wow, daydreamer how did you get so many correct on your test?' And- I would just giggle and say- 'In a dream and not reality comes to the greatest creativity.'

Page two- 'It is just the game of life... What is plain to see? What is never going to be? What is going to last forever with you and me? Someone comes into my life, and others go away forever. Someone brings you happiness, and others bring forth pain. Some bring respectable memories; as other reminiscences fade away in the pouring down rain; it is all part of the game. Some will make you want to feel nothing but shame, and others will bring forth the fame. It is all part of what you choose to do with your flame; it is all part of the game. If you want memories to remain, we must all feel the same and be the masters of the game.

Do you know my name?

Does anyone feel the same? Should I point fingers at the ones to blame? Will all these memories be washed away in the rain, or should I set them all a flame, and see them as they blaze, so I don't recall any more past days. So, I do not have to live life in a daze. The game of life is a gigantic maze, on all the shuffling days.

The memories will play; the flames will dance and sing. What are these new individuals going to bring? Should I spend all my time with the ones that fly with the white wings? What is going to happen in another full swing, if all these individuals are not all here next spring?

Do you know what to think? Do you know what you are going to make sure of? Do you know what to look after? Do you now understand what to do with your flame, in moments of shame, on the days of rain? This is all part of the game.'

What do you think of Nevaeh-?

Mr. Ashmore- 'She is a good kid, sweet, caring, artsy, and oh so witty. No, she is no one's dummy... that is for sure, but she has a hard time, doing tests, reading, spelling, and even some math and things like that. Because of her anxiety, she is smart... just not on paper. Yet she has been so mixed up with the past skills and teaching... I can see why.'

Nevaeh- The sisters like to call my home phone line at all hours of the day and the night, and there is no way to prove it because the numbers are always unavailable. What to do...? They want to keep my line busy, so no one can talk to me. What ends up happening is that Hope takes the phone off the hook; so that we can get some quiet. They do not say anything on the answering machine, but- yet they like to take up the whole length and the recording with their moaning and heavy breathing.

This goes on at least ten times a day. Plus, they like to record all the conversations; I have on the phone with others when I do talk to someone. Just remember the cordless phones work off of radio waves, which others can tap into if they know the frequency... and I am sure they do! The sisters do not want me to talk to anybody; they know that I know who it is and it is them- them alone; but how do you prove that they are doing it when the town thinks you are the crazy one. They want to know what time I leave my home; what time I am on the phone, they want to keep me awake all night long ringing the phone, and not leaving me alone.

They want to know all my arrangements before they happen, so they can destroy them before they even take place. Hell, they even want to know when I take a shit, take a leak, or even change a tampon too. I look in my bathroom mirror, and I swear I see one or more of their faces in the foggy glass. It is like they are watching me...! I cannot even have any privacy in my own home. They will not leave me alone at all. That is why I do not have a cell phone; no one is allowed to call me anyway. I wonder if they can see me now?

I am sure they can...! Oh yes, some nights they throw small pebbles at my bedroom window glass Pee-ing, Pee-ing, Pee-ing, from the ground. Then they call out my name, Nev-aeH, Nevaeh...

N-E-V-A-E-H!

(Their yelling whispering gets more amplified every time my name is called.) They call out, just like the soundings off of the town fire whistle siren, uncannily in the calm still of the nights' breezes, however, it rings lastingly in my eardrums, as panic sets in. 'Saying you have to come out and play... come out from in there if you don't, we will get you to play with us at school!' 'You are going to come out at some point. We just want to play with you!' -They would say in an animus voice.

Hope...! She comes busting through my bedroom door, and says go play with your little friends... Nevaeh...! 'No- no! That's okay!' I would say. Hope- 'I don't see why you don't want to have friends? But- that's up to you!' (Stomping out of the room with a door slam!) No- she just does not get it... no one does!

While they weight there all night, and Ava she climbs up the tree next to my porch roof, then she jumps on the rooftop and crawls up to my window, and then she looks in at me... with mischievous determination! She has even unlocked the old window of mine somehow, and slid it up through the night... I could feel her presence. Like, she has even put a spooky ring on my finger, and laid a black rose flower in my belly-button, and touched me in the night, while I was asleep...!

Yes, the photo she has on her phone shows me there, yet how do I stop it, if she makes it seem like I want all that... even my girlfriend thinks I am cheating on her. That so hard to explain to her, or anyone really; Oh-hum, what did I do to deserve all this? I do think... she locks my bedroom door, with a copy of my skeleton key that is to this old farmhouse, so no one can come in through the night, and see what she is doing to me.

I am not even safe in my pink bedroom anymore! Plus, I know that my teddy cannot help me out either, yet I hold on to it, for he knows all my secrets. I know she has put her dirty little long fingers in my mouth, and I have sucked on it not knowing what it was, and she has gotten on top of me to...! I just know it. Yet, I always feel so drowsy, when I hear them calling for me, like- I have been drugged up... I wonder if I have been? Yet-how...? It is like she has stood over my bed, and said- 'Boo!' When I was, asleep she would flashlight like it was beaming in my eyes with a flashlight, and she said... 'It's me- my love! I am going to sleep with you tonight!' What choice do I have? It is either do- it, or face their wrath at school, yet I was so looped... I did not know if I was dreaming or not.

(One day has passed, my thoughts!)

Just like when I did have a cell phone. I think that they use the Global Positioning System, which I had on my smart cell phone to track me down. It is as if they had their clan's members with the blue and red-light bars, on their wagons follow me around the towns, just to see what I was up to... and where I was going and where I have been. So why have it, if I cannot have freedom! I do not do anything wrong... yet the others can get away with everything.

So why keep something that I cannot use in the way it should be used. It is just a waste of time for me anymore. I understand that I am all alone when I am not really by myself. That even the dreams, which I have, are just as painful as being awake. It is as painful as being injured or cut just like it is during the school day. It is emotionally and psychologically grim, and it is hurting my brain to grasp, that it is. Being awake and daydreaming is the same to me just like today in Bio-Chemistry, I learned that I am a skanky slut and hoe, and in English that I am mentally retarded 'Even though I maintain a 'B' average.' Plus- in the lunchroom that I am just freaky and creepy, you learn so much about yourself when attending classes at the hellhole. Like more people are concerned about what I do, rather than the rats; that run past in the middle of the floor.

(One day has past thinking, in class.)

I have always hated the fact that I continuously feel so awkward around others that do not know me, and they judge me for it. I am just shy and that is it. If you let me gain trust with you first, then I will most likely become your best friend over time. Why do awkward things keep happening to me?

(Another opinion)

I do believe, that People are not something that you collect they are something that you earn. What do you think?

(My dating advice, He- he- you have to be kidding me. While okay here goes nothing.)

So how do you know if someone is into you? You- ask?

Okay well- You have to look at the signs that they are giving off with their body language. If someone is not into you, you will feel the harshness in their voice, and how they act. You should be able to understand that you are getting rejected by their movements and lack of compassion, and eye contact. This is when you should move on, and find somebody that is worth your time.

Because, if you do not do this that is when you look desperate and tend to come off as creepy, and nobody wants that! Thus, in other words, if the conversation is dying, do not stand there and kick a dead horse... Let it go, and walk away, and try again some other day. Yet sometimes I need to take my advice... like really. If somebody likes you or is into you, they will do whatever possible to be around you.

‘Yes, even if they are extremely shy like me.’

Like, many of my admirers will pop up at random locations where I am, ‘This is so sweet, yet kind of stalker-ish?’ –Don’t you think? Nonetheless, you have to draw the line on what you think; determining what their plans are going to be with you, and having good judgments while reading between the lines, and understand the characters is a must to distinguish. Like, I said before, I can comprehend what someone’s motive is before they open their mouth just by reading their body language.

Then when they finally do speak this is when I will know if they want to have a relationship, or just be acquaintances, or friends with benefits, or not friends at all. I tried not to fall for a bunch of lines and end up heartbroken on a one-night stand, I have to know if you are in love or just infatuated with making any life-changing engagements.

So, the question remains- what is the difference between love and in-love? You can decide... Hum, or is at all lust that brings us together? I have to think about that one. It is all about the signs you see and hear, to look for to know, that someone is into you.

As if there are unnecessary means of touching or contact between the two of you. This is a great sign that they are into you, or it could mean that you have an unwanted friend...! Yet, also look at the position of their body or torso; if it is slightly turned towards you at an angle when standing in front of you, this is a good sign. This is how I knew that he liked me.

The tone of voice is everything to me, with uncontrollable laughter, stumbling on the pronunciation of words, and flirty eyes, these are all going to give off the true thought of expression within; you will know if they want to get to know all about you or just some things about you. You can understand what I am saying.

First of all, if somebody likes you then you have to make them feel comfortable around you, which also applies to those that have difficulties at first too. 'If you do not want them around you, be sure to reject them nicely.' That is all you can ask for really. I know with me everything is very awkward... But- it will work itself out. If somebody is into you, they will observe you from afar, meaning they will gaze at you and suddenly look away. Besides if they are a shy person, they may not make eye contact with you at all. These are all common signs.

A sweet smile is the most common way to know of approval, if someone has a big smile for you every time you see them, then that is when you know they are into you and want to be around you. Also look for fidgeting expressions for example hair twirling, biting of the lips, playing with clothing, and Posture readjustment. Now if your admirers- is- the shy type that is a whole different situation, but shy people tend to be withdrawn, and try not to make a fool of themselves in front of the person that they are interested in.

Why?

Because of the fear of rejection or that they will lose the chance they might have with them. At least that is the way I am. If you look for the signs you cannot go wrong. Some of the signs will differ from person to person. Life is a game you have to figure out what each person's unique ways are all about. Try to understand what they want, and how they are going to go about doing things, compromise and appreciative gestures is everything.

The signs of awkwardness may mean a form of attraction. Try not to mistake the friend zone for the dating zone. The wonderful world of dating in high school, she's dating him... He's into her... She's brokenhearted... And the girl he's dating like somebody else. That is all part of the dating game in high school, one big love triangle with hatred in all the social circles. It is all just part of the existence of life... within the hellhole establishment. If I can help someone out throughout the day, then I feel as if my day is complete. 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.’ this stands true with me and is a virtue that everyone should practice. In everything, including in the dating world. ‘Doing good things for others, then others will do good things for you.’ I try to believe that! How was that? Was that- good? Yes, no, maybe...? No- No...? I did not think so, okay! Yet, I am just a fifteen-year-old girl here- I am sorry.

(The next day at lunch)

Maiara- She walks up to me, and slams her plastic tray down on the table. She starts giving me a chewing out like, I have never had before!

Maiara- (Sobbing!) ‘You- you have said that you would never break my heart.’

‘Now look at you!’

‘What are you talking about’- I asked?

Maiara- ‘What am I talking about? What the fuck- Nevaeh! You should fucking know it is all over the motherfucking school! You- slut- you muff loving whore! You- were flat on your back with her, on your damn bed, fooling around. Oh- my- sweet- baby- Jesus! Shit, and with of all people, it had to be with that girl- Ava! Why- Nevaeh? Why- would you do this to me? You made me look like a complete dumbass!’

Nevaeh- ‘I did not do anything! I am not trying to break your heart, and I would never do that! You know that honey.’

Maiara- ‘Do not call me that... anymore! Ahh- I can’t believe you!’ (Crying- so offended. ‘Sure...! That is not what I have been hearing, and you have shattered my heart, here pick up the pieces.

Yeah- here is my fork; do you want to stick that into me too?’

Nevaeh- ‘wow! None of it is true...! You of all people should know that? So, are you asking me to be sorry, for something in which I did not do?’

Maiara- ‘sure... you didn’t- sure! And- I am just an idiotic girl, to spray your piss on-right?’

Nevaeh- ‘No! Please! Believe me! I was a set-up! Like, always!’

Maiara- ‘Sorry! I cannot right now, I need time away from you! Okay- maybe it is not you, maybe it is me? Either way, I need a break from us!’ (Hurtfully- speaking.) Oh, why did I let myself fall in love with you?’ (Mumbling speaking the word ‘Why?’ repeatedly. While she was crying, overtop of her food.)

Nevaeh- ‘They are just trying to break us up...! Can’t you see that? Can’t you see that this is all one ass-munchers illusion, which she made up?’

Maiara- ‘Oh shut up, I can’t even look at you, and stop trying to swear you are not good at it! It is never your fault is it, Nevaeh?’

(Nevaeh is sitting flabbergasted, taking it all in.)

‘Nope! I didn’t think so!

AND- And... even not, you were with her... so! No! She was with me, and I did not want it. I don’t even recall this taking place! As I said, they see me and you happy, and they want us apart, and they are going to do it too... if you let them.’

Maiara- ‘Oh! So, now it is my fault- Okay... I see!’

Nevaeh- ‘Okay- whatever, feel that way. I do not give a rat’s ass. You can kiss my ass girl, and if that is not dirty enough for yah, then kiss your own, and see how you like the taste of it!’

(Nevaeh- She gets up, walks away, and sits at an empty table, all by herself. With the look of hurt and shock on her face, yet knowing this was going to happen, at some point in time. Eventually, all the grains of sands in the hourglass of their time together would run out, she knew, and she would be alone once more, like always! She recognized that it was coming, just like a thunderstorm pouring down rain, which would never end. Nonetheless, was it the end? She did not know. The clan has rained their disconcertion once more, the dark cloud over her head was stronger than ever before.)

Chapter: 14

Choices

‘I am so happy because today I found my friends, they are in my head!’ – Nirvana That song was playing on my radio when I got up this morning for school. That is so true to me too. It made me stand in a frozen dumbfounded pose of awe, as I listened in and absorbed it all, the lyrics the grunge sound made me feel alive; yet at the same time, it is like I felt the pain of the singer.

I understand how he feels. Then before I even walked out of my bedroom door, I thought about what has happened the day before, with her. Yet I know, not to think about it, yet I do. It was my first thought getting up, and my last thought going to bed last night, the fear of being all alone again... I cannot take this shit. Maiara and Chiaz or anyone really, I give up on it- 'I am not going to chase what I can't have!' Just like the second song that was playing while I was getting ready, so, I am going to quote the musicians from the rock group 'Rush!'

'If you choose not to decide then you still have made a choice.' This is so true... So, in other words, what you choose determines how others react to you. Also, how you react to them, as a result, reacts in the right ways... if you can. I know that I did, yet she did not, and he did not either, and I did, and all of them do not either. I wonder if we can just be friends someday, or is that going to be awkward too, if we could. Would it be possible? 'It's impossible, tell the sun to leave the sky, it's just impossible.' That was the song; I was singing walking down the pathway today while waiting for the horrendous bus to show up with its flashing lights. That is one of Hope's records, which she plays while doing her chores a lot- a lot.

(The ride)

Yes, I am sitting on the second bench back from the front of the bus alone as always. Certainly, always going down the same unmaintained bumpy road with its dust and dirt being kicked up from the bald tires of the bus. So, all that grime is coming in my window and landing on my clean uniform. Why? Because, my window will not lock tightly, and no one is going to close it for me; So, all that dust comes pouring in at me, and the others in gusts. Yet it is my fault that it will not shut. They all say! Because I am too weak and stupid to know how to close it up. 'It is just stuck!'

-I say!

'Yeah... just like, we are stuck with you Ta-rd!' -One girl said.

'Fuck- tard- Fix it, or I will pound your pee-pee minded, dick- weed head, and fake it until you do.' -The one boy named- David said. Yet- the bus driver did not hear or see a thing. Yet, some days he just yells, 'Nevaeh- shut up, or I will write you up.' 'But- but- I didn't do anything!' -I always say that every day! 'Go be on the short bus where you belong.' –That was said, by a girl named- Jolie, she is sitting in the back. I did not say anything back. Like their books, pencils, chewing gum, fondling, mean words, kicking, punching in the face, scratching, blood splattering, shoes tapping, tampons and pad tossing, and spit blowing, were all flying at me, or on me.

The air all around me is cloudy just like my thoughts, which started rolling in as I am on my way. Only to stop at their stop, and they get on, and it all begins once more. I bite my lip and start to tremble, as I get ever so close to them... I can see them standing outside, and they get closer and closer until they get on, in front and behind me, and they smash everything, that they are, and have all up in my face!

(My thoughts)

If others are poisoning my reactions, then I decide to siphon them out if I can, the sooner I do... the sooner I can heal myself, and get back into the circles of life. This is when I make the decisions to try to figure out what is causing the negative energy- 'The dark cloud' in my life before it is too late.

Remembering that there are many options I can take. I could be like those that will never speak again, and end the existence of life eternally, and become an angel with either white wings or black wings, depending on my life history, what I choose now determines where I go in the end. I remember that this is not the recommended option to take; I will try to find help from someone, and choose a better decision. I remember no matter how bad it may seem to be in my life... there is always a way. There is always someone, which loves me, and cares about me.

Yes, even if it does not seem as so... I live in the hope of someday.

I remember that my decisions can take away meaning from others' lives that do care, just because of one decision that is made. I remember that it cannot be changed, this time there is no plan 'B' if it works. Yes, I remember what happened to me when Lily passed, which helps stop me. I can choose to be the ones that gain a voice, and speaks out, for the other individuals that are not so fortunate.

On the other hand, I can decide to be a guardian angel for someone else. I can help the innocent lives that are being beaten and crucified mentally and physically. They do not have the strength to speak on their own, by using my voices of harmony and speaking up for someone, I can give all of the strength to make a change for the better. I want to stop the words of slander, and abuse of kicking and punching. For the reason, that who are we to make the decision, that we are better than someone else is when we were all created to be equal.

I want you to think about that the next time you make a choice also. Some of us need to choose to relax, and not sweat the small things in life that bother us. Generally, everything works itself out, like what she has said to me before. 'If it is meant to be then it will happen, and if not then it was not meant to be.' —I remembered that... so, I hope something works out. Yes, I would have to say it is okay to question God and see why this is all happening.

Anxiety and stress come over dwelling on negative thoughts of the demonic powers, you need to learn to ignore all of them. Stop dwelling on the pressures of life, and get out of your comfort zone this is what most need. Like that is what I need! This decision will make you live a better life, and have a more productive existence in your surroundings. So, with that said... if you need more time to make a choice that is going to benefit you in the right ways do so, even if there is a deadline, looming over your head, or around your neck sort-a speak, like a noose. I know there is always tomorrow, only if I can indoors. Things will change and become better for me, that is a promise from the divine master, of the game of life. Just because I do not know, what is going on all the time does not mean that there is not a plan for my being. That is what I think anyway. Nevertheless, I cannot be sure of anything.

(Deeper thoughts)

Do you remember your middle school dance? I do not because I was not there. I still wonder about it from time to time. What was it like to be there?

Remembering how everybody looked like back then comparing what has changed in all of our lives, realizing the innocence is gone forever, and time goes by, without the right memory. So, are we asked to grow up way too fast in society these days, or does the higher authority fill our minds with dark thoughts, or does the technology rape our minds?

Once again, I will let you decide! Yeah, looking back, the eighth grade goes by like a bolt of lightning, with all the yearbooks with scribbled names, everyone else has pinned the same phrase in their books 'Never change!' yet that is what we all do... change, and grow into something, that cannot be controlled, or is controlled by something, that is out of your influence to control. Just like- 'The decision is yours do the right thing!'

(Present time in the halls.)

All the books I carry could be knocked out of my hands and left behind for all I care. Still, they have to travel with me, and the words that they tell me are not fair. All my papers fly up in the air. Others make my life despair, finding new creativity in which to share, yet all the faces still stare, I comb the hair over my face and eyes so they do not glare. All the paper and creativity that will tear, we could stop this if we would make the dare.

The four Amsel sisters for some reason cannot keep their hands off my stuff.

I do not touch your shit, so do not touch mine. I mean seriously keep your hands off! Speaking of the four sisters, they are the only ones in the school that were not drug tested during the lockdown that we had together for fighting. Hum- I wonder why? The rejects, their purses, and bags we dumped out, and their lockers searched, and all the contents are shown for everybody in the hellhole to see... 'Isn't that wonderful?' Because we are a danger to ourselves and others. -So, they say! You know, it is not as if I am going to bring a gun to school. Yet one did and he just got a fine, and one day out to play, out of the school. I do not get it. Hey, I do not make the roles. Plus, I do not want everyone seeing my personal belongings, 'Shouldn't this be against the amendments of freedom?'

However, the ones that need to be tested for drugs and weapons are the ones that get away with everything. That is all part of the hellhole society. Like I have said, some can get away with anything and others do nothing and get reprimanded for what they do... it is just bad luck I suppose. Reject- Ryan Gibson has an obvious snuff ring in his back pocket, he spits all over everything.

He has spiky hair that is somewhat distracting, chains hanging from his wallet, which is an accident waiting to happen, yet no one sees that. Ryan- he likes showing off... one thing, for instance, is how he- has five tattoos, and two of them being portraits of his two kids, offspring are from two completely different girlfriends. Let's not fail to mention his hygiene problem; you can smell him before he walks in the building. He is not the brightest crayon in the box; the rumor in the hellhole is that his kids are going to finish school before he does. Yet this is what I am classed as too? I just do not get it! Stoner- Timothy Lartinez smokes two packs a day. Yet this is okay. Prep- Jessica Marshall pops pills out of a candy dispenser. Well, who am I to say what is right and wrong? It is your body you can do whatever you want with it. Just do not be stupid.

(The periods)

I have a teacher he is known to be the most gifted science educator and astrology fanatic, here at the hellhole. He likes to say- 'We are all made out of star stuff!' He is an interesting character, to say the least, he wears a lab coat constantly and combs what little bit of hair he has on his head all to the front. He drinks six cups of coffee per one class session, it is funny how high strung he is... somebody whispers one word and he jumps five feet in the air.

Dr. Valadez is his name, he is constantly talking about evolution, and that the Bible and religion, in general, are just one of the greatest works of fiction ever created.

Dr. Valadez is the dumbest smart person, which I have ever met if that makes any sense. Have you ever noticed that some people are so smart they lack common sense? For example- This man will put his face right down to a Bunsen burner to light it. I am not a genius, but I know better than to do that. Every time I or one of my classmates walks through the door, he always says quote- 'When I kick the bucket... just put me on a wooden raft and float me out on a river, on a full moonlit night, and light me up like a Viking, and send me back to the stars.'

I just chuckle in my mind, yet I understand his logic, but I cannot help but roll my eyes, as well as wonder what is this man thinking... or is he? Since in my mind I think, you will not need that raft, because you are going to blow yourself up long before you need that, or your kidneys are going to fail you... or something like that is bound to happen. He is like a ticking time bomb. Boom- Boom! Something exploded! What a whack- job! Yet he is entertaining for us all in the class, I would have to say, I get a belly laugh, we all do. Not because we learned anything, 'No!' It is more than this is such a joke, to sit through every day. Yet he is the so-called smart one? I suppose that puts a completely new meaning to 'Ashes to ashes dust to dust.' I personally just find it to be a gruesome way of disposal. But- yet once again... it is all that you choose, and your beliefs- right?

(Next period)

Once again, I am in blood-curdling Bradbury's class, we have to endure the same babbling performances of attention by her- one of the higher authorities. Except for today, we have to do our annual weekly spelling bee. However, the spelling list is probably what would be, considered to be at the second-grade level. I am thinking to myself along with the others that have to sit through this class along with me. 'Really if you cannot spell by the time you are in high school, most likely you never will.' So... as the teacher is pronouncing words like Cat, Fish, and Dog.

Once again, the door is hanging open the whole time, and our minds are forced shut. We just have to sit and listen to her screaming at the top of her lungs once more. As we roll our eyes in embarrassment and slide lower and lower in is a desk with humiliation, as she gets pissed, and the pride we had before walking into this class gets pissed on. The two reject twins Mary and Carry in the class mocks her in there fake British and Irish accents. Mary will say something like- 'Oh- Bloody hell Miss. Bradbury, I pissed my skirt!' Because she was not allowed to go to the restroom by herself. Then Carry will say- 'I need to go... are you going to look at me this time?'

(Irish) Marry- 'It is cold in here!'

(British) Carry- 'Yes, yes- it is!'

(Irish) Marry- 'I agree, truly!'

(British) Carry- 'Yes!'

It is a little- 'Nipple-a-ly' in here, is it not?'

(Irish) Marry- 'Surely, I need a jacket, to cover them up.'

Me- he-he, with a giggle!

At that moment, the pink slips come out once more, for all of us. 'You all can sit in detention' -She would say. - 'I don't care!' Thinking to ourselves, we got news for you we do not care either. You sick twisted crazy bitch! The only things we care about is how you are screwing us over. Since there is not a damn thing, we can do about it.

Yapper just stuck here, yes jammed in here, in all these classes, just like the food that is stuck in Miss. Bradbury's teeth, and adult braces. You know that is never going to come out either. Then it is back to the two-class clowns. Oh, believe me, I almost pissed my skirt just laughing at those two comedians! The stuff they pull is just not normal. Yet again, what is normal anyway? You have to have some fun... just like- 'You are not alive unless you live a little.' Therefore, that is what we all try to do, live a little.

However, that is not allowed for us, in these classes... like this one, and this classification. –I presume! Some days what I do generally after this ridiculous undertaking of achievement, of forming letters into one-syllable words on insignificant papers. I open my notebook, and start drawings something to entertain my mind, which is not allowed by her, she takes my drawing or whatever has been created and rips it up. Then she throws it into the garbage can. Yet being creative is something that she will never understand. Oh, how I would love to wipe that grin off of her face, however, that is what she wants me to do is retaliate so, that she can throw me in the dungeon lockdown with the other rejects, after hours.

Then the bell rings, and into the halls, we go to be run over by a stampeding herd, all the faces still stare, yet they do not have a care about anyone or anything. Walking down the hall, you will see the two other rooms with the rejects that are in lockdown, generally for no good reason, however, the authority makes everyone else feel that they need to be punished. Just because some of us learn, think and do things differently than the so-called rest of the population in this school. Sad to say that I am forced into being part of this grouping, a classification of labeling that is complete bull shit for anyone that has to indoor what they want us to do, say, and think. We are railroaded into it, and the tower is in control, she oversees the higher authority and the decision- making. It is all out of our hands, and those that refuse, have two options. They either put up with what they choose for us or have an alternative education at another establishment of hell.

I call this lockdown; some of the rooms are no bigger than six by six feet, or so it seems. You are not allowed to move or speak for seven hours while some greasy-haired prick stares at you and make sure you lose your mind. Talk about solitary confinement. Just like every other class, I have to ask permission to go to the restroom. All these years, I have been asking permission just to take a piss and dripping it while holding it in, when not allowed too.

Times like this- 'I have just learned to become a space cadet, and dream my life away. Fantasy is a whole lot better than sitting in this reality.' To keep from, exploding! I wait until the classroom bells ring out. Then I have to go to my next class which is music and listen to the shouting of DeVolcano the fat bastard, that has something against the rejects, and anyone that is not his pet. Ava, for example, is one of those pets; she gets all the solos, it is hilarious because she has no talent.

Nevertheless, she gets the spotlight and I am left behind, it is funny to think that they even let me out of my little room long enough, to take a music class.

DeVolcano thinks that I cannot handle it, or anything else for that matter. I guess the completely made up documentation is all the proof that he needed to make such judgments. I just politely go on with my day, because there is nothing I can do anyway. Then again, I told you this guy had issues, Along with the rest of them.

(The support)

I have this emotional support teacher named Miss. Thorn, this woman was and still is a nut job. Yet she claims that I am a danger to myself and others, yet she creeps on me at the oddest of times, however, she never sees what they do to me, only what I do back. She makes it seem to the higher authority that I need to be in all these special classes too.

Why?

Because I am too much of a distraction and a hold up to all the others in their so-called... normal mainstream classes.

Oh, yes and because I have emotional problems too, let's not forget about that- or so they say. They all say that I need this...! Yet all my peers get to sit through, their normal days.

Yet, I am locked up with the rejects, which do not care, if they all get a diploma or not...! Woot! Woot! For me- right! What gets me is I do care about getting good grades, and I want to be in the normal classes, yet the higher authority will not let me be normal. They want me to get behind! So, they can have their substantial income, I was a target for the reason that I have no one that would fight for me. If I would speak up, I would get this quote shoved in my face.

'You can go to an alternative school; we can have you sent out. 'To a school that would fit your special needs.' You know to a loony bin, funny farm, a dumb-dumb school. Yes, I know of some rejects that went there... it is not good! They go out as one person, and if they come back some-day, their minds have been raped, and they are never the same.

All the rejects myself included having a speech teacher named - Miss. Mendoza, her job is to teach us the sounds in a word- 'To break it all down.' If you are categorized like me then the teacher thinks that you are too damn stupid to learn how to read and write a complete sentence without their so-called help. So, every day we go over the same old shit never getting past 'Aaa, Baa, Daa, and Caa.' We sit in the breezeway, being timed while reading our first-grade storybooks, day in and day out. As the other heartless children that walk by us yell-

'Sped, Sp-ed, and SPED-ers.'

'Look at the sped, which are messed up in the head, they should be dead!' '-cute you can rhyme!' Words I hear from them every day- 'Sandwich makers, creepers, retards, losers, you should die, freaks, you're a waste, don't talk to any of my friends, afraid to fight, no-swag, simple-minded.' Just to name some. As they go to their normal classes, kids are so mean to what they do not understand!

What is funny- I most likely forgot more than they even know.

Yet I am the one that is classed as a loser in this society. Oh, well, - I guess! I did not deserve all this crap! All they did was mixed me up, with everything. They all say that I will never do anything with my life. 'But I will!' Therefore, as of now, I am just sitting back while taking mental notes. Yet, I cannot help but think you all will get your payback someday. You just wait and see, somehow and some way, you have hell to pay, I am certain of that fact. Just like- Someday you might want me, and I will not want you!

The art teacher is an asshole! Mr. Zimmer this man cannot even draw a stick figure. Yet he is known to be something remarkable. That reminds me, that I am not allowed to take any creative classes, electives, or something fun. Everything in my studies, I mean everything I have is basic, basic, and basic. I have to do the same extremely basic elementary studies all my years here. It is like in math we have not even gotten past  $2+2=4$ !

Lucky if we know how to read an old-style clock. Lucky if we can make a change with money. We are lucky if we know ten of the US states. We are lucky if we can fake to people that we can read more than what we do. Luckily if we can fake the words, we spell out on paper to hand to somebody. Lucky for us we can do what we can do. No thanks to them.

Oh- yes, the world can be a very scary place, when you cannot understand or decipher what it is you are looking at, and everything goes fuzzy and scrambled when trying to focus in as if it all jumps around on the page. Then again, it is just as scary when they cannot understand you, and what you are trying to say or write to them. I always hated reading to the class, or when I was tricked into reading something to someone and having to stop at every other word. It makes you feel like a damn fool.

Just like when the girl next to me in class has to whisper every sentence to me. I feel that my IQ is about the same as my shoe size. I want to run out of the room and never face all of them ever again. Nevertheless, I know that I am not stupid. Yet I feel that way, and they see me that way. Though, what can I do? So, the higher authority said that all my time in school needs to be spent in a closet doing basic things because I have a basic mind. Hence, so I can get caught up in my studies... now that is a joke...!

They also have for me what they call support class. No class, just time to do whatever I need to get caught up on, from the other classes I am in. Yet that consists of... not much of anything. Most days you just sit their sucking air. Like the only thing, you get in this period is a bunch of negative and hurtful comments and deceitful advisement. I do not give a shit about you, it is their attitude.

There is no help for the rejects; the only escape is the library if you are lucky enough to get away. There were days I remember that I stayed in the same room, with the same teacher, and I did not leave for hours at a time. Then people wonder why I am a social retard? This is how I feel about any support classes or special education; all they do is support you in becoming a loser. It is not what is needed to learn. It is a waste of time, a waste of someone's life. It stops that life from living; I should know I am living with it. You try it and see how you like it, and we would call you crazy too.

In these classes, we know that our voices echo down the corridors as we read this shit, but we are forced to read out loud. Everyone knows that we are the rejects; they can see and hear that we are not the normal kids in the school. The other teens walk the halls with a strut, yet we are their suckers with the walk of shame, everyone that sees us glares down upon us as if we are from another planet. Like we are so gross, to them that we do not deserve to live or inhale the same air as they do. That reminds me- Just like Ava keeps saying that she is going to bury me alive, on top of Lily's grave! Okay then- what the hell, is taking you so long; just do it, if that is what you, and your posse want. Then I would at least have Lily next to me for some company.

The Past It Haunts

I think back to the past often and look at my life, and ponder my thoughts to see, who was there, who was not, and what is no longer and never going to be! I think about getting older, the memories they come and go, the stories start and end, what do I have to show for the life that I have led? As of now not much, who do I have to blame, or should I blame myself for what is out of my hands.

Do I blame myself, or the others or should I pin it all on the tower? Sometimes I sit on the swing that is part of the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams, and I see my life flashed before my eyes. I float on a stream of air, and it drifts me away at the day's end, and until it becomes night once more. I set, and it is as if I watch as the seasons slowly change. Sometimes, I see the pouring down rain.

Sometimes, I see the sun.

Some days it is like I do not see anything or anyone, for they are lost to me as I am in my fog. It is just like all those days that the snow starts to fall heavy, as I set with the freezing feeling inside and out. The fields are covered over with ice and snow, with nothing to do.

It is no fun to sled ride, snowman making, and snowball fight all alone. All I can do is sit on this swing while looking over at all the magical wonders of Jack Frost. It is beautiful, yet so cold. Just like me as the days get emotionless, so do I.

It is like I freeze up too, as I sit with not a thing to do, or go inside and sit too. Looking out the frosty glass of the split windows feeling oh so blue. Just like the overcast sky, and snowdrifts on the land that reflects the airstreams paths, which cut right on through, that soft frosty color, and the flakes flutter outside it seems two by two. It is these days when the times change, and the night comes rolling in far too soon, and the lights outside have halos of iciness around them. As well, the ancient hand shovel becomes my best friend time and time again. Just like, there is a season for everything and everyone! 'One is gone away forever, for another to be born... it is all part of the circle of life.' I believe that the divine master is the connection to our ancestors.

If we listen, we can hear them as they speak wisdom down to us. That is only if we tune our ears to what they have to say.

Can you hear the voices in your head as I do? Sometimes the sun shines; sometimes I am sitting alone in that rain watching as it pounds my body, and sometimes the rays of sun soothe my soul. Sometimes, I am not alone, even though she is not seen. There were times I was with Maiara Chenoa, and we talked about the times of the past, present, and future. Now all I have is the past to think about, and the future to worry about living. Oh yeah about that thing, I am so happy to say that she and I made up, about two weeks after our fight.

However, it will never be as it was before. We are just friends, and nothing more. She comes over to my home on the weekends again, like before, yet not quite like beforehand. Sometimes she joins me and we become us again, just like some will watch and protect us, and some will try to destroy.

Nevertheless, she is the one that guards me the most she is mine, and I am hers. Can you fathom what I am saying to you? She watches over me in her glow of white. We speak of a place that is so unlike what is known to the rest of the mere mortals, which live in this land. Do you understand? No? Oh, you will!

(She talks to me)

She speaks to me her words! Saying things like- 'Being persistent are the keys to be truly happy. The greater the struggle, the greater the reward will be!' 'That the more I suffer, the more it shows that I care, and care for others. What I plan for myself is what I am going to grow into, and that is what I will become.' 'To always remember, that you are only a doormat as long as you let others walk all over you. When you focus on what you have been given, and what you have received in your life, that is when you know you have something to live for.'

She said to me. She would say- 'If you feel that you do not have enough without whatever you think is needed, you will never have enough of what it is that you want. True faith comes within; it is not repetitious.'

Who is she, and why does she keep saying this stuff? Well... you should know! Yet I have to say that Repetition is a part of life; it is a habit, not a belief. In doing the right things good things will come, that is only if you have the faith and the belief not a reputation of repetition. I have learned from her that all your dreams can come true, even if everybody else thinks it is impossible.

You have to look at your own heart. Because no one can see your true story other than you. They can see fragmented parts of what may be but they cannot understand the full picture, the pitchers showed when it develops into what it is meant to be. One other thing that I have learned to do, even though it is difficult... is to look into my mirror and scan over my body and say.

‘You are beautiful, you are positive, you are smart and creative, and you are something extraordinary that has meaning to someone.’ It is all because of her, she makes me feel good about who I am, yet she always did when she was with me, as I always did for her. ‘No one can stop me because I am perfect just the way I am, and nobody is going to change that fact.’ She made me promise her that I make the assurance to say one nice thing about myself, each day. What if I do all things will look up for me in my life. To keep telling myself all these beliefs... To- ‘Always think positive... about yourself and the others around you.’

‘This will help you live a more confident fulfilled life. It will bring happiness to you, and the others that you are surrounded with also.’ Therefore, from that, I have come to believe. If the others do not see my vision, that is when I walk away and find new ones that want to be in my illustration of life.

Remember they have the choice, but it is your final decision about what you choose. Like everything in life is a sin it seems, yet it is known for us not to dwell, sometimes you just have to say what the hell, and see what happens. God is marvelous in what he has us do, even when we have no clue what we are doing, he does and she was sent to me because I was in need. I have to believe; I do believe that because she is next to me right now! You cannot see her, but I can. And-no, she is not imaginary; this became an ability for me, that started after my second chance at life. When I thought I feel free from the noose, she saved me, from certain death!

(Have faith)

I believe that if you tell yourself something long enough you can achieve anything. Furthermore, if you hear somebody's negative comments long enough you will believe what they have to say. What it may do for us and the others, which are part of our lives is an adventure in itself. That everything is just memories of the books of life. Like even if others that are part of the chapters do not want to be a part of our story or not, they all have some meaning and are meant to be in there- yes for some purpose.

‘Do not believe the lies of a toxic mouth and tongue, for they do nothing but destroy your true being of self-expression.’ Generally, it is a bunch of nonsense words and thoughts of jealousy, hatred, and judgment. You have to believe in yourself and believe in your abilities. ‘You will not believe what you can do if you only imagine.’ I have learned to let go of the past and all the yesterdays for they are no longer, the importance is the tomorrows to look forward to.

That reminds me of Soul Travel- by definition is the astral projection and analysis of out-of-body experience. It is the adoption of an ‘Astral body.’ Like when it separates from the physical body, it is capable of traveling outside; I have felt that, as I have been with her. I have had this sensation many times in my life now... after that day. Oh yes, others have tried to penetrate mine, as you know. I can feel the energy. Just like the definition of an Angel is a supernatural being or spirit, often depicted in humanoid form, with feathered wings on their backs and halos around their heads, found in various religions and mythologies. Well, it is not a myth at all!

They are real!

They are real to me... I can see them as I said Lily, she is next to me right now! -She said hello, by the way. Oh, be nice to her as you know she is shy! There is so much more to them than that awful definition implies. They live within us and around us if we accept them in our time of need. It is like her spirit body descends and hovers around me at all times, she guides me now in my life path, only if I want to listen, and if I want to understand what she has to say. Just like true love never dies! You can even talk to them, and see them in front of you. Like I can! They are not that different from you and me. It is a great gift to have! ‘Angelology’ is an extraordinary study.

Something I had never thought about until that day and days after.

Just remember that all demons, devils, and fallen angels, they were all defeated the day Jesus was hung on the cross. Yet that does not stop them, the living people that want to follow what they say, and that have a hunger for blood and death, to do what they do-just like they do to me. Just like the sisters do, I am next on their hit list, and that is the reason why. They are truly daemonic! If you find them, do not listen to them! If anything, you should look down at them, because they belong below your feet. Do you know what I mean?

If not just think about it, and you will get it. The one thing that is interesting about life, and the others surrounded by your society, they know what they are doing... they know if it is right or wrong. Yet there may still be a drive to do the right or wrong thing. It is all depending on their beliefs on what they choose to do, and how they want to do it, and when they are going to do it. 'I believe that everyone will have their day, and some will have a second chance.' Like me! However, do they deserve it? Like, was I worthy of having it? That is the question; I will let you choose, what do you think?

(My life as of now)

I would have to say, and I believe that I got rid of some of my demons, throughout this last year, which has hounded me over the years and bites, at my heels constantly. Yet they still get at me sometimes, nevertheless what is known from there tells and rumors remains in some parts of this land of many steeples, that is not going away anytime soon even with the help of Lily. She can only do so much for me. Still, I feel this is my time now! I can feel it, like the wind in my hair on a summer's day. I feel the time for me to do as I please, and spend my time in the summer breeze is coming fast. I feel that all is coming to the past. Maybe someone else is going come along with me also at some point, on these days to come, I sure hope so, I have faith that it will.

Who knows what will happen? Over this summer's break coming up. What will happen is out of my hands, but- yet at this moment as of now I can lose the shackles to my inhibitions, and then be free, if only for a little while. I think about love this way now- 'It should be that cupid's arrow that strikes at a most unlikely time. It is when you may realize, that they have been in front of you all along, that is what love is all about.' Love may just be right in front of me, and I have overlooked them? Always thinking I was not good enough, not cute enough, and not sexy enough. But- maybe I am? Maybe, I am my hardest enemy?

I believe- 'A relationship will change me, and also you in many ways for the greater good or bad; this could be the right time for an association, that looks like it is about to deliver us the promises, comfort, pleasure, and lust that may come with it. This can be the start of intimacy in our lives; this may never be the same again without you. I know this is either going to pass or fail, in our relationship, if it works!' –As planned! I know that everything in my life cannot always stay the same. Things are going to change. It is all part of the journey of life that our master creator has planned for us; it is all part of the path we choose. 'We have the ultimate freedom to do as we please, to please the others around us, and to please our creator, to please our educators, to please our students, only if we choose to do so.' Though I now feel that, it is my turn to do what I please, with whom I want to please, and whoever wants to please me. It is time for me to do what I need to do, and what I must do!' I feel that I need to make the plans for someday, even as of now! I can dream, and that dream is going to come true, I can feel that it will!

One of the places I go throughout the day is a room that is considered to be the library. A room that is mysterious in its creation, a room that is lonely and longs for companionship, a room that contains endless possibilities. This intrigues me no end, just like the books I do not want to be judged by the covers, I want someone to open me up, and look inside... or something like that? This is a place where I go to regain my composure yes because I have all these endless thoughts and all the impressions spinning around me... from all the days. All of that in which I have gone through, I know that there will not be anyone else in the room that will disturb me, from the rebuilding of my emotions. Plus, it is so good to get away from that little room, when I can, as you know, the days are coming to their end, slow- but sure. I love to stroll through the hellhole's library, where there is a smell of moldy paper and yellowing thoughts of past from all the authors that have been forgotten.

The librarian's name is Mr. Kunze the man has to be in his late seventies, you will see him sitting behind his desk half passed out, or looking over the books, that have been branded impractical by the hellhole society. Mr. Kunze's glasses sit on the desk for there is no need for him to review anything because there has not been a book checked out in years. He is a forgetful person, repeating and murmuring the same phrases over and over. He refers to all the females as Jane, which comes across his range of view. Most of my classmates speak of him as being crazy, however, I think he is a genius, yet it is chosen not to be seen. He was left to be forgotten like the books on the shelves. Jane- was his late wife. Mr. Kunze's- 'Jane, Jane is that you?' –Nope, it is just me, your friend Nevaeh. What did you do with Jane, sweetie? He asks me all the time and I have to say- 'She passed on.'

He would say- 'Oh, I see!' Then he starts to cry, and tells me, the stories of how they encountered their togetherness, and their lives together. -it is so sweet, yet so sad. As preteen lovers on their homeland over in some European country, they both immigrated separately on steamer ships as teens, just too somehow, met up in this same town a few years later on planned. A True love they had, with fate- that is what I want also! I look at his photos on his desk of his family, of his five kids, not one of them cares to say a word to him, or call, or whatever.

Yet, I think he has done his job well. He tried his best; I feel that he did; now when he needs some love back, he is not getting it. The only one that loved him was she. Yet, that is life... it seems I think I know how he feels. Just like I suppose thinking for yourself is not allowed in this unorganized establishment. All the books that make you think on a higher level have been locked away and stored away to never be seen by anyone that has a brain left in their head. It is like the spiders have made curtains of webs that block, out the many volumes of information, that will never be acknowledged or obtained by my classmates, or me. The walls and the keyboard avatars are the ones that create the fiction placed down upon the characters in which they choose to harass. That is all part of the existence of life within the hellhole.

The cyber webs replaced what was once known to be the ideal way of retrieving information, the fantasy lands and mind created places that were generated in the fiction category are lost forever. The facts in the text are all marked or printed to be out-of-date, and are nurtured senseless to the others to be identified as not needed in life anymore. Why look in a book when we can ask a computer? –They all say. The hellhole library is a dark and dusty cavernous space that was once found to be useful. Back in the days before electronics took over the minds of the world.

The floorboards creak as I walk down the long mahogany tattered cases that are known to contain nothing but forgotten information. The only other use for this space is for the teens to cut class for a place of passion; for they know that there is no one there to catch them in their various acts. The library is ghostly in its sounds, which seem to resonate across the chamber of whispers. I hear in the distance many distorted and twisted sounds... Maybe it is the sounds that are echoed from the air ducts, which are connected to all the classrooms? Maybe it is the sisters and clan following me around like always. Maybe it is the entities that are trying to escape from my dream catcher. Yet I am the only one that can see angels fighting them all off. Yes, fighting them off me, along with their demons, devils, and other spirits.

The ones they worship also are in these battles. They like to stock and fondle me as they fly all- around me. Just like the sisters do what they want to do to me. It is like they use their evil powers as the energy stores, to get inside of me. The evil spirits come from the tower's spells. Have they followed me here from the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams to diminish me? What is that sound? It could be Lily expanding her wings, flying behind me as she is casting down her glow of protection right above me, never far away from me. From what I can see Lily fly's particularly fast to keep up with me if I need to run for some reason. It is like you can hear the screams from the hell, Maybe- it could be the teens cutting class, one or the other there is something plain spooky about the hellhole library, I feel as if they cast down on me with a spell. 'The pages seemed to whisper to me, yet I cannot hear what they have to say, their cases are forever closed, and they are faded in their colors that all blend into one another, yet they sparkle in their temptation of wonder.' However, it would be inappropriate for someone that is classed like me to touch and view them, so I just walk past, trying not to even look at them. Just like love, it is forbidden to me. But someday soon, I will see!

The Art Deco style interior with its cascading lights seemed to dim as if the room has its heartbeat and pulse. The sun's rays beam in streams, the only room that has natural light, yet it is hollow and vast because there is no other human life in this section. The only part of the hellhole library that is inhabited is the new section which contains the modern-day technologies of acknowledgment. It is more important for us as a society to use electronics for entertainment and retrieval. We all have become illiterate and lazy, yet they say I am more than they are. Why- should we look in a book when we can push a button, however once again it is all about what we choose to do? 'So, do we light all the books a flame and forget about them forever? Or do we all smash our electronics, and go back to information that makes perfect sense?' The choice is yours what would you do?

(Time is ending)

Mr. Kunze was forced to retire after that year, and that section of the library was sealed off forever, brick by brick... gone never to see the light of day again. They are books in the dark, books that speak to the heart, books that once were considered to make us smart. Books that are now falling apart, all these books that will not be seen, it truly breaks my heart. It is hard for me to say goodbye to these works of art.

Its summer's, time to make a new start!

Chapter: 16

What I Need, And What I Have

Chiaz Nazareth- How do I get away from Alissa?

I do not know if I can anymore, how do I break up with someone that will not let me break up with them? She is latched on to me forever it seems, bonded for life? However, I want to move on to someone new. I plan to become friends with her best friend Maiara Chenoa, and maybe fate will take its course and we can finally be together. That is only if someone does not try to ruin my plans. We are going to be together; I just have that feeling. The wondering eyes, the eye in the sky. She believes that she can talk to Angels that can fly. All the days rush by, still, I try. However, she is so shy, having no choice but to sign, and standby, and waving to one another secretly at the day's end; no, we cannot even say the words goodbye. Allison and Alissa, two of the sisters like to watch us, and follow us everywhere we try to go to get away; they like to see if I will cheat on my so-called girlfriend –Alissa.

Ava her little sister, is not Nevaeh's girlfriend! Yet in the eyes of the school and town, she is. She knows what I am going through, and I know how she feels too. They make it so we are kept apart. However, it is okay... for my so-called girlfriend. Alissa to do whatever, she can do as she pleases with any person she wants to please, I just do not like it, yet what the hell can I do about it, at least I know that I will have her to feel my needs, yet she is not what I need. She is someone to hold on too. Thus far, she has been holding on to far too many. I do not like all the running around, which is sickening, I think that a girl that has been with more the two partners is disgusting.

Yeah what can I say, I do not want the leftovers. It is like any more you have to steal your girl from her momma, when she is at a young age, and raise her just to know that she is going to be true to you. Also, to know that they have not slept with every walk of life around here. Yet that is difficult too because it is not like the old days.

Girls can say anything, and a guy can get into a lot of trouble, I should know what I have to put up with, by the ways of her. Yet I am stuck in her grasp with no choice in the matter, I have to watch every move I make because it will go back to her and her family that is awe so powerful. They could ruin me with their word of mouth like they have with her. However, it is also tempting to break the ties away from the Amsel family, and finally be with the girl of my dreams. 'But as of now I just have to sit back and wait, and plan accordingly and let the puzzle pieces fall into place.'

Nevaeh- Thank God, that my sophomore year of high school has come to its completion. In all, honesty, I need a break, and I am tired of everybody's bullshit. However, I am going to take some of the people's advice, and get out there in the real world and intermingle with others. Let's see what the summer has to bring for me it shall be interesting, I cannot Wight! It is summertime June 6 it is here, at last, I have freedom, finally getting away from the hellhole. My vacation is finally here, 'I have independence at last!' 'I am going to try, and let the past behind me, and all of the days gone by.' Hopefully, I can find new people whom I can establish a relationship with, that is if the tower and her clan do not follow me.

I will just have to wait and see. As I said, I have ideas. Oh, the summer breeze; bring some people to their knees. Staring up at all the shady trees, the summer is nothing but a tease, of saying the words like yes and please, while looking over the vast colorful horizons, and wishing to be somewhere there are gleaming seas. Even on the summer days, I still run the tracks with its many different paths when I feel frustrated, and when I need a break from all the individuals. I feel as if I could run forever, and never look back. Maybe if I ran fast enough nothing wicked will follow me.

Lily my Guardian Angel she empowers me when my emotions change from calm, to sometimes turbulent. She helps me ride the waves of a troubled deep dark sea; she is always there for me if I fall to my knees. She helps me overcome my fears, and she wipes away any tears, she always stays near to me. She makes everything clear; she is there to help me regain control. When life brings its fools and towers that steal my delight and tries to pull me into their black holes of fright. She opened my eyes to what is missing in my life and helps me see through the people who live in strife. And she lets me know that everything is going to be all right. She makes me see the world through her sight.

Lily- Her words to me where: 'You are about to get involved in something serious. Do not take any misled opportunities if you can avoid, do not take anything too lightly, before having considered all your options and choices. Be sensible do not let down your guard. Listen to your heart, and your mind. Do not rush! If you rush things like- they may not work out as they should... so use this wisdom, you can save yourself from regret.'

So, Lily has white wings that resemble feathers on the ends of the wings, spiritual eyes that look into a pure soul. She radiates with the most stunning bright white light. I have learned that Angels that are younger than the age of twenty do not have robes of white. They have a spiritual body that is flawless in every way, and they shimmer. Besides a halo that shines above their head. Yes, her hair is still braided. However, it flows in the gentle wind that seems to surround her as she floats above the ground.

Lily reminds me that I will be taking a great risk, that there will be new adventures in my life, which most likely will lead to passionate endeavors. She is helping me figure out the pros and cons of every situation, although she lets me make the decisions of what I am going to do next. 'She told me I need to plant myself and grow into what I am meant to be.'

That I should stop dwelling on what I do not have and think about what I do, Lily expressed to me- 'That life is precious, and new lives are going to develop in my being.' At this time, I did not understand what she meant, she was very ambiguous with me, and left the deciphering making in my hands. 'She gave me the full picture. However, it was out of focus, only with time will it become clear.' Every departure Lily says these words: 'Do not live in fear, because I am always here, just like you never forgot about me, I will be there for you!' Well, it is not so much that she goes away, it is more like she just makes it seem like she is not there, I guess? She is fast, she can go up there, and back in the blink of my eyes, so maybe? It seems for some reason I have become Ava's and her sisters' clans object of desire- if you have not predicted.

However, I am going to refuse her grasp in every way possible. I feel that her demonic power is no match for the spiritual power that guides me, and guards me. Not to mention- 'It is about time someone stood up to her and her despicable family.'

I keep having premonitions. Some show me the way, and the others whisper to me. Some even call me up to their graves, like she did when she died, and I can see and feel them like they move through me internally. I can feel what may happen next to me, or someone else; even those that have not been born yet. I can feel it all, even if I do not want too. What I want to feel I cannot. That is amusing is it not?

(I remember this past school year, even though it is summer.)

I forgot about this one. One of the traits that the sisters like to do to their victims as they walked past in the hall, spits on them, and make sexual kissing gestures. Then walk by with their noses in the air, yet there is no one to stop it, no one to care. It does not matter where you go; they are always behind you or in front.

The only one that understands it all... and all about me is not seen by anyone but me. However, they may feel the breeze of her spirit. But yet I know she is always there for me. Once again- I am reminded of the bridge of dizzying heights, will I ever make it a crossed. Will the other side bring joy or pain? Only with time shall I know... Maybe once I make it a crossed there will be ultimate freedom, as I see in 'The Land of Many Steeples' the freedoms are slowly being taken away.

(What I see)

We are spiraling into the infernos. While the kids cannot be kids because there are too many mandates preventing them from having a childhood and technology takes the place of their recreation of play.

(Asking myself, why I am like this?)

If I think back on it there was no good reason why they made me part of this rejected grouping. The only reason in my mind is that they wanted me to not have any popularity, and compress all my abilities and talents to the world.

Why?

Because, they are envious, jealous, and bitter of me, desirous of what... I still have not figured that out. Maybe I have something they want? Maybe I have some they do not want? I have worked extremely hard for what I have in my life, and I am blessed for everything, that is in my life existence, and if you're jealous of me you shouldn't be, maybe try a bit harder, and you too can have what you want.

That is how I feel about it. Just remember that you cannot have it all! I would like to say to the sisters and everyone that jealousy gets you nowhere, my only suggestion is to work hard and you will have just as much if not more than I will. I would love to say this to them! 'This is what you need to do. Grow up, get a life, and stop being so damn ignorant. Most importantly go be somewhere that is not in my path.'

(Most summer's days end this way)

I was walking home at night, from the bridge of dizzying heights like always, and past the graveyard. Always balancing my one foot on the railroad tracks one by one and Lily is not far behind. Yet out of the misty haze jumped out Ava or one of the clan, from behind one of these old oak trees along the way, and she or they jump me. Like this one day, Ava tied me down to the tracks, with my own, one and an only sundress that I bought for the summer days, she wrapped it around my neck and tied it into knots, through the one rail, and she got her way with me ones more. Just like, she did in school.

Nevertheless, Lily was trying to fight her off me, and the sparks flew as Lily was struggling with her, and she was strangling me. Yet Ava's power was just too strong that night with the large full moon as the fire was in her eyes, and the look of a werewolf on her face, in the swoon light, it is like she is more powerful than another day on that night. It was like Ava was forming at the mouth, as she was attacking the top of me feeling me inside and out, as her evil soul was trying to penetrate mine. I could feel her wet drippy nose up my dress. I can feel her long tongue flicking and licking me, up down all around. I can hear her make this nose- Mum, Mum.

Oh, the hot breath coming out of her mouth on each side, as she clamps on with her fang-like incisors, that are razor sharp. It is like her teeth would bite into me there, and make me so weak I would pass out. Until now, I would bleed without any bight markings left behind. Yes, even on summer days, they come around me. Like that day, Ava pulled up one of the railroad spikes up and out of the railroad ties from the ground with her bare hands. Then she began roughly using it on me. It is like she pumps in cocktails of venom with her nibbles of taste, and my soul is floating out of my body as she comes in.

My body is paralyzed, yet I feel the pain, and my soul and faith is challenged. So far, she will never get me all the way, I will never become one of them! I found out that she loves to suck out my blood, and everything else that comes with it. For that is what gives her evil strength, it is the same as being drugged when she draws from me. That is why I could not remember the times before, she slurps it up, and to the point, I go into shock. Always, Lily rips her and her sisters off me, and she pulls out their powers at some point. At the very moment, Ava and her clan run away like weeping puppies. They all go away until she and they want' -to try once more. Then Lily helps me come back to life, did I die once more? Did - I? Like I did before? Once more, it is not my time to leave this life. Why? I do not know?

Book: 3

The Lusting Sapphire Blue Eyes

Summer days and junior year, you are my sunshine that brightens up my full moon; we are going to soar together, we will not need to wish upon a star because our dreams will, at last, become true. There may be dark clouds overhead, and times of rain. This may be there showering upon us, but love still grows, we will not care, we will be there looking at that view that goes on for miles. Sometimes we will have to cope with the rainfall that wants to keep us apart. Sometimes I think that I am going to lose my way to you. While the gray storms end up taking our joyful colors away once more.

Upon the clear, we stand together at last... arm in arm, and hand and hand, we are laced, and we embrace one another. The colors of red, blue, and pink are the sky once more. Plus, all along you were there, this time we share. The colors begin setting the mood and light ones more.

All the vivid gold sights with the feelings of being united and that will be us as a pair. The many stars shine bright because we are going to be there all night, holding on to what we had that night.

I used to bite my lips, thinking about that gold band, and the sparkly rock on top. You can make me feel like royalty; yes, I will be your queen ruler. Maybe someday all this will not be a fantasy and the dreams will come true when we look at a different view, just me and you.

Chapter: 17

My Seclusion

Just like, I remember the- Fireflies at night, they all carry their- own light in flight. They fly higher and higher until they are out of sight. They are never in fear of the darkness because they carry their light. They constantly have hope, and it shines brightly. The firefly flies by, unlike me there are never shy. I am lying outside on the grounds a few feet from my home, yet I am still feeling all alone, listening to all the sounds of the night as they moan. I look at the full moon, knowing that I will be back in hell soon, seeing all the faces at lunch at noon. Wondering what is going to happen on my vacation in the upcoming summer in the months like in June. I lie on the cold hard ground outside looking up with the stars in the sky, remembering all the days flashing that have gone by, seeing all the faces that never even say hi, remembering the terror from the wondering eyes.

(Right now)

My head is pounding just like the thunder and lightning, the evil faces streaks crossed my face, with every bolt of lightning. This takes me back to when I was a little girl; I hope that the pink suspended feathers sweep them away in the white webs.

So, I can have a sunny day on all these rainy days that seem to never end, I just do not have much to say. I am not safe anywhere... the voices haunt me as they do. However, I just have an overwhelming urge to cry, all night and watch movies by myself. Like, I have done, these last two years of my high school life. Is anything going to change? Why must I live like this? Why do I keep living? Why can I not just pass on? I look out my window, and sometimes it takes me back to when I was young.

Some days I look out the window and the skies are scarlet, and that reminds me that, I should be out doing things with people of my age. The summer has come and gone, and the school days have started with no one to see me, or even ask if I was alive. No one cares!

Is the plan going to work? I have no idea at this point, yet I keep trying!

I guess I was cheated out of that too; some people say life is all that you decide on. I think that too, yet something's I cannot decide on. Nevertheless, to me, that is nothing but a bunch of lies with some truth behind it. If you have someone that towers over you, and that makes up complete shit about you and slanders you all your life you will end up all alone too, and then you will know what I mean.

Sometimes, I lean out my split-pane window that seems to be high off the ground, and I can hear the whistling wind stream through the leaves of the growth of trees, sometimes this reminds me about being in the garden and golden fields when my eyes are closed. But, when my eyes are open, I realized, that it is just the wind rushing through the various hills and valleys of 'The Land of Many Steeples.' I do not know what it is... but there is just something about letting your hair blow in the breeze, which feels so amazing. I feel that it is just one of the amazing moments in time, which I have experienced. Oh, just the same can be said, about me standing in the rain, freely and naturally on a warm spring day, while I am filling the ground squish under my toes.

Yes, likewise can be said for the winters when I come home from the hellhole, and see the fireplace with its warm glow, from outside the frost chilled arched windows of the tort section of the house that is part of the dwelling. 'It is amazing also because I know that I will soon be warm and comfortable, and out of this uniform that labels me as one of them.' In the wintertime, the snowdrifts, the pointed part of the roof along with the weathervane is covered in a blanket of white, 'The Land of Many Steeples' sparkles, and soft with an almost spooky light blue cast in the moonlight.

The trees down the lane drip with ice like a crystal cave, but- yet we all carve a pathway down the road that leads to the hell and then back to the emptiness. Snow days are rare, but that does not matter to me either way because I cannot truly share it with anyone it seems, as you all no. So, would you be my friend if I asked you? Would you spend some time with me? Can I depend on you; I would be there for you!

So, on any day in any weather condition, unless the fog is rising from the valley, I can see in the distance 'The Land of Many Steeples', a far cry from this country land, where the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams is upon. Then there are some days there are thunderstorms outside my window, and it takes me back to the past, like when I was in that dark room. I do not think anyone gets over their past, the past that haunts me, and a past that the tower uses against me. Yes, you can change your name. Change your hair, and change your style, but the words of slander will remain. The only thing I can do is find someone that does not care about what the words mean or say, or just plainly pray for it to all go away.

(Visions)

The tower and the clan's footprints are all-around 'The Land of Many Steeples', and lands that surround the distances. I want to believe that there are some people, that can think for themselves, yet I am not convinced yet. However, the chances are slim, I have learned this, and I know this for a fact.

(Wishes)

There is someone special in my life and I am sure when the planets realigned once more there will be more. That understands all my situations, and you should know what they are not going to care about accusations; speculations and rumors of interpretations. From your tower and clan... so just fall already, and leave me the hell alone.

(Eyeing)

Windows and rooms, they really can set the tone and mood of your whole atmosphere of life. Now my room is pink and perfect just the way I like it, I have my musical instruments, and all my comforts at hand, everything is the way I want soft and cozy and warm, unlike this emotionless cold world.

My room is always a safe place to relax now, and I am truly safe because I have the windows tamper- proofed with new locks and screens. Also, in the winter I have, they all nailed closed. Yet the clan is never far away, they are always looking in, and I just walk over and shut the curtains in their face, so I can go and lie down on my bed free and open, just the way I like it. The way it should be, without the world knowing about it. Yet I cannot help but wonder... what it would be like to look out the window someday, and see someone there to sweep me away off my feet, and take me away from this hellish land.

That would be so romantic!

(Home)

‘This land is beautiful, but the people are horrible.’ The people took this beautiful land and raped it, and put up a bunch of ugly boxes, however, my home is in the Victorian-style and it is old and has a handcrafted personality. There is an ancient oak tree outside my window, sometimes I step out my window then onto the roof of the porch, and sit in the tree branch that hangs over, and watches all the stars as they appear to turn on and off. Yes, I have wished upon a shooting star, that things will change, and that the towers will be no more. Looking straight ahead, I can see all the lights that go on the horizon, some days the sunsets are blazing before the lights turn on. Then there are some days that the window is shut because it is cold windy while everything is chilled with the color of blue.

(Frame of mind)

My mood can change just like this and that it seems. Yes, just like all the summer turns into winter, and the winters turn into spring, and all of these thoughts running in my mind fall like the leaves through my brain, and they most likely do not mean a thing. I guess you could blame it on my ADD, ADHD, dyslexia, bipolar disorder, or my OCD. I do not have any of these... I do not have anything wrong with me. But, if you are like one of the sisters or someone from my school, you would say my mood changes are because of my- STD's, HIV, or being as they say GAY or BI, and LEZ-BO. They have also said, I am a pedophile and a child stocker, and I get moody if I do not get some from them. That is why I am so sober at times, or so they say.

Whatever...! They also have said, that I am a schizophrenic- psycho and that I could not even buy love. I would not try that anyways. I think that having money does not give you happiness; I am okay being a humble farm- girl, the guy that finds me... needs to be happy with that also. I am sure there are more things they say.

However, those are just some of them that I can dredge up as of now, off the top of my head. They have murdered me and my life, in so many ways. So now, do you wonder as to why I am afraid of talking to people or even looking at them? You know you and they can try to destroy me, and my life. However, I do not have any of those listed ether; none of these random arrangements of letters defines me as the person I truly am.

(Sight)

Looking out the windows, I can see the golden hayfields of ecstasy, I see the windmills that twist and tumble. I can see the abandoned railroad track that lies not far from my home. I can hear the cries of the swing as the wind gusts in spurts. But yet I am still in my room, but that is just okay with me. Because I know that there will someday soon be someone there for me.

(Household)

My room is a land of peace and tranquility without all the gloom, with a bed and a canopy overhead but still, I am not truly happy? There is nothing- like the sounds of the crickets speaking up often in the cool August night breeze. It is relaxing to me, however; it is a reminder to me of how the last glimmers of summer are ending. Besides the sounds slowly fade away, yes- I can hear this music from my bedroom window. It is just like in the spring the birds sing in the morning and leave in the cool gusts to come. It is just like the hummingbirds that flutter by, and then before I know it, all has changed; so, it seems by the time I walk out my bedroom door, to start my day. 'Life goes in cycles of tunes it seems, and nature is its synchronization in its symphony you just have to listen.'

(Affection)

What is passion? Is it something that you care about? Is it an emotion? Or is it just a made-up illusion? Just like having a smart cell phone, I do not have one now, but I did at one time. I learned to live without; do I need fake people? I do not want to need people. Why? Because I get attached to them so easily, if you love someone, they break your heart, if you want someone... everyone makes you feel that it is surely your fault. Yet I do want what I cannot have! What is Love? Sometimes it is, and sometimes it is not, that is the way it is for me, sometimes I just cannot win and all I do is lose out.

Yet even in my room, I can feel their faces and eyes pressing down on my body, even though they cannot see me. Missing the true touch of true compatibility while knowing that it is all caused by some entities. But then again someday soon, I will have the world, and this transition of temperance will be over. I feel that I need to get rid of these weights that are holding me down, but how do I smash the tower to the ground? Is it finding love that will do the trick or something else? As of now, I do not know, and Lily is letting all the ruling cards of the lovers in my hands. I need to find the strength, endurance, and courage to overcome the towering terrors and her clans of slurs. I know the towers my grandmother's patterns and it is time to break her so that she can never rise again. 'No weapons formed over me will ever prosper.' My angel speaks the truth of hope. I have to be honest with you for the real truth to be celebrated, and I need to let him know how I feel, that he is more than my crush.

(Lunch)

Like I said- all my days go like repetition, it was either November or December, for some reason I cannot remember. But once again I am sitting in the lunchroom cramming the food down my throat, and I was sitting with Maiara Chenoa and Melvin Shezor. Melvin is only there to take in the conversations. Just like that, the conversation started that was supposed to only be between the two of us.

Nevaeh- Thereafter me!

Melvin and Maiara- Who is after you, they both said at the same time.

Nevaeh- The sisters and her clan...

Maiara- 'Again?' 'So, you were telling me the truth.'

Melvin- 'Who is the sisters?' (He rudely interrupted us to put in his two cents into the conversation.)

Maiara- The Amsel sisters, why do you think they are after you?

What did you do to them?

Nevaeh- 'Yes, from my experience, I did not do anything to them for them to want to stock me. They are up in my face constantly. They will not leave me alone. No matter where I go, there with me, yet nobody sees it but me. You will not understand - no one does... the only one that understands is Lily.'

Melvin- 'You mean the dead girl that ran through the window?'

'If nobody sees it then how can it be there?'

'What are you guys smoking, whatever it is I want some?'

Maiara- 'Shut up Melvin! Nobody was talking to you.'

Melvin- 'Make me!'

Maiara- 'Ewe no you would like that too much.'

Nevaeh asked Maiara- 'So what should I do now?'

Maiara- 'Do not let it bother you; it is out of your hands, remember what I told you when the time comes you will know what to do.'

Nevaeh's final reply she said- 'Okay if you say so.'

(Thoughts of confidence)

I can speak freely to others like never before, and you are not going to hold me back ever again. The power is in my voice, the voice that speaks up for others is going to show just how evil you are. My destiny is on the way, coming closer to me each day. It is in my own hands, and your rain is almost over forever. You will no longer be the towering serpent that slithers and tricks my secret admirers away from me; you will no longer be underneath my angel's oak tree anymore, to coax them away. My tomorrows will reveal the new changes to my track so that they are together.

I am forgetting about the roadways of the past, and I am walking hand and hand down new rails, with a champion of companion under my wheels of fortune. The lovers, identification card has been shown, only time will tell who he is. I am not letting anyone run me out of steam. The main question is which way we should go now we have to make a decision. The Judgment card is in my hands, and in my future, it is telling me to prepare myself for this change. There is a Star beginning to shine for me, and the planets are at last shining on my dwelling. It is as if I can feel the love going through me as I sit, stand, walk, and even lie down, it is pulsating through me. I know it is coming my way soon, what it may be or what it is, I not sure but of yet. Nevertheless, it is going to feel oh so good. It is feeling really good for me; it will feel good for him, and good for us, and it will be the end of them. Maybe this is what living is all about? This is going to be so good!

Maybe this is what I needed to go for all along?

(Lasting touch)

Oh, I still remember the last time we touched, it seemed so long ago, yet it was not that long ago really. When he touched me, my hand tingled as if he made a spark of lightning run up my arm and throughout my nerves. Which rushes to my brain and back down to my toes, and stimulates everything in between throughout me, which just turned me on, and lit me up with a white glow of exhilaration. Even a distance, all I have to do is think about him or simply imagine, and I know he can feel me, I know we have felt one another without touching also.

As always, he feels like electricity passing through me.

Even when he is just sitting next to me in class, or walking by me; I feel what it would feel like to have him inside of me, to pass through me as he would go in and out of my body. Yet I want the real thing! I need him; I want to feel, even more, this is good, but I want everything, I need all of him! Yes, I am still in love with that boy! It is as if I am spiritual, emotionally, and morally aware of him, and linked somehow. It is what he does for pleasure, all his sensations go through me, as mine goes through him, all we need to do is think or feel ourselves.

We both can feel each other, and that is so sensual to me, and surely to him as well. I wonder if anyone knows that? Yes, even though we do not touch in front of anyone, I can feel his lovely soul in mine. I think this gift is something, I was granted that day, I died also, and was given life ones more by Lily's touch. Just as her touch brought me back to life, she is with me also, in many sensations, which I cannot explain, other than saying they are heavenly.

Am I Doing, Okay?

All these days reminds me of Offspring songs. There is one set of lyrics, that strikes a chord with me, and my life... the one song it speaks these words saying quote- 'Don't waste your whole life trying to get back what was taken away.' So true, that is all I have done from day one, maybe I just need to try to move on if I can. Yes, I knew that they were going to do this to me. I just had that filling along with that churning in my stomach. I knew it because; I was in the area at that time of the events that took place. I am a perfect target as usual! Oh, the sisters love to mess with people's heads. They love to toy with illusion, confusion until you have delusion; it is all part of their grandiose scheme to take control over you and me.

However, I try to live my life aloof as much as I can. But, with them up my ass constantly, there is nothing I can do, but suffer the consequences of being human. An ultimate price for thoughtfulness. I always thought the sisters were evil, but then again, I did not foresee this quite like this... they are going to try to pin Lily's situation and her death on me. I know it, I can feel it, I can foresee it, and I can taste it.

What can I do? I was there... and they know it. They know I felt her death and they know I saw the visions. I am a witness that will not die for them. Yet, they keep trying to kill me in every way imaginable, they have an image of evil that mystifies my mind.

(Verdict)

Yes, I believe that is what they are going to do, twist the truth around as usual. What should I do! You cannot go to the higher authority because everything is corrupt by the tower, no one wants to talk or listen to what I have to say, so I cannot explain what happened.

I guess- I am just stuck with no way out as usual.

Even on the witness stand. I saw it! I know it was them. Nevertheless, it is for against one, I do not stand a chance, they will try to convict me of something I did not do and place me in situations in which I did not cause. They are the ones that did the deeds they are the ones that need to face the consequences of what they did, instead of pinning the blame on everyone's shoulders but there's. They are pinning that all on me, and I do not know what I am facing if they do. I know that- I will most likely refuse in talking to the authorities, yet I will give details on what I can.

They will either think I am psychic or psycho. I can lead them to what happened, and I can illuminate the facts that they did not see, but are they going to believe me, I can show them the way. Just like- 'You can lead a camel to water, but you cannot always get him to drink.' Will they choose to see my visions? I do not think they will their minds were made up. Before I sat down in the courtroom, I could feel they unfriendliness, and see how they were looking at me. I cannot hark back to everything; you know they do not understand that either. I have the vision of getting charged with this manslaughter, because in 'The Land of Many Steeples', you are guilty until proven innocent, and if the clan and the tower have anything to do with it, you will be locked in their dungeon forever.

However, I know I have to tell someone, what exactly happened. Still, will anybody believe me? Probably not... I know I am going to get interrogated, and I know that I will have a polygraph facing me. The truth will come out on autographed lines of morality, I suppose. The facts will be stranger than their fiction! I believe that there will be a trial ahead, where I will have to sit in front of twelve jurors, and they can make their judgments, the word verdict means truth, what is the truth only Lily Anderson knows, yet I know also... but how do I prove to a court system that I am talking to a spirit? They will think I am psychotic. How do you explain to the world, that you have psychic ability?

Lily Anderson before she fell to her death three stories down was raped by the sisters, they forced her into acts that most cannot even imagine, or maybe you just do not want to. All the same, I saw everything anyway, and I truly know what it feels, like to be in that state of affairs. If she did not want to engage in all of those activities, they would beat the crap out of her.

Lily would always show up with fresh bruises, but she always made up excuses. Conversely, I always knew who did it, but she did not say much about it. She wore them well, and she did not like to tell, mainly because she had- fear. The fear is the alternate drive to stopping anyone from doing anything. Oh yes, fear can break a person, fear can drive a person to drastic solutions or conclusions. Fear can drive some nonsensical, and fear can make you brilliant. The fear does it all. Yes, fear is a death sentence, one way or another.

Either you fear about living, or you fear about dying. Fear comes down to a simple choice actually; do I want to live, or when and where do I want to die? Who or what is going to be the cause, and will anybody care afterward or do they now? That is the fear we have when the eyes are upon us, and the spirit lives to talk to us.

Lily, she had no choice, she either had to do what the sisters wanted... or be beaten with an inch of life, either way, she always ended up with markings on her body. I believe that if things would have pressed on like, that for her she would have lost her mind, yet some say she did? Like I said- time within the hellhole is a slow time, where anybody finds anything to keep their mind busy. Some draw! Some have sex! Some have sports and clubs! Someone like me has nothing to them, and yet I have it all. I know I can do anything, because I have so many god-gifted talents, and just because I am not like you, does not mean I cannot do the unimaginable.

(Alliances)

So, the question is why do we make groupings? Why do we classify people according to how they will look, speak, or the way they act? Why do we put people in classes regarding what other people think, why do we? These are some of the activities, which some do to keep their mind sharp, and the others have to pay the price. What is your thing? There are some, which cut class for recreational reasons.

Some go into the bathroom to relieve all the day's stresses, and some that will sleep throughout the boring classes. There are some, which are the class pet. Some of the higher authority gets with the students, and they have their moments of disorderly conduct together. Then some are class clowns. Then there are some gay ones, some are straight ones, and then there are the ones that all they do is make out and suck face. Some cannot keep their hands off my private parts. A number of them just plain hate everything and everybody.

Somewhere their boyfriend's football jerseys on Fridays. Some sell drugs, several if not all are engaging in mischievous activities like sex you no like giving hand-jobs and blowjobs at the age of twelve and older. Some are the star of the team.

Some have their grades handed to them. Then there are the ones just like I rejected and misunderstood in everything. Some are the color of white and others not, yet we all should be equal, but it seems that we are not. It all comes down to the fact that we all do things differently, no matter how hard we try not to be categorized it is still going to happen as a result of human control. I am just telling it how I see it. Which is the truth? Just like some girls and guys out there say they do not want to date you for some irrelevant reason, because of their mom and dad's belief, about you being this and that.

Because, of what they said, or their friends say, yet the next day, she or he is with someone older or younger than you.

Furthermore, the excuse they said to you is complete bullshit. So, when you see them with a jerk, which only wants one thing. Yet because of their friends, mom, and dad approves of them... that is whom they date, and not the one they truly love or want to get to know. I find it is so unbearably hard to get to know people when they do not want to get to know me, or they fear what they will say or do to them, no dater wants to be the first, to break this evil spell from them, because of the fear. Why do I not know? I guess it is all because they think they are too good for me.

Likewise, I will never be good enough. Which pisses me off.

Give it a chance, will you? Hello! It is not as if I am going to molest you.

And- I do not bite unless you want me to. He- he!

(Decide on)

What will you be in your hellhole? Are you the type that just harasses someone until they crack? Will you stand up for your rights, or let someone slam you to the ground? Will you let the others that are left out behind? Are you going to help them out in their time of need? What do you choose to be? If you are like the sisters, then all you do is cause havoc for innocent lives. Besides, if you are like me all I do is try to help people.

(Murmurs)

The ghostly words that I hear from the ones that speak to me are saying something like- 'Look out for the stars that shine for you in hope. But- be aware to not fall to the deception. Do not mistake a star for a black hole, in the days of days, and the times of time, where the banners will be the red blood your loved one will have to shed. This will show the light upon the fault line. When their vials break free upon you and them. This may pull you around while looking at the ground. If you see this coming it is already too late for them to run, your loved one will be under the rains of fire, with the fight of freedom, and honor, with dust and sun. Remember you will have some loss to indoor, yet the footprints have been made, and the boots will bring you and them home. Think of keeping the angels near. Yet always looking look up even when you are knocked down by life. The stars that we know, and love may just fall to us in a cloud of white dust, and life as we know it may not be here, and surely nothing will be clear.' I do not know what it means- do you? Should I be scared? What are they telling me? Is this in my future?

(Spirit and evil life)

It is interesting how you can find your Angel, and how they can find you. I still believe it is a blessing to be able to see an angel.

However, the sisters must have heard the voices of hope and how they have spoken down on me, and they are going to try to reverse it and use it against me like a hex like they have been doing all these days in the past. Which makes me believe, they have dark powers for themselves... for them to know my abilities, which come from the divine. They must have some kind of inkling or something. As I said, I think the sisters and the clan took things way too far, and it got out of hand. They were in the moment of high ecstasy with their erotic acts, they had complete authority over their meek victim.

Until they just pinned her against the window and she pushed her through in a moment of climax. Do I think they meant to kill her? In all honesty, I do not believe so; I think it was a crime of passion. An activity of rage and hot lust, that led to murder and manslaughter; however, now it is my cross to bear. Yet I am joyful, that I have what I have. It is thought-provoking to think that I am the one that is being pinned for sexual harassment when the sisters have been with every walk of life and higher authority within the hellhole. Some of the allegations in which they are saying that I committed on Lily are as follows: devious acts, a lewd act on a child, indecent exposure, assault, corruption of a minor, harassment and disorderly conduct, and reckless endangerment. If only Lily could talk, to someone other than me. If they only knew the real story.

Then I would not have to; try to explain the situation, which will never be understood in a court of law, or at the school. How can I explain Lily's situation when I cannot even explain my own? I wonder how much juvenile time, I will have to spend on these lies, I will be sent away in a dingy tan colored uniform, I just can feel it coming. All I have to say is watch what you do, watch where you are, and always keep your eyes alert, and your ears ready to listen. The vultures are always around the corner, and if they can get out of something, by pinning it on somebody else, they will do it... that is a threat and a promise by them.

(Time)

I should know I have to go to all these programs, and night classes, and it is in this Pennsylvania juvenile detention center just to keep them on my back for four months, yet I have not lost too many points. Yes, I have my thoughts to keep me entertained. I guess, yet being here like this is so depressing, no love just- hate! Yes, I miss seeing him too. I miss seeing all the faces too actually; I never thought that would ever happen. I was the blame in their game, at least I have time to think in this closet.

Yet I miss my home, and my pink bedroom and my privacy, the staff here are mean, along with the girls I am with, the food is cold and tastes repulsive. On the other hand, my blue belt I have at the top of my tight-fitting shorts shows that I am doing what they say. That my uniforms are folded and worn the right way. That my paper-thin bed is tidy and also made the right way, I do not have any contraband. Nope- I know NOT to talk back to them! I do not need that belt to change color, and keep me here any longer. Mainly so, that I can get away some days, and then it is back into this repetition they set up for me. Yet hoping to get back into the repetition of everyday life, that I took for granted.

Yet many of the girls here say that, though I truly am. The public defender screwed me because the sisters paid him and the judge off. Surely, you knew that I did not have the money to get a good attorney. I am only fifteen almost sixteen as of now, and I am being accused of charges, that are just ridiculous.

I do not know how one person can even be the mastermind of such heinous thoughts, but the towers and their clans have no life other than torturing those, that are trying to make a life for themselves. I know this record is going to destroy my future occupations, yet I keep trying. I will just have to wait and see how this all turns out. It may just blow over, or I will be in the path of the blizzard once more.

However, it all comes down to one simple fact really; I do not know if I can take much more. But does it matter anyway; I have the term of something impossible to change. Just remember, that it should only be you, which chooses what you want to think about me. Not what they say. I remember that day as if it was yesterday, the day the sisters officially pin the murder of Lily Anderson on me. Sometimes I think if you dwell on something long enough, it will come true... therefore if you think that somebody is going to place something down upon you, they will.

My convictions are a mile-long, and I did not do anything to anyone.

However, being convicted of something you just did not do happens all the time?

By the way, Lily Anderson was found is what they are trying to relate... all of that on me, and what they have made up about me in the past. Oh, stories can be told over with slight variations until they become believed by society. They also said I was guilty because I spent so much time crying at her grave. Can you believe that?

What was nothing becomes’ something? Whatever happened after the made-up fact gets past down the line and becomes the words of a travesty.

Just like holding hands, it can lead to much more. Just like a kiss can be the beginnings of the end. I have learned this the hard way; like everything, I have learned how to do. So, this is how I became part of those classifications because the sisters made it appear that I was a danger to myself and others. Yet the higher authority does not see what they need to see. They cannot see just how dangerous these girls can be; nope they just blame someone like me, and that was all my life, not just as of now?

So, I asked the question: 'Are we blind or do we choose not to see?' Do we sometimes see things, and misinterpret them and put the judgment on someone else's hands that were completely innocent? Yes, no, maybe? Do we all think corrupt, by pondering, that they are the ones that should be punished for doing something that was nothing in the wrong? It is all about choosing what we think? Is thinking just a state of evolution and illusion? Is it all about concluding? Is it all about seeing a vision from a guardian angel that protects you? Is this the only true hope, finding faith? Is faith the only help for us to get us through life?

Thinking like this is all I have. When freedom is so far away, and it was taking away from me just like my life!

Chapter: 19

A Moment in Time

The four months have passed, and I am home, as planned! Hope was happy to see me yet not thrilled. However, I still feel as if I am running a marathon, yes going down the same old path with no lights and no colors at all, time and time again like having their ghostly faces flashing in my eyes time and time again. 'It feels as if all my trophies and rewards which I know I have earned have been taken away.' It is not because I do not deserve it; it is because they do not think I should have them.

What do I mean by this?

While the tower thinks I do not deserve the honor, along with anyone's companionship or friendship, she makes it seem as if I should be looked down upon in society. She makes everyone think that I should be locked in my room, and not able to see the light of day. Though I know society does not believe all of her lies, most think very highly of me, yet they are not allowed to think and speak freely. They cannot show their support or their true feelings towards me or let it be known.

If they do... she finds out... she will go into one of her hissy fits and starts threatening people. You cannot deny her! If you do you have to, kiss her ass for the rest of your life. Additionally, if you do not kiss her ass, she makes sure you have everything you want, but not what you truly need. Yet they have to be friends with her.

So, they cannot be friends with me, because of her, and I am never going to kiss anybody's ass- like that! Oh, society is a vicious circle of unjust human beings you should know this. They cannot see or think for themselves. Not all society is this way; nevertheless, as the days go by and the country keeps going downhill, more and more, we are falling into the tower's traps. There are many towers and clans among us, and their victims like me have been holding the death card far too long.

So, we become hermits and seek for the answers while groping in the dark, yet there is no salvation unless we have hope and faith. I know that everything is going to work itself out. The tower is always depicted as crumbling and flaming. The tower is nothing but a big fat pain in the ass. That is never going to let me go or go away from me if I move, they will follow me if they do not then they will find somebody else in which to do their deed for them.

That is why I refer to them as vultures, or the blackbird clan, and other animals, there nothing but beasts to me. As I have described in the past, they take on animal-like traits when they attacked me. It would be different if I could get away from my stalkers. All the same, they live far enough away from me that they are out of sight, but- yet they are close enough to me that they can draw their swords, and cut my true identity down to nothing. Oh, as I have said reputation is everything, without popularity you are nothing in the hellhole society. If you do not have a cell phone number, then you just do not exist to them. If you are on the walls, they pick and choose whom they want to talk to... and it most likely is not going to be someone like me.

What I am seeing. Is that youngest people cannot read or spell anything, because they are illiterate, yet why should it matter communication is all going electronic anyway. Forget about using cash to pay for anything everybody wants to use his or her plastic and mess around with it for hours to make it work. Besides, losing a couple of dollars doing it every time. Whatever happened to simplicity? I have fifty cents in my skirt pocket, and I am happy with that. If you are not on social networking, then there is no friendship. 'If you do not have one million pictures of you doing the same pose repeatedly then you are not considered attractive.' Truly think about it, and it is ridiculous how idiotic the world has become!

Parents are afraid to let their children play outside... parents are afraid to let their children go to school; why? Because the higher authority does not protect them and the kids are becoming nothing but hell raisers. So, we want the computers to become the teachers for the children, and the PlayStation's to be the main form of entertainment... Just look around, Joe Walsh he tells it like it is saying quote- 'Violence and murder is rated PG, too bad for the children they are what they see!' On the other hand, it all could be that they are afraid of me, and what they think I will do to them; I do not know- do you? The parents in 'The Land of Many Steeples' are getting welfare, and have ten different boyfriends or girlfriends a night to satisfy their needs. Then they just keep popping out kids. Yap and it is our tax dollars, which pays for it all.

Children are blessings which need nurturing and loving and understanding parents, however, it seems to nurture has gone out the window. You cannot correct your child or the authorities will be knocking at your door while taking you away for child abuse. That is just how it is... yet, in school for me, I have my skirt lifted and my bare ass smacked every day, and it seems always by a male teacher just one of the higher authorities for doing nothing in the wrong- yet they say I do. I just do not get it.

Yet, I am reminded of a quote 'If you spare the rod you will spoil the child.' That is interesting because there is no discipline in this country anymore. Every one is ignorant, arrogant and just plain vain. Why are we like this? Yet why are some allowed to smack our asses and others not? Good question- right?

The economy is in the shitter yet nobody gives a damn, why should we go out and find a job? We can make more money on unemployment then if we were working. 'We do not export anything, yet we import them and yet they hate us, but yet we still love them!' All you have to do is look at our front-runners and see for yourself. Pointing fingers is not getting us anywhere, throwing everything out and starting over is what is needed. But once again you have to think for yourself and make your own choices, instead of letting them decide for you. I mean this in the nicest way pull your head out of your ass and start caring about someone other than yourself, that is what I had to do, to see what was happening.

(Readings)

My tower and clan think she and they are so clever... the tower she knew this and she used it meaning she knew what to look up. That is why it is so important to understand the signs and cards. Those that know can figure out what is going to happen in life or beings around. If you follow the signs and cards, the stars can predict how things are going to turn out. I referred to this person as the tower mainly because they build and block, they cannot be stopped, this is only one solution that I know of... however you cannot blossom with any relationships or dating, and being social is over before it starts with any society around. Still, they are constantly watching over me.

Just like I said they have eyes in the sky meaning, if they are not the ones following behind me, they make sure that they have someone that will. Their followers always report back to the main headquarters, they have to get the information to her so she can twist it and make everybody believe her lies. Some of the lies in which the tower has created for me include. Being gay, I am far from it... Engaging in activities with children, which is completely disgusting. Lewd acts the list goes on and on.

‘Oh, the internet is a powerful tool; it was created for good, however, some use it for their evil.’ I had to pay with my time, for what I did not do, when is it going to end? I need to stop looking at ‘Blabber

Book!’ that way I will not see what they say. The tower patrols the land still and forever, and if she dies her offspring will take, her place her spirit will rise from the ashes, and go into the next demon to be. It is a never-ending battle; you cannot do anything about it. What they do to you is never seen, but it is heard by everyone. ‘The Land of Many Steeples’ is corrupt, and she has all the officials wrapped around her little finger. So basically, she runs ‘The Land of Many Steeples’, we all cannot do anything without the tower getting involved, or having their nose in it somehow.

(What they do)

If you have something in which they want, and they do not have the means of getting it. They will either take it off you, or break yours, so it is no longer an enjoyment to you. They create enough stories until everyone turns their back on you, so much so that I could write a book about it. It is thought-provoking because most of my life I was naïve, just an innocent girl doing everyday activities, which would not cause harm to anyone.

But- life is cruel, and you have to become wise... get smart and look out for the unexpected, you do not want them or someone like a tower to start on you. All the same, do not let them stop you, do what you want, they are not godly, so do not be tempted by their welcomed takeovers they are only obscure fallen angel, like vouchers of mind corruption.

‘They will slander you to, as they did to me, and will make your life a living hell.’ The towers and her clans, and cops she bangs comes around me so much that it is laughable. A deed she does for them to follow me, and to keep them in fear, of what she could say and what she could do. All the sisters all like to flaunt what they have got. I think that they like to make me eat my heart out.

Why?

For the reason that they have steady dates, in all honesty, I do not give a shit about what they have or what they do. I know what I want, and I plan to receive it with a loving heart, body, and soul. They want me to see them hand-in-hand with the Kissing, giggling and going out on dates. They have it set up so that I cannot even get one. Like I have said the tower and her clan make sure that all I do is sit in my pink bedroom, and think about what I cannot have... that is the whole intent they want to try to drive me insane, I do not think they will?

A devious plan indeed, sometimes it bothers me, and sometimes not. It just depends on the day’s situation at hand. I know that I should not let the sisters bother me. I know that their dates are not in love with them; their mother just sets up everything to make it look like they have more than I do. ‘That is what I mean about love, in love or just infatuation.’ Being infatuated with somebody, yes, it is fun and can have its moments, but it is never going to last. Having cheap flings is kind of pathetic, and a joke. ‘I work for what I have; I do not live off what my parents hand me.’

There are real couples in which I can see; all the sisters and the tower want me, all they want me to do is sit in my misery, and think about what they have done to me. However, I got news for you... they will never get the best of me! All towers are nothing but weakly structured beings, which look for guidance from black hooded entities beings; they spend many hours, fading your identity, while the dark evil demonic powers, raining their acid over your flowers.

You are left to pull the petals off the daisy flowers. Asking the question do they love me or not? While your emotions tear, you apart and you cannot speak because your tongue is tied into a knot. It is no one's fault but the tower. As you sit going through flower after flower until the tears become sour. And you are left to rot like that one last daisy flower. You want to scream because you feel like it is your dying hour, knowing that there is only one more flower, knowing that is the only solution left, however, there are no petals to fulfill that desire.

Bale of My True Identity

The more days that go by the more belligerent the blackbird clan becomes towards me. I know that the clan is going to say that I am on drugs, and doing other things and more. God only knows what all she has been saying about me to my classmates. I can feel the talk all around me. Plus, I can see the fear on their faces. I know that the clan head is going to do everything in her power to make my life miserable because she thinks I have a thing for her boyfriend. How would she even know if I do or do not? She does not even really know me. Just like Ava and her sisters said that she missed me and that she has a 'gift' waiting for me, I have an idea of what that is going to be.

Oh, how I would love to tell her to go and get 'bent!' I cannot say that I know anything about the blackbird clan and their family. I do not know what their problem is... All I know is that they have a problem and major issues. There has to be something psychologically wrong with these people, and nobody chooses to see it. I guess that is trickery, Satan always takes care of his children. They just keep dancing around the fires, while chopping down the chosen ones' spring flowers, yes down to nothing, with their flames. Those who do not bow down to them during their rituals of voodoo will be next on the list. If you live or have your right-thinking after their dancing, it is a wonder.

I know that Ava thinks, I have a crush on her too... or so she tells everyone... that I want to be with her; in romantic ways, which is completely ludicrous. Could you just imagine what that would be like, or worse what it would look and feel like? It seems like I cannot even look at someone without them thinking that I am trying to make a pass at him or her. It is so stupid! It kind of makes me want to laugh, but on a serious note, it is a problem. Oh- yes it all started with the tower. So fascinating because people do not even know me, yet they make assumptions based on what she and her descendants say.

Everyone thinks that I am into them in a romantic sense. Yet this is what the tower keeps saying to everyone, along with other words that are so heinous I cannot even wrap my mind around what is being said. Just when I think, the talk is dying off, their clan starts dancing around the fires again, and it all begins again like raining fire with the wrath of terror. The words should be getting old by now, however, they always put in some twists on what they say, and it always gets back to me eventually, but some people still buy into it because they have no choice. But, to bow down to her. Stand up for your rights, you have the freedom to do whatever you think is best for you... please do not listen to it they're two-faced!

Like- I said they make everyone think that I am desperate for affection because they think that I cannot get any action. Ha, I learned that if you work hard, and you do the right thing you could achieve anything. You know I would rather have someone tell me to my face that they are not interested in having a friendship or relationship, rather than sneaking around just to avoid me. I would rather have you tell me that I am nothing to you, why? Because I would have more respect for you. I know the only reason why they're avoiding me is because of what the tower has said, and you all are afraid of the wrath.

But then again you have a choice to make, so what do you decide on? What do you believe about me? What else are you going to know, and think if that is what you have been told, withheld, and grown-up to do, it has all become known over the years, and that is what you understand as of now?

Whatever that is exactly has become almost fact in all your minds. It is like instead of truly getting to know someone, you all just go along with what everybody else is saying, and accept it as true. So- 'What a pity we can believe what we want to believe.' We can do what we wanted to, but if you choose to go along with the tower then you are the one losing out, besides let's not fail to mention that you may lose your soul as well. If enough voices come together, then the tower will be nothing, and she will crumble. Though, the true question remains; have you figured out who the tower is? Do you have any idea... who she is yet? If not, then you need to keep reading between the lines. Then it will eventually become known.

I have nothing to hide, asked me any questions you want.

However, I do feel that surely, the tower will be unmasked and revealed at some point coming up shortly; the tower is not just a card in my deck. She is a real person! (Back to my normal school days.) Well, it is normal for me...! This is what I see all around me now, and what I am feeling. Just like in homeroom before class starts, while saying the pledge of allegiance everyone should be looking at the candy lines, but instead, I feel as if they're all looking at me. The books slam on the desk in stacks, and the doors bang. Then just to set down in the linked desks that have chewed gum on the seats, an awesome start to the day. Looking around Randy Waygate is sharpening his pencil into a woody, and it grinds in my ears. Plus- Ava is trying to play with my hair and cress it.

Maybe it is because I have Lily's one ribbon bobby-pinned above my left ear at all times now. It is the only thing, which defines me, away from this uniformity. Ava just has to sit behind me, doesn't she? People ask me why I wear it, and I say because I loved her, and she was my girlfriend. Yet they think I wear it because I feel guilty, that I was the cause. Also, they do not understand that two girls can have strong feelings for one another. It is as if they do not get it. All I know is a lot of people need to keep their nose on their faces, and your hands on your skirts, all I am asking for is a little bit of space. Please just back off!

Then my daydream starts everything will work out, at a certain time, and a certain place. I can trust you; you are the right one for me. It is like I am the shoe you are the laces. We do not need to care about anybody else's faces, as we do not care whoever chases. There are many opportunities, there have been my opportunities knocking on my back door, and I know that life is not always about making a score. It is all right to be ignored; I have the Lord, and he is walking by my side. Not to mention I have someone who thinks I am great, and they're not afraid of saying it now, they have nothing to hide. Oh, yes it will not be long until we hold hands and walk side by side, upon the silver chariot we will ride. It is going to be you in which I confide.

Chiaz- I still remember the first time that we met; it seems like it was just yesterday. Still takes my breath away, I guess fate took place, where she was standing in front of me; we did not say any more than two words to one another.

However, I just brushed the hair away from her face with my hand and wrapped her hair around her earlobe, that was the first time, that I looked into eyes that made me feel like that, it was like I saw the future. Yes, the blue eyes that did all the talking for her. From that very moment, at that very time, it was love at first sight for me, as well as I knew that she was the one for me! Yes, it is easy for me to say that I am in love with Nevaeh; I have been crushing on her for many years. However, there has always been something to stand in the way.

Nevertheless, our time is about to come, and all things will be realized.

‘I will be her hero; that is if she lets me.’ I will bet for a fact the first time, that we kiss she will tremble when our lips meet. She would be the type of girl that would hold me in her arms, as well as I would do the same for her.

You need not fear because- I would always be there to take any pain away that I can. I would stand by her for eternity. I have nothing to hide, how badly I want us to be together walking side-by-side. But then again only if it is right and it is me you see on your site, whenever the time is right one of these nights.

I hope you can see that there is nothing or anyone that can stop me or change how I feel. I could see you in that white dress, I can envision our children when looking into your eyes, I know you are the girl that would never tell me any lies, take my hand, and we can leave this land, and start our life.

Who knows what surprise will arrive. Let us go somewhere where there is a warm beach, and numerous sunrises and peaceful evenings. I guess the better question is would you wear my ring?

All she has to do is say my name and my knees get a weak, I am in love or am I in too deep? What is it that I am feeling that makes me want more and more? It is like I can feel Nevaeh beside me even when she is not touching against my body, yet I can feel the sensations, I do not even have a word that could even explain how this girl makes me feel.

Oh, yes remembering all the words that were spoken that were right and that was wrong. I ask- ‘Does it matter what others say if you are happy with what you want? So, belief in what you need, yes it just might, after all, come true for you. I believed that my hopes and dreams will happen, and come true for me... so if you do the same it just might for you as well, if you have hope and yes listen to your own words that speak from the heart and nowhere different.

Oh, I remember back when I was there; I felt an intense attraction toward her, whom I have only seen or noticed in passing back when I walked the halls. Yet I felt very drawn in incomprehensible ways, as I did not know Nevaeh all that well. Yet on another level, I did know her extremely well so it feels, yes, it is this feeling that pulled me into her like a magnet, ever closer to her side. If we are ready to step foot together, then all she needs to do was say 'yes!' Listen to your heart and nothing else.

Nevaeh- Adriane the eldest of the evil bitches knows, that I know what she did, and is making everybody think that I have major issues, even though Alissa graduated last year, I still feel her pressures in the hellhole walls. It seems like even though someone graduates there is always someone else to take their place. One is demoted, and then one is promoted.

The same goes for the higher authority, if the sisters do not want someone in an activity, they can pick and choose who is going to get the spotlight. That even goes for the higher authority, if they do not want a certain teacher in their little click, then he/she will not be in this establishment any longer. Just like they did to the librarian, they did not find him to be a user so he got the ax.

For example- Ava will say the teachers do certain things to her. Yet if they do not do what she wants, she will make them, either way, they are getting fired. It is all part of the hellhole game. What can you do when someone has that much power over the whole land of many steeples? Everything is corrupt, crooked and dishonest.

But- everybody is too busy looking at their cell phones and technologies to even care or understand what is going on. On the other hand, maybe they are just afraid. Fears a terrible thing, I should know I have the wrath of these people for many years. On the other hand, I have come to the point where I just do not care anymore.

Like- I said, I am not the one that is in the wrong here. You can call me whatever you want. I know that I did not do anything, what they are saying never happened, the time I did is the time I lost. Just because you follow me do not assume that you can get me to hook up with you. It is not going to happen now or ever. Also, just because I follow you, does not imply that I want anything from you other than friendship. It seems like you cannot talk to anyone without having technology getting in the way anymore. If you do not have a number, you just do not exist. If you have a profile, you have 1,000 people or more saying things about you positive or negative their opinions resonate throughout the lands.

Moreover- the entire negative comments are from the ill-advised profiles. They are making everyone forget about me entirely. It is just like the domino effect. One starts the lie and it just keeps going down the line, until my profile has no choice but to expire. Anymore I find anything online is just a waste of time, whatever happened to communication? You know when you talked to another person, and do not have to type it. Plus- people do not even type with real words anymore; it is like they have their language of bull shit.

Think before you speak this will help out anyone and any the situation, so think before you type, we live in a world of instant messaging instant, everything can happen in that instant you could be in a lot of trouble. Just remember a profile photo is nothing like the real thing. Just because you are sitting behind a screen, does not make it safe to tell everybody about your life's history. Remember that someone is looking for you to help you make the right choice, but you have the choice to listen to them and not the entities of destruction. Just like I am a Christian I know that I am going to be crucified. Just like being, prosecuted by a word of mouth, and stoned by the fighting battles of the ones that do not understand me and my beliefs. For the reason that a life of righteousness I will be hated; since we live in a dark Infertility type of world.'

They think I cannot be holy because of the way I am, and the life I live and want to have. Okay if you say so...! Just remember that you are not always going to be in the judgment of your friends and networks, someday at the times of times and end of days, you will be judged by what truly matters. I have learned that my suffering shows my living off the right lifestyle. What else is said and seen does not mean a thing. As long as I feel okay, then most likely I will be.

Chapter: 21

Wrecked, Broken, Shattered, and Stained

'Sweet sixteen!' Nevaeh- My junior year of school at the hellhole, I finally got my driver's license- thank God after I got back! Yet I already had my wheels.

Surprisingly one-night Hope gave me her late husband's car. As a gift, it was the night, and the same day she ripped off my skirt at school. When she dropped me off... how could I forget?

I guess she was so embarrassed for me, that she wanted to make me feel better, and that was surely a good way of doing it. That was the day she handed me the car keys. Besides, they said- 'It's all yours! However, you have to weigh you can drive.' She also said, 'I do not get you much because I do not have much to give you as you no. Your birthdays have passed without... time and time over, so hopefully, I have made up for not being bountiful to you.' I said- 'Yes, you did well!'

I was thinking this thing is mine; does this big car even run. Yet I said thanks- and I gave her a giant bear hug. And she said- 'yeah- yeah- yeah, honey- don't make a big thing out of this. I don't want you to get your hopes up too much, and get disappointed.' Yet I could not help it- but to be thrilled, I think I even squealed and then cried sweet tears of joy. If you have not figured out, I cry- about everything and anything. So, at that time- In the back of my mind- however, I was thinking does this car even idle? I am just a girl that does not know all that much about cars, other than knowing if I look cute in it.

Plus- I know that this car is unlike all the other cars in the parking lot- that is for sure, most of them drive shitty looking Toyota's and Honda's. Nevertheless, it has a style, and it is somewhat beat-up- yet has- elegance to it, that fits me quite well- if I do say so myself. Yes- I freaking love this car that is in the barn, it has sexy lines on it, and those fins are sweet. It is baby blue like my eyes, and cream on the lower section, she has two-doors.

Yapper, I have a 1957 Chevy bel-air. I remember the first time I started it up- it roared to life and purred like a kiddy cat. Yet I had to put a pillow on the seat, just to see out and over, the V-shaped speedometer, and through the middle of the wrap-around windshield. The steering wheel is so big to me, it silly to me really; as it takes all my might to move it. Oh, yeah there was no power steering in 1957. As well as the headlights, the dimmer switch is on the floor of all places.

Oh yeah- good luck in finding that gas door.

That took some time to find. This car is my baby, plus- I like shiny things what can I say. I have been rubbing and cleaning her for over a year now, every day fixing her up, I do not mind that I have gotten a really dirty day in and day out fixing her, it gave me something to look forward to doing. I just wear one of hope's old ripped up tank tops and nothing else. So, I did not have to worry about it, getting my other stuff messed up, as you know I do not have a lot to where. Some days, I just worked in the barn all night wearing my only now see-through pink nighty. Yet once I was in there, I would take it off; to work so I could keep it clean, so it was nice to wear that night in the house. Anyways about a week after I got home from the young girls' jail. Hope she said- 'You have been through a lot, and I know, that you did not do those things they said. Because you passed with flying colors there. So, it is time for us to go for a ride in your car. You are a good girl, I know this.'

I remember that the hardest thing for me to do was to learn how to drive it when I was about to turn sixteen. Because- it has a three-speed shifter that is on the column. With low, second and high, and you have to be so careful when you change the gears from low to second that you do not throw it into reverse accidentally, and completely grind the gears. As the car is doing like twenty down the path. Then the car stalls out- and sounds like a pig yelling, and begging for mercy. How do I know this you ask?

Will let’s just say- I have done that. Like the first time, I went down the lane to learn, how to operate this boat of an automobile. I am a fast learner though, unlike others think, and I finally got it. Yet I can still hear Hope yelling from the porch- ‘Grind me a pound- Nevaeh.’ I guess to her it sounded like a meat grinder... or something like that. It was not long that I found out that I had a classic, American car. Yet I remember the first day I drove it to the hellhole and left it sitting out in my parking spot. I should have known not to; I should have been wiser. Yet I thought everything would be safe.

Nope- it was not! Ava and her girls that day went, and they cut a class at some point in the day and broke into my baby. Then Ava- ‘Rubbed one out!’ that means that she masturbated, and squirted her lady- juices all over the inside of my car. Yes- and I mean it went all over. It was on my seat on the dash, on the floor, and Ava smeared what creaminess that was on her two fingers on the windows, and driver’s side vent. As her clan, sisters pissed all over the carpet on the floor, and took their dumps on the seat, and left their thongs behind. Alison, she wrote a note on her undies saying- ‘Now you have some pairs to where!’

It was so nasty! Plus- the outside was covered and wrapped with toilet paper as well as littered with Ava and her sisters used feminine products. What is wrong with these girls? What did I do to deserve this one? Likewise, the other kids thought it was the most humorous thing, which they ever witnessed at the end of the school day. When I discovered it- You know, I was utterly sick to my stomach. I think I screamed so loudly it echoed throughout the land, and started to cry and ran while being pushed around bouncing around off their bodies, I cannot remember- I was so upset, and then the kids were all around me kicking, and pushing me from one place to another.

I was just like a hacky sack for them, until I passed out, and drop to the hard ground. That gave them time for them to spit on me, and dump things like glue in my hair or whatever that shit was. Then what gets me is that she signed her name- Ava on the dashboard with a black permanent sharpie marker, and It reads, 'Suck on this- Nevaeh- lick, what I gave you all up!' and she drew a heart, with a line through it also. She wanted me to know because there was not a thing I could do about it. Depressed- to say that her juicy sprays were more yellowish, and a thick sticky white, then clear on my blue and white cloth seats. Yet, Hope, had the car towed and cleaned for me inside and out, she could not believe what kids do these days.

Therefore, that was the first time that I drove my car to school and the last. That whole thing cost me a lot. I guess it is back to the bus. That is what everyone wants is it not. This completely sucked; I have a car that I cannot drive anywhere other than at home, or have it locked up in the barn- with the other rust bucket car.

I think it is from the 1930s, it was out in the yard until this happened. Oh well, at least I have it all fixed up again, nicer than before... so I estimate you win some and you lose some. I am the one that is still blessed I have to remember. I recall the next day on the bus; the kids asked- 'Why you are not storming around in your big fancy car- Nevaeh!'

They were mocking me. I did not say a word, as I was sitting there boiling on the inside, the reputation and repetition continued that year, just like the years of the past. As a result, I tried to block those days out of my mind altogether. I have also wondered and pondered this... if I should not just join Lily, and get my own set of white wings, to beg her to let me come up there with her.

However, I know that if I do not live my life to its complete finale, I may not get my wings that I so desire. Why for the reasons that, I know that I will not make it up to the heavens. What can I do? Why do I feel this way? Why? Mainly because I went through my hell on earth in 'The Land of Many Steeples.' But- there still has to be a way out, a way that I have not found yet? I have the understanding and realization that no one would care that I am even gone, and if they do care, they cannot... so why stay. So, I am left with so many decisions.

Should I try again? Either the sisters are going to put me through their beatings until I am a bloody pulp, or do I choose to conclude and haunt them when I return. At that juncture, no dreamcatcher could catch me, at that point. I would be the one that is all-mighty and powerful over them. 'I would haunt your dreams just like you have haunted mine, which is a promise.'

Oh, yes how I would love to be above the clouds, and see the ones that truly care about me. Up there I would have a crown of royalty; all I have left down here is brokenhearted dreams, and the smells of disappointment radiating from the cow pastures that remind me of the shit that I go through. Just to keep my head above the water. The teachers preach lectures, yet it seems we learn nothing.

The students watch, they do not give a shit about anybody, with their noses up in the air. Furthermore, their hands never where they should be. I do not know what cuts deeper when looking into my full-length mirror, or my emotions of what I remember.

All the markings that they have made on my dresses have either been washed out or patched over and left to be forgotten. The fabric and slashes have been stitched closed, yet some gashes and preambles cannot be as they were before the manipulating, yes, the incisions openings rains on me in the evenings a reminder of what I lost. Yes, for the seams can never be as they were beforehand, the threads have been ripped apart forever.

Lily understood this feeling too; she knew it all too well, it is just one more thing that just keeps things building up and building up, until the end. I never realized at the time how bad the situation would become until I went through it myself. There is no meaning behind it, which is what gets me. Am I the only one or are there more girls in this hellhole like me, which I do not know about, maybe there is? The bullies harass, it is like they smell their victims or maybe they can smell and taste the blood dripping down from the gash, which they have caused from before, and then it is like you are a wounded animal on the Serengeti they come in packs.

Until you have nothing- nothing left... they lick up what is left of your body time and time over, afterward you have to get up and go on with the day, knowing that you have a decision to make. What decision would you make? I know what decision I will make! On like most my age, I do not drink and drug my brain cells away. I am not senseless or slutty, 'I feel that being romantic is not dead, and it does exist. You just need to be with the right persons, which can show you what real expressions of love are!’ So, are you like me by believing that nothing will ever destroy the hope or dreams? On the other hand, are you someone like the clan? Are you going to be praised in the eyes of the fire, or the eyes of the clouds? Just like fallen angels the ones, that have fear of not standing up for what is righteous. Why, because it is more fashionable to live a life of turpitude.

If someone has the light of hope, someone is going to want to dampen the affection. Just like me- when you are single for too long people start thinking, that you are either committed to yourself or that you are a little bit crazy or gay etcetera. I know this... I am not crazy or gay or whatever is said; I just have someone that blocks me out constantly while destroying my reputation. Just think about it. All of you have grown up with the roomers, your parents believed those parents, I do not have parents to fight for me, and the rest is history. So, what she and her clan said becomes known, and that is what was implied to my image.

Is it true?

Hell no, start thinking for yourself people. Just because someone says, something about someone else does not mean that it is factual. Oh, I have tried to fix it... However, it is out of my control, little do you all know that the tower is what prevents everything from happening. It is not my choice; she knew that I was going to be the empress; instead, she made me out to be the fool. She knew that I was one of the brightest stars in the land, and she had to bring that to an end, that was the beginning of the end of holding anyone's hands any more within the land. The friends and romances were in the retrograde I was dubbed unreachable, she made me a forbidden selection.

I had no choice but to become the hermit in the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams. To look on the bright side, all this has made me a stronger better more creative productive person. You cannot stop me now; I will forever shine, and guide others so that they can shine as well. Remember you are the ones listening to slandering voices. My question is why do you listen? Get to know me, and then make your judgments. Yes, it is hard for me to even get things going because the eyes are always watching, and no I am not being paranoid this is part of my true reality. Sure, the opportunity might come knocking down my door, but can you trust them, is it a setup?

Plus- the longer the wait; the greater the struggle, the better the reward is in the end, or at least that is what I would like to believe. Would you let me in? Life is so unfair you meant the world to me, but as of now, I am not so sure. I have been engrossing myself in you but you do not see me as more than a friend. I need to stop and think about what made you my world, and why it seems like I am going through the earthquakes. Now that I am getting to see your true colors, I am not so sure that we are meant to be. Let us just see what happens, but you need to change what you think to be with me. We are hearts upon the limbs, two hearts that are now beating independently, both hearts are feeling affectionate, but will they be joined together with a sentence spontaneously. Some of your choices may feel dastardly, Hearts they come together in the future with their descendants that are part of the diversity.

Chiaz- We are living in the present, not the past. Will our hearts survive the blast, what I am asking is will you and I last? The hearts grow closer as the days go fast, upon the branches; yes, it is all part of our forecast. The leaves may fall, but the hearts will remain, even going through the various winters, pouring rains and even the pain, and there will be no shame. Because being sweethearts is a game, two hearts becoming one so that we feel the same. These two hearts will someday be in a picture frame. On the surface, we have to hide; on the inside, you and I could be devoted. But- it seems so very different for you to look past the foliage.

You're not all ways looking away, you have to understand the words and what they have to say, soon you and I will see what is below the surface; there will be an overwhelming bond. This relationship may begin so, innocently with attraction, but if we are soul-mates, it will deepen into much more with affection. We will eventually have to look deeper to see what it is that we truly want to do or have. That is if we are real soul mates going into a relationship, we both need and want to have. I am willing to communicate, as long as you are willing to listen, this is going to give and take, and we have to find the balance. I will learn to be less clingy because I know you are nurtured to need space. But I will always be there whenever you need me. We can learn, to share and be fair to one another, conversations will be lighthearted, only if it is God's good fortune.

Nevaeh- I am feeling that I am moving out of this temperance, in this transition and passing the will of fortune. Yes, I feel that I am on my way to being the lovers without the tower's knowledge. There are many in which I could choose, many chances I could undertake which I may lose or win.

But- I believe I have the right person in mind. Yes, those are very kind, but- yet I trust one more than the other. I do not know if my decision will be right, but it is someone I am going to go with, and I know that is going to be surprising to most when it happens.

Is it a fight or is it the end, are you the right one, or should I go with the other person? That might see me for who I am more than you. The judgment has come; the chariot has arrived; now it is up to you, and the divine master to tell me what I will do next. There has to be a connection inside and join me and you in this journey, on with we ride. That is if you choose not to go the other direction and hide.

Chiaz- I feel that the choice is up in the air, it is just part of the signs that are shown. I am flexible in your transitions; I know that you are the type to tell me how it is going to be. I know you are up for the challenge of the tower. Your communication skills assure that you can take on that load and comprehend any false chats that may come across your path. I know that you will have to spend your time searching for something more before you find what you are looking for was in your sight the whole time. Just like I pinpoint you as the right girl, because when giving you my heart-shaped key with the guitar pick attached. It had a meaning behind it... it signifies that I pick you to be with me and that you hold the key, if you wear it around your neck then I will know that you feel the same about me. Say you want me!

Nevaeh

Book: 4

The Miracle

Love is a game, someone has the flame, and yet someone does not feel the same. Being in love is finding one another, being happy as friends and as a lover, and making a commitment to one another, having a family, and growing older. Taking the vows that will last forever, and promising that there will never be another. We will share the memories and all those pictures with the others.

Yes, you are the game that I want to play; someday we will be together in the golden hey, together next to one another we shall stay, in the making of memories that will last from day-to-day. Is this love, because I have nothing more to say?

~Nevaeh~

Chapter: 22

Shy Virgin of Everything

(Summer of 2010) Chiaz Natherth- It was just going to be a typical summer day. I am at the local watering hole with my bud Melvin Shezor; we were just there to girl gaze, sitting on lawn chairs. I had warm lemonade in my right hand at the time. I am looking around at all the bodies that are bobbing in the water; they all just seem to blend. The lifeguard is blowing her whistle while screaming at the little kids that are running around. Some stunning bodies are smacking the cold blue water with great speed, from the high dive.

But- there is no more perfect figure there than hers. Everyone else seems to fade away out of my vision, along with all the ear-shattering noises. Bryan Adams 'Heaven' is playing in the background, and it seemed to be pronounced to my senses. When I am looking at her, it is like she was moving in slow motion, swimming and crossed the pool. She climbed up the ladder and out of the pool. Her body dripping with water... what a moment, there is even water dripping down her chest. She looks amazing in that petite pink bikini. I was thinking to myself, that is a very cute looking camel-toe you got showing there Nevaeh! I never knew that she had a heart-shaped belly button piercing, when did that happen?

Also, I could tell that her swimsuit was made by her, just like most of the sun-dresses she wears in the summertime too. Because it was not like any others I have ever seen around, it is cute somewhat skimpy and tailored to her perfect body. The fabric was not meant to get wet, it was somewhat see-through, yet she did not know, though it looks very good what can I say. She is walking towards me while running her fingers through her long brown hair. 'I was thinking this is too good to be for real.' She walked by and said 'hi!' and I was at loss for words. She was already gone, but I still babbled something like 'Ahh-he-oll-o.' At that point, into the changing room, she went, and I just sat there trying to fathom what had just happened.

Melvin Shezor- 'Chiaz! Ah, Chiaz! Hello, earth to Chiaz, snap out of it dude.'

Chiaz Naztherth- 'She is so fine! I would not mind having her on my arm.'

Melvin Shezor- 'Yah, the man she is not bad. But- isn't she into girls though.'

So, do you like Nevaeh?'

Chiaz Naztherth- 'I do not think that she is, and well... yes, did you see her in that swimsuit? She is adorable in every way.'

Melvin Shezor- 'Really is that so? Go talk to her!'

Chiaz Naztherth- 'No way!'

Melvin Shezor- 'Why not, you pussy!'

Chiaz Naztherth- 'If Alissa finds out that I like her, or even looked at her I am going to die.'

Melvin Shezor- 'Ha, it sucks to be you man.'

Chiaz Natherth- 'Hey, I will see you later, I got to go.' (Text messages are going off... like crazy)

Melvin Shezor- 'Pu-ss-y!' (Shouting as Chiaz Natherth is walking out the exit gate.)

(Chiaz- He just waved it off, with the finger that is not supposed to be used in public, and does not think any more about it from that point on.)

Chiaz Naztherth- Summer is over! Yet she is with him... he is so unconfident in himself that he has to follow me around. He gives me vain advice on what to do, and how to do it, yet I would have to say I need to stand up for myself more than what I do, yet I do not because of her. He attempts to belittle me, with his words of temperament to her. These results lead to her having breakdowns, where she is feeling miserable because she stuck in the middle. She does not know what to do! She doesn't know how to feel! She does not want to hurt anyone's feelings, yet she is the one that is left to choke on her tears. Yes, I will save you long before you drowned!

(Two weeks has passed)

Chiaz- I understand that he is just jealous of me because I am everything he wants to be. Yet she is everything that I ever wanted in my life. That is why he took her away from me from the beginnings. I cannot believe that she is now going with him on and off. What has he done to her, what is he doing to her? Some people do not want you, but they do not want to see you be with, or- around anybody else. It was all part of the controller's plan... and we all know who controls every situation in 'The Land of Many Steeples', the ones that deceives us all... but who is she? Is it still unknown? He is scared that I am going to take her away, and I will!

You just wait and see. She is going to be with me, and you will be, nothing but a faded memory, of what was I thinking? All of you who doubted me you just sit back, and wait to see what is going to be, I am the one that will have the mastery, and you all will be left to wallow in your misery, and you can think about every time that you made her cry. You just wait and see! I have to wait for the collapse!

Oh, yes, my best friend betrayed me. If you want something never to be spoken, keep it solely to yourself, because once it is vocalized to another it is no longer a secret. Information that is given to others, that is the fuel for their fire, for their torches of destruction. He may have her now; however, I will end up with her in the end. It is only a matter of time. So far, in my life, I have gotten everything, which I have wanted, and she will be no different. I feel that I deserve her next to me, as does she... or at least she did.

What have I done wrong? Maybe I should have risked my life, all for her. Maybe I should still. However, would she accept me now or is it too late? Has my time come and past? I do not understand as to how, when, or why. Why would she want to do this? How could she do this to me, I am insulted. When did he talk to her, they are not even close to being in the same click? What is his motive, yet I think I know! How did he get her to say yes? I know she is going to get hurt here, yet that is what she seems to want right now.

Okay then...! Then again, the tower knows what we all need, and she destroys the fate of what could have started, and what might have gone together, and may have been if it was not for her, she even stops what will be in the forthcoming. Her baby blue eyes melt my heart. Yet the hearts' is split into two, I cannot wait until the day that I can take her in my arms. Nevertheless, I am growing tired of waiting all my life for her. 'My Nevaeh! You have a choice to make, but will it be you and him, or you and me?' The decision is yours to make select the right person for you, regardless of any situations that may arise from the ashes. So, I can hold you in my arms at last, so that we can get on with life, that was meant to be.

Nevaeh- Some people will never have peace with you; however, you do not need them to reach your destiny. They are just trying to take up your time and energy from us, which we should use to thrive. Not everybody is going to understand me; just the same as I am not going to understand you, or anyone that is surrounded by me. If you do not accept me that is not my problem, it is yours. Just like with him if you want her, then go and be with her! Stop playing head games with me! I am not going to be your dirty little secret, which you come to find when it suits you! Go and play with her, I am going to find someone to play with too, which is for sure!

You will be sorry! I will always be kind and respectful to anyone, do I have to agree with you, no not at all. The same can be said for the family they are not always going to get your dreams. Do not let family members stop you from your true calling in life, some people just want to waste your time, if they do not see or understand you then they're in the wrong. 'Do not ever get engaged into a battle that you do not need to fight' The same can be said with me and my tower situation I may be combating a battle that will take me away from my divine destiny.

Chiaz Nazareth- The whole job of the tower is to distort and manipulate, their negative energy upon you. So, you lose touch with your true faith and origin of life's understandings of reaching your goals. The goals include finding compatibility, passion, drives, and excellence with mastery. The best thing you can do is shake off their negative thoughts, move on to forget about them leaving them alone. Yes, eventually if you leave them alone long enough it will drive them nuts. All they want is your never-ending attention.

They are trying to push us down in all the ways that they can. But- if you do not let them that is more annoying to them than fighting back. Always stand up for yourself, stand your ground, stick up for yourself however no when to pull out of the situation. Sometimes it is not always good to go with a temptation urge. Go with your gut and heart. That is what we did.

The perfect girl what can I say; to be so close yet, feel miles away. I want to run to her, but have to walk out the door going the other way. The only words spoken to her is- 'Have a nice day.' I think about her and the summer, and what it could have been with her. It reminds me of- sixteen, you are on my mind all the time. I think about you. It is like a vision, of the stars shining, ribbon wearing, bracelet making, and holding hands forever.

All the sunflowers in the hayfields and kissing in the rain, no more brick walls, no more falling teardrops of pain, and no more jigsaw puzzle pieces would remain. True love should not be such a game; does she feel the same. She is everything that I cannot have, and everything I lack. What if every day could be like this- Diamond rings, football games, and movies on the weekends? It is easy to see she belongs to me; she is everything that reminds me of 'sixteen' everything that is in my dreams. Everything she does is amazing, but then again, I am just speculating, and fantasizing about Nevaeh Natalie, who just turned the age of sixteen!

Nevaeh- I recall my first boy kiss was not at all, what I thought it was going to be like. I was wearing a light pink dress, and flip-flops that were also pink with white daisy flowers printed on them. I loosened my ponytail and flipped out my hair until my hair drops down my back, and around my shoulders. That gets A guy going every time, so I have read online. He was wearing ripped up jeans, and a Led Zeppelin t-shirt.

He said that- 'My eyes sparkled in blue amazement, which was breathtaking, that he never saw before.' Tell me another line... I was thinking, while Phil Collins 'Take Me Home' was playing in the background. I smiled at him, he began to slowly lean into me, until our lips locked. So, enjoy, he kissed me, and my heart was all aflutter.

When it happened, I felt like I was floating, and my stomach had butterflies.

My eyes fastened shut with no intentions of me to do so during the whole thing. When my eyes unfastened my feelings of touch engaged, and I realized that his hands are on my hips. His hands slowly moved up my waist, and my body. I was trembling from the exhilaration. Plus, one thing led to another. It was sort of my first time, kissing and playing with him you know a boy, oh yet not really, I had gotten to do some things with Chiaz before like, in class as he sat next to me. I would rub my hand on it under the desks- yeah, he liked that, and he would be.

Oh, how could I forget this... there was this one time in the front seat of his Ford pickup truck, we snuck off... and this was my first true time gulping down on him, for a lack of a better term. As I had my head in his lap and was about to move up for him to go in me down there, I was about to get on top and let him in me. When we both heard her this odd, yet remarkably loud scream of bloody murder! Ava was saying- 'You too were going to fuck! What the fuck is going on here? Anyways, Ava spotted us before he got to 'Take me!'

So, there was her little face pressed on the glass, looking in at us mortified outside the window, as she was getting a free show, as the truck was rocking side to side, in the back parking lot. She asked- Did you do to him; what I think you did?’ As you could guess, I could not talk with my mouth full, and a lady does not spit...! So, most of that went down, and some got stuck on my tonsils. I said with a hacking cough- ‘Yes, yes I am! Suck on that Ava!’ She said- ‘It looks like you already did!’

This was sweet payback for what they did to my car, and I truly thought I loved him anyway. It was so worth it. So yeah, you get the picture, and when she screamed, he ended up with my teeth there also, from me jumping out of surprise- Sorry! She kind of killed the loving moment, to say the least. That weekend I was told to confess that one, too to the father, and everyone. How come when someone else does it they get away with it, and when I try it is a big sin? Plus, that cellphone video was damning, for the sisters to use, hello to a million hits on YouTube! Just to pick on me more. So now, they are referring to me as- ‘The Little Virgin!’ all around the towns and lands.

Yeah so, I feel that I am going to be a virgin forever! You know my virginity it was meant to be broken into by him. I was going to let him, I even recall it was so thumping big, and looked freaking scary to me, like that thing is never going to fit in there, but he is what I wanted, yet we cannot get it, nope we cannot! However, no it did not happen, sorry to say, yes, it is so sad to say, I am still the only virgin girl in my grade- that sucks! Ha- that is all we got to do is suck, come to think about it.

Wow, that was graphic sorry, but what I just said was complete, one hundred percent true! When Hope found out, she was intrigued and stunned. We got home she took me by the arm to my bathroom, she looked at me and said- ‘Clean yourself up, it’s all over your face, and in your hair, you- piggy!’ I just smiled and giggled, and looked down as I got into my claw-foot tub. Then she got out a bar of soap, while I was sitting in the tub with the water running saying- ‘Okay misses you like to do that, then suck on that for a while, that is your punishment.

Girl I never heard tell of such things!’ -She said. It that very moment I howled. I waited until she walked out of the room and I stood up, and I ran my fingers through my hair to get as much as I could out, I looked at it on my two fingers, I know how I was going to get rid of what he gave me. But- would it work? I knew only time would tell. However, me- doing that would be inconceivable, I knew it would not be right, but I want to so badly, I guess my dream of him and I went down the drain too. Yet I could have trapped him, so easily. Then people dare to say that I am not smart, that plan was incredible. Either way, that ended that prematurely for him and me. So, I got tired of playing that game, so that is when I let someone new in, which would not get me into heap trouble.

So, my true first time with a boy was like this... You can look but you cannot touch Ha- that is what I thought, I was so wrong too and it was not with him either regrettably. It was okay my heart was beating so rapidly; I thought that it was going to explode out of my chest.

The silky-smooth skin ran along my body; it was like an enchanted expression of togetherness. At last, I felt as if I was loved. But I was not with the one that I loved. His brown eyes gazed- sweetly and softly into mine. I was so looking forward to this kiss and moment all my life. However, he walked with me in his arms to his bed. Then I was on his bed stripped of all forms of dignity. The lights were off, and the door was locked, and that took me back to when I was a little girl. Loving at night just hold onto me tight. The room is lit by the moonlight. When are you looking down at me is what you are seeing all right? This is maybe my special night. I cannot believe I am with a football player! I was not prepared at all for the performance of lovemaking. I had no idea what I was doing. I was thinking to myself this is not like the movies at all!

Yes, all the touching was extremely steamy, like before and then again, the playing around that he did on me was more intriguing, to say the least. I was thinking that he was the most, sweetest guy on earth. However, all the thoughts in my mind ran fast... thoughts like should we be doing this?

Yet, I am so shy and nervous my knees knocked beforehand. Then again, this is going to be so beautiful; I had fantasized about this moment since I was a young girl. 'Yet, I have to say to all you girls out there, to lose it when you are ready to. Please do it for you and no one else. It is about your timing, and what you choose to do, you can choose when and whom you let in!' So, starting I felt like my tearing and breaking-in took forever, and that his pushing forward was never going to stop, love is painful in more than one way, it was so intense.

Yet, it was so perfect and feels so amazing with him now sliding in and out of me. It hurt at the start, but it got more enjoyable, that is for sure.

Yet also, it was like being run over by a speeding train, and I could not help but, feel that he was not meant to be my first. Me being so naïve and only sixteen years of age I was so embarrassed by, the fact that I was so under experienced in sensual activities.

I wanted to make the best of the moments of intimacy. I was happy to say that I got my first French kiss as well, but his soft little kiss was sweeter, the first time we kissed as I remember at that time. Nevertheless, during the whole thing I was very self-conscious. I think he rushed into it though. Maybe it could have been more romantic. Then on the other hand, again it was the most incredible two minutes of my life. My body trembled afterward's, it was tension releasing of all the peer pressure and an escape from the existence of life. Just like a photo, that will be etched in my mind, which I will never forget. 'Yet I feel that I am not in love, he was just the first!'

He was so gentle with me at first, and then it was like I was getting a pounding down there, 'Hello! My little vagina, she did not do anything wrong... for her to get spanked and beaten by you, so be nice to her.' I do not understand why guys think that going that fast is good, slow down! Anyways afterward, I did not think I could get up and walk out; I was in pain... yes, it was that bad. The walk of shame is not a fun path to go down. I wanted to be in love, and to feel that love. Not to be a one-night stand or just a bed buddy, and that boy made me out to be just that. Oh, well- I cannot go back now!

Chapter: 23

Heartbreaker

(The beginnings of the senior year)

Nevaeh- How does one speak up if they did not have a voice at one time? How does one get back the times in the past? How does one stop a voice that slanders? How does one rebuild their future with equal voices? How do I make all this stop from playing in my mind?

Melvin Shezor- (Number 69 on the football team) 'Yes we have had intimate encounters; it was nice to say that she thinks she is like every other girl now. Nevertheless, I cannot say that I was in love with her, or even really liked her at all.' 'She is just another ass that needed a banging, so I took it, why not? From what I know, she liked it by the way she screamed... I cannot nitpick.' 'It was all right; she was just like every other girl I have had for there first. That look on their face is priceless every time.' (Laughing with sarcasm)

Nevaeh- I have lost my crown of purity, and he just got what he wanted. However, at this point in my life, I do not care anymore about being a virgin, so I just started being with him so that it would help me become more popular.

My body is nothing to anyone- so why should I care what somebody does with it. The first day at school was the worst, he told all his friends about it. I mean that everyone knows, I thought we were in love, I thought we would have a family together. Maybe I am just a stupid girl for thinking that way. I thought he was the one, but I guess I was wrong. Will anybody ever come along and save me from this hell? Just remember that life is not like a romance novel, and it most likely never will be like that at all for anyone.

We as a society have an impression of what is thought to be love, and that depiction is a joke. We build ourselves up for a letdown, no one or anything is perfect, and life is not fantasy. The reality always shows through in one way or another. We all have to find someone that is going to always be there for us, no matter what we have done or what has been said in the past. If we cannot be trusted by one another then it is never going to work. We want to enjoy spending time together, not worry about it, which is what real romance is about. I feel that I am still stepping foot into my drum cadence. I play my drum beats; others may join in when they find the right rhythm. If they are out of step with me, there is nothing wrong with playing a solo sometimes.

Chiaz Nazareth- I trusted him, by saying that I liked her... and he uses that against me. 'A word of advice- If you like someone keeps it to yourself.' because other guys will take what you want away from you. Yet, there is nothing I can do. I am stuck with Alissa, while she runs around on me. However, that is okay in her mind. I am just getting so sick of her moods, and one-night stands, that I have to look at. I am ending this now! I have a plan, and it is beyond brilliant, it is like I have downloaded a thought that would be so perfect no one could ever screw it up, not even the tower.

The clan would be left to crawl under a rock in their little holes and hopefully die because they would not be able to handle it, so they would have no choice but to leave us alone. I cannot leave her now it is forbidden, and it seems that there is always something or someone in the way of her and me... from being together. But- yet I do not know if she is going to go along with this plan or not, she is a mystery behind blue eyes. But- she holds the key to my heart and our freedom.

Melvin is just using her, as for me I would treasure every moment I would have with her. I can tell that he is afraid of losing her; by the remarks that he makes about me, that I need to change so that she would be interested in me. However, I know that she is interested in me. Then again, at this point, she cannot break up with him because; she is afraid of him, and what he might do to her, or say about her. Let us not forget would we be accepted as a couple? Since we all have to bow down to what is known.

Why is it anyone's business if we want to be together? Nevaeh, you have a choice to make, choose wisely. You know what is so amusing about this is that Melvin does not even think that I know about his relationship. So, as of now, we are blocked from following one another on the wall and the webs and forced apart by parents and lands and so-called friends. I wanted to be the first guy in her life, I wanted to be the first guy that she kissed affectionately, and I wanted to be her first in everything. Oh, while that dream is lost forever, but I would still love for us to be together. Let's just leave this land of never; I will be right here waiting for you whenever let us be together!

Nevaeh- When you toss something or someone away, where does it go? It is just the same as not missing a family that I have never had- I guess. I was left to be buried under more useless substances, in a heap of forgetfulness, yet I dig myself back up, and out of the burial ground, they put me on top of, time and time again. Just for them to track me down and cover me over once more with their dirt as if I am trash. Besides the society just wants more matter to throw away, instead of embracing what they once had.

This reminds me of the fact, that a lot of girls out there are used and then thrown away in the boys are left to go on was someone new and do it all over again. As well as, break yet another girl's heart. I should know it happened to me! Just like they can keep trying to kill me, yet I know I will stay thriving! Just when I thought, all was lost completely and everything was helpless, while I have hit rock bottom once more.

Chapter: 24

Sweetheart

(Enchanted Dating)

I was in the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams as always, looking over the horizon out my bedroom window, I unlocked it to sit in the big window seat.

That is when...! At last, I saw that old silver Ford chariot coming down the lane; it was him coming to sweep me away off my feet. I just know it; I felt like what should I do now? Because my hair is not that long to cascade over and down the side of this place? Do I wave at him like a mindless idiot- nah? Nope, I went for the more laid-back approach, of yelling his name like a little girl and falling out the window stark naked. Rolling head over feet down the ruff shingled porch roof snagging the tree, then falling right into his arms as he ran to catch me. That worked well...? If only, I had wings?

He said- I was walking to the door to get you, you did not need to do that, nice outfit by the way. -his said. I could have died in his arms, for many reasons- as you could guess. I just said all my uniforms, are going to be washed; and I did not expect this to happen. I always did have a way of making an entrance. Yes, and the rest is history. However, let me explain this- So, knock, knock, and knock he went on my door. Hope she opened the big heavy wood door, with me in his arms.

Looking confused and dumbfounded.

‘I thought you were in your room? Nevaeh! What on earth are you doing, like that with him?’ -She said ‘Ah- I was... I just fell out of my window?’ -I said. ‘Hello!’ He said also, awkwardly! Hope- ‘Oh my god!

Baby... are you okay?’

‘Yeah? I am good now!’-I said, yet he had a funny little smile on his face at that time. ‘Can I take her out?’ -he said. ‘I don’t know!’ - Hope said. So, he just kept asking her until she said ‘Yes!’ Hope- ‘Sure- all right, but for God-sakes girl go and put something on!’ ‘Ah- would you excuse me’ -I said, as I ran up the staircase like a bolt of lightning to my room, to put on the same unclean tattered uniform, from the school day.

Hope- ‘You think it is like she does not have anything to where?’ She said to him. (I do not I was thinking to myself. As I was overhearing their soft chats about me.) ‘That’s okay’ -he said. ‘Okay let’s go!’ -I said. I could never- guessed, -I would have never thought this was going to happen...! So, that he was going to propose to me that night, on the hill of hills, while looking down at the valley below on the cable tracks that go north and south, on the Johnstown inclined plane, at twilight time. And, of course, I said- ‘Yes!’ For the reasons, that at last being with him that form the love we both wanted, and we both knew from the past we belong together, and that no one is going to keep us apart. Finally, this may break the curse of the tower you know my Grandmother. Will this end the clans; will they no longer stock us? I would love to have stopped, and shouted from the top of this mountain, and say- 'We are in love at last!' -Maybe I did?

Let us both just say that we finally got our moments in the Golden hayfields. From that day on, we had enchanted love time and time over, and we bridged the gap that made a miracle happen, that we thought would never. We thought this was our happily ever after. The first time it was looking over the horizons with its sunset along with the golden sunflowers. Which were next to us on the grounds, that we lied on top of... everything was so perfect!

Then an unexpected problem popped up I got so sick. So, like approximately ten days or so after this date. I started coming down with what I thought was the flu, and I thought I was going to die, not the most romantic thing to happen to me. Like just when things were finally starting to work out for me. I was blowing chunks in the morning, besides I felt like my insides were ripping out my body. Yes, even as I am, I get sick!

Yet he was the only one to comfort me in any way that he could, there are so many unanswered questions. Why do I feel this way? Is this the way I should feel? Why do I feel like I have everything that I need now? Yet what am I going to lose? I hope that nothing will be lost, with my angel Lily looking at him and me, I know that she is so happy for me! She was looking perfectly crying from her eyes, heavenly tears of joy as he got down on his knee that day. She said- 'See!' Through my joy always ends fast, Hope, she was not at all thrilled when she found out about us being engaged. She said- 'You are too young, and you will end up alone in the end. I am not allowing this to go on. End it now- you hear me!'

'No!' -I said back!

(I will come back to this shortly.)

Thinking back on our past days. Why was I so stupid to let somebody take advantage of me just for popularity back then? Was that what was supposed to happen, so that you found your way to me? When you are under pressure, and you let society make choices for you. You just do not realize at that time. If that may or may not benefit you in the coming up days, something's like many things might not even be foreseen, and others may just pop out at you when you not even expecting them to.

My advice to anyone is ... go to extremes to get to know your someone special... even if you think it is not worthy at the time, it may just be... just look at me for example! We live in a society where most girls have had at least two boyfriends by the time they're fourteen. Besides, most guys go through girls like pairs of underwear. Kind of sad and pathetic to think that there is no longer purity in this cold world.

Oh well, I guess I am guilty of it as well. Nonetheless, there is a miracle awaiting me at the end of this term, and I will see that face for the first time something I can truly call mine. I can love to cherish and care for until she no longer needs me. Oh yeah, that is right I am pregnant.

Chiaz- I cannot help but wonder if this baby mine? I think he or she is? I sure hope so? Only time will tell! It has to be mine. Because that other jerk-off, he does not want anything to do with either one of them. The baby is mine I can just feel that he or she is!

Nevaeh- It is funny how your life changes and your priorities are predetermined or so you think, but as you get older, they change or they are forced to be changed by something that is out of your control. But it is when you take control of your destiny and follow the path that miracles happen!

Yes, I look at all things from a different perspective now. I look at the many trophies that I have gotten back from over the years for being a part of the track and softball teams, along with all the things I got for being good in the young girls' jail. I have the medals, bits, and pieces on display now, but they mean nothing to me anymore. Not that I feel ungrateful that I made such accomplishments. However more, I feel that I am just moving on to my next project that means so much more. You can love your possessions but you will never love a possession more than another human life, this is something I have learned.

I think about all the mothers of the past, which were in my situation they were looked down upon for becoming pregnant and in school. However, times changed and I think for the better at let for this category. I am not forced to leave their place of education at the hellhole, for having a baby growing inside of me. Remarkably! Yes, there is nothing like peeing on about three different sticks that your boyfriend got you... to know that you are not getting your period, that you completely missed it. Yes, even the way I am, I still have to go through menstrual cycles every month.

The first days of my pregnancy I was feeling a sense of guilt for... what have I done, having to go to school like this, and knowing I am just a teen girl here, can I be a mommy? Plus, at the time I did not know what the baby was... like the sex, how to take care of him or her when they pop out, or what to do. So, that was an adventure in itself. At that time, I was not even thinking that this baby is going to have a name and be with me for the next eighteen years.

You just do not think like that, or at least I did not. Nevertheless, that was all coming fast and the nine or so months went fast, and yet horribly slow at the same time. In the beginnings of those days of days and times of times, I did not know how to tell Hope, what I did, so I did not say anything to her. Yet she knew I was... I think she felt what was going on with me before I did; she had an idea of what we were up too. Okay- teen pregnancy it is tough for me to explain, it comes with joys and its pains. Being a girl, it is like nothing you have ever felt before. Yeah, it changes from trimester to trimester, like a school semester.

Like in the first week's when I felt sick, breathless and tired most of the time.

Hope was under the impression I was coming down with a disease like Multiple Sclerosis or something like that, at the beginning of those days and times. That all change, the day I was examined and felt up by some random ass girl, and she scanned me over. Yet she is the technician. She told me to plop down on this hard table, and somewhat on my back, then she squirted all kinds of goopy stuff on me.

Shortly after that, I could see that heart beat up on the screen.

‘That is the earliest stars of your baby that we can see!’ She said.

Me- that is amazing and small. ‘So, do you know who the daddy is? Did I say- yes, I think so? ‘So, this was an oops?’ – She asked me. ‘Kind-of, yet I am okay with it.’ ‘You poor thing...!’ that was the last thing she said. As I got up and was about to walk out, and drive in my car alone, just to go back home and sit, and ponder everything I did, and everything that was going to happen. Yet what was neat about this is I get to keep the black and white photos of my baby; I could not wait to know if it was a boy or girl.

I remember that day also. However, when she started to show, that is when everyone was talking about it. I remember that my belly felt heavy, I felt so bloated, and could not go to the bathroom even if I wanted too for days. Plus, my feet, hands and everything in between looked weirder than normal, I looked bizarre altogether, as if I half died. The baby inside me was not showing much the first couple of weeks but I know, that it would soon with me being so small, I knew I could not cover up for long. I walk with this belly, day in and day out. With her kicking me and moving all-around and such. Going down the halls and past all the doors of perception, even now, I do not have a uniform that fits me. That is just fine with me; I have my little girl inside me, which shows the love we have and had. I know she belongs to him and me.

The best way to describe a kick is like a muscle spasm. My belly skin just keeps getting tighter and tighter. I know that is going to look good after the baby is born out of there. Yeah, I know my belly is going to be flabby like an old man frowning.

My boobs look like two sad eyes staring at you going cross-eyed. Will what can I say at least she will not go hungry when she gets here, that is for sure. Yeah, and to think I used to pray for bigger ones. You know what also scares me to know that my baby is coming out of me down there...! While everyone is going to be looking at it, why- do I have to go through this? That is life for a girl I guess, being a rip, cut and torn apart in all ways possible. who knew, that having a little bit of unprotected sex only a couple of times here and there would start all this. 'Yet I have to ask myself was it the making love, that started all of this, or did I do this to myself?'

However, I started showing at fifteen weeks and I honestly looked like I swallowed a small beach ball! I could not get up off the loveseat on my own and get out of bed was impossible, yet I had too. Oh, when I walk, it feels like she might come right out of my vagina! As I penguin-walk down the hall at school, everyone that sees me wants to put their hands all up in my business, and touch, feel, and poke everything I have, well at least it is kinder than what the sisters did, and do to me. It is like they want to still kill me, and even now my unborn baby! Hope and I have a restraining order on them, so hopefully, that will keep them at least one hundred feet away at all times. That is the theory.

Nevertheless, that does not stop them from getting other boys and girls that are their friends to do their evil. There is no stopping the clans that bully...! Just like the teen moms in the past. Who were they to make such judgments on those girls back then? Why was it looked down upon back then, and not so much now? Did society change? Besides, why should it ever be okay to look down on somebody for carrying a human life? Life is just going to happen, and we cannot stop it. Yet if we do stop that human life is that not considered immoral at-least I think so? I should know I stopped mine at one point. Yet some are going to try in more ways than one on me to stop it again. In the days to come!

(Life comes and goes)

Maiara Chenoa was one of my true friends, but she left me also later that year. All she had to do was say my name, and I was forever there for her. Even when we did not see eye to eye. It was said, that she stabbed herself in the neck and so on, with a large butcher's knife, and shot herself also that was what truly ended it all. It was said that she had a slow painful death, that she bludgeoned herself in the head with her own metal baseball bat, beforehand because she lost her mind over me, in the graveyard.

This took place right after my engagement... about two days after... while I was digging myself out of a whole once more. This happened, 'The Land of Many Steeples' wants us to think she did it because of me, and they want to deliberate that it was me, that did this one also. Because of the note, and what it said. 'Nevaeh- You did this to me; I will see you in hell!' It was not me...! I was with him! Which is my alibi, and she and I were just friends at that time! I know she would never write something like that to me- would she? Nonetheless, I did not think she did.

When I found her dumped on top of Lily's grave naked, she was all cut up from her neck down to her belly button, with what looked- liked- an aero of her blood cut in her skin pointing down to, that girly spot. Furthermore, who in their right mind puts a pistol all up in their vagina six and a half inches deep, and pulls the trigger, to shoot themselves to stop their heart from beating? Then leaves it in there with their hand still holding on the handgrip, and their one long middle finger on the trigger? Who does that? I cannot believe that she would choose to do that! They did it... THEY DID IT! I knew who did it, and so do you? They could not get at me, so they got at her, through which one of the sisters was it. I guess that is a mystery too.

Furthermore, Lily, she does not want to tell me because she does not want me to retaliate on that family. She said- 'Payback will come, in time for them all, you need not do anything, and God he sees it all.'

'Yet someone needs to kick these girls in the head until there sped, so they stop hurting others. Yes, I feel that they are the ones that need to die not us!' Anyways to me that note, it did not look like her handwriting, and she was sped too. So why would the grammar be so perfect and not sloppy? You and I both know that she could not spell or write to save her life? I was talking with Lily to see if she can bring her back to life as she did for me, time and time again! Who knows if she will, or can?

Maybe some girls do not get a second chance at life- I guess, as I did. Why I do not know, I guess you have to be chosen for something, some die as she did and never speak again, that is what they choose to do. Why was I chosen to live on once more, and not she too? However, I can feel her presence around me at times, yet I do not know if it is good energies, she brings or not? I do not know why she does not want to talk to me. She should not have many reasons to be mad at me. I just hope and pray that her spirit is born into my baby girl, and she has the love and fight of life as she did. Who knows maybe she will?

Yet I know that I can never hold her in my arms again. Like I can do with Lily as of now. Yes, her soul did not make it to the heavens. Therefore, she is not someone; I will be seeing or talking too, sad to say. I try to stay away from black-winged angels, and no, I am not being racist... I have real reasons. I can see Maiara flying around me with no voice from time to time, and she scares me now.

To think she was so kind and good to me, now look...! What- happened to her? They must have gotten her soul!

There is always someone in the way or so it seems to live life. She left her home for the last time, that night, to see the graves that we all are going to be in at some point that I have been overtopping. I wonder if she came to see if I was there, that might explain the one red rose, which was on Lily's headstone. That is when they must have jumped her. That is when she was attacked and stripped naked like the day she was born, and then completely dishonored. They must have killed her there; I think like they have done to me over and over?

Yet I will not breathe my last breath, as long as Lily keeps giving me her breath to live on, I am as alive as any other girl on the earth, so it seems to them. I will let you in on a secret; I am an angel on earth. Yet I am also an angel on the inside in a human body, which will age and get older as I would have anyway. However, no one can see that spirit living inside of me. All they see is the same old Neveah, as the girl she always was and will always be within their eyes. Little do they know!

Therefore, the day I hanged myself with my school belt noose, I really did pass on, and every time they kill me, I do die and come back to life, yet do they know why? They just think they cannot get the job done, I guess! I do perish- every time, as I fall to the ground, and see the light, yet so far as I said I am saved to live on. As you know, and given life again, just in a non-living, yet not dead way. I cannot explain what it is like; I can inhale and exhale the air of worlds. Like you, but differently. It is like I have the life of a spirit, with a heavenly air that never ends. Everything looks the same on me, as I breathe in and out of my human body, yet I know that is not so. I have something more, and if I wanted to, I would not need to fill my lungs at all with earthly air; the heavenly air would keep me alive as I am now.

Though to be as normal as possible, I do both, also because the baby is sharing everything that, I take in and out of my body also. Besides, she has to have oxygen to live. So, it has become a second nature habit, like before to breathe and eat and sleep as I did before. I am still the same girl, just even more different than before, yet the same. Do you understand? Yet even now, I have to do the right things to get my white wings when I ascend at some point someday. I know it is crazy an angel having a baby. Yes, it can happen, and she is going to be born soon, as a human girl! Yet no one knows about me being like this.

So, do not tell him, Hope, or anyone! No one ever needs to know about this! I am sure I will die at some point, for good. However, when and how, I do not know? I am just happy to be alive now and live on...! Well you know what I mean? Nonetheless, to look at me you would not know that, because, I look very much alive, as you can see.

That is how I have the power to hear, see, and feel all that I do. Crazy I know, yet I am just like every other girl no different in what I have done and going to do in life! I am just happy that I was given the chance to live my life, yet it could end at any point if I ask and they want to send me away for good, it is all that I choose, and if they allow.

It seems that when I love someone they die, so who is next to go in my life, that is the question? Yet I do not have an answer. I have also wondered if I am not the angel of death- jokingly. However, when I do love someone too much they go away. Hum- Nah- I am too sweet for that role! Oh, that reminds me, I should be eating something about now, and yes, I am craving chocolate, which will never change!

(Questioning Maiara's demise)

I guess I was wrong maybe; she did kill herself because I found out just last week that she really could not take any more of the town and the hellhole and me. Because she killed her, her father and mother with the same baseball bat. It was a crime of passion and hatred. On the other hand, did they, do it? To make it look as if she went wacky? I do not know? However, I can see her fighting someone off, but I cannot see who it was in my visions that I am having. It was also said, by the town criers, that she made this... it is a letter, which I have in my hand, right now. I never thought it was also a suicide letter. Yes, I got it in the mail, which is shocking, because the sisters like to come into our yard and steal our mail from the box, and smash it up, and knock it over even more than it is. Yes, just like Hopes income checks, yet this note was on time, and the date was right on the money. Additionally, what was odd is that this envelope was not opened or soiled, unlike all the others.

The sisters are so destructive to us, and our possessions around the house. They have even hanged a dead cat from the flower pot hook on the front porch, next to the swing. The poor black and white kitten's name were the same as mine. When I looked at the tag on her collar. They were making fun of me- I guess! Just like I cannot get a job because no one wants to hire me. For the reason that of what they say about me, and what they think.

So, no I cannot get a job to make money around here, yet they make it that way for me and say that I live off Hope's money and that I am too lazy and dumb to find work, the blame is always on me it seems! Just more rejection! Anyways back to this note, I think she was forced to write it letter by letter, they must have spelled everything out for her, which she said to me. I do not think this is her wording. Yet maybe it is? I believe in not saying one negative word about her so that I can receive my blessings, which will come even in times like these.

My Maiara was everything to me, she was a shining star for me, and her kiss goodbye the last time still makes me weak at the knees until this very day, not knowing that night was going to be the last time. That I would ever see her again as a human. I remember what she said to me about placing my dream catcher next to a tree and the demon will not follow me anymore, the tree will die like me, so you can be free, that is why they killed her because she was trying to help me. She was going to tangled them up in her pink feathers and webbings that she gave me. Her- all that was left was a nude girl on top of a grave, which they took away in a body bag.

Yes, they just cremated her because that was all they could do. About two days after the fact when she was found. She did not have any money coming from anywhere for a proper burial. So, I was given the ashes, she did not even have a wake, no grave, no headstone, no way to be remembered. That is exactly what the sisters wanted.

I think!

That is why they gave me what was leftover of her, to hurt me! So, I just placed the urn up on the fireplace mantel, I do not know what to do with her remains. Yes, it creeps me out, when her soul comes out and she flutters around me! Yes, it is like I can see her black hair and black wings. Yet once again, I was the only one that seemed to care about who she was, when she was alive, and will never be now that she is gone. I understand that she is never coming back as she was, so just like that, I was back to being alone all the time with no girlfriends. With their eyes on me. I just hope he does not leave me now. All I have left of who she was is some crumpled up photos and a letter of abandonment.

All I can say is I hope, that we both end up being in the heavens together someday, that is if she prays for forgiveness in hell, yet that is unlikely. Just remember do not let your dreams go with you to the grave or whatever; your stone is not going to say your story for you.

Also, if you do not have a stone or a marker there is no one to care, if you do or do not, even if you do it just reads your name and dates, not your true character!

Maybe someday that will change. 'Like being born again, death to me is not a part of life, life to me is death!'

Chapter: 25

My Night and Shining Armor

I have not even touched the surface of what is in my future. I cannot even imagine what is going to come into my life. Look at what has changed in the last year. I have to agree with the divine master and Lily anything is possible, and it is for me to grow and about her, as she will grow up with him and me.

Chiaz- so I remember the day I took Nevaeh to her junior prom, this year, of course, we went together. Yes, she finally got to have her slow dance with me, and wore her poufy pink and purple feathered gown, that looked so cute on her, because she is so small and tiny. Furthermore, that covered up her somewhat of a baby bump belly also. You would not even have known she was pregnant at the time.

When we did the majestic march on the stage at the school in the auditorium for the others to see us, we felt the warmth of the crowds, yet that did not last all that long. At the start of our walk, no one would have ever known. Yet some big mouths could not help, but make their nasty comments, their families did not approve of us, going to prom in the condition, she was in. Like one called out- 'See the slut dirtbag, that got knocked up!'

One yield- 'There is a thing called birth control, you two should have used it!' Why it is any of their business, I do not know. It is our choice not there's. Yet that was not going to stop us or spoil our night together.

Ava and her sisters and friends were saying all kinds of things there and at the dance. Ava and her girlfriends and their dates would gather around us, and they even kept bumping into us on the dance floor. Yet all she wanted was one slow dance and a photo, and we got it. Oh God, I can still hear their comments!

Ava's girlfriend and Nevaeh's classmate Katie said at prom, as we were on the dance floor- 'Hey who's the daddy?'

Even Adriane said- 'you are too good for her!'

Then Hannah McGruben speaks up saying- 'Why would you have wanted to fuck her, and why do you want to stay. If I was you. I would go get checked, for many things!'

I recall that Ava and her sisters were even ripping at her dress, to show everyone what was underneath. There was not one boy or girl at prom or at the march, which gave her one good comment. Nope, not one, not even Mr. Devolcano, who was the one that took the photograph of us as we walk through the door. He took the photo of us, and then he said after to another teacher softly- 'I can't put this dumb C*NT in the yearbook!'

I could have beaten his face in with my fist, at that moment! When he said that.

Nevaeh, she did not even blink at that, she said just let it go. Come on! -She said. From that moment on, we did not care what they had to say. We were us, and that is all that mattered. I have to say she was the most gorgeous girl there. We danced under the soft colored lights setting the mood, and the halls Gym walls were decorated with a Paris theme. That seemed tranquil and mallow, around all the confusion. We did not stay the whole dance. We left and went to our love spot. Where we would be alone together until I had to take her home.

That night ended in a romantic kiss at her door, she asked me in, and we when up to her bedroom. She changed into her nightgown in her bathroom and she left the door open, as she changed, she left her prom gown on the floor, she said-

‘I am not going to wear it anymore or again, the way it looks now, it’s not worth anything.’ Then she asked me- ‘Do you still like what you see when you look at me?’ – Insecurely, as she was pulling her lace-like night top down over her breasts, then to let it slip from her hands, and then fall around her knees. This all happens, as she stood in the doorway of the bathroom. And I said- ‘Yes, you’re beautiful, now and always, I love you Nevaeh and the baby!’ She said-

‘Awe, you’re such a sweetie! I love you too!’

Then we talked at the edge of her bed, and then we lied back together on her bed and nuzzled, the bed is so old, that it squeaks like the floorboards, when we make any movements at all. Everything in her room is either pink or white, maybe to pink for my liking, but it is nice and comfortable.

Yes, I love being in there with her. Even her bedsheets are pink and fuzzy to be underneath, and I love her pillow, it is so soft and smells so good, just like her and her hair. She is very organized compared to my bedroom, everything has its place, and everything is old but perfectly pretty in a girly kind of way. While a prison movie was playing on her old, television set on her chest of drawers, we held each other. The nightlight and television is the only light in the room, she fell asleep in my arms, squeezing me so tightly like always. Though at midnight I had to go and be home, I got up and seen that she was going to be okay. Yes, I even tucked her in and kissed her forehead. I closed the door behind me, went down the rickety steps.

I saw Hope sleeping away with a wine glass in her hand, in her big old chair in the living room facing the window. I think she thought I left a long time ago.

Nevertheless, I do not know, or no if she cared. She does not have much time, for her or us. I left her home, got my truck started just to go to my home about a few miles away. On the drive down the snug pathway, I was thinking, yes in a way all the things Nevaeh and I ever wanted have been checked off her list. I knew from that night on I wanted to spend my life with this girl! I was also thinking that the prom was the prom from hell.

However, to her, it was everything she thought it could be. Yet I feel that she still got cheated! Thus, far I can feel that I did all that I could for her. Me- I try to be kind, thoughtful to all. I attempt to control my shame in life by focusing on how unique, and special my life is! Just like hers, like her particular talents and mine are a lot alike, we both look at the good not the bad in life. Yes, I would have to say that feeling is everything!

(Interview)

My characteristics, and most outstanding trades, you ask. Okay, I am a Cancer; I guess that makes me loyal, dependable, caring and adaptable. I like to do things my way at times if I think it is the right thing to do. My creativity highlights me as an individual I think, I am just me what can I say. She is a Gemini, and some days she has two personalities, I swear, yet I can see why she does. Okay back to me- What are my drawbacks, you ask. Hum- I am moody at times, yet who isn't? I can be clingy, with the one, I love, yet she likes that! Self-pitying at times, like I can be oversensitive and self-absorbed in my world that I create. People say that I know me, that I am complex and enigmatic. Okay if they say so...? Yet some even say that I am stuck up, and hard to get to know, nevertheless I am not at all- as you can see. I am more- happy go lucky. What do you think?

Nevaeh- I believe I am never going to go around with little dreams anymore, I will not have a contained mind; I am always going to be positive if I can, and dream big. Knowing that it all can, and will be coming true if only I believe that it will. I know that I should never get stuck in a rut, for the reason that I do not know the whole plan that has been set for me. When you think like this, you can, and will break forth; this is when you will see an increase and praise. I hope that all our dreams come true, and we can all start anew. I hope, that we can think, all are choices through. Now I am hoping, that I can let you know that, you have an angel too. I hope that everything is going to work out for you. The angels will save you and me, in times that we are on our knee. I hope the tower and their clans will forever let me be. I hope that everything will be understood so all of you can see.

(About six months back)

Nevaeh- The night that I was saved differently, I am only sixteen but the time is right. I could not stand living here another day or night, in 'The Land of Many Steeples' in the house of lost and lonely dreams, it was time for me to spread my wings and fly away from this land of misery. The day finally came and he saved me from the hell that is part of my existence. The boxy chariot with its small oblong taillights arrived near my doorstep.

He greeted me with the presence of compassion. For I was looking down from the window, yes it was supposed to just be another date night. Yes, he arrived to sweep me off my feet once again and take me away. Hope was not very pleased with the onset of him being in my life... But there was nothing she could do at last I was contented, and that is all that mattered. She would not let me go on my dates, so I waited around until it was night outside, and she was asleep! That is when I would sneak out, and get away for a while, with him. Yet I think I got pregnant on date number one, yet I am not sure.

(Looking back)

I remember all the dates; we would drive through the town at night, and do all kinds of wild things. Besides, look at the stars in the back of his ford bronco truck with a blanket at our spot, as the baby was asleep inside of me, this was about four months ago, or so.

(The first days together as a couple.)

Some of our dates started right after my school day, he would come and get me, and I would not come home until my curfew or not at all. We did not have much money, yet we always had fun just being together. Like this one time, we went kayaking in or swimsuits on the gently flowing river, and then afterward we had a picnic lunch, simple dates, but always fun. Yeah, that is right, we only had three normal dates before; I know I was indeed going to have a baby. Are craziness slowed down a lot after that fact, yet we still went out.

(The revolution)

I remember the night, I was saved about nine and a half months ago; I was not wearing anything more than my pink nightgown, which I put on in a rush it was not on fully. I leaped down the staircase and exploded through the heavy wood door of the dwelling. I sprinted down the long lonely path that seemed to lead to nowhere, and that is where his chariot awaited my arrival. I know what the plan is, and what it was going to instill. 'Oh yes, we know what we're going to do. Nevertheless, for freedom, it had to be done like this.' At last, we are finally together so that all things would be all right once more. The tower has crumbled and her words are muffled, my life was starting to feel as if it was complete.

Finally, I had my chances to run through the cornfields of ecstasy hand, and hand, laced with desire. We were hoping and praying the night would not end, so we would not have to ever return to 'The Land of Many Steeples' once again. We saw the stars with its moonlight, while the thoughts of everything else was out of sight. So, the next day it was a Saturday, the weekend, so my boyfriend came to pick me up at my home for our date. Yet that did not go as planned, Hope was furious because she knows I was not home the night before, yet she and I were on the outs anyway. As well as I just do not care what she thinks anymore, plus I just had about enough of her bull shit?

Yes, I was being rebellious, yet I needed this free will.

Hope made it very clear that I was not going anywhere with him, she slapped me across the face, and pulled me away by my hair, and said that I was not going anyplace with him, that we are never apart, and that I need to stop being a whore for him just to lay-around with. Those are her words, not mine! As soon as she went upstairs to change into her nightdress that she where's most of the time.

My boyfriend and I left the kitchen where the fight took place, Hope said - 'I had enough of this... I am going to change, and when I get back down here, he best be gone- you hear me.' That is when he took me by the arm into the living room, to have a fast heart-to-heart about what just took place; we were sitting on the loveseat, with me on his lap, and his hands placed on my tummy.

He said, 'We should go... come along with me!' I replied- 'Where should we go?' He said- 'Anywhere but here, you need to get away from this. 'She is unstable.' -He said. We were whispering in one another's ears the plans to be, however you already know some of them. Nevertheless, I made it very clear to my boyfriend that I felt uncomfortable about the situation, and I said we should wait. And- his reply was 'What are you waiting for trouble?' He took my hand and we ran across the lonely lane to his chariot; he was so nervous that he flooded the engines.

The engines were- like- clanking and grinding. You know what- I am going to come back to that, and let the suspense build-up, I know- don't you just love me?

Anyways this reminds me of the first time Chiaz and I went out together after one of my school days. There is nothing like kissing in the rain. Oh, that night in the cornfields is love, at last, was realized, it was meant to be.

Yes, the clouds were overhead, but we did not care it just led to things getting even more passionate for us, the rain started to fall nonstop, as we were rolling around on the mud-covered ground. Our lips locked and eyes fixed on one another?

Everything was so amazing and amplified by the thunder, both of our hearts pulsed. Like raced along with its rhythm of the perfect shower; as he picked me up in his arms, there was one arm under my butt, and the other placed on my back, as we found our spot for the first time to do what we longed to do. As he ran with me held in his arms and underneath the bridge structure, we went. Below that part that is still standing, where we were covered from the rain, which was pelting down like a monsoon.

He placed me down to stand on my own feet. That is when we embraced closer than ever before. Then he began to take off my soaking wet schoolgirl uniform, starting with my top down. Which was just clinging to my body. My top was so wet that it was clear; he could see my pink bra, which was underneath, and he said that he liked it.

My white blouse was speckled with the mud from the brown and tan ground, which splashed upon us as we ran. Yet I did not care the uniform it was going to lay on the ground, at some point anyway. My skirt was just lying flat on my legs as if it was sticking to me. He was pressed up against me as we stood as one, at that same time we said to one another- 'That we have been waiting for this moment all of our lives to be together like this.'

He raised my arms to pull my top off, and to remove the bowtie I wore, as I removed his blue T-shirt up and off, at about the same time. Both are tops were like ripped off, and just thrown to the wet ground. As the dripping stream from the collapsed railroad bridge track so high above us was falling on us in trickles, as we stood together.

He did mine without even unbuttoning it completely. Then our fingers joined, just for his hands to slide down my arms to my hips and back up, and his fingers brushed along my body so softly. I remember how he tugged my skirt down, and off me completely, to the point I was showing everything that made me a girl to him, I was alarmed yet thrilled, and the adrenalin was pumping all at the same time, I knew this was perfect. After my plaid skirt fell the rest of the way down to the ground, I step out of it and kicked it out of the way right into a big mud puddle.

As he was unsnapping my pink bra in the back of me in a fast trembling passion at the same time. Around the same time, I was unbuttoning his jeans and sliding them down to his feet, and then I jerked his gray brief underwear down to his feet. Only to see what made him a man, that was pointing right up at me, all up in my face, and of course, I took care of that!

Likewise, we had missionary sex for the first time in the dirt. I recall that he was on his knees somewhat, and I was on my back with my hair in the sludge, as his hands were holding my knees down, and that is when our miracle was formed and united. As he deposited the seed of his cells deep inside of me, that all embedded in me, and that became her. Everything went just like my dreams, which I have had in the nights of the past. Yes, we made love under that bridge, looking out over the golden fields, and the miracle began, it will be nine months of transformation until we could see her face for the first time.

Nevaeh- He is warming me up for sex. Me- I pulled her underwire off to the right side, and we both can hear my vagina, slightly hair covered. Her- my lips not yet parted by anything of his yet, just me feeling around; so, he could see. Then his hand softly starts stalking me, at that point in the stocking and touch of both are fingertips and my hand on top pulling up and down in a rhythmic pattern on me. -I cum-ed, so- tingling- with a bleached, white and silver surge overflowing out of me, as my strengths inside were pushing it out... and I could see that moving up and in too. Me- then I kiss around... not yet going down and tasting as my tongue goes, all the way into her vagina. Her- he was intrigued by my hood, and how it is covering it all furrowed up the skin for it was hanging off ever so nicely, he said. He- and I saw it slow pop outward for me, her clitoris that is... it was changing, and soft pink, and I could see the button like thing come out at me. Awe- the smell of sex is on like anything! I love the scent of a lot of things and this is one, for yah.

~*~

I want you to smell everything I have asked you to, you can get the memory more that way.

~*~

Him- It was for sure fully covered by at least a half of inch of fleshiness that hangs skin was the only showing part at first, in-between the tightened lips looking at me sweetly, just wanting and sitting cutely to be pulled back, and like the lips apart for my kiss.

Her- Oh, and I could see her there now, that I was slowly being turned on to him doing this to me. Me- It was good to see her getting turned on to me. Her- I was laying on top of him at this point; we were wrapped in like around each other's bodies. Her- In the wraparound position I might add, awesome for... for me, Him- me too! Her- And to have a malleable orgasm, with his at the same time going off. Nevaeh- Um- honey are we saying too much here- Me- Nah, Love, I think they get it! Okay then- here it is- I am quite yet not when I getting off with my man! How does it work? Me- shit! Say it all why do not yah!

Her- Um ok-ie-dockie- he was laying on the bed, with his legs outstretched.

Then I climbed him... Me- and she's is so-o tiny...! Him- I love her going all over me like that. (Taking together holding hands, being cute-z, and being awkward about their love life, yet so in love, interview- like. 'It's the quiet ones you have to worry about.' Said the questioner named- Steven.) (Showing everything.)

I am working my way up to him, and then I wrap my legs around behind his back, while he pulls you towards him. Then you move up and down at a speed to suit you, and me that is as fast as I can go... Until he screams out my name as he doses mine; you get very deep penetration, and can kiss throughout, and God does with making out, just see and hear that, he is so easily squeezing my boobs which he'll love, and so do I when there been pushed up. Just suck on me, please! What do you want... sucked? I said- Everything! (In a sexy whisper) I can do that! (With a sticking look on his face.)

I say this is my: 'Love position. It Hits the G-spot every time. EXCELLENT! Wrapped around as tight as our two bodies could be holding each other, he was bending in upward for me as I was sliding up and down on his nude and abs chest, my boobs and nipples caressing him and giving us both shivers. Until she said, I am going to come! Breathing hard and fast like us in are thirsting, in and out seeing her vagina wet, and squirting all over my body. She licked her fingers, and said- let's do it again, just having it all rub in... flip me around, not having one time be enough; so, he makes the bedrock and rattle, as I am in the reverse sitting position. His breath blowing on my back my- hair in his face, and his hand rubbing up and down my backside feeling my butt, and I go for the ride, and it goes off even harder than the last ten times.

Truly, the miracle we needed! I remember how he kissed my lips, he kissed my neck, he kissed my chest, and he continued kissing me, all the way down my body, and back up all over again. He is truly incredible every time, with making love. What can I say, yet I love him, maybe that is why I feel that way? 'It cannot be bad, with the one you love!'

Now that moment is part of my history and story. I can still see it in my mind, all the wet coverings as they fall to the drizzled ground. As well as how it was so cute to see him having difficulty in removing my shoes and socks, it made me feel as if nothing could go wrong. Afterward, he and I were covered in all that grime and whatnot. Way too muddy and sticky to get back into his truck. Therefore, we rinsed off together, out in the rain slightly. We walked up to the truck hand and hand. However, our clothes were not salvageable, that we took off- so we just carried them in our other hand as we walked away from our spot, and we just threw them into the bed of the truck, when we got there after the small hike back up the ridge.

Naturally, we drove to his home with a blanket over us, all cuddled up in the front seat. While hoping that no one would see us. However, I am sure someone, if not all the town's people, which were out and about at that particular and unmistakable time did. I am sure there were someone's eyes on us the whole time!

It was an overwhelming and tremendous night, one that I will never forget as long as I have this life to live. Using the basement door and the steps going to the first floor.

I remember how we snuck past his mom Bethany who was engrossed in a television show, as she was laying on the sofa in their living room. Tiptoeing ever so gradually. Without making a sound and of course, I had to sneeze and pee badly. Nevertheless, I held it all back as much as I could anyway. We did not need to be busted, like this!

That would be hard to clarify. I mean he has a cool mom, but not that cool. His mom looked up as we were halfway across the room and she did look around because she thought she heard a thump in the night... and she did. It was me tripping on the floor rug or extension cord or whatever that thing was. So, we dropped to the floor behind the couch, like we were dodging an oncoming missile-like they must have in world war two in the battlefields.

We did not need this bomb to drop on us that is for sure! Besides, I did not want to have to drop the bomb of what we did on her; because she would have unleashed the F-bomb on us many times. You can understand why, like one me being underage. The others you can predict! I know she would have exploded on us. Yet about a three or four weeks later I remember, that bomb was dropped on her and Hope.

We were like- 'Surprise, we are having a baby!' -And the war started on us! The question where flying past us like oncoming round or fire! Bethany- 'I still can't believe that my baby is having a baby! I am going to be a grandma?' So anyway at that time, I was thinking, I would have died once more that they would kill us, and I would be seeing him as a spirit too, as I would look over his grave. No- we did not die, but we sure got into a lot of trouble, him more than I did shockingly. Because he is over eighteen, and I am not of age to have sex with anyone, because of what they call full consent laws. Hope could have pressed charges if she wanted too. Though, I pleaded with her at the time not too!

Anyways back to what I was saying, that just did not need to happen, right then and there. Finally, we made it the rest of the way on our hands and knees, Chiaz was behind me with his face bumping into my butt. There were a lot of things going through my mind, as you could imagine. At last, past the door, away we were in the hallway, we got up on our two feet, and we went and showered off entirely together in the bathroom. That is when we showered one another off completely.

After we ended up in the laundry room and he got me something to wear of his, it was a black hoodie and a beige pair of shorts. He asked if that was good, and I said- 'That is all I need.'

He got a white- T, black underwear and dark red shorts for himself. Then he even put my uniform in the wash, for me at his house. Yet I knew it was not going to come clean. However, it was sweet that he tried.

(Runaway)

Now let's get back to that day that we chose to leave. Yes, that flashback is over, and this one is about to start- I remember that Hope was running after us screaming with a frying pan in one hand and a branding iron in the other.

Shrieking- 'You bring her back to me, or I will have your ass mounted over my fireplace, and I will get you... jackass for kidnapping too.' We ran to the truck as fast as possible, and I got in the passenger side, he just jumped through the driver side window headfirst.

The key was fiddled into the hole, and turned; thus far, the engine was backfiring and making a hell of a lot of rackets, which was not promising; the damn thing did not want to run. She was nearly at the bumper, and the engine turned over. The vehicle finally started and knocked to life in a spitting and spitting sound, with a jolting motion. All the same, we were moving forward. Then hope was left to eat our dust as the wheels spun out, as we raced on down the path doing like sixty-five or more.

After a very long chariot or truck ride like a full day, I was asked the question that every girl waits their entire life to hear... yes, it was perfect, just like it was when he gave me my heart-shaped diamond ring. On the drive, I remember him saying- 'let's elope, together, I have a plan! Furthermore, when we come back, I will get my mom to sign it, the marriage certificate, so it cannot be annulled.' Plus, he got me three new dresses along the way, and a ticket! The night we left, I was fortunate, because I kept all my identification, like my passport and birth certificate all in one yellow envelope in the hall table. So, all I would have to do is just grab it, as I went out the door.

That is what I did. Just like all of the things he needed were all in the glove box. I knew we were going far away some-day, I just felt it, yet I did not know he was going to pop the question when we left! I have a photo of us there, that day also it shows us, as we were boarding are shipped to leave Norfolk Virginia. The picture displays us standing in front of this enormous ship's arm and arm. Yes, it was a glorious moment. Just like the name of the liner, which we got on. A photo, it is something I will always remember, and, yes just like the moment when Chiaz Natherth said- 'Will you marry me?' And I said- Yes... for three reasons.

One: He will always be there for me. Two: I needed to get away from the dwelling of lost and lonely dreams and 'The Land of Many Steeples.' Three: I am pregnant with our child; which no one knew about at the time. It was the right thing to do, he thought, and he loves me! Then, for five or more days, we saw nothing but deep blue ocean in front of us, with no connections to the outside world.

Yes, we were free to do whatever we wanted, on the boat deck, and in our stateroom. We went to these lovely enchanted islands that are far from our homes, with its cascading palm ferns blowing in the breeze, yes, the trees leaned over the Pacific, with smooth and as far as the eye could see. The sand in which we wrote our names in, to enclose with a heart, which we both drew around, with the date.

Oh, yes gone away for the lands that we knew; only to return as a family, at last, the plan was accomplished no longer a forbidden, as we were oceans apart from 'The Land of Many Steeples.' Not even a distant ship on the horizon; no one's lies or eyes could find us. We were in a peaceful paradise.

I remember when we applied for a marriage license on one of those nights.

Yet we had to wait forty-eight hours before the big day. Yes, knowing that I was only sixteen at the time, but I said I was much older, and he is somewhat older than I, yet we both said- 'I do!' We did it! Anticipating many repercussions, praying that Hope would not have the license annulled, for the reason that I was underage at the time.

The journey home was mixed with emotions, we are joyful because our honeymoon was on a luxury cruise, but will all of them be blissful for us? We are back in the land, and the news is out! The phone and walls are lighting up with an explosion. Nevertheless, is this good or bad? We just do not know yet!

Chiaz- our wedding night was a lot like the first time we were together, I remember the first time we kissed, and it was like that all over again, with her.

I remember saying our first kiss ever, thinking back- 'I would love to kiss your lips.' Nevaeh said to me, that she was afraid that she might be horrible at attempting a sweet tender kiss. I said do not overthink it, and if you feel that tingling feeling, it will be amazing for both of us; it cannot be bad you have to try to know, and you are going to know when we try!

I care about you so do not worry you can take it slow. I told her that whatever her heart was saying to do she should do it, just go for it... live for the moment. I looked in her big beautiful blue eyes, and everything was even more perfect, it was beyond belief, and the kiss lasted longer than I thought it would, like three minutes, yet it was incredible. That first kiss with Nevaeh it was not like the type of kisses, that we have seen the other couples doing in the halls of school next to their lockers.

This was certainly, her being loving and her being so innocent.

Without a doubt in my mind, I loved how she feels when she is kissing me. I just love how she feels next to me; I love everything about her! She is always so thoughtful in an unidentifiable way, the wonder of it is incredible, and all I can think of is that moment when I touched her lips with mine, I knew the reminiscence would last endlessly, with her and me.

On our first date, and she knew that nothing would come between us, she got over being shy with me, and our relationship bloomed, faster than anyone would have imagined, yet that was the strategy. It is like in the spring whenever I look up to the blue skies above, I am in awe of it. It is like I am looking into Nevaeh's eyes so heavenly, and then the tears that she cried reminds me of the warm summer showers, that made us bloom and grow, like the daisy and Lily flowers, that she loves so much. I recall her saying 'I am not scared of being with you on our first date.' That is what she said to me, yet I knew she had the butterflies flying around next to her trembling heart, as I did. Yet we knew what we were going to do was the only way to stay together. What else can I say other than miracles do occur and they do come true! We, at last, had found out what true love was, and what it was meant to be loved... truly we are in love.

'LOVE!'

Oh, love is meant to be what you care about in another individual, that you just cannot stand to live without. As well as if you love her, you have to love everything that she has, or do not have at any given time, and I love everything she has got on her body. I love everything about her personality, I love her voice, and I love her smile and her laugh. I love the entirety of this girl! I would lay down my life to be with her.

Yes, yes, I would, and she knows that.

Besides, you mostly have to have contentment, pleasure, and joyfulness more than any other feelings in that fact. No matter how painful any other feelings may be that you might face someday. If you love them, you need to be okay, with whatever they want as long as you both can stay linked together and joined as one beating heart forever. I know that sounds foolish, but it is true. 'As a little lady, Nevaeh believed in the perfect gentleman, her hero! That would kiss her awake. I... did not believe, that I was that very boy for her.' However, I was! So-o, I was going to make sure that I always treated her like my little fairytale princess. 'Nevaeh used to joke saying that I guess that I had to kiss one frog, to get to you my prince charming.'

The first time I held her oh so tightly to me, with my eyes fastened somewhat frightened by her. I was questioning in my mind at the time if something in my life had ever been so flawless and meaningful, and yet made me so nervous all at the same moments. I am so smitten with her, and the sensation was even more magnificent than I ever fantasized, that it possibly would have been, it is just amazing! She asked me 'Are you falling in love with me?' Besides, I said- 'I always was in love with you, I just couldn't be!' 'Do you want to make love to me I asked?'

She smiled at me, and without hesitation, she said- 'Yes!' and that- 'We don't need to have it be perfect, as long as we fit perfectly together.' I was like all right then! At first thought... I did not know what that meant, but when we linked our bodies together as one, and in a peaking ending, that was inside of her, I knew perfectly what she meant. Hoping that the kissing would not stop throughout, I kissed and tickled every part of her small body, and she would sigh in delight...! I knew I want to be with her forever, even more after, I was hoping we made the miracle happen that night!

Yet I do not think she thought I was going to do that. I will never forget Nevaeh saying, I know you want me! Like I want all of you, I want to, I need to taste you, feel you inside me, and I know that you have been dreaming about me since we were really little. Besides you know you want it. I recollect saying I feel the same way about you.

I remember her swallowing down hard, and saying I want to do this more than you even know... while she was gasping for the words, of course, I have dreamed of this moment with you. She said, that she fantasized about me since she was about eight years old, every night, to the point she could not sleep. I do not know if she would like me to say this but... she whispered to me that she would think of me while she licks her fingers, and reach down and tickled herself until her fantasy would peak with a thrilling squirting spray, that drizzled all over her bedsheets. Anyways she said, that gave her warmth and satisfaction and keeps the demons away. Within her body and mind. Too much information, yeah, I no! Afterwards her dreams would begin as she would be relaxed into a deep slumber holding her teddy bear as if it was me. That is what she said to me!

Nevaeh- I not can believe you said that!

Chiaz- sorry, While too late now...! Nevaeh said- 'That's okay- I guess, keep going now, and try to keep it PG-13 AND IT IS.' Chiaz- Well... that night under the bridge, she was so wet down there and so tight, she pulled my pants down so fast the button zipped like a stone on the ground. Her breasts shined in the light, and her nipples were pointed as if they were looking at me as we were making love. How was that...? 'Oh boy!' -Nevaeh said.

Chiaz- Yes, she was staring at me sweetly; everything on her was bouncing up and down as well as around. Her hips smacking into mine, she said, that she loved me on top of her, and she had her legs and her arms wrapped around me. I remember sliding down her skirt that night and sliding her bra off of her petite little figure. I remember her fingers touching me everywhere, I remember putting my fingers in places I had never had them before. She made me tingle and still does.

She was so gorgeous when she was looking up at me; well she was on her knees. Nevertheless, nothing ever compared to her legs spread out before me, she had one of the most-savory flavors like strawberries, which makes me want more. I had never felt anything like this before, in my life when I entered into her. I will never forget her blue eyes rolling, the sounds she made, and the faces she made out of passion, it still takes my breath away. We went for about two minutes or more; she was moaning the words like, 'Yes,' 'Oh my god!' 'So, this is what I have been missing out on.' I can still hear her moaning. That was when I said, 'I will love you forever.'

Nevaeh- that so-o was not PG-13 Chiaz. I do not know what that was...! There is a thing called, being too truthful- you no!

Chiaz- sure...! I will never forget afterward, she began to cry so hard that, droplets with mascara run down her sweet little face. So, I like to hold her in my arms all night when she stayed or I would over. Until she falls- asleep, with her head on my chest and her arms holding onto me. She said she liked hearing my heartbeat. Naturally, every night with her was an amazing night. But I feel like she does there is nothing more exhilarating than the thunderstorms, the pouring down rain... you know that everything is better when wet! She would claw her nails into my back to the point my back was bloody. As I crested her sixteen-year-old body as lightly and softly as possible, yes, I have scars to this very day, just like a permit tattoo of devotion.

She was just what I was looking for in my life. We were the love that we both needed yet never had before in our young lives. We brought joy to one another, just the same as we do even now. What more can I ask for? I remember all the classes and sitting behind her wanting to touch her hair, because it looked so soft, and looking at her backside, I felt a high just by being in her presence and smelling that scent that was uniquely hers that never changed. I remember some nights when she would climb outside the window of her house, scaled down the high trellis that was littered with roses in the summer nights; in her nightdress just, because she said that she was lonely for me.

Her house was right down the path from me. Just like that, she would be standing in front of me in my room at night; she would take off her night top and place it on the rocking chair that was next to my bed. Then she would crawl in with me, and hold on to me so tightly, that I felt that she was suffocating the life out of me, and she would go back home before the sun comes up. This is when we first started dating. She always fell asleep resting her head on my chest, she must of- felt safe in my arms. I guess that is why she was always so tired to find love. I guess that is why she loves me, I was always there for her, and after everything she went through, she needed me. Plus- she said that she liked to hear my heart pounding. There is nothing more I ever wanted, or to be then was her hero!

Come to think about it I really cannot hear the heartbeat at all, I wonder why, I know she has a pulse? It is interesting that when she is asleep, I check on her often. You know there is nothing more comforting than hearing her snoring away, she is so adorable! I look around the room, and the white laces on the windows are tied back, with lavender ribbons. I know that she is content, holding her teddy bear and me, under her canopy bed, she may be young but as for now, she will always be the little girl that I want to be with. The crystal chandelier is dimmed as low as it can go, with a soft glimmering creamy warmth, in our household.

Nevaeh- Chiaz, I am going to stop you. You are getting ahead of me, and wow, you said a lot! Maybe too much, don't you think?

Ha- if you say so hon!

Chapter: 26

The Games We Played

(About one year later)

Who thought I would be married at the age of sixteen and now I am seventeen, I surely did not foresee this. However, that is how life works unexpected adventures of togetherness with one person, that you find irresistible, or that is how the story should go. With me, it was a completely different tale. We were married on a golden Bahamas beach at sunset; an archway was behind us with Lily flowers on it to remember the garden angel, which is still protecting me. The water was in the color of light blue and seafoam green. I had a short white dress on, along with my hair blowing in the breeze. He was wearing a black tuxedo both of our feet squishing in the sand. Yes, we were both holding hands, and I got the perfect kiss at last! It was a small wedding just us, but once again, it was perfect! Then we got back on the ship and the honeymoon started for us.

Chiaz Natherth- (I remember about six months back) Nevaeh had not even finished high school yet, however she is pregnant with our baby. I was not there to see her in the halls because I am older than she is, but she told me all about it... and what it was like for her before me. At least they left her alone when she was caring for my baby, or at least that's what she said. Yet when people groom you to a label, you say things and do things, to protect you and them because of fear.

They make you out to be the culprit, and they make you feel guilty of just trying to get pleasures out of life. I would not know what it is like to be a victim like that, yet I know how that family can be. I have dealt with all of them and their manipulations. I would countdown the hours until I could see her again; it was nice for me to pick her up every day from school, she would be leaning up on the retaining wall of the steps or sitting there. We look forward to seeing one another and spending the rest of the day together. I still want to get to know everything about her; it is funny how lust turned into love, and now we are truly in- love with one another!

Nevaeh- as you all know I have a human life growing inside me. Now I know how Juno felt! I remember there was nothing more remarkable than seeing her on the ultrasounds monitor after she put the goopy stuff on my belly, and then Chiaz shouted it's a girl! All I remember about my trimesters is getting bigger and bigger, and my jeans, dresses and, undies feeling smaller, snugger and tighter, that he bought for me.

(The nine months are up)

I remember the night I gushed like the 1889 Johnstown flood, and I thought I completely peed in my jeans... that was not at all. I recall Chiaz was freaking out, and he got in the truck without me. At this time, I was living at his house with him and his mom, on the weekends. Then he realized that I should be with him... so he ran back into the house and carried me to the car. Furthermore- I was saying just get me there. He did like ninety-five down the country roads to the city. So, we rushed to the hospital, and I was wheeled into a sterile-looking room; and not any more than fifteen minutes later, I was on my back pinned down wide open for everyone to look at me... it is so bizarre.

They had no time for that spinal tap thing... so I was pushing everything out of me. That is just part of it I guess, you have to push so hard; that it all comes rolling out, and it is not like I wanted all that too. Nonetheless, the pain and me- screaming profanity was so worth it for me. Because that was the first time, I saw her face sliding out, and heard her cry. We are going to name her Jaylynn Lily Nazareth!

Looking back over all this in my mind at the time I thought about all the many unanswered questions, that I was going to face when she came, I remember all the many choices of what can or cannot that we can do. Yet I am not like most. I would never stop a beating heart, we knew that we were going to keep her, yet some said to get rid of her in the first couple of weeks, yet I do not know how someone could say that, like Hope and the cruel kids at school? Yet others were pleased for us like his mom and some of his friends. I know that hope was just looking out for me, and my future; however, I do not like how she feels. I know that she will fall in love with her when she sees her, I hope!

Hope to hold the baby- 'I hope you know that she is yours, that you did this to yourself, and I am not going to help you in the least. You need to see what being a mom is all about, I am not going to give you a free ride. You are going to have to work very hard to keep her. Yes, she looks like you, and yes I am happy for you if you are contented!'

Bethany crying joyfully as she is given the baby- 'I am so happy! You are going to have a good daddy, yes you are! Nevaeh, I know you are going to be a good mommy too, and if you two need anything just let me know, and I will do what I can!

Nevaeh- We both said thanks, and the families talked amongst themselves about her traits, that our baby girl has. Furthermore, what we need and the cost of everything to keep her a happy healthy baby. Her name was questioned, just like they cross-examined our relationship- if will last together or not. At this point, I wanted to rest and felt that I needed to sleep.

Back then, I would never have thought- this was an option with me. I did what I did believe is right, and I am happy. With all of the choices, but will I be able to finish school? Is being seventeen too young to be a mom? What is it like to be a mother? Why doesn't the hellhole cover this in their health class? They just give you ways to prevent, yet not how to be a mother, who is supposed to teach this? I remember bringing her home for the first time, we made a nursery for her in my room, and we had a white bassinet for her. She keeps me tending to her nonstop, on the weekends he and I stayed together, maybe someday soon we can get our place. Her first bath was in the farm sink, and his mom got her all kinds of cute things to where it was hard to choose what to put on her. She always looked so adorable. A real-life baby doll.

Nevaeh- Talk is cheap... in all honesty, most people just need to mind their own business, I think. Either somebody wants to kick the shit out of you, or steal your joy. Stop making judgments about us! It all comes down to the fact that they need to feel needed. Just stop bothering me, go get what you need, and fight for it as I did, stop trying to take it away from me. Besides, keep this in mind as you are doing it- 'Do to others, as you would want them to do to you.' Why do you ask? Just because you might end up worse, off in what you are doing, than what you are seeing, and saying about others. 'Just remember when you point a finger at someone three fingers are pointing back at you.' Just like you can always tell when someone is on the dark side. They have to dance around the fires of destruction and torment, the flame within their eyes sparkles as you look at them, as they are children of the night and immorality.

Let's just say the sisters finally got their turn, for trying to kill my baby Jaylynn with her small pillow in my own home, in my room they stood over her one night. When hope was the only one home, and we were out for the first time all night without her. Hope caught and fought with all of them before they got the job done. Baby Jaylynn is still alive, yet it is a wonder that she is.

Hope spent three weeks in the Altoona regional hospital, which is about forty miles out of the way from our small town; because they all pushed her down the steps head first right through the railings. Then they dragged her body out in the yard using the rug, and then they completely ran her over with the old farm tractor and brush hog, which they got running somehow. She must have called 911 at some point, yet did not say anything, I do not know. It was said, that she may not live much longer, it was just that bad. That she will need many surgeries to reattach her fleshiness to her body, I have to ask- why would they want to kill her? Who gave that order, and what would they gain in having her gone?

Would they think that I would not have any place to go?

What is the motive?

Is it to kill everything that I love? -Or what?

When the cops showed, they had no choice but to take them all away, even though they were somewhat reluctant. However, they were caught, red-handed! Ava was still sitting on the seat of the tractor, and the other girls were standing in between the wheel- wells fenders next to her up there. None of them were going to get them out of this one. I remember us coming home, to all that mess, and my first thought was where is my baby...! She was sleeping away, up in my room as nothing happened.

We called Bethany to stay with the baby, using Chiaz's white iPhone with the cracked screen, she came in her robe and slippers, she was there before they even loaded her up in the back. That is about the time I went to see if Hope was going to live or die. As well as, the paramedics said- it is not looking good. I remember getting in the truck and him driving behind her, as all the blood-red and butterscotch yellow lights and sirens were blazing. Certainly, that was the scariest night of my life up to that point at least.

Like, she is the only mother that I ever had, and I do love her... please live... please live, I was saying over and over, as we were speeding down the streets. As they were cutting her dress off, they were poking her with IV needles, and all kinds of big and small tubes and collection bags. As the ambulance rush down the road in front of us. After I was proven not guilty, and they confessed to what happened in the past. Because they could not get their stories straight to the investigators, I knew that they would get the crap beat out of them every day mentally and physically, by the guards and the other girls, just like I did. I hope that they run into that girl named Sabrina, she was the cracked bisexual, which had her eyes on me in the showers and lunchroom, which wanted me for her bitch, when I was there.

So yeah- I wonder if she is still there...? She like, killed her boyfriend. She was doing time with me when I was there. We were in the same group, when we were out for the little time we were not in our cells.

Sabrina- 'Undoubtedly, I killed the luscious dickhead, by punching in his chubby face, until his nose went up into his brain. Then I cut his dick off with a pocketknife, and I chewed it up with my teeth. So, I would shit it out the next day. He is nothing but shit to me anyway! Subsequently, he was nothing but shit to flush away. Uh-ha- He will never do another girl again!' (m-waa-ha-ha) 'Then I threw him in the river, and the fish got to snack on him until he came back up to the surface, and floated on top of the water. At that juncture, some kid girl found that dumb tub of shit...!' 'You know I would have gotten away with it too, if that would not have happened, I am going to get her for that!'

Nevaeh- she said that she did this because; he cheated on her with someone else or something like that. Truly- I don't really know...? That is the story, which she told me anyway, and she bragged about it all the time. That is another thing... she was certainly talking about things like that. Things that she did to people, boys that she smashed, and how she has been in and out of confinement scene, she was like eight years old. I am sure her future is lethal injection.

She said- I was hers in there, and I could not make friends with any other girls, though I knew them all... yet I did not know them at all, I was so lucky, and that I did not get a shank in my ass at some point. I remember how I had to become her slave and the guards just looked away, so she could do what she wanted with me, yet she would not let any other girls at me. I am glad I got out when I did, back then.

So now, the sisters are going to be locked away in their dungeon, like I was... because of them. That is only if their money does not get them out of this one like before... that is if they can buy their way out. Like they did in the past, panels of judges. It would be nice to know that they would never see the light of day again. Yet that is unlikely, yet maybe just at least for a while. I know that they're not going to get me now if they get some time, yet they may in the future, I can just feel it. At last, I will finally know who the tower is... the one that, is the head of that family organization. The witch said to do this all for me, and my loved ones, I am going to find out who has these Cosa Nostra-like powers.

The sisters always had that deceiving glimmer in their eyes that instilled the fright, and they hold on tight to what they want. They will not let go until they have your body, soul, or both. But-I guess that I won this battle, yet we still lost some life. They burn the fuel to keep the acknowledgment of the made-up past, apparently going. They try to lead us down the path of self-destruction; just remember with an idle mind that is Satan's workshop. We should have a mind at rest that has peaceful faith, that is not lazy.

Oh, how could I forget that on Chiaz's 19th birthday on July 20th of this year? Alissa and her gals hacked into his Facebook profile and deleted all his one thousand fifty-two friends off of his friend's list. In addition to that, the day before his birthday, they also got into his settings and locked out to his birthdate to his friends.

So, no one would know about it, to wish him a happy day. He did not know about it until the day was over. She must have new his password of: (givemesomeloven2) I felt so bad for him when he found out what happened. Like who thinks of that. It is so sick! Just like what that girl did to her boyfriend, sick is the only word I have for it.

Lily said- that she can now finally live a free eternal life. To quote her: 'The demons no longer have a hold of me. That the only justice that matters is from the cloud of witnesses that look over you and me.' The cloud of witnesses looks down on the earth, and we are graded by them every day, if we follow the golden rubrics and listen to what they say, we can live another day, if the Angels choose not to take us away. If we pass, we get our white wings, and what we have done wrong does not mean a thing.

The sisters and their clans are fallen angels on earth. Fallen Angels ring hate and pain, and tempt us to join their clan. They are swindlers to everyone; they make us think that they are virtuous, and although they are just demon angels of the gloom.

Fallen angels can look like you when I, we have to know what to deny if they cross our path. Demons can take on any shape or form that they desire if that is human or animal; my advice is just to be careful. Just like the snake under my angels' oak tree, it was Ava slinking around me, they can transform into any animal that they want to be. Just like those eyes that looked into my soul that night in my room, just like those eyes in the sky that used to follow me, and just like the raining upon me with their cloud of fog that led to the dizzying heights.

You have to see and feel to know what to do, and what to look for... if you see the fires in their eyes these are Satan spies. If you are tempted by them always deny them, and they will end up in the tangled webs of feathers, all the evil spirits should be gone forever if you have an understanding, of how to get rid of them.

Yet, they're never gone forever they come back to feed off of someone like you, and they did to me. That is full of life, and their goal is to kill you slowly, and steal your soul so that they can have it to live on doing evil. They worship the devil; I do not need to feel within me, I know it, I discern they do, that is how they got at me, yet my soul will stay in the heavens if I can help it. I do not have human red blood anymore for them to suck out of me, but I did.

Ava and her bloodthirsty sisters used to suck the life out of me through my 'girly parts' as they would bite down on me. That type of blood with all my other plasmas and body fluids is the type of thick gross stuff, that they liked the most. Because, of all the life, I and Lily, for example, would shed from the linings of our uteruses, that is what they thrive on the most. There cravings of any soul life, unborn or dead is what they live for. There living leads to death at some point for the victims. They want me because I am what they call an altering angel.

I guess- I have to prove myself. Yes, they love the blood of young live good living girls, which they can overpower, which is what gives them wicked life to go on and on and to do and do, and baby Jaylynn is a girl they wanted to bite and kill, along with Hopes soul. The day I became an angel on earth, I started to have this like crystalized sapphire blue blood that flows from my body when I bleed out from anywhere on my body, after that day I am what they hate the most. In this life, I have the choice I can pick aside, to go up or down, yet they want me to be down and dead forever, and they want me to burn in hell as they will.

Only if I choose to follow the divine master, I will go up and get what I want and need. Heaven's ranks could not decide if I should get into heaven.

Why?

Because of my suicide! Yet, because of the hell, I had.

Everything I went through, and have to withstand even now in this life. This all is the deciding factor of what they will select for me. I believe; they are trying to overlook me killing myself. That is why I have this second life, and why they cannot kill me. It is to see what I pick to do all over again. Because they do not think I belong in hell either, or that is what Lily told me, for the reason that- I was so pure of heart! If I elect to deny the dark side, the sisters will go down to the core and burn in the eternal lake of fire forever.

For what they did to me and their others, if I elect to go with the dark side, I will become one of them, never will I do that, yet I could, I could someday have black wings, and harass the innocent as they do. Up until now, that is not me at all. I want to have white garden angel wings after this life, and help the girls, which have a living life like me, the first life before they do their unthinkable end, that is what I would like.

(What they said to the jury)

Ava in the courtroom- 'I liked it, yes, I liked it, and I liked sucking down on it, so hard, so fitted, so suctioned!' 'Yes, I confess! I like sucking her blood, and all the ones we got over our times. Yet no one will ever know that. -I thought, and if you tell, we will slaughter you... that is what I and my sisters said to them!' I am sure Ava was wishing, that the chains hold her down, and her sisters back, were on me, in there.

I am sure she was wishing that she had her homemade sock ball gag, which she used on me in her mouth after she said what she said so thunderously. It is like; she cannot help but talk and brag up a storm! I bet she wishes that she had her schoolgirl tie around her eyes as she did to me, so she would not have to see them looking at her on the stand sweating bullets with the questions being spit into her face intently.

Adrian on the stand in the courtroom- 'It was not me!'-she said, she was glaring at me with her greenish-yellow pussycat eyes, yet that is how she answered every question asked of her. I was thinking to myself yeah- She was too high to remember! The other two were not even questioned in the courtroom.

Yet their eyes on me looked like to piss holes in the snow, dark and yet flickering!

Why...? I do not know!

Yet they should the tapes of what they said, when they were questioned, you could feel the emotional state, from everyone but them, yet in the tapes, you could see the criminal minds of these girls, and that said it all, I guess. You could see the rage, temperament and the crying, along with the crazy chuckling and movements in the tapes, no not, for what they did to us, more because they were trapped.

They all got the max of eighteen months in the young girl's jail, and one- year probation. That is if they took the plea deal of saying they were guilty, and that is what they did. Without a doubt, I knew the emotionless and without conviction chilling look, which they gave me on their hard- icy faces, with their lips taught and rolled under the upper when they were taken away. There were going to be back for me someday soon, sooner than later I felt! I knew that all their hands that they threw up in the air would be on me once more for sure, or someone that I love.

Oh, hell or the internal lake of fire, you are forever alone, in your dark evil body, yes always a flame. You can hear the others as they cry and their murmurs of moans, you will be in constant discomfort. The others that have fallen with you can hear you, but you can never see them. You are always in a world of darkness even though you are on fire. That is forever and ever! That is if you choose to be part of the dark entity being realm. As of now I, feel- Something big is coming my way the divine master is not a small God. I feel that we are not meant to stay in one place for long periods. There will be increases in my life, new doors will be open that goes to places where I never imagined, and he has already planned massive things coming into my life. I believe that- new ideas, new advancements, and new adventures are coming the way I declared this to happen.

(Present time)

We all have trials of our faith, and the first place we lose us victory is in our minds. If we start to believe those lies then the game is over, but if we struggle the natural and unnatural fight of life with the intentions to think, we can start to act upon those thoughts in positive ways. However, we do serve a supernatural master, I know this; do not live your life surrounded by lies. You have to rise above them with the guardian angel that you have, and we all have one if you are a believer or not.

I am reminded of this scripture- The Psalms 23 (The LORD is my shepherd)

I shall not want. He makes me lie down in green pastures: he leads me beside the still waters. He restores my soul: he led me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for he is with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. He prepares a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: He anoints my head with oil; my cup will run over. Surely, goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the LORD forever. I feel that verse fits my story well at least up to this point.

Like always, one of the first society's folk to acquire the news about us being married, and what her girls did, was the Amsel sister's mother and dad. Their mom is in her late forties however, she spends most of her time in the bars and dressing like a fifteen-year-old hooker. As well as the other times, she knew all about me, like on the phone and the walls, and everything about me. Besides, what else is so unusual about all of this is, that she has to be friends with all the teenagers in the land.

I ask- Does that not come across as a bit odd? Isn't it strange to lust over teenagers? Plus- force those young teens into being part of your contacts. She wants to call me a pedophile, ha, ha, and ha! Just look at her walls, and you will see how many young people she has on there; she stalks everyone and makes them think differently about them then what they should think. It is not hard to figure out really. You just have to look and see and read between all the characters and the true story will be revealed, that is what I did, and what has become known to me. That is only if you choose to see what is going on and what is going down.

Stop looking away, and do not be afraid of their wrath, because I have cracked the code. Yes, you can feel free to speak to me and befriend me at any time or place you like as of now, since nowadays you know the true story. I have even seen cases where people have rejected the sisters, and they had to make a public video of why they are friends with the family, plus listing all the reasons why they are such a benefit in their life. It is sickening, to think that someone can scare another person into doing whatever they want, and whenever they want it to be with them.

It is as if it is all part of a mind takeover. They have what seems to be total authority and control over their mind, and they use manipulating games in which, they pinned down on their prey. Some of the victims never walk away. Just look at Lily Anderson for example, she never bothered anyone, but they manipulated and manhandled her until she could not take any more, so yes Adrian did kill her because she was a bully just like the rest of the clan and the keyboard avatars?

Once again, it is all how you view it? What do you think happened? What do you think about the bullies? Another victim was... do you remember the class feminist? Nobody knows anything about him, yet the kids at school said they were going to bash his head in with a hammer, they judge this kid for being who he was, and that was what is called being asexual? He was not anything they made him out to be. It got so bad for him that he had to move away, never to be seen in our land again, did he choose to be that way, or did the others force him into that classification? Naturally, it was all created in the same ways, with one voice of slander, and yet another mystery that may never be solved.

‘Some people do not try to understand; they just make failed comments.’

Just because you do not have a girl, pounding or nailing your hammer down does not mean you are gay. Do you remember when I said that everyone gets a turn, will Melvin have got his too? He was sending a text message while he was galloping down the double concrete paths from the city to the country to see his newfound lust. While sending one draft to the sisters, he swerved his chariot into oncoming traffic, the message was never completed, and that affected everyone’s history’s in ways that cannot be expressed. Let’s see if you can figure out why this was significant to me?

Question- ‘Do we listen with our eyes, or do we hear what we see? It all comes down to whom, and what we are going to be. Let’s see are you what you want to be now, or will you be after what you cannot see?’ The four sister’s mother has been running around on her husband for years. Until now, nothing has been said about it in ‘The Land of Many Steeples.’ The husband Klein cannot leave because he knows that if he did his life would be over. Therefore, he stuck, a hell of a life to choose, or did he choose it? Did she force him into the marriage back then? Alternatively, is the contenting now that his wife is roaming around the town? It all comes down to fear, what do you fear? No wonder her children turned out the same way.

Nevertheless- who am I to judge, I would not do that! All I ask for them to do is leave me alone, but I know they will not complete. I still believe that there was something tragic, which happened in this woman's life. That makes her want to need and thrive on everyone's attention if she does not have your complete authority than she is miserable. All I have to say is the sisters picked on the wrong person when they chose me!

(Opinions)

Yes, love it is just something that you can feel. Like the rain on a warm spring day. Like the blossoms from the pear trees landing on your shoulders, as I walk, you’re walking down the path to the bridge, similar to the haze from the golden fields; it all reminds me of when I got everything I ever wanted. I remember Lily as she was to me, I believed at the time that - 'The spaces between our fingers were created so that we could fill them in as we held hands; She was just the right size for me in every way.' I still love her, even though she still with me it is not the same, yet I love my new life also, yet why could I have it them all, in my life?

Yes, I feel that I have walked in the center of the valley of death, and she has comforted me I would say that she is looking over me; she comforts me as much as she can. But- then it is not having her here, in her earthly body. It can be hard having faith in something that cannot be expressed in words. But- that is what remembering life is about, having faith that there is a plan for everything.

Chiaz- I remember her hands that I loved to hold the story that we told. We said that we would be together even when we got old.

Just like that song 'Remember When' that would be the story of our lives. That we would have bands of gold, and someday our babies to hold. No- I do not think she will ever get over her, yet they were so close. The sapphire blue eyes that looked into mine, lost in time. All the golden grasses blowing in the breeze, us kissing while we are on our knees.

She loves me, but I have to say she loved her more than me.

Maybe I am wrong; maybe she is just grief-stricken. It is hard for her to leave the past behind. When she is at war with your mind! Was I kind enough, did I leave her behind too much, things like this in such, is what is tearing her apart, so much?

What she did before is none of my business, yet I am concerned, for her well-being. Yet to get her help I would lose her. I just work hard at my job to keep from thinking about the pain she feels.

Our love is like the flowers in bloom all around in the spring, the trees with colors that display their majesty just for us, as we ran through them, so in love, but like them are we going to die too? I hope not! Yet I do not know how long I can go on working these crazy hours, and then she is like do not leave me again, it is so challenging just to make it in life.

Listening to her singing in my ears added to all the lust, she was whispering sweet nothings to, which I can still lightly hear. I was the only one she could trust, being together was a must for both of us. No matter what the weather, our love was forever and ever, I will remember.

Nevaeh- Nevaeh- I will love you forever and ever, try to remember, even when I am, absent from your mind!

Chapter: 27

The Tower Malicious Voice

Mazel Amsel- I have the obsession of destroying Nevaeh, she is so perfect, I cannot stand it! My girls have to be on top, and I am never going to let her be anything, I will make sure of it! That is what I have been doing for years. Nevaeh that no good little pussy licker; even if she knows it is me, she will not be able to 'Prove it.' I am just that well-liked by everyone, I am so powerful that no one will ever defeat me. I am the master manipulator, Nevaeh- yes, she is the tower! She is about for a hundred pounds, unnatural blond hair, lime green glowing eyes, and a voice that bellows! To me, she looks like a bulldog in the face, yet evil wicked witch-like also, yet to everyone else she blends in, to the others she looks as they do, just a normal mom, with normal kids. Yet I think she is crumbling, I think some people are seeing through her veil, because, of what happened recently.

Mazel- I have everyone wrapped around my little finger. Likewise, if they do not bow down to me, I will make their life a living hell. That is the way; I have to have it, all the time for Nevaeh! I have to know what she is doing at all times. I have to hack into her social networking and get her pears to think she is a 'Creep' and 'Stocker' to young girls. So, she has no friends at all. So, my girls can be the supreme of this area, so that they can do as they please, without anyone stopping them for being the best, no matter what, and from getting what they want, and what I want for them. Besides, foremost I wanted to make sure that she would never date anyone. So, I came up with the story of telling everyone that she was into girls and that she is just plain crazy. I should know my eyes are on her always. I did not want to see her go to proms; I did not want to see her succeed. I did not want her to be loved. I would like to see her die, and not walk away from it.

I have dreamed of ways to kill her repeatedly. Like this one, I would like to see her be impaled on a sharp wooden stick, starting through her butt hole, and then slowly have gravity have it go up into her delicious miniature body until it hits her brain, and she screams out my girl's names, as we get what we need. I would love to see a Nevaeh- kabob! I would love to see her stoned us out in the open with rocks! I would love to see my girls bite her nipples off with their teeth! I want to see my girls claw her up to head to toe. I hunger to see them scratch her sweet blue eyes that are so heavenly right out of her face!

I want to see her gush that cobalt blood like a waterfall from her naked sliced up body. Yes, I want us to torture her any way we can until she says yes to us. We are going to get at anything of hers we can until she comes with us! As we would, all dance around her, as we would light her up, cheerfully for the last time. How I would love to bleach and fry that perfect hair with chemicals. I and we all in our family want to fuck her up and down anyways we can! Mwah Ha, ha! Yes, Beforehand, we all would kiss, touch, lick and stick her, and do what we want to get the life from her by sucking away.

We would eat her soul away as it would come down from the heavens then through her body, and into ours, as we would drink it out, the way we do. Yes, yes, hell- yes, I can see it now! Yes, I want her soul! Besides, anything or everything I can get out of her to add to my shrine. We even have a voodoo doll of her with pins in it I have a few things of hers like her hymen damaged red blood tarnished pink polka-dotted gym underwear, and her indigo-sh pantiliner she had on. That my girls ripped off of her in school, the more things we have the more we can control her mind, but I want more!

We want more!

We want and need it all!

Just like the one girl Lily; I have her one hair ribbon; from Nevaeh, I have something far more personal than her underwear, and it is on display too, and that was her virginity! Who knows that she was a little cock sucker too? How do I have it, you ask? Tee- he- Will I tell you- how! Now come to think of it, back then my idea was to drive her insane so that she will do it to herself... like she did; by not having anyone to confide in, I wanted that to kill her slowly, that was the plan.

Just like I was the arranger of her first sexual partner. I told him to pound the shit out of her, and pop her cherry so hard and fast, that the next day she could not even walk; plus, bleed for many days; which is how I got what is on display... I did this so that it would take everything away from her. If my girls do not have it, then neither does she.

I made the schooling system think that she has major problems, from kindergarten up through high school. I will do whatever it takes to have her fall! For the reason that I have to be triumphant! It was a promise that I made to her mother. If I cannot have her mind, body, and soul, no one can. Yah, know I did not mind putting a bullet in her father's head, so I would have loved to put one on hers also. Yes, I should have gotten to her way back then, when she was just sitting in her playpens so defenseless.

Then again, I thought what the hell... it would be better to torture her, and make everything in her life a living hell for her! Why should I play god, when I can send the devil to her bed every night! Let's not forget to mention everybody showed up at her father's house right after the murder that took place. So, I did not have enough time to complete the job. Oh yes, her mother is a very good friend of mine, and I wanted to make sure that Nevaeh would have nothing. Nothing but pain, misery, and torture from me and my girls. Yes, without her ever knowing, that I was the one causing all the trouble in her life.

That is what her mom wanted me to do. Because Leah detested her dad with a passion after he said- 'I want you out of my life. Pack your G-D bags, and get out, and I am keeping her, and the only way you are going to get her is over my dead body. You are nothing but a cheap whore!' Hereafter, she told me, and I took care of it. It was a joy for me to do so! He always thought that he was so damn blameless and desirable and that all the girls around loved him.

Yeah right, I did not want him either, even if he would have wanted me, or asked me out! It all started as a fight about money for diapers and baby food, and things for Nevaeh, yet Leah wanted the money to get the necessities she wanted to get.

No, I do not think that she is high maintenance at all; if she needs a daily hit, well hell, she should go get what she needs. She just wants more, that he would not fund for her. So, if she does not get it, she finds a new man that can, and gets rid of the old goof, she has to get what she needs.

Yes, with us, the first taste is always free, then the debts start piling up, and you have to pay somehow! So, Nevaeh is what I got in a way, for what her mom owes us in supplies also, and he would not pay for her habit. So, I killed him for that reason also, and that girl will pay too! For not doing what my girls, and I want her to do! In a way, we own her life, and all the lives she is having has now, and had!

That night Leah left him; she threw, and broke every one of his classic rock records, on the floor and at his face. Then she jumped up and down on them! Before she came to us, good for her, to stay for a while, nearly free of charge, so we placed her in a new town and, we got her the job she does, yet we get ninety percent of what she makes per- one session.

Oh, Nevaeh- if her mom could not have her, to beat on, in her life, then I was going to do it for my girlfriend. If she could not have her in her life, then no one would. Just because she did not get to kill her like her brothers and sisters back then, does not mean she does not deserve to die similarly! I will never back down. No one can ever defeat me! I am all too powerful. Not to mention my girls and their friends will spread the rumors around like the plague about her, so nobody will ever want to be associated with Nevaeh.

Whoever refuses me will either pay dearly, or they shall die. Who is ever going to stop me, I know for sure she never will, and neither can you! The day she joined in matrimony with that boy, that was for my Alissa, I was beyond livid! I will do my flipping best to stop all of this now... even though she defeated me, by doing it.

Who would have thought the dumb simple-minded Nevaeh, would get the best of me? Nevertheless, as you know I will get her, I will get everything she has, wants, and wishes. We will get to her soon!

That is a promise!

Nevaeh

Book: 5

The Cursed

Breaking on through to the other side; my life is it coming to an end, yet I have nothing to hide, life is a journey that takes you on a dark ride. When you can see, and understand there are the doors of deception in your mind that doesn't subside, you will understand that life is like a red river that comes in tides, as you try to make your strides.

All I have left are the memories and the people that died.

However, I can at least say that I never lied; I recall all those that cried; all the ones that were denied. At least we can say we tried, and never gave up even after diving into the other side. Now the gates are open deep vast and wide.

Yet it is going to be me, a witch walk's on the inside? Who and what will deny.

~Neveah~

Chapter: 28

Unloving Mouthful

Nevaeh- I could never let my enemies have the last words, you should know me better than that! So... can you see into my life, just like snapshots, of the past, present and future? Do you know what has taken place? Can you see all the evil entities, and all the good and wicked faces? Can you see, and feel all these different places? Can you hear all the voices reaching out to you?

Chiaz- So, the myth has it that Mr. Amzel was out in his yard during a storm digging graves for his two stepchildren Gracie and Grant. They went missing about oh let see, six months back. Their real mom was a crack-head, so they adopted both of the kids and the mom, they said died from overdoing it one night.

Thus far, it is like that family takes kids in yet, they never come out, and if they do, they're not the same! It is like they all acted the same ways, and wanted to do the same things. Something wild about them, that I cannot clarify if they were all living in a controlled biodome getting probed in that house like they were just there for them to test on or something like that. Yet that is unlikely, but maybe, something's not right, about what they do to them.

When I was there and seen the kids the little, I did in that big house, that they took care of, it is like everyone one of them had the same expressions and acts the same, it was so unusual. They would play, yet not as kids their age would play. It was almost like the boys and girls would lust over having one another's affection, and they would all sleep together.

That is what I found so weird. It was told to me they would dress and undress one another, before sleeping together, and that the boys and girls would shower once a week together. She said that was the most economical way to clean them all. Alissa also said that they all had a classifying idem, that they give to them, so they knew how they belonged to them. Yet what that is, I have no idea at all.

I do not know if they went outside or not to play? I did not see much when I was there with her.

I found out that some groups were placed in poorer rooms. Which I did not see in that house, but I knew they were there. Yet where they are located, I do not know.

Yes, everything was routine for them. To me, it looked like the orphanage from hell! Alissa used to say to me when she made me stay over, that was the best way to take care of all of them, as they do.

Therefore, they took the kids in and homeschooled them so they said. Yet no one knows what happened to him or her after they went missing? I wonder how many kids there where that went missing?

Nevaeh and I remember Gracie she was a cute young fragile nine-year-old, a long-haired redhead with tan freckles.

We recall that she had dark misty sienna eyes, which would fixate on you when she would look at you. They were dark with the colors lying within the inside of the pupil, that was asking for longing the deeper you and gazed into them, it was like she was running to me with her eyes, for help, yet she did not move from their legs. I do recall that Neveah and I would see her rarely in the town looking startled, with one of the Amsel girls; she did not look as if she had lived in her body. The boy they did not take out as much mostly because he talked far too much, -we guess.

She was the only one that we saw out of the fifty or so children in which they took care of. The same can be said for the boy, grant he had light brown hair, with a pinkish undertone. His gold-sh green eyes faded, with all creativity drained from them, just like them all I would presume. I think he was ten, he always seems to be distracted, he was a chatterbox, yet never said anything that made, you want to overhear, he would stutter a lot saying the words 'smack' and 'bite' over and over, yet I only saw him once in that house.

I do believe that there were- many erotic things going on between the kids just by the way they appeared; I would go as far as to say there was incest. I remember seeing Alissa with her after we got back; she would be glaring at me, as most would do in town. Maybe she was afraid I would say something, or maybe she just wanted me back even now, that she cannot have me. I do not know, how she feels, or what she feels, I never really did, and I do not care.

Gracie, this girl she was always so pale-skinned like she never saw the light of day much- I believe that she did not see much sun, she did not even know how to talk to anyone, other than a couple of minor phrases. When I was over at my girlfriend's home both kids along with most of the others lived up in a dark damp room, that I would call their attic space. With one or two double beds, pushed together that they shared, or so that is what I have come to believe. I was never up there, yet sometimes you could hear the laughter and their tears, and even slight screams.

You could hear their murmurs in the walls. I think I could hear them all being like rabbits and going at it, the thrusting thumps on the ceiling plus all the pitter-patter of little feet above! Yet that is what I was estimating was going on, and no my mind just does not think like that, something was very wrong! It made me nauseated just being in that house with her, it was that vile. Yet the lower parts that they live in was neat as a pin! Like all the girls' rooms, except for Allison, there was food all over the place.

Yet, Nevaeh she thinks she killed them for the need of their blood of life, a human sacrifice to their deity? Me, I have not made up my mind, I do not think they would do such things, to harmless kids. Though it is becoming more and more believable to me, after what Nevaeh said, and that they did to her and Lily. Therefore, he must have covered them up for her, out in one of these fields somewhere. Never to be found, and if they were found, they made it look like animals got at them. Nevaeh said when they get into their rage, they are like rabid wolf dogs, and I agree. Alissa never likes to see anyone bleed, she said it was hard for her to look at. Yet I do not think that was it at all. She just knew that she could not control herself when looking at it, which is what I think now. Nevaeh- I have a theory where most of the blood, and souls they take come from!

Mr. Amsel, he was killed by being struck by lightning in the rain, maybe digging graves with a metal spade shovel. I have no clue if this is true or not, but he needed to fry, if it is real or not, she needs to fry too, either way, he is gone also.

Maybe- she got rid of him, that is a thought? She does not love anybody but herself and her clingy girls. But, herself so much more! The death is all around them, I can feel that I can see them up there, yet like, do you understand, that some of them will never speak again, in a hellhole or land? They're just there, not to live, just to exist for their life, they give up, more and more of them it is never going to stop.

Who is going to stop them? I think they are bred for them to kill.

Yet they keep some to reproduce for their hunger of life!

The kids do not know any better than to become evil black fallen angels like them, it's all they know! Are you going to gain a victorious voice, and speak up in your land? Will you be there to hold someone's hand? Because life goes by like a grain of sand in all of the lands and yes this would be the time for you to do what you think is right. Would you help them! I would love to help them, yet we cannot, no one believes all those kids are even there. Plus, I think it would kill them being a part of ordinary life, they would not be able to live like us.

Will it ever be known...?

Chapter: 29

Who I Was

Nevaeh- Jaylynn's life, what can I say she is a tortured soul. I will let her speak for a while. Jaylynn- while... I am at the graveyard, and we are, up on the side of the knoll, I am with her... my mommy, right now.

This is where we talk the most. Strange, but this is where we feel the most- close to one another. I remember going for walks with my mom in the cemetery!

When I was younger like we do even now. I always loved the time we had. The same can be said with my dad like when I was five, dad would take me fishing in the antique boat, not too far out from the gazebo on the pond. Adjacent from the old watermill, about mid-pond we would be, and then together after-ward we had picnic food, like watermelon and potato salad, as we sat on the bank of the pond. While seeing the many swans float by us, to say hello, and the sun beating down on us.

Time like those... I remember the most, yet they were all cut short. Mom and I talk about the time of the past often and how she tried to be there, yet she was not all there. What can I say I had a good mom and dad, I never wanted for anything? We were poor, but I was proud. I think about being a little girl. I remember my dad swinging me on the swing attached to the tree. I recall naptime, timeouts, groundings, and many good times, and unscrupulous times as well.

Remember- mom? Nevaeh- Yes, yes, I do- honey. I think so. Jaylynn- Do you remember taking long walks with dad and me. Then walking in the fields to the roadways, and then walking into town past the old olive- green train station?

Also, seeing everyone, that seemed to know us!

Nevaeh- Yes, yes, I do, yet only in fragments, so much has happened.

Hey, mom- Do you remember me being in the back seat of the 1957 Chevy when I was three, kicking your driver seat repeatedly trying to get your attention while blaring mommy?

Nevaeh- How could I forget! I tried to give you as much time as I could, baby, yet was it enough for you.

Jaylynn- Never... there was never was enough time. I remember you taking me with you to get things, that we need for grandma Hope's house, too bad that I never got to meet her. I mean I did... but I do not remember, I was just a baby then, and she and I will never really speak even now, that just cannot be.

Nevaeh- she was a hard person to get to know, yet just like you and I, she was the only mother I had. Just like I was the only one you had, sometimes in life, you cannot choose, I am just like her, we did what we could, I see that now, yet I did not them. Just to think it has been almost sixteen years her stone has been there, along with the smaller one next to hers.

'Yeah... I knew who, that girl was.'- said Jaylynn!

'So, did I, her life ended far too soon.'- said Nevaeh!

Jaylynn- looking back on it, Mom she never really eats- all that much. I do not understand why. The older I got the harder it was for me to appreciate her, and her weird ways. Yet hanging out with mom, as a teenager is not cool either... maybe that was it. It is just nice to make up for it now. Now that no one cares.

I remember my dad reading to me, I loved my dad more than anything in this world. I always feared that he would leave my mom at some point. I always believed that my mom was a little crazy, she had a hard life from what I gathered, a life that I repeated. Boy - in so many ways. My only difference is that I did blame God, who else was there to blame for what happens, that is what I thought. Yet mom tried to understand that, yet she cannot for some reason. She was always cramming her faith in my face. I recall that I spent a lot of time to myself, in my pink room just like she did, I had her old room, and my cat Emily would sleep with me on my bed, and now Emily sleeps there without me saddened, as my mom said to me.

There was a day when I thought I would never talk to my mom again. Yet things happen and things change. I marvel at my thought maybe this was a good change?

I never really wanted anything other than us all being together as a family. I just wanted to be left alone. He had to get his hands on me! It was as if I was not even allowed to have a childhood, in all truthfulness. I know I had to grow up too fast. He violated me! Why would he do such a thing to me, was it love or hate? It just started with a touch of the hand, and then more and more, I was not going to stop it, because I think I liked it? Yes, I think I did...?

He made me feel good and bad all at the same time! I need my friends like I need my dad, and without his love, in my life, my needing for life ran on low, and he drained the rest out of me. I never wanted to do what he wanted me to do.

I just wanted to be a kid; I just wanted to be the average girl, like I have seen all around me in school. I do not think anyone loves me, the only one, which loved me like that was my dad. There were no boys out there, that wanted me because they knew, only one but he does not count to me. Because he would have done anything to get me to say yes, even if I said no. It was hard to find real love, because of who my mom is, and what my dad was. Yet I thought it was my mom, which destroyed my life. That she stopped me from being whom I was meant to become. I wanted to do so much and see so much. Yes, I love her for being my mom, but why did she have to be my mom. Dad was the only one I wanted, then.

After everything fell apart, I just needed to get away from the craziness, so I did, and that is why I am here now. The way I am, with my mom, it is so crazy I know. I never loved life; to me, there was no point in living at all. If I could not love whom I wanted to love and be with the one I wanted, it would have been so wrong. It was so wrong! I remember my first school bus ride and I met my two friends that were Lexi Cruosin and Stephanie Colt. Lexi was a mouthy friend she grew up to become a cheerleader in school, and she left me behind.

She was everything I wanted to be at that age, I recall.

Stephanie was sheepish and clumsy tripping over her own feet. Yet, she was always there for me, until her friends stopped her, because of what they thought. Who knows they might have thought he would get at them too, as he did with me, sometimes in front of them?

By- staying out of trouble was the hard thing for me; I was always doing something to piss my mom off. She knew but did not stop it; I do not think she could have.

Until now that was all right, no matter what I did, I could never get her complete time, she was always in la-la land, back then. Furthermore, that made me hate everything about myself. Because, I thought that it was me, doing that to her. I recall my dad was the only one to say I was beautiful! As I said, I found most in school hard to get to know, yet they did not want to get to know me. So, I was classed like mom was also, for not doing anything that she did. Just because they think that- 'The apple doesn't fall far from the tree.'

I had an old man Devolcano for music also, he did not think, I could play my trombone, with the rest of the class. Therefore, he used to say to me to go into the storage room that smelled like- rat turds and turpentine and learn it. 'And do not come out to you do.' -he would shout! 'Go make farting noises, and giggle about it mindlessly, with him, that is all you will ever do!' He can go and suck on my trombone slide! I can read, and I can read music, no thanks to him, and do more than he does. Unlike all of them think in his class, I can do a lot of things. Plus, my mom is more than he will ever be. He needs to stop saying shit about her!

My mother and I can count above four also. This was my education also, sitting in small rooms. Learning nothing while everyone laughed in my face. Never in a nice way while everyone else looked at me as if I was a hunk of shit. Thus, in the room with sluggish Steve the euphonium player, I went to whom he thought could not play or read or play music either. He and the class thought that all I do is giggle and make weird sounds together with him. Whatever- think what you like, about me.

Oh, yes- I would like to say to him, no- 'We are not a match made in heaven!' -so stop saying that we are.

Anyways enough about that, my greatest obstacles were- trying to understand- why. I always want to be the fix, yet I think I just added more drama, than what I was worth for everybody. I was a wild child in my younger days, and I grew out of that and became stone-cold, because of what he did to me. It is just like that; the family will never stop! I consider the most overrated virtue, that I had was not seeing what was coming into my life, and not caring about what I had. I threw it all away, and I went nowhere, but down. After I lost everything, I did not see the light.

I saw nothing- but darkness. Say- I am crazy also, I do not care!

I would lie all the time to others, I would lie about my name, I would lie about where I lived, I would lie about being stocked, and Isolated in school I was a liar. I should have never been born; me being born like everyone else was a lie too.

I know that now, but I did not back then.

I - Jaylynn liked to be part of the softball team.

I - Jaylynn liked to dance and sing.

I - Jaylynn loves picking flowers in spring.

I - Jaylynn also remembers the words that would sting.

I - Jaylynn wanted a fling.

I - Jaylynn wanted everything and had nothing.

I - Jaylynn is who I was, you know I was nothing inspiring. As a young girl, I all was like taking things apart, yet I could not always get them back together. I would have like to become an inventor; Edison or Tesla where some of the people I looked up too. I remember sticking a knife in an outlet just to feel the shock of it. I was always such a bright child! I loved the feel of the currents, I loved the look of electricity, and I wanted to be the one to make everything in the world run without having to plug it in. To make all things wireless! That was a dream, I was- a dreamer also! I think my imagination is why I could not keep my fingers off of things.

I even thought of mind control headsets to wear, to run everyday items. I never got any of those dreams. I knew that I would never have the money to do that. I always wanted a man like my daddy, yet I do not think there will ever be another man like him! He was everything that a man should be. I always loved Chinese food, as dad did, he would get that a lot for us. If I remember right. I was the happiest just being in his arms, the loving arms of my daddy. That did not need to happen to him. I still do not get why, it did, was it because of me, or not?

The only talent that I had was being able to do many cartwheels; I am so lame, I no! That is what everyone thought of me, even mom! Mom wanted me to stay her little girl, but I had to grow up. That is why I like to cut myself, just like she did, just to see it bleed. That was fascinating to me also. Yes, I loved the pain, yet I love to run away from it too. I would have loved to have lived in New York, with all the lights and sounds, and people, that would not care about who I am. I would just be another face in the crowd. My most precious possession was taken away, so why even talk about that.

This is all I have to say; I hope I did not depress you too much. I just want to say, that I still love you mom, yet I cannot understand why you stopped loving me back then. Just for trying to live my life, yet maybe, I can fix it now for you. I have never stop loving my dad either.

I would love, to have a do-over in life!

Chapter: 30

Little Grownup

(Nearly fifteen years back)

Chiaz- Nevaeh is like the caramel, whipped cream, and the cherry on top of my sweet ice cream sundae! Caramel- because she is so sweet and innocent when with me, whipped cream- because she has the perfect complexion, that I love to kiss and caress with my fingers. As well as the cherry. Because of her small of her fragrance, and the scent of her hair that is sometimes braided; as well as the taste of her lips that, I kiss... and that kisses me so sweetly. All of that combined is one yummy flavor, which I want to last forever! I love our family! Yet looking at others I wonder. 'We make such a cute-z couple, and we have a baby that is too amazingly unique!'

Nevaeh- I thought what better way to end this part of the story, then with the miracle that ended all my torture in my life. Yet this is not the end at all. This was the beginning of a new story, which affected my life, and his in so many ways. Our little bundle of joy that brought us together and her precious name is Jaylynn Lily Nazareth.

She was born on May 19 of this year. She is 5 pounds and 11 ounces, with blue eyes and brown hair, as you can see, she is content clamped to my breastfeeding for comfort; as I sit with her in this hospital bed right after I gave birth to her. 'A baby girl will make is love stronger, the days longer, money tighter, our home happier, clothes shabbier, the past forgotten, and the future, so worth living for!' The new daddy and I went home the very next day. He moved in with me in the old farmhouse, we never planned on living there all that long, yet we did. So, now I have a family, and a kitten named Emily, now I have the photos on the walls of all of us. My life's mission has been fulfilled... or so I thought.

So, at this phase in my life, I am a new mother, I am still thinking about everyone looking at me in the delivery room. I was so embarrassed, let's just say that my loving husband made sure that everything down there would be nice and tidy before the big day.

Because I was too big to trim all of that up myself. Too much information- sorry. I have a bad habit of that, don't I? We had our new baby at 11:11 pm. That is when we started our new life as a young family. We had no money at the time, so I knew that it was going to be rough on us.

My new husband Chiaz found a job working in the south end coal mines, just to make enough for us to get by day by day. We were happy, and I was away from all of the ghosts and horrors of the past, or so I assumed. The curse continued to linger even though it was not affecting me anymore, remember how I said it is always passed on... that is so true; in more ways than one. In this part of my story, I have aged- a few years now. I am no longer that little schoolgirl; I am a mother, a wife. I have been watching my little girl grow up so fast, it seems every day it is something new.

Like her first bath, her learning to crawl, this little lady being potty-trained and even her first words, like when she said- 'Mommy!' We saw her first steps and have it on VHS tapes; she was walking from me and her daddy. I remember getting her a big girl bed. Yes, even her first day of school. Wow- how five years can go by so fast. Yet we were happy just to have her, we did not need anymore. Plus, we could not afford to. These days fly by like an angel in the night, and now they're just memories in my book of life. I still type every day, yet the story has changed, as I got older.

It is like another five years of my life have passed, and it is as if I blacked out, because I cannot remember them, and I do not know why, yet maybe I do? I was there but my mind was elsewhere. I think about the past and reliving it while reliving it instead of being the mom, which I need and needed to be. I do not know where I was, where I have been, I was lost in my own body! Spinning- spinning- spinning around to the point of insanity, or so it seemed. Maybe my depression got the best of me? Maybe I was healing myself from the past; maybe, I do not know anything, and yet know it all.

In those five years she became a teenager, when did that happen? She has hips and a chest. Plus, she wears more make-up than I do? When...! How...! What? Where have I been? Yeah, Jaylynn is a young lady, and I can see she is having the same dreadful existence in her life as I did when I was a young woman. Yes, I do see that, sad to say.

It is interesting to watch children grow up in front of your eyes, I never knew how difficult, letting go could be. I remember when Jaylynn started to read. I remember when she, went through the change to become a woman and we had that talk, little did I know she did not need it.

I remember Chiaz being the father figure I knew he could be. I look back on my life, and I reflect on it and I still have to wonder why. She was only fifteen when she left me. Just like me, she could not take any more, and she slit her wrists... she could not be saved. I could not save her, no one could! Likewise, I have been killing myself over it ever since, yet I have to suffer and live on. I am paying for what I did I think, maybe not, should I even pray anymore?

I think Lily left me too, yet I am not sure... at all? I think I have become bitter, as I am getting older. Peoples say that you have to move on in your life... all I can say to that- is that she was my life. She was what I lived for other than my husband. She had the same life that I had in high school, why didn't I help her more! Why didn't I fix it? It seems so far away to me now. I sit with an unfilled heart of thinking that life is so unfair, listening to my mind as it spins like a tornado through Kansas and all my thoughts of what can and can't be rushing like a gunshot through my brain.

All this takes me to a place that I will never be again. If only I would have done this and not that... If only is all I think about anymore. All I do is think, why did this happen to me is it a curse... Yes, no, maybe? Someone give me a sign or something, why is it that everything I loved goes away; and everything I care about dies?

Jaylynn now haunts me just the same as Lily did. Sometimes I walk through the graveyard; however, their spirits swarm in my brain and around my mind constantly, I can see them all, even if I do not want to! Funny how the cemetery comes to life to me.

Then their past life rushes through my veins. She speaks and talks to me in whispers, to the point I collapse in exhaustion from being overwhelmed with emotions. I am positive; her voice is not the only one I hear there, and her body is not the only one I see there, either.

Jaylynn's spirit is like a snowstorm in December cold lonely, and melancholy and Lily's is beautiful and heavenly like the air I have, yet it is breathtaking to me in its memory. Just like thinking about Jaylynn back in the days, that we had together before the beginning of the end, is what I deliberate about in my mind and soul, and it has taken its toll on me! Nonetheless, mostly I think of all the existences from back in the days of when she was fifteen. I feel that I could have done more for her; maybe I could have been there for more of everything.

Maybe I did not understand?

I knew what she was going through... but I did not know it was so troubling. Maybe some people can't be helped? Maybe when they have the curse they cannot. I know what it is like because I have lived with the curse. That was placed on me from day one. A curse never dies! Just like sin! It never dies! She was everything real to me, the only thing I wanted, all that I still think about. 'She was beautiful with big blue puppy dog eyes.'

Her eyelashes could put you in trances as they blinked. She was petite in her stature; she had it all going for her, and just like me, she ended it all, just because she felt so alone. Yes, I knew that all the boys wanted to get into her skirt any way they could; some more than others. Nevertheless, she would let them because she had too or face the wrath of the tower's clans. The curse goes on, it never perishes, the faces may change, but the spell remains; like I said it is just passed on from offspring to offspring. I can see the same evil dark cloud similar to shadows, almost like spirits flying within them in my visions. Oh, the evil it is passed on, moves in you, and takes over your mind and body!

I remember she has those sweet pink lips, which could curl up your toes, as you would gaze at them, even to this day she is a gorgeous angel. Yet she is not the same type of angel that

Lily is. No not at all, yet she is a younger angel also, she is unrobed, I can see it all, her body skin is transparent and glossy. With the black fluffy feathery wings, that makes air gusts as she moves as fast as the light around me.

Jaylynn has a halo of spikes and thorns over her head, which digs into her forehead, and the blood runs down her shadowy brown wavy wispy hair. Her eyes can glow the color of pink. 'I call them Olivia Cooper eyes! You know, with the black teardrops!' and her dark cherry black blood flows from them too, as we talk. I think I saw from time to time a black widow crawling on her, making webs on her body.

(So- hair-raising.) Along with the markings of unlucky, thirteen tattooed on her and chiseled into her chest. Other insignias are cataloging her, she has numbers on her marking her like a beast. She has the cereal barcode numbers of-

(J-N-0069699611) on her left butt cheek, which glows lime green in the dark! You are nothing but a number along with your first and last initials when you are a dark angel. She can have fire readily available at her fingertips, sharp retracting claws. Along with withdrawing fangs and horns. She also has a very elaborate samurai-like a sword with a curved blade. As well as, yes you guessed it! She can sparkle like many thousands of little reflective broken mirrors in the brilliant full moonlight.

I never thought I would speak to a black angel, yet she is my little girl, how could I not? 'To live is to be haunted, to die is to be unperturbed.' I remember back when she was on the edge of fifteen, and my life was entertaining, pleasurable, and stimulating. Not at all like now; I remember her first days of high school everything seemed flawless, little did I know, that the towers children had their children, and their evil spirits were passed down to the next demons in the circle of pain; his clan started torturing my little girl until her end. Just as there, mothers did with me.

All my life I have tried to prove this story... but how do I write a story that seems so silly to other people that do not understand? Oh, yes! I was young once in. Consequently, and regrettably, I know what she had to put up with; but you grow old fast if you do not have anything keeping you young. What the hell, do I have to live for now? I sure do not see any reasons, do you? Unrelentingly, as I get older, I wonder also, what the use is in living. Looking at her she was, and still is flawless in my eyes. Incidentally, everything changes and everything moves on, and I was always left behind to wallow in my misery also, as she is now and infinitely, and was I the motive of why she is not alive or not?

Omitting- then again, she still talks to me and dances around me. I have her, yet I do not have her, yet we cannot be together as we would like to be you see. Those days were over a long time ago, I can only have someone in my life so long and then they die, and to me this is, the curse of the tower, the end is always near for me but never close enough. I think of Jaylynn and all of the stuff she has missed out on, and what I have missed out on too.

All these years I said this is true love too. I cannot help but feel violated; it is as if muggers came into my life and took away everything that I valued, and raped it until there was nothing left to steal away. That tingle in my heart that was love, that I had is now gone the replacement being an eking throb, plus all I can do is roll my eyes, and think it must have been meant to be! 'I have to believe, that sometimes God's lessons are hard to understand. But then again they are there to propel me forward and not back.'

True faith never dies either- just remember that! Life is like the scales never finding the balance it is either tipping one way or the other from good and evil. Nonetheless, I have to believe in my thinking that there is a meaning for everything; yes, even when someone is taken away... there is always a light at the end of the dark path that I am walking down- always! A pathway- you may not know about, or where it is going, but when you get there, you will see that it needed to be this way to reserve what is new and needed in life.

'Sometimes, you have to lose; to begin anew.' Even if it makes no sense to you. However, to this day I do not know if love is real or just a state of mind, which is a ghost that haunts me too. How do you love something, which really cannot be shown to everyone, that they love you back? I still have a heart-shaped diamond ring on my finger, the ring was going to be hers someday; it will most likely go to the grave with me now; just like the key that my beloved Chiaz gave me that I wore, that key will be in his padded box forever. That was the last time; I saw his amazing yet ice-cold body. He could not be saved either, yet I pleaded!

Just like my old teddy bear, that is in Jaylynn's case. Forever locked six feet under in the cold hard ground. Their bodies may be there, but their souls are with me, and the lands that go far beyond, above and below.

Just like- 'Glory and gore go, hand and hand.' I see them again, yet it is not the same. I cannot do, or go anywhere with them when they are like this or that. For the reason that it would look like I am just talking to myself; and people already think I am cuckoo! Without doing that...! So, if you have not figured it out yet, I have been alone for many years now.

Chiaz died in a coal mining accident, a rockfall crushed him, and there was no way to save him, as I said. Consequently, I was a single mother when Jaylynn was about thirteen years old. My daughter just did not understand why things had to be as they were you see. She was a daddy's girl, she did not take it well at all, and neither did I; I guess it shows. Conversely, I tried, I have always tried to be exactly what I needed to be, but it was never enough. I feel that I failed at everything, I tried to do what I could, I asked for a second chance at being motherly. Yet I know that I will not get it. I do not deserve to have it, I know!

I always lost love, which I struggled with in my everyday life. I know that my daughter loved me; she was a teenager when she died, and it is not cool- to be friends with your mother. Thus, I forgave her. What can I do, she was my only child? She was an artist, she was creative, and she was a carbon copy of me! With the overlook of my years, I have come to this conclusion, that love is not loving unless it is shown to the world. Yet some just think that love is just getting it on, and not about being soul mates?

Yes, love it dies also and sometimes it does not come back, for someone like me. I am a wiser woman now and I still have no clue... What is love? To some love is- 'L' for lust that makes you want to get it all, to do whatever you can to please. 'O' is Oh shit this is going to make me crazy, and what should I do next.

'V' is for virgins having victory in getting to the next level of intimacy, saying I got to touch and feel it. 'E' is for exposed, and unsatisfied, that is love for some, and me also to a point, when I think about it.

On the other hand, if you are like me, I try to believe that Nat King Cole sings love the way it should be; but most of the time, that kind of love is just a fantasy. If you are like me, you have to believe in a little of both; just to see what it is all about. At least that is what we used to sing together, that melody!

My life is just like flipping through the pages of an unorganized book; you will understand my life, and what it was all about, was it all a waste of time? Did my life have something more than I cannot see or not? I guess that is not up to me to figure out. It is up to you, and what you think! Oh, the temptation can make you go out of your mind, I thought about finding another love, but he was the first and the last, and the only one that truly understood me. Indeed, he saved me, he was my hero.

Besides, I feel that I would be cheating on him, to move on. He would know and he would see me if I did!

All that is something, that stopped me all these years; and that was a promise that we made... the day we tied the knot, that we would always be true to one another; yes, even in sickness or health, and even after one of us would pass away. I cannot break my promise to him. I remember he would write me a love letter every day if he could; I still have all of them sitting here on my desk breaking apart, in the long-standing age of the days gone by. 'What we had, what we lost does it mean anything?' I think so- 'To me it means everything!'

Just like the black crow clans, I will not let my family or me alone. Was that rockfall an accident? I do not think so- yet he thinks it was. Nevertheless, to me that was a planned mystery of death, I think someone wanted to have him blown-up, and I think you know who it was too! But, as of now and this present day my heart is heavy, and my hands are weak, as they sit with me as a memory at my feet. Saying sweet things, they are my warmth, and they keep the time of every heartbeat, they had. Yet, I just wish that they all could be up in the heavenly retreat if only I could live life on repeat!

Lights

So, I think the year is now like 2050 or something like that I do not know, I cannot remember. I have lost track of years and dates because they do not matter. The names and what they have to say look like they are starting to fade away. Yah, I am not the girl that I used to be I am fifty-five years old now, since the day I was saved; but all their rocks in the graveyard just have indications of their names and their birthdates. This is one thing that I have now, that reminds me of what they all were to me then, and what they are to me as of now, and what they are to others in the land. How it can all be the same, yet so different, to me, and all of them.

No one comes up here anymore, and it looks that way too. Yet for me I look around some of them are angels, some of them are ghosts, and some choose to be daemons. Where are the people? 'The Land of Many Steeples', has been bulldozed to the ground, a few years ago and made modern. All that is left is the steel frame buildings with their cold cement and glass walls. However, my home is still standing in its golden field, somewhat unattached from them over there. Looking shabbier than ever. Yet that is just fine by me. I could have moved into one of those boxes also, and had no privacy, and live as they do, but why? The home I have is my own, and those boxes communities of homes are never truly yours, yet the populace does not understand that concept. That the government owns everything they have, and they look into everything they have.

I do not want that. I do not need cameras looking at me when I am asleep or in every room to feel- as they say safe! All these years have gone by like those three hundred and ten miles per hour magnetic levitation trains in the darkness of night over there, like a hot pink blur. The cars of today make a light blue Prius look roomy and elegant. Yet if you get sick of the look of your car, all you have to do is to get one of the different body styles snapped on the one fit's all frame. Some just push a button to change the color of the exterior, which lights up underneath that makes it eliminate.

Yet some cannot afford all that junk, and still drive their ancient automobiles, like me! I drive in the slow lane, and everyone can pass me up. I do not care, I want to see what the world looks like, not have it rush by. I support the only gas station in town, everyone else just plugs there's in, you look down the streets you can see the cars all plugged into the parking meters, sucking on the power grid, yet people think this is more sustainable. I do not think so at all! Their light bills are completely insane, because of all their gadgets and the rechargeable battery cars they have, yet they do not care it is not their problem to care about. They will just get more credit from the ones that own them. What is funny is I pay twenty-two in plastic cents for gas now.

I remember when I was a young girl when it was sometimes over four dollars a gallon! All the small shops have been replaced with styleless boxes of white, gray and black, all the lights glow in cold colors in the background. Nonetheless, the color most predominant at night is that of yellow ocher throughout the atmosphere.

The light-emitting diode billboards are everywhere you look, all of them with sexed-up vulgar and explicit ads, and they all jump out at you and say- 'Hello! With a quote like- 'Don't you want some of this?' Yet what is funny is there are these apps on all the young pre-teen kids' phones that if they rub together at all it is as if they have made a real baby together on both of their screens. That they have to tend too just like a simulated infant or real lifelike baby for a week, it is all part of the preventions to not get pregnant, it is not working as they thought it would. It is all about stopping them from making a living because it is too much work. After all, what that app makes them think. Oh, there is an app for everything. I do not know if that is good or bad, really, I just do not try to understand the ways of the world anymore. It is just that scary. I can see being safe, but it is getting to the point it's absurd.

Like prepubescent kids think having a lover is not about making love anymore, it is just something they have for amusement. Because of what they see all around them. Kids no too much, yet have no intelligence, what so ever. Just like the sky, you cannot see the stars for the light rays of the city; and to me there are more mechanical devices, with brains than the humans, walking or racing around so frantically.

What once was a small community town is- now a big city with no life in it. My land is the only field that was not stripped of their gold locks of hair. The bridge that was so significant to me is no longer even here. There was no need for that bridge years ago, other than a beautiful spot to be; now the coaches drive themselves; what fun is that? The trains float on magnetic levitation tracks in the air and fly by in the blink of an eye, replacing the old bridge, that I cannot walk on.

The world went and got itself in even more of a big flipping hurry; I did not think that was possible. 'Hurry up and weight, and do nothing at all.' Just like you cannot even walk down the path these days, and if you do see someone that you do not know, hell! You are lucky if you get the finger from them, they just do not see you. It is like all they see is the holograms playmate that they can customize to their liking, like a person, yet they want their complete attention. I guess why to talk to anyone else when you have the perfect personality with you at all times. That is if you have the plastic money to keep them around.

Naturally, you can forget about getting a friendly hello from them; but I could see this happening a long time ago, back when I was a young girl. These kids these days are just not right, they do not have any respect for anyone or anything; but why should they be- they are on their own with no guidance from anyone, and no love other than having sex. Everything is emotionless modern and dead, the skyline has changed dramatically, the world is collapsing as I predicted. As well as the revolution is all that stands as unity. Just like I imagined, it would become when I said everybody was like a bunch of humanoid sleepwalkers.

The skies are hazy and fiery with industry smoke, but the industry is not caused by the working hand of man; no rather the working hands of robots. People do not know your name, nor do they need to know anything, everything is known about them. Yet not me, they will never change me!

Everything in their life is run and done for them that is what happens when you do not think for yourself! But that is the way our higher authorities' wants' us to be, brain-dead to the realities of the world. All the same, it was becoming that way when I was a little girl in high school when they took the books away from us. Me- and my group more than any others, as you know! Surprisingly, I ended up going to college, I got my degree in nursing, but I never worked in a hospital a day in my life. My life was being with my husband and my daughter, in the old homestead; which Hope gave to me after she passed; it was in her last will and testament.

So, that was one of the nicest things she ever did for me. This home, this land, and this family where my true joys in life! However, 'The future is uncertain but the end is always near.' As well as the laws here only apply to some of the people; and what they say is not always clear. Back then I did not think about being around other people because I had my family; I had everything I ever wanted. Then once you lose everything you ever wanted, that is when you become lonely and crazy to the ones that do not understand you or the way that you think. Nevertheless, they are the ones that are not thinking. Just like looking at myself what happened to my young pretty little hands and nails, that I used to paint with nail polish? I could not hold a pen in my hand if I tried now, what happens to my thin perky body.

When I was a girl all I did was bitch and complain that I was not cute enough. Hell, I wish for those days now, I wish I could talk to that girl back then and say you are sexy, and you got it going on, but I cannot, this droopy thing is all that is left. What a sight for sore eyes! - right?

Tip- for all you young girls... do not spend your time thinking that you need to be this and that, you have it all, just look at yourself and say; Yes! I am gorgeous! For the reason, that time goes by, and that cute little girls' reflection in the mirror changes overnight! Then you will wish for the days that you looked like that. Stay young and childlike as long as you can, life and getting older happens fast enough, without wishing for it. I thought I would not get older looking.

Since for what happened to me, no it does not work that way. There is no such thing as an eternal youth, which is a myth; unless your part of the heavens, that is when you become young again, and stay that way, when you get your wings. I would say that, do not let anyone say that you do not have what you need because it all comes down to the fact that they are just jealous of you.

You have it all... you are a masterpiece! God- he did not make any mistakes when making you, just so you know that! That is what I believe! It is just like when I walk to see my loved ones every day or at least I try, seeing that gleaming stone just makes me want to cry, but still I do it. I hope for the day that I die for the last time, is that wrong?

Some folks would say that it is idiotic to keep a scrapbook, now that we have holograms and computers all over everything and all this technology. Yet I feel that I want something that has more meaning that is closer to the heart. Everywhere machines are taking over the world, so at least I feel that I have control of this book.

I knew this was going to happen with technology when I was a little girl; that is why I did not want any part of it and still, do not really. There is something more nostalgic about opening a book in your hands and smelling the paper and remembering the memories. Well, I do not give two shits or care what others think, you can see that... yet I try to show my compassion to everyone if they want to see it if they want to get it. But that is completely up to them. Anyways this book holds the memories of us, the family that I fought to make, and a book that no one has ever seen before.

It is a book of secrets that no one knows about other than me, but it is in my last will and testament that Jaylynn was meant to have it given to her. However, as of now, that could never happen. I was hoping to be able to have grandchildren, to keep the legacy going; and have all the memories passed down. But then again whoever gets it now, they can do what they want with it, it is completely up to them at that time, in this day and age they most likely will burn it.

That is what they do with everything! The entirety of what they consider garbage. Yes, even the people that die. It is all part of their one fits all healthcare and life plan. That I will never sign too, they cannot make me it is against my religion, I say!

All these notes love poems, suicide letters from the girls I knew in my life, and all my diary entries, this all tells a story, and it is just all history now. 'Nothing lasts forever it is all going to be dust in the wind, at some point, and the lights of the world will shine no more!'

Nurturing the Losses

'Evenhandedly I gave you all everything, just for you all to die with a smile; all of you only wanted to live for a while. You took everything out of me, but it still left you empty; the tower still wants more. So much I do not understand, all I ever wanted to be was a happily ever after!' I am so tired of being here, without you; even if you are here next to me in ghostly angel form. You are the evanescence of my Immortal love. All of this time has passed, after you pass away, yet it cannot erase you from me, now or ever. I wiped your tears away then and I would even now, nothing has changed, only the moment in time.

'You still have all of me!'

They still have all of my love. I see myself in the glossy stone ones more, and I see that the young girl is gone, and this timeworn outer self is all that is left. This deep-rooted body is all that reminds me of what I used to be, and it makes fun of me, and it moans at me as I try to be as I was back in the day. I remember a quote from Hope she used to say that, 'the moon sheens and the rocks are shown as colorless shades of gray, against the black starfield heavens, the grave is all that is alive, and the world is dying around me.' Now I know exactly what she meant. It is just like I cannot get any satisfaction!

'Everything is just useless information that drives my imagination to insanity.' Sometimes I wonder if I should be so paranoid? I try, and try! As it seems, like I am spiraling out of control, as the world is spinning the other way; and my emotions drive-in with their pouring rains, and I end up in tears, and they only taste like salt with regret. It is just like this old song that plays in my mind as I sit down on the grass in the graveyard, and think that I have lived an undaunted, yet all right life. It is like you have what you have, and you are blessed when you have it. As a result, my advice would be... do not take it greedily or you will lose it as I have lost it!

Everything in this house is falling apart like the pieces of my old broken heart, which died a long time ago. Just like the panes of glass in the living room windows that have been cracked and are chipping out; yet they have been that way since I was a young girl. Just like the one sink in the main bathroom still has separate hot and cold faucets. The hot handle has been stuck in the off-setting position for years yet it drips like my eyes at night. In what was Jaylynn's bathroom she had my old room, there still is no shower curtain around the clubfoot tub, which is the way that it always was.

The old lock that flips over at the top of the doorknob does not work, and like all the rooms, you can see right through the key-hole. Certainly, something never changes, but yet I like having things the same; it adds character to my life. But then again, I am just too damn old to fix all these age-old things, in a sighing heavily heavenly breath- thinking that no one else knows what this place means to me; and no one cares really. Surely, someone should care about the past as I do?

This home- is just one of those places, which was in our memories that we had together. If I could choose a song that would fit my life somewhat; it would be Remember When by Alan Jackson, in my old age I learned to like country music, which I thought would never happen. When you get this old, you just cannot head-bang anymore. I mean you can, but you are going to feel it in your neck the next day. I think about Lily, I think about my daddy, I think about my daughter, I think about my husband, and I think about the curse of the tower, and I think about all the sisters and the blackbird clan.

Why?

I do not know really... they just pop into my mind now and then. 'Old habits die hard.' or so they say. I think that some habits never die at all even if you try. I often wonder what Lily would have done with her life if she could have had a life. She only gives me advice, a lot of the time, she talked about her life in the past somewhat to me, but she never went into that extreme graphic detail about what she had to go through; or about what she wanted. I predict that she is happy in the heavens.

I guess that must have been her destiny. Yet I cannot see how? I often wonder what would have been different in my life if I did not have the curse of the tower. I frequently wonder what my daughter would have done with her life; like who would she would have married.

I ponder time and time and again wondering if she would have any future children. I every so often wonder what it would be like to hold grandbabies in my arms. I guess I was cheated out of that too, on the other hand, you never know... what is going to show up at your threshold! I know that my God works in mysterious ways.

I regularly wonder if I and my husband's love for each other would be as strong as it was back then. I think of all the people I once knew. I can still see their younger faces yet they are fading, with the time that has passed. Thinking back their faces were a blur even then, but now they are fading differently and they're not coming back into my existence, and even if they do, I do not know them. Just for an instance, I look back over the blackbird clan sisters, in my mind from then to now.

Anyways Alissa punched and crowned out a few kids. She had a son named Lance, that stocked my daughter until the day she slew and slaughtered herself. He got what he wanted from her time and time again, and the rest is history. Her other kids' names escape me; they did not do anything to me, so why should I try to remember all their names. They all do not have an affluence of my existence. So anyways, Alissa is now sitting in a nursing home, taping herself on the head, and muttering the same words over and over.

She is in a wheelchair strapped down, and she doesn't even know her name. You always get paid back, always! In her life she did well, she was a successful lawyer and a college cheerleader, but that is because her mother got her everything she ever wanted. But then again, she learned that you could not live without what you need. Besides, what she wanted more than anything was my husband, and in the worst kind of way; and that kind of wanting of what she could not have driven her completely insane.

Yah, her mom has to be in her late eighties now. Yet she is still running that home for refugee or needy children, as they call it. That is why she is still so alive, and healthy! Sucking off the youth. Oh, Adriane committed suicide! She left an oncoming train run her over as she was lying unclothed and crossed the rails; after Lily's death, I guess she could not live with herself any longer knowing what she and her sisters did to others... all of their victims. I guess even demons have to repent.

The engine that hit her was number thirteen; her limbs and brains were splattered all over the tracks, left for the acid rain to wash away. Yet there was an investigation and a big story in the cyber-press saying that it was accidental. Thirteen! I Think Jaylynn was holding her down on the track, so she would be hit, she could not escape her power or force, which is why Jaylynn has that marking number like an honor patch! She must have thought it was the right thing to do? I can understand why!

Allison overdose so many times they could not pump her stomach anymore she died on the gurney because there was nothing left to her, in her insides. She never married and claimed that she was celibate all of her life. She became noted for being a graffiti artist, and her artwork is displayed in the museum here in the city. Yet it is just as disturbing now as it was back then. Ava became a movie star, but not the kind of movie star, that she wanted to be, she was the star in the adult entertainment industry.

Nevertheless, she mothered her sister's kids along with her own. Now, who would have guessed that? I presume that it would fit her personality. She ended up marrying, and inheriting a rich man's money and blowing it all on fashion and body enhancements. She divorced him many years back, and she and all the kids still live with her mom in that gigantic house. Other than that, there is not much to say about her. She died one night in her sleep, and her three children inherited what was left of her husband's fortunes, and they own that company, which she starred in. Yet, that evil mother of theirs will never die!

Chapter: 33

Blame Game

Sometimes, I like to reason with myself drawing in a heavenly breath and letting it go slowly. I cannot remember who I was back then, as my heart is heavy and my hands are shaky now. Besides looking back into the depths, and crevasses of my mind; I can see that they all were like wolves in sheep's clothing, and I was the prey. Will you do pay for your sins! Yet those times still creep and plays with my brain, and the visions are so real. Then again, are they illusions or something more than I can feel like I did back then? They still tie me up in my thoughts, but is it all a waste to think about it or not? It is enough to drive you out of your mind. Do you know that I cannot say that I have any regrets about living the life I did live if you can call it a life? Why do we have life, just to die? Always so naturally I was the pray in a hairy situation of playing around with it.

However, I see it as more like being scarred for life, by the fingering nails that touched me around there, which was my life. If I could only talk to myself back then... oh, what I would do differently; it comes around, however, I just did not know that it would last this long in my recollections. Maybe it is my fault for not standing up for myself; but at that time, I just thought that was the way of everyday existence for me... I guess that is why I got shaved down by them in so many ways so unnaturally. Yet even back then I kept it all... just the way I like it, anyways even if it not accepted by them.

Maybe that is why all the girls looked at me in the locker room? However, Chiaz always said that I was perfect and cute and he loved everything about me. He did not find anything that needed to be changed on me. Maybe that was not it at all. Yet, there was nothing about that... stopping him from kissing every inch of my body, which he certainly enjoyed doing. Yet the times were somewhat different back then. So, to this day, I am not sure what to make of my own story; for the reason that it is never going to be easy for me to explain. What was in the past is in the past, and I do not care anymore about what is in my future. What I have lived for was a dream that was never going to be, and a dream that burnt me to a crisp. I believe that I will awaken from the ashes someday, with my white wings.

It is a day I am looking forward to; if things do not change for me that day will come sooner than later. -I hope! I guess that you can hear the bitterness out of my mouth. Yet at least I am not selfish in what I say to you. You can either bless everything that you say, or you can curse it, by the words that come out of your mouth too... I know this... however, knowing that all the emotionlessness that I am feeling is me dying inside; my words are not always as refined as they should be.

Yet I just do not give a shit!

My existence is not an easy story for me to tell- to anyone, but no one understands it unless they lived through it. 'It has its twists and turns and its turn-on's and turns off's.' Just like having the land with its mountains of majesty that was blissful, that contrast with its tragic lightning storms. Just the same, like us we had our hopes, and our joys and we had a lot of disappointments too.

Now that I am older, so much older I can close my eyes, and all I have is a photographic snapshot in my mind to remind me of the way things used to be. It is just as if it is showing the mountains we climb together and it shows what the tower ripped all away from my clenching hands. Just like that last hug I had from Jaylynn when she has pulled away in tears. I knew it was over before it started. Yet what could I do?

You know I remember when I was thirteen with those cute braces on my teeth; hell- I had a smile that looked so gentle and sweet; it has never changed in my mind, yet my teeth are now yellow and cracked, and my face is wrinkled and dappled, look at what all has changed. I cannot believe it, can you? Yes, as much as I can, I talk to the spirit's lives and read the cards for guidance. I want to be around them and to see them all smiling and dancing around me. Not always with success do I get their full attention.

There are some days that they are moody, but that is okay by me all girls have that time that they need to deal with their emotions, even in the afterlife, and sometimes guys are hard to talk to also. Besides, sometimes others are wanting their devotion, however, I am most happy when with them because at least I can see all my loves; and look into their amazing blue spiritual eyes or the pink ones with their darkness of hell.

Lily and Jaylynn, I can still hear both of them saying hello, and saying my name. Both so perfect in every way! No, I do not see anything wrong with having angels in my life at all times. This is my mystery and fantasy that is real in my life, and it is thrilling. It seems as of now, I have more of them than I do real people in my life. However, I hope for more people in my life too. Looking at my hands you can read all the crevasses, and the split forks in the trail that was my life; the paths that ended far too soon. No, my hands and palms are not the same as they once were back then they have changed. They are not like the ones he held, what happened to my life-line, heart line, and most importantly marriage line?

The lines have transformed, but why if the plans were made in my skin long before? Where have they taken from me? What did I do? To this day, I do not know. There must have been some reason for this to happen this way? Do you know why? I look at my fingerprint each finger different and so unlike Lily or Jaylynn's. Everyone has unique prints, which we leave behind. I have some of the smallest hands that you ever saw in your life, but they were sweet and felt amazingly perfect in his hand. Every line that was on my palms was strong then not like now and showed my love of the flesh, my true faith, and love for life, I was a giver; I never asked for anything but love in return; so why didn't I get it all my lives. Maybe I just grieved it all away, as my life flashed by like a blur in fading blue eyes.

The fingerprints we made on each other are now gone forever. It is just like that kiss, which comes to me in my short dreams at the don. It is just like a trance that comes over me, and always had an enchanted feel, that uplifted me. Depressingly to say, that I do not remember as much as I should; I lost what I needed the most, and that was my family... and my little girl, I lost my lover, but will I be able to keep going without them? But then again, I still have my faith. Yet even that is not as strong as it used to be.

Sometimes, I cannot understand what the divine master has planned. All I hope is that maybe someday my life exists will help someone else out that is all I wish for anymore. My life seems like it has a gap in it. That has not been filled in years, yet what was taken from me is what is missing, and there is no one else to blame but the tower and her offspring of demons.

They are the ones that deceived us all. Even in her kid's graves, the sisters try to end my contentment! As well as she has gotten some of them, too that was in my life. Though, she will never get me! She will never drag me down with her to the pits of hell! Ava is the only one that is truly alive, yet they all haunt me!

Let me go back through time ones more! I have never felt so attached to anyone like this before. Just thinking about Chiaz now is making me foolish, as it did when we were young lovers. I still can hear him saying my name, and it makes my week even now. I cannot help it! Back then, I was in love and did not even know what love was, I had the feeling as if he is the one for me, back when we walked the halls of the hellhole, but they stopped it, sure I would have loved to have been lovers in school as the others where.

I would have loved to have public demonstrations of affection, in the halls with him. I would have loved to have cut class like them all too, and had sex in the old part of the library; between the bookshelves with me, on top of him! Like they all did. I just want to have the same things in life.

No instead, I had to have the sisters looking up my ass, at all times in its place. Oh well... I still got him in the end right, and he got me. 'You can't always get what you want; but if you try sometimes, you just might find that you get what you need.' However, we should have had more time to do all the things we wanted to do... that is what I think anyway. So, be careful in what you wish for you may just get it one way or another.

Reality is never as it seems, and life likes to screw with you. I find it best to dream your life away, which is what I did to keep the pain away and to keep from going completely insane. I feel that I could have done anything if I just imagined I could have. That is the way you think when you are young. Just like I can still see what she was wearing that day it was a light blue dress; and with a pure white daisy in her hair. The day Jaylynn was laid out for the others to see. All of this was because, of Lance Amsel... he had to know everything about her.

Yes, I mean everything! 'Instant karma- is going to get you!'

Nevertheless, at the time, I did not grasp it. I did not see what he was doing to her, and I should have, he knew what he wanted, and that was everything that she was. He wanted me to be all alone! I never thought that it was going to happen; I did not foresee him taking her away so recklessly and final. I thought I would not let him get in the way with it, but I field miserably! There is no way to prove hearsay, and all I have are bits and pieces of the true story.

That reminds me now sometimes I walk into the bathroom, and Jaylynn writes the words 'I love you' in blood on the mirror, and her supernatural face shows up in the shower mist as I wash. She just loves to play around with me in that room, ha that is kind of cute! She has a way about her that makes me lovesick for her. Yet I have to remember that she died in a bathroom, so maybe that is why she likes to play around in there. The day Jaylynn left me in her human form; I know that my life would never be the same.

Though I did not know if, that was a good thing or a bad thing, it was just the way it had to be. Life goes on even after the ones you live for are gone away infinitely. I planned on letting her put this ring that was mine on her tiny finger when she got married. But I never got the chance to do it or give it to her as a gift; instead, all and everything I had in my life was given up to her the curse of the tower and their clans.

Giving in ways that cannot be seen yet they are felt. I remember back when I was in school, I was too young to fight for my love. Yet, when you are young, it is mostly lusting that you want anyway. It would have been nice to have been the same age, yes it would be nice to be seventeen again or even younger, and know what I know now; and do some of the things we wanted to do; with my lover.

However, you cannot live twice, will you can have life more than once if you are like me. Yet is that new life going to have them in it, not likely. My age does not count for anything, like this, you see; I forgot how old I truly am now, I feel as if I am a hundred years old, maybe I am? I have seen a lot of change, from then to now.

‘The journey of life is through uncovering the true beauty, which lies behind the eyes.’ It is not what is seen all the time it is what is felt, the same as how I feel towards the ones the knew me. I believe someday soon our souls can be re-joined as one as they were in my past life. Thus far, I feel as if I will never be content again, even though I have my angels; they just remind me of everything that I can and cannot have any more, and that is them in this earthly life.

My greatest fear is still being alone, and dying alone. Yet I cannot say that I fear the unknown. I look at myself now and there is not one trait about myself, which I find desirable. To this point in my life, I wander around like a small child lost in the hay fields, looking for my way. I have old photos of back in the day; they are my snapshots that are stuck lost in time with the notes that underline the passage of time. I wonder what happened to me. I believe that my current state of mind is not a healthy one.

Then again, I am not leaving this home... the only way I will give this up is if I am carried out the door in a body bag. Maybe I am just old or crazy or I just do not care anymore. Maybe I just have seen far too much in all my lives. No wonder I am so tired, one or the other I need a deep sleep anyways.

So maybe I will go in my sleep with his ghost on top of me. Then again, I always thought that I would go into the arms of my beloved anyways. Observing back over all of this... I think that I never had any great achievements in my life; I went to college but never did anything with what I knew or study to do.

Looking back at Chiaz’s life he worked in the coal mines for a career. He used to say that- ‘They drop you down in the hole and you work on your stomach like a rat. With the water running down you are back and into your ass crack.’ He was shoveling for the dwindling dollar; and we had to give it all back to the large companies and corporations, that run the contemporary world.

Nevertheless, he made enough for us to get by, and to keep the house. Now I live off of what I inherited and that is not much, but to me, love is more important than money! Some would have to call me a millennium hippie, will that be just all right with me. I lived in this town all my life, I have seen people come and go, of seen houses being built, and I have seen the same very house being ripped down.

That is when you know you have lived too long. I watched babies grow up before my eyes, into things that cannot be controlled; and I have seen baby's die too, and I have seen the baby's being killed by their mothers before they are born, and they do not have a choice to live. Then the ones, which are born do not have a choice on what they want to keep, that is up to the mom and dad to make that choice. I am probably the easiest person to get along with.

However, I know, and I understand how this world works. As of now, I dislike everything about my appearance, and my skin is blotchy, and my hair is graying; my eyes are fading they are not pure blue in color anymore, everything is turning pale and ashen, everything is fading away.

Looking back if I could change one thing about my life, I would go back in time and do all the things that I never did or got to see with my family. I would have liked to have more time, then and not so much now. So that we could have done all the journeys and discoveries that I planned on with them next to me; we should have had this.

Besides, I didn't even get to do all the things that I was going to do throughout my life. I had plans and those dreams, but they could not come true without them, and how do you blame, for some reason I cannot blame myself. Yet I have to remember that I was lucky and blessed to have gotten a family at all after what powers were against me.

Whom do I blame?

Chapter: 34

Pulling Feelings

Born to live, born to die, born to cry and born to wonder why? Some people say; while... my saying is all is fair in love and war, because; I have done both, with each of them having the same consequences. I have been at war with the tower, and I have fought to keep my loved ones around, yet most of them are on the ground, still, their souls linger around. I will never lie to anyone or tell him or her something untrue.

My type of personality is to be blunt and to the point, as you should know by now. If I think you are an ass hole then- while, I will tell you that to your face; not behind your back like most. I am sorry but, I am not a very forgiving person anymore; you have three chances with me and after that, I am done with you. You would be the same way if you had a life like mine. Call me bitter; call me pathetic! Your names mean nothing to me anymore, nor did they ever.

My mind goes back to these days often because they all pull on my heart; like strings on a guitar being tuned too tightly. To the point that I feel as if I am going to choke on the wooden splinters, and all the strings that were connecting us snapped away. Indeed, my angels Lily and Jaylynn are the only angelic and horrific faces that keep me going. They are like night- lights in my life, they are the stars that shine for me; Jaylynn she reminds me of how I affectionately named her after my daddy, and that is bittersweet. Yet to this day, he has not said anything to me, I wonder why?

Jaylynn, she was so like me in every way; in her personality, in her actions, her laughter, and when I looked into her eyes it is all the same as if am looking into the eyes of a reflection of myself in my bloodstained mirror, from the eras of past, oh so long ago. I have never spoken about her to anyone until now; no one even knows about these stories, know no one cares. Now that I am getting older, and getting closer to that casket, I feel that I should share my story with someone, so I decided on putting everything in my life down onto paper in my scrapbook diary, as you know! I have some of it on notepaper, yet I want to get it all on neat crisp paper with the black crisp font.

Yet my Early 1920's Vintage black Underwood Standard Typewriter No.5. It- the typewriter just smiles at me, because I start and stop one word at a time, plus the button letter 'N' has gone missing. Where it has gone is a mystery too, besides using a typewriter is not the way things work these days, everything is done digitally, with either video or recordings. Until now my dream was to write and complete my story! So, that is just okay with me I am not a writer, there are not many out there anymore. I cannot even get a complete thought on a page... without jamming, or type-o's now, it pisses me off, but I will do it in time! I wonder how much more time I have to do this.

There is nothing more annoying than that snowy old page, maybe there is, but I need to get this down somehow. This is all my misery, which cannot stop playing in my head that I need to let out. Furthermore, this is the only way I want to do it because they all said I never would.

The paper is so old now, that it is yellow in color. The stack of paper is just like my cracked teeth; hell, the little bell does not even go ding anymore.

Plus, my hands hurt most of the time nowadays, oh who cares, whatever- never-mind. I have spent most of my life trying to become what I am not. This script is just another damn dream that has gone down the shitter. Because of the shutters in my life, and to tell you the truth; I am getting tired of shoveling all this shit up with a little shovel, and having someone hovering over the ones I love with a bigger one.

They call me to their graves at night, and what can I do? I have to go and talk to them. They hug me, and then I come home and sit at the typewriter. With the desk lamp lighting, the keys and my hands shake on top of the buttons. I get feebler as my faith gets weaker.

Thinking maybe, I can tell someone of what goes on in my life. However, their voices call out to me Nevaeh... Nevaeh and I have to stop. It is almost like they do not want others to know what they say to me, and what they do for me. Only one of these angel girls stays with me at all times now. She follows me everywhere the spirit of young Jaylynn. When people die, they stay the same age even in the afterlife, as you know.

Jaylynn is a tiny black angel girl, as you know, she hovers in the air yet she still only stands at five nothing. As well as her eyes peer into my eyes, then into my soul like always. Lily stepped down as my main angel, the day that Jaylynn got her white wings and began to fly; now Jaylynn is the one that looks over me the most. Lily has a new girl to look over, that needs her as I did when I was young.

(Nevaeh exhaling noisily because her heavenly air is unsustainable.)

So, Jaylynn used to come to me crying, with black eyes, and blood dripping from her inner thighs; saying to me look at what he is doing to me. I would say stay here, you can be homeschooled, you do not need to be all around them, but she always went back. For the reasons that, she wanted to have a social life, and there was not a thing I could do, that was up to her... it is like he and his clan had an almost demonic power over her. Just the same as Lily and I had with the sister's clan. Yet he got her, oh did he get her.

As you know they sucked the life out of us girls, in more ways than one, and they would use us whenever they wanted, and then through us out like trash when they did not. This clan was even more obnoxious to my little Jaylynn, God only knows what he did to her, but I can imagine... she has memories that terrify my thought of mind. I would say that I've seen a lot in my time, but nothing like what she faced. It reminds me of what I and Lily went through in our teen life, it is all the same only the names change, or so it seems to be. It is the curse of the tower!

When thinking about it, it creeps me out. But that is life; I know one thing, I always try to do the right thing, because after they are gone you have nothing but sad misgivings. They're nothing more than bullies! I wish all of those assholes would have taken their belts and hanged themselves with it or cut their wrists, no! That would be too good for them... either way, justice comes with a price, and that was my fifteen-year-old girl. She lost her innocence to her bullies, and that is when my fifteen-year-old girl, lost her existence in life too. All of this could have been stopped; yet after all these years' people still bully the weaker individuals, which they can overpower.

They can fry in hell, in the eternal lake of fire! That is all I can say. Him! He would put things in her mouth, and spattered her innocents over his face and walls of the halls. He even had a life-size poster in his bedroom of my little girl, which he idolized every night, if you know what I mean; the revolting twisted freak. So now, Jaylynn clings to my ankles, as I walked to and around the cemetery as well. Yet I cannot help but say I told you so, and she says 'I-NO-O!' In a moaning vocal sounding whisper! It is weird to think about but, everyone I ever loved has died even my daughter. So, my philosophy as of now. I just made the choice to never love again, and I have kept that promise up until this point in my life. Things were about to change in a big way once again like always it is out of my control. All these years... I have been pining over what I cannot have, so I guess it is okay to drown my sorrows with a drink once in a while. I need one right now.

Jaylynn, she had a lover at the age of fourteen you see. Jaylynn had a baby girl I do not even know the name, or if she named her, the day she died; in addition to that, the dad was Lance Amsel! Shocking yah I know; I was taken aback too! Little did I know that Jaylynn was seven and a half months pregnant at that time! She was so tiny that it did not show under her flowing dresses that she loved to wear.

(They got rid of the uniforms, now they let the kids were what they want.)

So anyway, I just thought that she was putting on a few pounds or some weight, or maybe I was too caught up in my own life to see what was going on all around me. So, I guess instead of telling me about it, she thought it would be better to end it all. It is so frightening how this all happened, and so fast or so it seemed. However, she kept it at all completely a secret from everyone, even me. She ended up having her premature baby girl, in the high schools' girls' bathroom while sitting spread out on the toilet.

Lance 'The so-called dad.' Was standing in front of Jaylynn the whole time yelling and pulling on her... Poor Jaylynn she had to give natural childbirth with no medical assistance! Lance tied the baby's umbilical cord off with his shoestring, and cut her the baby away from this new mommy with only a pair of dull school scissors. Other students could hear her screams and cries in the halls, yet no one cared or they were not allowed too.

'The lightning crashes and the new mother cries, her intentions, and ambitions, like her placenta, falls to the floor, as she tries to stand up. Then the angel opens her pale blue eyes, only for them to change color, in the irrelevant stall on the bathroom floor, and the mother dies. He gets her soul; I can feel it, as she did! Just like a clap of rolling thunder when it is chasing the wind, I can feel her fright!'

It is so frightening how this all happened, and so fast or so it seemed. Lance 'The so-called dad' was standing in front of Jaylynn the whole time yelling and pulling on her... Poor Jaylynn she had to give natural childbirth with no medical assistance!

Lance, he cut Jaylynn to stretch her out, so to get the baby away from this new mommy, with the same pair of dull school scissors. At that time, he took the helpless baby away from her, and said that he was going to get rid of it... and there was nothing she could do to stop it. Furthermore, he just let Jaylynn there sitting on the toilet to bleed to death, I guess that is when she had enough pain, and not long after that, she cut her wrist... and I lost two girls... to the curse of the Tower!

Maybe that is when my struggle with affection began. Raged Lance or as I called him walked away, but later that year he put a rifle in his mouth, and he blew his brains, and other things, all over his bedroom walls, on a life-size poster of my little daughter.

'So, what is the Tower it has a meaning, in the deck of cards, that I read, 'She!' is dark and ominous. She- 'The Tower' is the embodiment of disruption and conflict.

When this card shows up, you know that it is not a good change coming your way, more like the unforeseen and jarring movement caused by the unexpected and painful events, which are a part of life. 'The Tower' in life is always a threat, but life inevitably involves tragedy, and you must decide whether you will face it with grace or not as it is past down.' My life is presently in The Wheel of Fortune again meaning, that symbolically my life is about to start a new cycle, a transition. I also have 'The Lover's' card showing up in my reading of life; however, my lover is gone forever? What could this mean? The Lovers card may specify and important difficult choices ahead in my existence. –hum? This is bad really, the choices it foreshadows usually is an equally exclusively, paths of two very different futures. However, it is also really good too, in that it also confirms, that at least one of those paths may take me to a virtuous place. It likewise implies that I will fall in love again! However, who in the world, am I going to fall in love with?

Chapter: 35

My Vanished Girls

‘As a result, in all of this baby momma drama, I became a grandmother and a mourner all at the same time.’ When Kristen was born as a miniature three pounds and seven ounces’ baby, she was not given to me. I did not think the baby lived really... just like everyone else thought at the time. Not to forget I was grieving over the fact that my daughter was gone forever, there was a lot to think about that was boggling my mind. Therefore, Lance said that he would get rid of the baby, yet at the time, I did not know about any of it! Hence, Lance’s family secretly claimed Kristen telling everyone else that the baby died at the scene with Jaylynn. How was I supposed to know any differently? She became one of those kids. Lance's story was that since Jaylynn died first in suicide, that the baby was not born yet; and that she was born as a stillborn baby after the fact. Little did I know that the baby did live!

Lance’s mother stole baby Kristen away from me and her true mommy Jaylynn, which was the plan all along. Then she claimed Kristen as an adopted child. Consequently, just like always, because of who they were; no one questioned this incident, nor did anyone care about it. Only five people showed up for Jaylynn’s last showing myself included before she was placed on a white couch and driven up to the cemetery, and then covered over by the earth above. One person stands out from them all. This person that showed up at the funeral home was a younger high school boy named Greg; he walked up to Jaylynn as she was so peaceful in her deep sleep lying there with her hair off to the one side.

Her eyes were closed so tightly that you could see her long-curved eyelashes pointed skyward, in her baby blue coffin. She was an angel to look at even at that moment. I knew that she was looking over all of us! In addition to that, she was most likely looking at him and holding his hands with her spiritual touch, I could just feel it. He said that he felt the breeze of her presents.

He was crying hysterically from his hazel-sh almost jade green eyes! I remember he said that he was secretly in love with Jaylynn back to when she was a little girl. That he never got the chance to say that to her in person. I remember him placing one pink daisy in her box on top of her small, yet perky upward-facing breasts next to her motionless heart; with the bloom under her chin and her slight smile.

Along with that, then he slid an engraved promise ring on her finger as well; at that moment... one of his teardrops fell from his eyes on her petite hand, as he was holding it... not wanting to ever let go of her. That is love... if I ever did see it. Greg also whispered to me, that he never even got to kiss her as he always hoped to do, and that she was everything that he was looking for in a girl. Furthermore, he would never look for anyone else. That she was the one, and the only! The only thing I could say was; I thank you and follow your heart, and she will be watching over you.

Then he walked away... I never saw him again after that. You know I do not even know his last name. Still, I will always remember his face, and the look that was upon it that day, he was devastated. So, someone did care about her, someone truly loved her, and adored her, and it was taken away from him too. Why! Why oh God, why? Why didn't she see this when she was alive? 'Why is a question that has no answers, only just more unanswered questions?'

Ava Amsel Lance's mother kept Kristen locked up in a chamber, that was cold, damp, and dark; with only a light bulb hanging from the junction box, under a rusty tin roof. There was no bathroom, and the windows were covered up with wood planks; with the smell of shit everywhere, in that underground room. That was Kristen's existence in her beginnings of life.

Thus, that is where they keep the underprivileged kids underground, in the damp, dim, stony crawl space of a basement. Nobody knew how evil she was as a mother, however, Kristen did. The town thought Ava was the perfect mother, which is what became known.

Nevertheless, making up twisted stories was what she was all about, and really, the only thing she was good at. As well as keeping, something from others is also, what she was about to. Then one day it all changed, I got a knock on my front door, and by the time I got there, the woman was gone. They're sitting on my doorstep was my granddaughter... there she was alive in my sight. She was seven years old at that time; I recall that she was completely nude crying on my porch, and all she had on was Lily's other childhood ribbon in her hair. Then when I saw the ribbon, I knew what happened. Then she leaped into my arms, and it was love for me from that point on! I remember that Kristen had smashed fingers, and cut up legs, they used a taser gun on her... as well as her butt and vulva were bleeding from being chewed, fondled and penetrated repeatedly.

She was sold many times by Ava and was used as a slave for others thrills. She had to have virginity restoration surgery to regain her innocence so that someday she can be deflowered to whom she wants. She was only seven years old when the doctors put her under to do that, yet it was the right thing to do, for her.

The doctor, Dr. Fennel, said that he never saw anything like what he saw with her in his whole time in practice. I did not care how much it cost, I knew what it was like to have that taken away and, I did not want that for her to go through in her life.

Dr. Fennel- 'Undoubtedly, it looks like a mad dog attacked her! However, there are something's I am going to leave alone, therefore, it is not hurting her, and there is no reason to do anything medically to remove it. It would cause more damage to remove it I feel than to leave it there. I fixed the little sweetie up as well as I could. You know that no one would ever know, after she heals up, that she had this surgery. Yes, that is what we want for her definitely.'

Kristen, she was like a child prostitute for the clan. Besides, when she did not comply, she would face the wrath of all of them. Ava Amsel liked to pick her up by her matted hair, and smack her bare ass with her hands and other random objects until her butt was cherry red with blood, and she broke open her hymen back then too, as you know. Kristen remembers the blood running down her legs, and her getting all up in there with her fingers and also being held down, and chained to the wall, and bed headboard.

She was deflowered at the age of four. Way too young to lose her innocents by anyone... yet that is what happened, thanks to the Amsel's kids and they're whole fucked up, and perverted family, and the other kids that were around her.

I could just kill Ava for this, and smash her faultless face in, certainly to a bloody pulp, and not even blink I hate her that much! She and her other kids in her family used to say that they were going to bury her alive, out in the backyard; so, their three dogs could chew on her bones after they dug her small remains back up. One of their punishments was to spit chewed, chewing tobacco, and also other organic matter into her mouth... and indeed they made her swallow it all, and stick out her tongue to prove it was all gone.

Plus, if she would pee her bed at night for any reason, she used to make her march around in front of the entire family and all the boys... while she was telling Kristen that if she peed on the bed again she was going to cut her clitoris off with a pair of sewing scissors. Will they did not do that; however, they did put a ring horizontally through her clitoris with a needle and bottle cork. Hence, that is how they branded or identify their kids in their orphanage, with a ring that was permanent and impossible for them to remove.

Kristen said that it only pinched and hurt as they were doing it. I do not believe that... To this day, Kristen has that piercing; and she said that she doesn't mind it at all. Besides, her doctor said to leave it alone, and when she gets a little older, she can change the ring, just to be very gentle and careful with the little hole opening that was made through the over-sensitive tissue, when feeding the new jewelry through. We both felt that it would be best to go to a tattoo shop to have it redone when she was a teenager.

Now she finds it to be cute, she said that all she needed to do was find the right round ring, and that is what she did!

She got a silver one with a sparkly single pink stone in the ball bead fastener, the old one was just a black spiked end ball ring and a small gray number tag, she was number- (G-K-14.) G- for a girl, K- for Kristen and the 14 for the fourteenth girl they had in the basement. You know what... that is all I have to say about that. It truly troubles me how others, in this case, a kid was treated by others that should be role models, yet they are monsters.

Nevertheless, they get away with it all, it happens all around us every day, and no one sees it or chooses to do anything about it; for her, it was all part of the houses of horrors. My recollection of that day... oh my, her eyes were bloodshot, she was balling with teardrops running down her cheeks. You could see the human teeth marks on her skin from the others that pecked and poked at her. I said who are you- and she trembled out the name Kr-is-te-n!

This was like déjàvu for me, really it was. I did not know how to feel; what could I feel I was numb to what to think; if it was the emotion of being delighted or horrified? She was just left there standing cold and lonely, with the unsympathetic November rain and orange, yellow, and red leaves falling around her as the rain hit her on her small chest, face, and delicate figure. I remember that attached to her wrist was a note... saying this is your granddaughter; this worthless pile of shit is your obligation now!

'I do not want to take care of it- (G-k-14) any longer. For the reason that it (G-k-14) is no use for me any longer. It-(G-k-14) is what we call used up, and no longer a use for us. It-(G-k-

14) is no longer desirable for the male buyer's needs, or the needs of the other progenies we have. It-(G-k-14) has been released, rather than dismissing to expiry.'

'The crazy bitch' did not even refer to Kristen as she, her, or a human girl; she just called her... 'It! - (G-k-14)' Plus, if they would not have chosen to release her, they would have killed her, and put her stripped down in the mass grave they have in the backyard because the only other thing she could have been for them would have been to be a young birth mother. Likewise, they did not want any more kids that were related to me.

Why- I do not know! Maybe it has something to do with the blood type? For years, I thought my granddaughter was deceased; that was what the wright up in the cyber gazette babbled, along with the cops said. For about seven years this woman and the family along with the other kids would stomp, beat, slam, and tie-down my grandbaby, to a bed, and Ava would twist her feet and limbs until the bones would crunch; and her heels would be where her toes should be, it is a wonder she can even walk. I believe that they would even inject her with tranquilizers to make easier for all of them to rape her. Kristen without her even knowing that she could have gotten away from the hysteria, but because she had a fear of the wrath, she never attempted to leave. Furthermore, if she tried, she was always chased down and locked back up. I am just happy she is alive!

Chapter: 36

It's the little things

From that day, approximately ten years have passed, I would have to say that I am about sixty-five now, in this life, yet age these days is just a number, that does not count for much. It is the little things that count, they show the way; just like the little girl in the doorway, like the little dream that has not gone away. Just like the little girl, and her hopes and dreams, that came true because she knew how to pray; for a day she came home with me to stay. What could I do? I was not going to leave her out in the rain, plus how could I resist that lovable little girl. She could not help who her daddy was; she just had a way of melting my heart, and I guess she always will. I do believe that if it would not have been for this little girl, I would have given up on life a long time ago as you may have guessed. I have seen her grow up; every day was a discovery.

'We lived and learned, life threw curves, yes there was joy, and yes there was hurt, oh how I remember when.' I remember when she was ten living life through twists and turns, and all she wanted to do was run through the golden fields wild and carefree, free and open to the heavens above. I remember when she turned thirteen and became a mischievous teenager, that included curling her hair and wearing eyeliner and soft pink lipstick, she was a young lady and looking for lust. Now that she is nearing the age of seventeen a young woman, she does not need me as much as she used to; I guess that my mission in life is over. Life goes by like a blink of an eye. I did the best I could, but I often wonder if my best was good enough this time too. Sometimes I cannot help but wonder if she is going to be the next young girl on the list of heartbreak, because of the curse of the tower, or has she gone through all her pain?

Just about every day Kristen and I sit down at the dining room table, and I tell her stories of back in the day. We have the same meal of canned soup, canned peaches, and Pepsi in you guessed it a can. I have not had a home-cooked meal in years. Every morning I have peanut butter and jelly sandwich doubled over, and with a cup of instant black coffee with three spoons full of fake sugar; that so strong it could walk. It makes me want to cough when it is going down, I do not need to eat or drink.

Nonetheless, I do, and then I start popping my peals, that keeps me going through the day or so they say, and to keep my broken heart going pitter and pat or so it seems to everyone else, with a few extra beats in-between, I do not have a heartbeat as you know. Yet to them they think that is what is wrong with me medically, I just play along, it stress-free that way! That reminds me that I have not slept in a bed for years; I sleep in my chair in the living room looking out the window. The bed has not been used after my husband's death, the new sheets I put on have never been slept in, and the bed has a canopy in a soft purple color... just the way we always wanted it to be.

Why?

You ask; because that was the bed, we planned on being in together every night, and I do not like sleeping alone, I always loved to cuddle up. I miss him far too much when being in that room, on that bed; I just cannot even go in there, without breaking down.

I remember when we were young, and we first started to sleep together in the same bed. Us we were uncovered with the only cover on top of us being the soft cotton sheets it was awkward and exhilarating... there were nights when I thought I had a heart that's pounding just like the drum solo in Soundgarden's song Spoonman!

My heart has not to beat like that in many, numerous decades. Yes, I kind- of miss those days, what can I say. I have had so many days in my life's no wonder they started to blur together. Yet it felt like my stalled hart hit so hard and fast I could not sleep: because of the intimacy, we had... just being pressed upon one another. 'We were like two perfectly fitting spoons in the kitchen drawer.'

Then the morning would roll in, and we would cuddle together looking out our big arched picture window looking over the oak tree, the sun rises, and the golden land below. Then the birds would sing as if just for us; as if their lovely songs where them approving of us being together in our bed.

Plus, not long after, that I would fall fast asleep with me wrapped around him. Then he wrapped around me in the sweetheart cuddling position. Yes, that was what we did; I could never forget that no matter how long I live. Sundays, we just liked to be lazy, and go for walks on the old abandoned railroad tracks at that time we held Jaylynn's little hand between us, and we both would raise her and swing her back and forth ever so slightly.

Then she would giggle and shout saying the word 'Weeee!' I can still hear her saying, 'I love you momma, and dad- da...!' in her baby talk. Aww- how adorable, those days go by, and time can do so much. They were righteous days, what can I say! That jogs my memory for me, for seven years, Kristen lived with a mattress all most on the floor, and the headboard was attached to the wall, with a four-foot dog chain, that would attach to her ankle and the other kids had chains too, this is what they called bedtime, they were unchained from nine AM to seven PM. The time in between, they all were attached to their beds, two boys and two girls lined up bare naked in one single bed, which is how they lived most of the time.

With only one thin blanket if they were ever so lucky to be given one, she and her bedmates were fortunate to have a pillow; sometimes during her misery, she did not even have those things. They had this bedroom in that house, which they would take the young girls into for the dirty old men to do what they wanted. That is if they choose to buy them, the girl... that is for sessions of any kind of sex they ask them to do, the girls that would complain or not comply would be beaten until they were killed, by Ava and her mother, the demons would come out in their rage!

Ava and her mother love to snack on the boys and girls, for their blood, and kill them for their soul! They had a pick on the girls more than the boys, mainly for accessibility reasons. You can figure that one out on your own. Then they would suck out their blood from you know where and drink it, and bury all of them out in the backyard, and cover them over like they were nothing to them, or for the dogs to eat. They would even chop and hack them up for dog food, and blend them in a blender.

That is a true story Kristen seen them do that to a five-year-old girl, with her own eyes! Yes, I have to believe her... that is too creepy and insane not to be true! The men buyers they could choose what girl they wanted, and for how long they wanted, the price starting at fifty dollars went up for each act more they wanted to perform on them, or for the girl to perform on them. Every day she was given a bit of old bread, with coffee dumped on top, and that was all she got in one day as a meal. She never even had a dress to wear on her tiny body, the poor kids that were in the basement, they did not have clothing given to them, like the others that live in the upper levels of that house.

They did this to her because of me? I still do not know what their problem was with me. Anyways- Ha- ha, getting her to keep a dress on was difficult, but out here in the county of the golden hayfields, she was able to run free and play in the mud all she wanted to, I did the same thing to in the rain when I was a young girl; just a tomboy! She was crazy wild, and I was going too- in a way break her of all that, and raise her to be a respectable girl. This was my chance to make up for the past; I was not going to fail again, not with her!

All life is just like the footprints in the snow as you look back, sometimes you see two sets, and sometimes not. Now and then, you look back on the path that is your life, and you only see one set of deep prints.

However, they are not your prints. I have come to realize and believe, that is when I was carried, through the hard and difficult times, by my angels, or by the Lord himself. Should I, or could I? Did I need to get another love? Should I have found someone new to be with romantically? Was there any need for another man in my life? Well, I will leave that up to you to figure out. Just remember it is not always, what you do that stops you from what you wanted in life. Sometimes in my case, it is something or someone that has been there, and they are pulling at you.

Just remember that he saved me from total and complete destruction, so just think about that. Then you will know how I feel about other relationships or letting them get into deep with me. So, that is a no I never had another man in my life romantically. Furthermore, afterward, you look back on life and think, maybe I should have done this, or maybe I should have done that, do not waste your time. It is all meant to be even if you cannot foresee it all. The journey is not always clear, however, I always got where I wanted to go, I remember a time when I had an opportunity to find love again in a living form.

But- then I would hear the voices calling out saying ‘Listen you do not need to talk to them... okay. Do not try to ask them on dates or anything... I am all you need... and truthfully I still feel that he was all I ever needed and everything I wanted to be with.’

Life tip- You need to make yourself listen to what you want to hear, even if it is difficult to move on. Life is a fight for what you want. As well as when you find true love, do not let it pass you by, and if you had true love does not give it up for anyone. Besides, if you want it... you are going to have to battle them all... all the haters just to keep your love alive, remember sometimes you need to let go of the past. However, remember to keep all the good memories that you had together, try to never forget them. I will never forget you all... never- ever.

Over the years, I have come to see it as it is not a true relationship if the person is afraid of what they can and cannot do. All the same, remember that just because it is that way in the stars then does not mean shit, in the end, everything changes in a moment, life goes by so recklessly, it is the little things, which matter! Only the little things. No matter how bad something is, the good is always coming!

‘All you need is a little faith, and the little things will become all the good big things in your life someday!’

Chapter: 37

Expression of the bygone

All relationships are going to end naturally or not. It is all up to you and what you want, I choose to stay in this relationship forever, and doing it is too difficult sometimes. Just remember you have choices in life. So, what are you going to listen to your inner voice or the ones that are all around you and me?

It is just like we all needed to get off the cyber walls and take our life's back. The webbed walls where doing nothing but showing names with faces that label others with either good or bad stigmas, it could not be deleted, and it would follow you everywhere you went... even if you had a past that was made up by someone else it remained with you. It needed to end; it was ripping the world apart. I still believe that we all need to find real friends in person if you can in this day and age, we should not spend all of our free time looking at faces on a screen, that are deceiving what true thoughts of friendship should stand for. Please remember they are not your so-called friends... they are not your friends on there at all, if you do not or cannot talk to them in real life.

Then what in the hell makes, you think you can chat with them on the webbed walls of the internet, and not real life? They are just there to look into your business, so stop being stupid. They do not care about you at all. They are stopping you from achieving your desires in your life, by talking or chatting behind your back, and how do you truly know what they are saying if you are like blocked out, or who it is that is saying it. They do not care about you! So, I ask why should you care about them by having them on a profile or friends list; it is useless and completely immature?

For instance, as you can be in someone's photo on the walls from the past, yet they do not want you to be tagged with them because of what others might say, or think. Therefore, they go into that album and they delete the photo altogether or remove you from the tag. Thus, you are not a friend or a human being. In my opinion, they are just a despicable asshole, or someone, which cannot think for themselves. You understand- right? I remember back then some would block me from their profile, really- like whom the hell do you think you are?

Do you think that you are better than me? Just summing it all up, you all need to realize that your complete little world, which you lived in, does not mean anything to anyone. You all need to know that I do not need to know everything about how you are or what you are doing. I do not need to see your, photos, whom you are dating, and if you are single or taken, what religion you say you believe in, and who your so-called friends are to you, I truly do not give a shit.

Remember that you are the ones that choose to post all of that to the world. Therefore, if you do not want everyone seeing your condescending shit, then stop posting everything to the world for everyone to see.

I can assure you that no one gives a shit about you, and whom you are banging every night, and if they do, then they are the ones that are creepy- right? I think so... keep all your photos, notes and stories in a book, which means more to you than anyone else; it is more unique that way. That reminds me, just like the shit that can happen in this town, and all you have is two choices in making a complaint. One is going to the independent police; that does absolutely nothing, but drink free coffee and eat free donuts.

As well as, stalk the blameless people in their cars, and pick on the innocent, like me, and Kristen. It is like we are followed, yet never questioned, so far that look on their faces is that of, we will get you for something! As well as the other one- number two is filing a complaint with the borough of 'The Land of Many Steeples.' So far, they are so corrupt, that nothing is going to be done, to help the people of the town. Most of the council and mayor can be overthrown at any time, by the ones that have so-called more power or the ones that they fear; as it has always been here. However, it is not like they can come to an intelligent decision anyways of what to do. Yet they have power over us and it is out of control, and that is a true statement, just look around, and you will see!

The voice that follows you is the one that you choose to listen too. What you have to say about yourself means more, the word friend can mean that there- is good ones and evil ones. All you need to do is recollect about that statement, and you will see that it is true.

Do not spend your time looking at photos or of people, that you can never have in your life, or that do not want you in theirs, all I can say is take back your freedom! Whatever happened to the old days? I remember every day we use to hold hands while walking from our bed into the bathroom, and we would get into the hot tub and bathe together in candlelight, with me lying on top of him, that was one of those good old days.

Oh, how we would soap each other up, and he really liked it when he was lying back, and I was bent over with my head under the faucet when I was washing my hair. Yah he was a butt-man what can I say... we were so playful when we were young, and he was with me!

Hitherto, those days' change.

The water would splash as we touched each other everywhere ever so gently all around each other's most ticklish parts. A hand lightly flicking over my raised nipples. Under the water you can see him rubbing my clit in the opposite directions, then his hand moves' up my tummy, and slightly tickle brush me as they go under my armpits. He away nibbles on my one nipple, now I am completely leg wrapped sitting on him in the bath. He was behind me rubbing my whole body with his hands, kissing me on the neck and cheeks, whispering in my ear, I bite my bottom lip, moving the movements of sweet love, as he was squeezing my boobs, I go from behind to the front his penis was pointed up, hitting my tummy, as I hold his face with my small hands... Once again, we were two lovers creating a feeling of warmth, and intimacy, just being happy being together. Then we kiss, with much passion, my hair wet, I glide hump up and down on him and it on my tummy as we sit. His soft fingers on my butt cheeks.

Then he holds me in the middle of my back arm wrapped as he sucks' in my nipple longer, then he picks me up, like a little girl that I am, I am hugging his neck and have my legs wrapped around his back, as his penis bonging un my butt crack. Still kissing and moving to the feelings within us for each other. I flip out my weather in the hold with my nick going for a long desire kiss.

He kisses my lower lips with his lips, it feels good. I arch my back to his licking, my tongue glides up and down the shaft, rimming the head, then I go all the way down, bobbing for his sighing, I love when there are strings of my spit hanging being pulled away by me- from my lips all attached, then I squeeze him and below the tip. I lick from the bottom up to the bell- end.

He is stalking my hair and I feel his chest, the look on his face is all love and hot lust. I give him a hand rub and then stick it back down in my self- lubed warm mouth, my teeth riming the rim... like my tongue like up and down the full length of seven inches, and yes that goes all own my sweltering- like trout, like what my vagina is doing, as it in the air and exposed to his touch, I stop sucking to kiss him and he takes it, and start sucking it again.

I lick his tummy and him awe-a!

I lick his balls to be in my mouth also, I was worried about this yet he likes it. Then we just fuck- with me on top sliding his hand derating, hugging tightly, me arching my back hips down and it's always down and out, move to the jotting... as I make it go in and out as it comes in from behind fast and then slow. Butt grabbing, slapping, wet wells of mine bidding up to orgasm- over and over as he does inside. AMAZING! We even did it in the sitting passion, where its ling me banging on him in a hug. WONDERFUL- I said- 'Come here and kiss me.' he is now on top after the big and last moment where you can see it all running out of me, her an up-close shot.

~*~

Though no one in this town could stand it, I wonder why?

Speaking of bathing... Every night Chiaz would give Jaylynn a bubble bath when she was a younger girl about ten years old and back, it sticks out in my memory.

He would help her take off all of her close from the day. Besides, he would loosen, straighten, and undo her hair, which was in pigtails, one on each side with his fingers. Yeah, they were close, she preferred him over me. You know he was the perfect dad!

Then he would bath her; she would splash water everywhere and she would jump around from laying on her stomach with her but in the air, to sitting, as he tried to clean her up and wash her hair, she was a handful. Plus, then he would pick her up out of the tub she would be dripping and wiggling around, and she would get him all wet as she would cling around him hugging him around the neck with her arms fastened, and her legs around his lower chest.

Then he would put her down to stand up for herself, and dry her off with a big fluffy pink and brown polka-dotted towel. Also, then he would simply put nothing more on her than a single light pink nightgown over her body; and it had the Disney's Minnie Mouse on it with little bows; because that is all she wanted to wear to bed. As she got older as a teenager, it just became a single white T-shirt of his, which ended above her knees. Anyways then, he would then carry her to her room every night, and he would tuck her in with her stuffed animal. We would read her a bedtime story from a book. As well as we would kiss her on the forehead, and say good night, sleep tight... honey! As well as, she would say night-e Night! Sometimes I wish for those days back again, because after he was gone... everything changed; and not for the good as you no. Oh hum- you know she always said that she did not want to live a day without her daddy being there for her. A lot of little girls love their daddy, just a little more. Okay, that is enough of my ramblings. There is someone, I want you to meet! So, be kind to her, please.

Just Like Reflections

Hello everyone, I am Kristen! I live with my grandma; I am all she has at this point, I know that she is a good person, but I think she is a little too grumpy for her good. Nevaeh- Kristen has a very high- pitched squeaky voice also, that is so adorably cute, and unlike any other girl, I ever knew. Her hand can fit into the palm of my hand, her giggling laugh is the only thing that warms me, and feels the emptiness in the space of my heart. Just like a snare drum, I am not so hollow when around her. She just has a way of making my day complete. Without her I would not have any beat or cadence to play, she is the rhythm to my melody; she is the girl that I always wanted, in my life.

Kristen, your mom was a lot like you! She had blue eyes, however, yours are hazel green. But, just like your mom you are so damn sweet to everyone, she was just like you! Yet you are just like me. Back then, she was all I wanted in my life along with your granddad. But, instead, she had to walk out the door with your dad.

Just remember this...

Kristen- 'True love should not be such a game; you need to feel the same about one another.' 'Just remember you were not an accident, you were meant to be, and so you could be with me. We are there for each other.' After Kristen goes to her room at night, I look out my window in the summer, and my wondering eyes overlook the honey golden fields, that splashes the sunlight in my eyes. Before my eyes blink the sunsets, and the darkness comes to let me know that I am sitting here in my home feeling alone. In addition to that, the memories of the past start playing in my mind.

Hope!

She- must have felt the same way back in the day, as I do now. I think about my first kiss, that meant so much to me, I think about us that night under the bridge, that is along the walkway where we made love. I remember all the sights of beauty that were worth beholding; they will forever exist in my memory. Yet this body of mine is deteriorating, like sand ever so slowly. I have become what I never thought I would become; I have become a person just like Hope! Now I see what her life was like; now I know why she was the way she was with me, all times in history seemed to repeat, along with people that are a part of that history. Do you know what I mean?

(One day has passed.)

Kristin, she is like the colorful blossoms on my tree of life now! Look at this house, look at the life I have had what does it stand for... what?

What do you think it stands for Kristen? Asked by- Nevaeh? Kristen said- 'I do not know yet, you have not said anything yet that makes any sense to me. But, that is okay I still love - yah!'

Nevaeh- So just to have her know, that I am even there even now that is what I call love. Wishing her a good night, and some sweet dreams even though she is not a little girl anymore, is what I live for; and seeing what the next day brings with her beside me, is what I look forward to, she is my life my existence now. I like to tell her that love it should be that cupid's arrow, which strikes at a most unlikely time; or you may realize that they have been in front of you all along. That is what love is all about. I like to tell her that a relationship will change her in many ways for good or bad.

That it is a time when a new relationship looks like it is about to deliver on the promises, that come with it. Life may never be the same again without them.

Nevaeh- asked Kristen- 'What is love to you?'

Kristen- Okay I remember the first time I had sex it was in the store's men's bathroom where I work at, on the floor with this boy. Yah he was riding me, and going in so hard; I had my legs lifted up and on top of his shoulders.

Nevaeh- Oh god! I do not need to know that... said Nevaeh, that is not romantic, that is a sick girl. You are not even seventeen yet!

That shit should have been priceless to you, and it should have been precious to you also, and saved for marriage or the right one! At least love the guy! I cannot believe you would waste that moment.

Kristen- you asked, and oh, Grandma you are so old fashion... plus he was so cute... it is not like that at all; it was not that type of love- I do not consider that, love at all.

Yes, maybe so... whispered Nevaeh... however, in my day we would have not even thought about doing such a thing in that way, without knowing you are in love with them, regardless of what you did. No- do not tell me, I do not want to know.

Kristen- Maybe you're right, maybe I should have loved him, all we were was just friends with benefits maybe more I have to see what happens. Though I do not think that being romantic is dead these days, it does exist I hope so anyway.

I also believe as you do that you just need to be with the right guy, which can show you what real expressions of love is! But I do think like you, that it is hard to find these days when you are afraid to make a move; because you never know what will turnabout and happen.

Nevaeh- Oh yes to be under the spell of a girl or guy is like getting hit below the belt, when you have a love like this see, it is going to be like instant nausea. That is what I told her. Yet I know that she is going to be the only one that I can love, she is it the one, the only one.

The only girl that I need to be around now other than my angels.

However, the others still haunt me and tease me every so often. They toy with me and play around in my dreams and my day- to- day household tasks.

That reminds me that I am all alone in my old age, and Kristen has grown up too fast and will be moving on without me, that day is coming too soon.

So maybe I should get some more pet cats, and become that crazy cat lady, they say I am.

Kristen's father Lance does not speak to me as a spirit; as far as I am concerned, he can burn in hell in the lake of fire, for what he did to my daughter and granddaughter. I have nothing, nothing at all to say to him never- ever!

So, when it comes to spirits that I can channel it just depends on who they were, and what they choose to be in life. Some do not want to be heard and others do not shut up.

Just like thinking about Jaylynn back in the days, we had together before the beginning of the end. Ha, I am getting a vision, oh yes- I remember this day, Kristen comes here, and let me tell you about this story.

One night in the graveyard, your mom told me about the time that she nearly drowned when she was fourteen years old.

Back then, I had no idea that lance your dad would come into this house, and would watch as your mom was bathing, and he would hold her down under the water in the bathtub, by her hair if he did not get what he wanted.

That was the first time he laid his hands and fingers on her, or so your mom said to me.

Kristen- 'How do you know that?'

Nevaeh- 'I just do!'

I guess after your granddad's death, I did not see anything clearly, just as she was under the water; I had that same view in my mind. So, that must have been the same night and the way they conceived you, Kristen.

Kristen- 'That's a bizarrely vile grandma!'

Nevaeh- To this very day I could slaughter that boy for what he did to my lovely little girl, or at least beat him over the head with my shoe, yeah that would work.

There is nothing like a spur from your boot, going into the side of their temple, to show your hatred. -am I right? Yes, I speculate I will always be a farm girl at heart, sort- of- speak! No one will take that away from me, not even in this day and age. Nonetheless, that did not stop me from dropping my pants and squatting down to the ground and spraying piss on, and as well as all over his grave and gravestone! Yes, she even did it too.

Ha- that could be one for the photo album he- he. Now that is funny! That maybe Kristen's father, but I have no respect for the man and neither does Kristen... no one will if it is up to me. Do not get me wrong I respect the ones that should be respected, I will honor them... I like to put flowers on the graves for all of my loved ones. One day I added white handmade wooden crosses with solar lights for them so that their bodies are never in darkness, their souls are not there, yet it shows I care, they see that. Thinking back on the years, that has past and I have forgotten about this but Jaylynn would sing to me, she had the voice of an angel!

You know that Kristen looks, and sounds just like her... I do believe that reincarnation is possible... do you? So, I gave Kristen all the poems I have, because she would hide them under her pillow anyway, plus now they have been made into songs, that Kristen plays for me on this old piano; that sits here in the living room, it's been here as long as I could remember. Speaking of musical instruments to this day- I still have Jaylynn's old Fender Stratocaster guitar, the wood is now cracked on the fingerboard of the neck, and the high E string is broken, it most likely will never play a song in tune again. However, Jaylynn had painted a gorgeous white-winged angel on it, and she signed it with her name, also she added an X and O.

I always knew her heart was in the right place. He was the way she is... the way she is, now. You know I do not have the heart to throw it away; it was played with love and compassion by her. So, I plan on giving it to Kristen, so that maybe we can get it working again if I have the energy. It is on my to-do list! A list that seems to get longer as my days are getting shorter. I remember back in my life there were days, that I just wanted to get up and run into the sunset and never look back... there were days that I just wanted to scream at everyone at the hellhole.

There were days where I was running from myself... there were days I was running to him for love and understanding, and there were days that I was running away from everything that the tower started.

We all have been running for our lives.

Running never stopping not even to look up, other than to eat, sleep and shit and piss the day away. Nevertheless, this running so fast in this sprint, my loved ones and I collapse to the track below and was not able to finish our marathon, the way it should have been.

Yet I feel that I am still walking to get where I am going, but I like them to contemplate if it is taking us anywhere, or aiding anyone in away. I have learned to slow down now, now that they are not behind me so much, and take it all in, and let it go for the most part. Some are gone from the race, and some stay to watch to the bittersweet end. Run! Run! -away from the throbbing hurt, run away from the reflection that is you, that is so much like me! Run- I say, run and never- ever look back, you can never look back!

Chapter: 39

What I am Truly Living For

It is interesting that when Kristen is asleep, I check in on her often. You know there is nothing more comforting than hearing her snoring away, she is so adorable, in every way! I do this for two reasons, one that I have a hard time sleeping at night, or sleeping at all. Two- that I want to make sure that she is still breathing, because- I do not think I could take another loss or heartbreak.

What is left of my motionless heart is just too weak, and she is the only one that I love left in my life. I look around the room, and the white long lace curtains are still on the windows and they are tied back, with lavender ribbons, and the windows are up and open, without worry, I can feel the breezes and see the lacy dance in that soft draft blowing around the octagon part of the room. Where my old wood desk with the typewriter on top is located, not much has changed other than the young girl in the bed. That is the only bedroom that is used in these three-bedroom farmhouses now.

I know that she is content, holding her teddy bear, under her canopy bed, she may be seventeen in two weeks, but as for now, she will always be my little girl. The crystal chandelier is dimmed as low as it can go, with a slightly flickering soft glimmering creamy dim light of warmth. So, now that I know that everything is okay, I shut the door keeping it cracked slightly.

Before I will shuffle my feet back down the staircase, making my way back to my old lazy boy chair, which is in the living room, the room where I spend most of my days now. Then I am going to stare out the window, at the obscure blackened lands until the sunrise's ones again... so that I know that I have seen another day, and I can recall all the memories once more. As the fog lifts and the rays' shine through my window like it did when I was a young girl.

I remember- Hope saying to me when I was a girl 'Early to bed and early to rise, she'll make us healthy, wealthy, and wise.' Hope used to say that to me every night; I still try to believe that is so... maybe. Nonetheless, I cannot help but scratch my head and mutter in my mind these very questions. Just because one is wealthy, does not mean that they need to be a dick to everyone that has less- right? Just because one is healthy, does not mean that they cannot become deathly sick- right?

Plus, some smart people are not very wise at all as you should know that- right? So, that saying just does not work for me. Likewise sleeping it is something that has become more of a need for me, but it is hard to obtain. Because not many out there know what it is like to have younger transparent ghostly like angels in transparent white all up in your face; being playful and animated around you all the time. Even when I take my glasses off, they are showing up on my face as clear as day. It makes it hard to slumber throughout the night. But that is okay... what can I say, I do not need it anyways, yet it would help me look more rested- I presume.

Why?

For the reason that I am going to realize that, I am all alone when I am not alone. That even the dreams, which I have, are just as painful as being awake. Not painful as being injured or cut, but painful in its emotional and psychological makeup. So, undervaluing it can be difficult, and it is straining on my old dying brain to grasp what to make of it all. So, most of the time, I just put the music player on, which is part of the wall screen television. Then listen to the ancient classic rock station that is way up in the thousands, softly in the background.

Yes, as I sit like a stone and I ponder everything, just like a stone skipping over a smooth pond that I tossed back in the days, I went in the garden, I sink into the vision depths of the past, just like a pebble. Just like a Chicago song; Jaylynn is my inspiration, Kristen she is now what gives me my life meaning, and she is the only thing that gives me any feeling. So, without her, I am just an empty body. I can still see Hope's husband dragging on his tobacco pipe, with it off to the one side in his mouth. I recall what he said when I was a little girl not long before he passed... he was a bitter person, to say the least.

'You will never be contented because you say dumb things, and do dumb things.' I often wonder if he was right or not. Sorry to say that I have never missed that man at all; all these years, some souls do not deserve to rest in peace. 'It is just like every saint is a sinner that keeps on trying for their worthy nobility.' 'Just like every cop is a criminal.' Just like everyone gets a turn, in time good or bad.' So, I guess what the real question is- what is coming after you?

Do you know or are you clueless? See I disagree with what he said about me because at least I knew what was coming in my life. Yet he did not see it coming to it was too late. So, he was the dumb shit not me, when you think about it! I never regretted leaving home with my love, and I never stopped loving him either; unlike he did with hope, she knew about it. But she did not care about anything other than housework... let's just say he was playing around with another family's daughter, that he should not have been playing with, and the stresses were too much for him to take on. I will let you put the pieces together for yourself. You know - That girl always did get what she wanted! Yes, even an old man!

Chapter: 40

Past Doors in My Heart

So yes, I still go to the same church, which I have gone to all my life; and I give what I can. I sit in the back, with Kristen by my side; she is the only youth there. It seems that faith is gone away, just like everything else in this land. I have paid for all my sins, and that is what I want Kristen to know; I always tried to do the right things at all times. That I liked to think before I do something; because you never know... you just may have to live with it all your life, and it stays with you forever. Then when I go back to my home it is just like clockwork, I can hear Jaylynn whispering, saying I am still with you, and I love you, I l-ov-e you!

It is drawn out, and sweet and soft as well as lingering and haunting. It makes the hair on my arms stand up. Yet it is stimulating and yet melancholy all at the same time. Kristen must think that I am going completely loopy or plum loco... ha, ha, and ha! Well, I am getting older; she thinks that all old people are irrational. Hell, I was the same way at her age. Saying that- 'I hope I would die before I get old.' Who in the hell used to say that good shit? Well, I cannot remember... was it the Who? I have seen a lot come and go in my life; I just wish I could remember all of it though. I never really wanted to live a day without Chiaz next to me, I remember one of my dates with him; I remember we went to this little amusement park, which has the oldest standing... to this very dayside friction wooden roller coaster, it was built in 1902.

Oh, yes, I remember it has these big old comfy train cars, that sit two in the front and two in the back, they rattle back and forth on the track. However, we loved it because you could not help but bump into one another's hips, and put your hands on one another's knees and legs. That was the first time he put his hand down the front of my skirt and groped my one breasts through my pink striped spaghetti strap tank top. I think of us spending the day at that park; and seeing all the lights come on at night on all the rides, on those summer nights. I recall that everything on that ride was done by hand. Like them pushing the car on the chain to go up the lift hill of 41 feet. I recall that the stopping was done by a man. Which would pull on a handle to have the wood brakes grind the train car to a halt when you were coming into the station.

The roller coaster next to the lake has a top speed of 15 miles per hour not fast, but it was romantic for its day, I remember back to those days I have lived far too long. On this roller coaster was the first time I put my arm around him, and we became more than friends. That last leap you get airborne and get to snuggle up with your love and squeeze what you like. I know what I had my hand on!

Us... holding hands, with me holding cotton candy.

Us... drinking soda out of the same bottle.

Us... kissing repeatedly as we walk along.

Us... riding on the double-decker carousel, with the sound of the Wurlitzer band organ playing its cheerful medley in the background.

Us... in the same rocking seat on the huge Ferris wheel snuggled up.

Us... going to the water park in our swimsuits.

Us... going down all the highest slides, with me in front and him in back of me as we were on the same inner-tube together.

Us... going on the little steam train to get cooled off, while it chugged and puffed along, as we were riding through the trees with me sitting on his lap.

Us... is no longer, but he is with me forever. I do remember when we were...

Us!

(For months has passed)

Kristen- I cannot get away from my boyfriend he is not my true love, or lust, or much of a boyfriend. He is more like my stocker, which I am in a relationship with the kind of. I am all he wants and all he wants is one thing from me, and that is not what I want from him. Yah- you know what that one thing is, that is stopping me from telling him off. It is that I am afraid of what he might do to me if I do get away and he finds me, yet I must get away I have too. Sometimes I just wish I could fly away from here like a bird... and nest somewhere new, and start a family of my own. But that is not going to happen anytime soon with what I have to put up with. Yet I have gotten to see what it is like to have a real man! Because I think, I am in love with someone else, yes, I am more than seventy percent sure, that I love him. I have a plan, and it is not going to be easy for me to do. But it is what has to be done; if I want to live another free day or live at all.

Matt Shezor is his name, he is my boyfriend of about two years, and it started so good, the way it should, and just went downhill from there... now I am trapped. He doesn't love me at all...

He is related to Melvin somehow, but that is not important right now.

All I know is that I NEED to GETAWAY! I WANT to be with someone ELSE... but I CANNOT! Besides, me saying I can't doesn't work for me at all, I cannot say that I love him anymore. I do not know if I loved him at all.

Nevaeh- Sometimes I get so preoccupied trying to make everything perfect in doing my everyday routines. That I forget to appreciate the things, which are already perfect. Maybe that is why nothing in my life stays that way? What is PERFECTION? All I know is that I had it in my life and LOST it all. Nothing in my life is perfect the towers hexes always find a way to exterminate them all from me one way or another. The clan friends always find away... yes to END IT ALL for me. My mind is achy half on and half off, most of the time. Now that she has gone way. My dreams are the true reality. So, it seems to me, then when I am awakened, I am frightened by what I do not see, and curious about what I do. Yet I am so proud of her for doing what she HAS TO DO.

No- my words cannot explain the true emotions that I feel towards her, as of now. I said to Kristen do not THROW your life away!

Just for me to be happy if you are unhappy. Go-! go and be happy! This is what you want, and what you need to do then- OKAY! Like always what she is going to do it is all out of my hands. Nonetheless, you can only TALK to someone like her so much. I am not going to hold her back now or ever; it is her life. Young people are going to do what they want to do. I was the SAME WAY back in the day, ha... but she does not need to know that. It is just my time to move on. Furthermore, I lose another girl I love. Just to think that my little girl is going to be having her seventeenth birthday, it just seems like yesterday, that she was on my doorstep, so much has changed since then. So, this is what is taking place just like me, Kristen had her boyfriends on and off. Yes, all was fine with all of them or so we thought.

However, the one that wanted her the most is the one that did not want a baby or marriage, yet he did not want to let her go. I think because he was one of them or a friend of theirs! Matt, he did not want to find someone else, after two years of dating my granddaughter, and doing the same things over and over you get sick of a guy's bullshit. I believe that he had a mission to kill Kristen, and he was not going to rest until the job was done. His family always believed that I was the reason that Melvin died.

Why?

I do not no...? Maybe it was; because Melvin and I had a one-night stand not long before...? I guess I was blamed for that too. Maybe, it is just what has been passed down, from clan to towering clan? Maybe, it is because I and Chiaz ran away and got married, and they were jealous of us, that we got away with all of it?

Maybe, I am just losing my mind! It is just like... have you ever been in love, yet you had to let them go, and start a new life once more? Yet knowing that not far away is all the pain, hatred, and the obsession is still out there trying, so hard to get at you, or them. This was on my mind a lot back then with Kristen so-called a boyfriend. He drives up in a piece of shit car, and honks the horn three times; and my sweet innocent granddaughter goes running out the door in a short skirt, to him like he is the only guy in the world.

Matt is the ass hole that deflowered my little girl. I cannot stand him! We have told him to stay away; nevertheless, he keeps coming back like a bad dream. Matt is a cocky blue-balled punk. Call me old-fashioned, but I still think that when you take a girl out you should meet her at the door of the home, and walk her to the door, and even open the carriage door for her. If a boy would have, done that back in my day... my God! He would never hear the end of it. It is just not right. How things have changed. Not only that but Matt expects her to pay for the date, the food or whatever they do. Plus, then he wants to bump, grind, and hump on Kristen too. -Good, God! Talk about selfish, yet she thought at the time that he is the only one with one in his trousers.

They're young and dumb with nothing more than horny puppy-like lust. Back in my day, you walked the girl up to the door, and maybe you got a little kiss, now these a days' these kids put their tongue down each other's throats, along with other things on the first date. Yes, it is sickening to see and hear about. I remember that one day I told him that- 'I have bolt cutters in the basement, and I am not afraid to use them on you.' That is what I said to Matt. It did not do any good...

'He just said- 'You would like that wouldn't you.' That was the very day about two months back, they both went and they got back in his car that was in the yard. They made out before he drove away off into the sunset, like a bat out of hell with her. Yet she did not have a choice I feel, he forced her into the car that day.

That was the last time I ever saw Kristen! She did absolutely the same thing I did when I was a girl, yet I came home. So, maybe I got paid back for what I did to Hope. Yet her story turned out somewhat different than mine. Just like, I have said not everything ends with a happy ending, only a new beginning. I do not look at her with eyes of judgment; I only look at her with eyes of mercy, which is unconditional love. Only eyes with love do I see her. I have to give her room to grow into what God planned for her to be, and judging her for what I do not understand; it is not going to help me, or her. Where she is- is not where she is going to stay, or end up, I have to feel that way.

‘What you choose to do affects everyone, plus anyone that you love... thinking for yourself is everything; believe me!’ The little runaway girl to become his fool; she is gone away, and she had to drop out of school. The runaway girl is far away and out of control. I do not know what to do, and it is taking its toll, you are just going to have to find your way out of this hole.

Stranger Danger

Nevaeh- There is always someone in the way or so it seems. I believe in not saying too many negative words, so that I can receive my blessings, that will surely come in due time, and can bring me joy. Yet I cannot see why this was meant to be like always in all my lives. My Kristen was my everything to me, but she left me to be with him, but was it what she wanted? In addition to that I do not want to leave my home or live alone, is this the time- the right time to break on through to the other side or maybe, maybe not.

Kristen- Matt kidnapped me! He was planning to kill me! He said that he was going to put my dead body in the woods, that he had the perfect spot. That he could cover me over with the brush, that was there... out in the middle of nowhere. So, that no one would find me until my body would rot and smell to the high heavens. Will I live or will I die? He said that he wanted to do it slowly and diligently over some time to make sure I would feel as much pain that could be felt. In the car, his first stop along this journey through hell was a small one-room cabin out in the woods, with no power, no main roads nothing, nothing for me to think about other than death. That is where we went first, and he tied me down in that shack, to the one old lone bed, as well as flopped on top nonstop on me for many days.

Of course, for many days I laid on top of that bed so vulnerable, for him at any time to do as he wanted. Never able to move, as he had that zeal glimmer in his eyes, all I could do is shake and squirm slightly in my pee and other substances like that. Yes, he loved to shine the light off of that large shiny knife blade in my face, to show me what he was capable of doing also if I did not give it all up to him when he wanted it. Oh, how he would, inject sedation drugs into me every chance he got, I could not fight him off, I could not beat him off enough, so he would put me to sleep, so he could be as rough as he wanted to be. He had me wore out!

He would handcuff me to the one murky lone bed in that room; spread out naked as the day I was born. As you could imagine looking just like a starfish stuck on the side of a rock, yet strapped down with his belts, ropes, and his dirty underwear in my mouth so that I would not scream for help, up until then there was no one around for miles, to hear me anyway, as I would scream bloody murder.

My voice would echo back through the trees at me, as it seemed, and he would cackle ruthlessly. All that was on my face! Just like his offensive nasty hot sweat from his brow, that would land on my chest and drip down my belly down me, as I got ever more repulsed, by his actions, that he was doing to me.

Yet, I was seeing, feeling and tasting it all. At all those moments in time, I felt it all. At night, he would chain me to a tree outside, with only a doghouse to sleep in and yes, I was completely nude, while he slept inside the cabin on that same filthy bed I was on, and no he did not see the need in cleaning up at all. I could not sleep from my skin was crawling by what he did, and also the fear I would not wake up the next day, and also my skin was crawling because of all the fire ants, centipedes, and worms were engulfing me.

Affirmatively, I had bugs in places, which a girl never wants any bug to go into, or scuttle around. I remember that I would sketch the days in the wood of the rusty red doghouse with a rock. I was there for three or more weeks, without a bath, clothing, and real food, without anyone knowing, that I was being used as nothing more than a plaything, just like a dog's chew toy. I found myself wanting and longing to eat the bugs, which were on me, just to stay alive.

Before that, I remember how he would make me get out of the car on the way they're undressed like always. He would make me run down the road while he would rev that old classic 2014 Hemi type of car, he called it as a street rod, I call it a death trap. Yes, I knew it was a Hemi challenger shaker because I could see the emblems getting ever so closer and closer to me, and the car getting bigger and bigger as it was coming at me on the hood and grill! I could smell the burning rubber, the old oil with the gas, and the tar from the road I was standing barefoot on, I knew the only thing that would identify me would be this black and white feathery dream catcher tattoo I have on my left foot. Yet, that is if he would not come back and cut that skin off me as a souvenir.

He was a freak like that! I could see the car approaching faster and faster like those round LED headlights coming at me like eyes! As I was sprinting looking over my back-left shoulder, thinking this is how I am going to die! The sound rumbling and roaring coming out of those tailpipes is something that will haunt me, I am sure of that, this car had modern muscle, like a throwback to the past!

I had a fast thought of I am just going to be posted here spread eagle for some poor person to find me. Surely, after, I am roadkill; yes, I felt as if I was going to be his canvas for his twisted artwork! I was running for my life barefoot. I could feel the stones cut me up as I was trying to outrun his car over and over, he was teasing me by speeding up and slowing down for miles, it was a sick game to him! Just flat out terrifying to me! I even tried running into a wheat field, and he chased me with his car until I was trapped, and I got pinned up against a barbwire fence and he then floored it, and the wires ripped into my back and my butt, and legs.

Oh, how it was a wonder I was not cut completely in half, or decapitated! I do not know why he stops he could have killed me then and there, no he wanted me to feel more pain. Oh, what he called his love! I ran! I dashed! I jogged! I sprinted until I could not run anymore and he was behind the wheel laughing his head off at me falling tripping to the concrete, and gravel, and then I had to get back up and run some more. He would run that red-ish orange Dodge Challenger with the black racing stripes; bumper right up on me until it touched my nude petite butt, as I was running, and I know there was nowhere to run but forwards down the road, all day until late evening and the nightfall. Besides, after I collapsed from exhaustion, he would scoop me up and throw me back into the car, and get his way once more, and I would be too tired to fight him off me.

That was the plan all along. The most painful thing he did to me pulled, tug, yank, and jerk on my ring down there with his teeth, and also a pair of oxidized old needle nose pliers. I thought at one point that he was going to rip it off me entirely. -Ouch! Oh yes, I remember coming awake after being drugged out of my mind, and him asking me... if I loved him... and I would have to say... yes! I like what you are doing to me. I had to play along, yet I was ripping apart inside with all kinds of frustrations.

Yah how could I forget, he even put a dog shock collar on me, so running away was not something I could do. Also, my feet and hands were chained and immobilized together, with this sharp spiked like prickly shackles. I recall that he even stabbed the tree that I was chained to with the claw of his old rusty hammer, and then he said - 'That is going to be you- my baby.'

Matt- 'If you run from me, I will get you; but you know that I love you! Do not stray away because if you do, I will nail every one of your toes and wrists to this tree right here, and you can hang from it, in the air, and you can think about, what you did wrong- my baby.' He said- (In a spineless, bone-chilling, creeper voice!) Matt- 'Truly, I will do it, and you will be awake to see it all, as well as feel it go through one by one, and swing by hammering swing. You see all of these corroded nine- inch nails there for you- my baby!' he said- (I did not think his voice could get any creepier, however, it did! As he was showing me the hammer and nails. He was utterly insane and mad.)

Kristen- So you know I ran... and he got me. He had his belt in hand ready to whip me, and he did repeatedly until I fell to the ground, with him straddling me, his hand touching me, he starts pinching me, and that is when he pierced my nipple with an old rusty nail. 'Honey hush,' he said as I screamed, even more, the second time; because I knew the pain was picking and nearing. He laughed-

'Saying now everything matches!' I recall him saying this- as he pulled me up dragging me by the hair.

'Good now your bare ass can rub up on the bark of the tree, and then I can smack it later on tonight. You would like that? Wouldn't you? My little bitch!'

Kristen- I had to say- 'Yes, Yes- I would!' I screamed louder than I have ever had in my entire life! For the reason that I knew what was coming! I could see him coming with the cruel tools in hand! I was thinking to myself. 'Please God don't let him have a screwdriver.' Because now what he would do with it, and where it would be shoved in! Just for the hell of it, he draws a target on my tummy with my lipstick and started throwing tools like wrenches, trying to hit the same spot. I thought for sure something of his was going to go deep inside me. He looked at me, flashing scissors, and said in a sick way. 'Look, baby, these are the same scissors your momma used to slit her wrist. He slapped them in my hand, and said it is your choice; you can do the same thing she had the choice of... What do you say? You know these are the very same scissors, that gave your mother the episiotomy that brought you into this world. Now they can be the same scissors to take you out.'

Gasping for breath in being so appalled, I remember saying- 'What did I do to you?'

He said- 'It is not what you did to me, it is what they want, and what I was asked to do, and what they will do to me if I don't!'

I said- 'Who are they?' He whispered in my ear, as well as he bit it- my earlobe with his teeth afterward saying. - 'You are that stupid? I knew it! Will If I tell you, I will have to kill you.' He said- (In a very paranoid, yet almost cocky tone of voice.)

So, I yelled back- 'Just do it- you- vain shit-face!'

That is when he did it, one by one. Yes, one toe by toe, all the nails went in and through my fingernails and flesh. This happened to my hand, palm, and wrists one nail at a time. (Bang! Bang! Bang!) Until the point that I was able to suspend from them alone on the tree. The same tree that he carved our names into, saying forever and ever. I have to say at that point I did not want to live, saying get me down!

Then he yelled- 'Not yet- my baby!'

As he walked back into the cabin to nap, as I was hanging about three feet off the ground on the tree. It was even more excruciating than you can imagine hanging there, for about five hours. Without a doubt, I must have passed out from the pain and blood loss. He even had a pail underneath me to collect the blood I dropped, that he made me drink, as did he, yet he said he was going to keep some and a glass jar to give to his family.

(That is weird, I thought! What is he like a vampire?) I recollect when he tugs and pulled me down from the tree, with the nine-inch nails still pounded in and through me, and I fell to the bloody muddy ground as he ripped open my wounds even more as he yanked me down, as I slid down off the tree. Then he said- 'You are not going to run away, again are you?'

I whimpered- 'No!' Besides, he said- 'Now are you going to take what I have for you, or do I have to thrust it down like before? Are you going to be a good girl, and not complain!

Alternatively, do I have to punish you more if you don't?' I said- 'No! I will do what you want!' I was thinking about what happened to you, you are not the boy I fell in love with? What is wrong with you? He was never in love with me...!

The days went by so slowly, and all I did was cry, the whole time, I would have to say another week has passed. I was left in the mud, rain, and wind, cold and lonely partly barred in my shit and piss, I was treated worse than an animal. Yes, worse than even back when I was a young child, I guess it goes without saying- 'Don't take anything for granted.'

Yes- I was making a plan in my head of what I needed to do to run again, yet I did not get the chance. Then one night we left that place, we drove away, and we stopped along the dirt path, and then he took his clothes off, I was still the way I was like from the weeks past. Yet again, he got what he wanted over and over in his back seat of his car. At that point, he tied me up once more. Then he forced me in the trunk of his car because he said that I was fighting him far too much. I thought that he loved me! I thought I was in love. There was a day I would have done anything for that boy. However, he did not want me for anything other than his favorite types of sex, and to push me around, and be his little weak bitch!

Nevaeh- that night I did not call the cops because I knew that they would not do anything to help her or me. So, I just let it go... I let her go. To quote Hope she used to say to me that I was like a lost puppy, and now I think that about Kristen. The saying goes- 'If you leave them alone, they will come home wagging their tails behind them.' I just hope she comes back to me alive, and not as a spirit, that haunts me too.

Kristen- So I was in the back of his car trunk, and I was all cut up and naked from his beatings and poundings. Yes, he even made me bend over, I did not have a choice... besides my hands were tied with my now ripped up panties, yapper... with what used to be my cute purple butterfly thong panties. Besides, my feet were tied with my bra that matched; oh, how he treated me like a dog, which was the only style that he liked, now come to think of it. In the trunk I was tossed, I was wrapped in a black plastic garbage bag, and it was closed at the top with duct tape.

Somehow, I managed to get loose by chewing myself free with my teeth and wiggling around. It was black in there, and I hate the dark! As well as the air was thinning with that smell of shit, he had to take a dump on my chest... that was all in the bag with me. I mean come on. He said that I was nothing, but something to shit on! That I have to take all of his shit, I did not realize he meant that so literally. It was like when I was in her basement all over again. At that moment, it took me back to that point in my life, when I was seven years old or even younger.

I got away! Yes, I got away! While the car was driving along, I pick the lock on the trunk lid from the inside and rolled myself out onto the moving pavement below, talk about road rash, thankfully, my butt was all that was ripped up! After I saw the taillights fade, away into the darkness of that night, I ran like hell, to be anywhere that I could go to get as far away as possible! Thank god, it was dark out! I ran so far and so fast, there was nothing around me but trees, and that was even scarier than being on the road.

There was no moon that night, no stars, just darkness, and things crunching and breaking under my hurting raw feet, no light at all for me to see ahead or in back of me. Certainly, I just kept thinking in my mind, he could get me at any time, I was thinking about all the ways he said he would do it too, I could see that red-painted hatchet and that black hammer with its rusty nails beside it, in my mind. What should I do? I was panic-stricken! I was surely having an asthma attack, hyperventilating, or something like that, as I was now crawling on all fours for my freedom, just like that day; I was dumped and dropped off at my grandma's door.

So, what do I do now? I have no money, no clothes, and I have no idea where I am at. I was freaking out! The only thing I could do was walk in the woods, which is what I did, I stopped at this big log, and I rested before going back to the paved road. I knew that was the only way, I would make it through the night, I could not stay there. I had to get help! Help- Help- me- please- some- buddy!

H-e-l-p M-E!

(Frantically crying weekly saying.)

From that moment, I made the choice to hitch-hike! I stood stripped freezing and dying there with a thumb out in the air of night, my dirty auburn brown hair stuck to my chest and back, I was feeling hairy and fuzzy and nasty seeing what my- underarms and legs and everything in-between looked like, so, guerrilla-sh, and so, yucky. I knew I smelt worse than the old barn, which is in the side yard of my homeland, that I was missing so much at the time. No! No, the girl should ever have to feel like this, as I did! Yet, car after terrifying car was passing me up like a dirty shirt and splashing me with the puddle water of the road and side trench.

NO!

They did not care enough to stop! However, the whole time, I was wondering if one of those numerous cars was him coming at me! Then one finally stopped! I could not even tell you what the car looked like, or what color it was because that was not important to me at the time. I did not care what it looked like, or what the person inside looked like, as long as I could live! When fighting for your life, you forget about all the superficial things, which do not matter.

That is when I met him for the first time, the cutest boy ever!

Brandon Carol; he was the man that I was looking for all along, it was love at first sight for me, for many reasons as you could imagine! But what a way to meet him, not such a great first impression; So anyways he offered to take me home, which was a three day drive out of his way. It was like love at first sight for us, he like saw into me, and not at me, if that makes any sense. It did not matter what I looked like at the moment. He saved me!

He is my hero! He got us one-bedroom rooms at these fancy hotels along the way, and I finally got to take a bath at last. I slept with him just because he made me feel safe, strange I know. So, before all that, I wear his long tan jacket into the first hotel to get a room. The girl Jacky I think her name tag recited. She looked at me from behind the serves desk and just observed me dumbfounded, yet did not ask. I am glad he did all the talking; however, that look on her face said it all, she knew I went through an ordeal. She was wondering what she was seeing if it was all for real, and it was...!

He got me new dresses at the shops in the towns and underclothes too and took me to find restaurants, I never ate like that in my life. What a guy! I was safe at last! In his care! Before that, I knew at the time... one thing that would be hard to remove, would be to cut off the GPS tracking device bracelet, that was an on my ankle. That he put on me, as I was knocked - out the first time he got me.

It- the tracker had a red blinking light on it, and the band was thick and tight on my ankle, just like the dog collar, however, Brandon got them off me when I explained what happened. Lucky for me he had his work toolbox in the back of his car. Everything was off me; I threw it down onto the pavement, so hard that it smashed into many pieces on the ground. Still, at that moment, I was not wearing anything, and that was awkward; yet I felt free once more by stomping and jumping on that tracking device, in the hotel parking lot. I am sure if anyone was watching from the veranda's they were thinking I was nuts. Nevertheless, I was wondering if he was still following me, up till now I was so happy to be alive, I simply forgot it was on me... so-dumb- I no!

Neveah- And there she was on my doorstep again! When I saw her, I could see what she went through, and I could not help but say, I told you so, and I love you. I am so happy that you are okay! I felt that you would be. I felt that you would come back to me!

My sweet- sweet little girl, you will be safe now! I squeezed her so firm in a bear hug; I nearly broke her back into two. Furthermore, it was as if we were never away from one another, yet we both know now entirely what it is like to be taken advantage of of...! It was all the same for her and me. I had my little girl back- 'Like teddy bears and chocolate.' Is the bond just got stronger? I did not want to see her go away!

Because she was mine for a little while once more; but that is when I told her that she needed to go and get away from the tower's clans, for the reason that she was 'Hexed to be next.' There was only one thing she could do, and that is what she did! I know I will miss her, and so will her new friend. Yet this is what had to be done, there was no other choice! But- for her to do this...!

Chapter: 42

Entrapments

(A couple of days later)

Nevaeh- There is always someone or something in the way, or so it seems. I believe in not saying too many words so that I can receive my blessings that will bring me joy.

My Kirsten was my everything to me, but she will be moving out soon. It is what she has to do. In addition to that, I do not want to leave my home or live alone, what am I going to do now? I want to stay here. I am not leaving!

Yet someone has to be with me. You know I wonder if this new plan will work or not? She was friends with Matt online, that is how they became an item when they were so-called dating, and what you see and read on there is and was a whole lot different, then what she saw in real life with him, as you know.

So, with me looking back over my lives it is funny to me, that with all these technical advancements, that man has made and added to the world. I have witnessed throughout my life. They said that linking the world was the answer and the fix for this crazed world we live in. That we all needed this junk, yet it has done nothing but destroy everything I feel. You can believe I was just fine back in the glory days of trusting someone with a handshake. Those days are gone forever,

I am afraid to say; the webbed twisted networking will never completely die. It will rip everyone apart first, instead of joining them.

There is no trust anymore.

You can be sure I have done a background check on Kristen's new friend already, and he seems to be all right, the report was clean. As well as, I have a good feeling about him. Yet I cannot place what that feeling is, just yet.

Yes, it would safely say that I liked him from the start. Yet, they have never found a way to fix other- people's stupidity. That is something that cannot be fixed. There is not a thing you can do if they will not listen and learn, so far you have to try, and not say you did. So, there is one simple truth really; you cannot fix ignorance. Just like you cannot have senseless teachers either, to have a good education, and people dare to say that I am simple-minded.

Well, at least I am oh so wise! You did not have to have that in writing to see that, yet would you have appreciated my smarts, if it was not all written down onto this paper. Now, do you see what I mean?

Sometimes you have to look at people differently, to see their true story. Just as you cannot believe all the stories, you hear. Will you see for yourself that was not true, if you have a brain in your head to comprehend? Ignorance is forever if you choose to be that way. So, now do you understand that I am not an ignorant person, nor was I ever?

(Flashback)

I remember back the sisters would want to take turns making out, kissing, and sucking on me and Lily; and the others that were in their group circle of pain. Yes, in front of everyone in the halls, this came back to my mind, after Kristen poured out her heart to me, about what she went through with Matt. You know I did not think there could not be a worse boy then Lance, I was so wrong; one thing about being wise is knowing when you are so mistaken. Oh, it was so weird! 'I kissed some girls and didn't like it.'

Plus, I and Lily had to kiss one another on all the lips, which we have, you got that? – Good! What was so comical about that is that everyone clapped as we had our lips smashed into one another? Not romantic at all! At that time, the only other boy I kissed was Melvin Shezor, and it just sucked ass honestly. He was a mistake that makes me say- eke...! On the other hand, maybe I just sucked at kissing at that time.

Oh-hum, however, no one kissed like Chiaz. We had such a sweet gentle, almost soft kiss that could not be recreated with anyone else, but us doing it together. We would tilt our heads so perfectly to the one side, and his hands ran through my hair effortlessly... and from past experiences, that is not an easy thing to do. I saw where Kristen's hair was thinned out from him pulling on it, I guess that is what brought that to mind for me.

With my Chiaz, it was breathtaking every single time...! I never wanted to kiss anyone else ever again. Yet I had to in the long peculiar eerie halls of the hellhole. I remember also, how- 'We had to act as we liked it. Yet we hated it with a passion.' I mean that I loved Lily just not in that way. I recall when Lily told me that she did not like staring at her vagina her in own mirror, or how small her boobs looked.

I said- 'Yes... I know totally what you are saying.'

She said- 'Yeah I no- It is like a Picasso down there.'

Then I said- 'You know that every girl is so different. You have... what you have.'

No instead, we should have been thinking that we're happy to be alive and cute like we were. As I said you do not think like that when you are young and dumb. All you think about is what other people, think about you. Which does not matter at all, as you get more mature? 'You know what I find completely hilarious now?

My classes wherein a closet, and yet the sisters wanted everyone in the school population to think we came out of it together.' (I just giggled aloud.) So, one night I remember back in my school day Lily came to my house before she left me, and we sat on my bed and we kissed, and that was not that bad... it was kind of passionate. Just so, when we had to in the school, we knew what we were doing... it was nothing more, yet maybe it was for her? Some kisses do not count if you know what I mean if you are a girl.

Why?

Because, if you are a girl; then you have to learn how to kiss, sometimes that is with another girl as practice; or at least that is the way I see it be, yet I am not sure if that is how it was, for her. I guess when your eyes are closed it is all the same... maybe- maybe not? I think about this- 'How many people can say that they kissed a girl the night previous to the day she became an angel?' All these years she never said if she was in love with me or like- like me or not, I guess she doesn't want me to feel any blame, and that is in the past and does not matter as it did back then. All the same, my curiosity always did get the best of me. I have deliberated this- 'Was it the kiss of death, or was it just a normal girly kiss?'

Alternatively, was that affectionate kiss letting me know what was coming the next day or not? Was it letting me know that I would not have her as she was in my life any longer, yet she would always love me? I do not know, yet I wonder in my mind, at those very questions, that seem to have no logical answers. I never told anyone about that. However, I thought it would help Kristen cope with what she just went through.

That sometimes in life things just do not have a rhyme or a reason it just happens, and it makes no sense to you. Though everything was meant to be for some reason, that you cannot see, you just have to wait and see, then look back on life. 'Life is just like the feathers on the dreamcatcher blowing in the breeze. They have some freedom yet always held back by the strings, and the evil that is being sucked into it.' Even though Kristen is going to be gone, maybe I will not feel all that lonely or maybe I will.

'Either she or I will need to learn how to fly.' Besides, you will understand soon enough what is coming up in her story, and maybe mine by now if you can foresee, what is going to be; what is going to happen in mine is not clear to me. It is just like the word- Maybe! Maybe- is like a question, that has many answers; with nothing about that word being reassuring to me. Maybe I will see you again... or maybe not. See what I mean?

The Maybe's- is driving me crazy. I think overall the words I used in a day, and try to pick them apart, hoping what I said was decent and understandable. As well as think about it, what I said was the right things, or if I just put my foot in my mouth. 'I have always seemed to have open mouth insert foot syndrome.'

So, that is why I am so hushed with people I do not know, I do not want to screw up my chances with you. It was always like that for me. Then again, if I say something will I have to live with it? Sometimes the best advice is not saying anything at all. Maybe I should have done that, or maybe I could have said that to them or maybe not.

Maybe there is no point at all.

Maybe it is all okay, what I say or maybe not. Maybe I have too much anxiety, and I worry about everything I do, and what others do to me. Maybe that is why their words are eating at me from the inside out just like cancer. As well as I am left with one question and that is-

Why?

Why- do I do this?

Why have I kept on doing this to myself? -Why?

My God...! I am sounding completely insane; maybe I am all alone too much now? Maybe- He- he! Will, at least I can still giggle at how pathetic everything in my life seems to be, and was and is going to be. All I know is that I will have to-

'Tie a Yellow Ribbon Round the Ole Oak Tree!'

Chapter: 43

The Encounters

Nevaeh- Do you remember when I said Angels and fallen angels used to fight one another; they used to fight one another to the eternal death. As I had to sit through the clan torture. Both Angels and demon and fallen Angels are powerful in their ways, they use their powers in different ways as you know for good or evil. I forgot how vicious they were to one another.

I guess I block that out of my mind too. Angels do not need to have any magic wands or cast any spells, they have enough strength in their hands, eyes, and wings to move anything with great energy and speed. Besides whatever that object maybe it whips by you like a blur, I have seen it, just like Melvin's car way back when, that was thrown over into oncoming traffic by one of the dark ones, by one of those angels of death, that night I saw it in my visions.

Maybe that is why I got the blame for it, because of what I see, and what they do not understand? All angels are like magicians of their power; it is like they have a barrier around them with a glow of white or black that protects them from following evil spirits, or good spirits, depending on the type. It is almost impossible to penetrate their heavenly force or the evil vigor.

The demons do not need to cast spells however, they can, all they have to do is look into the eyes of what they want to destroy, or they trick all your true love's away until you crack under their pressure and give in to them. In these battles, it is beyond belief to see them and all of us fighting... it was so spiteful. The falling angel will try to jump on the backs of the white heavenly angels so that they can try to drain their strength to get at the human life their protecting.

They will want to make the week and fall to the ground like a dying baby bird, that has broken wings. So, they can take what they want from you! Some dark angels will even try to bite the white angels head off with their long sharp malevolent tusks to drink and drain their heavenly lives away, and take their powers to. That is how they lose some of their power.

When they fight it is the ground that opens up with cracking gashes, and I could see the pits of hell, with the red, orange and yellow flames shooting up from underneath. I remember seeing all the burning black charred nude bodies run about below me like ants on the ground from a distance. Oh yes, I could hear the troubled screams and weep, yes, all the cries they shouted for help were so unnaturally gruesome, even the voices and yelps of young children I could hear, from down below. By far the most morbid things, I have ever witnessed in my life. I felt as the sisters were leading me to hell day by day to incinerate me, just as the Nazis did to most of those little girls, with their sinful crematorium ovens. I have felt the infernos. I have had visions of those girls that walk the last walk down that path they took, and it pains me because I can feel what they felt, I can see it all too. I do not know if that is a gift or a curse.

The sisters and their families of clans to me are nothing but a bunch of uncivilized pagans. (Remember Adriane's star around her neck? That was their symbol, that their clan members all wore!) I remember almost being thrown into the underworld by the sisters and their clans, many times yet Lily always swooped me up in her arms before they could do that. Yet I could feel the heat and look down forever or so it seems, as I was hanging on the cliff edge of earth and hell.

Can you see me there hanging helplessly by my one arm? I always felt that I was on the edge with my fingers on my one hand about to slip from their grip. Letting, or pushing me to fall into that black hole of fire. I was so petrified every time; I was a part of this too in my life; I was one of those girls. So yes, I know how that girl in red felt, I lived it in my past lives that I have had, just like I saw the first horseless carriage going down that path here too. The histories are a part of me, which people do not see.

As an angel, I can skip around in time; I have even spent some time in the roaring twenties too, just to see what it was like, yet nothing compares to having your family and love, that killed the day I died for the first time. Ones they are gone in history, I cannot go back and see them as they were, it is like they are forever spirits to me even going back in time. It is as if they do not exist, I have tried. Maybe that is why my mind is so confused? I can stay the same unchanged, yet I age and everything changes around me. Something is there and something is not. The longer I live the more confusing it all gets. Yet, in those fights, I could see them, all of the angels above me. I could see the rays of bright lights of the joyous promise land, and the clouds of the heavens that would spin into a porthole-like with a stairway to heaven.

The voices asking me to walk up to it, from the kids to the old. I overheard, I could even, hear the voice of God and his son, yes, I could overhear them all above me, and they were rejoicing the fact that I would not give up the struggle, to them, that I want to fight to live right. It was bizarre... because all of this was inside the halls of the school, it made no sense to me at the time, yet it happens.

Sometimes fact is stranger than fiction. The only thing I could do was write it all down or at least try too, it is all here in my notebook, all I need to do is finish typing it all out, someday, if someday ever comes for me, as you know I just do not have the ambition. As I said, Lily was the one that fought for me the most back then, she has the halo to verify it too.

She has been in many of my fights as an angel, and also when she was a human girl. Not always by choice... more because, it was what she, and I thought was the right thing to do, and it was what she, and I believed was spot-on right. You know maybe I was in love with her that way and just did not realize it back then. There is not a day goes by, I do not think about her or dream about her, as she was to me, and what we did together, and believed in about us together.

Maybe Lily was my first true love, maybe it was Maiara, or maybe it was just him, I guess I have had more love in my life, which I looked over yet not knowing that I did? –Do you understand what that is like? That is just like some questions do not have any real answers. Just like how these angels have like a layer of defense, and that is like a glowing orb of light around them either white or black.

When white angels replenish their supply they have a puff of glittery sparks, that expels from their body as they shoot back up into flight, they do not need to feed off anything other than the Divine's love, and the love from the others that they receive, they may die yet they live on. When falling, angels die in a battle, they reappear themselves repeatedly, as they catch fire, and slowly burn down to a black carbon like powdery ash in crumbling destruction of disintegration. As well as they just keep coming back to life also.

They suck the blood of the humans like me, which are on the floor until their energies can be repaired. When they do need to be replaced and replenished, they steal someone's living soul to keep living on, that is what the sisters help them do.

The battle would continue; it seemed like it was forever, yet it was only as long as it would take to get the sisters off, and me off, and them off of me. In all reality, it was only ten minutes at the most.

The angels would fight until I was able to get up and walk away after the sisters got what they needed. Time and time over! The only way to get rid of the demons in any falling angel, is to rip their dark wings off, and they whisper to the ground, then say the phrase over and over- 'The power of almighty Jesus Christ compels you to halt and be gone.' While throwing holy water on them as they fizzle up to nothing, and it burns them like acid back down to the depths of hell where they belong. On the other hand, just have a dream catcher and that should do the trick too. They never die, yet you can send them away from you.

That is way Kristen, has one tattooed on her foot to keep them at bay, yet I not sure if a tattoo is the same as the real thing? Some fallen angels carry extended swords, depending on their ranking of evil powers. This is still not much of a challenge for the white angel, the white

Angel can stop swinging swords with one bare spiritual hand. Fallen dark angels are generally weak and try to manipulate with their offers because they're not as tough.

Fallen Angels they have fiery eyes, black pointed wings, with blood dripping from their demonic representations of their body, they have a smoky orb around them, and a trail of fog that follows behind them that leads into destruction as they sail by. All a white angel has to do is hug a fallen angel, or show them any kind of compassion, and they scream and instantly disappear or just disintegrate.

Love- is what they despise the most!

For the reason that all fallen angels hate any type of love or contentment, remember all fallen angels are internally weak unless a human life gives them the power to fight, I would have to say that I let Jaylynn suck the life out of me, yet I feel that I should. I think you can appreciate why I feel that way. So, that is what the sisters did with their clans, they gave them the power, to try to steal my soul and the souls of the ones I loved. However, they never did with me yet they got Jaylynn... That did not stop them from trying until they would get Kristen too, or have someone soul that is close to me.

For them it will be a never-ending battle, of what they choose to steal away, they do not want me to be happy or loved. Why I still do not know, why was I chosen for this...? Why do they all have to suffer because of me, and my sins? Have I sinned at all, or not? The fights I was talking about were a true statement and experiences I had; I remember back when I was with the clans; fighting off their battles they started on me, then the angels would come down and help me.

The angels and myself, we were all fighting for me to not be taken in any way by demons, or by the girls, that wanted me for their sexual role-playing games. Yet, the sisters got there way a lot of the time as you know, as luck would have it. We were fighting them off, as well as beating them all off too. I remember the white angels would shock the demons away with their bolt of lightning strikes and the thunder would crack out the glass of the school windows, and spray all over us. Supernaturally all the locker doors would open and close, the papers would fly, the pencils would zip by me like their uniforms and fingers, I was in the storm of their pain, everything was happening so hallucination like.

This is how Kristen told me her rapes were like too, maybe, that is the way it is for all girls, which lived through all that hurt...? Your brain is half on, yet it is like it is wanting to be turned off.

The demons have satanic powers, which make angels freeze in mid-fight and flight. They are so strong they could tear the wings off of an Angel with their thought of mind. However, the bolt of lightning can make demons blow-up; conversely, they disintegrate and then rise from the ashes once more to fight yet again.

They do not go away unless they have bodies to go into, or there banished back down to hell. Otherwise, to claim the souls they want, you have to agree with what they say; only if you do not deny them, they will remain. Never- ever let them win! The demons can take on any figure or form they want to. Some choose to be animals, and some choose to be human-like beings, like the four sisters and clan, and the only protection, was from the angels above me that would fight them off of me. Do you see what I mean- or did I lose you?

Lily also fought for Jaylynn when she was in these halls; however, Jaylynn did not have the same faith I did. So, the forces of protections were not as strong enough for her, so maybe that is why she did not live on, or maybe it was just time for her to go? There are something's, which I may never know about, even in spiritual life too. Will, as far as Kristen goes, she fought them all off, she battled her demons too, she grabbed them by the horns if you will, and she won for the most part.

Kristen, is one strong little girl, even now as she is recovering from her wounds, and I am so honored that she is a part of me. Nevertheless, I am horrified that she is a part of them because of her father. I wonder what her future is going to be like being half- and- half, yet I do not plan on telling her all that, she has to find that out for herself. I do not want to freak her out anymore then she is now. I just hope she stays on the good side, and never stays away again. Yet I think she has learned that lesson the hard way. Her teachers used to say that she was hard-headed. You know what I think about that... Good for her! Give them hell. Wow, that reminds me of an old song that used to play on the bus. 'When you see my face, I hope it gives you hell.' Yah you know sometimes it is awesome for us to be The All- American Rejects!

If you are reading this, you must feel the same way, so- (Say it aloud, full of pride!) 'We are rejects, and proud of it!' I Also recall 'My Humps' by The Black-Eyed Peas, use to play a lot back then too on that bus ride. Yeah- but that is a whole other story altogether, but I think you can get the picture. 'Maybe sometimes what happens on the school bus should stay on the school bus.' I feel that- 'Dying is not easy, it is hard to leave, and staying alive is hard when you want to go. Then keeping your soul is almost impossible. The spiritual life is an endless life of forever, of what would you do?'

Chapter: 44

A New Beginning

Nevaeh- I am going to let them tell you what they did during their days apart. You know how close they have gotten. Besides what I saw bloom in front of me... it is and was truly amazing to see! I did not think that it was possible. Maybe there are some good ones out there these days? When Kristen was a young girl. I had her last name changed to mine so that her dad's family could never take possession of her ever again. It was costly but so worth it, getting full custody of her until she was eighteen.

Kristen Nazareth- So I joined the Marines! For the reasons that I knew that Matt would find me again. That is one thing he teased me with by saying over and over time after time, that he would never- ever leave me alone. That he would never- ever let me go and date, or live with anyone else. That I had his- and his alone. I would have to say- I do not think so!

Will the only upside to this was, all these years, I was the drum major and kept the beats and timing going in the high school marching band, and I was kind of there leader? So maybe that is a plus? I do not like to brag or anything like that, though, I have to say that I am a snappy marcher. Plus, I know how to take, and give commands. Yet there have been some that have overpowered me in the past, as you know.

However, that is going to stop now! I want to be able to defend myself at any time, or any place. No man will ever- never do that to me again, and never- ever is a long time! I may be small but... however, they say I am fun-sized. (Whatever that means?) I have a lot of spunk and charisma, yet I am not afraid to be this small little girly- girl either. I think you know me by now, you would have predicted that. -Right? I do not mind mixing camouflage with my pink outfits though. I have a style that is my own; some call it cute-z, I call it just being me.

It has become acknowledged by others that I am a small girl, which has a tiny sounding voice, which is sweet and squeaky all the time. Yet it is unquestionably unforgettable, because of the way I talk about it; maybe- I do not know, I am just me...! Some say I just have something matchless to another, and it remains with them, long after time has passed. You should have heard me as a drum major shouting, you would remember it forever!

What they say- 'That's so... sweet, I- guess...!' (Overemphasizing every word! With a light cracking upward, pitch in her voice.) I remember my whistles sounding off, one long and three short blows; and the drum cadence would start playing, and it kind of still plays in my mind at times, as I waited for that first left-foot stride. I still find myself stepping out with my left foot in my everyday pastimes. If I learned anything in the band, it was discipline. I was in control of this extremely loud powerful respectable grouping of kids, and it was awesome, most days- anyway.

Nevaeh- So I told her, that the only way she could getaway is to go to boot camp for twelve weeks, and she would get deployed to fight when needed. I thought surely, he would need to find someone else, to feel his needs. Let us hope anyways! Besides I think Brandon is so sweet, he would be perfect for her. He has been my and her blessing; I can tell he is one of the good ones out there. What that boy has done for us, I cannot be grateful enough in my words to express my actual feelings.

Kristen- My hair is so long that it ends at my butt some days in sweet braid some days not. Though the hardest thing to do was when it was so needed to be cut, yes, a little lower than shoulders length, which is the length required. So, I could braid it into a hair bun, most days I just liked to have my hair down, with springy or bouncy brown curls or just straightened, so you could see just a little bit of the blonde or light brown highlights, that would shine in my hair. Those days are going for a while... I would say- so!

I left home with only the recommended items; with my old marching band duffel bag with these things inside it. One- Travel toothbrush with toothpaste. One- Gel deodorant only, no spray perfume permitted. I have one bottle of two in one shampoo and conditioner. A few or more tampons. A shaving kit, with a razor. I needed six pairs of plain- Jane bikini-style underwear only, nothing fancy. I needed six pairs of high socks; no ankle socks necessary. I needed three sports bras, so I could have one on most, if not all the time. I needed two variations of clothing outfits, other than the one I was going to wear there. So, three altogether, yet I think you knew that. Besides, all of my identifications. And yes, that was it.

Chapter: 45

Hard Work Never Killed Anyone

Kristen- Oh, they do not care that you are out of your comfort zone, they are not your momma, or in my case grandmamma, and they're not going to hold your hand. However, they do make you wise and strong; for twelve weeks, that is what I found out. So, let me tell you all about it! The day I left Brandon made the crazy decision to ask me to marry him.

Certainly, in a handwritten letter that he handed me as I stepped foot on the big old somewhat shiny bus. Therefore, when I did open it and read it, I was already being taken to this far away land. No! - No turning back! How I want to go back, and kiss him and never let go while flying into his arms at the very same moment, yet I could not.

I was overjoyed and down feeling all at the same time! Though, when he gave me the note at the time, I was standing with one foot in the door opening of the motorcoach. I was thinking- What in the world is this boy handing me? Is this a goodbye for good?

What... is this? A lot of thoughts went through my head. -I am a girl... that just happens. I was reluctant and happily curious all at the same time, because, I did not know; it said that it was sealed! I remember that grandma and Brandon where the only ones to see me off... this was a moment that I will always treasure forever. However, it was gloomy at the same time, since I felt that it did not have to be like this.

Brandon- I can still see what she was wearing a light, cerulean dress with one white daisy in her beautiful hair. I am sure the soon to be war boys loved the way she looked, on the bus as I did. No, I am not jealous really; I just want to be with her that is all. They will not look at her as I do, you know what I am saying? I love her! They just love the way she looks; I think you're catching my drift. From that day we met, I knew she was all I ever wanted. That I was not going to let anything get in the way of being with her.

All the time, anytime I can, no not in a disturbing way, just so you know, just in a loving way, I love everything about her. She is the girl I have seen in my dreams; all these years yet could never find. I believe that occasionally, you have to be far away from your sweetheart, but that does not make you love them any bit of a smaller amount if anything, you love them more, that is how I felt every-day, I was not with her. I just want to walk into the golden field, and shout out her name, so that maybe she could hear it so far away, I know it is twelve weeks, even every moment feels like forever.

Yes, one day, that night, her eyes, her ways, what she said, how she said it, her touch, her sounds, and that feeling of her body heat next to me. It only took me one day to fall for her completely, totally, wholly, and entirely! Eighty-four to know I do not want to live another day without her, with me. That the loving feeling just keeps getting stronger and stronger.

The reason is that it pains me, so to be apart from her, that I now feel that our souls have connected from the day I met her. How something so tragic could lead into something fantastically magnificent.

‘Nothing is ever easy when it comes down to love, and what you love, and what love is to you and her, and if they love you, it is always testing your sanity.

That is one thing, which is for sure, and I am sure that I am crazy about her!’

I do believe that she was my answer to my prayers, as I must have been for her. I hope all our prayers will be answered; I feel that they will be. It is as if I feel that I cannot live without her now. I just hope she feels the same; the not knowing is driving me irrational. Nothing was going to stop me, not even, her going to fight in the war when she goes, and not even her cruel past boyfriend either. Her past boyfriend means nothing to me, yet I do care about what he did to her. It just does not seem fear. So that is why I gave her the note, I did not want to be rejected, and she will have some time to choose if she wants to be with me, or not.

My letter reads- My sweet Kristen; I must say how I feel about you. That there is nothing more I would want to be than yours forever and ever, and never let go, only if you feel the same way about me, yes, I am being serious. All you need to do is say the word ‘Yes- I will!’ the next time we meet; I will know you feel the same way too! I know when you are reading this; you will already be gone away from me.

Nevertheless, I am asking you to be with me, and to marry me. It is not that long so we can be together once more. That is if you love me, as I love you. However, I understand that you have to go far, far away as of now because of your former boyfriend. Yet I feel that I have gotten to know you in every way, and I will think of you every day, even now, until the day you are walking my way. Yes, even when you are not here with me, I feel ever so close to you, the feeling is fairy-like; I want to make you my princess!

Would you say- yes?

I would have liked to say this to you, that I am making you this promise if you make it back from this war of affection. I want to be the one that will tie the knot with you. I wish I would have, said all of this sooner, and before you even got your first boyfriend. But, at the time we were at diverse points in our lives. Though, I do feel that we met up for a reason when we did like fate had something to do with it or something like that... I vow this to you! Even if I do not see you again, I am now forever part of your life. I will always and forever be there for you. Yet you know that... -Good luck my Love! Now and forever yours-

Brandon Rosenbaum

Chapter: 46

The Few, and the Proud

Kristen- I remember getting on the bus, and getting shouted at from the first moments. I recollect captain saying- 'You are in the Marines now; so, find your tiny virgin ass a seat and let's get going! Now...! Faster...! Faster...! Move it!' '...Ah... Okay!' -I said (trembling.) He said no one in here gives a shit who the hell you are, or what your name is 'princess.' It does not mean shit to me or these guys on this bus. I must have been reading the envelope script aloud, that said- 'To my princess!' (With shocking surprise.) Still, I did not realize all the others could hear everything I was saying as I read squeakily. As I was walking up the steps and past all of them down the aisle to find a seat?

~*~

Captain- 'We do not care that you are a little girl, you are going to be out humping just as hard as everyone else. Your ass belongs to us now, and teamwork is the only thing you need to know from this point on.'

I remember sitting there thinking man, my body, and everything, that is a part of it now, it is theirs? Why would the captain say that? Do they feel that all of me now belongs to them? -Really? At the time, I did not even think about it, what was just said to me; yet I am not sure if I liked it... even now, when thinking about the situation. It was somewhat sexist, and mean I felt. I woulda- liked to have said- 'Yes, I am a girl, but I could kick your ass up to your flapping mouth!' I was just thinking that in my mind, I knew better than to talk back. I did not say a word! I have sidetracked anyways.

I remember pulling the paper out and unfolding it, I just kept reading that note over and over. I could not believe what I was seeing, and holding it in my hand, I was going to keep it with me at all times, if I could. Until I had a permanent place for it. So, as for now, I will place it in a very safe place that every girl has been familiar with. So, I folded the note into fours in the envelope, and tucked it into my bra next to my heart, thinking- wow- wow, and wow! I cannot believe, that I have fallen in love with him, so fast. I was thinking I could not wait to kiss him, see him, and talk to him. Wondering, what my life would be like with him? I was sure at that moment it would be good. Wondering, if he would want kids with me, maybe like three.

I was wondering, about life, I wanted! I think it is like I was lost in a dream of what could be? Then reality set in and then, at the same time I remembered how walking through the bus aisle to find a seat, it felt like it was taking forever, and it was. Anyways that took me back, and made me homesick, thinking about how the kids and my grandmother were treated, when they went to school and were on the bus. I knew how she felt because that was the same way for me too. Nevertheless, I was also thinking again not on here. As well as I started thinking about her, and her stories which she used to tell me; I felt the same way as she must have way on- way back when. Plus, I was missing my old life all ready.

Not all of it just the good things. I was wanting a new life to start fast, so I could get back to them. Also, I am thinking about what my new life will bring me hopefully more good things. I will just have to see. I finally sat down with a girl named Makayla, and she was scared shiftless, to say the least. But she did say sit with me, so I did. The only other girl on the bus other than me. That was the only words she said the whole trip. Finally, I was at my destination, after a couple of days of sleeping, eating, and living on the bus. We all looked- really- good. So anyway, we all got off no time to stretch or anything, we all moved out of the bus running like men on fire into a single file line. Then are sergeant vocalized, in the loudest voice ever possible these very words?

As we were in our single lines our eyes looking, forward, standing in what I call the solid statuesque pose.

He said- 'Welcome to the world's finest fighting force!' 'The words: me, I, and my; they do not apply to anything anymore! You will eat, sleep, and live as a team, there is no failure here!' 'When you walk through these doors it is the only time you will! 'Understand!' We all said- 'Yes sir...!' He shouted more powerfully- 'Understand!' 'YES... SIR!'

I was thinking at the time I am making my footprints here now; I am part of this history. Plus, I am going to be part of the footprints that my colleagues have died to keep every one of you out there free...! To me, it is quite an honor, which should not be taken for granted, by anyone. As well as if you do take it for granted, join the Marines and you will soon learn, that freedom is not all about you! I remember being asked why I am in the Marines. So, I just answered by saying... 'To get away from my past horny boyfriend, that won't leave me alone, plus I want to be a brave girl!' Then all the other guys and misses in the lineup with me snickered.

The captain said- 'Outstanding- Will you came to the right place; to get away from a man then, maggot. I am going to call you- a princess.' Yeah, I feel that is a problem with our generations; of today, we have had everything handed to us. I think a lot of people out there need to go out and fight for it, and you will change your attitude. Just remember it does not take much to get your ass broken. Unity! It is what it is all about, being someone great. Being someone strong, and being brave, and having respect! It is comparable to when you see that seal on the door as you walk in; you know that you are a part of something greater.

Something that I do not have words to express, something that means you have found pride in others and yourself, which is something you found to care about other than your own pint-sized life of before. You have to know how to work together and be able to comprehend what it means to be an in this alliance, and if you do not know it when you walk in, you sure will when you walk out. I think of the fact that I answered every question that was asked of me with either, yes-sir or I- sir or yes- ma'am, I- ma'am!

Do not even think about projecting your opinions, they mean nothing, in other words, keep your mouth shut, and your ears open. Boot camp was intense because we had to get up early and do the same drills over and over. Besides if, you are anything like me then you have to learn the hard way, but you do learn one way or another. It is just like getting a quarter to bounce off your bed sounds easy, but you try it... it's not. Lights out was a lonely time for me. Yet I was in a bunker barracks with numerous other girls. But- do not think that you are going to make any intimate relationships here; that is not going to happen! As well as do not think you are going to find any guys to talk to either or anyone to fulfill your needs.

~*~

However, Brandon was the only guy, I dreamed about and had a fantasy about, I could not seem to get him out of my mind. The whole time. I had a photo, that he put in with the note, and I used it as a tribute to my satisfaction. I was lovesick as well as homesick. All I can say is that you will have to become intimate with yourself; because you get rather stressed out. So maybe it was a good thing to have him to think about. Too much information yeah, I seem to have a problem with that. I know, but it is truthful to all the girls here really. So, yeah it took me a week to be able to do a jumping Jack and a push-up that was not completely girlie! Just like there were only about ten minutes for hygiene, and other necessities, that girls need to take care of; for example, like shaving.

Yet, I guess I am getting used to feeling shabby.

I was shocked to realize most of the time, other than training with the men, we were separated from them... and all you got to see was the same girl's day in and day out. You get to know some of them as acquaintances, but you do not have time to become best friends forever. The weirdest thing was showering in front of them, which took some getting used to.

There is no privacy at all, what you do is all out there for them to see. I bet you could picture that, can't you. Not to mention that the uniform clothing gets old fast. But- this is what I want. I recall having it on at all times, or when we do change, you only have ten counts to change, what you are wearing to something else. Let us not forget scrubbing the floor with a toothbrush, yes, I did that too. Six hours of class time every day.

Climbing ropes, walls, and obstacles and PT are obsessive work. Just like me being a small girl, plus a water tank, with all my gear on equals- me sinking to the bottom of the pool like a stone. However, I can swim very well, that was one thing I would do competitions in, back when I was in high school. Will I do not like heights either I found out, however, I made it to the end of the long cable. With a little help from my senior's drill instructor's pushing me to 'do it.' Oh, I loved to dangle up there in the air by my right hand, and my forefingers trying to get my feet back up from slipping. Yet I did it.

I have confidence in the cores; however, I struggle to have confidence in me being able to do it. Oh, I think that obstacle course we had to do hated my guts, as I hated doing it over and over, in the rain, in the mud in the hot sun, forget about looking cute. It is all about getting it done. This is a good thing to know for all you out there. Learn how to throw a punch, so when you are hit from hesitating... someone else does not knock you down on the ground. 'It is scary.' –I say. Plus, I marched and marched, saying 'Left... Left... Left... Right... Left!'

Hell- I was saying that in my sleep!

Drill instructor- asking Kristen- 'Princess- Do you know you're left from your right?' Yes! –sir. Drill Sergeant Owen would shout at me... ripping my gun out of my hand, and completely lifting me off my feet while doing it, saying you would have had a good inspection if you would have had the right side up. Now take your weapon back out of my hands as you mean it! Easier said than done. He said- 'Pay attention to the details.' Then you should know what my reply was. – right? You know I am not going to have an ass because we walked so much. I know I walked mine off completely. Besides, I got to the point that everything I was saying rhymed too. Like this...

(Sing)

'I don't remember everything I have been told, but being called the nickname 'Princess' gets old. I can't wait until I get back home, so I can have someone to hold and call my own. I don't know why I feel so alone, all I want to do is moan, and groan. After this training, I will be able to kick some ass, instead of being known as the girl, with the tiny one that will not last.' 'I am all about being girly, yet I hate having to get up this early.

Because, I like wearing pink, though I am not going to be the one, which is the weakest link. My old boyfriend can kiss my sweet ass; I am leaving here with some sass. I still can't believe that I got asked, yet I know that I and my new lover will be able to last and last. Because, I like getting down and dirty, yet I am counting down the days hoping, that they all will go in a hurry.' He-he-he... that is funny!

The name 'Princess' it stuck with me. I remember the first time, I fired my weapon the barrel of the gun came back and smacked me in the head, let's just say I learned fast how to hold the gun after that. The M- 16 is a powerful gun, especially if you are a tiny girl like me.

Oh, just another tip for all of you out there, do not close your eyes when you are firing a weapon, for the first time like I did. Probably one of the coolest things, I ever did was joint the rifle drill team. Since I always liked twirling rifles even back then, like I said I was a snare drummer in the band before, and I was a drum major that overseen everyone, so that was a good thing for me! I felt as if I had the ability, and maybe the upper hand. I just wanted to do something awesome, and say I have done it! I just wanted something to where I could feel good about myself. That was something that he took away from me. All the same, I will get back... I will be honorable!

Nevaeh- Just like One of These Days, all the radiation bombs will drop and silence everything in this world. It is going to happen, I have seen it, and felt it. But, I most likely will, not see it this time coming up. I feel and see that there will be no more daylight to waste, and all-time will stop, and not stand for anything any longer, I fear for this country!

‘I guess with the lights out, it is less dangerous; Oh well, whatever, never mind.’

It is just that my grandbaby is going to be out fighting in that war someday and someday is on its way I can just feel it. Maybe the world will come to an end; at some point, maybe not. Either way, after we have given all that we are, and all that we have, to them.

When there are no more nickels and dimes to give away, that used to save us, that is when all days will end. For the reason that we cannot stand up alone if there is nothing to stand on. We can fight but is it enough? I do not think so... there is no work, no money, no real nourishment, no coal-mines, and no still to make anything.

So, how can we fight them off if we are asking them for what we need to live? Understand...? I feel the United States needs to wake the hell up now, and come to their senses! Before there is no more freedom to waste, and wasted lives. My homeland is not the only place, which has gone to hell that is for sure, and there is nothing we can do about it, or so everyone wants to think. Just like my life, I try to put these thoughts and moments down into a complete story.

As well as, when I think about it. I could have done precisely what Kristen when out and did, yet I didn't, why didn't I, I ended it, and had to pay and pray for it, so I could make it where I wanted to go. Will I have anything to show for it, I do not know, when is it time for me to go? What I am saying right now is I wonder if I would have left, and seen the world the way she did if this all would have changed for me too? Meaning the real first life I had, would all this be my true reality or not?

Would I have lived with a tragic love story or not?

Kristen, she is so much like me and my lover, it so cute, for me to see true love again! You can't kid me, I have seen those love notes coming and going day by day, and what can I say I love it. I am also happy to have someone here with me now. To see that boy going stir- crazy over her is so sweet. Yet I feel bad for him at the same time. As of now, all I can do is a weight for her to come back to me, and see what blossoms, as he does as well.

That reminds me that I need to put the laundry out on the line and have the wind blow everything dry. While doing this I can see some of Kristen's things she wore, and it makes me sad. I do miss her, I miss a lot of things, I have been missing Lily a lot lately, and Jaylynn too. I have been feeling blue, yet this new love story keeps me living, I live to see all of you, in my life. It is one of those lovely days. So, let us hope, that I might even get enough pep, to walk past the old gazebo, and then past the long-standing mill, and see the timeworn remnants of the bridge...!

I would love to see if I can get to the ancient wishing- well that used to be in the garden, and throw two quarters in for two new young lovers to get their wish of being together. That is my hope for the day. Yet I have to pass the graveyard to, and I know I will have to stop there, and that is where I most likely will stay, the rest of the day. Not meaning too. That was one thing; I did every day when I was a girl. And you know I did get what I wanted.

I should have made the wish to keep them too, but I did not think about that, there is just something you just do not think about when you are young. Get older and you will see what I mean. I am hopeful they can get on that silver horse and they can ride off into the sunset like I always wanted to do... hopefully, the premonitions I had back when I was a young girl was for them, and they can go- go- go, and never look back on their past lives, and make the new start. Brandon, oh he is what I call a real carpenter, a hard worker and that is hard to find these days! He can make something out of nothing; I have seen it with my own old faded blue-gray eyes.

Um-hum he is cute- he- he. What-? I can still look, can't I? I see this in him. He is somewhat overprotective, extremely caring, and at times a bit melodramatic. Nevertheless, certainly romantic, he is perfect for her. He is old Fashioned though, in a good way, I like that, and I know she does too. His slicked-back wavy dark black hair and rock-solid body, and those gleaming brown eyes, which change to golden saffron in the sunlight. Are to die for, yet that is just me talking here, though.

Brandon- All she has to do is say my name and I get a week to her voice; I am in love, I cannot sleep I toss and turn, I cannot think my mind is heavy, or eat I cannot hold it down? I want to see her so badly yet I do not have a choice. All I can do is look at her photograph, and wish she were here with me. What is this sensation that makes me want more and more?

But- I know that I will have to walk alone as she prepares to walk in the fields of war someday. I don't want to be alone.

I do not know why but when she was gone, I wrote her love letters every week every Wednesday until the day she came back home, even though I could have sent it electronically. I got her rerun notes on Fridays. It means more to us that way- kind of like memories being made. I just felt that it would be more substantial, and romantic if it was handwritten being in my penmanship.

I have all of hers too. While she was gone, I asked grandma- Nevaeh what I could do for her and Kristen, and she said, that Kristen always wanted to make the homestead like it was back in the days of days, when it was a ranch. To get it looking nice once more. Will then that is- what I did. So, in the home, I put in new hardwood floors down, and I replaced all the old windows too and painted all the siding. Once again, the land with its gold grasses was postcard perfect. You should see it now!

I even got the old car that was in the back of the barn running. Sure, it needed a lot more work, but at least it can backfire along down the road, there a no brakes but it runs. I guess when you are in love, and lonely you have to keep your mind busy... to keep from going completely insane. I did not bath for like two weeks; all I wanted to do was make sure that when she got back, everything I did was perfect, and perfectly the way she always wanted it to be in her dreams, for her and also her grandmother Nevaeh.

She has been through so much she deserved an oasis, and I had a plan, that was going to be miraculous if I could get it to work out. So, that is what I did, I restored the house to what it looked like when it was first built. Then I also bought two horses named, Baylee, Rylee. As well as, two small ponies, I named Haylie and Kylie. It just cost me one of my older work trucks for the currency I needed, yet that was fine by me.

We needed some life running free around here, I felt. I love to see them all running off into the sunset, and hearing the neighing, snorting, and whinny sounds, they make with their breath. The barn is now used as it should be, I made a car-port on the side for the old cars. I had to fix up the wooden barn, and I added a new split rail fence next to it. So, that there would be a horse corral, that she could ride in without having to go in the bigger fields, if she, and maybe I wanted too. As a result, I fixed the path lights; and trimmed some of the fields using the 1951 gray Ford tractor. That has gears, and all kind of levers it is a pain in the ass. However, I wanted to keep one of the fields, as it was, with long hey. Mainly so, the dazzling golden grasses could stay as they were, blowing in the breeze. I like mixing the old with the new.

Nevaeh said- 'Don't you want to rest? From the porch day in and day out. And I said- 'No- Mam! No- I don't, this is for her and you.' She said- 'Okay then, don't get sick- now.' I worked myself to the point of delusion, and delirium. Though, I would do it all again in a heartbeat, for her my sweetheart. A girl can make any man crazy!

My hair was messed up, and my clothing was stained and dirty with sweat, I had Jalynn's old straw hat on most of the time, and I was chewing on one strand of grassy hay from the field. I lost fifty pounds, in like three weeks. I was looking downright cracked in the head. It is fascinating to me, but the whole time I was working, an old tune kept playing in my head. It was the words and melody to The Eagles- the song 'Desperado.' I just began to sing out of my mouth, as I was working, I do not know why, and I could not stop repeating it, day in and day out nonstop.

The song it goes- 'Desperado, why don't you come to your senses? You have been out riding fences for so long now...!' And so on, I sang it word for word over and over, until the job was done. Nevaeh, she even took photos with her childhood camera, some of me, some of the work I did, and some of the newly rejuvenated lands, she said that we could look back on this someday. I was like, okay- that is cool!

Chapter: 47

Her Boots of Freedom

Brandon- I remember one night, I was sitting out on the top rail of the fence, looking over all the things that I did. Then there she was walking to me. She was in her blue uniform, and I hopped off that fence, and she ran to me, as I was running to her. We hugged and she jumped into my arms crying, just as if it was forever since we have seen one another. As if it was years, in a way it was rather like that for us. That night she and I sat there under the stars, and she told me all about her experiences she had when she was gone. I love hearing her tell her stories!

Kristen- I only got to see her once again in a living form... when I got back. Nevertheless, her fight was over for her for the most part, she got her dreams, all but one. I knew the days were getting shorter for her.

Also, that is the old age I suppose, people go so long, and there is not a thing you can do. It is out of your hands. It is not what I want... yet that is what my life is giving me.

However, I wish she could have been there to see her great-grandbabies someday, nevertheless, she did get to see me in this uniform, and that was one of the happiest days in her life.

Nevertheless, you know somehow, she will be able to see all of us up there, I believe that. When she goes in these upcoming days. I just hoped she could see more big days in my life, before she leaves us, for- forever. I pray for more time!

Brandon- By the way she adored everything I did for her here at the homestead.

She said- 'you did this all for me?'

I said- 'I would do just about anything for you.' Can I ask you a question Kristen, is that okay?

She said- 'I guess... if you like...!'

So, I asked Kristen this very question. 'Are you in love with me?'

As we were sitting out under the stars, I recall that she lifted her small head to look into my eyes and began to cry with the note in her hand, and at that moment, she said the words... of course- 'Yes- I will!' So, I asked her if she would make me the happiest man in the world.

Then she said what would that be? So, I whispered in her ears, would you marry me tomorrow, now that you can? She said- 'I would love too.' then I opened the ring box, and I slid her Grandmother's heart-shaped engagement ring on her finger saying. -I love you, Kristen.

She whispered back in tears 'I do love you.'

Plus, she said Grandma Nevaeh, she is going to see our wedding isn't she! I said- I hope so, she is very weak. Then she wrapped her arms around me and kissed my cheek, and she nodded her head yes will do this tomorrow. Above us was the night sky, and we saw a shooting star, above and we knew that is love would last forever. It was like a good omen for us. It was the greatest day of my life, up to that point.

Nevertheless, it also means that someone would be passing on. One day later, we were married at the small red brick church, which she went to as a young girl. It was the day at last; it was here; there she was walking down the aisle. With the flower pedals, everywhere. I remember seeing the angel oak trees with their leaves blowing in the breeze; it was the perfect heartwarming day.

As I walked into the church. At that time, there were daisy and lily flowers all over the place on the floor, with the colors of white and pink in her bouquet, and some were even in her lovely hair, around the white lace veil, and of course next to the glittery silver princess tiara, which she wore.

However, there was no one to give her away, but right before the ceremony, this older gentleman walked up to Kristen, he could barely stand or speak, yet he got up on his own two feet, he was very weak, he said that he been living with lung cancer. Yet he said- 'I'll do it for the little lady.' That gentleman's name was Greg; he said that he knew Nevaeh, and he knew Kristen's mom, from way back when, so we both said okay, we all thought that was sweet of him to do.

We said our vows, 'I take you, to be my soul mate, to love what I know of you, and trusting what I do not yet know.' 'To love and hold and to grow old, as one soul. To get to be with you all the days of my life.

While falling even more in love with you every day, as we pray. To keep you in my life.' 'I promise to love, and cherish you through whatever life may bring our way, as we become- us!' We both quoted a remarkable saying by an astonishing person. 'Love it is like the cupid's arrow, that hits at the most unlikely times. We chose to be as one forever and ever to never- ever forget that bond... now and forever!'

(We all said -Amen! in the house of the Lord.)

You may kiss the bride!

Brandon- and I did!

Kristen- The kiss was magnificent and sweet. Then we walked out of the church together off into the sunset.

Nevaeh- I am glad that I got to be there to see them be married!

Greg, he walked up to me gave me two-note one from Jaylynn and the other from Lily, which he kept all these years. He did not say how he got them, and I did not ask. Yet I wonder? After the wedding and the after-party, I went home, I told the young lovers to- 'Go, and have fun, do not worry about me- loves, I will be fine. I will see you both when you all get back.' I said as they drove away, in there decorated just married a car, with all the cans bouncing around in the back. Yet I felt that was the last time, I was going to see them. I don't really know why.

So, I waited until that night as I was sitting in my chair in my spot looking over the land from the window. I looked at those notes that were placed on my desk, that has on it please do not open these letters until you think it is the last day of your life...! So now that Kristen is off on her honeymoon with her new love, let us see what these notes are all about. This is what Jaylynn's note said as I read it; note one it had on it in that order. 'Knowing that it was all meant to be, even though we could not foresee what was going to be, now open her letter to see what will be!' I recall saying that to her a lot when she was a kid! However, why would she write this 'See what will be' to me? Should I be scared?

I am tarified as to what I see, what is in front of me!

Chapter: 48

Paradise

Brandon- The honeymoon was at Hawaii Princes Hotels in Waikiki. I can still smell her perfume, for some reason it reminds me of strawberries, on that first night together. I am sure if that is not right at all. However, that is what I would compare the small too. I got us a suite room... but we wanted something more daring for our consummation though. Just like our love that was left inside, we had an awareness that could not be washed away, we were wild and carefree. While exploring the land and one another; we had a somewhat secluded pathway to walk down to an ornate gazebo, with tiki- torch-lights, that showed us the way, to one another's hart. Love was definitely in the air for us, and we did not care who or what saw us. Even if there were others around, we kissed, touched and played non- stop for what seemed to be days, yet I am not complaining. These were the best days of my life, so far.

The making of love! I know you're dying to know!

Question asked- Do I need to say this? Okay- I take two in when I do that... fingering myself.

So, anyways that night in the gazebo, she said that spot reminded her of home. Hence, in there, she pulled my pants down so fast the button, zip and skipped, like a stone on top of the pond. That we were on top of...! Anyhow, she was so wet down there, and so snug, I knew that I must have been the only man in her life. The ring was breathtaking; it looked good and made her feel good, I was okay with it.

It made everything even more sensitive to her, and that was a plus for me. I knew for sure, that night she was a virgin because all of her other boyfriends and unwanted partners went in using the back door only... if you know what I am saying; or they wanted other things done by her. You just do not bleed like, that if you are not a virgin. Plus, I believe what she said to me. I think she was one lucky and blessed girl to go, that long with what she had to keep away. She made sure that was the only place they could use at that time.

She fought to keep her innocents...! I would say good for her, and good for me! That moment was not wasted after all! Maybe there are some happily ever after's, in life after all?

Kristen- Yes, all those jokes at boot camp were true, but I knew what I wanted, and that was something special. Everyone always did have a pick on my butt, even since I was a small girl. 'Let's just say... I was always the butt of the joke.'

Brandon- I love her sense of humor. Even in all the pain, she can find wit. Okay back to that first night. The waves reminded me of her hair lying in puddles on the wood plank flooring of the gazebo. We have been wanting this; for some time. Yet we have been holding back for each other now for what seemed like an eternity. So, are destiny had it come to be! Oh yes, yes, and yes! That night was rewording and zealous.

‘Like even in the death of something or someone, there is a new life, which shares a part of how you and the past elders look, talk and behave.’ ‘I knew the life to come, would remind me of the past, which we left behind. I knew I would see that in their young faces someday.’ ‘The past is gone, yet the past comes back in new ways in the future to the parent and the present, sometimes you have to be left behind, and leave it behind you.

Nonetheless, it stays with you.’

Indeed, I remember massaging her feet and sucking on her small toes or whatever she wanted really. ‘I would do just about anything to please her.’ To find some of her erogenous zones, or so that is what she said at the time, I found out quickly what she liked. That it is all part of her signs...? She said. Works for me- I guess. She is a flirt! I recall she was seducing me all day with her big green eyes, and batting her eyelashes at me. Then flipping her hair, that day all day. Yet because she is old-fashioned, in some of her ways of marriage. That was the role she played, that she wanted me to make the first move, yet she did...? What could I say, I loved it, and she had an influence over me, she took control!

Though, I remember sliding down her pink panties down and off her legs and sliding her dress up and off of her petite little figure. I remember her fingers touching me everywhere, I remember placing my fingers in areas, which I had never had them before too. She said that I made her tremble, yet that I was what she calls a gentle lover. She was so gorgeous when she was looking up at me too; while she was on her knees!

However, nothing ever compared to her legs spread out before me like a canvas to paint on. She has one of the most- savory flavors of strawberries when kissing her little body. The same body I get to caress with mine now and forever, I am a blessed man! The kissing was exquisite, full of fun. That was one of the wedding nights, that I will never forget, day one.

I remember, we were like one in the twilight breeze, and it seemed as if our bodies were floating; yes, floating on top of the glassy blue-black pond in which we were on as if we had telekinesis like powers. All the reflections of the stars were shining their magnificent wonder of splendor for us in the still waters, and the dusking sky. That is just like now of days when that breeze moves through the fields it, sometimes brings me to my knees. When she is away from me on her deploying tours. I do not want her to leave me as she does, yet she has too when she is gone, I feel lonely here in the homestead without her, as the wind wafts by, not knowing if I will see her again. Okay, back to that night. How would I know, that something was in the making that night? We went against the odds, and we wanted that all to be left up to fate. Whatever would take place would take place, and if it was so meant to be it would be, and if not, then not.

Along with this, I was thinking at the time, I do... I want this, and I am- going to live with my choices, you and I make, no matter what happens. We love one another; we were united, for whatever happens. I did not care at all really; I am truly in love with Kristen, so I lived with the consequences of not pulling away from her. I good with knowing that we have to live with what we did, that night for the next eighteen years.

Yes, I am looking forward to it if conception happened. I think it would be awesome to have some little feet running in the home, and out in the fields too.

Let's get back to Kristen and me... that night... Being in those gentle arms, oh so lovingly as a soft tune was being hummed out of her moist lips in my ear with her soft sweet voice, and we slow danced under all the dazzling twinkling twilight lights.

We kissed, and kissed again. We stayed into the loving sensual spell of one another, eyes, breath, and touch. She was mine and I was here's. We were nude, her breasts shined in the moonlight, and her nipples were pointed as if they were looking at me as we were making love, her green eyes staring at me sweetly; everything on her was bouncing up and down as well as around it was incredible.

Her heavy breathing and her calling out my name. It was truly unforgettable! Yet she is sensationally incredible in everything she does. Her hips smacking into mine, she said that she loved me on top of her, and she intertwined herself, in my arms and legs around me. I had never felt anything like this before in my life when I entered in. I will never forget her green eyes rolling, and the sounds she made with high- the pitched voice sounds resonating in my ears, and the faces she made out of passion, it still takes my breath away. We went for about three minutes; she was moaning all kinds of words, a few that I am not going to repeat right now. But I think you could name some if you think about it.

I will never forget afterward she began to cry from her smoky colored eyelids, the eyeliner started to run down and drop off of her long-curved lashes, and the teardrop started to run down her sweet little face. She knew something magical just happened, and so did I. As a result, I just held her in my arms that night, until she fell asleep, with her head on my chest out on the gazebo. Then, I got up slowly and I carried her back to our room, and placed her in bed, along with myself, all nestled up! That nightfall our love ignited and never came apart, and yes, it is still going strong. I could never think of another girl this way ever again nor did I want to.

She was my first true love. I fell in love with her at first sight, and that feeling I felt was so right! That next morning, she said she liked to listen to my heartbeat, to get to sleep. As you would expect that was just one amazing honeymoon day and night, though it was not over at all. From the first day, I met her. I knew that nothing will even give me the slight tad bit of interest afterward; ones you get to know a girl like her, you will know what I mean... she is everything to me; she has it all. You want more from the same person like her over and over; because she is so wonderfully perfect and affectionate. Our bond is always endless until the end of all time. As you know, my heaven is being with her that will never- ever end. Besides, my hell is not being without her, because she has to be far away.

When she is not near to me, or in my arms. I never want to see her leave!

Adventures

Brandon- The second part of the honeymoon was a gift from grandma Nevaeh, she booked us an antique 1920's, long forgotten steam locomotive train tore, and all the staff was dressed like the period. Yet we had one of the classic bedroom cars that were attached, called a caboose...!

~*~

Kristen- The dining car was a different experience that is for sure, one night we had what is called a hobo lunch. Involving, pulled pork, cornbread, and iced tea in a mason jar. Not what you would call classy but nice, it must have been what great- Grandma Hope grew up with I would imagine. Grandma Nevaeh thought that it would be romantic for us... and it was, it was spectacular to be on the rails like they did back in the day, I did not think that was possible to find... but she found a tour for us.

I remember hearing all-aboard and the steam whistblowing. Yet, we were rather worn out from the past couple of days, as Brandon said in a way too much detail. I have to add! Yes, we got to see the countryside as they did back then, at a nice leisurely speed twisting through the hills chugging along. We did not get to sleep much this whole trip either, I felt somewhat nauseated at times from the rocking of the car. Nevertheless, that did not stop me from having a good time. Like my husband implied when he was talking to you! However, we both loved it... How things have changed since way back then with traveling!

~*~

Brandon- I have to tell you this before I forget too. On the day of our wedding, Nevaeh handed me a list of places she wanted me to take Kristen, and to get photos of every stop along the way. For the reason that she said that is what she always wanted to do. So that is what we did, we checked everything off her list. When we got home, we were completely exhausted as you would have guessed, to start our lives together.

Though, we have good memories to look back on; That we had made... all the photos that we took of us, are now printed in black and white, and they are part of the gallery on the walls of home... along with the old ones. They look as if they were taken with an old vintage shutter camera, or like she would have taken them herself. That was the look, which I was going for. Yes, another dream of hers was completed!

That is what I wanted to do for her; she was so good to us!

~*~

Kristen- This is a good one...! I later found out that when Matt figured out that I was not in the back of the trunk. That night he shot himself with a double-barrel shotgun. By putting the bullet in his mouth, and using his toe to fire it. I have that picture in my mind... and it scares me, yet I was safe all along, and how I worried, and could not sleep or eat and ran from him. Why do you ask? I presume that he did that for not getting the job done, for the clan, and he knew they would kill him anyway. For the reasons that he knew that he was going to face their wrath at some point. Since he failed at killing me. Yet I cannot say that I feel deprived of his company!

'Everyone gets a turn.' He got his... need I say more!

That was his only choice to do that I surmise. What pisses me off... is that I lost out, on so much because of him.

I did not know that he was not going to find me!

I did not know that he was not going to bother me anymore!

I did not know that he was going to be found in the woods, with the gun in his mouth, with maggots feasting on his head and his putrid remains.

The condoms Matt used on me were still in his abandoned vehicle in the woods, and in the cabin all over the floor, and there was one even still on him when he was found undressed. Without a doubt, they all had my DNA - I will call it on them, along with his. Some with my saliva and some with my fecal matter.

Grossed - out yet?

Yeah! -well me too!

He was guilty as sin! Yet, Matt, he is dead, there was no justice to face. Yet, I feel he had to face someone for what he did, I am sure of that, maybe my mom...? There was something there, At least that is how I feel about it, and someone or something had to take him to the lowest pits of hell. I hope it was her. I am starting to believe that! I have my reasons. Call me old-fashioned, I do not care. I believe that a real man does not need to use protection. Because if he loves the girl as Brandon loves me, he is not afraid to get her pregnant. However, only if that is what the girl wants him to do. Remember to be respectful of each other's wants and needs.

This is just my opinion. Just like Brandon said in Hawaii, that night, and nights after we were attached forever from that movement and moment in time. He asked me, and I said it was okay, just so you all know. I remember we could hear the soft wave hitting the side of the land yet it was mostly in a cum relaxed way, yet there were some, which swayed and swirled around and traveled in words, that we could hear, and from our room looking out from day to the night. We could smell the mist in the air as we laid together, on the bed with the double doors wide open. We could see the tops of the trees dancing in the tropical airstream, and the colorful birds, that would fly down and nearby to the beach.

We could see families!

We could see children at play, in their little swimsuits.

I was thinking that would be just like us someday. I was seeing a young boy and a cute little girl make a sandcastle together. As the mom and dad overlooked.

Then we could see lovers just like us kissing and holding hands.

We could see the ocean, for what seem to be miles.

We could see what we wanted!

The gazebo, I recall that we walked along the lovely white bridge that links two walkways across the water, to the structure itself.

Then that is when things, became almost supernatural, so spiritual too, it was like I could see different types of love cherubs around me, and one younger girl angel, I pondered who she was, and why she was looking at me? Yet it was like I knew her, yet I just could not place her, at the time. As he said, there are no other words describe what happened, along with the touching and the feeling of us together. Oh, my god! What my grandma was saying was true about what she could see, because I can see them too! I must have that ability.

Did she pass this down to me?

How...?

How could this be?

I lost so much to the tower curse, and her clan's just like grandma Nevaeh predicted. But- yet somehow, I feel that I was the winner in this one. Nevertheless, I feel that somehow, they will get the last laugh. From what I have seen from the past, it is coming. The only questions are- when, where and whom? Who was that girl- I saw?

Should I know? The better question is- do you know?

Chapter: 50

The Journey Home

(Ten months later)

Kristen- So-o, Brandon and I would like to take this time so that you could meet our- two newborn twin babies.

They are such a joyful addition to our lives. Yet, I am sorry to say that Grandma never saw them, when she was thriving, she is next to her husband my Pappy, now and my Mom and her childhood girlfriend named Lily. Nevertheless- so, anyway, say hello to- Noah- Jay and Nevaeh- May. They are a lot of work, but we love them so much, they brought happiness to my life now that she is gone.

Nevaeh- (Going back about eleven months in time, the same night Kristen and Brandon, left for their honeymoon trip.)

So, now that I have some time to myself, I have been wondering what is in this envelope? This was the last note Lily wrote to anyone.

It has on it- to Neveah.

I will open it. I will read it. It reads- Note- I always felt that nothing would ever change how I felt about you. Nor did I care what they would do to me, for loving you. You will know what happened to me, I will be leaving you, the next day. Yet you will not get this note until the end of your time after you have had all the lessons of life that you need to learn, and for others to learn from you. When you receive this note it means that you have passed the test that was asked of you, that it is time to make the journey home. After you read this, which is when I will be coming back to you for the last time. You will be seeing me! I can see you- now!

Note- Know that I always wanted to be your lover, and I wanted to make hot passionate love to you. Know that you did not want me, as I wanted you, and I could not take it. They wanted me more than you too... that way, and it made me crazy. Though they did it because they knew I wanted you so badly, and I said I would rather die than not be with you. I dyed for your Neveah! For the reason that they could not keep me away. However, they did not know that even in death they could not keep me away from you, being a white angel.

When you burn this note, know that I have always been in love with you. Still, when you do, this will be the end of your life's, and the towers curse... on you. Also, it is the end of me being with you, like a spirit on earth, I will be looking over someone that you know, yet she is new for me, she will be seeing me, as I have seen you. This would be the start of your new life with me, and we can finally all be together in eternal life. So, when you choose to burn this letter, we all can be here together ones again and you can be with me, and all of them.

I always will Love you,

You're- Lily May 28, 2010

Come with me, upwards!

(The handwriting was shaky and misspelled, but I knew it was hers.)

Nevaeh- It is time to light up this note in flames! I got everything I wanted now; I have lived long enough.

I want to go home!

I started this breathtaking journey, through seeing the light.

I got my wings of white it was the time at last, as I went up with her. I went through the gates to my new homeland.

Kristen- The note was my mom's suicide letter, and Lily's return, and my grandma Nevaeh, could not handle it.

That was the day; she died in her lazy boy, from what the experts said it was a heart attack. Yet you and I know differently.

I guess the girl; I was seeing was younger angel Lily. As she was taking her away, letting me know that everything was going to be okay. She was looking out the window over the golden fields that she loved. She was holding her notebook, which I made into this novel. So, that she could always be remembered for the amazing life she led, and what her life existence was all about.

She got every one of her dreams! We- Brandon and I made sure of that. However, with the help of all the ones that truly loved her, as she loved them. She got to be what she wanted to be, just in a way, that others could not see. That she thought would never be. If only back when she was fourteen, she could have foreseen what was to be.

Maybe she would not have had these lives of extraordinary, with all the people like me.

Nevaeh- My last heavenly breath on earth was the first in the heavens. And... there they all were, they are all the same, as the last time I saw them. But now we all are glowing with white wings and can be together forever, the hugging and love will never end. I got to see him at last! Nevertheless, there is one more girl, which needs to be up here with me. I will get her to come home with me; we all up here feel that she has earned that right!

Kristen- I never knew that what she was telling me over the years was true! I made a promise to publish this story. So, that she could always be thought of for the love she had for the ones that never left her side. All I can say is that the curse must have gone away somehow; for the reason that I am still here. -I hope so! Just to think that I have grandma Nevaeh's first copy of the book that she wrote mainly for herself, and the ones that she loved, to see if they wanted to see it.

Though I thought that the whole world needed to see her work, as I said. She thought that it was not even publishable, because of what bullies of all types pounded into her way of thinking in her mind. However, it was an incredible story! Her script became an overnight top New York Times bestselling book; she won many author awards also, that I accepted for her. Looking back over the old pages, all it needed was an editor. That is what I did for her when I came home. Yes, she was one of those truly great writers, which only come around in one life's existence! 'It was her dream, and the amoral dream never dies.' Her life stories helped me out, and now they are helping- out a lot of people out there. Yet- 'Death is so final thought.'

Yet- I have her memories that will live on within me, as do all the others that read this very story. Furthermore, if you talk well about someone, he or she never dies in your memory.

~*~

(Five years later)

Then one late summer's night, at sunset we were riding our horses, with the twins on their ponies, through the golden fields.

We all were looking at everything that has changed, and everything that has stayed the same way, even after all these years. We want the kids to know the stories of where they come from. The trees were blackened, in the foreground, because of the colorful backgrounds, that was painted so beautifully by the sun setting ahead of us. That is when we all saw a white bright light, which seemed to flutter by us like a cold breeze, which left our hearts feeling warm.

What is it I asked?

It cannot be said- Brandon.

Then we realized that there were three of them in the sky, in this bright glowing shimmery white. As a result, we got off our horses, so that we could walk up into the openness of the meadow to look up in amazement. At that moment, we could finally understand what we were seeing. The faces were so clear; there they were coming down from the heaven's, three beautiful white angels, Grandma Nevaeh as a young girl, Mom Jaylynn, and young Lily. They did not say anything more to us, or then a very soft whisper of- We love you. However, they were looking over us, as we walked in the fields together holding hands.

Noah was holding my hand, as little Nevaeh was holding her dads, as I was holding his. We had a child on either side of us, pressed upon our one leg while looking up in amazement, the same way we were.

Yes, we had the same speechless jaw-dropping look on our faces as the children did on these. What can I say other than, that we are blessed, they were smiling and gleaming and their wings flapping? Then as fast as they were there they were gone; they flew away back up to their home in the heavens. I often try to picture, what the heavens will look like.

Nevaeh- I will be looking over them, as you should know, and all of you to; I will see you from above! I will be protecting you!

Kristin- I am sure it is something that cannot be expressed in words; because it is so gorgeous, that my brain cannot grasp the concept. Then again, if I had to give an idea of what it is like up there... this is what I would say. What I have come too believed as true, is that it is like a city within the clouds. A metropolis with gold paved highways, which bridge the gaps from one part of it to another part. There are many towering endless homes, which shine like gemstones, with gold windows and silver trimmings in all of the high- rises. The households have extremely pointed rooftops, which end at different elevations.

As well, the depths seem to be never-ending; with their voluminous levels and heights, of color in all ranges of the spectrum that gleam.

Heaven is expansive with one massive getaway aperture to the earth below.

Through the galaxy, bypassing what we call a black hole to another universe, and that is how you get there, with the help of your angels, as you pass on through to the other side. Which is why no human has been able to reach it, for a reason. That is what I believe, and yes, I have my reasons. Heaven is endless... it is a celebration of interminable soul life. As I said now the novels, titled 'Nevaeh' has been published to the world! What is ironic it is in a hardcover book, which sparkles in its wander over its reader because that is what she wanted, that was what all of her lives were about. Currently, there is a copy of her life's existence and her story in the hands of every young girl or woman and some cool guys, in all the lands all around the world! What an awesome way to end her story.

So, best of luck to you my friend, just remember no matter how bad something becomes, there is always an end in sight. You do not ever have to live in fright. Just enjoy the ride of life and hold on tight. Because sooner or later all your towers will be out of sight, and everything will start feeling right. Just remember to follow the beacon of light, or be the hope and delight for someone else's life, so that they can shine brightly; never give up the fight! Live life in the air of the wings, and someday soon we will all meet again, and the voices we miss will sing.

This is why we have lived it is a test to see if we can have the true faith we need. True faith is not having everything going your way it is when life sucks the most you will know the most, of where you are going in the days of days, and also in the endings. That is why we have new beginnings. What is your life going to be about?

How do you want to be remembered? What do you want to be...? Because anything is possible, if only you believe, it will come true!

Do not give up on your life.

Book: 7

Falling too You

'A BOOK OF WHAT NOT TO DO- as a teen girl. This book shows, a life of a girl and how she will be remembered- and what you see you may say is- wow- yet this was her life, online- and at home- and most importantly at school! Is it all about being the cool girl? With that cute boy and maybe that girl- if you're like me- you can't make up your mind- on what was wrong or right or was right or wrong at the time.'

Preface:

I have been told by many out their life is wonderful, that life's a game, but it's not fair, I break the rules, so I don't care! That it is thrilling to be part of the freaking world of butt holes. I got news for you; I did want all that. I have been tooled, that dying you see the light too, along with the flashing by of your stupid pathetic life.

Yet, at least I had a stupid pathetic life. Just like my great-grandma Nevaeh Natalie, grandmother Jaylynn, and my freaked-up mother Kristen, oh and also my dad, and mom said- 'she was I was born on May 12, 2001.'

She had me later on in life to another freaker she's even more freaked up than my step-monster, after Brandon my real dad passed from something that I cannot pronounce, I don't want to talk about it- finding out how she left him, for someone else other than him, which she said she would happen or never- ever do. He ended it... Besides, that was it... I am not saying more; I do not want to... I don't freaking have too. Freak that crap in the butt! Yet sometimes, I feel like such a steep-child, yet in a way that is just what I am. However, my daddy loves me anyway, yet my little sis is their biological child.

I was adopted before they realized that freaking one another in the old-school hallways would not work for them, anyway, it would not be long until she gets knocked up, with my pain in the butt sister Kellie. When she dropped out.

I never really knew my real dad; my dad was always the one that was everything to me. Yet my mom is the monster, and I the mutant, (E-ugh! She said- 'When she saw me as a baby girl in the nursery.') However, she felt that way about me since day one, and I feel the same, damn- yes, the same way the same damn way. It was a new day... that fell to me... to me, if you think about it; I have always been falling.

Honestly, I thought that someday, 'I would do wonder and crap cucumbers.' Never truly pondering my last moments on this gray-green dying plant, we call earth. Looking over those visions from my past, mind it seems rather dreadful, nasty and bleak. Just plan sadly really.

Lonely in my memories, I felt that nearly if not all things would have improved if it was just covered up, cover over and forgotten about completely in sixth grade. A fail to recall if you well. That would be awesome.

It was the time of the change... no longer a little one, the time when, I was starting to see things happening, to me that I did not want to see. Like- passion pink braces on my unperfected overbite teeth along with 'Pimples, periods, hips and boobs- oh my... I just want to cry or die.'

Moreover, I was utterly feeling all kinds of things that I didn't want to feel. I was feeling too old for toys and want to feel up one of the older boys. I was an 8th grader, Yes, I was at that stage of my life... it feels strangely good and yet very weird too. 'Oh yes- Live's through middle school all over again.' All the days off. All the days on... all the days- I was turned off, to all of them.

And yes, all the days, I was turned on!

Yet, really can anyone stand to relive that day... I mean really! Let's not forget I had to spend time with the family, on the brakes, then to come home and do all the pointless homework like advanced mathematics. When I got most of that crap done sitting in long study halls not able to move or say a sound, with period cramps, yeah- I know fun right!

Kissing with open mouths, like breath sucking and tugs brushing Frenching.

As well as thinking about what boy, I want to have sizzling, exhilarating, desiring sex with is all I thought about! Plus- when, where, and how! Yes, I have had some really bad kisses, make-outs, and hookups... who hasn't? So much so, I barely survived through them the primary time it happened. Just like the world keeps going around, this was not my first go-around either.

Frankly, I thought I would not have minded living through all that again. What I thought where the ultimate times of all. Like the time I made out with a girl in the hallway slammed upon her locker, she was touching me in all the right places, let us just say. Anyways her name is Jenny Stevenson. She the type of girl that is a friend to try things with. Yes, I have been with a girl too. Mostly, I just wanted to see what being a lesbian world feel like. It was okay, it feels just as good. Though, I knew boys were my thing. However, I am the type, I will try anything once, even sex-wise!

Though I thought, my paramount triumphs where with Ray Raymond, and like when we first hooked up underneath the football stadium bleachers. I knew everyone could see us doing it with his pants down, and my bare butt sticking out and up, as the game was going on. Still, we were in the moment, we did not care.

The PDA was half the fun of doing it, it was all about getting some.

I remember being wasted too, with my friends like Jenny, Kenneth, and Madeline. Yet we just called her Maddie. Like- I said we got so drunk and high, that we went skinny dipping in like old man's pool weather thirdly two degrease, and then made messed up looking snowman, and running around the street somewhat ass naked flashing whomever we would get to look at us.

Naturally, we even made snow angels in the backyard as we stumbled around, and passed out. No one cared what we did really, thus far that was the fun of it all. Oh, and Kenneth was just the boy that only wanted one thing from Jenny.

He had no personality to speak of... he would hit on me all the time, and sometimes he would get it from me too, or I would be out of the group by her if he said I was the one that wanted it from him.

We could brake widows out of old buildings and homes, and who would stop us. Sure, we got chased by the cops, yet that was the fun of it too. There is nothing else for us to do. I remember Maddie leaving her handprints in the wet mud, Jenny her butt, and some of her lady-ness, when the town thought it was time for new sidewalks. Yet we all did, something that would last forever, we thought. Maddie drew a few other things too. You can get the picture! All inappropriate... all there for life.

She was just crazy like that, like squatting down peeing and doing number two in the old man Jackups yard. She has more balls than most guys... I knew. Old man Jackups called us, 'Mindless slutty hooligans' So that was payback. At the time- I thought like what is wrong with that, we're just having some fun here... your old windbag, like go and sit on your cane! You know what I mean... I think?

I remember being so smashed at my sweet sixteen too, that I don't even remember it. Yet that is what having a good time was all about, so they say. Bumping and grinding on all the boys with loud music. And as the twinkling lights shine on your skin, that lights the way up to your bedroom. You know that your puffy dress is going to be pushed up a couple of times on that night. I just don't remember how many times it was, and I didn't remember who it was with, I am not even sure if I know them at all... all of them or not. All I know is I did it all and was happy to do whatever they asked me to do. But- but I thought I was having the time of my life. I was the birthday girl, that had the rosiest pink lipstick on most boys at the party. I thought it was such a horror. In my mind at the time, I thought that I high- jacked the rainbow, and crashed into a pot of gold! All the girls my age did it, yet I was the best at it!

I recall the time Liv and I, went trick or treating I was dressed as Hermione from the Harry Potter movies, Liv was a sexy witch! With the pointed hat. So, original...! That is what I tooted her. That was the night we scared the pants off of Ray in the not so scary haunted house. And before you ask, he was dressed as Harry. So, I wanted to play with his wand, that why I dressed the way I did at the time. Liv was one of those good friends... I thought, which would tell everyone what you all did the day after, to all the girls at the lunch table. She can text faster than anyone I know. Anyways... we jumped out at him, and he nearly craps his nicely pressed pants. I am sure there was a skid mark on his tightly- white-ies or something. Yet he did yack on Liv's chest, and that was hilarious to me. She was dancing around, and flapping her hands doing the funky chicken while yelling, 'Ou- ou- ou- wah!' As I dibble over in lather, I guess it was funnier when it doesn't happen to you too many times.

I- Karly takes their fingers in me when I masturbate, just thought you would like to know.

Jenny and boy, we-we's she takes them all, sometimes she has two going in the same whole, two boys in there rubbing their crap seem guy to me even if it's a three-way.

Maybe... all of this is not what I wanted to be remembered for. I guess what I am saying is, I wanted to be remembered for how I have- 'Fallen to You!'

However, before I kicked the bucket... I did think of Ray, or anyone- or another boy. No one is other than my selfish self. The clueless girl I was, living for the now, and not the happily ever after! Hell no...! I did not think about that. I did not think about all the dangerous, shocking, and even offensive things I have done with my friends. I did not even think about my family, like if they would even care about me being or not being around. Nope, I was too busy sucking off chill dogs and running around silly doing honorable things.

I did not even think about my adorable girly bedroom, and how the sun shined silky waves of light, in the window. Besides, how it woke me up as my days started. I did not think about the soft and cozy things in that room either, or the selfie photograph of me, and Ray kissing sitting on my night table. I did not think about how you can smell the rain rolling in on a spring day, as the window was open, or feel the chill in the air as I stood by it in the middle of December.

‘Oh, let the sun beat down apron my face, and let the sounds caress my ears, I have been blind!’ I do not think about all the smells and feelings of food and family coming from down the steps or in the home at all. I completely ignored everything and it all just to be the cool girl.

Instead, I thought of Jenny and Maddie back in the third grade how we used to play kickball and miss in our gym class. I also thought about that girl that no one liked too that no one wanted on the team including me.

I think her name was Madilyn, I remember this because, I was the last one to pick, and she looked so sad and I did not say anything as she sat crying in the grass picking yellow dandelions the whole class. I was such an ass for my friends. I guess that guilt gets you at some point. I member how they and I said she was too weird and disgusting to play with us, and that she could not see what she was doing, because of her blue-eyed four- eyes. Meaning her glass on the fragile flushed face. I guess I get to be friends with these girls because they were what I wanted to be. I was not always friends with them I remember from seconded grade and back. Yes, I was just like her before, I joined their team. I would have done anything to be one of them, which is what I did.

‘Look at the little freak over there sitting’ Jenny said, and we all giggled.

‘Let’s kick our balls in her face, so she runs off crying for her mommy again like before.’ And- that is what we all did; the goal was to break her glass of her face.

‘Like she is not even going to try to move said Maddie.’ BAM smack one! BAM smack two...! Me- direct hit- BAM! Furthermore, she goes running away just the way we wanted! Jenny always found a way of making us snicker at the dumbest crap, like that. I- we- never forget that girls face! Red with pain, and dripping with her tears, dandelions in hand that she picked for us. Just so, we would like her! That all faded away from me. Just like the furry white ball of seeds that blow away as she rains inside.

I can't believe that is what, I remembered!

This was more my beforehand death instant when I was theoretic Madilyn meant to be having some kind of vast revelation about my past. My moment froze like in time to the recollections of the slight of nail polish, and the squeak of my white dollar store flats as I walked on the waxed high school floor. The tightness of my skinny blue jeans, with one of my lacey junior's nine- dollar Walmart thongs. The small of my wild cherry blossom shampoo, and Let's not forget the laughing chatter in the resonating cafeteria of about sixty other teenagers.

Oh...! Yes! Moreover, Jenny's face all up in mine.

The odd thing is that I have not thought about that in like what seemed to eternity ago. It was one of those reminiscences, I did not even know I kept. Like lost in my brain somewhere... If you know what I am saying.

It's not like Madilyn was disturbed or devastated anything like that. That is just the kind of things that kids do to girls like her, and what kids do to one another.

Like there are just asking for it! However, come to think about it, no one wants that. It is no big deal it is not.

Like there is always going to be that girls laughing and picking on other girls. Crap that happens every single day, walking the halls of the schools or just sitting in class, which is just the life of every teenage girl in the United States of America- damn... it most likely happens in other countries too for all I know. That is what life's all about laughing at what is less than you.

Additionally, feeling better because of it.

Madilyn was not stupid, she was just all little sightless, and by the time she went to high school, she lost the glass and was not a bad looking girl at all just shy. She was always tiny, at that time she had boobs and hips that would not quit. Yet she was still the one that got picked on. I do not think I had ever said more than two words to her. Though I think, Maddie was hushed friends with her just, so she could get her homework done. Madilyn was the smarty- pants in our grade. Likewise, she was on the softball time too, with us yet she sits alone most of the time. Yet she did not seem too mined.

One time, during our freshman, it came to one of the big parties and said that she was a virgin and did not drink. We all laughed at her. I remember Jenny- saying get down on your knees girl and see what it is like. And she did, and I get it all on my phone and posted it on my web page.

Then Maddie said, to me we need to get that girl popped. Therefore, I found her a random scuzzy guy to go and do her. I had to- yet I do not know why, but I feel as if that was so wrong now, yet I did it for my friends at the time. It was no different than what I went through really. If you were not given it all away by the time you were in training bras then there was something majorly wrong with you, or so the boys and some girls thought. I was the one that had her purity taken away, to some twenty-five-year-old loser. Like she was only fourteen! But like I said... I was a lot younger my first time, so maybe that makes it okay. What do you think?

I remember, Madilyn doing the walk of shame, we all have been there. Yet like I said that was the fun of it, seeing all that taking place in front of everyone at the party. I am not going to go into detail, but you could see that she was ridden hard and put away wet.

We all laughed at her after the fact, because she said it hurt and did not know what all that 'stuff' as she called it... was all over her face and body. 'What do you think it is.' said Jenny. 'I- I DON'T know' said Madilyn downright freaked out. Just so, you know I am not saying this to be gross or anything like that... No! This crap is what happens to us pre-teens and teens, I was one of them. Yet will I always be remembered for being one of them, just like that I am afraid so, I am afraid to live it all over?

That was just one of many weird things we have done.

Even weirder to me than that, was the fact that we all talked about- like how it would be for one of us to die... if we would. Sex, drinking, and death were the main topics most nights. Yet that nightfall I do not remember how it came up in the conversations, other than Kenneth complaining that I got to sit in the front seat- aka 'shotgun' with Jenny after the party I guess I was where he thought he should be, and you know that wearing a seatbelt is for pussies.

I do remember us talking about what are bucket list would be, yet to me, I thought mine was almost complete. The rap music was so loud, that we were yelling at one other just to overhear. Jenny kept going through her I-phone to change the song and text her other friends and boys, her phone was in her right hand in her lap. One reason, I sat there is because- I was the one that was meant to pick the music so she could drive. I remember hearing the lyric- 'To the window to the walls...' the song was 'Get

Low!'

However, Jenny was so high, and Maddie was singing in the back to the words making her hands go in-between the front seats, and that was comical because she is as white as they come. I remember that is when we started shouting our theory on death and the afterlife, or if there is one. I thought there was... yet I was not sure. We were all gathering what those would be.

Jenny was b*tching about how could it be and going to be, in the ground, and like her beautiful body is going to be eaten away overtime in her sealed casket. That made my skin crawl.

We were all like you're going to die you're not going to feel anything dumb ass. Then Maddie said my dying wish is to hook up with Lizzy, Sam, and another all at the same time and never stop.

Hey, why not they were both very sexy hot girls. I could see that fantasy of doing it with until death. I was a little pissed that I was not one of the girls in that scenario but it's her death wish not mine. Yet this kind of surprising to me, because Maddie was never that way at all. Like she has a boyfriend of two years. However, there love life was always on again and off again. The makeup hookups are all that kept them together... I think...?

Jenny was gaping down yet another whole can of bud light, as Kenneth was puffing on one of his homemade joints. I had to roll the SUV window down a crack just to catch my breath. The frizzing rain was pelting the windshield; the wipers could not even keep up to brush it off. The trees were rushing and swaying in the ghostly breeze showing up in the light cast of the headlights of our SUV, as we're doing at least ninety- five down the small, dark ruff, and narrow road.

Yes, the slush was coming in on me and getting me cold and wet.

Then Kenneth grabbed Jenny's phone from her lap and changed the song to 'Hero' by Enrique Iglesias just to piss Maddie off because that is her and her boyfriend's song. That is when she started to cry and said he broke up last Friday via text, he knew about it before I did. Yet no one likes getting dumped, so I forgave her for not saying anything.

Tom was a drippy twerp what can I say. I was only with him once that I remembered. At that sometime ken in the back was slumped forward in between me and Jenny, when he graded Jenny's phone... Manly, so he could also touch jenny's lady business in between her inner thighs. I could see it all as he moved her skirt up and undershorts off to the one side, and he was rubbing it up if you know what I am saying.

Anyways that made her- jump!

Then scrum plus freaking shriek in my ear! I grab the steering wheel to get the SUV back in our lane, as ken's mouth dropped open and his smoking joint fall in between my boobs as the SUV rocked, and it was burning hot in my bra cleavage.

Around that time, Maddie elbowed me in the one eye trying to get my clasp undone to get it out. The joint then fall in between my legs and was burning my set yet I did not know. Yah so then Jenny was b*tching and about that too, saying you cannot trash my car. Like she didn't care that it was burning my sensitive skin. I was cushion at her to... as well saying it a good thing I shaved today! Well, I was trying to brush all the embers off the seat, and also me.

As all this was taking place as the tires of the SUV were skidding and slipping on the somewhat frozen slash a little. Then just like that, there was a flash of white in my eyes. Jenny was yelling something- words I could not make out.

Son- of a- Sh- sh- hit, oh my-y goo- that all I heard.

That is when I knew that the SUV was wrapped around a tree it hit on the passenger side front door. It hit so hard that it bonds off the then and then rolled on to its roof. We skidded to the other side of the road next to the woodlands that were on that side. The last thing I heard other than screeching Jenny's big mouth, was the sounds squealing of the metal of my door, glass, airbag exploding, popping and crunching into me. The SUV folded in on me like a pretzel, and caught fire, mainly because of the gas leaking out and maybe that one joint that fall to the floor.

As I said, that is when Maggie's little faces flash out of the past into my view. It is like I could hear her from the past her giggling echoing her crying too. It was all spinning around me dragging out into a screaming yell. Then nothing- nothing at all but silences! Like what gets me, if you don't get to know, it is not as if you wake up with cramps and go on with your day.

No, you don't remember to tell the boy you like that you think you're falling in love with him. You don't remember to say goodbye to your parents, or that you readily do love them even though you don't show it. In my case, I didn't remember to say annoying at all to them that day. I guess that was not nice, and what I was made about with them was so minor compared to not saying good-bye.

If you are anything like I am, you wake up and do what you need to do in bed and leave it a tangled mess. Then jump in the shower and scrub it up. Hop out wet to air dry while dances around naked as you look in the mirror glass to get all partied up, and then just like that five minutes and ten seconds later. Your boy or girl is at the curb going Beep- beep to pick you up, you rush out the get into the car and speed so you're not both too late. You're not worried about seeing your mom, and dad as a teenager.

If you think at all like me, you think... I am young, I not going to die. You're more concerned about what boy you want to kiss if he misses you when you're dating anniversary is coming up, if you're going to get a flower on Valentine's Day and what color it is, and if you're going to be in his arms in the halls at some point in the school day.

Too busy about that stuff like your clothing, brushing your long hair and teeth. Plus, making sure that you put your make-up and another thing all in your handbag, so you can do the finishing touches in homeroom and the girl's bathroom. Said to say that the time I was supposed to be praying to God at that moment before the bell, I was not caring about anyone but myself and my wants and needs. So, if you're just like me then your fail day on this planet goes something like this:

Chapter: 51

Beep, Beep, Buzz, Buzz

My day begins with Jenny aka (Jenna) Talya- laying on the horn in her black 2003 ford focus with the paint peeling on the hood. And reading a text from my bestie Jenny saying- 'Don't forget b*tches, it's love-o-grams day!'

My mom yells out the door every day not to do that, yet it goes in one ear and out the other with Jenny. Jenny does what Jenny wants to do. Yet that horn has a way of like going through you... you know. Especially at five- fifty-five every single morning.

'Hurry the hell up, I am not getting any younger over here!' She yells out the window of the SUV. And my mom yells about that too, 'stop cursing!' Then I say something like 'Keep your pants on... I am coming! I am 'cumming!'' As the nosey neighbor lady peeps- out one of the slats of their window blind at us. It always seems to be I am running to get where I am going, even from house door to car door. Most of the time passing up that one book up on the floor, which you need for class on the way out without thinking, in such a rush. I don't even put on Rays letterman jacket he gave me to wear, I balled it up in my arms. Just like my purse and backpack zippers somewhat open, that was just thorn in my one right shoulder.

Right before that my darling pain in the ass little sister Kellie, who is ten years old. She grabs one of my bookable handles and tugs me back off my footing. WHAT- is it! I spun around looking like a demon child just snarling at her. She said crying I just wanted to hug you, Karly. And I said- forget it... I am late now, and can't you see I am texting my 'BF! -Boyfriend' So stop wasting my time little girl.

(No- I know I am not a very nice person. I know that now! Yet I did think! I thought I was going to see her letter that night. I would give anything to have going back and hugged her that last time... that day.) It seemed that I was always too busy to spend any time with her.

As a teen girl, like I said. My time was mostly spent on boys- well mostly Ray, talking and getting together, and partying to be popular. I thought that was what living a good life was all about. It's just as if she always picked the worst times to try to bother me. Um- I'm not perfect, and there is only some much time in the day to play, and she wanted to play all the time.

Though, I can see her turning into a little me. I was the one she looked up too. Mom was certainly trying to get her some help for her impulsiveness; we all think she has ADHD or something for how clinging she is. She is mom and dad's favorite though I feel, that girl is not what I would call under-loved that's for sure. Yet mom and dad don't see anything wrong with her having all that energy, and to be like running around, sucking down the soda and cramming down the junk food. She is picked on to like; I was before I fall into jenny's hand of friends. I hope she can do the same. All at the same time I hope she doesn't, I don't want to see her fall into the wrong as I did.

I want to see her fall for a nice sweet boy someday that she loves. Not give it all away like- it did, just so I would not get teased about it. I guess the apple doesn't fall far from the tree though, she takes after me! In like every way. She is just like me! I have always fallen for the wrong people too and stumbled on the ones that loved me... like Ray.

Love is complex something that I guess I will never understand; I think... I have fallen in love with him. Until now I think I hold out another day to tell him how I feel. That I have to mean it when I feel I am fallen. (Little did

I no... he would never truly know.)

My little sis is always touching my stuff like my make-up and trying on my sexy short dress, short shorts, bras, and thongs. I have to just pat her on the head, and say what did I tell you about going through my thing. She is giggling- I am not too. Yes! That's right... so don't do it again- I say. (Ugh really how you would like your sis putting your underwire and stuff like that on?) She thinks it's okay to run around in the house in just underwire bottoms and less mom and dad say that okay, it's cute she's only seven. Yet if I would try that- oh my... the only place I can do that, is in my room.

Little sis's are always asking a personal question too. Like why do you have this and that and I don't on my body, or can you teach me to do what you're doing- please sis. Because she's always busting in on me when I am on my bed.

Like hello- embarrassing! Yet she still witches me even if I grunt out to leave. I have no privacy at all she always jumps up on the bed with me and has to ask a lot of questions.

'What yah doing- Karly?' Um- what do you think? 'I don't know... like- what's that purple thing you're using that's humming?' Oh, my God- Just go! 'Can I try?' No- get! 'I want to see and try...!' Not now!

And she runs out the room crying saying to mom- 'Karly won't share with me!' And mom's yells out- 'Be nice to your sis and share.' Mom just doesn't get it, I don't say anything back, as sis comes busting back in my room, all happy to learn how to 'share' as she calls it with me. So-o yah my sis starts to finger her vagina when she was 3 and was cuming.

(Awaked! If there is a hell, I am proudly going there for teaching my sweet little seven-year-old sister, how to do that, use my old clear glass dildo with the cute pink-sh hearts on it, to cummie 7 times a day, like me. I thought she can get one and glass can wash clean, it's hers. Yet mom did say to share, so I did- and we do, now together!) My sister giggles like a dork and said. This is so awesome, we love to masturbate together, time shared. The most fun I have ever had with you Karly; she said the first time. Yeah- well don't tell mom or dad! -I said. 'Okay, Karly!' - She said.

Though, she giggles all the time, but never quite like that.

Okay, TMI- Too Much Information! By the time, I did not even make it out of the house as you can see, there was not much time at all as always. And round that time Jenny is yelling out her Ford window at me and my mom. 'How the freak is it hugging today Miss. B?' And my sister has that gleam in her eyes... like- I have a secret. (What a way to start my day. With all that pulsating around in my head.) Jenny and Maddie Jobs have their cars.

Me, I can only hope for one, I have made it clear to mom that I am so not riding the bus with the creepy pre-teens to school, that is the most swagger-less thing you can do. The same can be said for getting dropped off, however, I am guilty of that one from time to time. I just want a car that runs. Maddie has a slammed to the ground blue and black Honda with the bumming raddling base, and a fart can muffler. You can hear that car long before you can see it, and when you do see it, you know it's her!

Loving people, you don't realize, just how deadly that type of loving bound is. It's like a disease that sucks down on you harder than any guy or girl can! At least that is the way it was with me. I have loved for all the wrong reasons, with all the wrong ones... they were slowly sucking the life out of me, and I was happy to give it all to them. They are what killed me. (They didn't pull the trigger; however, they did drive me into the side of a tree!)

I was killing myself for them anyways. Yet I always thought real love is even more dangerous because I have never had it... yet I was so close to having it with Ray. I guess that is why I never said anything to him. I loved my friends more than anything, yet did they love me? I was constantly grading what I was feeling.

How, I wanted to be, all because of them, and only them... my friends. (Come to think about it now, like if they were my friends they would not be carried, or haven is envied of whom I want in my life or not.)

(#- Hashtag: my life, I am a dumb ass, and ruthless friends kill.)

Speaking of cars, sometimes I get to borrow my dad's red 4-Runner if necessary. But most of the time he needs it for work, so that's like never. Ken, he drives a gray pimped out Dodge Cummins diesel truck, which his daddy bought for him that he was all jacked up. And poor Madilyn she has to drive her mom's old, sad, and pathetic looking 1985 Toyota Tercel. I don't even know what color that thing is... rust- maybe. Crap, they don't even make that anymore, that thing hardly wants to go in the cold weather.

As of now, it seems that the air is always cold around here at the start of the fall. Yet the sky shines that orange cast on the changing leaves, which feels, so picture-perfect against the blue-gray October sky. The warmth of the sun is there; I can feel it rising on my face as I walk into the school. Yet, not as strong as it was in my bikini-ready body in the summer, as I laid out, at the beach with my friends.

The sun in fall is a weak like me, fallen to the mercy of the horizon line... just burnt out from all the changing seasons, which it had to endure that year.

So, for my last day as you know- it looked like it was going to storm cats and dogs. It was going to gush thicker slippery wetness than me and my sis did when we were sharing. Ha- ha, I had to say that. Anyways the sky was sinfully looking back and stayed evil black and deathly milky foggy. The sun did not shine.

It was not one of those nice-looking days, it looked like hell was coming!

'Oh!'

Speaking of cats and dogs... why is it mine to look at me, and start licking me and sis's toes from the bottom of the bed? That's so strange! I thought it would start dumping down after we go to school. Mother Nature has a mind of her own, she didn't have her crap together this morning. As far as the local news goes... who has the time to look at the television at that time, and the severe storms that they forecast are never as harsh as that say they're going to be.

I bounded into the passenger bucket seat. Jenny is puffing on one of many Marlboro Lights, surprising today she wasn't vaping Marry-Jan with it too. I stopped smoking after I heard it makes your hoo-ha taste bad...! TMI, sorry- but it does! I was never one for smoking that crap, I did it for my friends. Plus, unlike Jenny, I didn't want to die of any type of cancer. Pulls being stoned in schools... ha now that too funny, it's like being in one of those whacked-out dreams with the melting clocks, it's like can hear a pin drop.

So, paranoid, and so freaking hungry. Hell No- I would not recommend trying it- don't do it!

(If you want to be cool to get a job and a life, you can't do that stoned all the time... that's why you feel so alone and well fat.) Ya knows- I think I have ADHD too. I can't seem to stay on topic! Just like I say to my teachers along with all my friends that we all suffer from Tourette's syndrome for all the F-bombs and other profanities worlds, and free birds we drop-in class. Oh- oh, I remember this one time my teacher Miss. Riley said that finger should be used in public, and we all busted out giggling, And Liv said- I am using that finger right now, is that okay!

(#- Hashtag: Blowing smoke, day by day, and throwback Thursday)

Okay so, back in Jenny's car on that last day. She gives me the once over from top to bottom. Not bad- she said. Then Jenny lifted the fabric of my skirt and smacked my butt so hard and snapped the pink string of my thong, and said love that flirty short skirt. I said- Not so ruff... I'm kind of rubbed raw right now! She said- oh! Though it needs to be rolled up a little higher on your hip's girl. She pulled it up for me! Show them legs off and stuff.

I sat down with my behind red and numb, as we spun- out of my street...! I was thinking to myself... I am showing more than just my legs, more like rosy cheeks too. Yet that is how I'm going to school. Jenny was always saying I was not slutty enough. I guess I'm not quite as free to show off all the goods as she is. Oh, I told her about my weird morning. So not a good idea! She was like- 'for-reals' that's humorous, you poor thing! You just wanted to get off, and you had to help her get it in.

I- can't- believe- it! I can wait to tell the girls that one...! How do you get yourself into those things, she said? I was mortified! I knew I was not going to be eating lunch at school. Um- My mom I said, and she giggled even harder and rolled her big sparkly eyes.

Note to self: Something's I should learn to keep to myself only! I was never going to live that one down! On the drive:

She said- 'Want to hit McDonald's?'

'What do you want,' Jenny asked me?

'I want a McGriddle and a hot- chocolate.'

Jenny- 'I'll have an Mc-muff-in... And an old lady's coffee! She said!' Sarcasm- I was thinking awesome! Just what she needs!

They don't know how old you out when ordering at the drive-thru. So, you can get a small drink for fifty-five cents. The look on their faces is priceless when you bag and go! You know if I knew that was going to be my last meal, I would have gotten some else! Oh, I said I liked her skirt too, that I would have to barrow it some time. She said- Okay... but you're going to look cuter than me in it!

(Looking back- I didn't seem like just how jealousies she was of me. I was a good girl going bad. What she and my friends made me become.)

I looked up at her and batted my eyes at her sweetly and said thank you sheepishly. She was a good friend. Still, I always felt so uneasy with her so close to me, yet I did trust her with my life. There is only one week out of the whole school year Liv, Jenny, Maddie and I dress the same, and that is spirit week. Like PJ's day, clash day, twin day, custom day, and school colors day as we call it boyfriend's jersey day. I was going to be wearing number 14.

I always- loved wearing his jersey. The scent and the feel, I felt so cozy in it on football Fridays. I like flannel PJ'S day too you don't have to wear anything underneath and that comfy. I love these adorable PJ's Ray bought them for me the previous Christmas, there pink and white and sexy and have a drawstring in the front! Jenny, Liv, and Maddie went to Victoria's Secret and got the same ones so that we all could match. Which is the only time we have ever matched, other than a skirt here and there?

(Yet now my PJ's they don't feel' so special to me.)

But- you know your boy loves you when he gets you gifts from there, or he will go out and buy you tampons no questions asked! And will hold you in his arms even when you're all b*tch faced and emotional from PMS-ing.

Oh, let's not forget that, yes, we all somewhat match on Friday all the girls have that are popular have their own guys' jersey also. Liv likes to wear number 19, Jenny 59, and Maddie is sporting number 3. Come to think about it. Maddie distastes the color pink and Jenny thinks it the only color in the world.

Yah, I forget to say our school colors are red and black. It always so much fun to go to the mall together, because Jenny is a girly- girl and Maddie is a tomboy. It's funny to see what they think is cute or not. The catfights they get into are very amusing! Like Jenny saying that a real girl shouldn't wear all Camo or boy shorts undies and sports bras all the time. It shocked me that Maddie did wear the same PJ's like me.

Like go and do your things if you want. Just like I like Hollister, and Jenny like American eagle. Just like Liv can't leave the freak'n mall till she goes in and sees the old blue truck at Old Navy.

She got her first kiss at nine on the hood along with a few other things.

Though she always said he would be back for her someday. Sweet but unlikely! That where they were supposed to hook up... yet he never did. We all keep saying to her that it was just puppy love. He's not going to be there to wasp you away Liv, and like do it in the bed of the truck or something, get real!

Liv- 'He will! I know he will, I believe!'

Jenny- 'Do you believe in Santa, faith, and not using a condom too, she said.'

We all giggled at Liv as we walked out of the store!

'Yeah, that kind of love only happens in novels, like the Nevaeh books.' We said. 'What was that guy's name that wrote those?' Maddie asked. I have my books with me, Liv showed us as she pulled them out of her oversized handbag. 'How the hell do you say that?' Jenny said. I get Marcel, we have one dork named that in our school. Maddie started to babble- 'Marcel Ray-

Dur-reez, Door-ez, maybe it's Dur-e-a?' Jenny blurted out overtop- 'Diarrhea!'

'WHAT!!!' We all shouted at the same time, looking at her with confusion!

Jenny- 'I don't know!'

Maddie- 'Who cares... the Moovvviiiiiee- not the book is all we care about.'

Liv- 'I guess you're right she pouted, and stomped her feet, holding her books in her hands.'

Me- She has those books with her all the time. Me- Thinking to myself, I wonder if they will make it a movie. I hope so because I not sure... that I can't sit my ass through yet another wolf or vampire movie! I'll end up strangling Maddie with Jenny's spare per of undies that she keeps in her purse! Or at least put them in her mouth... so that she will shut up about it! Like her... gag on that crap, bit, and suck down on that, as well as see how that tastes! Girl you're driving me crazy! Yeah- I could see that happening!

So-oo, if you have not guessed that was the day, we get are outfits for twin day! On twin day we all chose to go with short white miniskirts and brown and pink camo spaghetti strap tanks. OMG- they were so- so very perfect, pretty and cute! I was contented - that we finally found something that- we all liked, it only took four hours. I love those times so much when we all mull over every stupid little detail, everything has to be just right or to us, it's an epic fall!

At my school Clinton High, Jenny has a nickname for it, yet I am not going there, right now! We don't have a snotty preppy uniform; we were what we have. It's just as a slandered crappy public school that's falling apart. The boys have it so easy ripped up blue jeans, plaid boxers showing, a shabby T-shirt with some dumb saying... Like- I lost my phone number can I have yours. I remember this one-time Adam-James had this squirrel with to nuts on it. And the saying was... You can rub my nuts for luck. No- that's okay... I would rather not! Looking down you'll something like Nike sneakers, nothing to fancy. There is not much of a dress code for them to flow.

Us, girls we work so hard to look good, it just doesn't happen this way! Sometimes- I think Ray is the only one to notice or that appreciates me, yet was he the one that I was falling too? Most of the other boys here don't care what we're wearing just as long as everyone can come off after school.

I guess I have a choice at the end of the day. Love is love and to me that something I am not sure if I can have with any guy, all I get is a one-night stand, where you wipe your mouth and walk away.

At school, you see this a lot in all the popular boys hooking up with all the girls that they think they can score with, and the loser boys never get any at all from any girls. We girls have standers to whom with sleep with- you can understand, can't you? It's like one... two and done!

Yet, I wish it was that easy for me to know my true feeling, with the one I should want. (Perhaps- it would be too hard fallen, or that I'm so scared to fall in love, and be committed. Perhaps- he would not love me back? Perhaps- my friends wouldn't like me being in a relationship. I do have to think about them and my reputation. Perhaps- I would just be used like I always am or be excluded by everyone.)

It's smart to be the same as the others rather than standing out... you don't want to be that one that gets chosen and nagged about for looking different.

Amusing- we don't have uniforms, yet we can't be individuals it seems. In school, you also see a lot of hoodies, with the school name on it with our p*ssycat looking baby jaguar mascot on the front. That's where the jock comes in by the way. Us girl we blow dries our hair and style it if you're like me with a curling iron, like one out of ten of the boys even comb their hair.

We shave from the neck down! We have to squeeze ourselves into skin-tight skinny jeans, which you have to lay down to the button. We look good so we get all the right attention, you know it's not easy to make a pink North Face jacket look sexy, yet that is what you see on most of the girls, and they work it because of the time they put in doing their hair and make-up. All these nice things we do... yet the whole objective, in the end, is to let some boy miss it up, one way or another.

It's going to happen- Smears- If its tears, fears, or boys- juices. You're going to end up with all kinds of smears, on the inside and out! Yes, there are smears on your face from boy's things and crying. Smears you're going to have to face because of. Smears that can't be erased and can't be changed. All the smears you get from your peers with fears, too... I should know I have lived with all of them. I choose to get smears by a boy, so I would not get smeared not being popular. Not being approved by the ones that smear, that is the teen seaside.

Like when you can't hide... I died because- I was smeared in another way. Some smears you shouldn't take to heart, be smarter than I follow your heart. Don't be someone smudge on the side of the road just to wipe away. Be someone's reason to live. I guess- I miss being all girly, I miss that I did realize that he was the only one, that counted. The only boy I need to be all girly for! The one that had a hard time, walking away from the crash scene when I died.

I try to be all hardcore, blunt and not care with ample anarchy. All the same

I- Karly Barnes... I do have feelings. I'm just an adolescent girl here nothing more, and I'm not trying to be your dirty little slut that yells o-yeah in your X- rated fantasy movie, she is not real. I am just a high school girl that's trying to fit in real life. I'm not going to forget what you all do to me, just because I have too. I never thought to be popular I would have to be just like her, I just wanted to fall in love, and you to fall for me. I just want to carve pumpkins and kiss and cuddle in the fallen leaves, I have confidence in that I wanted a real love story! Would I have had it...? What if... and if only... are the questions I appear to have!

Yeah, our school has all kinds of clicks, some crazier than others. You have the scammer girls that every time they see a- girlfriend or girlie-friends, in the hall there obnoxiously yelling. Then there is the one that can keep their hands to themselves the PDA's. We have hipsters, Emos and dorky geeks that can't seem to get some.

We have some that never shower, and we have cheerleaders that shake what their momma gave them, and we have stimulating jocks. Then there are the dramas and smarties, which you're only going to see to do the impossible homework that you copy. Most of the time they just E-mail it to you, the night before.

Everyone, but the complete loser geeks are only ones in the school that are not on some type of drug. Just about everyone drinks... I would say. Other the rejected losses that can't get laid, because they're so freakily weird, awkward and creepy. You know the type!

Some in school has nine or more books, which are getting knocked out of their hands. Then some never carry a book in their life. For some... school is their life, and for some, it is a hell-a death sentence. Some are cheerful, and some are miserable! Emotional states in school all come down to what click you're in... it shows if you want it to or not. Some are in the rush of their life, and others could give a crap walking around without a care in the world. Some are so jumpy if you say hey they crap themselves or babel in disbelief.

That reminds me... like me and the girls sometimes just for amusement well go and pick out some loser virgin boy and say hey there- you like me. Do you want me? The way he acts is priceless, it sweet yet pathetic how they are around me and my girls. I am not trying to be conceited, but I am the type of girl they want! That they can never have! So, we and I teas them with that fact. They have even drooled over me and my girl in the click I am in. Oh, sometimes they even have to cover themselves in the front with their books, when I lightly brush up against them. All I have to do is talk softly in their ear with a sensual bowing breath! And they are all hot for me! It is like all they have to do is just think about me, and I know they have to run to the bathroom. Oh, harmless fun! I am beautiful, and I know it.

Conversely, I feel ugly on the inside. I knew what I'm doing is hurtful, I have been there when I was little.

Yet, I did it to get a giggle and approval of my clique of girlfriends. Plus, it makes our boys that we want so jealous when we look at other boys regardless of how dorky and shy, they are. Sometimes I look into their love-sick eyes, and then kiss them on the cheek, just so they have something to feel okay about. I try to be sweet I'm not a mean person, really- I'm not! (Every boy should get a kiss, even if it just a peck on the left cheek from a pretty girl. The other girls don't do that or think that... they are heartless.) Those are the type of boys that we'll treat you right, I think... because, they have never had any, and once they get it from you, they will never want to let you go, they will do anything to keep your love. They would love to love you only if you love them back. Said to say that most of us girls don't want that. That's too easy and clingy and would hurt our reputations. Anyways as a result of being stressed out, I started to drink when I was about twelve at parties, about the same time I started rubbing off the older popular boys, that don't even remember my name. That's how most girls I know started too. You feel around and go from there. Yet do they care about you... or just the high they get? I don't know that... but I do know that I drink way too much, however at least- I pass out.

Just like there are some photos from my past that I wish I had, and there is one that I was never tagged in. Like I wish I had more pictures of me with the band kids and those types, and all the other ones out of my senseless click.

Yes, some even with the drum major too would have been incredible. She was a friend I left behind way back in the younger grades, the one that got away, I never felt like I was part of the band because of whom was friends with whom. I could have done without all of those unfulfilled flashbacks. I could have done without all the one with my tongue hanging out, and hold red plastic cups all silly, or the sexy boobs shot, swimsuit shot, duck-faces, and peace signs.

But I can get back what I never- ever had, and to me, that is just very sad. The saddest memories of all are the ones that were never made.

(These are the photos in memory of me on Facebook. You can put wings on me, but I was no angel.)

I don't mind what they do in my memory. Ha, it's not like I didn't have friends drawing a penis on my face when I was alive.

I- Maddie and the girls always planned on renting a small house together in Pittsburgh. Maddie and I were going to share a bedroom and a bed. And Jenny and Liv were going to have the other one. So, if we want to have boys over, we could. We could do what we wanted, that was the plan. Just like when we graduated that night, we all planned on getting forever anchors tattoos, plus getting a three more parsing, that we could have before, I have my ears and belly button, and the tongue is done, my mom was okay with that... dad not so much... yet he got over it. He always said that he didn't understand why a party girl like myself- would want to do that. I would say to be a cool daddy.

Thus far there were some other types, which I and the girl wanted to have, that mom or daddy well never know about. Jenny said that any girl that wants to be a good lover must have them.

She called the one the hood emblem, I am not sure about that one. But If she thinks so... then it's is a must-do! We could not weigh to be on our own. Like we wouldn't have our little siblings come in on us either, and even so... with us girls, if we wanted to do anything at any time, we're just that close that we do care what we see or hear. Like we have all been there together bent over bare in a row at some point at a party anyways, like with the same boys at the same time. We all know each other well you could say.

So, we know that we could live together.

(Showtime, it happens every night with me if I can, it a blue kind of night, spin the wheel, and I do what you want if you're a top guy.)

The show- Though there was that one time that Maddie, and I did run away for two weeks to ocean city we had more boys that night than ever before. That was how we got a room at night to say like we did have any money. I planned on dropping out of school anyway, and I did, till my dad found me and made me go to school, dragging me by the hair. Saying no girl of mine is going to be a runaway drop out. Yet daddy still thinks I am a virgin! He would be crushed if he knows.

(Well he did find out when I was naked under the white sheet on the table when he had to try to identify- before I got all pumped with embalming flowed. He asked the mortician, and he said yes, she has been with someone.)

Daddy always thought I was his innocent little girl, which was going to save all that for when I had that white dress on. Yet to be cool you can be daddy's little darling girl forever.

(Now I think like daddy... as a dying girl. Maybe Ray should have been the one, that got to be the first and the last. If I could go back in time. I would have done that. I do think- I could have weighed a lifetime for that boy if I would have had too. He was something so very special to me. Yet now it's never going to be the way it should be. That is something you can't get back even in a white dress someday, and I did even think about it at all. Like just because I was like always on the pill and could not get pregnant, that shouldn't have meant that I should be with every boy that wants to have sex with me. What was I thinking... was I even thinking at all? I let my friend take over me and my life.)

If I could say one last thing to Ray, it would be: Don't forget about me!

I'm not saying, that I don't like being at home, I do it's comforting to know I am always welcome, yet to be popular you have to have a place as soon as you turn eighteen. Or you're forgotten about. Like no guy wants to be with you in your room when your mom and sis are in the next room over. I like living at home as of now, yet the girls don't know that I love my family secretly, even if my sis is the only one that tells me that she loves me face to face. The love in the family started to die when, I became a teenager, and got into my click.

Leaning forward, trying to not smear on my mascara with one eye shut. Looking into the small visor glass. Jenny has never been the safest driver... I think she has taken driving lessons off of Beth Cooper. That just how wild and crazy she is. (I knew that she was going to crack my head like walnut to at some point.) She tends to run all the lights, stop signs, pass on a dubbed yellow line- on hills and blind spots.

Jenny jolts me around harder in her car, then I get jerked around on the Thunderbolt at 'Kenwood Park.' And that's a roller-coaster...!

Both have about the same oh- crap factor.

(Irony- I thought I was going to be thrown out of that ride and not of Jenny's car.)

She floors the motor hard then that first hill coming out the station. She has even burnt up her beaks because she stops way too fast. Her brakes squeal louder than she does when she flat on her back getting pounded from her boy! Ha!

(She can't kill me now for saying that...

I'm already going to be dying!)

Kenneth better get me a teddy bear or flowers or something before long! I'm getting tired of getting used here, Karly. Jenny cries frantically out of her mouth because of her hormones going all crazy. Running throw yet another stop sign nearing missing an oncoming car, I nearly stabbed my brain out with my eyeliner pencil when she slammed on the brakes sapping my head forward and back.

As you know Jenny and ken are a couple one minute broke up the night, just in a text.

They were on and off as long as I remember. Yeah, there is some love there I would say, they just need to settle down some and trust.

They have broken up at least nineteen times, since the beginning of this school year.

That has to be a new record for them! They can't seem to live without one other!

~*~

The office- I was sitting next to Ray Raymond while he was filling out one of the permission forms, to be somewhere... I betted my eyes up at him and then rolled them to the one side. 'It's like slave labor isn't it!' Ray and I have been going out somewhat since September without anyone knowing what we're more than just hookup friends. Yet again I think truly that I have been in love with him since a fourth or fifth girl. Back when I was nothing and he was too popular and cool to talk to me. I never forgot that I shouldn't hold that agent him, though should I?

I think- I have somewhat... anyways, Ray was my first crush, that I feel all tingly over, or at least he was the first genuine crush! I did just the once kiss Steven Tucker in first or second grade, but that visibly didn't rack in my mind or anyone else's. We were playing an imaginary house, as a married mommy and daddy... Maddie was our make-believe baby! We even had tinny-like play rings with hearts cut in them. So really, I just wanted his chocolate chip cookie, before nap time!

You know the first time you fall too someone like it changes you forever and no matter how hard your strain not to fall completely head over heels, that emotion and sensation that they give you just never- ever go away regardless of the others that have been with you. However, in life, you should know that you're going to discover boys that you love they will say all the right things, at all the right moments in time in life.

However, in the end... it's more about their ways, and the way they are with you. If it's real or just an act. You should judge them on their true actions, what they feel with you, and what you feel with them. Those actions of thoughtfulness and not the words they say that's what matters in the end.

That is the way that you'll realize that you have fallen too them. That love... should be more than confrontations and hooking up. It should be more than a text at bedtime, or a pass by in the school halls muffled and muttered softly in crowds.

Love is a sensation and feelings of actions you don't hear, it's what you see in person and feel. Love to me is a devotion that I don't feel. Yet it was understood after it was too late to feel. Though I had that sensation each day of my life, with Ray... though I did not understand what it was, I reflect I was truly in love.

Just when you think it can't get any worse it does. And- just when you think it's never going to last it does. Life is a gift and if you don't understand that it is... life can be taken away too fast, and you will be left in the past.

For me to understand I was in love and what it meant, I had to see things differently.

I understand that now... love is when you care for another individual's contentment more than your own and don't care what others think. No matter how painful the choices you face may be, to feel the love you have to feel the pain of losing them or them losing you. You have to care! The most significant things are the toughest things to say audibly. Why is it that it's so freaking hard to say- I love you, and I only want you in today's world of life?

There is a boy out there that was meant for you, just as he was meant for me... I feel. Someone is meant to be the love of your life, even if you have missed up. Be sure to see it... just don't die for loving the wrong things as I did. There is that boy out there like Ray, that will brush your hair out of your eyes too as he did with me. And send you flowers when you don't need them. He will look down at you sweetly in a hug, or see you far down the hall, text you all night long, and be there when you're feeling not okay.

He will be the one that will tell you every chance he gets looking into your eyes that you're the most beautiful girl he has ever seen. YES! I had that with him, and I did not believe in a loving feeling like that. NO! I did not understand what being in love was, I thought love was just hooking up and being with my girlfriends. As well as crying over all the boys that were the one-night stands, that I thought loved me more than mom, daddy, and little sis.

I've never really had faith in anything when I was alive as a teen, it's just not something I thought was needed to live life. Jenny and Maddie and most my age are atheists, though I would have to say I believed in something. I had a bible under my bed most of my life, yet never read a line of it.

No, I do not blame God for taking me, if the others can live life and see what they're doing wrong. Then that was the right thing to do. I think that God is forgiving... maybe too forgiving in some cases.

(#- Hashtag: Clueless girl)

Back in Jenny's car before my last school day- I say- Last year I got a dozen- pink roses! Jenny hits her cigarette butt on the cracked window glass flicking all the red and black embers off in the cold air breeze as we were speeding. At that moment, she slouches' over the other ways grabbing her cup of strong coffee in the car holder, and then starts chugging down her mostly cream and Splenda concoction, well-exhaling puffs of smoke out her nose. I'm hoping for a stuffed animal to this year, or a ring would be nice!

So, anyways after spirit week, starting Monday, we have this... I want to fall in love- 'Secret admirer week.' It corresponds to the auntie drug relies upon', where you wear those red ribbons pinned to your chest or inner leg. Jenny and the girls always seem to find ways to destroy there's so that it will fray and fall apart. It looks like they have been chewed on. Anyhow's 'Secret admirer week.' Like- is a big deal, the student set up tables outside of the lunchroom, for a dollar fifty each a boy can, buy their secret love a colored rose with a love note attached.

While- I am glad we're friends, or I am crushing on you.

Pink- I like you, I have a feeling for you, and let's get together.

Red- I am totally in love with you, I want to be with you, and I am glad we're together.

The fun of the game is trying to find out who is sending them to you. Girls can get boys some too. Yet that's not that common with the upperclassmen and getting flowers for the same sex is not allowed, why I don't know. However, it's an old-school custom maybe that why.

Though every girl wants to feel loved this week! Said to say that no girl cares about the white ones. Only the nerdy boys send us those... they're wasting their time and money. The stronger the color the stronger the passion, or the boys that want to be or have been with you.

Every, girl, wants one regardless, and if you don't get at least one, you look like a damn fool! Every girl wants that pink or red rose. Yes, I have seen a girl run out crying on Friday at last class bell when there are passed out. Hell, after a week of this week of hunger, desire, and yearning you need to have a hookup! I feel for them... yet why should I, they just need to change their ways... so the boys would like them too. 'You have to give some, to get some!' If you know what I mean!

(However, looking back, I should have only been given that out to one boy, and not them all- the only one that matter... should have been Ray.)

We also get a lot of those white ones to form the freshmen boys, that don't understand what it's like to get in girl pants. Cute, but- NO! I am not going to be your teacher! Plus, if a girl does send out a flower to a boy it's usually a freshmen girl, sending to an upperclassmen hottie...! So, she can hook up for the first time.

Yapper she is getting- desperate to lose it, and kiss it, and hit it at this point. So, she's not a loser next year as a Cherry- Mary sophomore.

(There are so many more life-changing peer pressures being a girl. Being that young to make those choices... you give in, I know that I did way before then. Only you- can say when is right! In the end, you're the one that's in charge of your vagina!)

I would be okay with one flower- maybe. But only I knew if it was from him, but though I don't- know. Hopefully- I get fourteen or more that is what I am truly shooting for this year! I say it's a really big deal like how many roses you get. You can tell who's the most popular, and who sucks at life. Just by looking at the girl's hand, I am hoping that I will have so many- I won't be able to hold them all in my little hands.

If you get under two, you're either ugly or faceless in the school kind-of like the sped kids, maybe both... they don't get anything ever. I am not sure if I could take that kind of humiliation as they do. Some said girls get themselves some, and that's just pathetic because we all know that she did. Like you know when it's real, plus the girls at the table... that run the sign-ups, let us know what they see!

Jenny looks down her nose at me with her glistening eyes. So, are you enthusiastic as I am for this the big day Friday or what? Looking forward to de-flower day, she giggles- saying no joke. We are going to the open mic out the night, and then the hookup party right. You- coming- she asks me, and giggles even harder. Shrugging my shoulder while looking out the SUV window. I said- I may be coming many times that night, and Jenny said- stop, I going to pee myself.

Drawing a heart on the glass after my hot berth frosted the window. 'It's not that big of a deal really.' I said- groaning softly. I was not amused by Jenny's perverted- twists of words, so early in the morning. Jenny is always like that... yet as for me, I run hot and cold. I have my moments- I presume.

I was thinking about how Ray said that his mom and dad are going to be away for that weekend. And that's where I wanted to be, he tooled me about them going away like two weeks ago. Long be before Jenny even thought about this weekend's parties.

I know that Ray was eager and preparing me ahead of time. Because he wanted to have warm sticky sex with me all over the weekend in his bed, or mom and dad's bed, on the loveseat, or anywhere really in the house. Besides we would be able to run around his house stark naked, that's so what I want to do in all honesty! I wanted to be with him, and do him only, and be his girl! So that he could shot his ha hum- tasty stuff all over my face and body after he was finished sliding it in and out.

Certainly, about the same time, I start squirting him down with my shaking drizzling orgasm! That boy makes me tingly in all the right ways, just thinking about him!

Thinking back- when I was about twelve or so, we got so close so many times of going all the way in... like in the back of the school bus, yet that more like foreplay to get us there. As we got older, we tried at the football games, and in my basement or my bedroom, with mommy, daddy and sis sleeping in the next rooms over. We have tried a lot of places. Though it seems that someone always saw us every time. Oh yeah- we have even played around with my daddy 4-runner. So many times, it just felt so wrong. It would be tremendous to have it be perfect this weekend!

So, when he asked me to stay the overall night, I said- OMG-Yes! Without thinking about it at all. Because I just want to be with him so badly! Jenny starts freaking out at me, slamming her half-empty coffee cup down in the holder, and then whacking the steering wheel stiffly with her long fingers curled up into a fist. Not that big of a deal? Or you- joking with me...? Like what wrong with you? I don't know, maybe I am growing out of it.

Maybe I am changing into a woman that descent want a bunch of guys, maybe I just want one. Jenny laughs herself senseless, and said- my darling baby girl, it sounds like you're in love, and my little girl is big now? She's a woman! That's hilarious she said, you can't be for real... are you? She said, with a sneaky suspension. Na-No? - I guess not. I said shackled and regrettably.

'Give me a break.' I can now feel the scorching warmth move stealthily moving ever so rapidly from my toes to my legs into my quivering chest, and then to my face. Naturally... I knew that my fair toned skin was starting to radiate a blemishing, throbbing, and trembling cherry red glow.

My embarrassment always seems to show my emotional state, when I didn't want it too, like this. Why do I do this, when I am ashamed, self-conscious, and just uncomfortable? Why now! This is something I can't even cover up with more makeup.

Perhaps it's just disgust that I am feeling now too?

I tried to be persuasive about everything. 'I saw my expression in the mirror, and I knew that it's most likely not going to happen the way I want it to.' He would- like- have to kidnap me away from the girls so that we could go wild without anyone knowing. Making sure that all of them were completely off our trail. We are going to have to take a roundabout route to have sex and spending time together, of course, like always, yet if it was some other asshole at a part or in the backwoods, it would all work out.

'Leave me alone!' I muttered through my one or two tears at Jenny, she was just rubbing it in that I can have a true love... that I really can't have anyone but her and the girls, if I want to be in the click. I started retrieving through my bag to cover my mood. I reached swiftly for a Kleenex before Jenny called me a crybaby and nosed into more of my personal life anymore. 'I don't know. For one and all, but the pain of changing your ways is the sharpest dagger of memory that you will have in human life.

('Her voice was always so melancholy.') At this moment I felt that all the X-out cream in the world would not fix my face after this morning!

Jenny, like my lovely family, makes me want to break out. We pick on Madilyn for that... I can't show this. Like we call her 'Pimpled skank face' too. I don't want to look like that.

~*~

(Madilyn is the lonely loser- that I should have been friends with... she would have never hurt me as I hurt her, she wasn't a slut. Nevertheless, being that sweet and kind-hearted girl doesn't get you anywhere. I mean really what's in it for you? If you're the good girl, you spend all your time at home; with mommy and daddy, wondering why you're so misunderstood.

With no friends at all, to see or hear from.

Looking at photos and wall posts, and feeling in your belly all the things in life, you're not a part of... It's sad but true!

Being that good girl, you lose out on so much, you lose touch with reality- I know she has... but in the end, does, it matters anyway? I have partied my tight little ass off, and what do I have to show for it? I have gotten so drunk that I don't even remember half of it... I have gotten so high, so many times to not feel the pain of life... I was running away from everything!

Just, like I have used plan B pills to stop pregnancies at thread teen and up, many times like most my age... that stuff flies off the shelves in stores! I didn't want a baby, yet I was killing lives... before they started, to have a red death period, to be a normal girl... that's okay. So, I could just be a careless teen, and not even think about it, and do it all again. Being a teen girl, you just don't think about what you're doing to yourself and others! When really, I didn't deserve to live myself.

So, what is the point? No matter what you do, you're going to have regretted it at the end. In the end who is your friend? Plus, what kind of a life are you having if it's rushing by and you can't remember it... the day after, and you have to take pills to terminate lives to please others just to be cool and popular... yah- right, you don't have a life worth living!)

~*~

Shaking in the sit of Jenny's SUV. I quickly nodded my head for her approval, and then rub the steam of the window. Things are detracting fast outside, looking out I see that Jack Frost has done his wonder, it was a very odd start of the day. Everything is looking sparkly slick and shiny. Unusually cold... for this time of year. I could see my breath in the side, Jenny's heartier was never the beast as she tries hitting it to get it working, I was beholding demand like drips everywhere on the trees, power lines, and buildings. Its freezing rain, it is magical- I said. Jenny- it like everything is frozen in time. Thought at the same time, I felt like my chafed intimate skin was cracking, it is that chilly.

I hate that it's like you shave your legs too, and all that in between before school and then you get goosebumps or cold, and just like that... you can see the dark little hair pop out, in front of your eyes.

This day just keeps getting sweeter!

(Not!)

I went from feeling on fire to shivering with my knees knocking. Within like fifteen minutes! Jenny in deep thought she just blurts out the question, which she had an inkling about. I knew it was coming, she knows me that well.

Jenny- So when did you and Ray do it... anyhow? I know that you have done something, it's obvious- you like- like him! I lied and just said we did like two months ago. I would like to make up for lost time this weekend, just him and me!

Jenny slams her butt back in the driver's seat.

Jenny- 'Oh my flipping God... baby girl,

Gross! Wah- why?'

'Don't worry about it, I am fine just being with him only.'

Jenny- 'I am worried about it, why him, you could have anyone. He's not right for us.

Any boy would be better, than that.'

'I don't feel that way, and it's not for you to decide. Why does it always have to be us, when it's what you- want... you just... do it... you don't ask me... you just do it... why?'

Jenny- 'It most serenely is... Because I love you, and you going to have to choose who's the love you want in your life... if you loo-vv-ee him a baby girl, then you can't love us. You see what I mean.'

'I can't do both.' -I whispered.

Jenny- 'NO! No- Kar- you can't, I think you have been swelling way too much stuff, you lost your mind. To want that offbeat boy. Jes-z He's cute but he's not for you!'

Why! -I squalled.

Jenny- (Panicking) He's just not. Baby girl- don't talk to him, don't look at him, you know what. Don't even think about him that way... you got it!

'Don't call me baby girl, I am not your freaking infant that you need to pamper. I am going to have sex with him tonight, and you're not going to stop me!' I screamed!

Jenny- 'Okay then, have it your way!

You'll- be- sorry!'

Go have sex with him, I know he's still a V- card virgin, just because he plays on the team, he's not that popular you never see him on the field. I was thinking to myself, yeah that's because we're trying to do it under the bleachers or somewhere with someone isn't stopping us. Yet it never fails someone is there...!

Jenny- Do you want to be his first, with him being all clingy- creepy with you? I didn't say anything back. If you do this, you know that everyone is going to mob you and make fun of you again. I am sure you'll go back to being- that girl. Us girls- we wouldn't have any admiration for you anymore. Karly- We got you where you are now, and we can take that all away in an aching heartbeat! 'It's no big deal, I know you'll do the right thing!'

'If you say so.' – I mattered.

Jenny has always found a way to make me nervous before the school day even starts. I see all the buildings with their shiny glass rush by, wondering if tomorrow everything would look and feel different to me or if will I get starched out; I know he will feel different to me, I know what I am dealing with... with him, he is unlike the other boys, one he is a lot bigger, and two he is fully intact. So, I had something new to play around with there. I don't mind that... I do feel that I am falling for him. He is so sweet to me it's not even funny. Really if you care about someone nothing is going to stop you from having all types of sex.

Nothing at all!

Jenny said that he is gross for that reason, I should stay away because he most like is unclean or has an STD. But I don't feel that way at all. That's just ridiculous, maybe she likes him? And she thinks that going to keep me away, yet I know- I think other girls my age has the wrong ideas to what they think should be standard practice. I hope that the other girls don't look at me differently for wanting him. But if they do; I still have him in the end. If I have to fall too that boys' level that's okay with me.

Sometimes, you don't choose whom you want to be, or what you have, sometimes it just happens that way, and you have to live with it; because it's not for you to decide on. Jenny and the others they don't get that. I have to be in love, there is nothing wrong with him in my eyes, and he's just perfect!

Jenny and the other girls in the click they don't see the cemetery we have together all they ever think about is the hookup. I just hoped that everything would work itself out!

We arrive at Olivia's Hansom- Liv's place and before Jenny can even honk the horn- mep.

The door bursts open and swing radically on it hinges smacking back and then forth. Liv, she comes trotting down the walkway like a model. She is strutting in her brown pointy toe high heel boots looking sexy as hell. Though the sidewalks are- a sheet of glass.

I don't understand how she can bounce, jiggle and wiggle like that with four-inch heels on ice. Like- I fall on my ass just looking at ice! That takes skill- when I wear heels they turn over on the sides when it's not on the ice. She runs out of the apartment complex in the morning like it's on fire, I just don't get that... like- how can you be that freaking perky this early. I wonder what she is running away from. Liv opens the door, Jenny blurts out nice nipples you got point out at me, you think they're showing enough there liv?

Liv- yes, yes- I do... there are just so cold their rock hard, I didn't think it was going to be this cold! Liv is in a short belly button showing tank top with a little blue washed-out denim jacket over top a thin white tank top, paired with a short brown ruffle skirt. Even though the weather report that she took the time to look at said... it was below freezing this morning. This is what she picks to wear. I say- it is a little nipp-aly today right liv! A quote from one of her favorite books, she just giggles awkwardly and says- yes, yes- it is. Jenny says you're donning better than Karly, and her sisters that are rubbed raw! Ask her about that Jenny snickers.

Liv looks at me with a look of confusion, I said please don't ask! And I pouch Jenny's arm. Liv says- Okay then. Jenny said- I'll feel you in at lunch Liv! I just shook my head- no in disbelief. She was going to bring more than that up at the table, today I could just feel it, just like I thought.

Flashback- That reminds me of last Friday night the night of the bonfire, we all were run and dancing like wild caveman around the shooting flames, as the warm heat and glow shined in the skin as we would flash the boys that would pass us by, so primitively we were acting so, that we could have a matting afterword.

So anyway, after the running around the boys found their girls, I remember seeing Liv and Jenny getting kissed sucking face and their boobs and butts getting felt up. Their boobs looked the same as Liv's does right now, cold and flawless. Ray and I just had look at one another from afar, though his eye never stopped looking at me.

All the hocking up was making me hot and thirsty. Yet, I couldn't get what I wanted so badly.

At about that time is we everyone stop noticing me if I was there or not, they were in the passion moments. That was the time I choose to cut loose, so I ran up to him and I said let's get out of here, we did we sneaking past all the couples, to get into his truck down the way.

We got out of the school field with the motor running softly, as we thought completely undetected, yet that is never the case. Anyhow, we spend to Walmart and was in the back of the parking lot.

Fourteen minutes later- The bonfire is now being soaked with water by the fireman, as the event is over and everyone is heading to their cars. Did Jenny ask where Karly? Liv- how the hell should I know like it's not my time to babysit. Maddie- I thought she was with you!

Jenny- okay then... she can walk home for all I care. I not spending my night looking for her. I have my boy, let's just go.

Karly- I started slowly, pulling off his briefs downwards to his knees, his erection triggers up and out at me. I get down between his legs; I was on my knees; drawing him in ever so deeper into my mouth. So that I could feel him at the back of my throat and then to the front yet again, over and over.

My tongue whirling around the rim and tip. I was sliding my misty tongue from the base to the end tip too.

Yes, sucking him ever so harder and harder! He was firm up to that point, till I could taste his wonderful pre-come mixing with my saliva, as I went down even farther than the times before, sliding my gulping lips tightly around, it was all dripping down him, as I moved my head up and down a few more time completely fishing off the blow job. Suddenly, he sits back up after losing all control. When he descended into me, and to my movements.

Ray busted a nut at the back of my tonsils. He was saying what was happening, while holding my hair out of the way, with his right hand. And shrieking my name at the finish, as my eyes were looking up into his rolling back in enjoyment! I gulped it all down and showed him my cleaned off tongue afterward. Then and there I said- 'How that was that!' he just moaned- 'Aww-uh-a!' he was speechless! And that was good enough for me.

Around that time is when he tugs my thong off, and slide it down my smooth legs, and feels the little bit of short hair that was growing on my pubic bone, with his soft touching hand. He reaches between my legs and pulls on the white interwoven string, and gently pulled my tampon out and tosses it into the nearby floor at his feet.

I knew at last my hole was open, and ready for him to slip it all the way in! He balled up my undies in his right hand and tosses them onto the floor of the truck also. As he started sucking and tugging down on my hooded lady with his lips. And I said there's no time for this... come one let's just do it!

About that time is when, is when I managed to get the condom out of the wrapper, which was in my hip pocket of the skirt which was just pushed up. I put it on for him... it's just easier that way. I was preparing him to unload 'round two inside of me. I sided and unrolled it down him. Making sure everything was right. At last, we are going to do it...!

(Y-ha!)

I was just about to get on top of him from the passer set. That is when I looked over two or three parking spots down Jenny and ken was looking at me, and somewhat at Ray's tuck, as her SUV was rocking side to side. I looked even harder and Liv and Maddie were making out in the back seat. I think Maddie saw me, I yelled don't put it in Ray, we have to go!

I'm- like really... really! I can't get away or get off fast enough! I snapped the rubber off him, so quickly it made a popping sound.

(Just rip it all off- he screeched at me.)

So, I tied note in it as I do with them all, and I threw it out the window onto the pavement, not thinking it would be found... I know what they must have thought, they must have seen us! I said- This is never- ever going to happen... Ray. My head lay on his lap, and the body curled on the seat as he pulled out of the lot, passing the Burger King and DQ his jeans wrapped around his knees!

I said- So just get me home before they see us if they didn't already. He was just a little shaken up, to say the least. We can never go any further than that before someone is watching!

(What I don't get is why did they care?) So, Ray and I didn't get it that night either. All he saw was my freezing boobs after he unbuttoned my top and jostled and pulled my bra lose from the back. (Like- hello- it is not that hard to get off.) I was wearing a skirt for easy access, as you might have guessed.

Seeing Liv like that... is what brought all this back to my mind. That is how Jenny figured out I liked Ray more than a friend, she followed all the suspicions that she had. She is smarter than she puts on to the guys she with, it's like she knows me better then I know myself!

Oh yeah, I had him drop me off a street back from my home. And of course, to add more drama it started to pour icy rain down my body, and the car that passed had to splash mud on my face on my clothing, yet I hiked... so I could say to Mommy and daddy I walked, without hearing yet, another long lecture about the birds and the bees! That way I have a layby for everyone that cared where I was at.

(Mommy and Daddy were so in the dark with me. Nonetheless, that is how every young teen girl wants it to be... I'm- I am, right? Mom and Dad knowing everything you do are not cool, plus you wouldn't be doing it anyway if they did.

What they don't know won't hurt them!)

Mom was pissed that I had to walk home, I could hear screaming on the phone that night I was in my room, after having a long hot shower. Yeah somehow, I came down with a sore throat, he- he.

A win for me, Jenny and the other girls got hell, and not me! Daddy even read me a bedtime story, he felt that bad for his little girl, that was crying over how she was dumped by her cruel girlfriends.

Daddy asks me this question out of the blue. Karly...? Why do you always have a Pringles can on your nightstand, next to your bed? I'm like don't open it! I was thinking to myself. Um- I said nervously. Now it is in his hands, he was going to get I chip out, and I finally stopped him with my hand before the lid came off. Saying- Daddy- don't! And I think he got the drift, by the look on his face, that there were no chips in there. Who would ever... thought... that one... yet daddy always seemed to be hungry, I should have known?

He put the can back down where it was, and turned to look at me; he patted me on the head, as I was laying on my back in bed, kissed my cheek. He tucked me in and then left the room all gloomy and shaking his head at the same time. His complete attraction was nice for a change though, yet so weird. The light went off and he latched the door closed. That when I took my restating Pj's off and throw them on the floor with all my other dirty laundry turned over on my side. I fall asleep; in my bed slightly uncovered or completely deepening if I move around in my sleep. Oh, and if anyone sees how I sleep from that point on. Oh, well that's their problem... they should've knocked!

Liv getting into the SUV after she does her little runway walk. She says what the point of looking so freaking cute if you can't show it all off. So, Liv pulls up her top and flashes her chilled bouncy boobs at us, and they fall out so perfectly with what looks like two eyes gawking at us. So, Jenny being Jenny, she rips down her thong swiftly, plus up her skirt up and flashed her lady thing right back as she then hunches over putting her butt all up in her face... letting her breeze blow, saying beat that honey! Liv smacks her ass firmly saying, I already did before you did that, I am not wearing any underwire today. I say- you guys are so-oo gross!

We all giggle! Oh, Liv is that glue that keeps us together, and she makes us unwind. It seems that all my butterflies go away when Liv is with us. I said- Jenny already said my truth or dare for the day.

Liv grabs what is let of jenny coffee in the cup holder and glops it down. Saying I glad you all got me one. Jenny said- we did get you a McGuffin, girl you're sitting on it, she giggled.

Liv- aww-crap! That's going to leave a mark! Liv shouted. I thought that was nasty that Jenny did that to her. Like she was envious of her ferity skirt. Jenny has to have the spotlight like always. Liv spins her skirt around on her lower west, so the back is in the front and starts crying about how it was new and she bought it with her own money and dabbing the grease and yellow cheese stain with a used crumpled up snotty napkin.

Liv did notice that she did that before she sat down. Shocking because of how she's so touchy about what's on her seats, you drop a crumb and she freaks out. Jenny slaps her one the back snickering and says it will wash out. Yet I knew that wasn't coming out. Plus, she has to go to school like that now. I said- look on the bright side. You can always give your butt Muffin to your wiener dog 'Pickles!' Liv was just starting in her seat not saying a word, with her black mascara running down her cheeks, her day was going just as well as mine, I could just tell.

Dan Dilco- Liv calls him her 'Dildo' because he became her new sex toy over the weekend and for now... instead of that. She gives him that pet name, there have been a lot of pet names, that is how we all keep track of them all too. She has one of those also like most of us girls, nevertheless, she's more cover than me, in not hiding it in a Pringles can.

Anyway, this one came about because it rhymes with his last name. I guess she thinks that's cute. He's the last one on the list to pick up today, I'm sure next week or maybe tomorrow for all I know it will be someone new, but as for now, he's the one that is all horned-up for her as she is for him. It won't last...

I think she randomly started making out with him at the bonfire, they have hooked up at least ten times, senses Friday. I don't think Liv knows what she wants. I think she is to Bi or Bi-curious or something to choose.

It seems after they become a dating couple it ends as fast as it starts. I don't think she's that hard to get along with, high maintenance maybe, but she's a sweet girl overall, with a too loving and trusting person. Liv has already asked me to go out with her... Um- I like her, yet not in that way. I have been there done that kind of a thing, I have kissed her, yet I never thought about it going anywhere. I don't want to end a good friendship. Plus, I only want the forbidden boy named Ray!

Standing on the corner sidewalk, cold as steel in his letterman jacket weighting for us next to his place's steps, there he is... What can I say; he is a lip-licking, eye batten, and moisture beading hottie.

You know the type long defined hard body, tan and handsome with light brown wavy hair parsing blue eyes, the type of boy that makes you pulsate just looking at them, even if his face looks like it was getting frostbitten.

Um-hum, I can see why she went for him? He's like McDreamy holding on to what leftover of Liv's McDonald's muffin, as he gets in the SUV. Looking dumbfound yet adorable. Liv- look what happened, she shoves the muffin in his face when he bent down to set.

He ends up saying- It's going to be okay baby, no need to cry anymore! Wow- He seems to like her, and that's a plus. Maybe this is the one her? We pull away they can't keep their hands off one another in the back seat. Their playfulness to me that good thing, it got Liv over her accident in a hurry. The muffin rolled to the floor when she decides to make a quick move to sit on his lap the rest of the way, with his arm hugging her from behind around her tummy.

(It's so cute!)

I want to say that Liv lost her virginity freshman year, yet not to whom you would think. I had already been with like three other boys, and one girl. Yeah, we all go there at some point in our lives, we have to see what we want, where we have to find our sexuality, Maddie and I hooked up a Sophomore year and we dated for a like week. Holding hands in the corridors and kissing, and all that stuff.

Nevertheless, I always had my mind on Ray even then... even now. Just like she had her mind on someone else too.

Liv is one that asks me the most question for advice. She feels close to me, like a sister. She is the one that asked me, before doing it the first time. If I was sore after the first couple of times, I had sex if it bleeds a lot and what it like as she called being ripped oven, I said yes like hell, but it gets better. Just let him do what he needs to go slowly as you're on your back and count it down before he goes all the way, and after it will feel really good.

I know that made her twenty times more nervous, yet I was truthful. Liv never knew that some things have to be opened to have sex, she thought that her horseback riding on the weekends at her grandpa's farm would have done that for her- nope.

She thought that volleyball would do it too- nope. She was not brave enough to do it herself, unlike Maddie how was in seventh grade when she did to herself out of curiosity. I remember Liv saying that she was scared, so I said for the first time let him show you what to do. Like there not much you need to know others the lying down or bending... you can do it I said, and she smiled and said that it?

I said you'll do fine now on no until they try, can you do that? She said- yes, yes- I can!

‘I told her just feel it, if it feels right, don’t think about it, and go with it.’ (Any why I help my girlfriend become what she is today.)

Liv grasps her tummy, and said, I hope that’s just hunger pains, I not feeling too good, because I not sure if... she didn’t fish the sentence, and Dan said- I hope you are, I don’t mind. Jenny slams on the brakes hard, I hit my knees on the dash. Jenny looks back at them and says- WHAT! Do you think got her pregnant? What were you to thinking, are you to dump to pull the freaking thing out! Dan- no, and it knows of your business, maybe it broke, and it was anybody’s fault.

Liv, it can be; I am on the pill. Jenny- yeah and it only works if you remember to take it! Me- I was speechless, twirling my hair around my one finger.

Like she would know better... right? Yet, she never asked me those questions, and she can be forgetful. I said oh- boy. Then- Jenny says oh no- no Karly it could be a girl too. Liv holds on... we don’t know for sure now, after school I will do a test or three. Jenny- gets in her handbag and said- ‘the test its in the bathroom when we get there. We need to stop this for you before you can’t.’ Dan- what if she doesn’t want to? Jenny- Shut up, no one asked you! Get out of the car now! And he did... Me- I didn’t get invalid, because it was what Liv wanted to do; like I didn’t want a say.

Liv was crying again... yet we would have all been late for school if he wouldn’t have gotten out. Because Jenny would not have moved forward with him in her SUV. We left Dan on the side of the road. Jenny even broke his cell phone by throwing it on the solid ground ripping it out of his hands, when the sides all I do is make a phone call. Yet I had a feeling that we wouldn’t have to worry anymore at school as if it was a boy or girl. Because Jenny would be giving her something, and explaining to take this pill, and it would be still from that moment on like she did for me with my first freak up, when I was younger than a- freshmen.

On the dive, after we finally got moving again, going to the school we pass Madilyn the meek and humble walking all by herself with her head down all lonely. Jenny grasps that muffin off the floor slow the SUV almost to a stop rolls down the window and throws it out, hitting her in the face with it. She’s yelling the words- dumb-ass skanky loser as all the cars pass! What happened did your jalopy car broke down again... Maggie- She looks up cry saying no my mom had to sell it to pay the bills and put food on the table. Jenny stops completely- aww, that's so sad, she rips my coffee out of my hands, and slashes in her face down her top, and floors it. 'There a free meal for yah.'-she said

~*~

I remember that first kiss that I had with Ray... oh so long ago, it meant so much to me, even more than what comes after the first kiss. It was so sweet and most inane feeling; he was so shy he nearly missed my lips. I recall that he didn't even use any tongue. He got better each time. Like I said we tried, I didn't mind teaching him what to do. He's the football player just trying to fit in, and I was in the band girl looking like a dork, yet I liked it. I got to go places, and see things.

Things my girls just don't understand. Jenny can hardly read a book, so I don't see her reading or liking music as I did.

That was before Jenny and the others made it clear to me that being a trumpet player was not cool, that I need to choose them or the band. Plus, that I was not going to get me any, even though it was, just not as fast and with so many.

(She just wanted to keep me away from him. I think, looking back on it. Hell- Jenny doesn't have any talents, she was only good for a couple of things, and at the end who cares. And the other girls in my click did as she said too. If Jenny couldn't do it, you didn't do it.)

I was there mainly so Ray and I could be on the bus and games together or meet up, which is where we kissed for the first time, at one of the away games. On the bus, we used to get down in between the back seats it was all band kids, they don't take other clicks I had nothing to worry about. We could hold tight and make out with one another to our school, yeah with the others looking not caring that it would get around. Things were different back then.

Popularity changes you...!

Yet, I just wanted to follow the football team nothing more. I did a lot of things just to see if I could be with him, yet the girls came first before for all and everything, I can't do what I want. It all comes down to what do I love more...? So, I went out for that cheerleader too in tenth grade, not long after leaving the band of three years, just for my girlfriends. I stop cheering own my own after like two weeks in after I fall out of a bucket toss intention Madilyn at a game.

Ray runs off the field from the sideline and I fell somewhat perfectly into his arms yet smacking my head on the ground beforehand. I knew after that I was truly fallen to him, he carried me off the field and the paramedics did their thing, and I don't remember anymore after that, the memory went black.

I woke up with him standing over me, I was in a bed in the emergency room. He was holding my hand, I will never forget that, even though I can remember it all, because of my impressive head pounding concussion, nevertheless I am sure he was there for me when I need him the most.

I feel he has always been there, even when I need him on the list too.

We pull into the school parking lot. I close my eyes tightly to the thought of the day to come, I was thinking to myself- please know more bull crap drama, I can't take anymore today. Yet I knew I was in for a lot more. I had to go to a happy place, and that place was with him in my mind like at the winter dances, at the old movie theatre, or even in my room, I could only imagine how sweet those moments would be.

I remember the end year back in the seventh grade we had danced before I was all the way in with my girls. I went with him on a date, we were younger no one seem to care then. However, there was nothing like having him pulling me towards him on the dance floor and suddenly kissing my lips, yet this time I could feel his tongue sliding underneath mine, I could feel the heat from his hot breath, as it took my breath away.

I could see the twinkling white lights blur in my sight, as I closed my eyes. I could feel his hand running through my long hair, his hands moving down me and gripped my butt through my blue party dress.

Yes, the bass was vibrating, the air coming from above was a child. The reverberating music seemed to all be- fading away as he seemed to be pressed very tightly as if we were one, we could feel one another's bodies, I sure he could feel my heart flutter and skip a couple of beats.

As I was shaking all over. With the pounding inside my ribs as my chest was shushed upon his. As I did his hips did press- into mine and everything was pulsing. My arms wrapped around his neck we were swaying side to side, nothing back then to hide, it was wonderful.

The back of my mouth was dry, and sore from painting in his embrace. I will never forget that night that kiss it made me light-headed into his arms as I got dizzy like the dance floor was springing.

I was never happier in my life when he had to sit me down on his lap at a table, which led into the bathroom together with a little lighter. Yet we didn't get that far, with the teachers looking for us. I have never had such a climaxing moment in all my life, not even getting high could compare to, that first French kiss and feeling his firm... boner... all pressed against me. I think that was the first time, I ever made a boy do that, without making it happen for him first using my lips or hand.

(Yet, I wanted to be popular more than anything, maybe I blow it myself; having to be with so many others to get popular. I didn't know that love, and arousal was that it should be a real thing that just happens, that it is not forced. That it should be there before you start moving forward in a hookup or relationship. He was the only boy, that I felt that way with he was my fantasy lover.

I think I could have had him then and gave it up. In the end, he was always my fantasy; before school, throughout the day, at night in my bed, in the shower and even in my dreams. On my mind and in my head, and times alone I was alone like that he was- all mine!)

Chapter: 52

Popularity can Suck

Popularity can make a girl suck, and sucking can make a geeky girl popular. One way or another a girl is going to be sucking at something or for something in high school. That's just the way of life, it may sound sucking... yet it is true. The point is that popularity is an outlandishly bizarre thing to apprehend. The popularity's like you can't aesthetically give it a realistic definition.

What you do to get popular isn't glamorous and is not spoken about becoming no one cares to hear what you have to do. You're cool if you do this and you're a loser if you don't do that, depending on your click. Like some can do, and some can't... the ones that can't- are the ones that we talk about.

Girls you know if you have it when you give that flirty look at any boy from the corner of your shimmering eye. You know you have it when all you have to do is flip your hair with your hand, and the girls and guys look at you.

Popularity is like teen porn, it's not even though it's happening in front of you. With its oohs and a-ahs, that only show what is thought to be the good parts and not the bad. It's just like that because it makes you feel good, and the girl seems happy to get it.

(Yet is she... is she really happy or just taking a pounding in the end.)

It just like that because the ones that just have to look and see... that they don't have any of their own. It makes them feel miserable. If they can only look at what they can't have they are losing out. Since they can see it, they can only hear it, yet they're never going to feel it in real life, only less they do as they see. And that wanting to have it, that makes them even less desirable to the one that does have it already.

I have been there, and I did what I had to do. In a way, I gave up what I had in the past. Just to be one of them and be a popular girl in an ever-changing future uncertainty. Instead of that girl that had a boy that was without a doubt in love with me. Why you ask... for popularity!

In a way, the boys- is- what makes a girl popular... to a point; and the popular girls are what displays witch guys you want to be with. Yes, like girls want to have what is already been taken, it's the challenge of taking them away from another girl.

Just like girls that have popular girlfriends, before you... they can get you higher up on the invisible list if you fall to them a do as they want, and by hooking you up. Why because they have been there already. How you get popular is all on you. Plus, what you're willing to do and willing to give up. If you have no friends or don't know predominant boys in your life, then you're not going to be as prevalent in high school. If you fall too your knees and party your ass off, you just might rank on the list. Like I said- what you give, is what you get. Popularity and hooking up, it all goes hand and hand.

Jenny is a drop-dead dazzling girl in our halls. With her baby blues that make you a week, yet Just as gorgeous as she is on the outside she twice as ugly on the inside. That is where her outstanding looks end, she has everything every other girl has, she just an average Jane at an average height like all the others most of the time in the winter wearing the same average-looking size seven blue jeans with the sparkles on the hip posits when it too cold to wear her short skirts, like everyone else. What she has more than the others is the ability of how to get what she wants, when she wants it.

She has to get her way, and she acts that way; she thinks she's the hottest girl in the school, and her ass shakes side to side to prove it, and yet really, she looks the same as every other missy walking by. Though from what the boys say she is the hottest. And yes, it went to her head in like a sixth grade that she was the one everyone wanted or wanted to be. Yet she had braces on her teeth and now they are perfect and white. She had puberty pimples that she covers with makeup, she not even as clean as some that shower, or shave more than she doses. The boys that she hooks up with determines how good she feels about herself.

No- she is far from perfect!

Me- the only thing, I like about the way I look is, that I have these big beautiful jade-colored eyes in the light of day. And that they change throughout the day, like my moods to a moonlight soft gray-green at the start of the night. What I never liked is that, I am what they call dainty and super skinny, I was like a size one skirt, I guess that is better than being fat, like some. Though I am shorter than most my age. Ha- it seems that I always have to look up at them, one way or another.

I have lengthy cherry-brown, which straight with flipped waves only at the ends. Bushed cheeks most of the time, I have fringes that I try to cover up, and my teeth, for the most part, are perfect, all for one that's slightly out of line that I call the fang. I have a small nose and face, with a big smile showcasing my soft pink lips. I feel my ears are too big, yet I have mutable earrings.

Nevertheless, my hair covers them anyway. I don't have much of a butt or chest, yet it's all there for a girl my size... yet Ray likes what I have, he has felt it all up in the past, so maybe that's all that should madder. Yet I think Jenny and every other girl at the school is prettier, sexier and cuter than me. I can help it, I feel dissimilar, yet I made the list, with a little help from my friends, and the boys they party with.

Janet Cassidy is fair prettier than Jenny, but being good looking doesn't make you that more popular, and I certainly don't think Janet even had a date at all yet. She's in the same grade as us and that's not a good thing for her.

I remember her asking a lot of boys out for the winter dance, nevertheless, she not popular, because she doesn't want to do anything with a guy or party, because she is to Christian and all the boys no, that she wants to stay pure, so they don't want to be bothered with her if she not going to hook up. Guys only want a sure thing... not a bible lesson. If a guy takes a gal out and spends all that money on her, he wants something in return, yeah other the whammy talking at the end of the night and maybe a kiss on the cheek. And all she does is whine and tease. Truly she only gets on her knees for the lord.

(#- Hashtag: hot or not, Sister Christian, chastity belt, me- I'm just a tiny girl, and don't call me a red-head)

Just like this one girl named Lorie, that's just a freak'n ninth-grader, and this girl her boobs are rather big. And here's me over here, I'm flat as a board compared to her. Like, have you ever done the nose to the wall test? Me- my nose hits the wall first, not my boobs. I hate that! Just like Jenny can do a split with her one leg going up the wall touching her head, and I can't, I'm not that flexible... like I can't spread my legs quite as open as she does. Yet she was a cheerleader a lot longer than I was too. Looking at other girls just makes me feel weird. I like what I see on them, yet not what I see on myself, yet we girls all have the same things just slightly different.

(I never really learned to love myself, so how was I going to love anyone else. And no not that kind of love I knew how to do that. I think you know what I'm saying.)

That one reason Jenny calls me her baby, or Kar- not Karly, when she made at me is in her mind, she thinks that I have not even gone through puberty complete yet. Even though she saw me on the days of my period, bleeding like crazy in the girl's room. She knows better, two she calls me baby because she is the one that gets me where I am today in my popularity.

I was just a baby girl until she got me hooking up with the hot boys. She took me on as hers. Yeah- so in away... I become the top b*tch that she babies. No of these girls are perfect, we all have something we don't like. Just like Sam, she is really cute, I think... the only reason, she not one of us is because of her wheelchair, and not being able to walk. She got a smell that lights up a room, yet she has no popular friends. She is also a virgin, mainly because know boy has tried with her yet and to me, that is just sad. Yet that's just the way it is.

Jenny likes to have a contest to see who has the biggest boobs, or who's the cutest looking. And to see if any of us went up a cup size or have something new on. I always lose that game at lunch. We also talk about how many guys we had the night before, or if we just had to share with our sisters. What our nails look... like, and our hair.

The cafeteria is the place where you find out everything you wanted or didn't want to how about your girl's sex life, feelings, and body changes. The chatting gets so gross at times, that I stopped eating lunch. Jenny has a way of turning all of our stomachs, with the gross stuff she does and wants us to try. She is the type that talks with her hands too. I think Jenny could make the girl from the Fifty Shades of Gray books blush!

Yet, I am not going there. But Hum- I don't know... my butt hole is an exit only, I feel. I'm not as freaky as Jenny, yet I feel that we all are going to have to try this at some point, she will make us at a party. Gag- me!

I remember back to freshmen year, I got so sick after hearing the girls; I just got done eating my hot dogs with nasty chilly on it. And then I went to class the talk in health was more of the same. So yeah- I blow chunks on Zack Woods lap, though I made it up to him, the next day under the first-floor steep, I pinned him against wall grabbed what I need too and made out with him. He was so bad as he was doing.

(He was so shocked and bad it was cute.) Yet the side, I was the best kisser ever, and he liked it. I felt bad for him... and I'm sure he did like! What's not to like right, when a girl is feeling you up! Like- am I everything he has ever masturbated to, I am sure of that... and yes, I can say that about a lot of the boys in my school. I know what they do, sweetheart Zack even confessed that to me, after I kissed him. They all think they're in love with me.

Yet, they don't know anything about who I am really... like I'm not sure if I know who I am...! They just see what they see. I'm not sure if Ray understands me completely or not, so how are they going to, just looking at my profile photos on their computers clicking away. They just want to feel the inside of me, not get inside of me.

(Yah- know.)

So anyway, at lunch today. Jenny is somewhat okay, that I want to be with Ray... so she said, at the table smelling through her teeth. The stipulation she gave was only if we keep on nodding terms, like with all the other guys or even girls I am with. So that means that I can have a full-blown relationship, whether I find them attractive if they're popular, hot or not. That I can only hook up with a girl or boy, yet not stay with them. It made no sense to me. At the time I didn't get it.

Just like I didn't get it when I saw Maddie was wearing bunny slippers, and a holy bathrobe to school today.

Looking like, she was ridden hard and put away wet. I giggled so hard in math class today when she walked into the room; I think I snorted loudly.

Awkward- everyone looks at you when you do that. But only she can get away with that messy hair and what looks to be hairy legs, Maddie will do anything for a chortle. I mean come on shower girl at least. The teacher he even asked, and she side quote: 'Hi teach- I was out all night banging my boy, and I have a raging hangover, so can we get this crap over.' He said yes, take your test and a smart mouth to the office.

She shuffles her bunnies to his desk, she rips the papers out of his hands, will giving him the middle finger, and you know the one that you're not supposed to use in public. As she trips out the door. We all clapped and wotted! That's when I got it, she has a secret relationship too.

Yet does Jenny know, and how is that okay when she just like me?

The point is we can do things we like to do because we're are popular and have it all. Up till now... we can only have and like what Jenny says is okay, so really- I can't do what I want. Mine popularly is not that strong even to this day it could change at any moment with her say.

Maybe I had more before I was popular. Like- I have to only like what the popular girls like, and only do things that popular girls do. I had to leave my past self behind in away. I can try to sneak around with my unpopular dream boy, yet she will find out, and if she does, will I be out of the click?

I don't know, I love my girls, yet do I love him more to give that all up and go back to that girl that has nothing. Or would I have something with him... now that I didn't before. Do I have to fall back or keep going falling apart? I just don't know! I can get away with just about anything, yet I feel like I have nothing. I have awesome girlfriends; however, I feel so empty.

I don't feel like Karly anymore, Karly, was gone the day I was forced out of my virginity by Jenny at a drunken party. Though the blames on me, because, I wanted to be popular, and Jenny said that was the only way if I was going to be like her and her girls. So, I did it.

Ugh- maybe Maddie is now out of the click, and not caring anymore maybe that why she looks like that? What should I do, what can I do?

(#- hashtag: kiss and tell, misperception misfits, and yacking trash talk)

You can look at popularity, as the universe ever-expanding and changing. Starting with a bang, with black holes that can take it all way, if you get too close and get sucked in. you can look at it just like a star, you're going to burn yourself out. It's just whom are you going to burn yourself out for.

Whom are you going to make your world in your universe? When just about everything revolves around you? I guess what I am saying is there's no point in studying popularity. There will always be someone that has more. And there will always be someone that has less.

Unless you're a complete wack-a-doodle- it rather easy to see which- is- which. Just like every girl poops... (Yes- we do!) It happens, all the time... Sometimes more than once in a day.

Yet girls don't talk about it, so it's just like popularity, and just like crap it just happens! If you're popular, you have to deal with a lot of stupid drama crap. And if you a loser, nard, invisible or small like a turd; no one gives a crap about you. You've just whipped away and pissed on.

All the same, they have to deal with all the crap piling upon them to fit in. School life- everyone seems to have their nose in your crap regardless of where you rank. Metaphorical speaking... Okay, that was gross- I know, yet you get what I am saying. If you haven't figured out, I speak my mind. Wow- I have issues, don't I? I have been hugging with Maddie to long, that sounds like something she would say.

Tip- for all my girls out there, do background checks on you boys, before you hook up. It may not be cool to ask about his business, yet it not cool to get nasty sick either.

Like no one wants to wake up with gonorrhea Larry or mono Mike.

Also- if you're going to sleep with a guy, and spend the night, and you're not in love with him or like know his name, be sure to get out of his bed, and place before the next morning. You don't need to deal with that. It's so unlike he going to wake up and say let's cuddle. It's not going to happen unless he loves you. Look out for yourself, no one is going to look out for you, if you make bad choices it's all on you.

I'm not going to fib here, it's tremendous knowing that I can do just about anything. Because my girls will back me up. And that us girls we can and will get away with virtually anything.

We can say to any pain in the ass teacher to F-off, even slap the crap of them if we wanted to. And like nothing is going to happen. Why because the teachers just want us to like that and feel us like that too, yet they can't feel anything anymore they're too old. We can walk out of class at any time... and we can speak our minds.

We know that after high school, and we flashback to the past days of walking the halls.

We'll know that we did it dead-on right, that we kissed all the cutes and hottest boys, or the ones that just need a kiss from us because we were their fantasy. We'll look back and know that we went to the greatest parties, and we resized some hell along the way.

That we smoked and drank 'till we dropped, and popped and locked to all the coolest loudest music. That we did and tried far too many different things, like cigarettes, things that are so illegal with different types of getting it in. We drank far too much cheap beer with big plastic funnels and hoses or doing the handstands of the cage gaping it down.

Almost the same way we girls did with all the boys. We got so messed up to the point everything was funny, and any boy looked good enough to hook up with. We popped the drugs, like candies, we heard what we wanted to hear, and put our middle fingers up to what we didn't. We didn't get or an education like most, it was more like a crazy fun ride, that all blurs- together like the lines that we all saw on the marrow at the party.

You could not tell us what to do. We did what we wanted, and when we want to do it. We know how to be trashy and yet act as if we were classy. We were the girls the made the school cool, and everyone knew it, and they knew where they ranked with us.

Trust me: I know what it is like to be on the other side looking in.

I know that the grass is not always greener too. I was on the other side of popular for the first part of my lifespan. I was the lowest of the low-life scraping the bottom. Dispute it if you want, I had zilch growing up, I was like that trash in the streets that get discarded. I felt like a girl that was homeless in elementary school living under a Pittsburgh bridge in a ball in the fetal position.

I would come home and feel the same way, I was the one that was forgotten about, mom and dad would be fighting over money, and having yet a mother-baby mouth to feed my sis. And I was just their pinkie throws their leftovers at the table if they even remember at all to give me a place sitting at the table. I not making excuses for them; however, they were young when they had me, I was the only reason they get married, and really, they didn't know that they were doing. They did not how to be good parents, because their parents kicked them to the streets before they were eighteen. So yeah, they strained to show their love and caring for me.

All the times that I could beg you please, in vain. It's not going to change anything about how you feel. All the times that I felt insecure; it was for them. So, I found a way out as I got older. I left all my burdens and innocents at the door, Mom and Dad you are what bring me to my knees because I felt insecure. All the time the argumentative yelling won't end. All the times that I've cried, all this wasted, it's was all inside, for you to never notice. I saw through you all, saw the real you, I waste more time trying to get loved by you, just time wasted! And what was said the first boy that ever made me felt loved was Ray, and I wasted that time on them?

The girls took place of the family that I had, that I was never part of.

And even they did want me to have love, because, they didn't have it either. So, really in the end... I was nothing but a bloodstain on the road, for life to wash away. The sky that boy and my sis was the only tearing raindrops that fall for me when I dyed, no one else cared. My mother always sides that I was going to find a way to kill myself. She did shed a tear! And dad never thought, I was going to grow up, he didn't have a clue about who I was. But I still love them all, even if they never loved me. All the others in the SUV where-in the hospital in a coma, so they never got to say goodbye.

I'm I bitter: yes, do I care: No. I just think about what I would have done differently. Nobody ever said that that life was far! Nothing is for sure only death, it is always near in any graveyard, even if it seems so far away until you have your marker with your name on it.

Death is the only face in life you can trust. (#Hashtag: Bead beat daddy, screaming meme mommy, and first Cadillac ride was in a hearse)

(It's on)

Right after we fleetly pull in the parking lot at the school. About five minutes before the late ball. Jenny speeds and floors, it is squealing like a pig and turning the wheel hard to the right into any random open parking spot, near hitting coffee covered Maggie and ripping the pitted bumbler of the orange Chevy truck next to us. And scamming some other kids who were running by just to get out of the way, and in the school doors on time.

They were mostly the dumbfounded freshmen. That has not gotten the fact that Jenny will run their asses over, and not even blink. Let just say that Jenny never parks in her spot at the end of the lot. Nope nut-ah, she has even parked sideways in the principal space, up in the staff lot, just because. Jenny, she jokingly says...

'What are they going to do spank me!'

Unlikely... yet even if they would, she would probably enjoy it. Anyone else that would do that, would get towed at their own expense. I can see some of the girls with the light pink and love stranded red lace dresses peeping out from under their jackets, along with the glittery joinery, one was holding a tiara, papering for the big dance. Covering them up so putatively so the water would not trade them.

'Hurry up- you'll are slower than six bags of crap!'

Jenny muttered as we got out of her SUV next to the back door of the school. This row or lot was only reserved for the seniors, yet it seems, that everyone conjugates here before the ball.

Yet, Jenny has been parking in a senior row since freshman year. Jenny has even parked in the handicap space. Her excuse she gives was it was her time of mouth. And she didn't want to have to do the shuffle walk, riding the cotton pony in the ferrying cold. Yah no- feeling things sticking to her oh so grossly as she was crimping.

Yet in a way, I can't say I blame her.

(Who wants that?)

We girls have some much more crap to deal with... like that. Period- handicap approved? Nevertheless, she has parked there for more than seven days in one month, she only really needs two. I guess I or one of the other girls, that ride in her car gets the blame for her parking there when she not on her leak week. Up to now... I'm not complaining we can get away with it. Just like yesterday, Jenny pulled into this very lot, yelling oh F-no.

She is blaring the horn with her palm, her eyes were all wide wild, even though it was so apparent that Taylor (a senior) was there before us. Then without thinking Jenny presses her foot down on the gas pedal. Liv puts her hands over her eyes and screeches like a little girl. About the same time, what little bit of hot cholate that I was sipping on dribbles all down my chin from being jerked around. Oh no she didn't-I thought... yes, yes- she did. She piled out burning rubber cutting Taylor off. Yeah like- she cut her off faster than a fat boy getting cut at a bar mitzvah.

(Ouch!)

Jenny's balding mixed tires Coopers in the front and Firestone in the back were spinning the whole time. In the blink of an eye Taylor slams on her screeching old brakes that cry as she gets pushed back and ripped off by Jenny.

Her orange Chevy truck stopped... yet gets sniped by her SUV letting Jenny in her spot. Let's just say that Taylor bumper and some others take a beating and get scared up most days. That is why Taylor only has one working taillight, and her one headlight looks like it is winking at you. She doesn't bother in getting it fixed, just like her passenger-side mirror, that Liv smashed when she opens her door; because it's just going to happen again. I guess something's just don't need fixing, even if it would look nicer? That reminds me...

‘Great...’ I said, mopping up the hot chocolate going down in my chin and, boobs with a balled-up McDonalds’ napkin.

‘Now I get to go around all day with my boobs smelling like a Hershey chocolate bar.’ ‘Boys like the smell of junk food,’ says Liv from the backseat. ‘I read it in Seventeen magazine.’

‘Why don’t you put a Snickers bar down your pants, and Ray would probably freak or suck you before homeroom.’ Jenny said gruffly. As she flips up the mirror from the sun visor checking her appearance. ‘God- Jen, jealous much- says Liv.’ Jenny- oh shut up! I’m not jealous of that! Why don’t you just go dry hump on your gay lover?’

Liv- ‘Maybe I will, why do you want to watch Jen?’ Jenny just made a face that a girl in pre-school would make, sticking out her tongue, with her hands flapping at her ears.

Karly- Ray he is so smart and funny, and can always make me smile. He can even read... and that’s a lot more than most boys that I have been with, it’s like all their blood goes to the wrong head. Away ways he says that- ‘A book is either really good or can suck hard then your girlfriend on your birthday.’ I giggled so hard when he said that.

He said- ‘That you just know what you like.’ And from that, I knew that he liked me because I am his open book for him to read. Just like how two books are never perfectly the same, just like he is different from the other boys. We were going to write a story as one in love couple, a happily ever after story. Yet it never happened. Every day could have felt like his birthday with me.

(Yes- I am just that awesome! He- he)

I would have to say, that I loved everything about him.

(I want my love story!)

He was not like the others...

(Yet, I found that out somewhat too late.)

There was something there that was different, something real. He felt unlike any other to me. Like I have dreamed of him making me arch my back out of plush, his warm breath on my neck, as he moves ever so, slowly downwards kissing my chest, and sucking on whatever he wanted. Only to move back up and whisper sweet words in my ears. Hearing that low sensual voice makes me quiver in satisfaction. As I was letting him go down on me. With him feeling all the wetness and warmth from way down inside of me.

Awh God- it's got to be more than a daydream! I have had the sensations of him spread my legs apart one by one, moving his body unstop of mine, and before feeling those little tugging kisses right there on me before siding what I wanted the most in. I have felt him down in there... yet only in my fatuity. (It's just like a dream that is so real, all I have to do is think about him!) Of course, I have found myself groaning softly sometimes out of pleasure in boarding classes, just lost in the moment.

I can't complain about even being the dead girl looking back. I have had the pleasure of seeing that thumping hard thing in my face when trying to head for the right areas speeding my lips open and hitting all the right stops, yet never reaching the pick of the journey.

Yet, I'm content with know the fact that he did slip his hand down my panties and rub me up down and around. Every chance we could cut away from the others. I loved his fingers touching me, and petting my little pink kitty, till the point of an ecstatic explosion.

I will always remember feeling one another's love parts, many times over with our hands and mouths only. Yet I wanted to feel his penetrating love so hard, long and deep where it should have been. Without having someone getting in the way.

(Why couldn't I have shown him, I loved him even more, than the others? It's never going to happen now!)

'Ou- yah-a-ah' Ohaaaa!

Jenny is a screamer in more ways than one! One day not too long ago back she cut Taylor off the same why yelling out the window. She said- sorry honey, you're not freaking going to get any today, like always. She meant that in more than one way also. Taylor yells back- 'It was all your sweetie anyway, you're nothing but a parking horror!' That was a lie coming from her, but we knew what she meant by the words she said. (Awkward staring from everyone, even the kids looking down from the windows of the school building towering above us. All the same, Jenny keeps her freshly powdered nose in the air.)

Chapter: 53

Maddie and Liv, more than friends?

(Girls)

Maddie- It was my freshman year on a Monday, it was could just like- the day of the accident. It felt more like December than November it was so comparable. Just Like the day- I said- goodbye to one of girlfriend Karly.

That day was hard for me, yet it made me see back to another day, I remembered how I was in love to and wasn't sure if it was right or not. If anything, Karly was the one that showed me, that I can love another person even if she is a girl. I loved Karly that way, I kissed her too. Yet she wanted Ray Raymond more than anyone, I knew... but know girl turn me on more then my BFF Liv.

No boy has ever made me feel like she can. That day the leaves on the street were wet and shiny, just like the first time I saw her p*ssy as she was standing in front of me. I was undressed standing in front of her too, it was the first time... for us to try this.

She was wet, shiny and dripping droplets of stickiness that I could see. It was oozing running down her falling off like the frozen ran dripping falling of the dangling leaves on the naked tree branches. She wanted me just as I wanted her.

My dream comes true! It may have been so wrong, yet she felt so right! At the time all I wanted to be was her! At this time all I want is her. I have tried to put my love for her out of my mind with boys, yet it's not the same. I give up on loving, I mean just look at me now! Look at what I have done to kill the pain of not having whom I loved. I have had a boy all night in my room, yet I need her only. I have Liv on my mind all the time! Just like Karly did with Ray.

About three years ago is when I moved here from Orlando, I lived five minutes from the famous park. I remember my first day at a new school here it was so scary, yet that was when I saw Liv with Jenny for the first time. Any- how's Mom and step Dad moved here to Pittsburgh... why it is beyond me. Then again it was very much so the best thing that ever happened to me, like a weird twist of fate. Why Pittsburgh?

I presume, it was so they could be together after the marriage, which was doomed from the start. Yet I just the kid no one ever listened to me other than my girls. One girl more than the others, she knew me from the inside and out. This is an okay city, what can I say, it could have nicer weather.

The summer is too short and the winters are a way to freaking long. Though I dream of her body worth to keep me warm when I am oh so cold. There are more brown trees, purple hill, and glassy concrete things... than flowers that bloom in the short spring.

Most of the buildings in the Hills are residential four or five-story gray stones with run down homes in-between with little gardens in the back most have some kind of dried up stuff they call grass as a yard. I have always liked living in Florida more than here because it does tend to be a bit duller here then there, where nearly everyone is white so unlike my old school. In my old hometown, most people's parents had jobs as doctors, lawyers, and teachers. Here it seems your mom and dad just have to struggle to get what they can get.

I remember the first time I meet Olivia in the parking lot. You know that I got her cell phone number as fast as I could without looking too creepy. And a photo of her that I idolized. She asked me my name my heart was all aflutter. I said- 'Madelyn' but you can call me Maddie... everyone does. I said sweetly yet shaky batting my eyes at her. I think I managed to sound casual, at least I know I tried to. My heart was raising my belly was full of butterflies. My palms were sweating, as I handed her the blue-covered phone back, after typing in my contact information in her cell, as she did with mine. I was thinking about all the text we were going to send to one another and the photos.

My lips where tingling... I so wanted to kiss her right there and then. My vagina becomes aroused and slippery, I could feel my heartbeat down there, my breasts seemed to swell a little, and nipples become erect and hard.

I hope she didn't note! I was getting hot for her.

I wondered was she feeling the same about me?

Was- all the same things happening to her like me? I wanted to ask, yet I did then. It wouldn't have been right too. I wanted her to touch me! I wanted to touch her so badly! I wanted to rain my fingers throw and down her long soft hair and grab her tight little butt with both of my hands, and crease her body with my fingertips, and slide my tongue up and down as much as she would let me. I just want to hug her on the spot, and never- ever let her go. Not let go until she said releases me, please. However, I knew that would not be right either.

It was all happening too fast for me. I never thought I was into girls like I never had a lesbian thought in my awareness before until that moment. I was thunderstruck something just went off on me, saying in my brain saying-

'Yes! Yes! Oh- yes!'

You are what I have been looking for along. I was into her, it was love at first sight, and I fall so hard for her. Then again, I felt so dirty and weird for what I wanted to do to her in my mind, my mouth felt dry as I walked away, I knew what I was feeling was not what I thought was, normal for a girl like me to think. I knew if my mom and dad would find out they would disown me. She would have to stay my hush-hush girl crush!

~*~

Liv- One week later- 'Hey,' Maddie said, 'you never called me back!' It struck me to me in my mind because girls, don't ask that. So frantically, that's when she didn't know what to say anymore. She was frightened of me, while applying pink lip gloss, looking more at the ground then at me, just like a little boy that didn't know what to say to the girl he liked. Then I did, I said- 'Oh- sorry but... I don't know you.' And for a few seconds past with her rocking on the heel and then tow. We both just fumbled for a clear word. But after about the fourth very long pause, she said, in this really small voice and hesitantly, 'Um- I- was- wondering... if you'd like to go-o to the movies o-or something with me on Saturday? Like you don't ha-have to- if you don't w-want to. I thought maybe you'd like to since I'm new here. You could sh-show me around the town. I da-didn't care what the movie is... but... oh... um- okay, well, ma-may-be you wouldn't. It- it was wrong for ma- me to ask.'

'Sure, I would,' I said rapidly stopping her somewhat adorably cute stuttering... 'You would?' she started to tear up. She sounded shocked. I didn't know that girls her age still yelped when delighted. However, she did. 'Sure, I would love it, I'll even show you the parks, and the buildings like the Benedum, and I'll show you everything.' Everything, she gulped hard taking down some air.

'Sure, I said- Ever been to Primanti Brothers?' 'Ah- no what's that... she asked surprised with confusion.' I lend into her face with mine to the point our lips almost touch, while looking deep into her gleaming eyes, and said you'll just have to see.' 'A-um- okay!' She said, so satisfied with a long sigh. I thought... well- what do you know?

I said to Maddie just promise me, that you won't try putting your arm around me when I sit together watching the movie. ah- nah- no I wouldn't think of it she said disappointedly. And the look on her face becomes sadden. I was joking... of course, you can if you want. Then I said you can hold my hand too, Maddie giggled cutely then! Somewhat relieved that I was just teasing her. Yah I have to say I thought she was cute from the start.

I think that was the first time, I heard her laugh that way... in her special way. It was full of cheerfulness. I don't mean amusing, although it was that too. She laughed as if what I'd just said was so crafty and meant so much to her, that it had somehow made her fizzle over with pleasure and delight. That phone number I gave her was the best thing that had happened to her. And that situation at the school of me not assuring her texts and calls didn't seem nearly so bad anymore.

I recall that a couple of days after she asked me out in Ms. Oliver's class the teacher was a couple of minutes late to Math that day it was on Monday, which was my last class for the end of the day. Maddie- she gave me that quick nod, and her face got crimson red and she picked up her algebra book and cover her sweet little faces sitting at her desk. I walked over to her pulled the book down she looked at me so angelic, that is when I said can I share with you today, I left my book at home.

That was the time we'd studied to gather, and sit next to each other, almost on top of each other's laps. I could feel her thigh touching mine, I could feel her body heat, and that felt nice and comforting. Just like the next day in Miss. Gardens English class Maddie saw me, and she, and she sat beside me like before yet even closer than before, we had to read out loud to the class a poem. I will never forget she trembled as she stood and spoke softly and said -

‘I Think I Love You.’

It was that first look, which was all it took.

I knew it from the start, we would never part, that you took my heart.

When I saw your warm smile, there was no denial, that I must be your gal.

When looking into your eyes, there are no lies, you gave me the butterflies.

There are no words to say, how you make my day, even if others will call us gay.

Only your words touching my ears is what I want to hear, with your love I have no fears, moments with you are so dear.

You have touched my heart and soul; you make me feel whole.

I love your lips, I love your hips, I can't resist. I love everything about you, it's like hits me so heard,

That my heart seems to do backflips.

When you say: ‘I Think- I Love you.’

I know- she chooses- the pome she read for me. She was next to me, facing all the kids in the class as she read her feelings, which we're all taking it all in stunned and wide-eyed, even the teacher was speechless. Maddie, she was coming out about liking me. I don't care how you are that take a lot of lady balls to do that!

I'll never- ever forget after she was done the reading. She dropped the paper out of small her hands, and with everyone's eyes looking at her boys and girls the same; thinking she was crazy. She turned and faced me. Frightened, but eager, and said - innocently 'I THINK I LOVE YOU- OLIVIA!'

She bent down, and French kissed me right on the lips, as everyone gasped. The kids in the class started to giggle, woot, and whistle. Some of the things some said about her was awful. She got so embarrassed that she ran out of the room, knocking books off desks and everyone, crying and blushed. I think my jaw was most likely hanging open after that sensual, breathtaking kiss. I was bushed too, nevertheless, I was thrilled that she did it. I had to say to the class that it wasn't very nice of you guys... like what she just did was so charismatic and brave of her. The teacher said I don't get it... but, yes class did you see the passion and emotion she put into her reading. That is why she gets an A+ unlike the rest of you lifeless slackers, Y'all didn't even try.

Inside the notebook paper, she drops on the floor under my desk with my left foot unnoticed, that she wrote her poem on. So that I could pick it up after class without everyone looking at me doing it. The ball rages out three times, everyone one ran out of the room like it was on fire, wanting to get to their lockers and go home.

Yet, I just stayed at my desk for a couple of extra minutes, so that I could be down and get the note that was under my foot. I looked at the wrinkled up lined paper intently and read it again, looking at every penstock and letter in her sweet handwriting, and I carefully I folded it up into fours, and put it in my hip pocket, for safekeeping. 'I believe that you have to kiss a lot of frogs before you find out that you just want a princess and not just some boy.'

Ms. Oliver walks back into the room, and I look up. She sits down and the chair it creaks at her desk in the front of the room. She pushes her tired bangs out of her graying eyes. She said- 'You can stay as long as you want honey, I don't have anything to go home to.' She isn't that old, yet she looks as if she had not slept for years, either that or just sexily frustrated. I can't place it, I could tell that her husband, he didn't care about her anymore.

Let just say she let herself go, and her only friends live in the books that she reads. But the way she acted when she saw Maddie kiss me. It was like she was dreaming about being young and in love again. Or just maybe she had a girlfriend at one time and let her go. Because times were different then. It was almost as if she was having a flashback or something. I don't know... Just like sometimes she joked about it, how she doesn't get any last night to the class, in that special saddle way.

She has a sense of humor in things most people don't find funny. I kind of feel for her. She said- 'You know it's hard to love a man... when he doesn't love you back. I remember being your age, love was different then. Enjoy it now, will you can. It's not as carefree and easy to find in a partner, as you get to become a grownup.' I just shook my head yes, understandingly and said- 'Um- okay- while, I have to go.' I wanted to leave before she started to cry or something. Plus, I wanted to see where Maddie ran off too.

Ms. Oliver Just gave me a little wavy, as I headed to the door and out into the paper and pencil littered the empty hallway. I knew that she was mostly going to fall asleep at her desk. Darling on the papers that she was going to grade for us to give back the next class.

Her voice is always so weak like she has lost her only friend. The only time she seems that she is alive is when she is reading to the class. She gets so worked up when teaching. Kind of like Lewis Black, getting a point made, that's not that relevant. You know the type, which looks like they're going to have a coronary on stage. She looks and shouts just like that.

Maddie- I remember freshman year, and how I told my parents about my first Spirit week and the Friday night dance. They were like-

'That's nice honey...'

(Half paying attention.)

'So-o who's the lucky boy?' dad said. 'Who got you flowers?' Said, mom. She remembered the flowers from way back in the old school day when she went to high school there in the nineteen-eighties. 'I remember how I loved that...!' she said. I said- 'Um- Yes! I am looking forward to it too.' Yet it was hard for me to break it to them. So hard to say that- 'I am not receiving any flowers.' Dad asks me- 'why not?'

And I said- 'Girls can't give other girls flowers.' Dad said- 'Yeah and why the hell does that matter- Madeline?

(He was dumbfounded for a minute or two.)

After the long uncomfortable halt in the chat, I spoke up... 'So-o mom- dad... I am not going with a boy, that's why.

(I hesitated with a deep breath.)

‘I am going to go with a girl to the dance, I’m kind of going out with her.’ Yeah, you know it. The look on their faces was that of horror! ‘Mom the guy of my dreams is a girl sorry... but I love her!’

Mom got up from the table, we were having dinner, leftover meatloaf, and potatoes.

Dad, he dropped his fork in the runny brown gravy, and said- ‘You’re kidding, right?’ I said (Nervously) ‘NO!’

No- I’m not!’

‘I’m going with a girl named Olivia, and I want you to meet her. I want you to love her as I do.’

Dad said- ‘You LOVE her!’ I held- ‘Yes daddy- I LOVE her. She’s cute, smart, funny, and sexy... she makes me happy. Oh, daddy- I could go on and on about her and what she does to me.’

Dad, he just shivered all up and down his body when I said that. Mom was now in the living room rocking in her chair. Saying- ‘Where did I go wrong’ over and over. I think dad was more open-minded or just fascinated by me like a girl. It seemed as if he was looking forward to meeting the girl that stole my heart away. Either that or he knew that at least I was not going to get parents!

Telling them I was seeing a girl, was extremely difficult.

(I would like to say that I am still the same girl, and like I don’t have a deadly disease!)

Yet, she acted as if I was sick! My mother was furious. Saying ‘You’re an intelligent person, this not how couple’s work.’ She thundered. ‘You should know better and have better judgment than to want to do this atrocity.’

My mother was unsympathetic, which was worse than you could imagine. It hurt me that she didn’t get it. And she was judging Olivia before getting to see what I see in her. I had to explain, that she was not changing my mind. She could force a boy on me, yet I was always going to love her and never- ever stop.

Then the sex questions popped up. Dad asking if I had it yet with anyone? And I said of course with her. And he was like- ‘How does that work with a girl...?’ He said.

I just sighed- and said- 'Daddy it's not hard to figure out! You just scissor smack and rub your vaginas together and figure inside and out. Or just do oral on one another... sometimes at the same time.' Yeah- he was sorry that he asked! As for mom- that's just when she fainted while beforehand saying- 'Jesus please help this sinning little girl!' I could not believe the big deal she was making over this...!

Dad just said- 'Oh? Oh- oo- Okay?

Madeline that's enough!' Yeah- I think he got it! All I could hope for is that mom and dad would see her in that flush pink sparkle covered dress ahead of time, and fall in love with her... take our photo, and be happy for us; that is all I hoped for!

Three years later, right now. I still treasure that photograph hugging next to my bed, of us kissing and holding hands before the dance us in our dresses! We got our flower bouquets for each other and danced all night as a close twosome. As well as mom and dad learned to love her as if she was my really good friend that was a girl. Liv was the love of my life that year. And all I really wanted and need all the years after, until this point anyway.

I guess just like Karly, I had to do what I need to do just to be in the cool kid's group. I fall into the same trance that Jenny put over us, thinking the grass is green on the other side. Yet mom and dad were happier too, with her calling all the shots for me, to be as they call normal. I fall to what they wanted, and not what I wanted for me. I was not truly happy, yet I did it anyway... I was so dumb. To nearly give up everything... everything that I loved for them to want me. 'I hate it... when people say to move on to something else. When there was nothing else to move on to in my mind.'

(#-hashtag: don't forget about me, kissing a girl and liking it, nothing can keep us apart)

~*~

Liv- I remember my first date with her, the cutest, sweetest, and loveliest girl in the world! We desisted to ride a bike through the many throughout the city. It was the day that was worm for December first, it was like sixty outside. We were going to overlooks the river most over the way, we didn't know how far we were going to go before we would stop, we were testing the waters, mainly we just wanted to find a place to hook up, which was private, so we could play with each other's privates. The sun was peeking up over the trees and burning off the medieval fortress of night, it was early, yet we wanted to be on the partway going into the park, before all the others.

Maddie was there in front of me. As I walked upholding my old bike, she said ready to do this, as she winked her one eye; and I knew what she had in mind. Just as my mind was on her even minute of every ticking second of the week and the days that passed, to when we could do this. I saw her near the entrance, leaning against the buildings that house the bathrooms, there was a reddish-brown granite off in the opposite direction. That we had to pass to get on the trail.

I remember looking her over. She had on a long cotton skirt with a pattern in it, and a heavy blue sweater; I remember thinking the sweater made the skirt look out of place, as did the small olive handbag strapped to her shoulders that was childlike. Her lavish hair tumbled freely down over the pack. A green hair clip on the one side, she was biting her bottom lip nervously, her lips were begging to be kissed by me. It was just one of the corks that she does when waiting for me, it's only for me, kind of like letting me know she is feeling- all tingly-tingly for me. I stopped for a few seconds before walking up to her, and I just stood there watching her, but she didn't notice me.

Five minutes or so past, as I was daydream about all the things, I want to do with her and do creasing, touching, and even tasting, her... anyhow I went up to her and said, 'Hi.' She gave a little jump wavy and a thumbs' up- such a girly tomboy... shouting over here, she'd had been there somewhat longer than me, and she had already done- a half-mile or so to meet up with me. She was looking at me over in her thoughts.

She gave me this wonderful slow smile, as it spread across her face and her eyes were bright and glittery, 'Hey,' she said as she throws her leg over the tall tubing of her bike lifting her skirt to her showing somewhat of her one butt cheek for me to see in a flirty way. She bounded down on her sit, as she gave that first thrust on her puddle and said as she was pulling away 'Liv... you- coming?' I was thinking, yes Maddie I'm coming! I coming right now for you... 'Of course, I'm coming,' I said- hastily, and my voice cracked in the air.

'Why wouldn't I have?'

Like, I would follow her cute butt anywhere that she leads me! She should know that I came for her! Seeing her hair blowing back in the breeze, as she was bent forward on her bike stretched out over the handlebars. I knew she was rubbing the small seat as I was with mine, the scraping down there like it just made me think about her even more, as I was pedaling hoping to get there, and to get off. I was getting so hot, out of breath, and thirsty! I just wanted to have that full release, and ride with her against the wind, going downhill, feeling the sensations throughout my body.

She was flying in front of me. As I was trying to pass, I did this just to see what she would do, maybe I would get there before her. I knew that she wanted to see me... like I was looking at her because she keeps looking back to see if I was still there. I even said 'Babe- I'm not going anywhere!'

Finally, while grinding my gears, I could feel the vibrations of my tiers from running over the loose gravel, as I got around her, stimulating my clitoris as I pressed even harder down on my bike seat, boning up and downward with ever leg pump pedaling hard. The feeling was much the way; I knew she will be doing to me. When we got to the right spot, and she would hit all the right spots.

Um- her pressing and flicking up with her with one blue-green nail polish elongated middle finger. I knew that it would be going deep inside of me. As the others would ride on the outside, of my blushing skin pressed down jiggling and cycling me. Aww yes, feeling my inner walls contracting and cramping squeezing down on her finger as she tries to pull it back out. The feeling she gives me is gushing. Just the way she like rushes to my brain!

And that is exactly what happened when we found a grove of the evergreen tree, we kissed until she laid me down slowly and got on top of my shivering body, we were off to the sideway down this dreamy pathway the trees made it dark and cool color in the light, the sun was filtering through tenderly... it was a tranquil spot. At the end of the trees, it opens up into a half-frozen river that we overlooked as we made love.

Yes, it was so cold, yet we still got naked.

Maddie- Yes- I remember... unbuttoning her top on the button at a time. She smelt so-oo good, as I was looking into her lovestruck eyes, her lips parted... I was running my hands up her back, tickling her a little, along with squeezing her boobs with my hands, thought lacy her bra. Siding my hands down her bailey, as she was rubbing her hand and fingers over the little front fabric pace of her undies. She was doing this with me, as I was doing it to her. Her nipples pointed and squeezable with my thumb and fingertip, they were in my face, as bent slightly jerking down my skirt to fall.

Both of us Kicking off the shoes, and everything slipped off around our feet. Letting the undies fall to the ground, just as we fall to the ground in a hug. Us rolling around in the dew-covered foliage. Mum- feeling her body heat was all I needed to keep warm. Yes, it's safe to say, that I am hot for her... and I feel safe intertwined with her cozy embrace.

Liv- I was wondering what she was thinking the whole time. I love getting into her feelings. I love every meaningful thought she had and told me, about everything and anything.

And that giggle that melts my heart. I enjoyed just trying to get her to laugh, just so I could hear her. Yet she just about does that giggle with about everything I said, because she had a nervous laugh... because she loves me.

Looking at her wrist I could see her classic gummy bristles. I remember how when we were younger in middle school, they resented what all we would do with a partner. Maddie when to a different school then, yet the gummy were the same regardless. And looking at her wrist that day she was wearing a back one and a green one, and that was exactly what we did. Black- indicates that she is willing to have regular 'missionary' sex! Green- indicates 'oral' sex with a girl. Yet most girls that I know, walking in the halls of the school have been wearing blue- that meant the girl would give 'oral' to a boy.

(Karly had that one on a lot, and sometimes purple- manning that she was Bi, and would be willing to kiss and make out with a girl.)

Most girls were blue and black colored one's scenes seventh grade. As for Maddie and me, we stuck with Green and Black mostly that freshmen year. The other colors no one cared about in high school, like all you wanted to see, was that one Black one, to know if they would go all the way with you. You weren't all that cool if you didn't have those colors on. I remember Madilyn and losers' girls like her only had a yellow one and that goes for even now, and that's just lame! (Boys what more than hugs!) Just like it was lame when girls would try to wear too many at one time. Because you know they were lying about what they're willing to do. It's not cool- to try that hard.

I knew I was in love to go all the way on the first date! I never did that with anyone before. There was nothing I wanted more, nothing I would give her up for... so I alleged. Things change if you want them to or not! And others can change what you want for you... that's the life of a teenage lesbian! Changing into something they want you to be, and not whom you are meant to be at the time and time after. To me... It's more wrong for me to pretend that I like a boy and break his heart... because I'm not into it. Then it is to be with a girl, I think that. She can go and be a heart barker that's not for me.

Yet, Jenny thinks I should be just like her. And my family thinks Jenny is what I should become, they have no clue who and what she is. And most in this world never see things like- I do. It's easy loving another girl, it's hard for other people to love you for loving her though.

Love is love... and without her, because of them, I feel loveless... and it all because they feel that my love should be given differently, then I know-how. What is wrong with us being this way? It could be because I'm this way that it was slowly taking away. Like I'm being punished... Maybe I was doing something wrong. Perhaps... it will all work out, and maybe not.

Perhaps...?

Chapter: 54

Falling to your knees

Karly- Oh before getting out of the car how could I forget: 'Maybe you should try it with Ray, said Liv.' Jenny throws her coffee-stained napkin at me, and I catch it and toss it back. She's laughing. 'You didn't think I'd forget about your big night, did you?

I know what you have been planning on doing with him?' She fuddles in her handbag and the next thing that flies at me is my and Rays used a crumpled-up noted condom with bits of my old bubble gum stuck to it. Jenny cracks up and said this is your baby from the other night. We saw you playing with it, about to get on and off! Liv looks at the condom that is sticking to my face, and side there no man stuff in it. Jenny giggles even heard saying- yeah, I know that's what's funny, and there never will be... because baby girl here doesn't know how to get it done! 'You're so sick,' I said, taking the icky condom of my face with my thumb and one finger, dropping it in Jenny's glove compartment, with all the others that are used along with all the other gross girly stuff she keeps in there that used too.

Just touching it gets my nerves going yet again. I can feel something spiral at the bottom of my stomach. I was thinking about how we can get this done.

(Oh, how I wanted him. Jenny knew it and was rubbing it in.)

Then Liv speaks up saying, I don't know why you bother using those things anyways.

That's what slows you down! 'What!' Jenny slams on the brakes.

'Saying only a dumb ass fool doesn't have their boy rap their tool!'

Liv says I've by no means understood why condoms are used and kept in those tiny foil wrappers. They look so scientific, like something your physician would prescribe for allergies or bowel problems. Jenny looks at Liv, and said you don't know how to use one? I said only you would think there for taking a dump and sneezing!

Liv- shakes her head no... Jenny, she leans her set back, kisses her on the cheek. Saying you're so dumb!

(Yet in my mind, I was thinking that's how she gets it done. She doesn't be time... like I do.)

Jenny- she leaves a small circle of pink lip gloss on her. Then she grabs her handbag pulls out a new one rips the wrapper open with her teeth. Saying- 'I have to teach you girls everything.'

She tells Liv- okay stick up your pointer and middle fingers, and she unrolls it down her two fingers.

Saying- see that's not so hard is it! Liv says- ou-w-ha does that main I'm going to have to touch his wee-wee! And Jenny just slaps her hand on her forehead. Just like one girl's pleasure is another girl's turn off.

(That's when it hit me too... I knew that she was still gay for Maddie. And that she was just putting on a front, for everyone. She's like me, so in love with what she was NOT allowed to have, because of what others would think.)

~*~

Karly- Mr. Davis, the gym teacher, is standing outside the gymnasium, like always when we're getting out of the car. You know that he's most certainly checking out our asses. Liv thinks the reason he insisted on teaching the girls is so he can see the young cute girls in the showers and just bare ass naked. His office is all open windows and it is right next to the girl's exposed dressing room, open shower, and the visible toilets.

Now every time I pee in the gym, I get paranoid that he is looking up my tampon tunnel! He always walks in like when you're peeing a stream like Trevi Fountain and can stop it! I just wonder what all he has seen of us over the years? I know he has seen me, and most of the girls braless and without undies many times.

He says- this is my job to look at you, and make sure you're all doing what you need to do... um- okay if you say so, creeper! Jenny, she has no problem showing off her waxed goodies, me not so much... the only one that needs to see my tiny fuzzy puss is Ray, or my stocker sis if she what to share again... ha!

~*~

'Howdy young lady's, let's move it along' he calls to us. He's also the softball and track coach, which is tongue-in-cheek since he undoubtedly couldn't sprint two feet and back. He looks like a cow, and his skin is splotchy, just like a dairy cow. He is the type that his chest hair gets caught in the fly of his slacks.

'Come on now my lovely little ladies, I don't what to say that you are late on my roll paper.'

(#- Hashtag: a sticky situation, looking in the tunnel of love, and creeper teacher)

I don't want to have to spank him, yet I did. Jenny does a mocking impression of his voice, walking past. It is strangely low-pitched and raspy another reason why Liv thinks he is such a pedophile. Liv and Jenny crack up just looking at his sideways little grin.

(The look is like- come here and freaking ride me!) He always eyes us, little girls, with bad intent, with his icy stone-cold stocker blue eyes. Those eyes that chill your blood just looking into them for too long. We all know he has gotten his way with some young ones... just like me. I would know too... You know for sure his bent them over, doing doggy style. Putting his curved nasty penis into their snug honey hole.

Like a spy on a mission for what is coursing all the bloodshed in the house of love. I just feel that... all of us girls do! Jenny says it... it must be true! It like you can see and hear their sex screams in the steaminess of the room, as you channel into his creepy gaze! I know he wants me like that, I know he wants to go down on me, like before! I know- he wants to eat me out, again.

Like the orange, he is sucking on now! Just like the others, he has had in the locker-room and showers. We girls just add to all the photos from all the years... of girls thirty years' worth.

Jenny would know, she mostly has like banged her brains out that way. With him forcing it down inside of her, all these years! She has seen all the photos of the girl's plastid on his office wall. Me being one of them. She is the week all of us girls are compared to his big flabby body flopping around on us.

You can't fit him off you when he grips you. I would know... Nevertheless, these girls have to beat him off! He likes it more that way, if you scuffle with him, and slap him up a bit. He has an immense appetite... and for more than just food, as you can see... he eats a lot, like all the time.

You will always see him holding a brown bag, snacking on munchies; looking for his next girl. To feed that appetite... and if you tell on him, and what his dose to you he will funk you all the marking periods, and mark your light every day! He has you by the ass!

I drift off into a slight daydream standing there, and I recall my freshman year standing alone in the shower nude, wet, and soapy. I was the last one out of the guy room, I was running least as usual and the last one to shower. He walks up behind me and puts his arms around my west. He said you look good naked.

However, there is something you must do. What's that I asked? He looks down at me and pointed. I had pubic hair, and he said that took away from my sensual beauty. He plants a kiss on the cheek, and then my lips. Saying you have such beautiful breasts. He plays with them... I could feel my nipples lengthen under his whispering beneath, saying I going to take care of you. I was never so turned off yet turn on at the same time.

Disposable razor in his hand he rubs and combs his fingers through my thick hair down there. He moans as he begins shivering it off, and I see all the stands fall to the floor. Without even asking me first. I think you missed a spot I said, and gently tugs on what is leftover. He said that how you should do it, never have any more than that, girls should have good hygiene.

That surprised me, that he ran, that razor over my sensitive private skin... leaving a line of short hair, from my underwear line down to my pink opening, saying that's the way I like it. Looks much better... yes? He said... I said yes.

But- but I feel so dirty! He sniggers, saying, Karly, you look so sexy now!

Mr. Davis! I said. (Taken back) He 'Shushes' me! With a mischievous smile, saying don't be afraid Karly, I know you're not a virgin... I am just showing you what to do, for your pleasure, and I'm just coaching you! So- you know what a man wants, and what a man like me wants is to feel the inside of you! I want you, Karly!

Mr. Davis slowly and effortlessly puts a finger inside me. He said- oh so tight! I struggle and twist determined to back him off me. He doesn't move, and pushed it farther in me, even though I am using all my might pushing his big body of mine. All at the same time he was tugging... gently sucks on my nipples. Saying-

Mu-mmm! ('Send My Love (To Your New Lover)) was playing in the background.'

He runs his hands up and down my hips then bumps me forward pressing his mouth against my p*ssy. My eyes closed... tightly! I was panting!

This was wired and erotic all at the same time. He smacks my butt cheek till it cracked a loud and hard sound that echoed within the vast room. Squeezing and pulling apart my now rosy ass with both hands. And yes- I started to cry! His fingers gently started caressing my pulsing clitoris as he was pulling the skin up that covers it exposing it to the air, and his gentle touch. As my backside is now pinned to the cold wet shower wall.

I was shaking and emotionless at this point. However, there was nowhere to run... I was cornered by him from the start, at that moment his face down there. Is it wrong if it feels so good? I have never been so freaking out in all my life.

That was the first time an older man went down on me. What's so sick about the whole thing is that he was good at it. Spreading the moisture around and working his kisses down to my anus opening rimming me ever so softly, as he pulled me to the floor holding legs up in the air and my back against the wall. He pressed against me the hardest when he knew, I was nearing my orgasmic sighing release. He said- I was the youngest he- his finger freaked and sucked. That I was the best one yet! That I was- 'so cute and tasty!'

The only way I got through it was thinking he was Ray! I never told anyone because I think I like it, and that would be wrong for me to... I'm not a hypocrite.

I think a- lot of girls, he has played with feel as I do. Or maybe they're just frightened. I knew he wanted more when he unzipped, and it was ready for me, he put my hand on it. I recognized what he wanted, so I did it with my hand in a fast rhythm. I hark back to his moaning matching my hand stocking, it was fast and hard.

I felt the heat of him ejaculating suddenly, with all of it spurt out at me all over my face, shooting in my one eye, running down my lips and chest.

I remember him saying how's that taste? I said sheepishly- it's good! Even though it wasn't, it was slimy and salty. He's not half the man Ray is! And as fast as that... it was all over.

As he left me to get up. I was running the least for my next class, as the next class ball ring out. I was cleaning up. He said hurry up... get dressed darling. I'll write you a light pass. As he moved swiftly to his office. With it still hanging out... looking like a dead baby bird. You can't be gone too long now... hurry it up! When the walls back I was at my locker, he handed me the pass, and I was putting on my top. He said- don't say anything to anyone about this, and you'll have an 'A' for the whole year! If you do say something, and you rat me out... I'll find you. And I'll stretch you out so hard, that you'll think you got freaked by a train. You'll wish that you were dead.

Like I had to do with you one girlfriend, that can't shut up. Sia's 'Cheap Thrills' was playing in my mind, over and over again, followed by 'Salted Wound.' That was a movie that I and the girls said could have had more lovemaking in, like 'Sausage Party' was more thrilling to my girlie parts... (yet now I want to suck on some Winnie's' said Jenny Ha!... the girls bust out. So- degrading to woman crap. Finding Dory- was okay- but Crash should have had a movie too, said Liv. 'Mike and Dave'- got sluts... cool that's what all we girls are today- so! It flopped like a limp d*ick- said, Jenny. Movie nights on Saturdays... fun- fun. 'I love Life of Pets- said Maddie- um- us too.'

I went to the art class traumatized, with razor itch. I tool jenny, and she was pissed, after that day Jenny has stood in for me any time when he was coming for me all horned up. She took the bow in my place. Which is one more reason why I have to put up with her crap? She didn't want me to have to go through that, or maybe she just wanted it. Either way that was okay with me. I only wanted what I could have... the way I wanted.

The flashback ends, as I hear that same bell that reminds me of all of that...

~*~

Present time-

‘One minute after the bell,’ Maddie says, sharply. Hey sexy girlie- to Liv, and Maddie puts her arm through hers, they pick one another on the lips. Jenny said to get a room... they both just giggle. I side to Jenny- I think he heard you back there doing that you know. Jenny yeah well, I don’t give a crap, he’ll get me from the backside later on.

Wow- I said... walking down the hall some- ‘Happy Friday girls,’ Jenny squeaks out! We all just look at her wondering why the hell she’s so freaking happy, that was uninstall for her.

(Little did I no... she had plans for the letter on that night, involving me and my lover boy.)

Maddie takes out her cell phone and takes a selfie of all of us, making silly faces. Beforehand she was looking into the screen to pick her teen with pink nails.

(If I knew that it was going to be my last snapshot of all of us together, I would have to keep my fingers down from my lips, and my tongue in my mouth! You know the pose tongue out between two fingers. Yeah- you know it... I looked good! NOT!)

‘This photo sucks,’ Jenny says, without looking at it. ‘Totally,’ I say it’s not even a good boob shot. Fridays are the toughest in some ways: you’re so close to freedom yet have to get down on your knees and beg them for mercy.

‘Kill me now.’

(I said- Not thinking in less than eight hours I would be dead.) Jenny grips my face and kisses me. (I have been kissed by death by the lips of a teenage girl!)

‘No way.’

Jenny embraces my arm. We were all arm chinned together ‘Oh no! I can’t let my bestie die a without freaking her virgin lover boy Ray. It’s about time you get down on your knees or spread them, for someone you want to be with!’ I said to Jenny it is all about sex with you, isn’t it? And she said yep- what else is there? You’re a freak- I said... and she whispers back in my ear- you know it, baby! Blonde has more fun you know! (Licking her lips) Maddie said nah, I have just as much fun as you do... plus this way I am smarter. I said, come on let's get to our classes!

(#-Hashtag: blond bombshell, not all-natural hair and colors, and who's your daddy?)

Maddie's- I have been keeping her a secret, just like Jenny keeps Karly's secret, and Karly keeps her secrets. All of us girls have a dirty little secret, which no one will ever know about. No one ever found out what was happening inside me. Like what was happening to her, it happened to all of us. Just like me not showing the world that I love her. It still pains me as it did with her, and it's eating away at all of us slowly.

Liv- I remember Karly telling me about him coming on to her. And from that point on I made sure he thought she was gay like me and Maddie. He has made a pass at me, yet he knows that he is not getting me to do anything like she had to do.

Sometimes, Karly is so meek and global! She got used and there was no need in it if she would have stood up for herself. Nonetheless, look who is talking... I am so much like her. I never stood up for what I wanted or did want either. Yet all of us girls have been licked by that man. The sick twisted bastard. And no one believes it happening! Because he is so well-liked by the school staff and respected.

(The girl's internal thoughts walking to class.)

Maddie- Why are people so harsh? What did I or she ever do to them?

Why can't they understand me or her?

God's it is getting hot in here.

I'm so bloated, at least I'm not pregnant!

Jenny must be on her period; she tries so hard not to be a b*tch!

Hum- I need some chocolate!

Does she still love me?

I feel like crying!

Liv's thoughts- I don't sleep last night.

All night long I was wide awake.

Thinking! Secrets, secrets, secrets!

I am sick of keeping Maddie and me a secret!

This is my fault, mine? Now, look at what I did!

Where could we go to not be seen?

Would I be a good mommy?

I'm so horny!

Karly's thoughts- I'm scared!

Afraid of all of you!

And of them, and that man over there!

I am scared of who I am!

I must be with him, tonight!

I would never bleach my hair!

I have a paper I need to write.

Why should, I keep these secrets!

It's cold in this hallway!

I have to pee!

Jenny- I remember my freshman year and asking Ray out, and he said no to me. To me!

Like no one has ever passed me up!

I typed- If you have the chance in the future, will you and I ever go out? I know you do have someone now, but I would like to have a yes or no answer. You don't have to answer this right away... think about what you want and get back to me okay thanks.

Ray- three moments pass, and I get- No!

With- It's never- ever going to happen! I like someone else!

Jenny- We were friends on Facebook and our friendship was short-lived, I confirmed his request... and he unfriended me? The same day- What happened? He deleted me; no, the boy has ever done that to me. I must have him as my boyfriend, he is the first one to ever say no to me. He said he I don't remember sending you a request! Sure... to be truthful I am kind of disappointed in him, I was thinking finally we can at least be friends.

Why doesn't he want me?

Why does he like her more?

(Facebook chat)

He typed - No we can't be friends.

I, asked- why not?

He typed - Because I don't want to.

I typed - That's mean... what did I ever do to you?

He typed - I tried to be nice to you but you took it too far, and I feel a little uncomfortable around you. I'm not trying to be mean.

I- was- thinking uncomfortable? Uncomfortable because you don't like me? Or uncomfortable because you can control yourself around me because you like me that much?

I typed - I am sorry I never meant to do anything to you.

Yes, I like you, and I know you're with Karly, I was hoping for someday...

Maybe we could go to a movie or something like that? I'm not a bad person... you no!

You have to give people a chance. And if you're judging me, I have changed a lot.

Is ask you out so wrong? Why, do I make you so uncomfortable?

His typed- I am very happy with Karly, and I see her in my future, so I wish you could respect that. I don't understand why... you think it's okay for me to give you a chance when I have a girlfriend. I'm not like that, and I think that's very wrong.

I typed - My god you not married to her. You need to stop listening to your friends so much... what are you so scared of?

He typed- I scared to fall in love with someone like you!

I said- It will happen! You will fall for me!

~*~

Jenny's thoughts walking to class- I'm going to get what I want... And none of you b*tches know!

I'll get you!

I'll have to sit in class like this.

I hope you don't mind blood Mr. D

I have to change this tampon out...

The gym is my only 'A,' I wish they were all that easy for me.

Karly small good, I wonder what she is wearing?

Does anyone have a tampon?

Do people still use pads?

These... underwear cost me $30!

I WISH I WAS A GUY!

(So. me being on my period feels like you getting- kicked in the balls for a week, non-stop, like that love a sick feeling or you have to squeeze something out of yah, consent churning inside.)

Chapter: 55

Admiration

Karly- My first two periods- Art and American History history are always been my best subject- I get only five roses I was told at the end of the day so far. I'm not that stressed about it, although it does kind of piss me off that Eliza gets four roses from her boyfriend, Chris. It didn't even arise to me to ask Ray Raymond to do that, and in a way- I don't think it's fair. It makes people think you've got more friends than you do. I guess I'm more honest than that?

As soon as I make it to Spanish, Mr. Pierce announces a pop quiz. This is an immense problem since one, I did understand a word of my homework in four weeks.

(Okay, so I came to a standstill trying to get it... after week one.)

And two Mr. Pierce is kind of a d*ick to me. Always threatening to take my phone away and making me stay long after school sometimes. I have a failing grade, yet I don't care it's not like I am going to do anything with my life anyways after I get out. I haven't been accepted to school yet. Because the stiff here don't know how to get you into a place.

He said, that he is going to make sure I don't graduate, I'm not sure whether he's being serious or whether he's just trying to keep me in line for next year when I become a- senior, but there is no way I'm letting some d*ick headteacher ruin my chances of getting into Pitt/IUP. Just two be able to count to ten in Spanish.

I want to go to Pitt or there- I don't know yet- (you know the big gay building) too if I can get Jenny to get it for me as she did with the other girls. Like always she has the pull. Yeah- it's not like I could even have enough money to go to a crummy community college either.

Mom and Dad are kicking me out regardless of what I do with my life when I turn eighteen. They say... I have to make it on my own just like they did there not handing- me a dime or anytime soon.

They don't care if I end up on the street, will maybe daddy a little more than mom, but I think you get it. Ray plan on going to Pitt. That is the only reason I want to go to. I guess I have to kiss Jenny's ass hole till the day I die!

(Ha, that's amusing... I did die and I was lying in a pool of blood on the street.

It's funny how your hopes and dreams seem to work out!)

Even worse, I'm sitting next to Liken Lorre, possibly the only girl in the class more clueless about this stuff than I am. She is even more clueless about everything then Jenny seems to be about life itself.

My grades have been pretty good in chem. this year. I like how sexy, I feel in that white lab jacket and mixing things different things together, with my lab partner Maggie. I was the only one to say 'okay' I'll work with her. If I get into Pitt, I would maybe like to major in that, yet my straight A-average can be summarized in one word: Maggie. If she would be doing all my work for me, I would have never gotten this far, in any of my classes. I most likely would have dropped out and had a baby or two.

I would say we're friends, but in a way where we are without anyone knowing about it. I like the girl what can I say. She smart, funny, nice and even cute. I have even spent time at her house.

I have learned so much from her, as I showed her how to attract a significant other.

And what is surprising is that she has a crush on Maddie. When Maddie isn't all that nice to her. She likes a boy named Greg too but she doesn't stand a chance, with either. Her first kiss was with me. That happened the night I sleepover, and she and I had a plow fight after she changed out of all her clothing into her hoddie- footie PJs. And I sleep with her in her cozy single bed, the same way I do at home. She did mind, I not much of a Pj's type of girl. Oh- and the kiss was more showing her what she needs to do... I think she kind sneaked it on me. But I didn't mind, we were in her room and no one could see us.

She felt safe with me, I guess...

(I do know that she misses me.)

Greg He's skinnier than most and his breath always smells like spearmint gum. But Madilyn she lets me copy her homework and even inched her desk nearer to mine on test days, so I can peek over at her answers without being too apparent.

~*~

Unfortunately, since I stop before Smith class I didn't get to pee or to check in with Maggie- we always meet in the bathroom before the fourth period, yet for some dumb ass reason or days and class periods rotate from week to week and day today, and it can be confusing just knowing where you need to be. I didn't know where I need to be... anyways fourth I go to the bathroom just to see if we can hang out since she has Math thread at the same time I have, English- she is in the next class over. And we leave at the same time to go in. Yet today I got to Chem., and I arrive too late to get my usual seat next to her. I was stuck look at a Bunsen burner and weirdo Marcel Vogel.

(He is always sniffing things... like me or like his armpits. And touching his junk, always making sure I see it popping up under there!)

I swear if he touches my arm or anything else on me one more time, I will scream so loud that all the glass test tube will break to my shriek!

This is just my luck for the day.

There are four questions on Mr. Smith's quiz, and I don't know enough to even fake the first answer. Why do they have to belong to an essay question? Next to me, is Liv and she still thinks she's knocked up, so I drought anything on her paper is worth looking at, yet that moronic look on her face is interning. She, like- her tongue poking out between her teeth, off to the one side of her head and hair, and one of her one finger tearing up her scalp under her lacy headband.

Eyes looking far-out staring blankly at the block wall!

(I bet- she was thinking about her girl! I think some of her brain cells die, every time she does think about Maddie.)

She always does that when she thinks too hard. Her first answers are complete crap-olla, actually: that so not like her, Liv's answers are mostly well-ordered and unhurried, not hysterically scribbled like mine, when you don't know what the hell you're talking about, and are eagerly scrawling all these words so your teacher won't notice, just how dumb you are.

(Yes- it was in cursive- the style of writing, which I never use unless I am hiding my stupid or showing my love!)

(Of course: I know that never works, but I have to put down something, so I don't look Sped that have to get the ads to spell everything for them!)

Then, I remember that Mr. Smith lectured Liv about improving her grade last week. Maybe she's been studying extra hard, not to fail, or maybe he told her he would call home or something like them to back in elementary. Whatever it is she looks freaked out just like me, and most of the class! These questions don't need to be this hard, I main come on!

I peeked over Liv's shoulder and copy down three of her answers- there not that good, but good enough to be at the same Liv she is- when Mr. Smith calls out, 'Fiiiiivvvveee minutes kid-d-ie's.' He says it intensely, sounding demonic talking so stridently it makes the loose skin under his chin jiggle.

It looks like Liv finished and checking her work and said- skew it under breath. But she's taking it up to him, so I can't see the fourth answer. 'Freaking-A' I said out loud. And everyone gives me that look. As I snapped my pencil in my fisted right hand out of frustration.

He said 'Is there something wrong missy.' Mr. Smith, he roars, glaring at me.

'Are you talking during my quiz?'

I turn bright red and looks back and forth from me to the teacher, licking my lips. I don't say anything. I just shook my head- no. liv looks up and said 'I was just-' she says faintly. He said trying to ask you for anger. She looked petrified at me and back at him.

'Enough of all the chatter.'

He stands up, glowering so hard his mouth looks like it's going to dissolve into his neck. I think he's going to say something more to Liv because he's giving her a death stink eye.

But instead, he just says, 'Time is nearing down, everybody.' And got up and didn't even look the test over and handed it to him. He said I can wait to read over this... he said sarcastically! I knew I was F-ed! I went and sat back down seeing the hand on the clock tick-tock down.

'Two miiinnnuutes and thirrrty onnnnee secondssss,' Samantha- and I lean over and stabbed her arm with my pencil tip. She looks up- ouch! She said alarm at me. Sam- I haven't talked to her in ages and for a second... I see a look come over her face that I can't quite classify. Blue ink pen, in her mouth, sucking on the back end.

She looks mixed up as she glanced- up at Liv, who is thankfully bent over the desk picking up her textbooks. And not completely at me, the books weren't allowed on the deck while taking the test, so we all had them on the floor at our feet.

(Liv does have a nice ass! I knew what Sam was looking at! Or maybe it was just that greasy spot. Either way, she was looking at her perfectly rounded butt.)

‘What?’ Sam whispers. With her gothic black hair falling over her brown eyes.

Karly- ‘Um- ah- how do you think you did?’

Sam- ‘Okay, it wasn’t that hard.’

Karly- ‘Why?’

She’s staring at me dumbly and then makes some gestures with her pen shaking in a jerking up and down in her finger curled up hand in a shaking motion, trying to communicate to me that she runs out of ink.

So, I said- I think I have one in my purse, let me see. A couple of seconds go by and I feel like reaching out and shaking out my whole handbag out because it’s taking too long.

All my tampons, lipstick, used clean-x, and my make-up is dumped out and rolls off my desk on the floor, and Marcel picks all the tampons up for me, saying jess-z that’s a lot, Karly.

Also, said- yeah try being a girl! He wants me to explain... yet I didn’t. Sam stops looking at me when I did that. I handed her the nicest pin I have; it has that pink puff at the top. I knew that she wouldn’t put that in her mouth. She said- thanks... it’s very pretty and pink, but you didn’t need to do that. I said I wanted to.

‘Ooonneee minnnuttt everrrryoneee I-um donneee.’ Finally, her face frees up and she smiles so angelically at me as I give her the great gift in the world.

‘Seriously,’ she says, ‘you’re going to need a pen. For notes and stuff.’

(#- Hashtag: it’s wet, pretty and pink, and what makes you cry)

(I guess she is not so different from me after all? She seems to be a sweetheart. The girls always said to not waste my time talking to dorky emo kids like her, saying she was kind of slow and unfriendly and terrifying looking.

(No that is so untrue! Underneath all the black, red and white, she is an ordinary girl, the black her the covers her one eyes are just deference, take all that, away she would look she’s just like us, she is covering up, so she is not going to get hurt by someone like me. Plus, she is far more intelligent than I or the girls ever hope to be. I wish I would have befriended her a lot sooner!)

While Liv is bent over rummaging for her folders and right notebook for her next class, I see the final answer on the chunks test. Actually, what I put was rather close to what he misspelled and wrote down, and then he whispered and get my attention. And said thanks for sitting by me today, you been a help. I was speechless... to his hitting on me! 'Thirrrrtttyyyy seconndss nooww.'

Everyone- said something like- here take it, as they got up pissed to hand their test to him. So, I took her old one from her the one end is chewed and wet: gross.

(Yet I felt I had a new girlfriend.)

I give her a snug lipid smile and looked away, but a second or two later she whispers, 'Does it work for you?' I said- no, but that's okay you keep that one, I have more somewhere in my locker.

I give Marcel, that you're starting to be the annoying look. I guess he takes it as a sign of flirting, he did understand. 'The Pen. Does it work,' he said? I don't respond- he whispers a little louder and taps my hand with his delicately. That's when I slam my textbook against his desk. The sound is so loud everyone jumps. I said- Marcel, can't you get it through your head, please leave me alone, I am not into you. Okay! You're making feel unbearable... I have a boyfriend!

Karly, he stopped me as I walked out the door. He said- 'You failed my test today for talking too much to others and speaking inappropriately to your classmates! You need to learn that you are not the boss in my classroom.' I smile tightly and dropped Sam's champed up the pen in my bag. Will he grin, his voice in my ear?

I said- you done, I have to get to my next class, as I ran out.

Of course; I carried walking through the hallway to my next class with a slobber mood coming over me. Yet he will never see me cry, he would feel that he was winning! On the bright side: my daddy continuously says you should do one good thing a day. And something good will come back to you in time. So, I guess that means I did mine for the day. You always get what you- devise! Daddy is a very smart man.

Next period today I have 'PE' which is what they call gym when you're old enough to be affronted by forced physical activity (Liv thinks they should call it on needed life skills instead, for accuracy). We're studying CPR, which means we get to make out with a life-sized dummy in front of Mr. Davis just more proof of his perv-E-ness.

I am sure that it's been in her mouth too! I can almost taste it- gross! After that the girls all were gotten ready for the dance, school class ended early, too bad I still had to go to his class. All the girls wear rhinestone masks, our costumes dress doesn't make sense in the context of the day in my mind, yet that's the whole point I guess to look mysterious to your boy on the dark dance floor.

So, you can be free and crazy! I was wearing a small pink eye mask covered in what looked like red rubies, so no would know I was dancing with him, but him. The whole point is to show off in front of the junior and senior boys and look sexy. I don't blame them for getting turn on. We want them too.

Freshman year Jenny dated Nick Sermon- a senior at the time- they were together all of the eighth-grade years too on and off. Anyways for two months after he integrated them doing the nasty, in every position you could think of...

Why?

Because, she broke it off that night after they did it, saying it sucked, and not in a good way.

(If you're going to have any type of sex, and don't want others to see it, don't take the photos on your cell, and then send them to a boy to upload the pictures to the internet!) That's a real love story right there, they were so in love... yet Jenny is never happy! Jenny told me at the time the only reason she ended it with him was that she had her eye on someone else.

She was petrified of how stern he was over her, she never said but I knew, that she felt more like his daughter then his lover. Other guys were not even supposed to look at her or anything, or he would beat the crap out of them. I feel bad for all the boys that she leads on that lost their teeth! Oh yeah- Jenny thought this new boy was going to be a sure thing. Yet, it did work out. No- she never told me who he was... I wonder myself?

~*~

I make a big deal of unfolding the tiny card to get a rose at the end of the day on the dance floor it's from Ray, I felt the spotlight was on me when the girl named Jace waked up to me and handed it to me, she was passing them out. I read the note that looked to have been already opened, even though all he's written. It said, 'Luv yah,' and then in smaller letters near the bottom: I'll be with you tonight.

'Luv yah' isn't exactly 'I love you' which we've never said it aloud in front of anyone- but it's getting closer. I'm pretty sure he's saving it for tonight, we are going to do it. Last week it was late, and we were sitting on his couch and he was staring at me and I was sure certain- he was going to say it- but instead he just said I look like Alyson Hannigan from a certain angle.

I said- oh the girl from the 'American Pie' movies? Um- thank you, I guess she's kind of cute? So, I said the famous line: 'This one time, at band camp, I stuck a flute in my p*ssy.' He busted out laughing and that's when he said it: Oh my god I so love you right now! You know what I think you're cute! He said knowing you-you would do that too! I said- 'ah' in a gasp, and smacked his arm, and looked at him massively with my flirty eyes. I could not believe it... though he can be shy, I have a way of making him feel relaxed.

Yet, I just want to hear the words 'I LOVE YOU' And nothing else. And just like her, I was thinking in my mind 'So, are we going to screw soon because I'm getting kind of antsy.' And as you know it just did happen. And after he left that night at around 3 am, and I was disappointed, just like her it was just me and my good friend Mr. Shower-head in the bathtub.

At least my note is better than the one Alexis got from Seth Shorts last year: 'Roses are red, violets are blue if I get you in bed, and I'll cover you in my goo.' She thought he was kidding- no not really... but still, Blue and goo do that even rhyme.

'Is Goo even a word?'

No- didn't think so... We all remember her look on her face the weekend after, she was in his bed a lot, and she looked so tired that

Monday morning. We just knew. I don't know... I kind of find it funny and suck what he said. Yet he tried, and that's all that matters, right?

Tip- to all you boys out there, make the note about something other than wanting to get her in your bed or pants. That's not romantic if anything that would put her out of the mood. Just saying! You got to be sweet to her, and care about more than just her vag.!

(If all you have is just sex where is the love that you need?)

(#-Hashtag- movie night look-alike, under the spray, and bubble bath)

I think that's going to be all of my love-o-grams, but then the girl makes her rounds and then comes over to me and hands me another one. It now the end of the day and I see these 12 all color roses are all different colors and this one's pretty incredible they were sent from the flower shop in town: white with pink-streaked petals like it's made out ribbon candy. Alone with the 1 red that means so much to me. 'It's beautiful,' I was breathless. I look up, and all the other girls in my homeroom are just standing there drilling, staring at the roses lying on my desk.

Gracie said- My God girl, someone loves you! She said it with a bratty attitude! I said- Um- yeah, I no. It's pretty shocking for a lowerclassman to even have the balls to speak to a senior about who loves you. It annoyed me for a second. I just looked off... and take in my moment with my bundle. But in the back of my mind, I was thinking, I don't ask you who loves you, do I? Like just how envious can she and the others be of me? She has her hair so pale blond at the tips that it's almost white and brown at the top which was so last year. And I can see individual veins through her skin and sun markings from getting fried.

She reminds me of someone, but I can't think of whom. I catch her looking at me and she gives me a quickie glance, with that embarrassed smile. I'm happy to see some girls color rush into her face- at least it makes her look less like a cold-blooded freshman zombie, that sucks into boys' lives that they shouldn't be in.

All these b*tches need to stand the freak back and mind their crap... seriously! You can't have him; he's mine... MINE! I was thinking! So-o in love, I trilled like a drunk ballerina around with the bunches in my arms. I brush my finger over the rose petals-they're so soft. Instantly I feel stupid, as I sniff them with my eyes closed.

I open the one-note, expecting all these from Ray or Maddie or Liv... No, it was from Jenny, it said (I will always love you... to death, my b*tch- my baby girl! A flower for every hour of love I have for you till death do us all apart! You will always remain in my heart like the red rubbers and red blood you'll drip, like a memory you and he will be just like a kiss on your lips, your fate has been sealed!

(You have made your choices.)

(I was so dumb at the time I didn't get it.)

Underneath all the flowers on my desk was a cartoon drawing card it says: I love you. It's obviously from Parker Paterson- he draws my cute cartoons for me to be with him, they show his puppy love for me, so I give him one of my senior pics, last week just because, and I think he's in love with me now. I look up and glance in his direction and flirt. He always sits in the back-left corner of the room staring at my butt trying to see if he can see my thong sting, and down my crack, or something like that. He is one weird boy, not the one I want.

Yet, he is sweet to me so, I'll play nice, and let him dream about me at night and beat off to me and my pic like all the others do when I tease them like that.

Yes- I have been the tribute girl to many of the boy's urges. He- he! Every boy and even some gay girls in the school wants my Snapchat, for my sensual but naked pics. But just like me and my cell number, it's hard to get. I like to say my number has a 2,433, in the end, you'll have to figure out the rest.

Funny many of a boy has tried to crack my number. I love getting random texts at 3 am. Along with your junk pic, it's the highlight of my day.

Not really... but send away I'm not going to stop you... silly boys. Sure enough, he's watching me from behind. I look back and he gives me a quick smile and a wave, then makes that motion with his arm trying to cover up what he was doing as he sits back, I knew what he was doing, about that time is when he blew me a kiss too, that I caught with my left hand to save for later, I was grossed out by it shooting out at me underthings his desk, why do boys have to do that?

That doesn't turn me on! I guess if I had one, I would play with it too in class ha- ha.

Anyway, I take his drawing and crumble it up, and I know that it will get lost at the bottom of my bag and that's just okay with me. I don't think he minds what I do with his drawings.

Oh, My God, I remember when I was about five, and I asked dad what happen to mine, I thought I was one of the boys... because I saw my little cousin changing when he stayed over for Christmas in my room, and he let it all hang out, plus when he was asleep in my bunk bed too I got a glimpse. Anyways I asked dad and he said that I played around with mine so much it falls off, that's why I have a hole there and not one of those.

Hells yeah, I was pissed! That messed me up for many a year! Like, come on dad just 'tell me the truth about me being a girl, not a boy. I was freaked out by that for sure, as I wanted it back and even cried about it. I did want to touch myself for a long time after that. Just like he said- if I push in or jiggle around my little button as he called it... I would die.

Thanks, daddy you made me sexily insecure! And just like any nine-year-old girl at the time, I had to push it in to see what would happen in my bedroom, and no I didn't die!

Dad and I have always seemed to get into wired moments just like that. Just like when he finds out I was popping the pill, and I did them to say it was okay to get them. Because I was of age to get it myself at the store.

Mr. Pamper comes up and down the passageways, collecting homework, and he pauses at my desk. I have to admit it: he's the reason I'm psyched to get so many other love-o-grams from other boys. I would so do him! I might just leave

Ray if he would say let's do it here and now! Mr. Pamper's only twenty-five and he's gorgeous. He's the assistant coach of the swimming team, and it's pretty funny to see him standing there showing off his goods in those short shorts. I see him looking at me when I get in and out of the pool dripping wet and walk past to jump off the diving board. We are complete physical opposites, yet opposites attract.

Mr. Pamper is over five feet ten, always tan, and dresses like we do, in jeans and hoodies and Nicki sneakers. I would love for him to take me and throw me on top of his desk and jam that all in, mmm he is dazzling! He graduated from here. We looked him up once in the old yearbooks in the library. He was prom king, he had a little more hair then, he was in one picture wearing a blue tux and smiling with his arm around strawberry blonde prom date. That looked a lot like me.

I love that picture; I wish I was that girl. I bet that was the night she lost her virginity to him. You can just tell they were saving that for that night, by the glowing look on her face. But you know what I love even more? Is that I could pretend to be her if he would want me too. It's so ironic that he is the hottest guy here and he is one of the faculty.

As usual, when he smiles at me my stomach does a slight flip, and I feel myself getting hot and wet. When I see him running his hand through his messy black hair, and I fantasize about doing the same things with my hand. And his hand going through mine, and down my back and squeezing my butt cheeks. Why not I can fantasize... right! I think he is kind of what Ray will look like in ten or so years. I am looking forward to Ray to become more of a man.

There are some things he needs to do to become that.

'13 roses already?'

He raises his eyebrows, makes a big deal of it show everyone my flowers that I got.

'Well done he said along with... I knew you would have this many you are a cutie.'

I just smiled with a sigh thinking thank you, you think I am cute? I said - 'sure honey,' he says and winks at me.

I let him move a little farther down the aisle before I say, at full volume, 'I still haven't gotten my rose from you, Mr. Pamper!' He doesn't turn around, but I can see his cheeks get cherry red. There are giggles and snorts from the class, one girl giggled so hard she started to cry.

I get that rush that comes when you know you're doing something wrong, yet it feels so good, and are getting away with it, like stealing a pair of sexy undies from Victoria's secret that you can't afford but have to have, or taking food from the school cafeteria, or getting tipsy at a family holiday, or doing someone in your mom and dad's bed without anyone knowing.

That was the feeling I had; it was almost as good as the sex would be with him. Jenny says Mr. Pamper's going to for sure get me for sexual harassment one of these days, but I can't help myself. She said - Karly you will be in handcuffs if you keep doing that. And I jokingly say to her if there are cuffs... I would like that; I hope their pink and fuzzy! She just giggles... and I say - I don't think he would do that; he wants me too badly. I think he secretly likes it. Jenny said - Your crazy babe...!

Example: when he turns around to face the class, he's smiling. But not at them... he's only looking at me, undressing me - with his eyes, his eyes hardly ever stop staring at me. The other girls know this... but I feel he's mine too, they try too hard to get his attention, you have to become day go a day, to keep a man like he turned on.

'After reviewing last week's results, as I looked over last week's swimming lap times, I feel like I am not moving forward fast enough in both. Yet at least I am getting the grade I want and winning. I realize there's still a lot of confusion about us, and about my limits.'

This is what I did last week, I kissed my test paper with my pink lipstick, and said push me against the wall and kiss me. Yes, I left everything blank! He stared at that paper for like ten minutes, I don't think he wanted to give it back to me. He was pondering if he wanted to or not, I remember he began, leaning against his desk and then he sits down crossing his legs one over the other, a little bit of sweat ran down his face. I knew I had him... I think this week I'll put my phone number and say sext me!

I can be a dirty girl.

Nobody else could make world history even remotely interesting, I'm sure of it, I feel that I did well. He notes back to me was I could lose my job if I did, I keep this a secret, and he filled out all the answers on the paper for me and said- I passed. I love that man! For the rest of the class, he barely looks at me, and even then, only when I raise my hand.

But I swear that when our eyes do meet, it makes my whole body feel like a massive shiver. I even had to ask to go to the ladies' room to change my undies to my spar pair, it like I could've ruined them out to dry at the snick, I just put them in my purse and went back to class. I swear he's feeling it too. He was so feeling me too just like that!

After his class, Marcel catches up with me in the hall. 'Karly... Karly... Karly...?' he says. 'What did you think?' 'Of what Marcel?' I say annoyed at him. He's like a little five-year-old boy. I know he's talking about the cartoon and the tiny rose. I keep walking faster and faster but he catches up with me. 'So?' he says. 'What did you think?' 'Okay with what?' I say to infuriate him. I said not bad, I just put it with all the rest I said.

(Cramped up in the pit of my handbag.)

Marcel just smiles, briskly he modifications the subject to what I thought he was going to ask. 'I'm having a party tonight, He said. Are you coming?' 'It's going to be great,' he says, still smiling. I just said- I'll never be coming for you! Then he spits it out- 'Yeah- my parents are gone for the weekend.' I just said-

'Good for you Marcel. But sorry... I've got plans. I've got a boyfriend too, which will kick your ass if you don't start leaving me alone.' He said- 'Oh yeah Karly- Mr. Pamper scares me.' I just walk away giggling shaking my head, saying you have a lot of growing up to do. As I walk down the hallway, I overhear him saying loudly to Frank his buddy, 'I'm going to marry that girl someday, and God she is so fine, I'm going to do her.' I was thinking in your dreams little boy... in your dreams.

'See you there,' he says. Down the hall I see Ray bobbing out of the cafeteria, and he starts walking faster up to me, hoping that Marcel will get the picture and back off. It's pretty hopeful thinking on my part. That he would kiss me in front of Marcel, it would make him so pissed, he has had a crush on me for years, possibly even since our kiss. I would love that.

Yeah, there are about 69 reasons as to why, I can't stand him, that just being one! I still can believe he asked me to do that with him at his party. It's not going to be much of a party it's just going to be him, Frank and Paul most likely. If there are any girls there, I'll be surprised, yes, a total sausage fest. I bet there won't even be any beer, he just wants me to take his virginity or something like that... for his friends to think he's cool. No thank you! He clingy engulf as is now with doing that crap. I'm shocked that he hasn't tried dry humping my leg in the hallway. 'Down boy!'

I knew he is the one that broke into my locker today and got into my handbag and swiped my sheer white tiny undies... that I took off. I loved those too.

He knows... what I do... when I go into the bathroom? Like I need to stop putting my bag in my locker, when I go to lunch, he knows my combo. He will most likely put them under his pillow tonight and say to his friends that we were together. I look at him.

I've never understood Marcel. Or at least I haven't understood him in years. We were super close when we were little when we were baby, we would play in the mud together ass naked- technically suppose he was my best friend as well back then, my little boyfriend that you have when you're too young to realize. It was his first kiss too.

Then as soon as he hit middle school and he grows a d*ick, some boys like him just wear their balls on their faces. He started getting stranger and stranger.

Since freshman year he's always worn a long black trench coat to school, even though most big holes in his jeans you can see his hairy ass and boxers, not a turn on! I remember the eighth-grade field trip he sat with me on the school bus, he laid his head down on my boob, and then put his face in my armpit and licked it... so weird.

'I'm not an orange Creamsicle...!' I said that... at the time.

Then the whole way back to the school he was nuzzled up to me. That's another thing he was like an octopus's, he couldn't keep his hands off me. That is the price of being cute; I guess and smelling good. Like I would move one hand, and then the other would pop up and be touching me, where I did want him touching me. He wanted to be more than friends- way back then. He even said that he liked me- liked me... but- no.

He was just a friend that was a boy. Yet he didn't get that. Known him as I do, he most likely will be licking and sniff the crotch area of my thong undies tonight too, the little weirdo! That boy needs to find himself a frozen flag pool and lick that instead! Like why must I be his fetish?

He wears the same scuffed-up black-and-white checkered converse sneakers every day and his hair is greasy and long swinging down over his eyes every four seconds. But the real deal-breaker is this: he wears a fedora hat... to school. The worst thing is that he could be cute. He has the face and the body for it.

He even has dimples, big gorgeous blue eyes, and nice teeth. No-a joke. But he has to screw it up by being such a freak with his group of friends and little boy ways. If he would cut that hair and take a bath it would help. Maybe I should say that to him?

He stops walking entirely when I met up with Ray, yet I think Marcel was hoping I'll stop and turn back to him. But I don't. For a second, I feel bad like I was too cruel, but then his voice rings out after me, and I can tell just by the sound of it that he's still creeper smiling and staring at my ass.

'See you tonight,' he said again. I hear the squeak of his sneakers on the dirty red linoleum, and I know he has about-faced around and started marching off in the reverse direction. He starts singing 'You Are So Beautiful' by Joe Cocker, and I admittedly felt so bad for treating him like that. The sound of it carries back to me, getting fainter. It takes me a while to place the tune, for he was saying out of tune and off-key. Just like me, I guess he was trying to get by with

A little help from his friends. Yet, I was not much of a friend to him there, yet I have to be that way, or he would be on top of me.

He makes me feel a little uncomfortable around him, he always takes it too far. I feel I brush him off as Maddie does with Maggie, we just don't like them like that, but they won't back off. Yet I think Maddie and she would be a good match.

I know no one else in the hall will get it, I'm so embarrassed and can feel the heat creeping up my neck, and face I was getting hot under my top and color. He's always doing things like that: acting as he knows me better than anyone else just because we used to play in the sandbox together stark-naked. Acting like nothing that's happened in the past... like the last ten years has not changed anything, even though it's changed everything.

We were kids then it didn't mean anything, even if he thought it did my God, we were like in diapers then. My phone's buzzing in my butt pocket was not allowed to have them... I can get away with it. Strangely the vibration today reminded me of the mooring I had sharing with my sis. I am backtracking here, but this is when I went into the lunchroom.

New text message its shows on the screen- from Jenny. I open it looking around to see if there are any teachers around. It reads- 'Party at Marcel's 2-night u in?' I stall for just a second, puffing out a long breath before I text back.

'Nah'

I stand in line for my lunch... Ray has his hand in my front part of my jeans looking for a dollar and touching my obviously, the PDA makes all the girls crazy.

Even if it's just Ray, he needs to kiss me but with Jenny not too far behind us, so I don't think so.

There are three acceptable things to eat in the Thomas Jefferson cafeteria:

1. Plain pizza with nasty string cheese.
2. French fries, or a cheese soft pretzel.

3. Turkey sandwich make-your-own, or salad bar.

And an iced tea. No one wants spoiled milk! That's for the bullies to dump down nearly girl's tops, or pain in the ass boys' pants.

Turkey is the most common, ham, or chicken breast. Salami is gross, and roast beef is doubtful when it looks greenish. This is a shame because I would like to have that if it was good, but this crap looks like it is been sitting out for far too long. Ray is leaning over by the cash register with a group of his friends, he jumped the line to be with them and not me... that pisses me off when he does that. He's holding a huge tray of French fries. He eats them every day with ranch dressing. He catches my eye and gives me a nod, and that looks like you better get your ass back over here... and love me, boy.

(Sometimes, he does not do so well with feelings his or mine in and being all love-ie-dove-ie. Case in point: the 'Love yah' on the note he sent me.)

It's peculiar. Before we were going tactically going out, I liked him so much, and for so long, that every time he even looked in my direction, I would get this bubbly, fizzing feeling so strong it would make me light-headed. No lie: sometimes, I got light-headed thinking about him and had to sit down, just like my blood sugar would drop. Just like when Maddie met Liv for the first time, she peed her in her undies a little, and her palms got sweaty ha- she going to kill me for saying that, but she still does that when Maddie looks at her that flirty way.

But, now that we're un-official slash official couple, I sometimes have the strangest thoughts when I look at him like I wonder if all those fries are obstruction his arteries if he would die, I know I would; or whether he flosses and brushes his teeth as I do or how long it's been since he washed hair... or if he shaved his face with the same riser he used on his balls, or like if the skin on thingy is clean!

Yikes...!

It's pretty much liked that same filthy Old Navy jacket he wears every day, because- I have his letterman. If we get married, I'm going to have to be like his mamma, yet I guess I'm okay with that? I can see it now at... Ray! Did you remember to put on clean shorts? Did you pay for the TV bill?

Do you think my butt looks big in these jeans? Did you just get me pregnant, because you forgot to wrap it up... really? Yeah- Sometimes I'm worried there's something wrong with me... no joke!

'Oh, no,' I said not realize I was speaking out loud. Mss. Fairbanks one of the little old lunch lady says is everything, okay honey? She looks at them, because my mouth was hanging open in disbelief, and she said aren't they a cute couple? I just said- 'Ahgg,' like Charlie Brown.

I couldn't even make a word come out! 'My stomach feels as if a dog is chasing its tail in it.' 'You okay,' said Gill the girl behind me as I almost passed out in her arms. 'Jenny was talking to him, and kissed him on the lips... okay, Karly Just thinks before you speak, take all the time you need before freaking out. Oh, God, I think I'm going to be sick if she touches him again, it's like she is all over him, pressed so tightly.

Who wouldn't want to go out with Ray, maybe she sees what I see in him? Or she is just doing this because she can, to play with me. If he leaves me for her, I don't know what I would do. Like sometimes I have to keep going over repeatedly in my skull as to why I liked him in the first place like if I don't, I'll somehow forget... why he is so meant for me.

Gratefully there is a zillion- good reasons: to the fact that he has black hair and glass but somehow, they don't look stupid with them; that he's quiet but sweet and funny; that everyone knows him, but he's not over popular that he's- an ass hole, yet not a loser.

Most likely, half of the girls in the school have a crush on him; yet want to admit it because he not that popular because he's not the same as the other boys when you get him naked. I love it when he's really tired, he lays his head on my shoulder and falls asleep, on movie night. That's one of my favorite things about him. I like to lie next to him when it's late, dark, and so quiet, I can hear my heartbeat with his.

It's times like that when I'm sure that I'm in love, and that he's in love with me too. It's love when you're that compatible with each other. It's love when you can just wear a nightshirt and nothing else in front of him as he sits in his underwear and nothing else, under a fuzzy blanket on the sofa in the living room. It's love when you get naked together under that blanket and get unstopped of him to cuddle, yet with his mom and dad in the next room, we never had sex.

Not that we have not tried, I loved the time his dad walked in on us and I was on top of him and the blanket was on the floor, he saw more of me then I wanted him to that's for sure.

Nevertheless, I have stayed all night on the weekends in the past, yet could never seem to be alone, not even in his room, he shares with his sis too. Well not like that! We don't want her to wake up and be freaked out, she's only five. (I could see it now little Hadley saying something like: 'Mommy- daddy Karly and Ray were butt naked, and resealing last night in his single bed.

And it was squeaking, and-and Karly was saying 'Oh- yeah' over and over. I think Ray was hurting her!')

Funny it's the same way at my house too with my sis in my room. Plus, why do all moms and dads have to be so snoopy? They do it... why can't we? I swear we could be in the little red dog house outside and someone would see us and stop it.

Okay back in line- I ignore Ray as I move down the line me to pay for my MTO (Sheetz SUB) and swap my school card- I can play hard to get too- and then head for the senior section. The rest of the cafeteria is a rectangle. Sped kids sit down, at the table closest to the doors coming in, and then there are the freshman tables, and then the sophomore tables, and then the junior tables. The senior section is at the very head of the cafeteria in one line of tables pushed together.

All the windows are on the one side. Okay, so it only looks out over the courtyard and the other part of the school, sometimes- you can look up and see a boy taking a leak in the urinal in the third-floor bathroom, from the right angle. You can also see Sped kids coming in on their short bus from the third floor bathrooms, it's so sad, they have to be assessed by teachers because of there a danger to themselves and others.

No offense, but I don't want to see that brigade dribbling applesauce down their mouth in the room with me, everyone thinks they should have they own place to be, and yes Madilyn is classed as one of them, she sits there and she doesn't look to the left or the right, she looks straight down depressed. She must be humiliated; I know I would be if I was her. If I would sit with her, I would be muttered by everyone in the room, that just how it goes. Poor little Maggie, I know her sort of well... she doesn't need to be in that group... she is as smart as they come, I think.

But sometimes you can be so smart that teachers think you're as dumb as they come!

Liv's already sitting at a small circular table right by the window: our favorite. 'Hey, girl.' I put down my tray. Showing off all the cards and stuff I got from the boys. I forgot to say that on this day, are class ends before lunch, it's a have day so we picked up our flowers when we went to homeroom briefly. Liv has her care and her bouquet sitting on the table and I do a quick count. 'Ten roses.' I wave to hers and then give my bouquet a rattle. 'I have to more than her.'

She makes a cute funny face. 'One of mine doesn't count, Marcel sent one to me. Can you believe it? 'The Jack off Stalker.' 'Yeah, well, I got one from Mr. P too, yet that doesn't count either, because it was sent to me with no name' I know he sent it to me... it has to be him.

'He loves you,' she says, holding out the o. 'Did you get Jenny's text?' I hum- 'Um-hum.' Who, loves me? I asked, the movie the conversation alone.

Said Jenny- Who do you think? I said- I don't know! Said Jenny- It's an obvious baby girl, that Marcel got the hots for you! 'He is so right for you! You should do him, for a night at the party. That is if you don't have your mind on someone else. Do you have your mind on someone else? If not, you have to at least have a one-night stand with him, he's too hot to pass up.' 'You think he's hot?' I say- with a grossed outlook on my face.

Jenny- 'Yah, you need to get over your teacher crush, his balls were cut off when he started working here. If you can't see all this, you need to be over there with the sped kids.' I pick the mushy MTO and slam it in my mouth. 'Are we going to go to his party?' Liv snuffles and then snorts. 'Afraid he'll date rape you?' I say- 'Very funny, and yes!' 'There's going to be a beer, Maddie says.

She takes a tiny nibble of her turkey sandwich and spits it into a napkin. 'This food tastes like old man ass!' Jenny- Really Maddie?

Like you know what old man ass taste like...? She just looks at her with a blank stare, and we all start cackling up.

Jenny- says 'You're so gay Mattie!' Yes- yes- I am, and she winks at Liv! I giggle out loud, because, Jenny did get it at all. Mattie- 'So-oo will all met up at my place after school, all right?'

She doesn't have to ask. It's our custom on Fridays... we order something like Chinese food, raid her closet... swapping eye shadows, lip glosses, bars, and undies. blast music till the plaster ceiling cracks more, and dance around, till her mom asks what the hell was doing up there.

~*~

At the table- 'Yeah, sure.' We all agree... I have been watching Ray from the corner of my eye, and suddenly he's there, Scouting down into a chair next to me. Jenny has the look on her face like she just ate a raw flapping fish and had no choice but gulp it all down! He is leaning into my face look at my mouth and touching my right ear, earring and trawling my hair around his finger. He smells like- Old Spice body spray. He always does. I think he smells a little like my daddy- is that weird, that I kind of like that?

No- I haven't told him that yet. 'Hey, Squirt.'

'Hey- Winky- dink!' He always calls me that, the reason why... will he found that out the first time he touched me down there, just like I call him 'Winky- dink!' You know when you touch, before you see, on like the second date and just feel around to see what you've got. That's where the nicknames came from. I knew from that date that he was different from all the other boys. Oh, how I was infected with him every day after... I still am! I wanted to see more of him.

'I will bite that thing off with my teeth and suck it dry don't think I won't, um- you need to do this for me and my girls.'

She grabs him hard in the pants...

Um- you know that I am going to cut that thing off of you! Um-hum- he said reluctant- and then she said, and I know how I am going to do it too- it's gross- and looks bad- and you're a little boy over it... I did it using a string and a knife- no- it's and's or but's- Mr.! Said, Karly. Or it can be the laser or hot knife, always I am doing it to you.

Any-who... his said- 'Did you get my Love-o-gram?' I say- 'Yeah I got them and the card too... But...!' I say it varies bashfully. 'But- what he said?' I make sure I say this so everyone at the table can hear. 'Ray do you love me?' Everyone is looking at him and me. He didn't say a thing he just lends even more into me and kissed me on the lips, like never before. Then said- 'Does that answer your question?' I look at him stunned, and give a slight nodded yes, he gets up from the chair and rushed out of the cafeteria when he sees the look on Jenny's face along with everyone else, all my other girlfriends were smitten and saying aww! But he seemed embarrassed, that I put him on the spot like that. It was the kiss of the day... maybe of the week too. I think it was talked about more than Liv's and Middies.

Jenny swings her handbag off his shoulder and unzips it dumping it out. The tamps', lipstick, and pins all roll onto the floor. There are about a dozen crumpled roses in the bottom of her bag, the wilted petals are just hung and falling off the stems. I'm assuming one of them is from Ray- and as well that, a half pack of cigarettes falls out too, with a pack of juicy fruit gum, her cell phone, K and Y lube, and her change of undies. And let's not forget about the bag of weed, wrapped around her magic bolt, if you know what I am saying.

Maddie and Liv started studying together after they dumped their trays.

'Who are the roses from?' I say, teasingly to Jenny. She was waiting for me to ask. 'They're all from Ray!' she says, arching his eyebrows like I should know that. 'I think he's more in love with me than you baby!' she whispers. 'You're such a b*tch, Jenny,' Maddie says.

'I just say oh... really? I don't think so.' But in the back of my mind, like- I had to wonder where they all were from him? Jenny is a good liar, but I don't think she would make something like that up. Before there was a catfight, Liv asked- So-ooo! Are you going to Marcel's freaking party tonight, or not?' There is no reply from any of us.

Ray comes back in he must have just had to go to the bathroom, it's next to the lunchroom. I ask so Ray are you going to Marcel Party tonight? 'Yah silly with you!' I look over at Jenny and she gives me the gangster finger, the one that turned to the side. He said 'Probably.' Ray shrugs and suddenly looks bored. Whom are you going with asked Jenny? 'Not you' he said! I just laugh... Here's a secret: when we were kissing, I opened my eyes and saw that his eyes were open. He wasn't even looking at me.

He was looking over my shoulder, watching the room, and maybe her. It's like he is trying to make her jealous with me. 'He's getting a keg,' Maddie says for the second time.

Every Tom, Dick, and Harry here jokes that going to Clinton High prepares you for the overall college experience: you learn where you stand in life, if you work hard or not it doesn't matter, and you learn to drink, and who are skewing you, or who skewing someone else like your boyfriend. Three years ago, we were ranked in some magazine among the top ten worst public schools in Pa. for drinking, drugs, and good education. It gives us girls a bad image of being dumb sluts, which were not. I know that my mom and dad can't afford a prep school like

St. Paul's, Maddie and Liv, are the same way they have nothing, yet as for Jenny she went there one year and got kick out forever for hooking up with a boy in the computer room, or at least that what I heard.

It's not like there's anything else to do around here, though. We've got malls and basement parties and hooking up and that's about it. Let's face it: that's how most of the country is now. Just look at all the bums on the streets living in cardboard boxes. My pappy always said that malls and McDonald's would be the only place to go. That the little guy would get the crap stick. He was so right, he always tells me what it was like, back in the 1950s.

I mean we have so much more than they did, all the same, it seems, like those days people were happier for some reason. I guess if you have too much it makes you discontented? Or maybe people were just happy to be alive after the war. Jenny thinks the Holocaust never really happened, that it was just all a made-up story.

Yet, she is a German, maybe that's why? They ran off got married in an old house in Maryland, and had the honeymoon in the car they sleep in it all nice and drive back they were so young then, I am surprised but the fact that a baby was not made in that thing, just like at the fold-down seats, that why my dad liked this car and the older dudes.

He said that- 'The car would rock side to side... like going fast, yepper- and that what I thought it meant too.'

Which pisses of Maddie who come from Jewish descent. And pisses me off too because my pap was in that war. He used to say (Smoking with oxygen tubes in his nose.) 'I remember flying in that airplane with them ass holes coming for me, and bolts blasting past my face. They looked like the devil, coming for your soul, Karly. I never back down! (Inhale nose) Hell, I would have ripped my prop into his head on if I needed too. No never stopping the gunfire until you killed the S of a B. And if you got one, they would spiral Arrrrrr-nnnnn!

(Inhale nose)

Splat...! Down into the water or hit one of our ships killing hundreds of men. You would never believe the carnage and the smell of the burning oil and dying flesh. I can still hear it and see it in my mind.

(Coughing)

The wounds did more than scare my body, they scare me for life little girl. I lost many of a friend, you just think about that. Most of them fresh out of high school around your age. Karly! You G-D kids need a freaking war so that you're not so damn ignorant and selfish.' Yes- I loved my pappy, rest in peace. He would cuss you out, and then give you a big hug and kiss. All I left of him is his metal thingy and a black and white photograph.

'Ah-em. Excuse me!' Jenny boot scoots herself over into Rob's lap and clearing her throat loudly. Says- just so you'll know where going together tonight. She has her hand tucked down around his butt and she's her foot is going up and down on his inner leg.

'I think you're in my seat, Jenny,' I say. I am pretending to be a hard-core badass. Ray and Jenny have always been friends on and off. At least, they've always been since before freshman year, and by requirement have always had to be okay with that. Yet I am not okay with that...

'My apologies, I did now that you were here to suck his d*ick and make his sandwich.' She gets up, and he stands up and makes a big fanfare, like a bow, we all could see that he has a half chub on. He sat down, and I sit down on his lap just like she did.

Yet, my hands weren't on his butt though. Yet I feel that I was not the girl that was turning him on. I knew that he liked her, I just never thought like that. 'See you tonight, Ray!' she yells, and then she walks up to us and bends down, she whispers in his ear. 'Okay then bring your baby girlfriend. So, she can see me sucking you off, and freaking riding you tonight, like she can't- never do!' in addition to that before leaving she snaps my one bra strap. I didn't want too much of it; she loves to joke around.

Nevertheless, I was not liking it at all.

Jenny walks up to a group of her other friends and sits with, Lizzie, Randi, and Autumn. I overhear Jenny says 'Just look at that little promising ring on Morgan Ferguson finger. Like-she's not fooling anyone... all she is promising is that she will be taking it in the butt, uninstal mirage!' Morgan is one of the over crazed Christian, you know the type too sweet and timed, so brainwashed she thinks boys don't like girls that have sex with them.

She like Madilyn both wanted to be pure, as we all point and giggle. I am betting five dollars tonight that Jenny is going to get Morgan laid tonight at the party, all the girls pull bets on whom the lucky guy is going to be. We have talked about this... My money's on Marcel, mainly so he not all up on me. Plus, Marcel needs a girlfriend like her.

Yes, we like to poke fun at her and her for being a junior virgin. The height bet for us girls on the guy wins, and he is the one that gets to have sex with the girl, as we hold her down, legs spared, and airs pined by one of us girls. We try to get the girl drunk, or high to make it easier, and he gets into it when she loosened up. We all witch and snigger if he wants to pull out is up to him.

Madilyn is called a baby killer too by the girls because the boy we set her up with got her pregnant. I think this traumatized her so much she became gay. (There are no words for me to say, on how sorry I am for being a part of this.)

Anyways so far there are about 20 dollars on Marcel, I know for sure he is going to take Morgan's virginity tonight. I asked Maddie and Liv to bet on him. Why? So, I would be left alone. All Marcel needs is a plaything... yes- I could be a matchmaker! I don't want to go to this party, I am sick of seeing this, but to be popular, I guess I have to do what I have to do. I'll try to comfort Morgan after the fact, as I do with Maggie, after all... I went through it too.

I did even know the boy's name, it was so long ago, and it was at my first party. Just like this is Morgan's first party. Just like me, she is New blood. You never stop partying until the police, and that's when you run to the next hot spot in town, like Maddie's basement.

Back in the lunchroom- Ray leans forward and buries his face in my hair, making his voice soft and quiet. The calm sexy voice he uses to make all of the nerves in my body brighten up like many fireworks exploiting all at once. 'Don't forget. It's all about you and me tonight.' 'I haven't forgotten,' I say- hoping my voice sounds sensual and not scared. My palms are sweating and, I beg God he doesn't try to take my hand.

Thankfully, he doesn't. Instead, he bends down and presses his mouth into mine, and he sticks his tongue in my mouth. We make out for a bit until Jenny looks squeals, I swear she was foaming at the mouth, 'Not after we just eat, I could taste the beef sandwich!' Liv throws a fry in my direction; it hits me on my chest. Said- 'Stop it before I throw-up on Maddie, God I'm going to have to hose you two down.' 'Maddie- said when did you two get so- 'kissy-kissy- goo- goo?'' Ray just said, 'You just failed to see us, I'm sick of hiding it.' He was about to say it, to Maddie and Liv, 'I am falling lo...' And then he stops in mid-sentence, Jenny bounced over and she was back at our table.

What were you saying, Ray?

She asked, oh I was saying that I'm falling in love with her. Maddie and Liv just looked at one another like what hell does that mean? Jenny- 'Ah that's so cute... just save you Love for me.'

(Yapper any way a girl can get blocked I do!) Crap Ray just say you LOVE me! I was thinking grow some balls and stop being so scared! He was looking at me to say that I loved him, but I don't care how long it takes a girl should never say 'I love you' first! 'Bye, ladies,' Ray says, and moseys off, with a cool strut, and I felt like the school slut, as he walked past everyone with my lip gloss on his lips and jawline, to sit with his guy friends.

Here's another secret with boys overall:

No boy should ever... ever get up and walk away from his girl, to be with the guys. That's just a big no-no! It makes a girl feel like you don't care about her, other than to hit and quit it.

I wipe my mouth on one of Maddie's extra napkins, along with spitting Ray's gum out of my mouth. When I thought nobody's looking since the bottom half of my face is saturated with Ray's saliva. There was no way I was swallowing that or chewing it! Here's another secret about Ray: I hate the way he kisses me sometimes.

Yet, when we're alone it's magical when he thinks people are looking, he gets sloppy and tries showing off. If he is trying to impress me and my friends, it's not working. The first kiss was good enough, I kind of think he was trying to make her envious. He wouldn't cheat on me... would he? It makes me wonder if he's Mr. Right. If he can't show his love or even say it... without being a douchebag, I don't know. I am rethinking to us tonight. I don't know what was making me feel the stomach-churning the food or everything else.

Jenny boogie's back over to her other ho- friends, when Ray walked away from us. Maddie says all my stressing is just insecurity because Ray and I haven't sealed the deal yet.

Once we do, she's positive I'll feel better, and I'm sure she's right. After all, she's like an expert.

She hooked up Caden March and Scarlett Walker, and Beth Phillida, and Mindy Buck. She said the love you make makes the relationship work out. 'That you have to bang it out for it to work out.' I hope so...? I have always seemed to be able to confide in Maddie's advice. Liv just looked at her and said, how you would know, we haven't in so long. Maddie- 'That's because you have been playing around with that boy and not me... that's why.'

Liv- 'That's so Jinny leaves us alone you know that hon.'

I go into a daydream of thoughts: Like- you don't get to elect if you get hurt in this world... nevertheless, you do have some say in who hurts you. I know that I have been a little pink girly p*ssy for far too long, but I thought that was the way of life. I just don't know what I want to do tonight. I am going to get hurt one way or the other tonight. It's either going to be mentally or physically, I have such great choices to pick from, don't I? Some people don't understand the promises they're making when they make them, is he going to come through tonight? Or should I just back out now? I know what the girls think. I don't know what I should think.

Do you like someone who can't like you back, why? Because needed love... real love can be endured in a way that unneeded love cannot. Nothing ever happens like you imagine it will, it like- I'm on a roller coaster that's too wicked, my friend ride with me, and the boys and Jenny are the hills going up and down, yet they're not the ones that want to get off, and blow-chunks, it's me. Sometimes I just want it all to stop. You can love a boy so much... But you can never love a boy as much as you can miss them. And I am missing whom I thought Ray was to me right now. It's like a part of me just dyed at little.

(Little did I know the rest of me was going to be too...) I just hope that the promise- 'Just you and me' will stand as our forever. Like what we say now it okay, well last always. Shynna aka (Shylo) Woodley you haven't met her yet, but she is kind of one of us- kind of.

Like she chips into the conversions and joins up with a group when she can, like in the halls she's Just like a little sis that follows you everywhere, same thing. She said- 'You need to stop the fear of being terrified of getting left behind, or you will end up by yourself forever.

I said- 'I feel that I'm only going to be used, and not loved' She said- 'Just stop thinking with your head girl.' She is like the last to join us at lunch every day, Liv can't stand her. Yet that doesn't stop her from grabbing all of her fries when she sets down her tray next to her. She makes a halfhearted attempt to swipe her hand away, yet she wants to be popular, so she lets us do whatever. She is our 'Go-fer' if we want something, she goes for it, and I mean anything. She slaps her bouquet of roses down next to mine. She has twelve, and I feel a momentary twinge of jealousy. I guess Liv and Maddie feel- it too because they both say something like- 'What did you have to do for those?

Shylo as we call her sticks her tongue out, but the look on her face was priceless she seemed so pleased that we noticed. All of a sudden, Jenny looks at something over her shoulder, from her table and starts giggling. Just like a psycho killer, she was looking at me, and was twittering on her phone about Shylo- 'Shylo! Must have been putting out, or giving lots of handjobs to get that may flowers'!' I read the post out loud, and she said- 'Thanks a lot Kar.'

(She thought those were my words.)

Then, I said- 'I didn't say that... read this.' (I have a bad habit of reading everything out loud.) Shylo said- 'Can't a girl in this school just be liked for her persona, and have boys give her flowers because of that. We're not all sluts like Jenny... you know.' 'I know... I said; you should post that...' Shylo- 'She's not even worth it!' Shylo- calls her: Jenny 'Drama' Stevenson! Oh no! Don't even think about cutting her name down, like she did with ours- to 'Jen.' Oh no- she will punch you in the eye! Just ask Maddie how she got her black eye to freshmen year.

Chapter: 56

Love is Love

(A drawing of the two- made by one of the girls)

We all turn around. Julie Sherie is she's carrying hastily into her brown paper bag in her long pale fingers. After she read a tweet from Jenny that says- 'I saw Julie- fingering Maggie's bushy hairy p*ssy today in the library during study hall!' Then there was a follow-up post one minute later, and it read- 'Oh look now she is smelling her fingers!' Everyone in the room is laughing and staring at her. Her face is shielded behind a curtain of pale blond hair, shoulders hunched up around her ears. It's a shame to cover up those pastel sky-blue eyes, I sure they're bloodshot now.

Madilyn aka (Maddie) keeps her phone in her locker, like the good little girl that she is.

Even so, she has no friend-flowers on twitter to even know what's being said. She only has to friends on Facebook and that's her mom and dad, that's sad. So, yeah- she is in the dark as usual. Everyone in the school has Madilyn blocked so she can't send a request even if she wanted too, when you're the sped kid like her, you're just blocked out.

For the most part, everyone in the cafeteria glares at her- she's the definition of unforgettable- the bell rings; Jenney, Maddie, Liv, and shy start making that screeching piercing sound motion with their chairs, and shoes because, Julie she is walking so slowly. Like she has a stick up her ass. She hasn't been this upset since she had a sleepover a couple of years ago for us to come to that we all belled out of. (She wanted to sleep with us with the lights on... creepy!)

Walking out- I'm not sure if Julie hears us. Like Jenny can always hear us because our voices seem to carry around the room, some say we're too loud. 'That we all are ear-shattering!' Julie keeps up that same slow pace across the room, eventually reaching the door that leads out into the hallway. I'm not sure where she is going. I hardly ever see her in the classrooms. Julie has to thrust her shoulder against the door a few times before it will open, she had to be that slow that it latched! Like she's too fragile to make it work. 'Did she get our love-o-gram?' Maddie says, licking salt off her pink lips from the pretzel she ate.

Maddie nods. 'In the library. I was sitting right behind her.' She was sitting with her... because no one else would. 'Did she say anything?' I asked. 'Does she ever say anything?' Maddie said. Maddie puts one hand across her heart, pretending to be upset.

Saying- she probably did do that. She had her hand under the table most of the time. 'Then Maddie threw the one rose she got from a boy, named Antony Whiteout in the trash can in the hall. Can you believe it? Right in front of him, me... and everyone!' I was thinking to give it to me, or at least take it home with you, that boy spent money on that. The boy was broken-hearted, just by the look on his face. Maddie looks up and says: 'Silly boy... I'm gay... I only like girls! Maybe when you cut that thing off, then we can talk.' (And she points at it.) He ran like a five-year-old girl, that just got their candy stolen!

That was mean Maddie, I said. Maddie- 'Will the dork should freaking know!' 'Okay... okay.'

I mumbled... I am not one for dumpster diving, but I fished the crud cover rose out, and read the note attached: 'I love you!' Maddie, you get a boy to say that and throw it away? Crap! This day just keeps getting better!

Freshman year Jenny one way or another found out that Julie didn't get sent a single Love-ograms.

I guess she is comparing then and now. She has a way of knowing all the school's gossip or starting it.

I put the note back in the can, I see Jenny picking it up. I overhear her saying: I get such a good Idea to her other ho-friends. So, Jenny attached a note on that one rose and duct-taped it on Julie locker. Saying- 'I bet this smells' better than that nasty p*ssy! The note said: Maybe next year you'll get some, but probably not.'

Norm Madilyn, I would feel bad, but Juliet deserves her nickname Jull's.

She's a freak in school in the sheets. Rumor has it that she the one in this video found by her mom and sis stark naked straddling daddy on the living room sofa, with it all the way in! Even her little sis Haylee even hates her, she posted the video on her cell to everyone! And that made her even more popular, I still have it in my inbox it's just that funny. You can't see her face, just her backside, and that yellow hair and that pale ass bobbing up and down on daddy.

'Oh, daddy! Give it to me daddy! Ugh- yah...!

Yah...! Yah!

YAH!!!

She got that nickname because will now everyone thinks' she would smell and taste like old man's hairy balls. None of the boys want to kiss that! My tip: 'Girls don't ever let anyone see or know where your mouth or both lips have been if you want to keep guys wanting what you got! Like, come on that's first-grade stuff!' knowing Jenny as I do, she probably said to Haylee get some dart for me on Julie to be one of us. And her sis new about her and her dad, and thought that my key, to popularity. Maybe that how Haylee got so popular so fast this year? She went from zero to head powder-pow cheerleader, I would never do that to my sis, even if she was banging daddy. Sis's should have a bound of little secrets, that no one should ever- ever know about.

Come to think of it; if Jull's is doing it, and little Haylee knows about it, you can presume she's doing it with him too. I'm just thinking he's one of those kinds of loving daddies. It takes one to know one, right? Isn't popularity just awesome! 'Like- one girl can do something, and that's fine if she's popular. But another girl can do the same very thing, and it gets everyone all hot and bothered if she's not liked by the popular's.'

Ones you're headed for something like that, it's almost impossible to dig yourself out of that whole, yeah you might as well cover yourself over with a dart because your next years are going to be pure hell. As well as payback just gets you heated even more. Even if your movie to another school, it will follow you online, that's a fact.

#- Hashtag: (Keep it clean, loving daddy, every rose comes with a thorn)

There was a thump and a bump in the night, and not the kind of thump and bump you want or want to feel and hear. Honey- hon wake up; I think there is someone in the house! Go and see! Wha- what? There someone at the foot of the bed! Last year Shy said she saw Julie in the bathroom looking spiced out, stroking her hair over and over and staring at her reflection. She said that Julie never says a word to her, she was taking off her makeup with her slave, and from that day on that year years and this one too, it looks like she stopped wearing makeup altogether, as far as I know, she gave up on herself.

Jenny hates her. I think Jenny and Julie were in a couple of the same elementary school classes, back then, and for all, I know Jenny has hated her since then. She makes the sign of an 'L' with her hand on her forehead for loser whenever Julie's around. Maddie holds up her cross on her nickels like Julie might be fallen angel because she is so white like she might jump at her and give her the kiss of death and suck her blood or something with those fang-like teeth she has. It was

Jenny who found out Jull has peed her bed every night ever since eighth grade, so the rumor that still goes around is that she smells like pee and period blood. Some of the boys that have a metal shop class, describe her smell like iron, or metal when it's hot.

I'm looking out the window and, I watch Jull's yellow hair flash in the sunlight like its catching fire, and it was... like, she lit herself on fire. We could her dumping what looked like all whole bottle of perfume on herself. And then the flame from the lighter. The puff was engulfed. (I think it was a real seaside attempted. She said it was a joke afterward.)

Madilyn grabs the fire extinguisher and puts her out. Then Jenny says- 'See I told you that Madilyn was lighting Jull's fire. That was the only way to get her stink off.' It looked like something you would see in a Lifetime movie. Madilyn hugs her as she falls to the ground rolling around in the smoke. There's a darkness on the skyline as we look up, like what she and as giggle to it was a slur and a storm is rising. Mag and Jull's are getting wet. It occurs to me for the first time that I'm not exactly sure why Jenny started hating Julie in the first place, she is just as crazy as us to just get a chuckle. I open my mouth to ask her, but my girls have already moved, from the courtyard back into the hallway. Wet hair is never a good look.

Maddie says look 'a reenactment of the daddy's girls' video when she sees- Madilyn on top of Julie on the ground.' And we girls giggle.

'On the inside, I'm terrified and horrified at what I just saw.' Mr. Slimmer says sarcastically. 'Clearly, I've missed something.' 'What's going on?' I say- 'Nothing.' He looks at us like yeah right and takes Jull's to the nurse's office to go to the ER.

Jenny starts crap and we girls take the blame for it. I grab Shy's another the teacher leaves, when we were walking down the hall, pulling her back, and she turns to me. And I turn to her. 'Shyann 'Shylo' Baum!' I said whispering in her ear- 'She has ruined her life. And Maggie's too, that was no joke! She is fed up with living like that.' Shy- 'I no... but there is nothing we can do but giggle it off.'

What can we do? She'll be okay. Just be glad it's not you.'

-It's buzzcut season anyway-

‘She won’t be swimming in the finals tomorrow. And you know she lives for that crap.

It’s her life, and now the team is going to lose.

Shy- ‘Ha at least she is more hairless now!’

Do your reminiscence last year she forgot to take her goggles off after morning practice, and she wore them until thread period?’ then she said as we walk - ‘She probably hangs all of her blue ribbons on a wall in her room over to her crib and teddy bears.’ Then I thought to myself- (Shy- you don’t care about what just happen to her at all!)

Then I thought out loud- ‘I guess Jenny is going to win first tomorrow, she always gets the second place next to her.’ Jenny always hated coming in second, even if the event was butt scratching and nose picking. It doesn’t matter, she has to win. Jenny’s room is cover with Red ribbons there all over the floor, next to all her unwashed closes like her skimpy undies. She has the messiest room of any girl I know. But we all know better than to say anything about it when we come over there is like no place to sit down. She has a nerve saying other people small if anything her room smells putrid. I remember the time, I sit on her used condoms from the night before, so gross, they were in her bedsheets!

Maddie and liv stop in the hall to group up. Shylo- ‘Kar used to do that.

Didn’t you? What’s that I said? With your ribbons hang them in your baby room, for riding and petting hor-sies.’ I sighed and said- ‘Yes, but Jenny ripped them all down saying to grow up, that boys don’t want little girls in my room. So, I quit! I have them all in a shoebox, under my bed with all my other baby girl things.’

(I thought to myself I miss all that. Like my walls seem naked, and at least back then I was riding something.) I look at that stuff every night thinking about what I have given up. And how I change so much since then and now.

That when I said: ‘It’s too bad they don’t give out the blue ribbon for lying on your back! You all would win!’ Shylo elbows me with one raised eyebrow. Then I walked away... I will always be a baby to them. Just because I am the youngest and newsiest girl they add to the group.

‘Can we get back to the point?’ I wave my hands, partly because I did want to hear the story, again of how I such a baby girl. Partly to take the attention off me, and the fact that I used to be such a girly- girl dork. When I was in fifth grade, I spent more time with horses than with other humans. 'I still don't get why everyone is pissed about me being a dork on the inside.'

Maddie rolls her eyes at me as I belong at the special- Ed table. When I was trying to cover up the long story of how I got popular. They not getting it, I'm still not getting it for them though, and I sigh. It like I hear this story every day when Shy walks into homeroom. 'She has been late to homeroom every day this year because she had to park in the lower lot and haul ass to get in here.'

Like just get over it already! I am in the group now! Shylo sometimes acts like, I took her place in the group, and in a way, I did. We all bust it out at the same time and then start giggling like maniacs, when Shy walks in at the bell, with pit stands and looking like she sprinted a marathon.

Shylo- 'Shut the freak up! I say- 'You're just sore because I am hotter than now.' 'Don't worry, kar-z, I don't want to be in the baby seat any longer, you can freaking have it, I don't what to be like you! You're still such a dork!' 'If you guys throw down, I'm putting money on you Kar.' Said Maddie. 'Yeah, we've got your back,' says Liv.

Shylo yells and it echoes in the hall 'Oh, like I am afraid of the two-p*ssy sucker!' Maybe we should get back Liv says in her shy voice that she gets when she's trying to say something serious. 'Isn't it kind of weird how that stuff happens?

One minute we're all fine and the next we want to kill each other. How everything spirals out from everything else? It not like Jenny made her give her a spot in the group for me.

Even if she did, I can't help it! 'I didn't steal it. I got it fair and square,' Jenny protests, three weeks ago, bringing her hand down on the table for importance in the group. And that Shy is losing popularity. I remember this because Maddie's water flipped over, soaking some fries. This makes us start laughing again. Shylo has been losing her popularity slowly since her sophomore year.

Many because she wants to do her own thing. And doesn't ask us what we think, we all stick together if she wants to be like us, she needs to tell us everything.

'I'm serious we need to go!' Liv raises her voice to be heard over us.

Maddie- 'It's like a web Shylo, you know? Everything's connected. You keep too many things from us like dating a boy that's so beneath you and what we think.' Shylo- 'Have you been smoking dad's stash again Liv? Your girl hides stuff from me, it's not all me!'

(The late bell rings.)

I say- 'It's okay girls, I made up some fake hall pass, with Mr. Pamper signature on them.' I give one to every one of us except Shy. Shy walking down the hall says- 'Yah go and freak your teacher some more you skank, and let Ray lick it off!' Good thing all the class doors were closed. The only teacher to look out at us was Mr. P and he just looked and shook his head and waved at us. Then he pointed at me and give me a sexy little wink. Maddie said- 'He is- so going to Kar!' (I just sighed lustily: and said- I no!)

#- Hashtag: (put in like, insta hate, and that b*tch is on fire)

You know Maddie she always has to say something colorful. Saying- 'You know I don't like her- Shylo, I became a lesbian because of girls, because girls are beautiful, strong, and compassionate. But that girl just sucks in every way, she sucks hard then, I suck on Liv's pink vagina!' I look at Maddie and Liv and say- 'It okay, I would certainly never propose that any lesbian should be ashamed of her sexual preference like she just did. You're my true friends and thank you for being there for me. She just wishes she had a love for you to do.' When they thought no one was looking other than me they kiss on the lips. 'People will stare so make it worth their while.' Liv said after the make out. 'Hey- Kar you want to Join in?' I said-

'Maybe another time... Maddie.'

Then, Maddie said quickly- 'I am going to hold you to that, my place for the night, we're all going to all shower together, and users will use the handheld showerhead on each other, to we all come! What do you say?' I said- 'Um- um okay... sound like dirty girl fun!' Maddie said with a little girl giggle- 'Don't worry, I'll take control or tell you what to do, and you'll feel so-ooooo good.'

Then, Liv said- 'I'll wash your hair for you and bubble you up with my hands and body wash! It's going to be so much fun to do this with you! You cool with that?' I said- 'Okay... after the party, I'll need some loving, I'll require some stress release.' (I was thinking... I wish Ray or Mr. P wanted me to come for them that much!) (In my mind I was thinking that just got a little too weird, but I'll try it.)

After the next class end, I was only there for like five minutes, our gals met up in the hall. 'I'm serious!' Maddie raises her voice to be heard over us. 'Everything's connected.' This is all it takes to get us going. This is a joke we've had with Shy for the years because she is such a baby about losing her popularity. You pick on me; I'll pick on you! I was picked on in the past it's nice to do the picking now! Her daddy is a lawyer; Shy says- 'If you keep it up, he is going to get you your asses.' Jenny- 'Sure in his little monkey suit.' Jenny claims he's secretly a hippie stoner, and like alternative rock. She would know she has been with him like that, or so she says. As we're laughing, doubling over, Shy turns pink. 'You guys never listen to me,' she says, but she's fighting a smile. Maddie- 'Shy shut up, and go fix you top you like you have a un-a-boob.' Shylo- 'Oh no one's just bigger than then the other, puberty freaked me! We giggled as we know. It's funny looking at the little colorful kiddy band-aid covering her gigantic zit on her face. Then she had to an add-in. 'Like I have to pluck hair off my nips too, do you guys do that?

Ugh! We all said! (TMI! Or Gross!)

Shylo could use a day at the spa, just saying, I don't then she has even been through a full body waxing, it would be good payback. I would pay to see that. Ha! (I could see it now- the girl doing it, we need more max! I need more for this girl's vagina. Lol!)

Nah she's not that bad, but she needs something! She takes a cramped-up notebook paper and throws it at me. 'I read once that if a girl that's made fun so much and has a connection to God, he can give her powers, which can case thing to happen, like this rainstorm. Freaky!'

'Jenny yeah, well, one of your farted back there did you smell that. Me- 'I think that was a little crap.' Jenny- 'Maybe that could've caused this little blackout in the lunchroom.' We snigger, we all know it was Jenny that let it rip, that's why she got up the first time. I remember, Maddie, Liv and I were laughing at something not that funny, and Jenny and Shy keep throwing fries back and forth. I try to say they're wasting perfectly good food, there are starving kids in Africa. But Jenny snorted so hard she can barely get the words out; it came out the other end though.

Even Jenny goes crazy at this, and suddenly we're all trying it. Oh, not the peeing part the other part. Laughing and sneezing and snorting at the same time.

Everybody's staring at us, but we don't care. After about a million sneezes I did feel something down there, Jenny leans back in her chair, clutching her stomach and gasping for breath. 'Mr. P said there was a major thunderstorm warning for surrounding parts.' This sets us off again because it was obvious, and Mr. P sometimes acts like us teens when he's freaking out. He even sits with us time from time.

I and the girls all decide to cut the seventh period and just hang in the hallways.

Maddie had French, which she can't stand, and I have I think English, I don't even know. We cut the seventh period a lot together, it could be Health or something dumb like that. We're second- semester seniors, so it's like we're expected not to go to class or missing anything. It's been the same crap all four years. Plus, I hate my English teacher like I do with them all but Mr. P. My English teacher sucks, she's always going off on tangents and yelling at us to pay attention.

Sometimes, I'll zone out for a few minutes, and all of a sudden, she'll be talking about underwear in the eighteenth and how she can see mine, proving Global warming, and that we have all evolved in time. Even though she's probably only in her sixties, I'm pretty sure she's losing her freaking mind. She dissents like me because, I am sexy as hell, and she's just icky! She looks like she has a few black and grey pubes, on her chin.

That's how it started with my pap: to he would be talking and talking and the effects, of point A, switched with point B. and I would get confused. When my pap was still alive, we would visit him, and even though young, I remember thinking: I hope I die young before I get old! Officially you need a special pass signed by your parents and the administration to leave campus during the school day, so if we can fake it, we just raise hell in the halls, or say fuck it, and leave anyways. For a long time, one of the perks being a senior was getting to leave campus whenever you wanted. You don't give a crap when you're a senior like you do as like a freshman.

Like, I said my school has got a reputation for one of the highest teen suicide rates in the country. The nickname for it other than Clit high is Suicide High. We had three girls hang by ropes, five-car crashes, ten OD's, and one used a gun, and that was just this year so far. Maddie almost died this year after she cut her wrists with a razor blade, but she's okay now. She got cute tattoos to cover the scars, one is a dragonfly and the other a topless mermaid! The teachers don't like that one, but us girls we do, so that's all that matters. It's not like there that big... there rather small. Sometimes she has to put a band-aid or makeup on the girl.

Oh, yeah and then one day a bunch of kids left campus and drove off that big yellow bridge. Anyway, after that, the school forbade anyone from leaving school during the day without special permission or singing out in the office. It's kind of stupid if you think about it. That's like finding out that kids are bringing vodka to school in water bottles and forbidding anyone to drink water. Like I know girls that soak their temps in alcohol, and use them throughout the day to get a little buzz, there is always a way to do what we want! Luckily, there's another way to get off campus: you go through the bathroom window and then there is a hole in the fence beyond the gym by the football field, which we call the Smoker's' alley since that's where all the smokers hang out, make out and even inject! No one's around, though, when Jenny and I slip through the fence and get started across the grass.

In a little while, we'll come on to Route 279. Everything is still and frozen, leaves crack under our shoes, and our breath rises in solid silvery clouds.

...Clit is about three miles away from three rivers- or what you can call the point where all the waterway intersects. But only about a half-mile from a small strip of dingy stores we've named the Strip Row. It's the same corner where all the desperate old guys pick up young girls like us for a BJ!

Jenny has done it for $100. It's a good way for her to get gas money. There's a gas station, a there are shops with top, and haircutters, a Chinese restaurant and family place, and some other gay places, that no one cares about. Chinese that once made Liv sick for three days.

(And again, she thought was preggers.)

There is a random card gallery store where you can buy pink glittery ballet dancer figurines, teddy bears and snow globes and crap like that. Too bad they don't have a- 'I'm sorry your friend just got an STD card.'

I know we must look like total freaks. Yeah, no teens stomping around in boots or highs along the road, in our tiny little skirts and are tops tied up, tank slightly showing in the front, our jackets flapping open to show off our sexy flat bullies, and dangly jewelry. We pass the Gateway Clipper Fleet on our way to Primanti's.

We Look over off the way hanging over the rail we spot Bridget Semen and Alex Martello, look down the street, not too much time has passed, there's Jenny bent over a bench a boy is taking off her undies, I saw them being thrown down on the walkway, she just made some cash.

'Ohoo, scandal,' Jenny says groaning, raising her eyebrows, when she about too... after getting beat from behind, and she stands up fully with his stuff all over the backside and skirt. Maddie snaps a pic and sends it to Shy-, and Shy- sends it off to everyone even Ray. Maddie's payback for Liv being with a boy, I guess. Although it's an only half scandal, he did worn-ed-her that he was going to pull his man gun out and shot. Everyone knows that Jenny comes back to school, with a lot of cheating stuff on her every day.

Anna Doosan texts about it every day too, saying she such a slut, you can see it in her outfit! Jenny doesn't care she's pleased to be the school's' slut, she wears- her stains with pride!

What do I think? I think it's cheap and tacky!

But, she's popular, so I just go with it. It's not like it's my ass getting a reaming. Sometimes I act like she's not with me on the streets she's that crazy. Me and Maddie and Liv, shop, and let her have her sexy time. But we know the kids in school think we do it because she does like it like that. That's why all the boys want me, they think I am loose and easy. We girls joke saying that Jenny has nothing left... nothing but what looks like a hanging ham, meat flaps, beef curtains, you get the idea! Jenny now has 50 for gas and 50 for beer pot and crap like that.

We are outside of Bridget's family cafe it's a tremendously- Catholic type of place. It's next to the old stone church. The restaurant named after Bridget is age, she's pretty and clean-looking, like every time you see her like in the girl's room she's just scrubbed her face very hard. Bridget apparently, she's saving herself for marriage, unlike us girls, which gave it all way around thirteen. I wish I would have kept it, it's cute and sweet to be that way on your wedding night.

That's what she says, anyway, although Maddie and Liv both think Bridget might be a closet lesbo. So, she can get off without offending God. Because there is nothing in the Bible about masturbating with another girl being a sin. Yet Bridget is only a junior she may change her mind, and just take it in the ass like most girls as her type does. There is nothing in the Bible about that either. Just ask a priest or altar boy. But if the rumors are true, she's already had sex with at least five girls and a possible boy... hook up- up the poop-shoot! Do I believe it?

Nah! She started the rumors herself, so everyone would stop picking on her about it.

She's one of the few kids who does come from money. She doesn't need to- freak for a buck! Her mom's a banker, and dad runs the restaurant. Jenny is not what you would call poor, she just a hussy! Bridget, she lives in one of the nice yet crafty condos next to here in strip row. She works as a waitress on the weekends, we love to make fun of her, little apron with her name on it twice, outside the window! I remember Jenny made a cardboard sign one time that said- 'Bridget shows- T*ts for Tips!' and pressed it against the window!

One old biddy lady dropped her fork and her mouth... like most did in the restaurant. It was a good show! You can see it on YouTube! 'Let's go in and say hi,' Jenny says, reaching for my hand interlacing my finger into hers, even though we were banned... I try to hang back. 'I'm going through embarrassment and being pulled. My face has to be so red! I feel as hot as Mrs. Doubtfire when she set her ta-tas on fire!' Jenny- 'Come on Karly ... what's up to your ass?' I said- 'A cotton string that I played $35 for!' He- he- he- Nice! Jenny said- as giggled.

#- Hashtag: (a PDA give away, shop till you drop, and hookie)

I let myself be dragged inside. She pulls a pack of small pills from the waistband of her skirt. 'Here. Take two of these pills, it will chill you out.' Jenny always carries something like that on her, 24/7, like she's packing drugs like I pack candy. 'Just for a second we'll sit down, I promise.'

A bell jingles as we come through the door. A woman is flipping through Pitt-post newspaper behind the counter. She looks at us, then looks down again when she realizes we're not there to order. And that we are young. Jenny slides right up too next to me in the booth, never keeping her hands to herself, you know where they were on me. I was leaning elbows on the table, hoping no one could see where her hands where her.

This was her plan to embarrass me, good thing the drugs were kicking in. Because about that time I was about to scream. Then our friends Stacey and Becky. Strolled in through the door. (Ding-a-ling-a-ling!) The sled into our open both on the other side of the table.

Becky said- 'Jenny what are you doing to her?' Jenny- 'Nothing!' Me- 'I have the look on my face is like I am trying to push a baby out!' Stacey said with confusion- 'Okay then?' Becky is kind of, sort of friends with a lot of people, like us, she bumps around, meanwhile, she deals pot and stuff like that out of a shoebox, and she keeps under her bed in his bedroom next to her girly things, that her mom and dad should never see her using. She is Jenny's link for her stash. Sometimes Jenny marks up the price and passes it around the school.

She and I have an- I know you- but I don't know your friends, as that's pretty much the maximum of our dealings. Stacey, she's cool mellow, she's just your stranded emo chick. She's just there... for something to do, and maybe for a coffee. She's actually in English class with me, though she shows even less than I do. Our school is a flipping joke, learning is a joke, girls in the USA, are the butt of the joke. The baby-boomer doesn't want us to know anything.

So, they can have all the money and work. That's what I think, keep us dumb, and so when don't know what you're taking away. Like I would make a better president, than the one we have in now. Girls like us are never going to be anything more in this world then sluts... and that's a fact. Now and then she'll say something like, 'This 500-word writing assignment we have to do blow, huh?' but other than that we don't talk much.

'Hey, hey,' Jenny says. 'You going to Marcel's party tonight?' Becky's face lights up saying 'yes I am going with Zack Woods,' Jenny- 'Oh he's a cute boy.' Becky- 'So Karly who are you going with?' Jenny chips in cutting me off at the pass. Saying- 'I going with Ray tonight someone has to make him a man! A baby girl she doesn't seem to know how to squeezes it in.' My face is red and splotchy, I was mad and sick all at the same time.

Plus, I remember what he said to me, I kissed him. I just said- 'I hook up with someone when I get there.' I did know what to say. Becky winked at me and said- 'I got yah.' Stacey got embarrassed like me too because she was caught in a lie, saying she was going with Sam... when Sam was going with Lizzy or so Jenny said. Jenny would know...! Stacey is so blatant by saying... she was going with me, she knew what Jenny was doing, I think. I was seeing psychedelic colors. So, I was like- 'Yeah, sure whatever.' At this time, we all had our food, we decided to say and eat because we were chatting and taking up space, or so the woman said. Jenny could not believe she said that to me. Or maybe she's was just reacting to the lousy food. I wouldn't be surprised if she said you can't do that. Jenny makes her voice extra perky.

‘Um... I don’t know if you can’t do that, or you would what too. Stacey- ‘Maybe. Gotta see...’ okay said Jenny along with ‘It’s going to be super fun.’ I said- ‘Are you going to bring Bridget? She’s such a sweetheart.’ Even though everyone I am friends with thinks Bridget is annoying- she’s always really cheerful and she wears T-shirts with lame slogans like: ‘I want you to talk nerdy to me.’

(No lie...)

But, Jenny despises, everything about her also. Becky went to like all the bathrooms around the city, and school, and wrote all over the across the wall- If you like white trash, and want a sucking blow Job to call me Bridget at... And she had her cell number, with a drawing of a penis framing it. The situation is beyond awkward, so I blurt out, I point at the meat congealing in a grayish sauce in a bowl on the table, next to two cookies and a sad-looking orange slices. ‘Roast beef,’ Stacey says. She seems relieved that she has changed the topic. Jenny gives me a look, annoyed, but I keep rattling on with her about food. ‘You should be careful about eating here.

The beef once poisoned Maddie. She threw up for, like, four days straight. She swears she found a hair in it. As soon as I say this Jenny picks up her frock and takes an enormous bite, looking up and smiling at me as she chews and it’s the sticks out her tongue.

So, I can see the food in her mouth. I’m not sure whether she’s doing it deliberately to gross me out, but it seems like it. ‘That’s nasty, Stevenson,’ Becky says, but she’s smiling at her. Jenny rolls her eyes, like you all a total waste of our time.

‘Come on, Kar.’ Let’s- ‘Dine and dash!’ She reads the bill, and I crack up and rankle up my nose when we all make a face of shock when seeing the $51.95 bill. One the food sucks and tasted like crap. Two none of us had that kind of money on us. Other than Jenny and she was not spending it on us and that meal.

Jenny balls up the little slip of paper and let it flutter to the ground. ‘Useless.’ I take a deep breath. ‘The doing this stuff always makes me sick, we run everything gray out and blurry, as we run knocking tables over in our way. ‘Oh, what a rush Jenny says, better than sex!’ ‘Tell me about it I say!’ Jenny puts a hand on her stomach. ‘You know what I need?’ I said- ‘No what?’

‘A jumbo cup of Sweet Fogs yogurt!’ I say, smiling. This another thing we can’t bring ourselves to abbreviate. Knowing Jenny, she’ll just put her mouth on the spout and gulp it down and run.

Me- I like to have a cone or something. ‘A jumbo cup frozen yogurt,’ Jenny booms in my eyes she like a two-year-old I swear.

Even though we’re both freezing, we order double- chocolate soft-serve with sprinkles and crushed peanut butter cups on top, whip cream, and cherry, which we eat on our way back to school, puffing on our fingers to keep them warm. We pass Liv and Maddie at the smoker’s alley. We have exactly seven minutes left until the bell for the eighth period, and Jenny pulls my head behind the fields, so she can have a cigarette without listening to Liv and Maddie chatting about how they want to be living alone for a while. That’s what it looks like they’re doing, anyway, trying to make out. Jenny can stop them all the time.

Jenny grabbing my one shoulders, whispering to me stand there so I can put my underwear on. The cigarette in her hand is burned so close to my hair I’m positive it’s going to catch fire, and I picture what happened to Jull’s, her whole head just going up like that, like a match.

Jenny finishes her cig and we drop our yogurt cups right there, on top of the frozen gloomy dying leaves and crushed cigarette boxes, used condoms, bloody pads, ripped out temps, plastic bags, and trash cans next to dumpsters half jam-packed with icy rainwater on top. I’m feeling apprehensive about tonight- half dismay and half exhilaration- like when you overhear thunder and know that any second, you’ll see lightning ripping across the sky, or like when your boy squeezes his through your teeth in your mouth. I shouldn’t have skipped out on English today. It has given me too much time to think. And intellectual thoughts never did anybody any good, no matter what your educators and close relative and the book-club and honorary society freaks tell you. Yet I don’t think I am thinking rationally right now, because of the Skittles I popped, I am still seeing the rainbow, yet not as bad as I was.

We skirt the perimeter of the fields, walkways, and steps, and go up along the senior wall. It’s two concrete retaining walls that are long and high, they kind of make an outdoors make out the hallway. They have all the lettermen’s graffiti on them with school crap stats and their names.

Along with a makeshift memorial of all the kids that died this year in the end. Stacey and Becky are still standing half-observed behind the gym. Liv and Maddie are darting from tree to tree.

(Like a scene out of mission impossible. You know with the sexy trombone music in the background.)

Becky is on her second cigarette at least when she sees- Marcel flirting with some freshman I think her name is Sam. A tiff has a string about. You know how freshmen are they'll hit anything for popularity. I feel a momentary rush of satisfaction: Ray and I hardly ever fight about that, at least not about anything serious. That must mean something is working in our favor.

#- Hashtag: (freaky chick kicking the bucket, brain freeze, and food on the run)

I found out later that day that Jull's didn't make it. Her burns were just that bad, and she inhaled the flames and burnt out her lungs. I will never forget Jenny saying- 'Guys it's so true she is a flamer-r-tte. It's probably better that she did die, she wouldn't like... have much of a face left, and what she did wouldn't get her any guys. I now know what to believe... like with heaven or hell or if we are just dead. Yet I think that at least she is in a better place and out of her misery.

(You don't know until you go through it too.)

If she would have lived there wouldn't be anyone that wanted to take care of her anyways, she was just a burden on everyone. No one cared or even shed a tear for her, there was no moment of silence, there were no memories of her at all because she was not popular. On the kids, that means something here is immortalized. Her only memories within these walls will be: 'The crazy b*tch that light herself on fire because she was caught fingering the retarded sped girl.' I feel somewhat bad, but it's not me so... life goes on. Like really why should I care?

She's nothing to me or my friends. Yes, it's cold and calculated, but sometimes pulling the plug is the only thing you can do just ask Jenny.

She has seen many perish in front of her eyes.

(And a lot of it was brought on because of her. If there is a hell that's where she is going to go, for all the blood on her hands.)

~*~

Anyways, looking at them fighting. 'Trouble in couple heaven,' I say. 'More like trouble in the low life square,' Jenny says. She said that because both of them live in low-income apartment buildings, which are run down, its Pitts form of trailer trash. One step lower is living in a cardboard box homeless like a bum.

'Ha- they deserve one another,' I think. We start cutting across the teachers' lot when we see Ms. Handcock, the vice-principal, squeeze through amongst the cars, trying to sniff out the smokers, and looking in the car windows to see who's cut classes to go a have sex in their cars. She is also looking for cars that are in the wrong spots. Looking for lazy kids that do what to walk down the lots.

She looks- for kids that hideout between the teachers' cars too. Yet we are always one step ahead of her, we're sneaky like that. Like the setting of Jenny's car alarm with the remote so she goes to her car thinking someone is messing around up there as we run. Ms. Handcock has some crazy campaigns against people who smoke. Along with drug programs. I heard that her mommy died of lung cancer, and her son passed in an OD five years ago. If you get caught smoking by Ms. Handcock you get four after-school detentions, no if's and's or but's. I have never gone to it; I always find a way out of it.

(As I said- If you're like me and my friends you can get away with anything.) Jenny hysterically rifles in her bag for her gum and pops two pieces in her mouth. To cover her bad breath.

'Piss'n crap,' she says. I asked Jenny why she puffs on the grass so much. 'A b*tch always smokes, and you know I am a badass b*tch,' says Jenny. 'You can't get busted just for smelling like smoke,' I say, even though Jenny knows this. She likes the drama, though. Amusing how you can know your gal's so well, but you still end up playing the similar games as they do next to them, I don't puff or take hits anymore, but as of now, I small as I do. I use the vapor e-cigs, now and then, just because it's soothing.

She ignores me when I say you should use one of these... 'How's my breath?' She breathes in my face with her mouth in my nose. I started thinking about Ray and my knees got weak, or maybe it was from Jenny rank breath... I don't know either way. I am wondering what he was doing and doing it with. I was thinking about tonight and what I was going to do. 'It smells like you been sucking on some bananas!'

Ms. Handcock hasn't detected us yet, and that's awesome. She's making her way along the rows, occasionally stopped with her big fat wide ass up in the air. You could park a Cadillac on that ass! The same as that probably hasn't been taped in years, that why she's so prickly to us hot girls. Bent over to peer underneath the cars looking for bags of nose candy and junk in the wheel wells, and also to see if someone might be squashed in underneath, trying to light up or make a deal go down, or waiting to go down on someone.

All she ever finds are used up a pair of girl's undies covered in boy's baby gravy, and her girly goo! She has a collation in her office... I swear, that why her office smells like sex and candy.

And other trash like that.

There's a reason why everyone calls her 'The Rock Cock,' The Rock for the prison and Cock for her last name and being a d*ick. This is behind her back. 'Ha, it's like we're escaping from Alcatraz! And if she sees you it's like the running of the bulls... there a joke there did you get it?' I hesitate, looking back toward the fields and gym. I don't particularly like what the other girls are doing now, but anyone who's ever been through high school understands you have to stick together against parents, teachers, and cops. And as of now Becky and Stacey have their plan and we have ours.

Running form, the high up... It's one of those imperceptible blurred lines: us against them. You just know this, like you know where to sit in class and whom to talk within the lunchroom, without even knowing how you know. Got it? They should be with us now if they're really in the group. Liv and Maddie are following our path back. 'Should we go back and warn them?' I ask Jenny, and she pushes me, and I lose balance on one foot as she is saying- nowhere good.'

'Screw it,' she finally says.'

'They can take care of themselves their big girls.' 'And I was thinking to myself, and I'm, not right?' As if to emphasize to Jenny's pointed finger, the bell for the final period rings out and she gives me a shove. 'Come on Karly.' She's right, as usual. After all, it's not like they've ever done anything for me. So why should I save their ass if they get busted? They wouldn't do it for me. It's every girl for herself when you get busted. Becky and Stacy scam apart never a good thing. With the path they're going down one is going to end up in her trap. My money is on Stacy for getting busted.

Chapter: 57

Olden times friendship

I think that Jenny and I became started becoming friends in seventh grade. Jenny picked me out. I'm still not certain why she did. After years of trying, I had only just clawed my way up from the social bottom to the social middle, yet at least not I am a social butterfly and not a bug that needs a squashing. Jenney's has seemed to be popular since like first grade when she moved here. In the class she was the leader that how it all starts; that was the year we did a play of 'The Wizard of Oz,' I was Dorothy and she was the 'Wicked Witch of the West.'

(So- fitting to her personality he- he.)

And in sixth grade, when we all performed

Romeo and Juliet in English, I had to play

Romeo because boys weren't allowed to kiss girls yet, and Jenny was Juliet, boy that was one awkward little girl kiss, yet after that, she seems to like me more or something.

(I was 'Kissed by Death' back then.) I think that pretty much gives you an idea.

She's the kind of person who makes you feel plastered and horny just by her being nearby like precipitously the world's boundaries are clouded and all of the colors are rustled together in a steak. I've never told her that. She'd make fun of me for lazing out on her. (In a way it reminds me of the novel, Liv and the girls were reading about that girl Nevaeh.)

'A girlfriend is someone who knows all about you, yet still loves you anyway.' 'Truth is- everybody is going to hurt you. You just got to treasure the ones worth suffering for.' 'It's the friends you can text up at 3 a.m. that matter, like

Madilyn she will always text back.'

Jenny only talks to boys at night or turns her phone off. Some nights she'll hear me out on the phone, but not for me... only to get the scoop.

Anyway, the summertime before seventh grade a bunch of us was at Riverview Swimming Pool kiddy party this was my first real party I ever went too. Lizzy Lovestein was showing off by doing cannonballs and jack-knives down on the deep end, but really, she was showing off the fact that between April and June she'd developed a pair of 36C cup boobs the biggest of any girl there at the time. As she jiggled, I thought for sure she was going to pop out of her top little girl top that was like five sizes too small.

I was so jealous I was barely out of the A size almost filling in a 28B! I remember this... all of a sudden Jenny came up to me, eyes shining. She'd never spoken to me before other than in school when she had to. 'You've had to come and see this,' she said, clutching my arm. Her breath smelled like root beer float.

She pulled me into the locker room, where all the girls had piled their bags and their changes of clothes. Lizzy bag was lavender and had her initials marked in white needlework on the sides. Jenny had has gone through it, for the reason that she directly crouched down and reached for a clear zipper case, like the kind we all had to store pencils, highlighters, and erasers in when we were like first or second graders. 'Look!' She held it up, rattling it. Inside where three U tampons. 'Me being me I asked why are they different colors?'

Jenny just giggles- 'Saying they make them like that to look cuter.' And yes- we took them, so we would have one for the day our period would start! I snatched one and Jenny stashed one. I don't remember how it started, but suddenly Jenny and I were running around the pool, checking girls are age and older bags gathering up all the tampons and pads moving fast so no one would see, doing this made me dizzy in a good way this is the first time I got that rush with Jenny.

Jenny and I were talking, and not just talking but laughing, and not just laughing but laughing so hard I had to squeeze my legs together to keep from peeing out of my suit bottoms.

Then we ran up on the high dive and started throwing handful after handful of tampons down onto the pool party below. Jenny was shouted, 'Lizzy just had her first period, and she has to plug her p*ssy up!' We were throwing them down on her like confetti! Some of the tampons twirled down into the water, and all the guys looked mortified, yet some had thrown them on her, and she started to cry.

Quickly pushing and shoving to get out of the pool, was in a full-on panic. That is when Shy moved in for the kill- she was Jenny's best friend at the time. She grabbed Lizzy's goodies, and bikini bottom and pulled the plug out by the sting, and the blood started to show in the water all pink.

Shy dunked her and swam away, that is when Lizzy swam over to the diving board ass showing to get out, she claimed out and ran the length of the Olympic sized pool dripping and shaking to get around everyone, while the rest of us nearly died laughing at the sight of her new hair and a blood-covered vertical smile that was showing. That is how Shy become popular, she did Jenny dirty work for her.

It reminded me of the time my parents took me to the Kenny Wood when I was about in the fourth grade and made me get on one of the big coasters. My legs not able to stop shaking and my feet got a tingling feeling on the bottom side of them like they were itching to get out of a pair of hot shoes: I couldn't stop thinking about how easy it would be to fall out, how high up we were.

After my mom got the picture, they take of you on the ride, I started laughing and couldn't stop at how scared yet thrilled I was. Standing on the high dive with Jenny got me exactly in the same way. It's like I started craving more and more of that feeling too. It feels like that twenty-six seconds when you have a girly eruption and shaking because of it so good.

Successively, I did that... and Jenny I was besties. Liv came in not much before I did after she and Jenny were in girl scouts camp together in the summer before eighth grade. Like I said Maddie moved to here around freshman year. Yet they rank higher up than me... I am still the baby of the group, even though I been in it longer. At one of them in the beginning parties of the year, I saw Jenny hooking up for the first time with Alec Shane, whom Jenny had a prepubescent puppy love crush on for six months. I saw him taking her virginity, neither one of them knew what they were doing. I remember Jenny saying ouch, and it was over in less than a minute.

(And by no means am I saying that underage sex is okay! Don't do it! I ask this of you now, do this for me, save it for someone you love! Like just because I make bad choices doesn't mean you should. Just because I was stupid like my friends doesn't mean you should be too. I know I shouldn't be looked up too. Hell, my little sis Kellie is becoming more like me every day.

‘Like how a small spark can rage into a frost fire, I never wanted to be so distinctive, slaying innocents with my ignorance.’ I know am not a good role model for anyone! Don’t look up to me, since I would be a fake idol, a fake hero...!

Ha- the gag that the gods portray on me... it's all right, I accepted the joke. I am a joke!)

I remember those days like every person believed Jenny would murder Liv.

(Funny they knew she would... nevertheless, they had their money on the wrong girl in the group.) But the next Monday at school Liv was at our lunch table, and she and Jenny were hunched over a plate of wavy fries, giggling and acting like they’d known each other forever. It’s a love and hates thing...! Yet we all stay friends regardless, even though Liv can sometimes be trying, I think deep down she’s the politest, gentlest of any of us. She is trying because she is so fragile, she gets hurt effortlessly. She seems to attract that too.

Even though they don’t always try too, they hurt her deeply. Maddie is not always good for her either, she speaks without thinking. Maddie and Liv like suck off each other for good or bad, like they can move without each other even if what they saying and doing is cruel sometimes it gets physical, right down to hair pulling and catfighting. Like when Maddie’s pissed, she can claw you! Liv she just goes sight for the hair.

‘When I first started Junior high school, I was just like Lizzy, I used to go home and cry, at night. But after about two months of being terrified and miserable, I found out that if you keep away from everyone, they keep away from you. Maybe that’s why Jenny started liking me?

Even though I was kicked down, I keep asking for more. The only reason I never tried to transfer is that when my mother works late, I go home and babysit my sis. It would never have worked out; I could’ve done that if I went to online school. Either way, it was difficult to back then.’

(I’ll never forgive myself for what I did to all these innocent girls, and yes even the stupid boys too. I have to live with that over and over. Killing others emotion Madilyn, so I could live thrillingly in their popularity death. Its ether destroys them, or they will destroy you. If you get them to look bad you look good. I have to relive that, and I am betting I have to answer to someone for it. The question is who?)

Young Taboo

Notice: In Pennsylvania:

- Children less than 13 years old cannot grant consent to sexual activity.
- Teens between the ages of 13 and 15 cannot consent to sexual activity with anyone who is four or more years older than them.
- People ages 16 and older can legally consent to sexual activity with anyone they choose, as long as the other person does not have authority over them as defined in Pennsylvania's institutional sexual assault statute.

Statutory Sexual Assault

It is considered a felony statutory sexual assault when:

- one person is 13 and the other is 17 or older
- one person is 14 and the other is 18 or older
- one person is 15 and the other is 19 or older

Institutional Sexual Assault

Pennsylvania also recognizes that power imbalances in certain relationships make consent impossible, regardless of age. It is considered felony institutional sexual assault when sexual activity occurs with an employee/agent of a:

- School (teacher/coach)
- State or county jail
- Personal care/group home
- Other licensed residential facility serving youth

Young taboo- feeling that- I once knew you, like the way wind once blow, it was always you, I knew, from the start, till the end, it was our time to spend, now it's the end, what do we have left to spend, what will I send, when we're reaching the end. Too young, to fast never realized that I was going too fast, the day goes by in a blink of an eye, too dumb to see, it was all you and me.

Chapter: 58

Party time Part 1

After school, we go to Maddie's. When we were little, like freshman year and even some of the sophomore year, we would sometimes stay in her room and put on x-out and plucking our eyebrows into that fine little line, and coloring our hair with highlights, and order pizza, cramming down as much as we could eat.

Those days are going, we can't get fat. Now Jenny hardly eats anything, and if she does, she can hardly keep it down. I think maybe that's what I get so lightheaded, I only eat like once a day now. Jenny back then had a little extra around the middle, and now you can see her ribs, she even has that two-defined line on her tummy that goes into her underwear.

I remember sneaking around late at night in her house stilling cookie from the jar on the top shelf in the old wood cabinet, that is also where her mom would hide her cigarettes that Jenny loved also, and the condoms were in a trinity box on top of the fridge, I sorry but I find that hilarious.

At that time, we would stretch out on one her, old enormous worn-out couches and watch, TV or movies until we fell asleep in our nightshirts'-the TV in Maddie's living room is like 80 inches it's like being in a movie theater our legs tangled together under an enormous fleece blanket. Maddie and liv are always entangled more passionately then Jenny and me on the loveseat! Maddie has an ancient TV in her room from the 1990's it sucks and is small, it's one of those with the big back on it, and the color is green, like looking into a fish tank. It's funny her mom and dad don't have money blinds on the windows, yet they have a big ass TV. You can sometimes see the people in the next condo overlooking over at us like we can see them get'n busy in their room! Yet nothing beats the hot guy taking a leak in room 302, he looks to be in his late twenties.

He takes the boxes off at 10 pm and we get a free show. He knows we can see him that why he makes it look inflexible you no more personable. Jenny and we girls love to press upon the glass, and just have fun and be a little crazy, like lifting our nighties and flash the goods. Facebook stocking gets boring quickly anymore, so some nights the webcam comes out too. After her mom and dad are asleep... like it's more fun to be bad! Like we all have profiles and fake names because none of us are eighteen yet. Any- how's mine is 'Angel Pink Wings 01'

Maddie goes by: 'Mad kitty 69' Jenny goes by:

'Ms. Little Lover 14' Liv goes by: 'Olivia O 123' Yet everyone knows her by Liv so that name is okay- I guess. We make good money-

'Double Clicking the Mouse.'

You would not believe all the perv's on this cam. the site, just wanting to see us doing it. Like old guys like our PE teacher! Man- that I didn't even think new how to turn on a computer. Just like him, I guess they need too to see more of us close up. We have our checks mailed to Jenny's college boyfriend's PO Box. Me this is what I do and yes- I come for you all, I just put in fake blue hair dye in, and have fake long lashes, and put in my blue contacts, and you don't even know me. And then pen in more eyebrows. Fake, fake, fake, fake FAKE! Boys don't like it when you fake it or do they look at me, that why I am Bi.

Chatting, with them all is good, yet don't send me a three-inch d*ick, like that boy, I don't want to see it, tip me higher, and you'll see the top come off mother fuckers.

Ninja is my highest, I am flirty see me here, here as of now, I love you all I say. (Squealing yells) my top comes off slowly, don't I like Katie Parry, (Yes, show us your p*ssy. One of the guys typed.)

I don't feel like it tonight, maybe. I said chirpily. I give a sexy and flirty look, and smile sweetly, they say I am a slut so I do it, and show it all and the come too, I have on gray lace panties, tonight you like them as she pulls them down a little in the front.

Rate Kati3Kat: 5 <3 <3 <3 <3 the highest for the night! And the girl on here has been here for years like Jenny and never-ever did what I did. I like to have sex with my nerdy glasses on, I feel smart!

Not even Maddie and Liv, together sucking crap off did that!

Admirers: (admire) 1,478

I made 90,000 in one night! That pays for school, and a car, and an apartment of my own.

(There not grandma panties, said some dude in here creeping on me. It not for them it the only way he can see me the way he wants me, at this point.)

Oh yeah- I forgot- I like it sideways too, so we tried that also, go for going deep, I a girl I like in there.

#- Hashtag: (Pound Karly F'n Barns!)

Karly- She pulled them down some her underwire, I am not fat, am I?

Marcel- Hell- No! I said on the screen yet to her. (Yes- she goes from some asses in the room) The long sleeves black and white top comes off, with an X-ed aim crossed, the hand opposite formation. As she is up close, she holds her legs and kicks them both you can see some of her down there showing through, and that is a turn on.

Karly- I have a black bracelet, and I take off my bra shyly; I am sitting legs openly as you can see...? You can see some, yet not all as of now... white and pink bed, walls tan, posters everywhere, white carpet see my game wheel, I give you crap for that, like a video or something of mine that I will mail out to you. A three-way light on the nightstand with balls that glow, (Nice) I got my highest tip of 2,000 what do you think of my nipples.

‘I will blow you a kiss!’

(It was really for Marcel!)

I have a blue crystals necklaces also, it's sexy, ‘I blow you kisses.’

Me- (You’re blowing my mind right now.)

‘Why do I... have to masturbate?’

‘Instead of me freaking you!’

I’ll to your nerdy to you! She asked sweetly yet, mischievous nottie way, with a look of lusting in your eyes, just look at her make and smoky eyes, to see it all. (I don’t care if you have a whitened face, feck eyelashes and blue hair, I still saw you underneath that all.)

Indian style she is sitting, showing what he wants to see and that’s the little down there for me.

‘What movie do you like...?’

‘Like I robot.’

Marcel- seeing it all... (I am sure of that, I feel that he’s here with me, as I want to get it on, like rubbing him on me.) I found her out for all the random girls of the sight, I will- say that she so-oo-o hot wanna touch the hinnie! Awoo-o-oo, boob’s butt, and p*ssy, and finger her there, love me like you should like the way I want you too, say you want me to-u-wo-o-o!!!

Then said- Just look at me here I feel like getting these off, she was facing herself to the said, side profile, showing it all. Perfect boobs they angle down and cover around nicely, like how is so right to me, like everything she has her backside also, covering ever so precise, in what I want in a girl. Vigorously flooding under, showing her erect nipples, so blushing pink almost, like both sights of lips!

Myself- Moving a swarming around, I could not keep up with it all in my mind, I was thoughtless it was that good.) Like her but does also two cheeks... and then... there... it all was... you get it her up close vagina. I can say why I like it I just do, that's everything, yet I have to look at that now. So pretty and flushed pink, just thumping for me, I saw her clit, and the opening too. Finger rubbing and petting herself, there and everywhere! She rubs in between her chest and it drives me nuts! She up pushes them up with an embrace spread finger grab on both, in a way that she can only do, she has shown me this, they and I feel lovesick! I see that this is the only way she can be with me, and me with her.

YES! Stimulating, suggestive, racy, erotic, sensual, and even erogenous, pale pink sexy lips as constricted as if they are all tucked inwards. Pale-n-pink, and then she is biting, fluttering, winking, and shoulder rolling, dithering, and blinking sometimes a- lot. Yes- biting, off to the side and top teeth rolling over the bottom lip and holding looking at the webcam. Her eyes, it's so working for me! All the same, I want to see it all; as she is laying there on her bed, with sideward leaning on her elbows, chatting away about whatever comes to the wacky mind of hers.

Yours truly- is flapping her hair a lot making them what me!

- Big eyes!
- Sucking, her crystal nickels!
- Tasting herself.
- Kissie faces, and erotic expressions
- Screeching.
- Rolling around, back to front, and on the said.
- You never understand what she is going to do.

•Cut- Butt in the air o Crazy stupid fun, loveable, and adorable, even as a blue hair chick, it could be hot pink, and I would love her! I yelled these words- Snap chat me. I give photos out, for tips like 777 and you get me on your phone forever-a!

Don't you want to see my p*ssy!

(You do the math I am-a making bank! That is why I am here, doing this, and what girl would come, for a crapload of money, it's fun, and something that is all mine. Doing something I love doing anyway. Dumb boys are cute.)

- Friend me on Facebook like my page, you get crap there too.

- Friend her and I'll add you if you're nice to me. In addition to that, I will say cheese on here and you can see me do it.

- I have and I- phone do you like, not everyone has this I here,

(FN- PRTSC, I'll take the photos, Karly! Screenshot there is! As I copy it over to MS paint. And save to my desktop.)

- Humming the animal, and laying back on it, that's a- truth- I well.

- I got this mic, for my birthday, do you like it, I can sing for you too. (Here I go-)

- Do I e-eject like what...? Is that squirting then yes... if that what you mean then okay.

(What do you mean?)

(Going back to the start of the sexual show-)

Oversized, a big chair like bear... Gray and white, like her bra and undies, I see you sitting there, hands through your hair, scratching yourself and such.

- HotforyouKarly3!

That's... me... don't tell anyone, she knows- yet that the only I want to see doing this. It may all be just for me, even if they see it.

Topic: #3 (as of now) TIP 2 for 2! SC 4 life 333 - Friend add 200 - HT of the night wins all my videos! Big booty plug >: D- 5901 Blah (7777) and if you're like I will do more, for tips, I may have two times or three dippings.

‘Tip: 7777 to seem me cumshow-
tonight!’

The journey is in the background. Singing and shaking her boobs to the lyrics, OH MY GOD YES!! Yes, squeeze them boobs, Love it, girl!

•Tips- like crazy in here! Thank you!

(Yell’s girlie!)

Shaking out her hair!

CRAP I said, looking shocked.

Dance move to the beats, to just a little, and then a- lot! Rock out!

Showing the up close up shot, of undies in the front. On knees- Hand on the nose, looking cute. You can spell! I said for I can’t even if I try now! Rap song- showing hair, and slight p*ssy, then it all, look at this, look at me with my thumb at my forehead, the song play, she is acting it out, all 90’s! I dance like a freaking white girl! Do you see my hair it looks like a button; I don’t think I want to shave it all!

CumShow one: Do you like my green and white tank with the alien face on it, I have it on after the first show, and I did my hair now it’s time for more do you like this, white socks, and still, I am under-wear-less. Rabbit dildo pink fast, and hard, yelling, screaming it out like his name, it all out, spraying, guessing whiteness, it all over the sheets, and showing it up close p*ssy shot, like three minutes, I have it up high so that’s why.

CumShow two: Pillow humping for six to seven minutes, and I say I came!

Sliding as it’s in- between my legs, in a crouching why, leaning forward to stimulate it more and more, fast and faster, and it squirts for me and him, and them.

I’ll shave my p*ssy for you, and you can see it up close! I give the finger and then give it to myself for you.

CumShow three: bath time, and shower it off with hair, and hand rubbing one out, until the end and it runs all down my legs.

This girl- her- I can take anymore I need to sleep.

~*~

I got everything I wanted! And more I said, as I went to bed, I could die at the pace at this point: yet I have to go on thinking about her, do I have to let go, and just lie, her with him in me?

(New night at the party falling asleep)

I just gave him a handjob become, I am a teen girl, and I do that and can when it comes to coming! I have something to say, Mr. Obama, I want to have sex with older boys. Like- I did when I was a pre-teen, and get away with it. I have a brain; I know what... I am doing that, and so should he if you write your name here, on a contract to mom and dad, or just you, it's your body say it okay as you. So why do mom and dad care at that point! I said to him.

Like a marriage certificate to hags- on my wall, do that, where my blue ribbons where. The guy that did me was in his mid-thirties, it was not sexed it was just ripping through my hymen, and moving one, and it did not count for me. That thrust was so freaking hard, that I screamed like a b*tch, over everything. It's just liked that girl I go to school with doing her daddy, yet that's okay for there not related, hum that's okay. I have it on speed five and it's wiggling in me, and pulsating, the way I need it too.

I personally- I know I am at the party, yet I not out there, we come that ware now to go here, and do this. I may not be reliving this, it's on, like hot steamy sex passion!

Unbreakable sex and coming with Marcel, that last for three hours or so, it was breathtaking, coming over and over, in every way you could think off, as age my age.

-Like he pulled off my blue and white pad before shoving it all in!

-Besides, then I spun around, rapidly while down on it, that's something that I feel I can only do.

-I don't feel that I need to use pill or rings, and patches to stop what I want to do all I need to do is insert this sponge-ie thing-ie in me and have seen it, and I know it will work.

There is a 20% fall rate on this thing, and that good for me, so I don't F-up my flow and get spotting and crap, and crazy. I want it from behind, sliding in and out- (see that) I want old school him on top smothering me out, to that is romantic, all cuddled and crap, yes- I am still a girl and such.

-I just wanna sick him off too! Like he going to go down on me, and lick and kiss, humming and rubbing my lady-ness on him back and forth.

-Stocking his hardness, feeling the wetness, down and around and inside.

-69 this crap for me I asked, we did. He wanted cowgirl, so we did it first me facing, then stopped and just shoved it down my tonsils, I even did the Miley thing like him like the sled hammer!!!

Yeah, you know it, daddy! (I wonder if he sees this some time or boy he works with.)
(Do you hear the suck-age, as I pull my lips off and then so will he do the same not long after.)

As well as then, I gave him a thrill and turned it around. We did more than the orgies that I saw the times before! He even used a seven-inch dildo on me and made me come three times, and like the kiss, song licked it up. And made me arise with an aching back that way, and spray, I am rolling what can I say, I am a happy girl now! I want more, I don't like saying hit into me, yet I go fast, and bruise my ass! Laying on my back I could feel it all in the spot that, I wanted it to be felt, not fare is yet right.

Tree a night is me!

Me, yet, I want firm thrusting, ultimate, uninhibited sex, at this point, making love, that is!

(The night before still on cam)

In cumshow one:

See me laying on my back, flapping around, see me now I am just crazy and rocking out! Hair is up now; I have a fake tattoo! Texting her girlfriends, and her boy, I have to pee, be right back, leaning back, legs open, playing with my hair, singing, and missing up cute-ie!

Three blinks, her whooshing back, as I sit back, showing my p*ssy, and now I'll do a fist pump, as Stacy's mom is playing! Throwbacks are hot! I have a cut clit I have to say it! You like me creepers- yes, yes- I do! Rubbing her clit on the bedsheets now, as she lies on her gut. Texting, Jenny to see what's on her end and she above me so I have to do more! Hay Yah! But shaking- all right- all right! Piece eyes dancing around, and tight ass shot, see my backside covering for you, arching! Hair covering one boob, face, pail, yet sweet! Thigh, stay up until midnight? Give it to me you're showing it all now! I see my cat coming into the room. She is playing with the kiddie! She would look cute blue! I am petting my p*ssy boys what do you think about that? Shoulder shaking, snap chat shot! Of my p*ssy!

Slow and good do you see! Do you want to be healed?

Yes, yes- I do! Snapping fingers, hugging the cam. If you want to do it now, then go for it! Doing a stretched out a pose for pitch-perfect! Awesome right!

Perfect! We say what we need right!

'Nailed it!' What is my favorite animal?

Owl...? I think so... Horses! You ride them, like a girl! 1, 2, 3, 4 tell me... to shout! You can go I won't cry for you! I am Bipolar! Love it do it all! I love for this, I said, I hate pink, yet that why I hump it, like this pillow, funny butting thingie! Need more of the up-close humming please rub the clit on the pillow!

Back and forth, startling it. Home away! Matilda yelp you got me hot! Showing toes and wiggling them in her gray stockings. That for the comments, Oh honey, honey! You are my candy girl! I can believe it true! I see you laying out looking amazing! She was showing it all and I need more I said.

Damn, when I die, I hope to see this, all the time, GOD! Close up P*ssy and showing more! Give it to me! I said wanting it all! I feel it was forever ago, that I did this I need it! Say you want it for me! Funny but sick! Too cute here! You need to hear that 1,000,000 times, I said! Cover the songs is lovely! Wink! And she did!

And she did... I got a photo I did want to see from some old dude, that's okay. Penis! She said over and over, I get it! Yet it's not mine so, yeah- I get it! ELO, don't stop! Sing the song it sounds like she is sing. I think of them, hearing it... yeah not that one, I said and then it when old school and it was all good. Touch yourself already!!!!!! I have to say it is- been- long enough now! Do it here or it doesn't work, you got my okay.

All the way now! She is taking them off the stockings. Legs tight, showing the line of mine! Cowgirl riding the plush over-sized toy. You got a yellow wall, that good, say that Yellow wall alert! The purple dildo comes out and she starts using it, and sighs to it, till she comes. Nice glasses funny, sexy teacher look it works for me. Nice mic! Yes, it is turning me on! I get in the bathtub and is cold, yet I'll work with it. In the box, funny your sis must have the old one. Oh, it a light crap! I said. She donks, and wipes her hair back, so sexy! Get up on the edge of the tube, and do it then, no on the corner thanks. Gross okay she said I will, you're getting paid right, now you can have it off under there no up on the tile yes, call me fake and guy it okay.

Okay- that was cool, now she is laying on the bed and rocking my world! And squirt for me! And she did and showed it all and licked her fingers. And said good night, I am number one!

Get on the bed that what happens here-

(About it all and why we do what we do)

But I didn't care, I wanted to be cool. 'It's because of this the boys worship the ground I walk on. They see it, they want it. And I want them to want me! So, I can give them a hard time. To see if they just want me, or if they need me.' Like I said- This surely wouldn't be the first time a boy uses me as his tribute impression! Yeah- we're young we can be a little crazy, why not. I remember last Friday Maddie's said- 'OMG! Jenny- you've made nipple-boob smudges!

On the window.' I don't know why but we always end up unclothed under them blankets or run around the room that way.

(That's what I meant about the photos of me and being remembered for them. Like sometimes I think there are more photos of my little lady and lower half, then there was of my sweet little face. I know that I didn't have any respect for myself and I was only seventeen and younger than that even, and really neither did my friends, with me fallen to their level. Girls promise me right now, that you want to strip and spray for website money, I know it's just on cam but, it's not going to get you anywhere in life.

Even if it's trilling at the time. Think higher of yourself! Someday your kids could see that... if you live to see it! You got to think ahead. You have to consider and think! 'All the money in the world won't get back your innocents or life.' Oh, and shame on you- older man looking at us, what if that was your daughter or granddaughter, that popped up on the screen, dancing around, and diddling, you wouldn't like it then would you. Didn't think so...!)

Since the junior year, though on Fridays and the weekends, I don't think we've stayed in even once, we would go down the Fire escape, and go to the parties if we won't allow, sometimes our mom's and daddy's no, yet most of the time they didn't know where we were going or what we were going to do. Just like they don't think we're even sexually active.

Today we raid middies' closet, so we don't have to wear the same outfit to Marcel's party, she seems to have a lot of things that look cut on me. Liv, Maddie, and Jenny are giving special attention to how I look. Liv puts the maroon polish on my nails, I do mine too but my hands are shaking a little, so some get soft blue on my cuticles and make it look like I'm a five-year-old, that has gotten into her mom's make up for the first time, but I'm too nervous to care. I was thinking about my boy getting all up in me, for the first time... his first time, with me.

I just had that feeling that Ray couldn't wait to get into my glory hole! Yet I wasn't sure if I wanted it or not. Even though I tectonically not a virgin, I never really ever have sex that was meant to be passionate, like what I had in the past it was just always a hookup nothing more, like they didn't even kiss me droning, like with no feeling attached. I am scared that I am going to suck, even though I know how it works. Ray and I are going to meet up at Marcel's. I get this in a poorly written text. Like hello, you're not even going to pick me up? You're not going to woo me in any way, you just expect me to blow your mind, without having some chivalry in return. You got to give some to get some!

(Night Show- on cam some days back before the physical end, I may do some shocking things for you, like show my puss from the front and the back on my knees, and then lay on my floor or sit web for you, this is part of how I was it's my documentary only now forever like I said I am not proud of it yet I am remembered for it, it was all for my friends you say what you want and money, I don't mind doing it for him or me, yet I saw it too, and it not my best sides. I use an enormous pink Hitachi vibrates too, and you all know that. Yes, Yes, Yes- Um it's pink that the color of it! I am a little girl- what can I say, (that an excuse for my cover I thought, I not buying another one just for this.) I do like it what girl doesn't like I like boys.)

Ray- It's Like- In her smile I know, that I don't need any other lover, something in her style that shows me, that I am the one for her, I do care about her, what's cool is she's like my best bud too. The only deferments are that she is a girl so that benefits me! I could love her... but she makes it hard too, no scratch that her friends make it hard too, she needs to pick them or me. And I know that it's not going to be me, so I can't feel fully committed to her until she is with me. Sex sure, she would be my first ever she would be the right girl for that, we know just about everything about one another anyways.

Maybe after tonight I can get more and find out who loves me more. I am not saying that she needs to give up her girls. But she needs to think for herself sometime, I feel like I have to babysit her. Thinking for her is not something I can do for her. I thought she was cooler when she was a nobody at least I felt like I was the only that she needed. Sometimes I sense that Jenny likes me just as much as she does, and Jenny to me is like that pain in the ass friend's girlfriend's sister that you can touch. I am torn Karly is my little bud, that I just about do everything with, and I don't want to complicate that.

Jenny is my beautiful dream that can be a nightmare, which I sometimes can stand, yet I still want her, and I don't get why. I don't know maybe I can have both?

That's what I am donning now, and it seems to be working, don't tell Karly she would be crushed. I could not bear to see her be heartbroken over me, wanting to be with her friend more than her. I don't love Jenny; I just want Jenny. I want Karly to say she loves me and shows and not hide it. She makes me feel like I am not good enough at times. You get it to, don't you?

Karly- Massage received: 'Got the bedroom 4 tonight's would have been nice if it said for us, or he said looking forward to seeing you. What's with boys all think about is getting it in, yes- I want him to put it in, but I want him to want me for it... whatever, he is no different from those others. (Thought- Boy you need to try harder, there are so many others that would love to be where you're at.) I let Liv pick out my outfit, I was too shaky and undeceive to choose myself. She got out a long red glittery tank top, that I got to use a short dress, it's too big in the chest, so I had to stuff it out, I was thinking awesome now

Ray can blow his nose before he sees, feels, kiss my chest. I have a new thing that I have kept for this day it's black. I put the tank over my naked body Liv and Maddie overlooking, as I step into the new undies. Maddie says I got it... she runs over to the closet and got out her silly Dorothy slippers also Rudy and sparkly. Liv said- 'Girl you look good.

Sometimes, you have to show a little skin. That reminds boys of being naked, and then they think of sex.'

(I thought I looked like a stripper, my butt was barely covered, yet that's the point I guess.) I thought the good thing I shaved my legs up and didn't stop at my knees. Sometimes I get lazy with the shaving, we girls all do in the winter months. Did you know there is a whole month devoted to it in November in not shaving your legs? That's the way we were jeans, and no skirts or shorts... Jenny does my makeup, doing the smoky eye look with some light brown on the lids, with black mascara on top of the fake lashes. I do my hair adding in long extension, Maddie helps me make perfect springy waves. But, I don't all the white powder in the world could get my face white like it should be, humming and breathing Maddie runs to her dad's' liquor cabinet and gets me a shot of something nasty and says here this will chill you out.

I didn't ask what was in it, I don't want to know really. She slipped something in it I am sure of it. That is when Jenny says we all should take two more shots, so were a little buzzed a loosened up for the party. I mixed me down with some orange juice. Liv said as she was making a shot face, red is the color of passion, and it will drive any boy wild. I was like good it will much my rosy cheeks and blushed out the face.

I like I have this perfect picture in my mind of how everything is supposed to be, or the way I think it should be, maybe this is why I get disappointed. I set the bar too high for everyone but myself, with me it's like I have to do the limbo. Afterward, I lock myself in the bathroom, trying to hold down the shots, I can feel the hotness and itchy from my fingertips up to my skull, I felt like a baseball cracked me in the back of the head. Like- I am somewhat used to balls smacking me in the front of the face... I hate Gym class! He- he, and TMI- LOL!

So, I am trying to memorize exactly how I look there, in that second. But, after a while all of my features seem like they're just hanging there, like something I'm seeing on an unfamiliar person, I didn't even look like me, in that second, I thought what happens to the real Karly. Whom did I become? This isn't me... is it? I am butt- crazy in love with Ray, but I not sure if I can go through with this! I know I can get out of this by saying I am on it like he has the app, there just has to be an app for that, like that was girls' ways of getting out of everything. Yet I have to think some boys are not lucky enough to be as naturally adorable as he is, I would be a fool if I didn't let him feel my insides.

My mind is going crazy! I feel so pissing impotent, and yet so pissing out of control.

Which I hate. I love him! I know I am such a brown-noser, for wanting him to love this-me. I just feel butt ugly! And I look like such a bloated cow. Um- maybe I am PMS-ing? It is like only a week before your period. OMG- I feel just like a heifer! I mean for- real's I only had a handful of peanut butter M&M's and like four pieces of licorice since lunch. Sometimes I think searching for the right boy in high school is as hopeless as searching for meaning in a Harry Potter movie, the lights or on yet no one is home. They can't see true love if it was a flipping brick being flung smacking them between the lookers and the sniffer. Like they just don't feel it or see it! I can see why Maddie and Liv are why there are...!

Oh, and the reason, I sat through Potter was- well... I for- real's have such a girl crush on Emma Watson! I think she is so pretty, flirty, and has that sexy way of talking. If I die and need someone to play me in a movie, about my cruddy life, like- she would be my first pick! (Ha- to bad no one cares what I think... they never did, or they well. The memory of my short life will go by like a stinky fart in the breeze, just around long engulf to piss everyone off and then vanishes in midair!)

Looking at myself... When I was little- I used to do this all the time: in the bathroom, I would take hot showers and the mirrors would steam entirely over, then stand there, watching as my face took shape slowly behind the steam, looking at my bare body thing what looked good and what looked so bad.

Then I could rough outlines at first, then details would start illustrating out.

The more I could see the more I disliked. Each time I'd think that when my face came back, I would see somebody beautiful, I like to feel when washing, like during my shower I would have transformed into someone that I would love or that someone would love me. I only felt beautiful when I was letting that water hit me, after that, I would set out and dry off... just like creepy eyes looking at me, I always looked the same, and that's not what I wanted, and just like when my skin dry off just standing there, the ugly soak in. There is so much push-ie to look like girls in magazines or on the internet molds and movie stars, I want to look like that, I know I will never live up to that. I mean come on. Standing in Maddie's bathroom, I smile and think, tomorrow I'll finally be different because I'll be his first and he'll be mine.

(Yet some days I just looking in this glass and think, now I am nothing but a freaking slut and a bully. Maybe I liked myself more back then, then I knew I did. I never thought that would be possible, at least the only one that was getting hurt was me. But I hid that fact to everyone because I like me feeling good.)

Rally this all started when Ansley Baum passed away, she was one of us, in our group. I knew her back to freshman year, like when she commented on my hair looking cute, with the ribbon in it, or something like that. She was a fun outgoing and to young of a girl to die. She was everything that I am not. Then like in lunch I see her sis Kara with a bandana around her head at the sped table, because she looks freaky and is sickly. She has been dying of the same cancer now for years, and I am like appalled. Sometimes life doesn't seem fair. This is not nice to say, but why her and not her sis. Why do bad things happen to good people?

I feel reasonable for Ansley dyeing, I was supposed to have her home at midnight, last year after Sam's Friday night kegger party.

However, I was too drunk to remember too.

That is one reason I don't have a car now, we had my dad's SUV and that's the car she drives away- in, I throw her my keys, saying- 'If you want to go, then go!' I was being crazy grinding with my girls, it was past her curfew, and she left without me in a panic. I knew I had a ride with Jenny, Maddie, and Liv. I could have been with her, I cheated death. She drives herself, and hit a truck going into the squirrel hill tunnels, she was doing 85 in a 55 and slid on black ice.

She was killed on impact; she went through the windshield and was buried on Monday. Just in a bit of an eye life can be over, and leave you traumatized. I was messed up for six months after, I missed two weeks of school, just crying in my room. All because of me saying nastily: 'If you want to go, then go!' (I should have taken her home, and I should have been her sis's friend when no one else would be, I didn't because I wanted to be popular.)

~*~

Jenny walked into the room, and asks-

'How do I look?' I say- 'You look a little retro like 1995 or a tennis player, I like it.' Liv and Maddie nodded in approval. I think it's cute that Jenny matched Iggy's school outfit from the video.

Yellow is good for her, it also for some reason reminded me of that really old movie clueless, I and that girl could relate. Jenny is kind of obsessed with music- just like she is with a vintage yet hot outfits, so she makes us a playlist for the ride to- Marcel's house, even though he lives only like seven miles away... whatever. We listen to Iggy Azalea, and then we blast 'Fancy' and we all sing along. Iggy's not bad... really, but I get sick of rap all the time. Followed by Taylor Swift - 'Shake

It Off,' and that song just gets stuck in my head, just like seeing Maddie twerking with those big black framed nerdy glass. That is when Liv hits next and she starts singing: 'Too Fast' - 'I don't want to be a restless soul.

Running on empty, burning up the road...' Not the kind of song that you want to pull up to a party blasting. Even so... we can pull it off, the eyes were on us!

Anyways back to today, on the drive, we do some uncanny things, though: as we are driving there along with all those familiar streets, like that I've known my whole life, and I can name them all off by heart. We pass the same fast food places and the shops, and all the high-rises. Liv's is barking like a dog at the top of her lungs.

Maddie's got her ass sticking out the window, and I'm just flipping everyone off as we drive past them, saying something like- 'Suck on this asshole b*tches!' (I hope those won't be my famous last words to my city! Yet I think they will be.) Liv has the lowest acceptance out of all of us, for doing dumb crap. In a way'- she is kind of the most- moodiest of us all. Maddie's got the rest of the vodka inserted into her handbag but with nothing to chase it down with she is not chugging it.

Jenny's driving because she can drink all night and hardly feel it. Plus, she always drives it's just her thing. I take selfies as we are driving along look so cool, just like a hipster girl, doing the kissy face. The wet snowfalls start spitting down when we're virtually there, but it's so light it's almost like it's just hanging in the air, like a big curtain of white haze, it was so odd and magnificent. I don't remember ever seeing something so weird weather-wise in all my life. At this instant, I was at Marcel's house woo and hoo- he is like the only guy that I know that has a home and not an apartment.

Anyways looking down the yard, I was looking for the clown because it looked just like his fifth birthday party to me. I've forgotten how distant it's set back in the woodlands. The driveway seems to wind on forever. I could see the cheesy lanterns bouncing in midair. I could see all the dull light from the headlights bouncing off a winding, pathways and skimpy lifeless tree branches flocking narrowly overhead, and tiny bits of frozen rain like diamonds sparkling.

(Albert Einstein said- 'Look deep into nature, and then you will understand everything better.' You know I didn't know just how true that would be for me. But he is the same man that said- 'A person who never made a mistake never tried anything new.' This leaves me with the fact of life and popularity with this one he said- 'You have to learn the rules of the game. And then you have to play better than anyone else.' If you a girl like me, you have learned to play the game and master it the hard way.)

Jenny says- This road reminds me of that ancient horror movies, you no like how it starts.'

Maddie replays back, fine-tuning her apparel, 'Yeah let's not dive off the side of a cliff today, I feel like living.' 'It's just a little farther now,' I say, even though I have no clue, and I'm starting to wonder whether we turned too early. I have butterflies in my stomach, but I'm not sure whether they're good or bad, they are getting more intense.

The woodlands press closer and closer until they're nearly brushing up against the car doors. Jenny twitches grumpy about the paint job. I don't see why the paints flaking off on the hood, but that just the way she is. Just when it seems like we'll be slurped up into the abyss, the mist was dripping from the window from me been pressed agents it, for a joke I write the word HELP on the window, like something you would see on a creepy book cover.

Unexpected the coppices disperse entirely and there's the main, lawn it's like the cutest yard I have ever seen as a city girl, with a light blue house pushed way back surrounded by weepy looking trees. It's got passageways and a long porch that runs along all sides.

The shutters are white; the entire place is carved with crazy wood cover designs which make everything stand out. I don't remember any of it, yet I can't say it was because I was stoned or high. Thinking so hard I start to daydream... Maybe it's the alcohol, I can't dredge up when I started drinking either, but then again, I think this is the most beautiful house I've ever seen.

The type of house I would love to have with Ray and a baby girl someday. Yet boys don't think like us girls, they don't think ahead, they don't use the right head... all they think about it how they're going to get off, and what girl they can get to do it with. Well maybe not all of them do, but most. I wouldn't be a good momma, I know this... if I am anything like my mom, crap I would suck at it and fall miserably, and my baby would grow up fallen to every- one too. I think Ray would be a good dad if he would grow up some, yet he is getting better, my training is paying off; somewhat. Oh well, it's not like I want to have a big belly anyways.

(A single teardrops from my eye, and I wipe it away before any of my girlfriends see.) Sometimes, like I just feel like Miley riding the wrecking. I have licked my share of sled hammers too, after a while it gets to a girl like boys do nothing but break you down and crush your heart and yet they keep accepting more blows until you fracture. Sometimes you can't win if he won't let you in!

We're all silent for a minute, looking. Half the house is in darkness, but there is a soft warm light shining on the upper level, where it makes the lawn turn shiny in a yellow glow. Jenny says, 'It's almost as big as our school, Kar.'

I'm regretful she spoke: it feels like the charming spell has been broken because it not that big at all. 'Almost,' Maddie says. She takes the vodka out of her bag and takes a sip and then wipes her chin with the sleeve of her jacket. 'Give me a shot of that stuff,' Liv says, reaching for the bottle, and then kiss me!

'Ugh you too make me sick,' Jenny says. 'Like go find some boys tonight.' They both just giggle, I roll my eyes at how clueless Jenny can be. The bottle's in my hand before I realize it. I take a sip. It burns my throat and tastes horrible, like paint or gasoline, but as soon as it's down I get a rush. We climb out of the SUV and the light from the house flows and expands, twinkling at me as some of the snow falls and melts on my extended tongue.

Walking into parties always gives me that period cramp feeling at the bottom of my stomach. It's not a good feeling, even though it has paternal of being good for me, like the feeling of knowing anything can happen, if all falls into place. Most of the time nothing does, of course. Most of the time one-night blends into the next, and weeks blend into weeks and month's blur into years. And sooner or later we all die alone and thrown into a pit or firebox. What's the point of living at all? (I guess all have to find that out the hard way?)

Jenny always says-

'We're only here to having sex and orgasms and punch out some boys' kids.' I hope there is more than that, there has to be, yet deep down, like I think she is right, she always is. Yet I just... I just miss him. And I hate feeling so alone. But at the beginning of the night anything's possible, I know this and it makes me nervous. The front door is locked, and we have to go around to the back, where a door opens onto a cramped foyer it is so sweet all covered in grannies like wallpaper and rich woodwork. The wooden stairs are- to die for. It smells like something unforgettable it's so yummy, like gingerbread at Christmas. I wish Ray had a home like this... I guess you can have it all, I wish Marcel wasn't so weird I might just go out with him because of this place. Yet he is not going to change anytime soon either.

I hear the tinkle of breaking the glass and someone yells, 'break it up!' two assholes were fighting over Jenny already, and the one goes push through the window.

That is when a roar screeched from the speakers: 'Yo Yo Yo, how you are doin' tonight? I am Marcel... and now is your time to get your freak on!' That is when the DJ took over the mic, and side- 'Can that boy get any whiter?' The house erupted in a chuckle. Now we all are out on the dance floor. That's when the DJ said lady let's see those panties come off, and roll them in your hand to this next song. The DJ said- 'I wanna see you all- Wabbel Baby!'

So of course, all the girls did it... I don't mind going commando; I knew at some point thought out the night they were coming off anyway. Plus, like it's more freeing to dance that way too, without the wedges. After the first dance, the stairs are so packed we have to squeeze up in single, everyone one is making out, I see Lizzy her one boob is exposed, it looks like she got one for the night. People are coming down in the opposite direction after hooking up in one of the bedrooms, empty beer cups in hand. Some of them half-naked with that afterglow on their faces.

Most of them have to turn so their backs are against the wall. We say hi to a few people and ignore the rest of the losers, the loser gawks they're not getting any, they shouldn't even be here, and all they want to do is hook up with hot girls like us. As usual, I can feel all of them looking at me. I like to play games with boys, Ha just giving them enough to get a boner and I brush up and walk on passed. I had ten or more boys say I looked hot, and I just say- 'That's nice fellas, but I have a BF!' So, in other words, I am only banging him tonight, was the message I was trying to give!

So okay, I don't want to be a turncoat wannabe to my generation, in all... but, looking around I don't get how guys dress today. I mean, come on, it looks like they just rolled out of bed still holding on to their man meat with one hand, while throwing some holey baggy jeans over their nasty body fluid covered boxers with the other, and didn't bother washing up, or fixing their oily hair – ew-h – and just covered it up with a sideward cap, like we're expected to faint or curtsy in their magnificent-ness? I don't think so, and yes, I made that word up, I can do that.

Aw- boys are so gross, like if we ladies would do that you boys would ship us to a deserted island like we're lepers. Surely what with you all always grabbing at it, if we girls would have our hand down there all the time, like we would be handcuffed, just like boys can go topless when swimming and we're not supposed to, it just doesn't seem fair to me. Even basic girls try to look good and refrain from doing that. Can't even!

At the top, I said out aloud not meaning too. 'Would you call me selfish?'

Maddie said- 'Nut-huh, um- like not to your face.' Jenny giggles and said- Uh- baby girl you worry too much, like some girls are not lucky enough to be as naturally adorable as you are, stop thinking or you'll get frown lines!' I look in my compact mirror and see the line forming, oh crap something new to freak out about, I thought. Good thing Ray and most boys don't look at my face... lol.

~*~

I pass the bathroom the door is hanging open; I can see Stacy and Ryan.

His boxers are around his ankles, she is sitting on the toilet, they have shared needles. It's still in his hand, Stay is shaking and pulling on her hair like someone that is going crazy. She and her 25 or something boyfriend that she only sees for her junk, just shot up heroin. It's the scariest thing I have ever witnessed. You can smell it, like vinegar mixed with ammonia. She has pissed all over the floor. It reeks, as fast as he intended it into her starts to collapse, rubbing her eyes and face, and rubbing her body uncontrollably, her eyes are red, just like his, but he has been on it longer so it's not affecting him as much. She is balking a lot, she looks so confused, while making moments like the kids at the sped table do.

Stacy is 14 and she has sex with Ryan at least three times a day, just so she can get her heroine for free, I knew when I saw her today at school, she was going through withdraw. With her sudden changes in behavior or actions, she likes to have a droopy appearance, as if her extremities are heavy. I know for sure she is going to be the next dead girl because she was most likely to OD.

I knew she was too far going for me to help, and what could I do? She is a big girl she knows what she is doing. (I was wrong.) Stay has said to me what it's like- 'Oh Karly It's like having the best orgasm you've ever had multiply it by a billion, and you're still nowhere near it. Like, imagine a warm wave washing over your body that eliminates any feelings of sorrow, regret, anger, stress, or guilt. Imagine all those bad feelings being washed away as you feel the warmth running through your veins. You sure you don't want to try it?' I remember saying- 'Yeah I'm sure.' I think she is one dumb punani! If you don't know what that means look it up, I'll wait for you...

Okay got it? Hey, it could have been worse, like I could have asked you to look up a Prince Albert, and yes to me doing that is just as dumb as doing hardcore drugs. Anyways, down the dim hallway hanging all over with white icicle Christmas lights. There is a classification of rooms for those that want to hook up, each leading off the next, the further down the run the lower your popularity the dirtier the room will be because it's the rooms most used for the act, I know me and Ray will most like have Marcel's mom and dad's master bedroom, that room is off-limits to everyone, except the high rankers like me and my girls. I peck in... saying under my breath- That's the room for tonight! I thought- If not then I'll know he doesn't love me; he just wants to get into my dress.

I look in some of the room, the music is blasting, I see the orgies taking place, some of the girls are yelling overtop the music, and asking me to join in, and they look so elementary like they should still be sucking on a baby bottle. Just remember having sex is a party, and not everyone is invalid, it all goes back to who hot and who's not.

OMG! It's like 10 to 20 boys and girls going at it like rabbits. Some are even doing, butthole-roulette there are more- younger girls than boys, I know most of the boys face they are in the senior class. The floors are filled, all the draped fabrics ripped off the windows, all the big pillows form the beds and the couches ripped apart, feathers all over in the air in the girl's man goo covered hair, so yucky! The sofas are packed with naked interlocked people, I have to say some of these girls are fixable, I let you picture that for yourself.

Jenny leans back and declares something to me in a hasty fashion, but it gets lost in the murmur of voices and passion moaning, and pulsating music. Then she's moving away from me some boy was pulling on her arm, lacing through the crowd. I turn around, but Maddie and Liv are vanishing too in the thick of it all, and before I know it my heart is pounding like never- ever before, and I get this itchy feeling in my palms, I was scared to be all alone around all these people, I didn't know if I was going to gets' a- stick-ed, with a needle, shank, or worse some random ass boys d*ick. I don't know why but it always seems like I get left behind, or my girls forget about me like I am just another face in the crowd.

I have had this nightmare many times in my dreams at night in my single bed, where I'm standing in the center of an enormous crowd, being thrown from left to right, like a rag doll, and becoming naked and the boys descend on me. The faces and expressions look familiar to me so like I know them however very dreamlike, almost there's something wrong with all of them: just like being a crazy Van Gogh painting someone will walk by who looks like Jenny, but then her mouth is weird and droopy like it's melting off in a creep laugh, like the old music video to that song 'Black Hole Sun,' and none of them recognize me or speak English, and I can find my way out of the house or back home, and that's all I say- 'I want to get back home. Help me!' Dreams are so weird!

Hum- I wonder if they mean anything? Standing in Marcel's house isn't the same thing yet is oh so uncanny. But still, it's enough to make freak me out a little.

I'm about to head over to Amanda Scott she's tremendously revolting and generally, I wouldn't be caught dead talking to her, but I'm getting frantic with all the stranger danger in the house- and that is when it happened I was tackled, I feel these lust-locking bear hugging arms wrap around me, and I smelt his sweet and Axe.

Marcel?

'Yeah, baby!

He was gazing into my eyes lovesick for me, and that when he said- 'You came!' He said, along with- 'I knew I get you to come for me!' He puts his damp mouth against my ear, playing with my hair, he plants a nibbling kiss under my ear, and whispers 'Hey- babe-licious Karly, you're so sexy.

Would you be my girl?'

He is so awkwardly lame it's kind of cute... kind-a...? Everyone knows Jenny calls me baby, so-o I guess that is how he can up with that pet name. Then he used the oldest line in the book 'Where've you been all my life?' it was all I could do not to giggle in his face, even though I thought it was sweet that he wants me.

Where in the friend zone, yet he doesn't see that I don't know why like I've made it so obvious! I wish Ray would give me a nibbling kiss on the lips, as I like it when the kisser softly bits and pulls my lower lip, it is so romantic. Sad to say Marcel might be a better kisser than Ray is... maybe I should find out? Nah... I am not lowing myself down to that. However, if I see him, and no is looking, I might just see how good he is pinning him up on a locker in the hallway... maybe, just saying, I love kissing boys, girls, and even teachers too! 'You're drunk aren't you,' he said to me. I said not quite yet, but the night is young. I said- I see you are. It comes out more snappish than I think I meant it to. 'Sober enough to know you're the one I want tonight,' He says, trying and worsening to raise one eyebrow or to let me go, I try to pull away and he hugs me even tighter.

'Oh, look at the time, it's ten o-two, I look at my phone intently, seeing the seconds tick away.' thinking he would back off some, I was glad he was there don't get me wrong like he makes me feel somewhat comfy and safe, and although edgy. 'It's not late. I called you, you didn't answer.'

He pats' his hand down his jean pockets, to show me the countless calls. In my mind, I knew, and I was like who calls anymore, that's so 1990's. He said- 'I must've put my phone down somewhere. He is losing it... because he knew the I-Phone was gone forever. I roll my eyes. 'You're so felonious and puerile.' He said- 'I like it when you use those big words, it turns me on!' 'Silly boy- It wouldn't if you knew what they meant.' His smile is getting creeper pulling to the one side rising ever so slowly, and I know he's going to kiss me with those now puckered duck lips. Ah- what the hell, I'll give him what he wants, that is when Ray sneakily walked up and tapped me on the shoulder lock-lipped, and said offended, 'So this what you do when I'm not around?'

I turn moderately turned away from Marcel's cheeks beat red. And just as I thought Ray push Marcel and said that's mine... making a scene. That's when I said to Ray crying. 'It's not what it looks like he's drunk and forced himself onto me.' 'Why don't I believe you...? He said walking off.' I don't want to cry like a baby girl, quickly I started searching for a room, and I rain. Little did I know I rain smoking into my friends, but they're still nowhere to be found.

Jenny, why are you crying what happened? Liv and Maddie look as if they could kill the person that hurt me, to the point of waterworks. 'I said Marcel kissed me.' Jenny said- 'Is that all, no need to cry over that.' I looked at Maddie and Liv they know there was more to it than that. Jenny walked off with yet another boy, patting me on the back as she scooted off. While saying- 'You know when you cry after a first kiss it means your soul mates.' Maddie yells out- 'Okay- who's ass do I need to kick!' at this put the music was cut. That when I fall into Maddie's aims, Liv is side hugging me too. 'Ray saw me kissing Marcel.' Maddie kissed my forehead and said- 'It's going to be okay.' I get yet another tap on my shoulder, its Ray saying- Come on Karly now your chest hugging girls, your Bi too? I felt like two cents!

In the corner, I spot Marcel beating her head into the wall, wearing a wholly Pink Floyd shirt about four sizes too big for him, half-tucked into his underpants.

At least he's not wearing his fedora hat. Ray walk-off well-saying something like- 'If that's the way it is then fine...' and I set down on the sofa in the living room. I look over and he is striking up a chat with Justen Lamer and they're laughing about something. Are you kidding me? I not jealous- faahh... like she such a little eighth-grade dog, looking for a big bad bone from sturdily boy.

I know that look and what she wants him, trilling her hair stand around her finger, and bonding back and forth on one leg, with her thumbs in the loops of her belt keepers. Oh, yes, he is willing so willing to give that young cowgirl a ride tonight. I can see that gleam in his eyes, he like-likes her, and why not she is a lot younger than me and is most likely never been with a boy yet. They would be a good match, it's so cute when both virgin hookups, they'll always remember their first together, but not with my boy. I need to fix this fast. It annoys me that he hasn't noticed me at all since he left over a half-hour ago. I feel sick! I'm kind of hoping he'll look up and come barreling over to me like he usually does, but he just bends closer toward her like he's trying to hear her better, or kiss or feel her up. I sit like a moron, I send out some texts, one to my sis saying- 'Hey sis, I'll see you when you wake up, and we can share.'

I send one to my daddy saying- 'Daddy I am with the girls to study.' Oh, and It's funny I think about her... my little sis, when I don't have any other options. I look around and I feel overdressed and made up. Crap, my fake lashes are starting to peel in the corners. Most of the girls have been naked and changed into their jeans by now, an obvious inkling that they have hooked up.

My change of outfit is in my purse, untouched just like me so far tonight. Why change? So, our moms and dads don't freak out when they see what we were warring. Dah! Like we don't want to be locked up forever!

Party time Part 2

My OMG moment!

That is when Ray Raymond sits down next to me and pulls me up to him. I now have my head on his chest, he is breathing heavily like he ran the mile. I think that I know what he did, but I am not sure. He didn't say, and I didn't ask. I don't want to think about it. I hope he wouldn't. 'We'll only stay for an hour.' I look up and Justen is walking down the steps, with I think looks like hymen blood splatter on her denim, her hair has been pulled and played with, she looked scared, yet the little smirk she gives- me... said the truth, and that truth is that she was truly satisfied. In my heart, I know... though I didn't want to believe it. I thought I was going to be his first. Like the one he loved and would sure that with. I thought to myself, as I hear his heart pounding in my ear. Maybe they didn't go all the way?

On the other hand, no boys can't stop.

Ray said- 'Is that okay? Then we'll go.' His breath smells like beer, and a little- like cigarettes when he kisses me, I could have sworn I tasted that girl leftovers. Yes- I was going to be sick! I close my eyes and think about him kissing her all over, oh and going down on her. I closed my eyes even tighter and I recall when I saw him kissing Joy Mabelle in fifth grade. I want to be the first in something I thought to myself.

This is what I get for not saving it for him. I was so jealous of Joy; I couldn't eat for like three days. I wonder if I look like I'm enjoying it now. I no Joy must-a, in sixth grade, I wonder if Justen enjoyed it more than me? I consider is she better than me? As a girl. As a kisser. As an oral sex partner. Or even worse a sexual intercourse partner. I don't like using those nasty fifth-grade health class terms but... I have to say what I mean.

It relaxes me to think about things like that: like how comical how life is, like before you know it my sis is going to do what I am doing now, and I will be so old, like in my late 1920's... scary getting old, I don't want her to do what I do. Yet she's starting, she is already starting to change into a young woman. She loves to put on my make up! I was about her age when I got my first drip and grow some tiny breasts. She wants to wear a little bra, but you know how mom is she said no to her. She doesn't say 'NO' too much to her... but when it comes to her baby growing up, she holds back. I have told sis that it's not something to be happy about... you're too young- be a kid as long as you can, you grow up fast enough. She looks at me confused asking- 'What do you mean?'

I remember saying, not too many days back- 'You'll find out soon enough!' 'Okay,' she said. In my thoughts- It relaxes me knowing that I, not the only one that's missing up in life, that inside all girls want existences starting way back in elementary school.

Maybe I not doing too badly? I predict yah have to grow up at some point.

Like, If you want to know my biggest secret of all, here it is: I know you're theoretically supposed to wait to have sex with someone you love and all that, and I didn't really that I loved Ray- I mean, I've kind of been in love with him forever, but didn't call it love, I didn't realize- it until- I saw her coming down the stairs, so how could I not? But that's not why- I decided to have sex with him tonight.

I'll get to why here...

I haven't even taken off my jacket I was could and it shows, but Ray unzips and pulled it off me, that is when he slowly moved his hands up the bottom of my dress, stopped lightly to touch me there. I could feel it moving up, I try not to giggle because, it tickling bushing over so softly along my waist and then he moved to the top, and my dress was pulled up I knew Marcel was looking me over, along with most in the room, I was showing more than I wanted too, after everyone knowing I was girl number two If I would have been first I would have to go all the way on the sofa and not have cared how looked. But Ray's palms are sweaty and felt gritty like they haven't been washed. I just go that Owyhee feeling. Naturally, I start to pull away, he pulls me back in strength, I pull away again just long enough to say, 'Not right here, in the middle of everyone.' 'What's wrong you don't you're your boyfriend over there to see?' I give him that look, like don't freak with me because I'm not in the mood.

He said 'Oh, I was just messing with you.' I said- 'Yeah I know you been messing around too much tonight.' It went over his head... that comment. 'Nobody's looking babe,' he says, as he is press-holding me down again with all his poundage. This is a big fib. He knows the whole world is watching us, or at least the world I live in is. He can see it, I know it. He doesn't even try to fasten his eyes shut for me, and his lick kissing my face like Liv's puppy dog Pickles.

Hell- even Pickles has better breath than he does right now. Dude- you need a tic-tac, I thought politely to myself. His hands crawl over my stomach and his fingers are jerking on the underwire of my bra. Jenny said before at Maddie's place, that I should go braless. But I'm not comfortable doing that as they do, I don't need to pop out of the top. Ha

Jenny and the girls can flap I'm not going too.

Plus, I needed something to hold the clean x tissue in. Ray is so not good with bras. The clasp is his worst nemesis I swear. I know he's not going to stop and everyone will see that

I stuff, I just know it. I didn't plan for this. He's not that good with boobs or foreplay in general. He fingers like he is picking the button for a can of Pepsi over and over on a vending machine. I having sex with him because I want to get it over with, and for the reason, that sex has always frightened me and I don't want to be scared of it anymore. I am afraid of making real love, not the sex part.

In the past, I always felt safe with Ray, like it was right to want to do him.

Yet not this night, when we're doing it, it doesn't feel right... I wonder why? This is not the night I wanted. I mean, it's not like I know what it's supposed to feel like, with someone I like... but every time he touches my boobs, he kind of just massages them in a circle hard. And I am just there like... okay, you like this?

It like I am getting a cancer exam. I remember how Marcel did it on the bus I loved the way his hands felt on them, and he was so gentle with me, even though he was a little creepy.

However, I would take creepy over Ray's wham bam thank your mom- right now. And to be honest, my gyno is like more loving with his fingers and movements- jeez! Crap- that thing the gyno puts in your vag. to looking down in like that thing slips in and goes down easier than what Ray is doing. Nice visional right... I know. Ray is making me think about that, like being in that bright white room naked on that cold table, and that's not sexy at all, just like now in the spotlight, sweating bullets.

So, one of them has to be doing the boob squeezing and touching way wrong. I get that having quickies are the only way- I am allowed to have it.

'I can't wait to wake up next to you, every day naked in our king-sized bed.' Ray says, his mist lips alongside my ear, he is pulling my hair. In my mind, I was like does this mean you're going to marry me or ask me tonight? Is that why you cheated because you know this is your last free night? I wonder what boys think about during? I am sure it's not all that!

It's a sweet thing to say, I needed to hear it. But I can't focus while his hands are on me like this and his body unstops and his legs straddling around me. And it arises to me all of a sudden that I have not once thought about the waking up part, or sharing everything, I have thought about nothing but the sex part. There is a lot of living together, that I never- ever thought about.

Though I still want to play house with the man I am going to love someday, like maybe if I have a baby that will fix everything that awkward? That's if he asks me... to be his girl. I have no idea what you're supposed to talk about the day after you've had sex, with someone that's like Ray I never did a younger lower-ranking boy, or what you're supposed to say well during the sex with someone you're falling too. Normally I am more vocal!

I've imagined us lying side by side, under the stars, or like in that book by Marcel Ray Duriez that Liv loves, where they make love under a bridge. I never thought about just in a bed farting and snorting around. Like with if I have to pee or do number two...?

OMG- I never want Ray seeing me getting up to do that. In my imagined desires, I have seen us touching like those in romance movies, all hushed, wind blowing my hair, while the sun slowly rises and looks so big and lovely. I love how romance should be... why is it so wrong to not have it be like that?

Ha- sorry boys that I like to take like three honors to finish, unlike Ray that takes less the one minute. I and most girls can pick more than once, however, the boys need to stimulate us, so we girls will be able to pick a least once and is not a one pump trump. Will, at least I have what's in the Pringles can to satisfy me. But even that can't be all mine or lead me into the perfect fantasy because I have to share it with my little sis! It's like I can't have any peace. She is my sis, so I guess it's okay?

Yeah- I've thought about sharing toys with my little sis, but somewhere in my mind like I thought it would be a Barbie. But at least I know what I'm getting her for her birthday he- he.

So, Marcel walks up about at Ray's big finish and says 'Do you two want to go up and get a room! That's why there are rooms! I can have you doing it on my mom's sofa!'

He didn't stop, even throw, I say let's go up, and then, I look around everyone else is getting to it like us. It's all because it's Ray and me. I don't see why others care so much. Like I think I want this? So, they can go and suck eggs. This all happened so fast:

We hear:

Bridgit: 'Oh god- get a room.'

Stivey: 'Hey guys look at this live porn.'

Maddie: I overheard her say- 'Holy crap she's getting nailed. Why didn't he take her upstairs?'

Jenny: 'WOOoooo! Get some! Yah! Yah! Yah!' She is getting it all on her cell video camera. This was big scene number two this night. Everyone has circled us; the music was cut in a roar. Rays slacks and undies are around his ankles. The ending always ends up with it in my mouth, that is when...

Justen: Shriek out- 'Karly is Rays 'round number two. Hey Karly, how does my after's taste- going down? And just so you know he didn't wear a condom either. I was his fist; I lost my virginity tonight to Ray! AND I BLOW HIS MIND TONIGHT TOO!' Everyone is cheering for her, that when Justen starts the chant that haunted me the rest of the night.

'Sloppy seconds, sloppy seconds!'

I hear Liv's voice far off in the room: 'Oh I feel bad for her like this is not cool.' I thought- You think? I felt like more of a loser then I have felt ever in my whole life. I think this was planned. But I don't wanna think Ray is that mean. This is someone that is pissed that I become popular and wants to see me go down and fall too where I was in middle school. But who...?

(I didn't know then, but as the night went on, I got it. Somebody wants to destroy me, so they get what I have.) It's just like in Ray's rooms, no privacy, and the windows bar not covered with anything. It's all out in the open and everyone seems to be looking, even like in the next building over they look in the room, even the bathroom is all uncover glass.

Even the window-washer has seen me and him going to third base.

Ray pulls away from my face as Jenny, Justen, Liv, and Maddie and appears like ghosts next to me. Justen is making a face. Mocking the expression, I made when I glopped the jizz down. All girls know that nasty taste face, with your nose all wrinkled up. Yet a classy girl doesn't spit! Plus, I heard that it makes your hair shiny.

Also- I'll get some calories like ten or so to, so maybe I won't have to eat dinner, and become fat? But the least someone could do is hand me a towel for all the runny drips.

Maddie says 'You two are perverts. Doing this in front of all these younger grade kids.' 'It's not what I had planned for the night that's for sure!' After everyone gives me the drop-dead look. I said- 'I think I want to go home!' But the girls they talked me out of it... saying- 'Stay for us!' I wanted to walk out that door.

I didn't care if I had to do the walk of shame all the whole way home, no mugger would mess with me... I would rip them to shreds. (That was my last chance for redemption. I was going down in flames.)

That reminds me, like why is there a highway to hell and only a stairway to heaven? It beats me...? I never really put much thought into either place, because, I just thought there were hoary stories that were made up by old crazy guys in white robes, with their nut hanging out, or so that is what Jenny and the girls preached to me.

Saying- 'They only want you to believe that crap to put fear into your mind, and so you don't think for yourself or have sex. Do you believe in Santa, Easter bunny, or Unicorns?' The church was not something I thought was cool, really it was a waste of my time. My mom and dad never made us go, so we didn't.

(Like it's not cool- to yack on heaven's door either, the night you die.

Because you so butt drunk even your soul is messed up! Believe me... you're no longer an atheist when you see your life flash by, in the ten seconds death is coming to get you. Like even the Ten Commandments rushed through my brain, and I didn't even know them! Yet even though everyone I was friends with was anti-God, and I was too to for my friends, I never doubted that there wasn't a high power than man. I just didn't know.)

I will never forget is the first time that's for freaking sure. It's played over in my mind afterward, like a slow-mo- movie, Ray is lifted both arms and take off my dress for me in front of everyone, and then he rips my arms around his waist, he doesn't unclasp my bra he pulls it up and over my head. All my clean x's are everywhere as he pulls me into the sex passion he wants, and that is with my legs up in the air feet touching my head.

He gurgles a little bit of beer some of it drips down my boobs, he makes a sound as if he is annoyed at with everything falling out. I think- I might have squealed like a piglet when he jammed it in the other hole down there when he thrust it in wildly, he spits on me for the lube, rubbing my clit speedily with his free hand, so, I would pick as fast as he was about to, so it looked like he did a good job in front of all that were observing, yet he keeps dropping out will thirsting. All I was thinking was- pull out- pull out.

I think them vibrating chairs in Bed Bath and beyond give me more of a thrill than that Edge of Heaven banging style, I was involuntary laid into, like for the first time... I wanted to be on top and take control and ride him like my horse it's!

'Forgive me, babe.' He shrugs his shoulders and nods. What does that mean? I thought to myself. I see beer in his cup, and it's almost gone golden and foamy, knowing that has to be his tenth and he stares at it, frowning. 'You should get a final, and just tip the keg Ray.' 'Yah I should!' He didn't seem to get the dig for drinking so much and acting like a butt. 'You guys want another?' Said J-C a boy that is two years younger than us and that goes to another school, he seems like the only one that was willing to talk after me and Rays PDA show.

J-C I think stands for Jeremiah Calando Redondo, he's Mexican or something like that. Every time I see him, he is like in the Home Depot, chillin' or asking us to help push the car. He has like has two babies' girls to Christina Alonzo. Her daddy was black, and her mom was whiter than me.

So, she looks in-between tan all the time, she was a cutie in school and was somewhat popular, even for being the knocked-up chick at fourteen and then again at sixteen. She lived with him scene she was thirteen and makes do, by getting her GED or so that what I heard. She stays at home with the kids, as he's out looking for younger asses to tap. Christina dropped out at the start of this year... I think... I think it was this year?

Maddie walks up to me like she is protecting me: 'We brought our own.' Maddie slaps the vodka in her purse. And said to him- 'She doesn't need you lipping her anything.' 'Ba-Bye!' 'Clever!' Ray thumbs his nasty middle finger beating the side of his forehead, nearly stabbing his right eye out.

One because he is drunk as a skunk. Two he needs glasses and doesn't have contacts in... why I don't know. Maybe that's why he has a hard time getting his key on the whole? He's drunk-er-er than I thought. Maddie covers her mouth with her left hand and giggles like a little school girl. I groan and roll my eyes- like this is going to be a lonnnnggg night! I say to Maddie and Liv.

'My boyfriend's such a blockhead,' I say as soon as he wobbles away tripping over all the bodies. Maddie- 'You've said it.' 'But a cute idiot,' Liv modifies what I said. 'I said yeah, he is... he's my cute idiot.' He's walk looks like something from the walking dead, all zombified.

I couldn't stay mad at Ray deep down I felt like he had to do it with her, to not get picked on by the others. And it's not like I haven't had my share of guys. Maybe he did want his first time to be with a girl like me, all used up? She is everything I couldn't be, and everything I should be, and everything I would have been if I would have never fallen to everyone's pushing me so young. But most of all I filled at being me. I think Jenny was behind it, I just feel she is, if she can't have him, she doesn't want me to either. She no how he is when he drinks.

(Chatting with the girls)

Maddie- 'I would love him too if he didn't have that nasty dingily thingy hanging on there that need to see a knife, all the girls- like- have been saying that you're the only one that didn't care. That's why some girls are calling you dirty. Maybe I would consider looking at it if he would have that done as he said to her, he would and that's why she did.'

'You know Maddie that's like saying a transgender is cute.' She giggles,

'Sure- it does... Maddie said- sure it does.' 'I'm I am missing something here?'

Maddie- 'Yes, yes- you are.'

Liv's observing what going down around the room, puckering her lips to make them appear more smoochable, she takes a selfie and sends it to Maddie.

'Aww-h cute- I overhear, yet she is standing next to her.' 'Anywhere where did you guys go, anyway?' In mid-sentence, it hit me what Maddie meant. I thought since when did Ray became so cute? Then I got it. Other than his little issue holding him back he would be such a lady's man. That is the only thing turning the girls away from sleeping with him.

It- must be?

I felt so betrayed. I'm feeling more annoyed than I should by the whole thing and everything: I feel like ripping my hair out and running out the door saying you all can go to hell. But that is when the girls start their step team dance cheer thingy. Beating the floor and stopping around, will rapping insults to the boys' team.

Maddie and Liv do the chest bump thing. Yet I lost in my thoughts with all the circumstance thinking that my besties ditched me tonight, and let all this crap go down, and that is pissing the crap out of me. The point that Ray so butt drunk, and the point that Marcel is still looking at me like, I love you, I want to sleep with you look. He's talking with Jenny.

I think I overhear her saying. 'You'll find someone daddy. She'll come around when she realizes you're the one that loves her.' Not that I want him to be in love with me, understandably, yet I do find it adorable. That even after seeing what went down, like he still only has eyes for me, that's so dreamy.

#- Hashtag: (Sortie's get'n low, dropped off, and more hole in ones then a game of golf.)

I remember us as kids Marcel made me glad, we had each other, and you made me giggle, and if I could do it all over again, I would not change that. I just wish he was still like that or is he? Was it me that got all weird? Looking at our life, I see forks in the road, and choices made, the trips we took, the voyages we had. My pap used to say something like this- 'We fall to someone wholeheartedly, and you never stop fallen to them until you fall your sprite ways at death, but you have to fall to them as they fall to you. In a crazy thing called life, and mine has been filled with bliss, because I fell for you as my granddaughter, just like I fall for your grandma. Falling to you, mean love everlasting never falling about, always fallen together.

You'll know when you have fallen for the right one.' It's just an unbroken comforting feeling, weirdly.

I struggle the bottle out of Maddie's bag and take another sip. I need it! 'We made around the house like three and had our get-togethers. There's, like, ten different rooms up here and down there.' 'Did ya have to check em' all out?'

Liv gawks at me, seeing my face, and holds up her hands as Macaulay Culkin did in Home Alone to her dropped jaw face. 'What Kar? It's not like we abandoned you in the middle of nowhere. You're a big girl.' I was thinking yeah-right comforting.

'Don't trust people... they have to make you have a reason to trust them, yet never- ever turn your back, because you never know who is going to stab it. You're only wanted when you're needed. And that's the truth. Truth is a lie to make others feel okay. That is why I don't believe anything anyone tells me unless I feel that it right. And even my rights in my mind have been wrong. Trust is for baby girls and simple-minded- spiders'- that don't know any better.'

I will not cry, I would rather die than a painful so death, then to cry over a boy in front of my friends. I look at Liv's face all-loving and such. I think- god I'm such a little p*ssy. Like she's right. I don't know why I'm feeling so pissy, and detestable. As well as she's looking at me like- you did get what I wanted. I guess you can't have it all, the way you want. 'Where did Jenny go?' Maddie asked me.

Oh! She's off making Marcel feel good, about not getting with me tonight. Maddie asks me- Karly would you, if you would, like would you be willing to with him? I just said I don't know, maybe? 'O-M-G! Like You FALL IN LOoooVE WITH HIM TONIGHT!' 'I DID?' 'Um-hum!' She Hummed. 'Like your eyes were never off him.' I thought- maybe like I never fall out? I was so confused like you would think, I was the one that was a girl in the room. 'Maddie is now glugged to Liv's lap, there sitting next to me on the sofa lip locked. I was thinking like this is fun. And Jenny is fighting with Ray about me.' I do believe that Jenny and her Ex-boyfriend may have had some hardcore makeup sex tonight. However, that's just a rhymer, I overhear going around. I lost track of all the Ex's it could have been any one of these guys.

'You never know how much time you'll have.' So, I thought the best way to spend it was partying my ass off with those I thought were my friends and the perfect boyfriend. (However, looking back at the dying girl looking for the borderlines, I see where I should have been. I see the arms that should have been held in.) It's the outlandish world. Living for other observations and expectations. 'Love is merely where it is, where it's at, where it going to be, and never- ever changes. But you have to let that love you in regardless of you shutting them out.' Back on the sofa- As I said- 'Maddie is suctioned to Liv's lap. And Jenny is fighting with someone's girlfriend now, and Samara Still is stroking off Christopher Work's willy in my ear, she is pressed up on the sofa cushion with her small chest, with her knees churched down in, facing the back he is standing like, right behind me behind the sofa. I want to say she like a seventh grader, if not she looks it. He is in my grade also. That's a lovely sight and sound. Is it not?'

(My thoughts drift off, as I hear every fap- fap- fap of every beat. Like ticking-talking every second of my life away.) Yucky! Like no wonder Liv and Maddie became gay lovers, I get it. I'm like seventeen and I already hate everything about sex. It makes us girls feel used, and valueless in a man's mind.

I have to think that all boys are like that, except for my daddy, unless your dad is like some girls, I know that's correct. Your daddy is the one that holds your hand, picks you up and on his shoulders so you can see, he's the only boy that not trying to get something from you.

'Love your daddy.' Even if I never said it. Even if you embrace the piss out of me. Even if you made me feel as if I was not always there, or you were there too much. Even if you were snooping in my room. I will always be your little girl, always.

'Yeah, well, as everyone has is like kissing all around me for the five minutes. I look over there and its Maddie and live, flicking tongues and look over the other way and Samara and Chris are sucking face. I'm like the only girl that didn't get an awesome long tender kiss today. Even Marcel got a kiss a long sexy kiss from Jenny because she felt bad for him. Ray and I only kiss for thirdly seconds... if that.

'I yell out all-righty stop it already.' Liv- 'What's your problem?' 'You to have been going at it the whole time you set here, like hello I here.'

The cracks Maddie up and Liv starts laughing. It's making me feel crappy, and even more comfortable. The vodka fills my head with warmth. More people are arriving as some are leaving going to cheap hotels or campers in the backyard for the night.

To sleep it off, or to get off. One of the two, most likely. No one just talks to anyone anymore. It's all sex, sex, and more sex.

So, I get plastid sipping increasingly of the nasty stuff, and Maddie hands me something to pop a forget pill. At this point, I'll like all pop anything... it works fast. I all chill down; I see the faces just like I do in my dreams. The room is spinning just a little. Yet it feels enjoyable, though, like being on a creepy sluggish merry go 'round, with the creepy music, all jacked up like evil, and clown-like. I feel like I did when I play- ring around the rosy, as a little girl, the drug took me back there. Maddie and Liv decide to go on an undertaking to save Jenny before her catfight with that girl over there turns into an extreme scuffle. The wondering eyes are on me; he's never looked away yet. Damn it appears like the entire Clit high school has shown up, like even the middle school kids too. I know that like 200 were invited, however it looks like there is about 500 teen and tweens here. A tween is a girl ages about 914... too old for toys, but too young for boys. Yet those are the ones the senior boys like the most because of their easy, and down for anything that they ask them to do... I should know that's how I lost my virginity.

The boys that are under 18 are like if I'm under and she's under were not doing any time if she consents, and even if she doesn't there are several guys around to say she did, and she most likely wants it she not saying anything. She wants to be a popular girl in high school coming up. Girls will do anyone or anything to be popular and not a loser that is bullied. I should know I had to do it.

This is the most that ever seen shows up at one party... for-reals- I didn't think- like- Marcel was so cool with the in-crowd? The house is trashed. Popularity wise me and the girls are the highest, and everyone else here is more mid-level most of the senior girls that are on the homecoming court have left already with their boyfriends for the night.

Popularity wise- Marcel just holds the top spot in his class in my eyes, he is like the rung ladder to his posies, more like the jester. Too wired to be one of use, and too unique to be one of them. And there is a lot of low life in here like the tweens, looking for a boy toy popularly boost.

He seems to be in with more of the sophomores and younger, that mostly be the cool kids when we graduate, I have to say like they could be cool sophomores, I wouldn't mind gotten to know some of them if it would be cool for me to do so. It's all part of being a girl that's a teenager.

Party time Part 3

Maybe I'm in the wrong crowd? I know I'm supposed to hate them and hate on them, yet I can help but like them, they're nice kids. Just because I'm older and more popular, I'm supposed to treat them like crap...? I can't see that. When I am just sitting on my ass feeling left out by my peps. I remember being like them like I was hated when I was sophomore from all the senior girls at the parties, yet most of us girls in my class didn't have their rankings yet, it's understandable.

I can't bring myself to care, I'll talk or be with anyone, I find fit. I know it's breaking the popularity rolls, but that's okay by me. Liv gives a group of them one of her stink eyes as she goes by them. Yet she does that with anyone she doesn't try to get to know.

Maddie is on the character. Says 'Young skanks, ho-ing it up!' vociferously. One of them, Chrissa Dillard Is rolling around ass naked on the floor, hooking up Brice Rice (a senior boy.) There is a lot of that going on, with the tweens and older boys. Hell- It's more like a coming of age party, then a beer bash, at this point.

The social bottom doesn't ever show their loser faces. They would not even get past the door. Like the sped and undesirables rejects the loosest of the lowlife.

The stay home and creep on Facebook, they're never invited to anything, nobody wants them or would care if they're gone. Harsh but true! It isn't for the reason that people would make fun of them, although they undoubtedly would. It's more than that. They don't hear about these parties until after they've transpired. And nobody likes them, they have no friends or contacts, and that's the way we want it, they can't make a move up without us knowing or approving. They can have any friend online or in real life unless the popular approve the contact.

Because all we have to say is- 'If your friends with him or her, you're not friends with us anymore and you lose your ranking.' The lowlife- the more they try to be like us, like the lower they go, if we don't want them to gain popularity. We make it that way. They're so dumb that they would even think about coming in the back door where the popular's come in. they don't know about the secret side entrances to the parties, there so naïve they walk up to the guarded front door asking to get in, like come on.

Sometimes, you have to show that you got a text from some with a stancher, like the one that invited you. And yeah no if its la-jilt, because most lowlife- rejects have no cell contacts other than their mommy. To invite them... you can spot a faker. You're either in the loop or pushed out. And just like a bad dog they get slapped on the nose, they are told to go home and cry to mommy, for sucking at life.

Its 2015 everyone has a fake ID, not like we need them for Marcel's party, but they do come in handy for the night joints, and bars. I have a visa card, school ID, and a suspended driver's license. However, I am a good driver compared to Jenny, yet Jenny can get away with anything. I know boys that like to spend all their weekend time in the strip clubs. I have never seen Marcel at one of those, however, Ray has had a lap dance, and it wasn't from me, or so I was told. Would that be considered cheating? I am getting thirsty so I am going for a beer or two, maybe three. If everyone else is drinking it like it has to be okay. The DJ keeps the beats coming, making sure everyone has a glass as well, and is having a good time. The laser lights are going nuts, flashing colors on the walls, floor, ceiling, and mobs of kids. The house is trashed; everyone it's wasted or stoned.

There are even thongs hanging from the chandelier. And about five minutes or so ago, like I saw Bob Zaza Tarzan swing from it, form the upstairs landing down to the living room dance floor. It would have been okay with me if he would have been wearing pants. That's a Facebook photo, that I will tag him in. Daisy Clemenza is crowd surfing.

Oh, that reminds me, like there is one of my favorite thongs hugging form Marcel's rearview mirror of his 2014 Toyota Corolla. He is one strange boy, it's kinda sweet... Kinda? I wonder where Ray is? High school is supposed to prepare you for the real world, I could just imagine college parties and spring break.

I get up and do some walking around. I was sick of seeing this suck fest in the living room. There are several tiny passages and rooms, it feels like a maze, in this place. Only one door is closed, with a boy's boxer hanging on the nob. I like a sign to keep out were doing the nasty and we don't want you seeing it. I had planned on using a big ass sign that says: 'KEEP THE HEEL OUT' and post it on the master's door... yeah, that was not needed.

I passed one girl that was using a pocket rocket on another girl. Um-okay doesn't look... yet it's hard not to. I walk more, and I pass Melissa Franc a freshman, she was downing a bobby shot, that has been poured down Nicki Dickerson small of her petite back running down into her very naked ass crack where Melissa's mouth is slipped under... it's freaking sick and awesome all at the same time.

Everyone in that room is cheering for her, (Melissa's! Gulp it! Lick it up!) Or maybe making fun or her doing it. One of the two, she is going to be a YouTube star with her freshmen hazing, I mean her lips are touching Nikki's lady lips. Or maybe she wanted it?

Oh, cool some random ass freshmen girl just flashed me... running past. But like her t*ts are bigger than mine... what gives? I think I'll pass on showing mine. Walking down the hall that never seems to end. I wonder what Madilyn is doing at this very moment?

I could see her like kissing a photo of Maddie and making out with it in her bed, before doing what she needs to do, and then roll over to fall asleep, all alone with just a teddy bear. It's a sad thought... like here I am having all this fun, and she is lonely. (She needs a cuddle buddy and so do I. Ha- maybe I should sleep with her tonight?) I wonder if she and Maddie will ever hook-up, Hey, anything is possible...? I hope she finds someone.

Someone, that will see her for who she is, and not what people around her think she is. 'I see her... but have to un-see her for my friends, friendship.' I walk into the bathroom and sit down on the pot. I'm not going to say, what I was doing- I think you'll get it. Looking on the wall next to the crapper, some ass hole drew a naked girl cartoon with a big d*ick going up in her, and it said above... it was Maggie.

'This is what it looked like her first time.'

With the word 'Ouch!' coming out of the drawing's mouth. I got some paper towels and washed what I could off, yet I don't think it did any good. Marcel is going to have to paint over that before his parents come home at the end of the weekend. Or they will go ape on his ass! I have to say I am grossed out! I didn't want to go in here, but a girl has to do what a girl has to do. Flush! I stride out.

Walking, walking, and walking! And that's when I walked into Marcel's room. The door was cracked, it's the typical nerdy boy's room, stuff all over. I like the big king-sized bed even if it's undone. I have to do some snooping. There is a photo of me under his pillow. I had to pick the pillow up and smell it... creepy- I know... it's a girl thing. I walk to the dresser, and I snatched a pair of his undies from the top drawer... two can play that game. Like why does he have so many anyway? Like who wears black socks? I found a cute T-shirt, that I could not resist taking for my own.

I know he wouldn't mind, if I wear it for the rest of the night, and not wash it and give it back at some point. I think he would like that. I put on over my dress at first, oh it's black with the saying- 'Kiss me I'm Desperate.' I felt it was appropriate for the night I was having. That when I thought- nah, I am taking off this dress and bar off.

So- there I was naked standing in his room, I sure there was a hidden camera somewhere, but I didn't care... it's like I had to do this... I felt so devilish. And I don't understand why, but I ran from the door and jumped into his bed and pulled the covers over, and they were so soft next to my bar skin. 'Awe-hhh- so nice!' I may have even dozed off for a minute or two. It has to be the softest bed I ever wiggled around in. hugging a pillow and with one between my legs. It's a girl thing, I can't expand. Looking around there is everything you could want at your fingertips. TV, PC, guitars, books and so much more.

I jumped up when I thought I heard someone coming down the hallway. And I did... I did see someone pass they looked in but didn't say anything. I need to learn to closes the door... like I scream at my sis for that.

So, I slid my unclothed butt and laid business on his cozy sheets getting out of the big, and that is when I put on his T-shirt. Dancing around in the mirror-like a maroon of course. I grabbed the handbag that I place on the floor walking in. I reimaged out my thong and jeans that were in my purse. Then I placed my bra and the dress in there as a rolled-up ball.

By the time we get to Jenny, she broke up yet another couple and has made it with yet another boy, big surprise. That has to be boy number five tonight...? She if fight for her boy with yet another girl. She's sitting on his lap and he's smoking they are sharing a joint and suck the smoke out of each other's mouth every time they take a bong hit.

They're the cutest couple ever. I have to find out his name... like who is he? The girl that was his date or one-night stand left out the front door all pussies- like, leaving in some lowlife rejects that can be held back. I guess she can sleep with one of them tonight outside in a tent. Ha!

#- Hashtag: (bedhead, swiping, peaking, and making the change)

I back on the dance floor, Liv is standing corner with Dan Dilco who is press upon her snugger than a PP and J sandwich. I read the words coming out of her mouth, it looks like- 'I took care of it.' and 'I don't want to see you. Get something out of my face.' Maddie comes up and clocks in right in the face, his nose is beading, he runs into the next room with a sophomore girl named Veronica, he got her too. I think she is showing some. She chose to be dumb and keep the oopsie.

I see Shy and she is pressed up against the wall and she's semi-dancing and a half grinding against him my boyfriend. Ray will say he's where just having fun... if I walk up, so I not going to break it up. It's okay with me.

Shy is nothing but a wall follower now that she lost most of her rank. There both smashed anyways, I dought they'll do anything other than barf on each other and dance 'till they drop. Dan was sobbing like he wanted the baby or something.

Every girl he has had sex with has to take something... or finds out too late. Like does he want to be a 17-year-old daddy, and throw away his life... or worse hers for that thought? Boys they don't think; it is good that we girls do that for them! Liv has a half-gone cigarette flaccid-like dangling from her lips, she smokes a- lot when she is under the gun, or she skips a period. She doesn't shake her ashes... she just inhales.

In these low-ride jeans, I was thinking- I should have warned- my tight leggings because I see a lot of the girls here are wearing black ones. It must be- the new thing? Oh, why do boys come up to you and think it's okay to make a random dance move and rub up on you? And then they use their heavy arms to keep their footing, most times feeling your butt end, also.

My hair's a mess. I see it in black form night window glass. It's from falling asleep in Marcel's cozy bed, and Ray's hands running through it. Like even though I know I'm an attractive girl, I don't always feel beautiful. I wish I had someone in my life that would make me feel beautiful all the time, even when I know I don't. I do think there is someone that would make me feel that way... there has to be.

Oh, life- 'life is a slut that makes us bend and bangs over and over every day... humping it until it has enough of you.' Oh, boys- 'boys are d*icks heads that penetrate us over and over any way they can. Mentality and physically.'

'Life sucks butt, but sucking butt is life. And when you die- like- I did you miss sucking butt.'

'Mom and dad and little sisters are a pain in the neck, but it's nothing like having some random man mortician seeing you naked on a table shoving embalming liquid in your neck artery.' I was floating over like; I could see it all as he was doing it.

I remember, Frank said as he touched my hair, and ripped the sheet off me completely- 'Awe- such a young pretty little girl, what a shame her life is over. Why? Why is it always the young ones... that never did anything wrong?’ I think- he was taken back by me or something. It was like he didn’t want to cut me up. Like I was too beautiful to him, to do such a thing.

I remember, him touching my hand and stroking it- ‘Saying your time was too short... there just was not enough time...’ and he whispered it again- ‘Not enough time...’ I was looking down thinking this must be hard on him, like having to do this with every dead person. Like how could you do this a job?

But, it really, I think it was hard on him when it’s a teenager like me, never see life other than high school.

(Life in high school is not a life at all it’s a pretend world to what life after graduation will be. There is so much more than getting wasted, partying, and hooking up. So much more...)

(If he only they knew... I did a lot wrong.)

Like, cheating on my math test in thread grade. Peeing in the shower onto my sis when we were younger. Even spitting in her orange juice every morning, before school. Nasty little things like that, I was not blameless. I remember the day I said to my sis, that I wished that she would never be born... I didn’t mean it.

(I do love her! And will look out for her.)

I remember, picking on her all the time, just because she was frailer. I would get onto her and reseal her down. I even put a pillow over her had one night saying stop freaking snoring. (I am not above suspicion.) Just because I like to look cute, sweet, and loveable doesn’t me that I not disagreeable, vail, and worthless. And I am valueless! Only one boy thought I was valuable, and he went and got all creepy, or was it me that became the creep? I did so much wrong, I would love to have do-overs until I get it right.

I drift off and think about how funny it is that my dad is always in his lazy boy chair, barking orders on Sundays. He loves the Game Show Network; he has to do his Steve Harvey impressions too.

Yeah know- smelling big and such.

However, his favorite show is the Newlywed Game. He bursts out laughing, with the question Sheri Shepherd asks. Some of them are dirty! Like last Sunday I was doing something, in the living room, and I heard something about a- Lush underbrush. And the back door.' I just got up and left him to have his moment. I was thinking so gross! Yet I can't help but snicker!

I snap out of it- 'Poor Liv,' I say. I don't know why I suddenly feel bad for her. 'She's too nice. That has always been her downfall.' Plus, boys will piss on you without the decency to call it to rain. Just like Jenny, she let boys piss on her all the time.

And yes, you could take that literally if you wanted too. 'She's a whore,' Maddie says, but not spitefully. She knows that she has to be to keep the sanity within the click. I don't think Maddie gets that she not interested in him, maybe she just wanted to have a baby? So that she has something that is all hers? And that's something Maddie could give her? Either way, it all ended today with Jenny's say and not hers. I said- 'Liv's not the whore, Jenny's just making you think that. Put yourself in her shoes. You don't care, she does.'

'Do you think we'll remember, any of this?' Maddie asks me. I said- 'I don't remember what I eat last, so I don't think so.'

I said- 'Maddie What the point in remembering... you only have regret.' She said- 'It's so you don't forget that there is hope before you die.' 'Hope to die?' she said- 'You get to have hope, or life is not worth living.'

Me- 'This is coming for the girl that's faith is shaken by some boy hooking up with your girlfriend?' I'm not sure where the words come from or what end or side. I think out of her butt hole, or maybe you could have called- it a quaff. She's talking out of her holes! My whole head feels light and uncertain, all set to drift away.

Maddie- 'Do you think we'll remember any of it two years from now?' I said- 'Who knows...' I thought about it more and said- 'Like maybe when you and I are old and crazy crapping in our Huggies in the old age home, it will come back to us.'

Maddie- 'I'll drink to that... he- he.' Then she said- 'Karly you have one distorted way of thinking, and that's why I love you as I do!'

Maddie giggles, saying- 'I know she loves me more.' Tapping the bottle lightly on my lift arm. There's a little bit of it left. I can't believe that we drank it all in less than four hours. I sip and chase it down with my beer, which I know is not a good idea, but, I did it anyway. 'Could take my picture, because I don't remember.' By this time Jenny and Kenneth have made up and are a boyfriend, and girlfriend once again, even after swearing up and down that they would never hook up again, all the same, they did they made up, and not there kissing up and it's sickening- yet- NO- big surprise.

That the way that has been seen they were in middle school; they thrive off one another love and hate. They can live with each other or without. Now Liv is sitting Maddie's lap and smoking her joint. Just like Jenny is doing with Kenneth.

Marcel is looking at me from the corner of the room with puppy dog eyes.

Maybe on slow dance wouldn't heart? So, I walked over and asked him to dance. It was nice, he wasn't creepy at all, and it was kind of sweet. He's leaning against the wall and I am pressed upon him and out of nowhere I just kiss him like I never kissed another.

Where half dancing and I am half grinding against him, he's so in love with me I can just tell and making out. I never- ever thought that would happen. Ray is off with his little slut for the night anyways. It's time for me to have some fun too. Two can play the cheating game! Isn't spitefulness fun!

Jenny cries when she sees us and stumbles off when she is on Kenneth's lap.

Jenny never cries! What is up with that?

But, is she crying over me been with Marcel or him? They walk up after are slow dances are over, Jenny and ken throwing an arm around each of us like it's been years since we were together, and we all are old buddies. She snatches the vodka from me and takes a sip while her arm is still wrapped around my shoulders, Jenny's face is so close to mine, I can feel her eyelashes brush against my cheek. I forgot- I was still holding it when I had my arms wrapped around Marcel's neck.

I guess I was lost in the moment.

'Where did you go tonight Kar?' She yells. Her voice is raspy but loud, even over the music and the wide-ranging sounds of everybody talking and laughing like idiots. 'I was looking everywhere for you.' 'I was sitting here all night,' I said, 'total bull-crap,' Ken, and Jenny says, 'we saw you coming out of his room.'

All sneaking like out of his room like you just had sex. And you obtusely changed, what did he do jizz all over your dress?' 'Nothing happened - I was just looking around.' Ken- 'Yeah we got it, you were looking up while kneeling on the ground, in his room. Am I right? And then you to end up naked together in his bed slapping hips?'

I said- 'You're so wrong and nauseating.'

Ken- 'Suuurrrre!' I said- Why do you care anyway? Ken- 'Why? Like so we can tell everyone that matters that you got some tonight!' I said- 'Is that all you think about?' Ken- 'Um- yeah purdy much, that all that matters at a party.' I run to the bathroom, they make me sick, and I hear Ken say- 'She's got morning sickness already.'

Ha- ha ha's are coming from everywhere. Ken, he is such an ass! I let poor Marcel stand there to define for himself. I was so embarrassed saying I was in his room without him okaying it. I wonder what he said, we did or didn't do, to them? I wonder if he figured out that I was wearing his T-shirt when I ran away? Thank you- toilet rim for being cold, it makes my head feel better, after vomiting beer and vodka.

Party time Part 4

I have to un-lock myself from this bathroom before someone thinks I'm ending it. I spend thirty minutes in the bathroom, first washing my face and then reapplying makeup, even though my hands are unsteady, and my face keeps doubling up in the mirror, with my eye movements. I know at some point. My head is still fuzzy and pounding with every move or eyelid blink I make. I was trying so hard to not think yet this popped into my mind. 'If you don't have trust, you don't have anything. And if you don't trust them you lose them to someone that well.'

Jenny sees me down the hall and runs to my side... Saying- 'Come on back. You're- such a baby, we didn't mean anything by it.'

Jenny is such a bull-craper and Maddie drunker and then me and with her. Liv is like a little girl on Ritalin when she has a sip too many and I'm antisocial and paranoid, and someone cracks a window to let out the smoke and sex stink yet know does. There like are you nuts, it's freezing out... that was the look on their cold-hearted faces, everyone in the room is like icebergs to me, and I felt like the Titanic about to sneak, no mercy, no compassion. I was a-nobody among everybody.

I think Marcel went to his room to see what all I did or did not do. I think Ray most of went out to a camper or up to one of the rooms with his little slut for the night. I could not see that boy around anywhere. Whaaattteeevvveeer, Jenny saw me scratching my neck looking for him. Jenny said- 'He'll be back to kiss your goodnight at some point.'

'Who?'

I asked, Jenny- 'You know who!' I walk back to his room not sure what to expect. I see him standing next to his bed. I think he was planning on getting naked to sleep or something. I sit down with him on top of it, we start talking- he is playing with my hair, I did not boys know how to make small talk. We're laughing over the fact that Jenny is such a stuck-up b*tch. We talked about Maddie and Liv having issues because of her. I even told him that Liv terminated Dilco's baby.

That's we he said- 'Hey Karly was you and I make a baby would you do that?' I said- 'No.' I end up laying on top of him, and we talked and talked. I said- 'You want to have a baby with me?'

Marcel- 'I don't know, I want to spend my life with you so, yeah someday or sooner, that's if you want kids... or like me like that.' I put my arms around his waist. I pulled ever so slowly toward him as he did me. The kiss was hard yet soft, it was fiery yet passionate, romantic, it was filled with a hunger for each other, the hunger I had for him oh so long ago. It was also filled with affection, he showed me he loves me with that kiss. But can I love him back can I show it, or do I want to?

Even though we have kissed before it seemed like the first. It felt as if the whole world stilled for us. As if fireworks and explosions went off. As if all eyes were looking into each other's souls. I could see into him as he could- me... I just wonder what he saw looking in. I wonder if he really wants me, forever or if that just a line. I wonder... even if we felt all these emotions.

Even though I feel them for him, I had to hold back, to know for sure. I just had to hold back. That's we he drifted off... Why did he fall asleep on me? Was it because I'm boring or is he just exposed? My head thumping still, I know was not thinking clearly, so I staggered back down the long hallway back into the dwindling party. I see one of the double-hung windows. Without anyone observing I reach my hand forward and place it on the big old sill, there is an electric candle with a night light bulb sitting in the middle. I crack the window to let out the smoke and smells out, and to get some much-needed air.

A fine stream of rain-snow is gusting in on my face, it's cold but feels so-o good, even though it's winter. Enjoying the freezing air and the sensation of a hundred of little sparkly flakes.

I squeezed my eyes closed tightly and promise myself that I'll never forget the moment I just had with him. Funny I wanted to forget about all the sound, the tacky lights, and smells of my friends and their mindless hilarity that were tittering about. For some reason... I wanted to forget about all the heated hookups and the many bodies that were around me. What surpasses me the most about this, is that this is what I lived for and sacrificed so much to gain... to have the gathering and wanting of others that are popular, it's everything I ever wanted. Yet it seemed at that moment, I was better off before not having it. Before I became this girl... the girl that I'm not... not truly on the inside.

When I open my eyes, I get the shock of my life. My little sis is standing in the doorway, staring at me. With that look of holding me. She must have snuck out and followed me to this party with some of her older girlfriends, she been messing with the wrong crewed lately. I knew what happen to her tonight just by looking at her face, I knew. And if I find that boy, I'll rip his sagging balls off! Then again, I was not much older than her when I went to my first party. I was horrified, she is doing what I did, back when I felt like I was dying inside. I was dead long before I wound up dead. I just wonder if she feels the same...? I wonder if I am the cause. I how would let her in... and how did she get so popular already?

I swear there is not going to be a virgin in the house after tonight like come one some of these girls are young. I guess when you're a boy that's is high, drink or whatever you can see that. My little sis looks a lot older than she is when she wears my makeup, she could pass for about a freshman to these boys.

My words for her where- 'Go home, take a bath and you can cry and tell me about it when I get home. But leave now. Get home before mom blames me or see that you're going!'

She said- 'Mom thinks at a slumber party with Justen.' I said to her- 'Okay... (In my mind, I was thinking more resign to heat on Justen.) Go home then... but go home- please, I think you have been all grown up enough for one night. I'll see you when it cracks daylight or sooner than that, but you need to sleep your buzz off.' Her mascaras- like- was running down her little face. Before she walked away sis wanted a hug. But I didn't hug her back, I was too mad or upset at her.

I feel reasonable for her god knows I have to; mom and dad don't get it. She likes how old... they should like to know that she not at a slumber party, that what babies do. I'll never forget her sweet little hair pulled back into a long ponytail, and I think it's the first time I've ever really seen her face, and that it looks so precious.

Shockingly, she's there, but it's even more shocking that she's pretty. She is pretty, sweeter and cuter than me. Clear and white skin, pink lips. Every boys' dream! I couldn't stop gawking at her. Kellie has amazing big almost turquoise eyes that open wide and slight rosy cheekbones, like a model. And the best part of it all is her boobs look at big as mine. People are nudging and pushing us because she's and, I am obstructing the entranceway, but we just stood there, anyways when we had that chat.

Oh, I forgot to say that a girl was peeing behind a car when looking out. It's kind of slipped my mind. It's a cold night those intents better have a snuggle buddy to stay warm, and a good sleeping bag.

Maddie and Liv catch a glimpse of her walking by, and their mouths both drops open. 'What the... hell... is that relay

Karly little sister?' Jenny and her boy turn to see what we're both of them staring at. I see Shy- looking to form the steps. Jenny goes ashen at first-she looks afraid, which is beyond strange, for her... because of her- the type to say you're never too young to go down and get down. She loves to see young girls fall to their knees; I call it- 'Fallen too You.' It's when you get up everything for a boy, like your dignity, pride, and justice.

When you fall in every way- to me, it's not about love... I have a hard time believing in something that I don't find too real for me or can trust... like pap said- I should. Times have changed. To me, it's trying to keep it, after the fact.

That's color of Jenny her skin is never that natural looking. What was the look on her face all about?

Maddie begins giggling hysterically until she doubles over and has to cover her mouth with both hands. I don't know what she could find funny. Then I see it Ray and Justen are love drink doing it on the pole table, with my little sis just eyeing it all up.

She knows- Ray is my guy, and Justen is her new besties.

'God save me if you can hear me!' I am ready to rip someone's head off and the skin that goes with it. 'I can't believe it,' she- my sis says. 'I can't believe it.' She looks back at me- like I know your heart has broken. Justen looks at her and said- 'OH MY GOD' get her out of here. She was her to dance not see this. I grab her by the back of her short dress and take her into the next room and said. 'It's okay, everything is going to be fine no damn it go home!'

She said- 'Know it's not... Kar-ley I did a No-no!' (She still baby talks.) You're never going to forgive me. I said- 'I know you had sex, for the first time tonight.' She said- 'Yes, but...' I said- 'But... what... go on.' She starts subbing. She said- 'It was Ray that did it to me, up in the master bedroom. He said- 'That you would think it would be okay because I knew him.' 'So, I believed him.' She added- During sex I bleed a lot out of there (and the point) and it hurt so much Karly, I cried the whole time. But I felt close to him... How was it I ask? And then she dropped the shocker of a lifetime. She said- 'I think I am in looovvveeee with your boyfriend, yet Justen just ripped him away.

She asks me the most complex question ever coming from the mind of a ten-year-old. 'So, which of us girl do you think he loves the most? Is it me, you or her?' I said- 'I don't know...' she looks puzzled by that... just like I could not believe that I didn't say- me.'

Kellie said- I feel a little sore but other than that I am a hundred percent perfectly fine emotion Madilyn and physically, up till this point at least.' I whispered in her ear- 'Aww sis, boys will say anything to get you to do what they want. She has her head on my chest. No, I am not mad at you. I'll take care of this, 'I am not mad'- I said once more. On the other hand, inside I was pissed, she had the night that I have been planning for a long time.

I whispered- 'Sis now would you go home. I looked into those big sad eyes and said the only man you can trust is daddy remember that. Said- 'Okay, I- I- will.' We got up both heartbroken, I walked her to the door, I was asking around if someone would give her a ride back into the city and get her home safely. (She left and that was the last time I ever saw her, and no- I didn't hug her.)

I have been betrayed, and I don't know why or who or the cause, or what for. All I know is that someone is the mastermind of all this.

But Is Ray that is malicious?

#- Hashtag: (IDK! WTF! F2F, and FC)

You know how in flicks someone says or does something wick and the record scratches and there's dead silence all of a sudden in a fast impulsive? That is the crap that went down for the thread time tonight. I was not sure if I should add this in because my sis has been hurt enough, but... it's part of the story so I will. So, the music stops, that is when everyone in the room starts to pick up on the fact that my sis just-wet herself, and was freaking out about Justen and Ray, and all around- I hear 'Pink Pisser,' you could see it through her light almost white dress. She still wet the bed from time to time and feel guilty about it when I have to wash her sheets late at night.

I have given everyone the stink eye, and the chatter started and we when off into the other room as I said. It was getting louder and louder more insistent until it's was continuous hum until it sounded like a breeze on the beach. Yet I don't think that is going to hurt her popularity really if anything her freak out is going to get her known. And everyone is going to know that she freaked out because she is in love with Ray and she did it with him. She walks slowly and confidently walks toward a car with Beth Thomas- I've never seen her look so shaken-shuffling her feet past all the campers and tents and kids around the fire.

I see Justen running after my sis half-naked. I hear my sis say to her- 'You're a b*tch, and she b*tch slapped her right a-crossed the face, which I wanted to do to, but like everything tonight someone got there before me. Justen said- 'I thought you were my friend.' There was some hair pulling and then I walk up and said- 'I should be the one that's pissed, you two- like he's my boyfriend...!' And there was like a gasp from everyone like they could be I said that... everyone was looking out the doors and windows.

I overheard Bright say in the background- 'You mean to tell me she still wants him after he did what he did to her. Disgusting what a flack!' Kellie's voice was firm and too loud like she's deliberately addressing everyone in all the rooms and yard. I'd always imagined her voice would be high-pitched like it always jerky in-such, but it was deep and kick ass like a boy's. She meant business. It's kind of slipped out what I said. I was just so livid, and I don't know why- I was done with Ray, but my emotions weren't. I see Marcel coming to my aid, in his footy PJ's, and he impressed me, and the chanting started to buzz, and he walks with me back into- like- his house- like- I was his girl. I was amazed. I saw sis being driven off down the lane, and she waved, but I didn't even look up to see.

I remember my Pap saying- 'Don't let a boy wear the pants in your relationships.'

And I remember saying back- 'Pap it's not the 1950's anymore. Like no one wears pants in a relationship anymore or at all of that matter it's a partnership.' But I didn't know just how true that was. He just grunted. It takes less than half a second for Marcel to feel a little bettered also when inside, and then before he got it out of his mouth I said- 'We're done.' His eyes got all watery. He said- 'I think your sister needs to get new friends.'

I said- 'You said it.' Everyone was shocked at what all just happened.

Maddie is still giggling yet is more a nervous giggle. Liv's mouth is still hanging opening trying to say something, but nothing's coming out.

Jenny is balling up her fists like she's thinking of clocking Justen in the face.

Which I can believe. I know that it's not for my defiance. And even though I'm infuriated and embarrassed, the only thing I can think about was Kellie being here: I never knew that she was so beautiful. Justen gets a bloody nose, but the boys broke it up before it got to be too much. I've never seen her so angry; I think her eyes are going to pop out, her head was like shaking. Her mouth is twisted into a snarl, like a hungry wolf. For an instant, she looks really ugly. I hear Justen screams as the car was going down the long lane. 'I'd rather be a b*tch than a slut than bangs her sister's boyfriend off.'

Maddie runs up to her like lightning, she is grabbing her by the shirt, and spits are coming out of her mouth, she hocked a loogie in right in her eye, and some of went into her mouth, then she walks off like Miss. Cool. Maddie is the only girl that I know that spits like that.

Yet, she a tomboy. Justen tries to shove Maddie backward, but it was an epic fall on her part. Justen stumbles into my arms and you know what I did? I just drop her.

(Thump on the ground.)

Jenny starts screaming, 'B*tch, B*tch,' and just like a slow clap everyone joins in, everyone follows Jenny, regardless. That is when I ripped some random ass guy's beer out of his hand and overturn it onto her head.

I said- 'That's for my little sis.' And then I kicked her in the ribs, (I am sure two snapped) and said- 'B*tch that what you get for what you did to me tonight.' Jenny said- 'Damn girl, when did you get so tough.' I said- 'I'm not... it's because I love my sis, and blame Justen.' Jenny said- 'Is that so...' (Thought to myself- what did that mean?) 'You should blame Ray,' she said. I didn't even realize I'm screaming along with everybody else until my throat got sore. It could be sore for other reasons too... yeah, that's a possibility.

-You can see McCrory's shop in the background.

(Funny I would have much rather it has been Marcel's crammed down then Rays tonight. I can believe I just thought that.)

Liv does the unthinkable and smashes the vodka bottle over Justen's head.

Saying- 'That one way to get rid of it.' It was empty anyway. We all knew that she would be stumbles away from that anytime soon. She was knocked out. Before Liv did that Justen gives me a look after the beer was dump out over her head... yeah know- I can't explain it- it's silly- but it's almost looked like a pity look like she felt bad for what she did to me, like she had to do it or something, but didn't want to. It was not over Maddie dropped her jeans in pissed right on her face, and took a small dump on her chest- her goodies were visible to everyone, but that's Maddie she's crazy. All of the breath leaves my body in a rush, as Liv shoves tampons up her nose, and we all walk away.

'Payback is a b*tch!'

I feel like I've been punched in the ovaries, and I was slogged in the stomach... by you gusset, it Ray. He still loves drunk, off all the humps, rumps, and lumps he had tonight. Saying- 'What the hell are you guys doing to her? She didn't do anything to you.' I said- 'Don't even talk to me ass hole- you're missed up!'

He said- 'Fine, you're a baby anyways. And he walked off all pissed.' (He is the one to blame, isn't he?) I said when he was walking off- 'If she gets knocked up at ten by you not pulling out, I will kill you!' I know this because she just started her period last month, and I had to be like her mom and explain everything, like always.

My girls had my back... when he walked off. I think that is why he backed off. Oh yeah, without thinking, I chest bump them both as hard as I can, I felt like they saved me tonight. I am sure a fist bump would have worked but... you know.

They showed they carried for me. That is when I see Rays' phone on the windowsill, like most boys he is all laying it down... I go throw it and see an ammeter video of him taking my sis on Marcel's mom and dad's bed, I deleted it, before everyone sees it, online and on their phones. I am sure it's been sent or is going to everyone that matters. I just hope I am not too late. And just like that, I see all the sexy texts and pics, so I drop it into a full cup of beer that someone left next to it on the sill. It's bad enough she was popped and dropped like she doesn't need that too, on top of it all.

Jenny is squeezing Kenneth like she is frightened or uncomfortable by all, that is around her with all this drama. I see him- we lock eyes for a moment. I think he saw me doing it dropping the phone in. He was going out the door to aid Justen that was surely still passed out. I can't exactly tell what he's thinking, but whatever it is, it's not good. I look away, feeling hot and uncomfortable.

Like I should've done that.

Everyone's buzzing with energy now, laughing and talking about Kellie. She had everyone fooled with her age. But my breathing won't go back to usual, and the feeling of all that vodka and beer is burning the lining of my stomach, and more is creeping back up my throat, and I am holding it down. The room is muggy and feels airless revolving quicker and quicker. I need to lay down and fast or something. I overhear Marcel's voice coming from somewhere, I am so sick feeling to be 100% sure where from.

But I think he said- 'it's all going to work out.

She cares about me, and I care about her, and that's all that matters!' I was feeling 'Aaawwwhhaa cute' inside.

I try to push my way back to the sofa, but Ray gets all up in my face and blocks my way. 'What the hell was that about?' He demands me to speak. 'Get away from me, crap- can you let alone, please?' I'm not in the mood to deal with anyone, and I'm especially not in the mood to deal with Ray and his stupid explanations.

'What did- I ever do to you?'

'Boy- you got that crap backward- what did I ever do to you, if anything- I fall to your leave to date you.' I had my arms crossed, tapping my foot. 'I get it, you wanted to take a girl, and I could see that, which you did. But you should have stopped with Justen or me! Your second time was with me. I know this... your thread time was with my sis and I am pissed off about it. And your fourth was with Justen again. God, what's wrong with you! Was there more than that? You're not a virgin anymore- but she was and you were when you did it with her. I know- I'll never be your virgin girl, that you wanted.'

Is that it... am I ever- going to be good enough- to you? I got news for you- I don't sleep around as you do.' He scents his eyes at me.

'Get away from me... GETAWAY' I manage to squeeze past seeing the sofa in my sights, but he grabs my arm. 'Why?' he says. 'I don't need a why you should know the- because.'

We're standing so close together I can smell my sis's girl perfume she uses. Even though everything else is blurry, I look into his eyes and see no love. He's looking at me like he's desperate to understand, why I feel the way I do. The look like I never gave you a ring or anything, so we're free to do as we please. He was like trying her to finger out something, I was trying to read his thoughts, and it's worse, much worse than anything else he has said thus far. It's scary not knowing what a boy is thinking, and yes- I am scared of him at this moment. Then Justen comes up and puts her hands in his back pockets and starts grinding on his ass.

Like- I could not tell if she changed or not- I could not even see sight enough to tell, and the whole place smelled like crap anyways... so yeah. Anyways that is when his anger towards me pics, like never before.

The feeling I'm going to be sick is coming up again, so I make a step forward. I was terrified- and uncomfortable. I try to shake his hand off my arm, face, and boobs. He was grabbing me all over. 'You can't just grab people, you know. You can't just grab me that's for damn sure.'

You're not my boyfriend anymore, nor will you be again.' 'Oh- yeah- keep your voice up- so everyone nearby can see and hear us. I know how you like to do this crap, so the eyes are on you. Ray- Keep my hands to myself that's not you were saying before the party. Really cute Karly- you're such a mother-freaking baby- and all the time too. He said to Justen go and I'll, see you upstairs... she wiggles her bubble butt off blowing Ray a kiss.

Ray makes sure she is up in a room. I see him looking up there. That is when he knocks me down on my ass with one push of his right hand and said so loud my ears started ringing. 'I freaked your sister tonight because she is more mature than you and hotter than you'll ever be. She had the tightest p*ssy, I ever had too. And with you, it's like throwing a hotdog down a hallway.'

'Ah' - Is the sound I made it was sharp and fast. 'Look! - Get off!' He said- 'Ha- That's what she said.'

'Oh- and I am the one that needs to mature?' I said- discussed. I prospered in shaking him off of me, by talking too loud and too recklessly, and pulling away with my body. But more like I was lying on the floor, somewhat carling away.

(You could ask Maddie and she would say I was flopping around like a dead fish.) I know I sound frenetic, but I can't help it, and I know that I shouldn't. When he walked off, he said- 'I don't know what your problem is... you don't own me.' (Like in my mind before this party, I thought he owned me and was going to be my soulmate or something like that. Maybe I have been too clingy?) And there is Marcel in the background shyly obsessing over me. I would never in a million years go out with someone like Marcel.

At that moment within that thought, I look up at Ray walking up the staircase and say the same thing. Wow- how a million years can just fly by, in a girl's mind. I would reconsider like Marcel seems safe, and easy, not my type that I been going for- but I suppose he could be? Should I have... let him in tonight, when I had the chance? Maybe I should wait... there is always tomorrow.

Chapter: 59

Tomorrow is coming

Tomorrow is coming, unlike me at this moment, and like everyone else in this house. I should be riding him like he's never been ridden before. I want him to yell my name so that everyone in the house will hear. I didn't win blue rabbits for nothing. It's all in the legs... Yet back to reality. My mom said to me when I was twelve or so that I was over-sexed whatever that means.

My sis is the same as me... at that age, yet nothing said about her. Suddenly, I can't breathe, with Marcel's unbreakable starring. I was not on the sofa long. He walks into the hallway back to his room, and I follow him stubbing. He stops and I see him looking at me, and I walk up to him. Then he leans in even closer to me, than ever before so close, I can feel his breath on my cheek, his lips almost touching mine. For a second, I think he's going to try to kiss me and my heart stops.

(This is my chance should I take it or leave it?) Would I respect me if I did? Would I have respect from him if I didn't? What to do? I promised myself that I wouldn't just hook up with someone just because, any more than I wanted respect before and after. But he just puts his mouth to mine, and our lips started touching softly, he was sucking on my lower lip and then he sucked my tongue, and I did it back, the kiss last like six minutes. I just wish you could have seen it... it was that good.

I was completely breathless! So, as he put his now wet lips up to my ear and says, 'I see right into you, you're not sure about me, are you?' I said how do you know that? He said I can tell... I said back- 'I can see into you too, and I know you love me, and I love that fact. It's nice to be loved. Don't feel that I don't love you, it's just that I closeout everyone.

Love is hard for me to show. You understand that... as of now, I am in-like with you, but the love will come if you keep being so sweet to me.' I started to kiss him again! It was great! The best kiss I have ever had in my life. My heart is pounding in my chest so hard I think it will explode. Yet I need to think with my head and not my heart it has hurt me too many times in the past. He turns to look at me.

So, ten minutes have past or so, and I get a tap on the arm. So, I do a - girlie like spin around, wishing I hadn't borrowed a pair of Maddie's ruby slippers. Something twisted a little wrong, the room spins with me and I have to steady myself against the handrail of the staircase. It was Liv poking me saying- 'I am not touching you!' she said so this is where you sneaked off to. I was beginning to wonder if you went off with someone for the night. Marcel said, 'Your boyfriend's upstairs.'

Liv said- 'Yeah she knows- that he is he is putting his winner in many girls tonight.' I give her that look like go be somewhere... she got it, and said- 'I leave you too to get at it.' I gave her a side hug before she walked back into the main space. Then I said to Marcel- 'I don't even care, now that I am with you. You know he took my sis virginity tonight the creep.'

'He said- Wha-ooo, I would never do anything like that to hurt you!' 'I replayed yes I think you mean that.' He whispered- 'I do.' I asked- 'What do you think about that?' He alleged- 'I don't think it's right, and I don't think he treats you right. I think he is kinda shallow and unsympathetic, and just pathetic. Like she just a little girl.' (He is holding me.) I said- 'Yeah and they both are underage, so he's not going to get into trouble for it. All he has to do is say she consented.

And no one will believe her if she says otherwise.' 'That horrible...' 'I no!'

~*~

I may be out of my mind tonight, but Marcel is looking perfect, to me almost superhuman, in his awkwardly sexy body, that's not perfect, yet molds perfectly to me, so I guess it's perfect. I will never forget the first time I saw you, I fall in love with you, and

I remember him saying to me, not believing it.

He is not fat, but not lean, he is muscular, but not overly buff. I am falling to those lovesick eyes, so dreamy. Like a liquid shin, and above suspicion. Tick messy hair, which I want to pull, and play with, and run my manicured fingers through. He has that chiseled faces, strong jawline, which, I never really took the time to look at. His skin is soft you some scruff can be felt when cheek to cheek. He's her is somewhat dark, yet bronze under the twinkling lights. Soft white, warm skin radiating heat. Cute smile with almost straight white teeth dazzling indirect smile.

(Which do I love)

Perfect size lips soft and delicious. Long lashes, which rub against my face. He has to be tall; I have to be on my tippy toes to kiss. The only thing that is out of place is his fashion style. I would just imagine everything else is just perfect. I don't get it, but when I am holding his hand my heart is racing.

Then I thought to myself- Marcel... or him or her? 'Am I Falling Too,' you are a way that I have never fallen before? Is this me feeling genuine love? I think you know with the one I am falling too.

#- Hashtag: (up Cucking, panting, and alluring)

I see Justen looking down at me from the walkway overhead, I just gave her the finger over my shoulder without even turning around to see if he's watching me. Like I was too into feeling him all up on me. It's like a psychological instinct that comes from when little girls are born, they want to be held, it makes me and most girls feel so safe and loved. The only other man that has held me like this is my daddy. Yet daddy is not this romantic. Even before I go down the hallway, and said about Ray, Marcel already seem to know it is true, he knew. Like he already believed- that- I was falling to him. I had to think about what Jenny said. About how we would make a great couple. I know it: tonight isn't the night after all.

(Haunting whisper)

There is always tomorrow... to find out if I want to have sex or date him or whatever.

I'll have to see how it goes. You know I can't trust anyone. Even if he is one of those nice type boys. I have to feel that it's right.

The mixture of displeasure and relief is so, overpowering my mind. I knew that I would pick to have that pleasure if he keeps being so passionate and felt right. I look down the tunneling hallway my eyes feel like kaleidoscopes, yet I can figure there are kids with sparklers and the firecrackers the sounds are going off within all the colors I see. He has to hold me with my back against the walls or I am sure I would fall, I see Justen feeling the left of a rail of the stairs, walking over the entryway into their room feather down that hallway, up above me, me like they're going to slip away any second, and share the rest of the night cuddling in bed. Is tonight the night I follow him to his room and crawl in with him, or isn't tonight the night, maybe hold back until tomorrow? That kept running through my head.

Tonight, or tomorrow? Tomorrow I'll wake up and be the same, regardless if I in his bed or not. This earth will look the same, and everything will feel and taste and smell the same. What am I rushing it for, he's going to love me the same if not more is, I hold out? Maybe play that three-date rule.

My throat gets taut, just thinking about what we could be doing right now, also I have to think about Ray and Justen are doing, and my eyes start to tingle in ire, and all I can think at that moment is that it's all Ray's fault, that my sis has gone home broken-hearted.

Yet I don't want her spending the night here anyway, with him of all boys. It's funny how you can go from love to hate in seconds. Half an hour later the party starts to wind down.

Inside, everyone is just about passed out, at this point, I need to find a place to crash too. Then I thought should I, or shouldn't I? My sis is one of those shy ones around cute boys, and those are the ones you have to worried about because they are freaks between the sheets. I can see that somebody pulled the drooping icicle lights off the wall there getting crouched on by the others passing by.

They are getting tangled up in my feet, as I move. There twanging and shorting out from the broken blabs, in sparks lighting up the grime corners, like cups and broken beer bottles. You have to be careful like I see a- lot' girls with flip flops on or barefoot running around not a good idea.

I think that I'm feeling better now until I move away from the walls, but I'm starting to feel more like the girl I should be around all my friends. 'There's always tomorrow,' Jenny walked up to me and said before going up to her bed when I told her about Ray, yet she seemed not suppressed and I run the phrase over and over in my head like a chant: There's always tomorrow. There's always tomorrow. So that is what I went with thinking... I am going to be with him tomorrow night. I see myself in the ornate hall mirror is the makeup that I replayed, thinking- 'God Marcel loves this face.' Every time I put on makeup it reminds me of my mom, I used to watch me bowed over her vanity, getting ready for dates with my father-daughter dates- and it calms me down. Until I thought about how that stop and my sis got to go because, I was always going out with my friend because it not- cool- to spend time with daddy. Thinking- There's always tomorrow, to be with daddy.

Now- I see my sis bent over my vanity in my room doing that. Sometimes like I want the old days back, I could see that face, which I used to have in that glass as a flashback. Now all I see are lines running down my face, like lines of crack that I can see on the glass on the coffee table with the razor blade. Shoving a straw up my nose is not my thing either, yet Maddie and Liv seem to enjoy it.

It's the time of the night I like best when most people are asleep and it feels like the world waters are belongs lifted off my shoulders, as though nothing is in my way of having the time that I want, everywhere is darkness and quiet, soothing I like the dark, it's where I see the bright points of my day. I may sleep with Marcel tonight, with everything on that is... or maybe on the floor, I don't know yet. The groups seem not to madder anymore. Everyone is open to anything.

Hell- I may just get on top in the nude, I am sure he would love that... however, I don't know yet. It's not like I know him all that well, it may be a little creepy to creep into his room and do that, or maybe not.

Jenny is always talking in preppy girly code. Like 'Totes ma goats, boat and fur coats- 'I am just standing there... like in the replay- 'Marry Had a Little Lamb.' Uhhh? That crap gets annoy-ing! She is like a Yorkie dog barking in my ears, I surprised at how hipper she is she doesn't piss herself. I swear she bounces when she bones and talks like she can do both miles a minute.

Maddie is leaving with Liv, they're going to sleep together tonight, and you know to do a little girl on a girl too, most likely, hey good for them. There are so stinking cute together. Maddie and Liv like they just belong together take their last names Hansom and Jobs and combine them you get Hand-jobs, any everyone loves girls that give good hand-jobs. The crowd is thinning as people take off, a lot of them are driving home which is not the best thing to do with all the pain in the ass cope creeping around in the city. Looking for a teen to slam around.

But, it's still hard to move around in here or so it seems to me. Jenny keeps calling out, 'move it, excuse me, get lost, girly emergency!' all of us girls have been there, and it's not fun. Know her as I do, she probably forgets to put a tampon back in, she so freaked up drunk and high.

Nevertheless, nothing clears a room faster than referencing to a girly emergency. It's like people think a decrease, more the boys then the girls. Jenny and us girls found that out in seventh grade when we when on a field trip to Kenwood park, and I got mine after going on the phantom. You don't know if you can run, but you can walk. FUN! Ah- the thrills of being a woman, yet I was always kind of spotty.

Sometimes, I feel just like standing on a hill holding a dream catcher, wanting the perfect dream, however the only thing I seem to have is nightmares, something I wish I knew what dream I wanted to be in because it is sure not my own.

On our way to Marcel's room, I see two couples hooking up one in corners, and the other is a girl pressed against the stairwell- going hot- and heave- with some sophomore boy. Behind closed doors we hear the soft sounds of people giggling, gagging, crying and snoring. Maddie knocks her fist against each door and yells out, 'I don't need any condoms and she points to Liv lady- business, each time, saying but you all do, you can have mine.' She put them on the hall table. Maddie- 'Were heading off to bed to do the bump and grind.' Then- Liv said to everyone in the rooms- 'Yes I am going to suck and bit Maddie's forbidden fruit tonight.' The ones that were awake that all cheered them on.

(All Right!)

Jenny turns around and whispers something to Maddie, and Liv and that really shuts them up, and they both look at me shamefacedly. 'What's that all about?' I want them to know that I don't care what they do. Or is it something else? What's Jenny keeping from me?

Really- I don't care- but in a way, I want to know. I do not care about Ray or missing my scheduled lovemaking an event of the night. Really- I am too drowsy to run all that passed my clouded brain. Too lethargic to talk it out with them now, I thought I ask, or know all about it tomorrow. That is when I see Marcel sneaking out of his room, oh boy- with a bathrobe open in the front, I see him drop it as he is getting in the foaming water of his off-limits Hot tub on his veranda.

That was my chances I thought. I pass many doors going down to his room, I see many freshmen, girls, with their head in her hands and crying at the edge of a bed, after the fact of doing. I see more d*icks than I want to also. I see a girl taking a cold shower outside in this cold, talking to herself. Anyways- You know it, I got naked so fast in his room, and rain, as well as I, could and cannonballed in with him. He was suppressed, and he laid into me with the bubbles massaging us. I had my legs wrapped around his bully.

All we did was make out, truly. I wanted more, yet this time he was holding back, it was sweet. Yet there was something I was feeling on my bully, that said he wanted me.

And then I thought I have to play hard to get.

Make him work for it. Nevertheless, there was some rubbing going, on I will say. Where and when- I let you run that in your mind. I love to get my back and butt rubbed by his hands and ever space in-between.

I said to Marcel so- 'What's wrong with her over there taking the cold shower talking nutty?' I say, wondering if she is going to be all right. He said- Oh Kristy she got dumped and cheated to on the night, they were in the pool house doing it and she saw it, and that ended it.

Tony was her boyfriend of four years and left her for a freshman boy. Tony said she turned him gay, is so freaked up in the head. I said- 'Wow harsh.' 'No kidding, oh and now she not sure if she needs to get tested.' Marcel said.

'OMG,' is all I said back. When her crying got so freaking loud that you could hear it over the bubbles. She clasped and was just let there to croak... I would say, no one cared about her. And of course, like always I can't get the dead done, no-how. There is always someone with their eyes on me. Ray grabs onto my elbow. He pulls me out, legs like splitting on the wood decking, I am like- ass naked. He rips me up to my wrist to my feet.

He is looking at my vag. and little boobies on the front. That's where his eyes were locked. Saying- 'I can believe you did this with him. You cheated on me for this d*ick!' Justen is still hanging around his neck. She seems a little more- sober and running at the mouth. but her pupils are enormous, poking out at me like my nipples are picking out at her, and her eyes so bloodshot, she looks- like- she eat a brick of crystal meth. I's- eyes are red from being under the water, so are Marcells.

You can believe it and shy and the other wannabe girl saw us together. And had to end it. I am naked, and Ray won't let me go, and Marcel is too cautious to get out of the tub as I want him too. Though I could see why.

He said- 'Karly let go I have job appointment in the morning.' 'On Sunday, I said.' 'Yah!' He is dragging me by one arm over the wood, the splinter is- going up my butt whole- I swear- to flipp'n GOD. My legs are getting cut up by nail heads sticking up. I said-

'I am not leaving with you; it's not going to happen. My hands slipping off random object passing by, as he is pulling me into the house, to get his way. 'I am not your wife; you cannot act like I am.' He said- 'Stop it! With a kick to my side.' Marcel just looked from a distance, as Ray made me do what he wanted on Marcel's bed just like before. I have a hard time, just lying there, but what choice do I have.

Ray said- 'I have you, now and always. The way I want you, anytime anyplace you're mine- you're mine. Regardless if I marry you or not. I own you! Don't you forget it?' 'You don't own me?' I said. 'Yes- yes I do!' Ray said finishing off with a grunt. All the same, I knew Marcel was not the guy for me either when he didn't come and save me from this horror of getting beaten and used. Yet I get it...

I was not his girlfriend. But yet again, I was heartbroken all over again. Ray was getting off me, and then I said pressing my luck; 'What do you mean you own me?' He said- 'You'll see.' In an almost evil way. Ray is only like this when he is drunk. Maybe I should forgive him for knowing that.

Marcel finally comes to my aid, Ray was heading to the door, and Ray looks back at him, saying- 'You'll be better off, d*ick-weed staying away from her, or I will kick your ass up to your face.' Justen is standing over my shoulders shaking up and down like she's convulsing, and just like that she grabs me, and hugs me so tight. Saying- 'It's going to be okay.' I could have died. I am not the only one that is petrified. 'They're all gangbang!' she said. She was crying on my shoulder.

At this time Jenny takes her cup and sets it on a side table, in bedroom three on top of Liv's worn copy of Nevaeh. Why she has it I don't know. Before going to bed she pockets Marcel's grandmother's two-carat wedding ring too. Why I don't know, it's not like she going to elope anytime soon or settle for one man. She most likes going to hock it.

(Hell- that ring may have been mine.) She always steals something from parties. She calls them her mementos. And that's a big word for her- but yeah... I swear she would take a potty brush if she could get something for it. She has even taken a thing from my room, like my blue ribbons, undies, and knickknacks.

At this time ken is stretched out on a couch downstairs, and not with Jenny. But he manages to grab the hand of some freshmen girl to lie on top of him. They sleep together, I don't know who she is and neither does he, and names don't matter at this point.

I start to walk out of Marcel's room 'Where're you going love?' Marcel says. His eyes are distracted by the door, like looking to see if he comes back, and the ones walking by, his voice is gruff. 'Whoo, you love me?' 'I know I do-I always did; you just did want me too.' I was creeped out more than ever. 'You know a thing about me, yet you love me?'

'Yes, I want you to have my baby's too, and I want to spend my days with you.' I was so freaked out at this point. This just is not normal... yet Marcel was never normal. But this is going beyond wired even for him. 'Okay lover boy, let me go.'

So, I can get something on.' 'Not before a kiss and a selfie.' I said- 'Oh okay,' even though we were both stark-naked, with the lights soft in the room.

(What could it hurt, I thought.) I shove him off me playfully. I said- 'This is somewhat your fault, too, you need to grow some balls boy, and stand up for me, if you want me to be all this, you want me to be. Be a man, not a boy like Ray!'

'I have balls!' I said rolling my eyes and batting my lashes- 'It's a figure of speech, silly.' 'We were supposed to...' His voice trails off and he wobbles his head, confused, then narrows his eyes at me. 'Are you falling in with me?' He asked. I said- I not going to say it just to say it, I said I like you very much, you have a lot to offer even if you're silly, but love takes time for me. I may get there but, I have to feel it.

Yeah, know.' He looked at me sadden. Then I said- 'You're doing okay.' Even if he wasn't completely like I am just not that mean. I kiss him- 'Don't stop,' he said. I was winding back to being on the bus with him in my head. Thinking OH MY GOD, this is love, I have had it all along, and didn't see it back then. Did I keep love away... am I running away from it? Am I going to run from it again?

Just like my mind reminded back in the past few weeks ago, back to the moment when Ray leaned over, rested his head on my shoulder, saying I want to spend my life with you. What happened? That he and I wanted to sleep next to me, every night, and kiss me every morning. Like how can you change that much in a week or so?

Yes, go back to that soft moment, in his dark living room with nothing on under the blanket, the television flickering the sound faint mostly just hearing the sound of his breathing and my parents sleeping in the next room over, going back to the moment, I opened my mouth and heard my wipers to that daydream. Yet I said it to Marcel without thinking- 'I do- feel the way.' At this time, I am lying on his bed, so sleepy. I didn't even ask I just crashed. 'You are you're sleeping,' Marcel nudges me. 'You love me. Existent or not existent?'

I tell him, 'Existent.' Nodding off.

Chapter: 60

Dawn arising

I am a girls-I I change my hair color as I do with undies, boys, and my mind about loving only girls.

'Our existence is drawn-out by chances, even the ones that are missed out on.' Sleeping with me is a lot like the first step of dying. Running down a dream, looking for an answer that may never come. Yet when it comes, will you want to go or run the other way. It's just like you never- ever fail to recall the appearance of the soul who was your last and hopes to save you from yourself. Your future life is shown to throw your dreams; however, I could see much of anything, and that was odd for me.

The only thing that was shown in this dream was my hand slipping away for someone else's in the scary blackness. I was falling, and you were falling to me. Yet never together even in the dream. I am sure he is holding me, yet I was never really sure.

Something a guess is best left unknown. Or maybe I fainted in his arms and he put me to bed, I don't know.

I swear that I am going to have a sex consent document made, so I know when where and how. I am sick of boys that freak hard I want to know I am making love. I am sick of serenading my everything to anyone, that says they own me. Yet again I am on the pill, so I don't have anything to worry about. The whole time Bela Lucas, one of Ray Hobro's girl's best friends, is standing in the corner laughing at me, and Ray stumbles over to her and kisses her like they have been hooking up for months.

Marcel loves to call me Miss. Barns that's so weird, he was doing that all night. He wants me to become Miss. Vogel in the worst way, he even slips and called me that tonight, along with that I can see it in his loving stricken eyes, he wants me. And he wants me more than to just bend me over as Ray does, he wants my whole entirely. Marcel would own me, on paper only by me took his name, yet I would have the freedom to do as I please. It's worth thinking about. I know that I would not have a life with Ray, it would be nothing but bondage, pain, and crying myself to sleep at night alone in my bedroom. I don't want that.

Note to self: 'Just because a boy is hot or cool, doesn't mean he is going to be the one. Just because a boy is weird or odd, doesn't mean he can't be the one.'

I was out with the note to self-playing in my head, and then I awoke slightly when I overhear a battle. Marcel becoming my everything at that moment.

That is when crazy-eyed Ray walked back into the room about ten minutes after, I passed out, and Marcel defended me, just the way I always wanted, my man too- do. 'Are you cheating with my girlfriend, Vogel?' 'Not cheating taking your place ass hole.' 'Is that so?' said Ray. Marcel- 'Yes- that is so- so go freak yourself and get out of here you're drunk!'

Ray said- 'She won't be yours for long, she'll be nothing but your hunting recollection.' Ray pulls out his belt and was going to hit us with it.

He didn't though... He said- 'She's not worth it. I already got what I wanted, when I did this to your little sister, oh how she screamed when I had her typed down and wiped her ass nine times, and rammed it in. Revenge is on its way, with you in another way. You see these skies blue petite underwear there hers. (He's trolling them around his index finger by the stings.) I used them to tie her hands together.' He throws the undies on my face and said- 'inhale that!' The door slammed shut. I drifted off once more, I could stay awake.

I only like had one eye open during the whole thing. I heard was the sounds of Marcel getting up and locking the door. Getting back in with me and cuddling up. I knew that I was safe in his embrace.

If you ask others what went down in that room, you'll hear many differing takes of the event. Some will say that Marcel jumped on the back of Ray and ripped his slicks off, as he was clawing at the door. Some will say that Ray's head budded Marcel and that's how he falls into bed with me. The freshmen girls will say, Marcel and Ray were wrestling; they don't know any better. Others in the living room will say they heard a little scuffling around the room, or things being knocked to the floor. Some might add that they heard sounds like the headboard hitting the wall.

With to gay man going at it- roaring. Some that knew that I was in the room, though it was a threesome.

Oh, boy how gossip gets going... and the fun fact of it all is that I didn't do anything. I am telling the truth or God strike me dead. Either way, Ray ends up getting Marcel down on his knees. And then they're both on the floor. Come to think of it Ray always gets yeah on your knees. From what I heard girls were yelping looking in the doorway, at what they saw.

Someone cries out, 'Where a condom!' I was told that Mark Formare said- 'You don't want crap on your d*ick.' Yet I don't think that is true. Like whoa what did happen...? I am butt crazy infatuated with Marcel; I just hope Ray isn't too.

~*~

I am almost all the way asleep when I feel a little squeezes' from behind. I knew he was there. I could feel, just like I could feel his arms rubbing mine. Soothing me off to La La Land. If anything happened, I was not awake to know, yet

I don't think he likes that. Even so, I wouldn't mind if he would- is that weird? I would love to be rolled over on my belly, feeling him go for that tight squeeze position on top of my backside, yes feeling it all as I dream about us. Is that strange? Yeah, I know, I am messed up!

There comes a point where you're both out, but as a girl, you wake up because you have to go pee in the night like three am or so. I look at the time and think I have to get a move on. 'I can't just leave him,' I say, though a part of me wants too. It not normal for me to wake up with a man the day after, I normally split. 'He'll be fine.

I am looking back lusting.' I was pondering what I should do. Say or go? I have to go. I hopped in his bathtub and washed up, so when I get home mom would not freak at how I looked. Let's not forget she thinks I was at a sleepover with my girlfriend's, doing homework, painting our nails, and girly stuff like that.

I had my toilettes in my bag, so I brushed my teeth and hair. I keep the T-shirt and put it back on with my jeans and other things. I walked past his bed hair still damp, I blow him a kiss and said- 'See you at school Monday.' He was snoring a little. I know he didn't even know I was gone, or I said that. I unlooked the door, locking it back up as I walked out, knowing if I shut it, I'm not getting back in. I closed his bedroom door softly, then I walk down the hall, and everything is dead still. I was scared crap-less; it was pitch black. I didn't know who would jump out at me. But I have to go, it was time, and I knew that I was going to leave with the girls to be home before five am. To make it look like I was home long before that time. And with Jenny it takes' a lot of time for her to get her crap together in the morning, that's why she is always speeding in her car.

~*~

Sunday's mom and dad like to drag me out for crappy eggs and toast, with my sis at the Rusty Anchor it's like a café opens at seven am. Down in the lobby of or apparent building. They say it's the only family time we all get to have all together. It's so-oo painful to sit through. The meal is free for us kids, that why where there, I been saying I'm younger than I am on the same server for years now. I have to say I'm only twelve, and where a paper hat with a baby bib of the cartoon logo of caption Wet Willie on it. Like, get real! Yet my sis never seems to mind this embarrassment. My dad makes nautical jocks and says R- thought the meal. R- You having fun? R- You winches going to walk the plank? He pocks me and my sis in the arm with his egg cover fork saying- Scallywags! I love my dad, yet I just want to say fork you, and leave! My mom never looks up, yet I know she's just trying to make it through the meal too. My sis is giggling, and I just roll my eyes, sucking on the straw of my peewee juice box.

~*~

I know if I run into Ray he is going to be so pissed still. Yet I have to walk past all these doors and go up the steps to find my girls. I see Jenny she is like a spread eagle on the bed more then I wanted to see. She must have gotten into a fight with the covers, because they were all on the floor, as her clothing. I wake her up saying- 'Hey- hey- we need to get going soon.' 'Already?' She's groggy- yet

Jenny knows I'm thinking about ditching Ray and leaving him here at the after-party.

She knows me and how I am. Like I plan on going with him last night as you know, that didn't happen. She said- 'So you're coming with us?'

I said- 'Without a drought!' She grumbled- 'Okay.' You and Marcel didn't hit it off? Jenny asked. I said- 'Yes, you were right about him... but my mom, she'll kill me if I am not home to have our family time. You know how she is...' Jenny- Yeah I know she's a b*tch!' Jenny is not on her feet; she gives me a quick side hug. 'Remember what I said.' 'I said- I'm not going to remember anything until you cover up your junk.' 'Oh- sorry.' She said. She starts singing 'High Hives' by Open Season, as she gets decent, as I walk back out into the hallway, I wonder if Ray is looking at me. I hear: 'Get on your knees in the fire, you can leave it, all in your mind, it is all in your mind.' For a moment my stomach tightens on the inside, thinking they're all going to be making fun of me at school Monday at lunch, but it's a coincidence... what happened.

Jenny didn't know me when I was little, yet I knew that she was in course, until it was no longer cool for her to be. She is an amazing singer. I was in the band but even back then she wouldn't even have spoken to me then. Come to think about she was more- nerdy than I was, back then she even wore thick eyeglasses, that was taped for being broken in co-ed gym class.

I remember the day little Ken Kicked a ball in her face, just to make her cry. She has no way of knowing that I can sing too and play music. I a little girl I wanted to become a pop singer, I used to lock myself in my room with the sing-along with late 1990's soundtracks, using my hairbrush like a mic and belting out lyrics Like- 'Hit me, baby, one more time.' at the top of my lungs until my mom and dad would say stop or you'll be kicked out and have to live in a box on the block, stop or you're grounded. Sometimes the apartment next door would compline. The old lady down stairs would hit her ceiling with a broom handle. God- I was such a little Britney, I had the look too- sort of. Those are the song I played over and over no wonder my friends and I grew up all messed up.

~*~

'Suck-sh party, huh?' Maddie says, coming up on the other side of me, from down the hallway. I know that she is pissed that Dilco showed up and wanted to be with Liv. She said- 'I'm glad she says it worked out, yet I depressed that Liv won't be having that baby. I don't know I could see us as mothers.' I looked at her like you got to be kidding me. The sound of the sleet is thunderous betting down on the roof. It's coming down so hard that startles me, know that the roads will be a sheet of black ice. Maddie said to me while Jenny was doing her thing.

'I'm supposed to me Liv down on the porch, she is sitting on the swing. So, come down with me Karly,' she said. For a twenty-minute or so, we all swing together under the porch attics, looking at it is dumping down on all the kids sleeping the mud intents a- campers, waiting on Jenny.

Mud is even spaying upon up, with the ice rain, and that is all I need.

I want to stay clean, so I don't have to change to-go-to breakfast when I take these clothes off it going to be to crawl into bed. We were all making little puffy clouds with our breath, contemplating hugging ourselves from one of those oak trees, like it would be far less painful than sitting here with are ass cheek freezing. Yet this is where Jenny said - to meet up with her. Water is falling in steady streams from the eaves and over the gutters.

Jenny only said she would be a couple of minutes. We should know by now that it is a big lie. Mandy Jan Smith got ahold a Bebe gun and is firing rounds into her ex Sang Yung Dong's car, even those she has a restraining order. His parents own Chinatown Inn Chinese restaurant, downtown. Yet he acts like he is going to be a big-time rapper someday- Nope... not going to happen. Yet with Mandy Jan and some girls like her, they don't know when to give up. You should see that car, like the headlights, are shamed along with the side glass. Maddie was saying that she heard it from a friend that heard it from a friend, that she throws an empty beer bottle at his face last night. Yicks- I kinda know Mandy Jan, she seems corky but friendly. She sits next to me in math class sometimes. The gunshot makes an ear-splitting crack every time and makes us all jump.

Young girls are running around topless, or nude still it's complete anarchy.

The craziness never stops till the cops come. And out this far they're not coming. There are no neighbors to call the cops for miles. Boys and girls are chuckling and shouting and running in the rain dancing around like fools, some are run and sliding, like a very muddy slip and slide in the yard, some of the boys are all shalong and the ball's out. It's gross when you're hungover and freezing.

The cold rain is coming down fast and hard everything appears as though it's being wished into everything else, like looking in the door of a washer at the laundromat. The grass is tossed up, immense murky pits of mud are exposed, and girls are fighting in the pits it's so disgusting. Like there scraping all over one another.

This party has gone too far. Marcel wants everyone out at nine a.m. Yet I don't think that is going to happen. Like how is he going to explain this or clean it up in time? His mom and dad are going to freak when they see this place! I would stay and help, but I have to be home soon. No one going to help him clean up this disarray.

Yet, the price to be somewhat cool in high school. Headlights are flashing on the bodies, by the cars that are mudding or leaving. Looking around all you can see is peculiar looking woods and the driveway that snakes through being washed-out by sheets of water. 'I think I would be warmer if I was dead,' I said joking around. (Amusing not thinking that was a true statement.) At about the same time, we hear little Hanna O'Conner vomiting behind us. What a great way to start the day.

Jenny sprints out the door, looking sexier than ever, the storm door bangs and rattles on the hinges 'Run you guys!' Jenny yells as she passes up like lumps of crap. I feel Liv tugging on me, saying come on. She not going to wait up. I grab Maddie's hand, and she already holding Liv's and then we're running all hand and hand, blaring profanity, and giggling in the chilly shower blinding us gushing down our hair, tops, and bottoms. The mud in Maddie and Liv's flip-flops is just oozing, and gushing in their shoes between their toes; their cute toenail polish is toast. My landed ruby slippers feel squishy, and one gets stuck, and I have to lean on Maddie on one foot to get it out of the mud. As Liv is pulling my arm.

The icy rain so firm it's like everything is shiny liquefying everything away, yet the trees all look heavy as they are solidifying. By the time we get to Jenny's Ford Focus, at this time I certainly don't care about the terrible way the get-togethers turned out for the reasons that we're chuckling uproariously, nevertheless saturated from head to toe and trembling, roused up from the unsympathetic and bitter downpour, yet amused at each other's appearance.

#- Hashtag: (Powder your nose and let's go, three girls one swing, and saying goodbye.)

Jenny yells from the driver's set- 'Ugh I am so wet!' Liv said to Maddie nagging her arm with hers- 'Yeah we no, you're always that way.' the inside joke is so much fun when Jenny is clueless. All the same Jenny's crying boo-hoo tears about her and our wet butt making marks on her fuzzy pink and zebra cloth seats covers, and all the mud on the floor carpet, she doesn't want us messing up her Walmart replacement mats either. Yet like if you look at the flip-flop air freshener hanging from the rear-view mirror for too long, she starts giving you this long story of how her first time gives her that to remember him by it was in his car.

It doesn't even smell good anymore... yeah, it's that old. I bolt of lightning cracks and it looks like it was right next to the SUV, Maddie said- 'You're not going to have to worry so much about the mud, but more about me making pee stands on your set. I am still not wearing undies. Liv giggled, saying the same here, they start touching each other inappropriately. I am thinking to myself sluts! I see looking over my shoulder a little squeeze here and a little grab there. That why I take a shotgun, so they can roll around in the back seat, and play around.

Liv is begging Jenny to go to Bob Evans Farmer's Choice Breakfast, and complaining, that I always get shotgun, even though she wants to be next to Maddie. Maddie is shouting for Jenny to turn up the heat, so it reached the back.

Yet, Jenny said- 'No- cool it.' I have to defog the windows first, so I can at least see some. Even so, this car is so old I not sure if I can get it warm enough for you.' Liv is being overdramatic, and intimidating says- Oh my flipping God Jenny, I am going to die from pneumonia.' I was thinking about it... but didn't say anything, I knew it wouldn't do any good. I entertained myself drawing on the steamy window with my finger.

I don't know why... but every time we girls start chatting as it starts with food, then all types of sex and way of having it with boys and girls, then that leads into death, and how as well as when. I guess that's how we get underway with chitchatting about it: disappearing, you know kicking the bucket in all. Maybe Jenny is right maybe that is the only thing in life that is worth talking about? like what do you do when you're too old to bang hard, barf on heavens gates to forget how sucky life is, or wait slowly die sober? I assumed that Jenny all right to drive, she seems all good and such, even though she drank as much as three all combined. She is different about the need to speed.

I look at the dash and see the needle pointing at seventy-five... like that would be okay with me if we would be on the highway yet were not. My teeth are chattering in my head. My kidneys ratted, and my little boobs giggling, a witch that's amazing. I have not been this bounced around since I was on my exquisite mare- Wonder. Anyways, I notice she's going faster than what I think she should for this long, confined, and twisting driveway, that is not paved.

The trees look haunted bare frameworks with demonic hands branches lathed with dripping Ice trying to rip throw the glass. You could hear their unnatural cries in the moaning in the wind, even though all the windows of the SUV where slug it conjectured its way through the gaps. I have my iPod in my lap with one earbud in my ear, on the scuffle, a song was about only half though when I heard:

‘The road to hell is paved with good intentions, or so they say, and some believe. That no good deed. Goes unpunished in the end or so it seems.’ That is too creepy! I was panicky, however hiding my worried feelings, as the song ended, and the battery just seemed to die out of the blue.

Chapter: 61

Burring, heated urges, with the chill of death

‘I partake this philosophy of passing away,’ I’m proverb as Jenny spin out on 79 and the tires screech spinning dramatically on the slick ghostly road. The green on the gray clock on the dashboard is shining: 6:16. ‘I have this theory that before you die you see your high points and you’re low like a slideshow of both.

What do you all think? I got an- ‘Um- maybe?’ From Liv and Maddie, slightly taking part in my question, and a shoulder shrugs from Jenny, she said - ‘When where we are dead, we’re dead. I don’t think you see anything or go anywhere other than in the ground or someone old vase on their mantel.

‘How do you know?’

Then Jenny said something smart. How would you? It’s not like someone has come back to life to tell us. And if they do can you believe it?’

(Nevertheless, she was not around when I was ten almost died, getting bucked from my horse and hitting my head on a rock. Or when daddy was bathing me and my sis back in the day and he was sidetracked, and I went under for too long. Or when I was put under to have my umbilical hernia repaired at five. I have like this half innie button by the way, that I am iffy about. Either way, right now I have it covered up with my dangly butterfly ring. I think I saw something unexplainable at those times. Even so, I just let Jenny have the floor. Right or wrong Jenny always wins.)

~*~

Yet, the question was still there of what was the highlights- of your- life, or the lowlights. So, I asked- ‘What’s the top and the bottom things you’ve accomplished?’ Jenny said- ‘A lowlight was when I fall asleep laying out in the sun and got so red that, I could even move, for like a week when I was fourteen.

Maddie and Liv’s were- almost the same. Saying- ‘It was when we came out to our parents.’ Jenny slams on the brakes, mouth hanging open saying- ‘Whoa you’re gay for each other?’ I said- ‘Thank you captain obvious!’ Maddie said to Jenny- ‘You’re so slow you should be in the sped class!’ Liv giggled, well rubbing her hand softly on the inner part of Maddie’s upper leg!

Jenny- ‘Shut up b*tches!’

Maddie and Liv- ‘No!’ They say in unison, with the same vice pitch.

Jenny- ‘Lezbos.’

Maddie- ‘Jenna Talya!’

(Jenna is her birth given name, yet we have to call her Jenny for... well, I think you get it. Even Jenny is not perfect. Like where her parents stoned when they named her? That’s going to be so-ooo embarrassing for her at graduation!)

Jenny- ‘I told you never to call me that!’

Liv- ‘Okay- Ice princess.’

Then Maddie said- ‘No babe more like-

‘Icer!’

‘What’s that mean?’ Said Jenny. ‘Look it up, Jenny... that is if you can read.’ Said Liv.

Me- ‘Stop it you all- God, get back to my question!’ Jenny looks at me like she could rip my tongue out, for speaking. All at the same time she is hugging the middle of the road while driving. And I want to yell about that too, but I don’t.

‘Richard, baby Rich,’ Jenny says and takes one hand off the wheel to and jerks her fist up and down in the air while doing some hip thrusts at the same time. (Jenny knows how to work those hips. I look out of the corner of my eye.) The First time I hooked up with him was in eighth grade, um- that boy gives me my first rolling eye into the back of my head orgasm, which made me shake all over, as I was holding tightly sinking my fingernails into his ripped senior body!’ (Jenny starts doing the 3-fingered point shot on herself while drawing and talking about him. I try so hard not to look at her. Don’t look... I think to myself, yet I do... I could not help myself.

(I am thinking god- I’m likely to get 2 in mine, and that is pushing it. Then again, I am not a complete suite.) Liv said- ‘Mine was with you, Maddie.’ Maddie-

‘Same!’ She said back straightaway.’ Yet in her vice, there was uncertainty, as Jenny was about to blow. (Yet she yells at us about the sets, yet for her it’s okay.) Like really, I thought Liv would have said Dilco, or some random boy’s name. Like how can a girl give you more than a boy, when a girl doesn’t have what another girl needs, to keep life, love going? I have tried it, yet I always come back to the boys.

Maybe it’s because I want a family someday... and babies, and well a hard d*ick, lol. I don’t know... I am a girl that wants what she wants when she wants it, and how she wants it to be. Yet that doesn’t mean that I may not change what I want.

I’ll tie anything once, like death you can only do that one time though.

Before I and Jenny started hugging like I never thought about all this stuff. I was happy to go to the park, or ride a bike, or go swimming, or just be a kid - or teen girl.

However, Jenny made me hunger for what she had, back then by forcing it on me. After Jenny finishes up, she lights up and puffs the smoke out onto the side of my face. (Awesome just wanted, my hair too smells like an ashtray when I get home.) I groan and leans forward to plug my charger in where the lighter goes while reaching for my I pod. ‘Need so relaxing music, please, before I murder myself.’ Maddie and Liv have the same I pod going sharing one earbud headphone site. It’s not like we all could have one song playing. Yet we get sick of the crap Jenny has on. ‘Can I get a cigarette?’

The wildlife crossing the road don’t stand a chance. Liv asks, and Jenny pops it in between her lips and lights it up for her, really stretching her arm backward. Jenny shoves one in my mouth lighting the butt end she's holding, not looking to see what's right or wrong. Saying- 'Baby girl live a little, this might be your last cigarette.'

I thought why not turn it around, I already smell like smoke, and I have not had one in a long while. Jenny cracks the windows in the back only, and the cold comes in with a mist. Then Liv starts to complain about the cold again. Jenny said- 'Well we have to get the smoke out.' Maddie takes a hit off of Liv's cig, saying- 'Cuddle up with me I'll keep you warm.' I knew that she had to be shivering- because, I was.

Jenny rips my iPod out of my hands and plugs it into her tape deck converter. I was so embarrassed I was playing 'I want to know what love is,' by Foreigner, it's so not cool to like a mushy love song, yet I do. This kind of music pisses Jenny off, she says it's sexist, old, and boring. Yet to me at least it has a melody.

I don't know why Jenny did it... maybe because she's was sick of hearing Liv whining, and I with my earbuds shoved my ears talking too loudly, and Maddie's cell phone making that annoying clicking sound when she texts to Liv who is sitting right next to her. Maddie calls Jenny an ass stopping in mid-text, and frees her seat belt, leaning forward trying to grab the iPod off Jenny's lap to give it back to me. She thought it was an invasion of my privacy or so she stated. I never wear a seatbelt I can stand them I feel like I am being strangled.

'They say to know a girls' heart just listen to her playlist.' I think that is true. Jenny nags that someone is breathing heavily down the back her in the neck and that someone is Liv open mouth breathing as she is talking and snuffling, she must be coming down with a cold. Jenny said- 'Cough it up it's not yours!' I reach into my handbag for a crumpled-up napkin and say- 'Here now blow,' I felt like her mother doing that you are holding my hand up to her nose and all. Yet that's what friends are for. The cigarette drops from her mouth and lands between her thighs when she sneezes bogies- snot on the back of Jenny's head and Barbie doll bleach blond hair.

(Yummy!)

Jenny starts more execrations than ever before, trying to brush the snot out of her long blond locks with her hands. Grossed out as she is doing it. The cigarette falls, from her lips as her mouth drops open. This all happens at about the same time. Now the lovers in the back are fighting even more with Jenny, and squabbling with one another. Maddie said- 'If you need to sneeze you could have pointed it me, for all I care.'

Liv- 'Sorry!' Yet Jenny thinks the sneeze was internal. And it may well have been.

And Maddie being Maddie starts hair pulling or removing the mess as she called it, from Jenny's hair. All the same Jenny thigh is starting to get burnt. Maddie pulls so hard that she rips out one of Jenny's extensions.

Now Jenny has no hands on the wheel, as we wave in and out of the oncoming traffic lane, the music is blasting also, so us girls are yelling overtop. Instead of hitting the sound down, I turn it up in a panic. Amplifying AC/DC's 'Highway to hell.' (Ironie) And I'm over here just trying to talk over them, jog their memory that we're all friends, and Jenny needs to focus on the road. 'Yet it was more like you'll shut- the- freak- up!

So, she can get me home on time.' Not the best way to say it. Yet I do have a way with words, like when I am cheating death, or pissed, or hagg, or on my period, or a boy is being an ass to me, or my sis is getting on my nerves, or I am hating on my mom and dad for being dumb, you know times like that. The clock pulses onward: 6:32. The tires slip slightly on the wet road, and the car is occupied with all the cigarette smoke, little threads of it are rising underneath Jenny's kitty, like spirits still trying to get out of there.

Jenny slams on the brakes stopped dead on the highway. Maddie's face slams nose-first right in between Liv's, perky boob calving. Then the SUV rockets forward abruptly, and at that moment there's a flash of silver in front of the SUV.

(Now where are up to the moment of the crash, where the angel of death was chasing me down.) Why Jenny slammed on the gas like that after she stopped to freak out, I will never know? She's not that psycho... is she? Was this the plan all along? Like she had to know that she was not going to make the sharp cover and that she was going to hit a tree, she had too. Did she snap, did she want us all to die? Or just me? Did you just feel that? As I said Jenny yells something wicked- some gibberish swear words, that I can't even make out, and suddenly the car is thumbing and bent in half around a tree on the highway, next to the lonely shadowy ice cover opening of the woodlands.

I was not sure what was going on to tell you the truth. I make out a horrifying, shrieking sound-steel on steel, and cracking splintering sounds of wood going through my body, mixed with glass shattering, cutting up the side of my face and shoulder, a car folding in two like a taco-and with the smell of depth and fire. And yes, just so you don't ask, I did infect pooped myself, yet we all do when we die, gross... but true.

Like- I said- 'Jenny always had a way of scaring the crap out of me.' at this time I have nothing but my life fishing before, and what I saw was not, what I saw when I was living it. It was shocking to see my life form than proactive. I was in shock, blacking out, and the photo show was coming to an end. The last birth I remember taking in was a whiff Jenny's cigarette smoldering out- and at that moment... There was no nothing.

Nothing... nothing... nothing... It was complete- emptiness, sadness, with the feeling of being lost in-universe, vanished and frozen with-in time.

That's when it transpires. The instants of death- is full of flashing scooching warmth, with the sound of people crying out for help with no hope to be savvy, with the feeling of pain inside and out, that will last endlessly. The last sent I remember smelling was that of daring roses the boys sent us. When you go down, you're the funnel that keeps the death within you burning, like me, you never believe in the farming heat until it happens, your bag to the Gods for it not to be so, asking not to go down. Yet by that time, it's too late... you've swallowed up the hole and consumed, like a naked soul falling too- the devil's children, you're tariffed- all you can see are raging fire, nothing else. No one is going to save you- ever! The smell of burning flesh is repulsing, and that is always. It's like being in one of my scary dreams, I know I am falling though there is no up or down, no walls or sides or ceilings, just the sensation of falling to the pits below, with darkness everywhere until I get to the bottom.

You can cry all you want, but your tears just dry up, instantly in the heat. In this quote hell, you've branded nothing but a number and lift to never be seen again infinitely. You're in complete havoc, a scary nightmare that never- ever ends, just slowly harassed by these dark entries playing with-in your mind to the point of insanity.

They love to toy with you and make you feel helpless. You're all alone, yet never left alone, with nothing left to feel other the regret, defeated down to nothing but wallowing in self-pity! In this place, you have to be strong! You may move out and up if you see where you went wrong in your living life. Only if you have the epiphany to get your seven stabs. Yes- I have found out that you have seven times to get into paradise. Up till now, that is not as easy as it may sound.

You have to earn it.

~*~

You have like do-overs, like being in a Déjà Vu dream, that alters the space-time continuum. Think of it this way- life is like nothing but a preset sci-fi video game conjured for one higher power enjoyment, we are the main characters in this game. The one behind the conceal (We call that person on earth God, and the programmers that make it happen behind their smaller screen we call them angels.)

Nothing in time happens, it's all just a challenge to see where going at the end when it comes. I have seen how this all works now that I am dead, how things are made and dragged and dropped onto the earth, and other planets that have a life.

Like a place called Vie a planet not yet discovered by the living earthlings. They are so unlike us, yet have the same things we do and more just in a different way. I'll try to describe it, yet you would not believe me.

Incredibly beautiful, especially at nightfall. Everything, that is living, has some sort of glowing feel.

The brightest coolers you have ever seen. Trees bigger than skyscrapers, Trans that float as the race by. All kinds of floating glass homes, connected by vines that glimmer with cascading waterfalls, there incredible stone structures arching all over that connect the one floating island to the next. Star covered skies with many big moons.

Vie has these humanoid people called La-Marie's, they look so much like us it's daunting. Their skin is so much more transparent than what we have, their body's completely hairless (every earth girl's dream right.) Yet they have long hair on the head that lights up, in a wispy way, every pulse of their heartbeat there a flash of light within their body, most of them have blue eyes that glow at night. Their vans light up at night also bright indigo.

Oh, and they have seven fingers and toes with one hand or foot. Why I don't know. The USA space program will get to thereby solar spaceship and land on that planet in the year 2075.

Yet, I am not sure if that is a good thing. And I don't want to get too unbelievable, so I am going to stop there before I get into trouble.

Anyways with Earth and life itself, it's all programmed, like a scene out of The Hunger Games control room. It all can be changed, with a flick of a switch or a say, and you can look down into the world where we once lived and see it all play out, it's all arranged from conception to death. It's already mapped on this big screen. Everything we call era or lifetime or ordinary life is just a hallucination.

That's why we sleep to be programmed for the next day, based on the choices we made the day before. Life is a gift that is a gift, don't piss it all away or you'll be terminated. Just remember every birth is accounted for.

At this time Marcel most likely has woken up slightly to see that I am gone.

Saying that he is so lovesick for me, to himself before going to the bathroom. I have been lovesick before it's not fun it pulls and triangles at your hart and junk until you can't take it anymore. And you have to be with them- one way or another. There is always a way if you see, that you love them.

Jenny- Love without the glove is okay, I say to all my girls if you're a girl like me. Um- I have Mirena birth control, this to me is better than any pills you can pop, you're not killing life, yours prevent before it happens... and that's smart. Mirena/ Skyla prevents pregnancy, most likely in several ways: Thickening cervical mucus to prevent sperm from entering your uterus, inhibiting sperm from reaching or fertilizing your egg.

Thinning the lining of your uterus. While there's no single explanation for how Mirena works, most likely, the above actions work together to prevent pregnancy for up to 5 years. Mirena does not protect against HIV or STDs, dah- where you can choose to not have a baby for up to three years or have it removed at any time to have just that, yet a 14- 17 why do you want to think about babies all you want is to feel good down there with a boy, with no risks, so I can have as much sex as I want to when I want how I want and with as many boys as I want to, and they can cum inside and I don't have to hide the fact that I want them too.

And it's safe, and I only have a period 3 times a year, yet you feel the need to plug it up more... aw, the drawbacks of have sex all the time... yet come one right.

You can have this done at sixteen without mom and daddy even knowing, so if you want to get popped at 16 you can, and there's not a thing they can say about it, I pissed my dad off yet it's my life, and that's how I feel about my girls- do you- for you- freak the world that not getting it.

There are risks with this implanted in you- but it's not baby killing so for that I feel good about being me. It's as easy as sitting on a boy's lap at a Pittsburgh Steelers game and feeling good about it, I remember doing that at 12 for the first time... with a cute boy- love was starting with me and these feelings I can help but have for boys.

Chapter: 62

Gone at Seventeen

The ministry of depth has fallen to me like I am fallen to it, and it's so magical at the start, and then so frightening, it bloodcurdling not knowing the end of the end. DEATH- I know some of you are thinking mayhap I deserved it. I get that I think I do too, even my sis said- I had it coming when she found out I was roadkill. Maybe I shouldn't have sent that rose to Jull's, or maybe I shouldn't have dumped my drink on Justen at the party and fought with her over Ray, or maybe I should have never shown my sis how to do that stuff.

Maybe, I shouldn't have copied off my classmates' quizzes. Maybe I should have let Ray have his way with me. I still have not fully fallen out of love with him, I know that I should. Maybe I shouldn't have said those things to Ray. Maybe I should have saved myself for marriage? Maybe I should have kissed more losers to make them feel good about themselves. Maybe I should have stayed a geek, and never become friends with my girlfriends. Maybe I should have said more to Marcel that was not hurtful. Maybe I am to blame for it all?

Besides, I know some of you would say I erred death for not seeing, that I have a boy that would be good to me, and would treat me right, that I passed on so many times. There are undoubtedly some of you who think I deserved all this, for the reason that I was going to let Ray go all the way with me even though he's mean and nasty to me. Yet for some reason, I just thought it was the way it should be. I was afraid to leave him. I knew if I would he would get his revenge.

Plus, I know that some of you would say I received a humiliating death because I didn't sleep with Marcel, still not sure if he was good enough, and to be truthful you're right there, I should have seen this all long before I thought I was falling too him. I fall but not all the way... and it's killing me that I may never- ever fall to him as I should have.

To be truthful I should never sleep with anyone but Marcel. I know now that I was always in love with him, even when I wasn't with him. But before you begin pointing your fingers, let me ask you some questions: is what I did so bad?

So, bad I deserved to die? So, bad I deserved to die like this with no dignity at all? Is what I did so much worse than what anybody else does? I'm a ruthless mean girl?

I am a slut that had it coming?

I don't think so... do you? Like really is what I have done so much worse than what you have done in your everyday life? Think about it, and you'll see I'm not that bad.

Dreaming of you Play with Me

I am so scared screaming of all peoples- Marcel's name, but when I open my mouth nothing comes out over top the others ear-piercing calls out, and I wonder if you fall forever and ever, and never touch down, I am still falling? I think I will fall forever into this ring of fire. I even call out for my sis, yet she'll never hear me this far below her feet.

Of course- dreaming it is happening inside your head, when on earth, is not real, and why is it so when you're dead?

Do not pity the dead like me it's not worth it. Pity the living, and, all those who are alive without true love like I did. Pity the ones like me that did not see the true love right in front of her face. We're all human, aren't we? Every single human life is worth the same and worth saving even mine... right- don't you think so?

Dreaming at night, you're not in sight, -felling a fright, it could be so right, playing with you play with me in the night sun, it could be so much fun, like a loaded gun going off over and over, until we would see the daylight sun, then we are on the run, staring down the barrel of the gun when we could be holding on feel what was to come, breathing, and scrambling, shooting to the ceiling like the built of that gun, wouldn't that be so much fun, under the twilight sun?

Chapter: 63

Envisaging

A sound litters' within my silence, as the SUV crunches into the huge tree, a tiny nagging growing louder and louder until it is like a slice of metal slicing the air, slicing and sliding through me, it got all up in me, ripping me almost in half, right above my petite hips, I feel the warm blood bursting from in my heart and my insides falling out of the gashing wounds, it's like I looked down and could see my uterus, I touch it with my hand grabbing the one ovary that was rolling out of me. When the metal went up in me above my vagina or my lower waist, I could feel one... my fallopian tube just dinging down there. I was in shock, my eyes bugged out, pulling my hand up to my face seeing that its cover in my thick red blood and Karly guts dripping down my arm.

-Then I wake up. Was it all a dream?

-Or am I dreaming while dead waking up?

I feel like Liv's must of throughout the day, having her bastard child bled and dripped slowly out of her insides. How she slipped last night is beyond me like I would have nightmares of the fetus coming out of my pink thing and saying- 'Why did you not want me, mommy? Why would you kill me? Do you not love me? I loved you... it was love that made me. Or something really disturbing like that.' I was going to ask about getting rid of it at lunch Monday, how she was feeling. As you know to be a normal girl, and Jenny pushing Liv, she had sex without the glove with Dilco, and had an oopsie, for being empty-headed about bad boys.

(Hum- Why am I the girl that is dying, I didn't kill my first kid like Liv just did. I've kissed a girl but ever had a full-on girl on a girl as Maddie and Liv do. And I and Jenny are on two different levels, she's a bully, and I am not like her at all. If anything, I am a good girl in the group.)

~*~

I am jolted out of my sleep or so I thought with tunneling sparking flashing light. For a second when I look around the room everything seems soft unclear and slightly distorted, I am in my bed naked like I am every day when I get up and hug my stuffed bunny for the last time, as I snap on the lamp on my nightstand. I have to hide my bunny when the girls come over. Ray used to just throw him off the bed onto the floor.

That was not cool! I don't think Marcel would mind my cuddly stuffed bunny, with the cute floppy ears. My alarm has been blaring and Beep- Beeping for five minutes. It's seven-o to six am. I smash and rub my face in my soft pillow for the last time. I look around the room I am sweating I wipe my forehead, saying wow, I have had a dream that I'm falling- but never like this. 'Damn that was a crazy dream!' So- I start my morning retain- you know grabbing for what inside my Pringles can by my bed before all hell comes busting through my door.

I sit up in bed slightly and I turn on my laptop, might as well live record what going to do on cam, why not. So, push the quilt away, I look down at my unclothed body with my toy in hand, and I see my toes wiggling with nail polish, and my almost smooth legs and everything in-between.

Thinking I just shaved and look at all this stubble, growing here already... don't you hate that, I sure do? It's like all you can see and feel. Now I'm covered with sweat even though my room is frigid cold. My throat is dry my heart is racing, and I'm desperate for a drink, yet I am almost there, my sighing is getting loud, I can feel it building up, I can stop it feel so good and the tips are just rolling in for the boys that tune into my show.

The camera is right there, whoosh- and I feel on top of the world. Yet after I hit a low with having to start my day, running away from me away from who I am, I've just been running a long way. My floral sheets are stocked with everything rushing out, and so is my keyboard, yet the boys love it and love me for it, so that is good enough for me. Yet after I do that it's like I get an embarrassing feeling, I pull it out, then close the lid of my lap, to cover up fast. It's like I get a rush from it, and then the guilt comes after in my mind saying- 'That was the wrong missy, yet I can't stop. Jenny and my girls give me that same rush, always doing something that feels so good yet maybe wrong.

I remember, the time on the school bus back before anyone could drive, Jenny bet me a dollar, to put my hand down her jeans to prove she wears thong undies. Saying that I am such a baby, for not knowing, that's how that all started, she felt like she had to teach me everything. Anyways back then I was still where Mickey Mouse Briefs and did even think about what was underneath. She beat me to feel that she was not a virgin, that she was all open and smooth, unlike me at the time. I didn't even shave my legs yet. So, I did, I went for it. The rush here was touching a girl inappropriately, with everyone looking, and hoping the driver didn't see.

I'll never forget Danny Hover looking over the site with Andrea Doeskin smelling, like little perv's, and Shy saying- 'Oh my God'- snickering at the fact, from the set accordingly. Yeah, it's that kind of rush I get, over and over being with them. Just like Jenny got Liv fixed up with Dilco, it's all about the rush in the end. Jenny can be a hell of a lot of fun, and it's that fun that keeps me coming back for more, the same way Liv and Maddie do, and other girls keep trying to be like us, it's all about the craziness. I don't know why but when I am with them- I want to be so naughty! I remember Marcel smacking my butt, just to be cute, every time he would see me in the hallways a school. -Yeah, he's weird, but I couldn't stop thinking about him as I was- well... doing me. Yet Ray's photo was looking at me on my nightstand.

In my bed, I snap the bright light off when I hear my little sis coming down the hall, everyone goes back to being fuzzy, like I'm not looking at my room but only at a blurry photo of my room that was taken with a shaky hand incorrectly and nothing match up with the real thing. My sis went into the bathroom next door to tinkle, so I snap on my nightlight, and then that light modifies everything, so it looks somewhat ordinary again. If my sis sees my light on from the crack at the bottom of my door, she will come busting in. I have learned to keep it as dark as I can when I hear her coming run down the hallway. I love her, yet I want my privacy.

All at once it comes back to me, like a hangover rush all my blood starts going back up into my head: the party, my sis getting laid, the argument with Ray, falling to Marcel, all the sex, all the drinking, and drugs, it's all thumping hard in my brain, like my covered button was a few moments ago, on cam. I am still lying here uncovered, with everything still out in the open.

'Kellie!' My door swings open, hammering the door handle against my wall, and sis comes bolting across my room, jumping in my bed, pacing over my textbooks notebooks, love notes, and pills of dirty tops and bottoms and discarded jeans, I panic thinking my Victoria's Secret Heritage Pink nighty way over there on the floor, where I thought it off and left it the night before. Yet it's not like my sis has not seen me naked before... but is wired when this happens.

Something is not right, something seems very wrong and oggie; something skirts the edges of my memory, but then it is gone as my head pounds and sis is bouncing on my bed on top me, throw her arms and legs around my nude torso.

Saying- 'So what are you going to show me today?' I am thinking to myself- girl you already got it down, doing what you're doing now, I don't need to teach you anything. Kellie- she is so hot... (Oh God not in that way, she's- my sis.) She is like a little furnace with her worth coming from her tiny body. It's not too long before her nighty rides up, and I can see it all in my face like she wants to be just like me, and then she starts you know asking her questions.

She curls tightly to me kissing me on the lips and cheeks, her body skin to skin to mine, she's kind of- like- a hyper puppy... you know- wet nose, big sad eyes, giving you lots of unwanted wet kisses, and can't sit in one place for too long.

Now she is pulling on my necklace, the one I am always wearing it has my dad's wedding ring hanging from it -a thin silver chain and the gold band hanging from it, a gift dad gives me- saying- 'He loves me more than mom, that I am the love of his life.' Yet sis tugs gently to get my full attention. I ask here- 'Why are you not wearing your undies?'

And she baby- talks without missing a beat- 'Be- because you don't at night so-o why should I's.' I knew not too long from now she would be running around the house stark-naked like always, saying it's because I sleep this way. I am sure mom will say I am a bad role model, but yet there are far worse things she has done, things that mom and dad never need to know about, things that I can even remember right now. If she wants to be in my bad nude, will- I guess that's okay...? She is just trying to be like me, and that's sweet. I have saved her butt many times when she has done bad things. I have been like a mom to her, ever since she was born if I wanted to be or not. And she has been there for me when I was a- nobody. Yeah, she's the best pain in the butt a girl can have.

'Mommy says you have to get up soon, her hand covering her eyes as she walks my room and sees both of us.' Her breath smells like toothpaste, as she kisses us good morning, and she stumbles over all the stuff lying on the floor and it's not until I push sis off me that I realize how badly I'm shaking. Mom, she has one of those green face masks speed on, which is some scary looking crap, pulls she has curlers in her hair. Yet that's not what's got me traumatized. 'It's Friday,' I say confused. I thought we were going to the rusty anchor today? Mom said- 'I thought you didn't like doing that Karly that you're too grow up to be with your mommy and Daddy and sissy... always- yes we are all going this upcoming weekend, glad to see you want to go.' I said- 'Oh- okay?' Mom- 'Karly are you feeling okay? Are you not your usual descent and moody self?' Me- 'Yah I am a fine mom.'

I have no idea how I got home last night, or what I did or didn't do. It's like it never happened, yet I think it did... didn't it? Maybe I drink too much?

Mom said- 'Um-hum- come on you two bare cuddle bugs it's getting late.'

Then- I remember getting in the car, with the girls and the fighting it was all coming back to me, as I see my sis run into her room, leaving her nighty behind on my bed.

I knew that something looked different about her when I looked her over, I am starting to remember what Ray did to her last night. Yet she seems to be taking it so well- so strange. I have no idea what happened to Jenny or Maddie or Liv, and just thinking about it makes me awful sick, pissed, and yet so worried. I put my feet on the ground, first on my fuzzy shaggy throw rug, and then I step forward feeling the hard wood under my feet.

The cold wood reminds me. When I was younger, I would lie on the floor all summer wishing I have some friends to spend my time with. Back then my only friend was my sis and my horse, I'm curious to do the same thing now, and reflect a bit on what the heck is going on- and also on how things have changed, I know my sis will be another half hour getting ready. And with me all I have to do it jump in my outfit laying there on the floor. My skin feels so cold yet, yet on the inside, I feel scorching.

Like- photos on Instagram, all these snapshots start scrolling, row after row in my mind. Seeing bits and pieces of what went down last night. My, I- phone starts vibrating on top of my bed until it falls off the edge hitting me square in the face making me jump two feet in the air. I reach for it and slide my finger over the cracked screen. There's a new text from Jenny. Oh, good she must be okay then... or maybe it's a text saying one of the girls is not okay; I was so scared to look, yet I had too.

OCD much?

I read it and it is looking oddly former, yet I'm not one- hundred percent sure, I do resave and send out over six-hundred texts a day, yet this almost seems like a copy of the same infect to one that I vaguely remember getting, what would be in my mind two days ago- 'Don't forget b*tches, it's love-o-grams day!' Too- strange... this should be Sunday... right? I wanted to text back and say- this already happened, yet before I got a new message started, another one from Jenny popped up on the screen waiting to be opened. I look at the date and it's the same too, I thought for sure my phone was broken, it has been dropped many times. Yet how could it be wrong? I have to be mistaken. Maybe the whole thing was a messed-up dream? I open it, and it's not the same, so I thought maybe I am not crazy? It said- 'B- there in 5 min.' I knew by the way it was written she was driving fast.

I unexpectedly feel like I'm plummeting underwater unable to swim to save myself, I don't know what I did that was so wrong if I am repeating this all over. Did I do anything wrong? I look out the window and see Madilyn walking to school, and Jenny passing her up calling her a retard out her window, I get a new text with the same repeating date. It said - 'I am going to start a rumor that I saw Julie- fingering Maggie's bushy hairy p*ssy today in the library during study hall.' This terrifyingly creepy I thought! I knew about this already, this is old news, which I assumed was true. Why is she telling me this? It's not like I can stop it from happening. I wonder if I should forward this to Maggie. However, if Jenny finds out I am going to be screwed.

Also, If I am recreating this day like I think I might be doing, maybe I should tell Liv not to abort her baby, yet is it my place too? I am, I recreating that day? Is this happening to me? Why is it happening to me did I earn this? Was I given a new chance? It must be...! So, I do the unthinkable and I forward the message, will she get, I wonder what I've just done was meant to be altered. I feel sick doing this, for the fear of Jenny revenge, yet something inside, a small voice was telling me to do it. I feel like I'm weightless, spinning around lying naked on my floor. Have you ever felt like you were re-watching yourself from space making chooses, that's what I feel like- I am doing now? I know I have to snap out of it and get dressed to impress at school, I know I sure can where Marcells T-shirt that lying next to me on the floor, or I would be laughed out of the building. I stand up unsure if I am going to fall to my knees.

Now I am standing, yet I feel so woozy and woosy. My belly cramps in knots, worse than when I am on my period. I stumble to the bathroom bumping into everything down the hallway, the bathroom is by my mom and dad's bedroom, I am holding my mouth. My legs trembling over what I have done, certainly, I'm going to throw up or shut myself, or both... I didn't even think about closing the door when I get there or turn on the light... I barfed in the scarp can while side saddling one leg on either of the toilets, as it runs coming out of me from both ends at the same time. I reached for the sink after I thought it was all over and brushed my teeth and then shower to wash off.

My shower is on way too hot and there's thick steam everywhere, fogging up the mirror, drops are budding upon the tiles. I hear voices in the hallway, but the water's rushing down on me, and it feels wonderful, it's falling so hard on my head and body I can't make them out, yet I sure if the mother says nasty things to me, dad. I stop the water flow overhead. I hear dad looking in at me saying: 'Get out of the shower, and get going, your friend is out there waiting for you. I said- What? Oh my god, close the door dad and don't look at me. Yet he left not remember to close the door all the way.

I step out of the shower stall dripping wet, I blot the remainder off with a towel, and there is no time for makeup or doing my hair.

Jenny, early I thought... it has to be a miracle. I feel there is like an electric current running through my body, coming for deep inside me when I looked up and see my little sis looking up me, saying- 'Are you okay?' Her fingers brushed against my lower back skin, as I was staring at her without expression on my face. My eyes widen in the phenomenon, yet I hide know idea why it was in such utter shock to me. She is always sneaking up on me. Yet you would think I saw a ghost by the look with-in my unconscious feeling eyes.

I look into my hand mirrors, pulling it off the countertop, and- I see that my irises are surrounded by a jade green- a glowing circle of light, let me now that I have made it... the powers at be are letting me have my do-overs. My eye was always green but never like this, they're so alluring now, almost like glowing the light of the other universe above, letting me know that I am echoing the final days of my life.

Me being me even though I am sick, I have a theory at how this works: that each time I have to do this over the light in my eyes gets weaker, and if I use this up, and- I don't make it right, I'll surely fall into the pit below, never to be saved. Oh- so the dream of being in hell wasn't a dream at all, it was real! That means, I only have seven attempts, or so that's the philosophy. Do you think I'll make it...?

I sure don't!

It's Jenny- my daddy's let her in. I walk into my room undressed, holding my wet towel in my right hand. Jenny looks at me and said- 'I see we are going for the earthy look today; god you could have shaved a little.' Jenny is lying bully down on my bed, looking through my phone, with her legs up in the air, letting one fall and bounces on the Serta ever once in a while. She looks up me, she got that pissed off look, eyebrows bent, I knew she saw I forwarded the message. I pay it off, acting like I was happy to see her, and in a way, I was, I would never want to see one of my girlfriends die- or be dead.

Oh, Jenny- She looks so typical, so acquainted with everyone, yet on the inside is falling apart. Jenny is Bipolar and has Social Anxiety Disorder mixed with Bulimia, like every time she feels not wanted by a boy or feel overweight or something is not going her way, she has a hard time keeping her food down, she has even up-cucked on me and the girls at lunch, not meaning too. I am far from being a psychologist, yet those are my diagnosis, yet everyone just seems to ignore her faults. I know she saw the text, because she ran down the hall to throw-up, running my little butt over.

If she asks why- I'll just say- 'Butt dialing!'

Jenny walks back into my room; she flops bully fist on the bed. I asked uneasily with curiosity- 'So what transpired last night?'

She mopes for a second. 'Yeah, sorry about that. I couldn't call back. I didn't get off the home phone with Ken until, like four am. And because my mom is a b*tch she took my cell away last night before for staying out too late on a school night.'

'You did call me back; Jenny'- I knew it was happening for sure now? I rub my arm, I have goosebumps. 'No, I just told you didn't- that I couldn't...' 'I-no- I meant- never mind.'

'You drink too much,' said Jenny. 'Ken, he was freaking out over the fact that some college boy named Josh asked me to go to a Taylor Swift concert in June, and I said yes. I told him it not like we're going to do anything. Yet he doesn't believe me. I told him I would make it up to him. Ken going to end it I feel, he's sick of me.' I said- 'Oh you poor thing...' I knew what she had to do; all girls understand that. She said- 'I swear to you, Kar, guys are so needy. But if you follow these three things you can't go wrong- Feed 'em, Blow 'em, and Ride 'em, and they're happy to keep you around, if not they'll find some on that will do just that, like if you don't.

I said- 'I'll remember that...' Then I added- 'Yeah and then where the sluts if we do, and a b*tch if we don't.' Jenny said- 'You got that right baby girl.' Jenny said holding back for crying- 'I only wanted to be loved, that's why I do what I do for all these boys.' I thought to myself- I get yah. I nodded my head yes when she said that, but I did not comment, as I was slipping into my outfit at the foot of the bed.

She looks up at me with misty eyes. 'Talking of boys- are you eager about tonight?' 'About what?' I say acting like I don't what is going to go down, or don't even know what she's talking about. I play dumb! Her words are all running past me, faster than how she drives, everything is distorted together. Jenny always talks like that when she gets upset. Her words go into overdrive. I'm holding on to the bedpost, trying not to fall over, or on top of Jenny, I would love to sit down yet, Jenny is hogging up my single bed. She said- 'I think you should back up with Ray or do him already.' She throws me a condom from her purse.

I said- 'Who do you think would be my type then?' 'You, Marcel, some worm Bud Lite, and his Star Wars sheets. OMG that would be perfect and she giggles. 'How romantic,' she shouted. Though, I was thinking OMG Jenny you're always right. Like it would be so romantic, yet little did she know I felt that way, already... I never realized how much of a weirdo I am. I have fallen too a complete nerd, on the outside, I have completely changed, but on the inside, I am one too! We all try to be something we're not in high school, even Jenny has everyone fooled.

Nevertheless, the ones that seem the most put together are the ones that are falling apart the most. No one's life is as good as it seems, and it's even worse when you're like Jull's and Madilyn that have us throwing crap in their faces. I stand here feeling like such an ass hole, not even hearing what Jenny is rambling on about, because it's nonsense, compared to what I have done in my thoughts.

I go pee one last time, and Jenny flows me in the bathroom and sits on the edge of the tube looking at me as I go. Then after I got up, she went, I was thinking like we didn't need to do this together, yet that how Jenny is we have to do everything together. That is when my sis walks into my room and said- 'I have to Ba-bath Karly, would get my stuff Re-ready and help me a bath?' I try to close the door saying get mom to bath you, but she wedges her hand in at the last minute and pushes into the bathroom.

And Jenny said- 'It's okay we can bath her.' I was thinking to myself the girl is ten years old, and still needs someone to help her take a bath, wash her hair, and get her dressed. Yet mom and dad want to keep her their baby girl. 'You haven't showered yet?'

She shakes her head. 'Uha- ha.' Jenny said- 'Come on the hoop in here, as she pulls off her nighty. I just look at like when did you become so motherly. She said- 'What! Like I always want to have a sister, and do this.' I said- Okay then, knock yourself out!' Jenny- tee- he-e's like it's the greatest thing in the world. I have done this so many times, that I just don't see the fun in it. I reach into the tub and turns off the water. I about that time is when sis surprised me by saying- 'Jeez sis you look like sh-crap. Then I said- 'Thanks a lot!' She must have thought she hurt my feeling because she grabs me by the hand and jumped up wraps her wet body around me in a hug; as Jenny grabs the big fluffy towels to dry her off the rest of the way. 'Aw- that's so cute,' Jenny said.

I was starting to feel okay, and much less sick. I said- 'Here honey step into these undies, and let's get these jeans and blouse on you. I sit here on the toile and side on her socks, as her toes are wiggling. Jenny said- 'Come on Kellie you need some makeup, just like your sis, she says. Jenny scans over are pale white faces saying, as I sit on the edge of my bed, I got it. 'Your right Kellie your sis does look like crap today.'

'I'll do both of yin's make up now. We can make five minutes or so for this.' 'Okay- I'm done girls- OMG! You two look like gorgeous twines.' I was like um-hum. Thinking to myself, I got the same vary reaction last light. You know sometimes, Jenny can be so sweet, she not always cold and heartless! Jenny pulls out my cell phone from the middle of my bra, probably to text Maddie and Liv that we're going to be late for the first bell. She watches me for a second, packing Kellie book bag and then turning away, like she has something to type that not for our eyes to see, Jenny always delete her history, which is something I should do.

Jenny- 'Don't take this wrong way baby girl, but you're not smelling the best today, you smell like boy's balls!' I said- 'Really?' Stopping to think- 'Yeah you would know what that small like,' I said. Kellie is giggling and says baby talk stuttering like always. - 'Yeah, sh-she has Ba- BO every morning!' She was so stinking cute saying that, like that, I couldn't be mad at her. Kellie starts pulling on my clothes my tank top, my skirt, as I look in the closet for my boots. Jenny runs back into my room, to find my Secret roll-on deodorant in my underwear drawer.

Surely throwing all of them on the floor to find it. She's back, I roll it on hastily. Jenny said- 'You could've shaved you pits to... God.' 'I hope the boys don't mind your lack of hygiene today.' Sis- 'let me have some of that...' so like everything, I let her share my used deodorant. It makes her feel like a big girl. But in my mind, I'm like you're already a woman after last night. Uncanny isn't it!

Chapter: 65

Before Yesterday is Today?

I hear from the sofa- 'Wear a jacket, Karly!' My mom thinks even when I'm dressed, I'm still half-naked.

So, where out the door, I see sis get on the yellow bus. Waving at me like a moron out the window! And the cold feels like a b*tch slap to my face, yet it is a good way to wake up. I get into the SUV that was wrecked the night before. Thinking that this thing is like a coffin to me, yet I could say anything, or Jenny would think I have completely lost my mind.

So, we go down all the same roads, not stopping at any of the red or yellow lights or signs. When Liv gets into the car she leans forward and grabs my hot- chocolate, and the smell of her perfume is strawberry, it is a body spray she has been wearing devotedly ever since she was twelve and her hips and boobs develop in like the end of sixth grade, she buys like five bottles every time we go into Sally Beauty Supply.

I know that she has it on her, so I ask her for a squirt, even though I am sick of it after all these years, and even though I don't want to smell like her, I ask for it anyway, I don't want to smell like balls! Even though it stopped being cool in seventh grade, to where kiddy stuff like she still does- I have to close my eyes, overwhelmed and coffin as a puff of it surrounds me, or then what I asked for. Gross, I smell like a pre-teen after gym class now, just trying to cover it up.

Closing my eyes was a horrible idea. One- I get to feeling car sick. Two- I can see where Jenny is driving, and the way it feels- it must be off the road. Three- I start to daydream about Marcel, plus heartsick over Ray still, even though I side I was done after what he did to me, I can stop having feelings for him, he was the first that took me from behind. Oh no, he was not my first love god no, I didn't know what love was until I saw it in Marcel's eyes, but was it real? That what I am afraid of- trusting my heart to a boy again. I could see all the flashes of sincere light within Marcel's home, I could see him holding as no boy has ever done with me. I could almost feel the tingle of his kiss on my lips.

'Holy freaking crap balls,' said Jenny.

I snap my eyes open as Jenny swerves to avoid hitting a cuddly black cat, walking past. That is when I start to look out the window into the side mirror, and the glossy dark trees are flocking on either side of us like outlined ghosts in the navy-blue sky. I smell something hot. I said- 'Yeah that's just me.' I hear Jenny shrieking not too long after I feel relaxed, and yet ones more, I feel my stomach go to the bottom of my feet and back up, as the SUV rolls to the one side, tires wailing- 'It was a family of deer this time, trying not to get murdered. You should have seen their faces. It's like mine every time I ride in this SUV.' Once again, I feel like I have cheated death, with Jenny at the wheel. The girls chortle as Jenny throws her coffee cup out the window, hitting the baby fawn, about the same time is when Jenny throws out her morning joint too, and the smell of pot smoke is bizarrely duple: I'm not sure whether I'm smelling it or recalling the night before.

Maybe I'm just high on life, at the moment.

Liv- 'Dear sweet baby Jesus I think you're without a doubt the worst driver on the planet!' I said- 'You think?' Maddie sniggers. And Liv spit sprays some of my hair on the back of my headrest. Liv, she has become a real squirt-er she is always sparing one of us girls down, yet Maddie the most! I said- 'I don't want to die like this today!' 'Please- please be more alert, please,' I stammered, I'm clutching the sides of my seat without meaning to. Jenny said- 'Kar, it's all good. Hey- It's not like I am going to crash, I never even been in a car wreck yet.'

I said- 'That's amazing!'

I start to think as I close my eyes, trying so hard not to hold my breath. Like it's so weird how life works, isn't? Like how I always wanted one thing, all my life, and I waited and waited for it but it never comes. And then it did happen last night, yet it was not what I hope for all, however, all you want to do is curl back up at that moment before things changed. And see if he is the one for me or if I should fall back into the arm of Ray, after all, I am his girl. One thing I have realized from dying: Every person you have dependencies on, and every person you need to count on, will ultimately upset you. No matter how much they try not to, nothing in life is ever going to be perfect, so maybe you have to forgive and forget, or trust and move on?

In my deepening delusional thoughts, I ask myself these questions.

'I just want to be normal, like everyone else that is popular.'

'Karly are you sure that being like everyone else is making you a happy girl?'

Maddie- 'Mail Box!' (Smack, thump, thump.)

Jenny- 'It's okay, it was falling over anyway!'

I said- 'Not really!'

'Don't worry.' Jenny leans over and rubs my inner thigh. Honestly, I was wondering what she is reaching for when she did that.

Jenny- 'I won't let my best friend die without knowing what it's like having a boy give her first orgasm.'

Then I added- 'All have it be just me and my lover, without everyone looking at us smacking hips.'

Jenny- 'Giggles saying good luck with that.'

Maddie- 'I get it your Cream shy!'

I said- 'I would like to have some privacy squeezing it out. And not have someone next to me, like liking my nose or something gross like that. Like the last time I was doing it, I had some boy playing with it while looking at us.

Liv- 'You're so strange!'

Jenny- whoa, are you saying yet went all the way with Ray and didn't tell us?

'Crap- I did it, I slipped up.'

I said- 'No- this was with some other joker, at a party months ago, you don't know him.'

Jenny, said- 'really?'

'I like- know everybody.'

Maddie- 'Oh maybe it was with a girl?' Liv- 'Maybe it was with a boy and a girl?'

'So,' Jenny said.

So- I lied and said- 'Yes it was with Addison and Avery and a college boy named Connor.' I freaked, saying that- 'I was like, so love drunk and missed on roofies, that I took part in a three-girl one boy orgy at a party.'

Yes, I have kissed a girl and liked it. But I never did anything like this. (By far the worst lie I have ever made in my life. Yet I have been in some, not wanting to be, and it was only with one person. And no, I was not always with someone I loved either, it was just hook-up sex.)

Oh- and sad but true, but no a boy has never gotten me there and I been with at least fifteen. The first time was the worst of them all as you know. But my freshman year I went through like five different boyfriends, I have boxes under my bed with memoirs from each, and after they got what they wanted they all dumped me, like a week later. The same thing happens in my sophomore year, I had two boyfriends that year and three random hookups, plus some experimenting with a girl. Junior more of the same, so much so that I stop thinking about it. I even let the gym teacher gave me because I didn't care anymore. So, the number may be higher than fifteen.

I only have an orgasm doing it myself. Never with another person, mostly have I thought it's because I am not relaxed to enjoy it. With these boys, it's always harried up, so I can brag about doing you. Ray doesn't even last long enough to get me damp down there. However, I liked Ray for another reason. TMI- I know! I thought to myself: I never wanted this- I just wanted to fit in.

I wonder what it would be like with Marcel if I would let him inside me?

I don't know why I didn't I let him in last night, I've let every other boy in. I guess it was just those internal voices of the girls saying he's too creepy and unpopular. Jenny only thought I should hook up with him for a joke because he's still a virgin. Yet on the inside, I don't find that funny, on the outside I have to smile and giggle at it as they do.

I'm desperate to spill my guts and tell her everything like I always do, to Jenny and the girls at that moment, to ask them what's happening to me- just to see if they would believe me. Yet some little voices inside me said shut up Karly or you'll blow it. And really, I can't articulate any way to say I have lived passed death- it just would not make any sense. Yet I ignored that voices, and blurted it out anyways- I had to test the limits. 'We all in a car mishap after a party that hasn't occurred, and I was impaled when this SUV hit a tree, and I think I may have passed away yesterday. And like I saw hell, and then I got to live again when I woke up in my bed.'

Jenny said- 'Yeah baby girl they call that dreaming, and you' all call me the dumb one.'

How can this day be happening all over again, and yet be so different from the first time around? It was puzzling my mind.

I thought that the girls were going to die over giggling at me, saying something that they find so stupid.

‘I thought I died tonight,’ I said knowing how incredible it sounded.

Liv said- ‘It’s a dream, Karly. You have dreams like this when you’re under the gun, and what something like a boy or sex, it’s just your nightmares playing tricks with you. You may just be stressed over failing some of your classes at school.

I whispered kind of under my berth- ‘Oh- don’t remind me!’

Maddie- ‘She’s just sexually frustrated that all.’

Jenny- ‘It could be what you’re eating too, that you’re dreaming this stuff.’

Maddie must think I’m quiet because I’m worried about Ray and me what I have planned for the night. Like it at this point was no big secret that I was going to go all the way at some point, yet at this point in the day, they didn’t know that I was going to be at Marcel’s party.

Maddie wraps her arms around me from the back seat, and Liv holds my hand. Maddie is saying- ‘Good sex is just like learning to swim, or holding your breath what you know how to control your body, you get good at it.’

Maddie, kisses French kisses me on the lips, and slides my undies off to the one side and starts fingering me... (I didn’t want it, yet I was not going to stop it, it would be rude to ask her to stop.) At the same time, she was saying- ‘You should become gay, it’s easier that way to have them. Liv is looking over us jealous.

Saying- ‘That’s true, only girls know how to please another girl.’

Maddie utters- ‘See, I told you!’

I said- ‘I am still afraid.’

Maddie said- ‘Don’t fear, Karly. You’ll be fine, it will be fine, will always be there for you, and as far as having a big-O, you just have to be stress-free or in-love. See you’re relaxed with me, that why it happened.’ ‘That’s right,’ said Jenny! Liv- snaffled and then nodding- yes, and petting my hand with hers, yet still envious, about what just happened, I can tell.

I try to force a smile and act like I am happy, yet really, I was revolted. So much so that I can barely focus on what happened last night, all I could think about is what going to happen tonight and what just happened. It seems like a long time ago that I got up from my bed, and even longer since I imagined being side-by-side with Ray next to me in that bed. It feels like it is been so long that I am not even sure if it has the naked body I want to be pressed upon mine. It feels so right to imagine Marcel next to me feeling his warm, soft hands rubbing over my skin.

Thinking about him makes me ache from the inside out, my heart thump, and knees knock my throat threatens to close up just think about have it sliding down, and going up in me. I so what to feel it. I unexpectedly can't wait to see him, to feel all of him, to just be with him.

Yet, I still feel like I am cheating on Ray, feeling this way. And then again, as he did it with my sis and Justen and every other girl he could get with, why should I? Once a cheater always a cheater! I really can't wait to see his sideways smile, and his and messy hair, and even his dirty-looking jeans that he always wears that smells slightly like boy sweat, even after his mom wash them for him. Yeah, it's safe to say I am falling! I am so wishing I had his shirt on now, so I could inhale his boy-sh sent.

'It's like riding a horse,' Jenny modifies Maddie's rambling aloud thoughts. 'You'll be a blue-ribbon champion in no time, baby girl. Just ride his thingy unstill you win your reward at the end, it doesn't matter how many times it takes him to reload, just along as you get one. Even if he is done you keep going. Don't stop until you want to stop! Own your man!' 'I always forget that you two used to ride horses,' said Maddie.

Jenny- 'And she was damn good at it too. But I have been riding longer'

Liv giggles saying- 'You can say that again.'

I said- 'But I'm not like you, Jenny, I don't know how to be controlling.'

Jenny- 'Grow some lady nuts, and just do what I say, and you feel unstoppable of the world next time.'

I said- 'Okay I will, I'll keep going until it happens.'

The girl all cheered me on wott-ing in the SUV- fists pumping!

Liv has the sniffles, Maddie and Jenny have the giggles, and I sitting here kind of moody going over my same old thoughts while blowing the steam off what's left of my small hot chocolate. Which I might add is not more than one short gulping swallow.

~*~

'I gave it up!'

I need a hooded-Lady-show for this one to get off and not stress so much, crap I going to freaking break out! I use the pink on it is fast and I do it fast and right now that all I need, it has the gray ball on the end that jiggles it around just right, what can I say, I want it all now, and I going to do it and have them see it.

~*~

(Horses like boys...?)

I had to remind myself that I give up riding before I started eighth grade. I said that because I knew the same tired Jokes were going to roll in soon, about me riding horse-ie's from the day I was like, seven until then.' 'I don't think I could ride now to save my life.' Jenny said - 'It's just like riding a bike you never forget how too.'

'How would you know' I asked?

Jenny said- 'I still ride from time to time, I just got second place in a jumping competition two weeks ago.'

I whispered- 'O-oh.' (On the inside- I was crushed, thinking it okay for you to ride but I can't. My horse dyed not long after, I stopped riding her, thinking I didn't love her anymore. I didn't want to stop.) I think if she starts making fun of me now, I would bust out crying. And if I cry then I'll be a BABY! Yet it okay for her to cry to us over stupid boys or her time of the month drama. I could never clear the truth to her: that riding was my favorite thing in this whole wide world. It wasn't about winning with me, no- it was about having my freedom, my happiness, and my relaxation. The way I could escape from all of them that put me down, back them. I loved it more than boys, more than friends, more than family even. I was the best I could be back then. I was strong then, now I am nothing but a week p*ssy that lets everyone crap on me.

I can't believe, that I wanted this life. I loved to be alone in the barn, or out on the fields particularly in the late summer when everything is crunchy and golden, and the plants show off all their wonderful different colors, and it smells of hay, is what made my day complete, racing past all the trees, down the wooded trails, it was more than just jumping her at compassion. We had a bond- I loved brushing my horse down, braiding her main, and being her best friend, feeding her carrots sticks, I loved it all. I gave up my best friends for ones that I can't always trust. Your horse's always your trusting best friend. And if I am crying now it's not that I am sad, it's that I am happy.

I have to lie...!

I am nothing- nothing, but a complete liar, a wide-ranging slut, and a total baby!

Shadow People

I search for my sunglasses in my purse to cover my crying eyes. I just said it was to keep the glare out of my eyes when I put them on. I look in the visor mirror, and I see Liv smiling at me. Like I knew she was going to cry, yet really, I wanted to see if my makeup was okay. I start to tune myself out I don't hear the phones going off. I can't hear their laughter or chirpy voices. I can't see the houses rushing by or the cars, I just close my eyes and fade away in my daydreams.

Maybe I'll tell her that I wish I was the girl I used to be, but at the same time, I know that I won't dare. She would think I was crazy. They all would. Jenny might just say- 'Okay if you feel that way, you can go back to following me around like my shadow.'

Go- go, be with all the losers or the sped, and don't think about coming back.' I don't want that either. It gets quiet, and I open my eyes, and I keep quiet, just looking out the window, as it steams up and I have to keep wiping it with my palm.

The light outside is faint and soggy-looking like the sun is attempting to roll over the horizon of tree-covered hills and peeking into the valleys. The day is overcast like the sun is too lazy to get out of bed and wake itself up.

The shadows are as piercing and jagged like needles. Like the shadow, I used to be wanting to be in the group of three girls following them around in awe. I watch buzzard, black crows, vulture circling the SUV like I am dead meat. It was a scary omen taunting me, from down below. I see all of the fifty or more taking off at the same time from power lines above, follow me like a creepy shadow of death.

'Sometimes, I wish I was a bird. So, I can fly far. Far, far away from here.' But not one like these... something more majestic. I wish I could soar over all creation, maybe over a beach, flying higher, and higher until I could touch the clouds or what lies beyond. Seeing the ground drop away looking like puzzle pieces, or patchwork on afghan blanket flying so far away that nobody would know my name.

‘It’s too stuffy in here song, please,’ Jenny says, and I shuffling through the iPod until I find her lady jam Iggy Azalea – Fancy, she has to sing just like her alone with the track and wiggle butt to the beat in the set. Yet like I am getting tired of this song. Nevertheless, I keep my eyes open, because this is worth watching. I should video this and put it on YouTube or Facebook! Yet I have supersized that her theme song isn’t Sisco- Thong Song, maybe- I guess that is to the 1990s for her. After Jenny was done embarrassing herself, Maddie finds- The Ting Tings - That’s Not My Name. We all can sing along to that one like morons. Yet we let Jenny take the I- phone, and we do the lines, Jenny does the nettles! That where I draw the line and do that, yet not the other crap that freaks with your mind.

By the time we pull into the long covering driveway, that winds past the lower parking area just a row down from the faculty lot we hit Senior Lane. I’m feeling better, just thinking of what might happen today has got me in the a-okay mood, even though Jenny’s cursing F-Baum’s and Maddie complaining that one later will she have so many that they will withhold her diploma.

And she has- to go to summer school at her own expense. Its Friday yet can tell know of the kids give a crap about being here, I know that we will all have detention and it’s already two minutes after the first bell. Yet with Jenny, I know she’ll get us out of it, someway somehow. Even if her mom has to do favors, with the staff, or pay big money will get out of it.

Everything and everybody look’s so ordinary, just like another Friday. The only thing that has everyone hyped up about is that it is love-o-grams day.

I know that because it’s Friday, will Shy will be coming from house Kevin Peteai’s home, sure enough, I see them, ducking through the cars holding hands to go sit up on the wall to make out before the first period starts. They have a hard time being about, she wears his class ring like it’s something to be proved of... yet really, it’s not. I know he cheats on her like it happened last night. I saw him with a freshman, and they were going at it like bunnies. Oh no, I am not going to say anything she dislikes me as it is.

I see Lizzy making her way up to the door with Johnny Kacatomes like they have been dating forever. When it has not been any more than three days. Nikkei and Jacky both have loser boyfriends, yet they think their asses are something else, most boys don't want to mess with that. Nikkei has pimples all over there face, and Jacky has nasty braces on her teeth and she drools and lisps when she talks. Boys don't like girls that have braces, you can understand why. Yet he doesn't seem to mind, even though Scotty Smalls had to go to the ER with her attached. I bet he loves expanding that one to his mom and dad. You can see photos of it on Facebook! I am friends with everyone, I have over 3,000 FB-er's. I am sure we all are going to cut and run the fence. Yet I am not sure at what time we are going to do it.

I was looking at Jenny as she was pulling on my hair after I slapped her crossed the face. Telling me that I was so wrong yet I? Yet this is all one big freaked up the dream, 'I am not the one that is to blame, here am I?' I not relaxing at all at this point fearing that I have made some big mistake, Yes, I see my sis over there giggling like a little girl, and it is starting to piss me off.

Yet, she is still making out with Ray, and I am slicked by it. (It's not a dream, which small voice inside me screamed.) I look at Kellie she said this what I want can you be happy for me, and leave us alone! I can do what the hell ever I want. 'I can kiss anyone, I what also! And you're not going to stop me, what do you say to that, go suck it. I see all the boys I could be with and I know what I have been missing out on. I could kiss each and everyone if I wanted to, and make them bend me over too. I see Ray standing over in the parking lot.

I am blinded by the light I say out loud.

That is when she starts singing-

Revved up like a deuce Another runner in the night.

Blinded by the light. Revved up like a deuce Another runner in the night.

‘And I am like what?’

Chapter: 67

Titanium

In bed, it's the start of yet another repotting day, I don't have much to say, I just wish everyone would go away, come whatever, and what may, I just want to say- with Madilyn only, and never be lonely again.

Jenny, who's tugging on my hand and tossing down on me as she is looking down impatiently beside me, with her hair falling on my face, that I'm an only dream (Yet it was not a dream all to me.) I wanted to say that I had this amazing dream, about a girl she dislikes, like I could feel her like I could see her like she was crazily coming through me have I lost my mind, she's not here, or is she? It's like I can even hear her giggle out of my mouth, and I start to relax. It's all a dream; as I roll over knowing this girl is like side me, and inside my mind she is, having missionary sex with me, I feel the thrusting she is doing it for me, I kiss the plow and I feel her lips and tongue going in my mouth, I feel my clitoris rub up and down on the soft plow beneath me until I come so hear I can even breath yet it's her voices and birth coming out of me. I feel myself reaching for my dildo and yet I feel in it not me in my body complaining me to do this it is Madilyn I feel her on the inside, I slime it on the floor on my glass mirror and I feel like I am having sex with her even if it a boy-sh thing to do.

I feel my face tighten her then it does down there, I feel myself going up and down faster and faster, I can't breathe- it wonderful- I hear my name- yet it not me- saying it out of my mouth it is here, it's like the only she figured out how to be with me, yet I feel nuts saying this to Jenny, yet I feel I have to tell someone.

Then I just roll Jenny off me and show her what happens and she doesn't get I am on my backside and I am screaming my head off and I know that Madilyn is there yelling for me, just to me, and being a butt about it. Jenny said nice retired impressions or Maggie.

Damn, do you all ways come to that herd? Look at the glass and then Madilyn inside me make me get down and licks it up. Umm- yummy! I hear ough- gross- what the freak, even I don't do that! In its vibrating a crossed the floor, yet all hard and pink. I wish it would have been the glass one at least my dad would have asked- if- I was jack hamming the hardwood floor. Jenny said that what she said and my dad rolls his eyes and walks out smiling, like girls- I don't get it two beats and where done.

Jenny opens the lining of my old band jacket and said I didn't know you had four or them.

She takes one and it wiggles back and forth, I start giggling even though it was not me doing it, yet I had one in my hand to, so we just started jousting with them. And my flung out into the hallway where my sis said 'I'll keep this one for myself. I didn't know you had all these.' And I see my dad walk up with one eyebrow up- like what the hell! How did you get all these? 'My silly like sis asked- 'At the mail with a group of girlfriends your dumb crap we hid them with dolls in the same box.' There I am spared eagle and my dad looking up the black hole saying good god, that's not right. I and the girls even took a photo just to see if the body get it.

Nevertheless, to most all they see is the cute doll inside and not what it hides behind. That is, when my dad walks into the room and looks in the black jacket and pulls out the little pink bolt vibrate, I could have crap and pissed myself. My mom walks in the door and without missing a beat said- 'That's kinda-hot!' My dad slaps himself on the forehead and said what happened to my little girl.

I am thinking of Madilyn dreaming about her constantly, she is on my mind day and night. Yet she is not the only one I see in my mind at this point that could be the one. Her giggling laugh, yet his sweet smile gets me through. However, Rays can do this for me.

Nevertheless, is it all a dream? In this dream I am relaxed, yet I can't see that far ahead of me. What do I want? I don't know I feel as if I am deeming, nevertheless I know that this is not so. I can kiss anybody I want to, and as we walk past groups of guys or girls and I can check them off in my head, as I see all the lovely colors. I could kiss and freak each and everyone if I wanted to day in and day out.

I see Ray standing in the corner talking to Jenny and I think, and now Marcel talking to my sis and it's starting to piss me off, his mine b*tch! Or is he, hell I need to figure out what I want, or what I need. I could walk up to him right now and slap off his glasses right off his face.

I know that I am tall enough to reach his face, yet I was hoping she would after I saw him smacking her ass as if it was mine. Would it make any differences? Do I care? Maybe? Why? Why is a question that has known the answer?

I have nothing look at me, I know- I pull my pockets out and a nickel and a dime fall out. I am not okay with that at all, yet do I have a choice- like- I have a choice here, like my great grandmother in the past. She had to make them they were not easy. It's all the same hex, only the names have changed. I don't know where the idea comes from, she had like I don't get the ones I am having either, I wonder if sometimes in this dream I am having if it is if I don't see her standing before me in stunning white. Then that voice said to me 'It's not a dream as I see her descending to me. What does she have to say to me?

Should I be scared?' That is when they all came down after she said this...

'Why?'

'Why are you doing this to yourself?'

'What?'

I asked impatiently! 'Don't talk to me that way.' 'What way?' Did I just get angled b*tch-slapped? 'What the hell?' Do you talk to your mother with that mouth, speaking of the places it has been? 'Um-hello you did it- remember silly!' oh yeah that's right... maybe not. Why am I here then? Don't do what I did, you feel nothing pain, and maybe it not all on you. 'I would have never kissed a girl where you did!' Oh- yeah you did? I just got b*tch slapped again! I saw fifty shad of gay! And not the sucky movie.

I just want to which the movie 'Pitch Perfect,' yet it was playing in my mind as she plays with it with my hand. Yet it likes it her little hand doing it! I can even small here though my breathing ever so deeply. She is all I ever want yet so far away, yet so close to me she is my body or so it seems to me as the dead girl, or am I dead?

Yesterday morning, I felt the same way, I saw Madilyn in the corner with her hand wrapped around ray and it pisses me off so much you have no idea. I wanted her arm wrapped around my waist not his, or even the other way around; I don't know what I want at this point. She was smiling and giggling about something stupid that he said like used to do with me, it makes me sick she is mine, I can stand it, him breathing on her and kissing her neck hell I thought she was gay.

I am the one that wants to be nuzzled up against her. He was bending down to kiss her, and I so wanted to kick him dead in the ass hole. Payback is a b*tch, is not! She looks up and sees me, yet does she care at this point or am I dream yet another dream, that's even more freaked than the last. She was looking me with goo-goo eyes, yet kissing him or was he kissing her? What going on and what is going down. Then he takes my hand and drags him over to him, pushing other people out of the way, then make both kiss him at the same freaking time- the same freaking time! What's wrong with an asshole!

Jenny was looking over our shoulder saying damn! Just what I always wanted a three-way with Ray and Madilyn in the hallway. I don't know what is turning me on anymore. I see getaway and get off, and that what they both said they were turning to do. And everyone in the hallway has that simple smile on their face, like- oh yeah.

I search for my sunglasses in my purse to cover my crying eyes. I just said it was to keep the glare out of my eyes when I put them on. I look in the visor mirror, and I see Liv smiling at me. Like I knew she was going to cry, yet really, I wanted to see if my makeup was okay. I start to tune myself out I don't hear the phones going off. I can't hear their laughter or chirpy voices. I can't see the houses rushing by or the cars, I just close my eyes and fade away in my daydreams. Maybe

I'll tell her that I wish I was the girl I used to be, but at the same time, I know that I won't dare. She would think I was crazy. They all would. Jenny might just say- 'Okay if you feel that way, you can go back to flowing me around like my shadow. Go- to be with all the losers or the sped, and don't think about coming back.' I don't want that either. It gets quiet, and I open my eyes, and I keep quiet, just looking out the window, as it steams up and I have to keep wiping it with my palm.

The light outside is faint and soggy-looking like the sun is attempting to roll over the horizon of tree-covered hills and peeking into the valleys. The day is overcast like the sun is too lazy to get out of bed and wake itself up. The shadows are as piercing and jagged like needles. Like the shadow, I used to be wanting to be in the group of three girls following them around in awe. I watch buzzard, black crows, vulture circling the SUV like I am dead meat. It was a scary omen taunting me, from down below. I see all of the fifty or more taking off at the same time from power lines above, follow me like a creepy shadow of death.

‘Sometimes I wish I was a bird. So, I can fly far. Far, far away from here.’ But not one like these... something more majestic. I was I could soar over all creation, maybe over a beach, flying higher, and higher until I could touch the clouds or what lies beyond. Seeing the ground drop away looking like puzzle pieces, or patchwork on afghan blanket flying so far away that nobody would know my name.

‘It’s too stuffy in here song, please,’ Jenny says, and I shuffling through the iPod until I find her lady jam Iggy Azalea – Fancy, she has to sing just like her alone with the track and wiggle butt to the beat in the set. Yet like I am getting tired of this song.

Nevertheless, I keep my eyes open, because this is worth watching. I should video this and put it on YouTube or Facebook! Yet I am supersized that her theme song isn’t Sisqo- Thong Song, maybe- I guess that is to the 1990s for her. After Jenny was done embarrassing herself, Maddie finds- The Ting Tings – ‘That’s Not My Name.’ We all can sing along to that one like morons. Yet we let Jenny take them Liv, and we do the harmonies. I know how to play that on my pink fender gaiter it sits in the corner of my room that is trashed.

By the time we pull into the long covering driveway, that winds past the lower parking area just a row down from the faculty lot we hit Senior Lane. I’m feeling better, just thinking of what might happen today has got me in an a-okay mood, even though Jenny’s cursing F-Baum’s and Maddie complaining that one more late will she have so many that they will withhold her diploma. And she has to go to summer school at her own expense. Its Friday yet can tell know of the kids give a crap about being here, I know that we will all have detention and it’s already two minutes after the first bell. Yet with Jenny, I know she’ll get us out of it, someway somehow. Even if her mom has to do favors, with the staff, or pay big money will get out of it.

Everything and everybody look are so un-ordinary to me now, it’s just like another Friday, I get freaked by her and miss her and then I hook-up and feel bad- about leaving her at home when it could have been on hot ass date. The only thing that had everyone hyped up yet not me about this day going over was the stupid love-o-grams. I could give a freak! I know that because it’s Friday and the fourteenth, I feel for the ones that don’t have anyone I have someone all feel like she is come down in me, like designing in and reiterating out just Like an angel in the night, feeling everything about you to see if you're okay. Hell, you should see them sometimes at the game they have a love-hate relationship, sucking face one-minute sucking someone else ass the next.

Shy will be coming from form her house to Kevin Peteai's home, I don't have a car, yet I'll get to ride with on if I ride them for it, sure enough- sure enough- I see them driving passed in there crappy car at some point, as I duck through the cars trying not to get hit and maybe secretary holding hands with Madilyn to go sit up on the wall to make out before the first period starts.

They have a hard time being about, she wore his class ring like it's something to be proved of... yet really, it's not. I know he cheats on her like it happened last night. I saw him with a freshman, and they were going at it like bunnies. Oh no, I am not going to say anything she dislikes me as it is.

I see Lizzy making her way up to the door with Johnny Katnessachi like they have been dating forever. You can see by the way they're making out like just freaking have the baby in the hallway. When it has not been any more than three days.

Nikkei and Jacky both have loser boyfriends, yet they think their asses are something else, most boys don't want to mess with that. Nikkie Gattia has pimples all over her face, and Jacky Valgeil has nasty braces on her teeth and she drools all over, yet she still kisses some of the loser boys, yet there was this nasty time when, us girls got her hooked up that she got her braces a cough in boys forsaken, and I was like it happen to the best of us, and lips were shaken as talking not realizing I was the still thing about Ray.

Boys don't like girls that have braces, you can understand why. Yet he doesn't seem to mind, even though Scotty Smalls had to go to the ER with her attached. I bet he loves expanding that one to his mom and dad. You can see photos of it on Facebook! I am friends with everyone, I have over 3,000 FB-ers. I am sure we all are going to cut and run the fence. I see another girl named Ellody Lays, snagging her tank strap on a part of the face that was cut open, to get out, yet she is using it to get in on time. She's not going to make it.

I see Madilyn giving me- a big thumbs up, from over a crossed the way. I can see that she is wearing the same pair dirty rose pink flats she's had for- a zillion years, because she wears them every single day, even though there are so many holes in them you can see what color socks she's wearing, and they're usually mismatched; one stripped and one polka-dotted. The same can be said for her skirt it's got many rips and is what I would call filthy, I can see her baby blue thong panties as she walks by looking at the tear. Knowing that I give those to her so the girls would lay off on picking at her; like her mom only by her stuff from Goodwill when she has the money too. I watch her go rushing by, with her books pressed up against her boobs, knowing that the tank top she is wearing went out for style more than five years ago. Nonetheless, she is heading for the main structure, content in who she is, I wish I had her confidence. Madilyn is just Madilyn... she is one girl that I secretly look up too. Yeah, it's safe to say she is my girl crush, yet nobody needs to no.

Like underneath all the ratty clothing, and regardless of what everyone one says about her, she is one hot, sensual, and totally cute girl, in my mind. She is so much fun to hang with, we have so much that we like about one another the list could go on forever. Even though I have girlfriends that are so- popular were not always together, really all they want to do is a party and hook up and that gets old fast with me. Madilyn is just different...

Every time we are done doing it, (I say- I love you my awesome nard- Madi-lyn)

(Shush!)

I look at her like- Do you see me here with my one finger up to my lips, hitting the tip of my nose? You're my dirty little secret. You and I, we have to keep this undercover. I was thinking as she winks at me with those big bright eyes, and then she walks in the door.

Jenny- 'Looks at me saying- 'What that freak was that all about.'

I said- 'I think she was just picking a wedgie.'

The girls were like- 'Oh? Ooo-okay?'

Jenny said- 'Oh that's good, a butt picker scratch and sniffer!'

I just roll my eyes, like- you- poor girl, you can't win no matter how hard you try.

Seeing all these things- like the kids, the school, the way everything looks to me, makes me feel a million times better, and I start thinking maybe all of yesterday- everything that occurred, everything that I thought happened - was just some kind of stretched crazy drawing out a peculiar dream. Like maybe the girls were right like maybe it never happened at like I thought it did. And yet that small voice inside me was saying: it wasn't a dream, just look into your eyes to see the light, to be reminded. Seeing is believing yet at this point, I don't know if what - I have seen is believable. I even question - if I am dreaming now, or if I am living this out.

Jenny travels down the senior lane like it's a race track doing forty or more, even though there's zilch of a chance of finding a parking spot up here. Stop and start in jolts, to see if you see one to ram into. It's a religious conviction for her to do so, and if there is nothing here, we go for a teacher spot. And if we don't find something their Jenny will go for their grass or even a handicap. Jenny even banged Mr. Mentally so she would get detention for parking in his spot or so she claimed she did. The guy is like sixty - I didn't think he had it in - um. Yet Jenny said she was on top and did all the work. That's a visual I didn't need.

My stomach feels like I have little swimmer inside it. When we pass that one spot from the stadium about three cars in, and I see the orange Chevy truck next to us, with all the damages, that I saw - in what I thought was a dream.

I didn't know if I should - just cry or scream - run or hide.

Before I could blink...

Jenny said - 'Sucking crap, I could have thrown my coffee at Madilyn today when I passed her before getting you, Kar.' I said - 'Oh well crap happens. Hum - I wonder what happened here?'

Jenny said - 'The dumb ho must have sideswiped someone.'

I said - 'I think it was the other way around.'

Jenny - 'Oh you're an expert on truck damage?'

I whipped - 'No.'

Liv - I want to be a Bella.

You sing about as good as blondie - what was her name?

Liv - Avery -

Maddie- No Aubrey-

Karly- I have the DVD now I want the star nickels.

The second one sucked old man balls.

The Liv said I think the redhead is sexy! She has blue eyes I never- ever seen combination before.

~*~

Maddie- I want the girl in my pants, I think she is so lovely, I love everything about her, I would love to spend some time with her! And start to sing 'Laid' by James so loudly that everyone could hear me scream out that high note like I do when I do get laid. I even feel I have the same vibrato as she does. Yet I never get the time of day she is so freaking moody and mysterious for my liking.

#- Hashtag: (High-notes, troublemakers, and all lady singers)

I love to sing yet nobody knows or thinks I can... Just like the girl from that movie, it not even on the album for its full initiatory. I have even added my lyrics just because I can relate.

Chapter: 68

Shout it out!

You shout it out (Titanium) You shout it out, but I can't hear a word you say I'm talking loudly, with nothing to say I'm criticized but all your bullets ricochet; you shoot me down, but I get up. I'm bulletproof, nothing to lose, fire away, fire away... Ricochet, you take your aim. Fire away, fire away... You shoot me down but I won't fall- I am titanium!

You shoot me down but I won't fall... I am titanium stone-heart, broken-heart, shattered-heart- I am the thinks I am smart, slammed down, pushed around, by someone like you smashing my heart and hitting the ground- broken glass, as you pass- do you hear that sound it is of nobody around, cutting glass, the blood spilled- yet I am still titanium. Heart ripped out- and I shout I am titanium! They call out- the all can hear us now; they stare and I pout... I glare- I hear she'll never going to be titanium. Cut me down, I still don't make a sound I am titanium! I run...Cut me down, it goes around but titanium!

Facedown... But it's you who'll have further to fall Haunted love and Ghost town. Yet I want to fall for someone that is Titanium- a Ghost town, and haunted love Soft voice, soft look. All the sticks and stones may have broken my bones. They were talking loud not saying much, I was afraid and could not say... Now is the day, went through all the dismay. But I have nothing to lose Fire away, and have it all ricochet, take your aim... Fire away, you shoot me down but I won't fall- I am titanium. You can try to shoot me down... But I never fall

I am titanium...

I am titanium...

I am titanium...

You shout me out, but I can't hear a word you say. Yet okay I not doing much

I'm traumatized but all your bullets don't all bounce away. You shoot me down, but I'm not always getting back up. I'm not bulletproof, I had everything to lose Fire away, another day... They don't all Ricochet, you take me away, say what you want to say, fire away. You take me down, without any sound... Other than that, of titanium... Fall to the ground, yet I am still titanium. Cut me down... But it's you who'll have further to fall... Ghost town and haunted love... Raise your voice, sticks and stones may break my bones, I'm talking loud not saying much. I'm bulletproof, nothing to lose, Fire away, fire away, Ricochet, you take your aim... Fire away, fire away. You shoot me down but I won't fall- I am titanium...

You shoot me down but I won't fall...

Get out- drop out- missed out- by the one that shouts- my name it's not the same, It all the same, to them- they can all go down with the flames, picture frames, shattered farms, not all the same, you're the one in them to blame, playing your game, feeling my sham- look what's left of me that remains- all the tears, all the fears, and the one the heart with suspicious ears.

Cut me down...

I am titanium...

I bulletproof, you have something to choose, I am titanium

You'll bruise, I'll be amused when you all lose, I am the one that is Titanium

You no find of mine... Will I find something to call all mine?

The is the time it might- be if I fight... What is time, when you're in rewind?

Your mine, you'll be the one that is fine; When you're all mine

So, kind- Like Titanium... You never be the girl that is... Titanium... (I ominously said to myself.)

I reason- with my head: She got that last spot because, we're so late today, or so I do believe it would have happened again, and I would be squashing my ripped-up nails into my palms like before. Duplicating what I did before to myself, once again I say in my mind, I am only dreamed this the last time because if it would have taken place, I wouldn't have any nails left after bitten them off. None of this has happened before, so maybe it's was all a dream. And then I heard that eerie voice inside saying: You're not dreaming.

'Feeling all the holes inside of me'

Chapter: 69

Haunted Love

Would you remember me like this...?

I feel I can do whatever I want when the fuck I want to screw the world and death at this point. I can kiss anybody I want to boy or girl, I am so going to hell I feel, and don't even care, I know my grandmother would not like that one, yet I never met her anyways so fuck off, b*tch. I am going to get b*tch-slapped so hard I just know it.

That is when I see her Nevaeh demanding down to me in what I thought was another dumb butt dream of me repeating one day of my fucked young life, or maybe I just blacked out- a little after sing so freaking high, I feel I have been out of it for a while- dazed and confused. She said- 'She had a girlfriend like me and to love her and not think about what could happen if I would go the other way. I had the scent of lilies surrounding me- or so it seemed. She said if you love that boy then be true to him- and stop playing the lonely heart game.' I just said- Well I shut everybody out. Don't take it, person. It's just easier. And I loved the way Brittany Snow's finally

I took control of how she wanted to be... I know that I have been hard on everyone here. Nevaeh- Yes for being you- yet... be you!

Why do I say freak the world Lizzy doll is the only girlfriend I feel is my real friend in this world she'll go to the grave with me and know the hurt and pain I have gone through? She has rad hair that is all kinds of crazy and goes every which way spring-like, she has green eyes, that are big and goggle-a-ley, Lizzy doll has a sweet wavy smile that brightens my day even, even when her arm goes every which way, what can I say, if I want to cry my eyes out or pout or shout. I know someday have passed I'm not bleeding out anymore, and that is just fine by me, you can do anything motive it.

She is all I need, other than that one that I need to find, that is sweet and kind, so hard to find, yet she plays with-in my mind... or do- I like to want him instead. In my dream, I am falling forever through the darkness. Falling, falling, falling. Is it still falling if it has no end? Yet I am holding her along with my doll. Her teeth are so white they're glowing. Everything about her is awesome, just look at her with my eyes. She was all I ever really need yet she is in a girl's body, why can't she be a boy and look like that and act like that why are most boy fagots. Sorry if that insults someone yet you can shove a two by four up your butt and feel it splinter if it fits, and I am sure I can make it do just that, stop being a p*ssy- yet look who's talking here. (Freak you all!!!) I have lived this day for attesting fourteen days now like holy piss just moves on already.

Her teeth are so white they're glowing she has blue eyes that are shining also so wistful. 'Miss. Edanella gives out the essay assignments today I can't spell sometimes I think I am dyslexic?'

'So, What?' Godsend me here to piss the hole would off- I'm so confused it takes me a second to grasp she's talking about English class, (Blah blah- blah- ba- blah- I make that move with my eyes, she looks and I said either wake-up or get out and I say- Freak you in the ass here my d*ick!) I shrug my shoulders upward-moving my head to the one side and give a side was grin that is misgiven throwing both hands up and outward, blinking my eyes rapidly.

Anna Camp- 'I knew it! I knew she had one!' Yeah, suck it, b*tch! You have a freaked-up clit! Teacher- Leave and by the way you expelled, 'Don't feel bad teach- all retired try sharpening their pencil in their bum hole!' 'GET OUT OF MY CLASSROOM NOW!' (I flip the bird and hip my chest doing the Nirvana piece out.)

Yet the Anna get nothing like always as she can even sing a note, I've heard that off sounding crap in the cores room, like I know I can blow that away too. Like I can blow all the minds. 'The essay assignments suck I rip it up into confetti and throw in backward as I walk out the door. And I run to the bathroom and brake down all over again- I can take any more of this- for real. 'I missed a period; it is only fourteen days late or so I think it could be eighty-eight for all I know.' Olivia- Liv runs out of the room, not giving-a-crap about her work, and she finds me sitting in the corner of the bathroom holding my doll that I had hidden in my handbag. She nudges to me and Lizzy doll and says hey you okay- I didn't know you still had that thing what her name Matilda?

What?

Know- sorry she looks like that one in that movie, our eyes meet me and then look away, saying 'you'll be an okay baby girl.' That is when she sees Jenny walking out of the sped stall talk on about her 'One hell of smelly poop.' 'God that crap would make you cry.' She is waving her hand back and forth. Damn Liv said- walking in yet I must have tuned it out.

You're a psychosexual I said, what? I feel stupid and contagious, you know what- Oh well, whatever, never-mind. I run out of the bathroom Lizzie doll is clasped tightly to me in my arms. As we walk past groups of guys one girl, I check them off in my head- Marshall Adams, Suzanne Kendrick, and Robert King/ Andrews- he has two sets of parents- I didn't want to kiss any of the boys I wanted to right now I am contented, or am I? Or do I want to feel Marcel all up inside me, feel all that loneliness and tightness. I want to feel all that too yet I don't want to leave Madalynn for I feel safe, in her body too, for she is just like me on the inside.

I even heard Suzanne Kendrick say, 'I am going to shove Jack Paterson head downwards and make hem suck of Steffen Myer for freaking some other girl last night, and stealing my typewriter that was my pap's It's an 1888 corona it's all copper and crap, it sat in his study underneath Tomas Andrews painting.' What even more freaked up Robert King/ Andrews's said isn't that insect...? 'Like- you freaked your fourteen-year-old-cuz...?' 'Yah main I did!' In the ass hole... I looked up... tears running down- with that holy freak balls look on my face- and I rain- I rain so far away! I couldn't talk to all the boys I want to for they all were laughing at me, or Lizzy and herring me talking to myself, how to explain a girl is inside you, and you're starting to feel sexily confused.

I lean forward to tell Jenny this- and then she said you're not dreaming this, yet, I am not sure what you mean. Was yesterday and all the day before a dream too? I see my sis standing in a corner with her arm around Ray's waist. She's amused and he's leaning down to nuzzle her lips. She looks up at that moment and sees me watching them. I walk past crying and Ray asks and thinks it's over him.

I rain so far away that I was in the elementary side of the school, where Ray loves to find his little sluts. Yet I would have never guessed that my little sis was the one and only girl on his knock-off list. I see them in the corner talking to one another and I think to myself... and about the time I do, I find that I am waking up in my bed naked all over again. Kissing the pillows and dry humping them too- 'Good- what happened to me?'

It like I am being kissed and can look into her eye, and it wouldn't make a difference it was not my hand my mom saw finger myself as she walks past my open bedroom door. However, how do I explain that I hear voices, inside my head of my dream lover, she likes- 'Why don't you just use one of those may vibrate you have and get it over with!' 'I just roll my eyes saying get out- Good!' When- how- who and what- when did I get back in bed, is it a new day; or the same day all over again?

I don't know where the idea comes from, of me even doing this with the door open I mean really- I would never kiss and make out with my bed pillow, yet it doesn't feel like a dream and yet I feel so dream as this is happening with my eyes closed. She is there- but I could if I wanted to so she could see me all naked and such, I know she is looking through my eyes just like focused cameras on my lady parts, she has the equipment and the skills to pull this off on her PC- it's creepy- nonetheless kind of adorable all at the same time- at the same damn time.

Somewhere- I'm lying stretched out under a warm blanket on a big bed surrounded by, my hands folded down around my boobs, sleeping in her arms, yet it's only my pillow or is it... so, I feel it next to me, ever so nude also. Speaking of boobs, they were being squeezed not by me yet with my hands hard and pushed together, like never before in a toe-curling orgasm and they all wiggle individually.

‘I am on the other end of this... doing all this all of that- it’s all I ever wanted to her, I felt her come twenty times over and over, getting stronger, faster and harder- loving every stimulating moment, her movements, her legs spread open as far as they will go, her back arching upwards, her feet pushing forward- ah- her breathing- her coming nonstop- like me... the sexy voice she has it was coming out of my mouth. She said- ‘YES- finally I can do this with you is what I heard her say! Where both naked! In each other’s arms! All I have to do is put my thumbs together and kiss them going up and down ever so nicely and slowly for this program I am using feel just like I am going down on her, just like I can feel her vagina to it like she is having sex me her being on top, pushing back towards the headboard- feeling her eyes rolling up- she did it through mine.’

So- adorable! She always was to me.

Who am I? I think you know- right?

I can’t say for- well- I may get sued...?

Stay with me: she said- not wanting me to get out of bed- stay with the thoughts of her ruining through my head, stay home with instead, I feel at this point someday we will be wed. So, the song lyric I just wrote for her readers and I said.

Are feel of being self-assurance is- forever and never letting go!

(Stay with me)

~*~

My day just splits again, and I am at the table sitting with the girls, Jenny is hearing me say all this... I am saying at lunch to all of them not leaving out one gross detail- and Jenny said- ‘Damn I have loaded in my undies right now just leasing to this crap.’ Liv and Maddie are kissing like to ribbed- hot- b*tch dogs in heat over it, so yeah it hot. I said- ‘I am coming – OH- hh-Aaa- UM-mmm-COME-meeting!!!’ So loud that I know that the rooms in the apartments could hear me, one even said back my god- yet miss Wilddickersion is eighty-eight I know who you are... a girl over there, rolled my eyes feeling so award.’

I am so going to hell for this- I said out loud. Do you ever look back over the crap you say, and say what the freak was I thinking? I just had the thought of this crap I am saying. Jenny said- nope not really- my dad hears me coming all the time so- like last night he said- 'Stop it! You're going to go throw your bedroom floor girl, and it's four in the morning!

'Yet I hear their freaking headboard hitting my wall- but- but that's okay?' I said about to have the old b*tch over in the next apart room there getting off too- 'We all do' -said Maddie and Olivia. Have you ever had the cops come, over that crap? Jenny said- 'Well- freak know- Maybe...? I've done an officer here at the school, said Jenny proudly, so the whole cafeteria could hear her. Hey- Jenny- no one cares to hear about you being a slutty ho,' Said- Marcel, yelling it at table or two away. Maddie- 'So was it that good?' 'It's good under the hood.' said Maddie, I said the same thing too, in a different way, I said- 'If you know what you're doing down there.' Jenny- 'I- am- the- one that showed you-you b*tch, and your sis too.'

It's all good! I say! Not sure if I am going to keep my nasty pizza down at this point really, I don't want to have though played around in my mind freaking and fingering my brain. I put my feet up all girly and per-die on the table, and he sits accused from me to check me out so why not give him what he wants, and I don't give a crap if I am in a skirt, I spread them out sloughing like a dude, and Marcel turns bright red, I want him to see that, I was not wearing annoying underneath I know that someone took a picture of my p*ssy and all on of his freaked up face- yep jaw-dropping moments, good thing I shaved it!

The teaching that was looking over us freaking fainted at the sight my va-jay-jay, is that a good thing? Oliva was saying please don't fart- please don't fart- she had the set on the other side of me, yet she was all pressed up to Maddie, so I knew he could see all of this- YOU-NO! I said- 'Dude shut up! You're freaking me over, and I put my one hand down between my legs, and start to play with myself, caressing it all around, sometimes up and down or in a little circular pattern, making lots of sounds. I even put my long fingers down inside and feel all the wetness and wroth, and I hear voices coming out of me, so he could see the come on my fingers unstop of my dark purple nail polish, and I come right in front of everyone, but it was only for him to see.' Jenny- 'do I see a d*ick; you need one to freak that p*ssy? I said- 'Nah- dude that's just my heart throbbing clit, and I get written up by another old b*tch teach, that must have a hairy one, or something like that- she has always been up against my ass hole.'

'Sometimes you are as blunt as the butt end of a fork, freaking strapping you in the one boob!' said- Oliva. I see Marcel in the lunch line making a cute all most a kiss-ie face at me, and I rankle up my nose and turn my head off to the right side and shake it in a short fast yet deliberate quiver.

I walk up to where more than friends and this point to I hug him and the cafeteria gaps, he kisses me in front of everyone, and I look up before walking was saying with fluty eyes- (You're such a weirdo!) Then he slaps my ass- and I could have died- or so they all thought by the look on my face, I love it on the inside it made me tinge. And then Marcel walks up and asks me to be his date at his party tonight- I was shocked crap-less, on my face, yet I was like I wanted it- and I said- 'Hell's yes.' The girls giggle, but not Jenny she looks at him like she could rip his d*ick and make suck it. Maybe she even said that I am not sure I was lovesick for him.

I AM LOVE SICK!!!

They Call Out

Chapter: 70

These are all my photos; I hope you enjoy um'. This was my life... baby!

Like before I get in the door and the girls disperse, and Marcel and I see one another and it on I could not help myself all I can say is he is amazing. He takes his hand and drags him over to me, pushing other people out of the way back to his room. The party has started this night I am not out on the dance floor shaking my ass, instead, my ass is shaking for its riding up and down on Marcel's hard long d*ick.

(Holy crap he said, after about the thirty times. I knew he jizzed inside me, yet I did not care at this point, I did want him to pull out, it was hart even if he came as hard as I, over and over it went all down in.)

Just like I always wanted it with the one that falls to me, we are soaked from head to toe, yet I felt someone pulling me away like always, it must be Madilyn, yet I was feeling it all, saying it all, even the ones on the dance floor I think could here this, and the music is rocking the house, yet it was all the same. Jenny- 'busted in saying what is that nose. Are you getting mattered? Why him she grossed out.' What is that small she said?

Marcel- 'You should know come-dumpster.' 'WHAT THE HELL!' 'SER-io-us-LY!' I say in my special way. Maddie and Olivia say at the same time- at the same damn time. 'And I just break into song and danced it out into the bathroom awkwardly. Hey, you can sing? You have a higher belt- It sounds like someone I know.'

I was walking all along just going for a walk outside after the party, I just felt good, I didn't know if I wanted to sing, dance, and or cry; I was that happy getting to be with Marcel, so I when to my spot the old car in the junkyard. I have to jump the face and rip my tank top or something like that yet it worth it, to see my dream car, sitting there I not a girlie girl but I love this cute thing its sex looking like me. I found this old car at colleen's junkyard it like right next door, I freak'n loved this old piece of crap, I even had sex with myself in the back seat, I took the old hood ornament off myself and keep it, my dad said it was off of Neveah's dad's car, yet it was given to my mom and that why it just sitting outside for all the kids like me to rip the parts off of and sell on eBay.

My stepmom hatted Kristen my real mother, so that is why the car ended up where it's at, it was passed down yet the step-monster made sure I would never have it. My stepdad said the emblem is of a 1950 Nash that I found, little did I know it doesn't go on that car yet, I think it's a good fit, I was getting the car on my eighteenth birthday- I freaked up and had to die, just like me in the graveyard we both are retreating away.

My stepdads had the 1950 Nash which he said was the first real sports car and it's all steel, so I put it back on his without him knowing that I did, funny maybe that why I passed doing something like that... it like it was meant for that car, or so he said and I did also. There is an old fender off what likes like to be some old ford over there too the is rusty red, I am not sure of the year it's too damn old for me to know. I remember right my dad said that grand-ma Nevaeh went to school in something like a 1965 Cadillac Deville convertible, yet, I don't see that she had like nothing, I don't know what that thing is. Like with these old cars don't think you have a seat belt, you just cracked you head off the dash of the Nash and then they wiped it off, and sell it to some other poor ass hole.

(Back at school)

I never realized that if a girl is in-like with she starts right at your Junk, then the look back up and if you turn around, they look at the cute butt. I say walking down the hallway out of the door of the lunchroom- 'It is February- yeah, what can I say, it just another freaking- freaked up day, who-and-ray. Oh- Oliva said- all the other girls are too busy doing whatever it is they do to care about me. Where are you going next? She said, 'I didn't know I'd be outside.' I pass the soccer fields on our right as we loop back toward Lower Lot. At this moment in time of year the fields are all tousled up, looking ever so dirty with a few straggly weeds, and a few patches of auburn grass. 'I feel like I'm having déjà vu,' I say once more.

'Flashback Fridays, Throwback Thursday Facebook, twitter Mondays- I don't give a flying crap- even back to freshman year- I don't give a rat's ass, you know it's all hitting me like a brick in the red nose.' Just like all the holidays I don't freaking care what everyone does, I just sit in my room and pet the Kittie.

Ha! Classic punt! 'I've been having déjà vu all morning, afternoon, evening, and all the freaking time.' I can't stand it anymore- I feel like it not me doing crap anymore- I feel freaked up and sore, for sure, I- myself am rubbed raw and tour, must you- some more- I hear as I pass one of the windows to the cafeteria from the outside, and I say what the freak- That what I just said. I blurt it out yes, yes, yes- I can stop myself. Instantly I feel better I feel like it happened, sure that not what this is, yet it feels good to feel good. 'Let me guess.' Jenny brings one hand to her temples and frowns, pretending to concentrate.

‘You’re having flashbacks of freaking yourself to the last time Madilyn was this annoying before nine a.m. you’re just sick.’ They rush too to window from the inside knowing my sexy voice.

‘Shut up!’ Madilyn said as she leans forward and Oliva grabs her ass as she doses, her arm flies up and grabs her boob, and we all start to laugh. I smile too, relieved to have spoken the words out loud, and maybe, I am not the only freak up girl in this school. It makes sense... I hope so- I hope.

~*~

Hey-yy- I am-m Emallie Emersen, I feel that is time for me to speak, however really I can’t as good as the other girls, yet I am still part of the group, you can call me hearing-in-part, or say I have a disability it’s okay, I do, I have wires coming out of the back of my neck yet I still an awesome girl to get to know you I do get hell for it, and it’s going to take the right boy to fall to me. I don’t do the sign-language- crap, more-ever- I miss a lot like this whole thing, I don’t hear the music, I see and feel, I don’t hear the sounds of the kids next to me, I don’t even know what it sounds like to hear water in my ears, I was born this way. Karly just said it was time to say something... ‘Hi-a! Everyone.’ I don’t talk for I don’t want anyone to think I am restarted; I am far from that... like really!

Karly, she said, I feel she is a cute-ie, blond hair- with black underneath, her eyes are gray yet with almost a purple cast to them, so odd, so cast it amethyst, ‘I have to learn not to talk so fast it all blends together, can you understand me now?’ Karly giggles because I sit all day making vagina hands in class and no one gets is that looks like a demand jester, not even the old guy or girls at the front. ‘Look at my hearing aid, ain’t it nice aren’t my wars perr-id-E-e!’ I am looking for a boyfriend yet I can’t get on at this crappy school, I would love to have love. I feel that I am sweet, yet no guy gets past this little thing about me, ‘Like I mean sweet baby Jesus- I have boobs and a vagina too you know.’

‘Just because you were- was not born with a gold spoon up your ass, doesn’t mean you better than me.’ One boy even said- ‘He’d thought I would short-circuit and shock his d*ick off, so yeah I am the virgin in the group not wanting to be.’

‘Gross- God- Crap!’

‘Don’t worry, heaters. You’ll be fine.’

It's only one reason why I am this way, I'm happy I decided to have sex anyways I see what my girlfriends do and I feel sick about it: I don't see the fun in it anyway, I said yet it would be nice to be more than what I am to everyone, just because I am like this does not mean that I, not a girl. Gratefully, since Madilyn still a virgin it means I won't be the very last one, either.

Sometimes, I feel like out of the five of us I'm always the one tagging along just for the ride not hearing annoying that I should something I feel like I not even wanted by the others other than Karly, just there for the drive. 'I told you it was no big thing yet it is I have heard some talk about Madilyn like a girl- do I have to turn to find love? I hope not I like d*ick too much.

What I am girl-oaky!' One even asked me what would sex sound like to you, my eyebrows neared thinking- hum I would not I can't freaking hear it- when I am soloing. 'My mom thought I was dying once.' I said weirdly- and the boy just walked away- with a little sideward weird smile on his pimple face, like he enjoyed that or something. I was giggling on the inside too, like if you love me why would you care- ass-wipe.

Karly- look at you crater face, makes fun of you and your flawless look at your face, I wish I had that. Jenny said- 'Freak that you'll be freaked, that's all you'll ever get face it.' I don't like this girl she freaked Karly over we were friends before and now we seem to be drifting apart, she just wants to be like that slut, and I don't get it.' It makes me nervous anyway for my 'Girly parts' look different than the other girls, all tucked in and such, not seen anything thing but a slight and the skin of my hood hanging down, it's all pushed together, Jenny called it- 'A full-out hairy coin-slot!' I don't hear what people say- 'I- find with it.'

And that's why yet get a part in it's what guys like, likewise, I am a virgin too maybe just maybe that is why also. Jenny has made me nervous, so I count all the mailboxes as we go by. I wonder if by tomorrow everything will look different to me; I wonder if I'll look different from other people, I hope so. This is what I want out of a boy, to do for me and it's not asking much. I would love to have a boy coming me fully, I mean yes, yes, yes, please I am on my knees asking for this every night that I could be on my knees like my girlfriends, I feel left out and not wanted by anyone. And if you giving hand you want only if you fit the molded, that an asshole boy wants you to fit into. I asked out a cute boy saying please have sex with me at the end of the first date like my girlfriends do, it was not happening at all with him- and why not it should have.

Get over here she gestured, 'No- that is okay.' Why-a not? 'I mean, it's not you... it's me,' he said. I get freaking sick of boys saying that like they get sick me saying- that's okay I have a boyfriend, it's a good cover-up. He said maybe give me some time... Make up your mind now, or it's not going to be. I what I want him to do is shove it in sideways or anyway right now- damn why must I be so damn horny, I jeez- what gives, god it pushing me- not be okay, find me someone- already. 'Um- okay- creepy.' I don't get it; I don't see what I am doing wrong here. I feel that I getting to depart, yet can't they see that I become a senior, and that says something doesn't I am a loser over being this way, yet I did not choose to be. I feel like I am going to be a virgin through college, and most of my life it- I don't get it tonight I have to keep away from the shame.

Just freak me, I said! Done is okay if I don't look, he said- I said sure just do it! I lost all respect for myself yet it's overtime, given by the people in my school.

So, this is it, we get down on the floor he just undoes his pants and that was it, mine her just pulled down some, and my boy-shorts style undies off to the one side, yet it was going to happen I did not care. I can say it over and done, and he can tell all his finds about it the next day- or maybe not... for it's me.

He rips through me, and I scream bloody murder, not even counting down or nothing, 'Just popping it,' as he said. It was so vocal and he said shut up B*TCH! I didn't care... It was Ray so I get it if Karly knows I would be killed, yet I think it was a setup for me really, and that is sweet. She just trying to help and I get that. So not romantic- so not! Not what I wanted at all, like what a girl wants to feel like she is on her period when having sex for the first time. Ray had something down and want to try it out on me- so I was the genie-pig.

It was so vocal on my end, not his. I felt like I was peeing it was gushing out of me, is this pee?

~*~

Ray- I feel her on the bottom, not... no crap- I felt this tight clamping down so tight I could not tell her about how- I could not pull back out... I was liking it... yet could not say, if... anything she was a better feeling to me than any other girls it was just that she was surely above not below.

I hear her sighs and it was all right, she is too hard on herself and I have to be that way to keep what I got going too. I was in- feeling her sweeping feeling the wetness pushing out is he was rushing in; she is sighing long breath-ly and shaken with a tremble. She had such playfulness and bent upward to kiss me, I did and liked it but did not let her feel that I did. If anything, this is the girl for me... or so I was thinking yet it can't be. Yet you're the girl that-a looks hotter to me, yet is not that good, she was not a virgin, how did that happen?

How is she not a virgin... at her age... what is her age... I know it's younger. I know this girl has not been giving handjobs at five, she was all mine, and she did know how to do that either. Freak you- if you think this crap is wrong to say it is what goes on in my school.

Chapter: 71

You going to miss me

(My story)

Emallie- (Number: E- 019-417491) I feel as if I am not wanted, so I ended it, now I am here as an angel on earth to give my story, just like Karly, I want to save her from herself and the other girls before she can live on, she is in the renovation passé however she doesn't know that. I have nothing about me that is anything different than any other girl, I don't even have wing yet not supposed to show you but, I will make the translon now so you can see, I have fallen downward yet should I have?

Like we all have to, by seeing the light and having some faith in it which Karly does not- she may go to hell for it. I did this so I would not have to feel not wanted by others. Just remember boys out there that it only that's thirty minutes for a girl come, and not three flipp'n hours! Like come on boys are you that dumb, I would know I been doing it all myself since I was ten. As on now she is going down and I never see her again, for you barn all alone, like what I am doing now, can I be safe too... if I was not wrong in what I did, she going to help me or so I feel.

Do not buy into it, not really. Hell- with that, there is no white-sh stuff- coming out when she said she done then she not done, if it's not running down then it not done. And boys do not think you need to last that long the first time, I've seen that with Ray with my own eyes and after the first take he was fifteen minutes longer, and we both hit the ending at them sometimes, so that has to be right, yet I was wishing that there was more I could feel that there was no need to be gone, I would have been okay with that, freak that crap- there is no need for a boy to feel that way, just so some asshole can make some fast money.

I would love him just the same and if any girl has an issue with cut off your hood and see if you like having it rub your jeans, you not going to feel anything when making love. Or so I think... the girl needs to see what it should be like... not think of its right that way they think it should be, it's made to be thought of that way for that what was made to be right. Kiss and cuddle what happen to that too! I want it!!! I need it!!! I want to feel it!!! CRAP! This was all on Jenny saying- that he needs to have a change made, girl gets over it! It a personal choice, not some girls to make, if you love them you should not care. I lived in one messed up the town! Where I normal and there freaked up! Can't you see it not me? I, not the one that was the one, it was all of them, dude. One family, I got to crap- in my family restraint he in town.

'My mom bought me the abortion pill today to end it so that makes it okay.' I don't think so... that going to hell right there, I'll see if I can get here to do what is right, yet what is right is what she has done... or is it? I asked her- 'What would you do- make the choice what is it going to be.' I get sick of looking at freaked up faces looking at me for no go reason.

'It is all- Bull crap!'

What kind of son of a b*tch are you! You are condensing prick! You're nothing to me or anyone... out of this freaked up the town within this city. 'Hey, you! Look at me mother freaker- ha-ha-hey- you over their mother freaker, in green- look at me- get the freak off my back! Get out of my life, and that goes for you all! Why not just pop another baby on the counter and the have sex right after, you over there with the freaked-up face and ratty hair, clean it up some.'

Ask me to say that you freaked up face and I will, you better run. Just like you in school seven to one, gain-banging someone like me, you need to run, you don't know what I have to outdo that number now. This is just me finally speaking my mind- its time is it not any you going to lesson to like it or not, 'I have the floor.' I get sick of little girls whispering in other girls saying crap about me that I cannot hear.

So- you want to stare at me, okay- yet I am getting pissed. I am happy- always- I was and you don't want to see that. Yet smelling look simple, or so they all say and who are they! I am not sad, I am not accounting weirdly, I- am just being me, so think what you want! I don't care... what you say, leave me alone. I want to get along with everyone. So why did everyone stop it? 'I don't care anymore.'

Chapter: 72

When I am gone

Karly- I think back on it my great x4 Grandmother Hope went to school on black and wood 1919 Ford Model T Ford, I don't get that, there were not even windows in the piece of crap. And then I can get my car. My dad was telling me this unbelievable story. About this old car like a red 28 ford coup or so he thought.

My dad was showing me the roof form it, somewhere down the line someone thought it was okay to cut up this cute little car just to be a d*ick about it, it must have been my great x4 granddad baby that someone was jealous of, saying he wanted to pass it down yet never to Neveah, so he junked it out for parts, and that explains why someone wanted the rooftop. Maybe someone thought it was going to go to her and the sisters' family cut it up, really- I think that is how I got these parts.

Emallie- I feel that my little nine-year-old sisters are in her room I as school, however since that day she's never once stepped foot in my room. It's a bummer she more freaked up than me in some ways is it not? Like- since she never surprises me by fixing up my sheets anymore, she leaves all that should be folded laundry or a new sundress on my bed like she did when I was in middle school, yet all messy and crap, but at least I know she's not rooting through my drawers while I'm at school, looking for my sex toys or thongs. 'If you want to come out here, why do you drag me?

I'll get the thermometer, and crap and say I sick,' she says, she is- very- hyperactive, and more! She needs to be on Methylphenidate or (Ritalin) as they call it. She on something that I don't like yet that what they say is needed. Her name is Judcël. Yet we just call her Judie, she hates that just say I am the boy she said, she not yet she might want to be on this crap. 'I don't think I have a temperature.' There's a yell kicking and screaming my mom hitting my mom in the face, pushed in the wall and punched of is how I lost my hearing that to this little brat... I was fine until she was impetus out of my mother. She should have had a d*ick it would have been a lot easier, than putting up with this... and get this mom is single, and on her own now with her.

I think sex before marriage is not a sin. I think the big deal should be about SEX BEFORE LOVE. If you have been with somebody for a long time and you can easily see yourself growing old with them, getting married, maybe having children, then sure, I think it would be fine to make love. Sex is a natural desire found in all animals. Why should we deny Mother Nature's ways? (Of course, I respect all religions and beliefs, and I mean no offense if you believe in abstinence until marriage.) Well... uh, for one thing, you can get diseases. And then if you're not married before having sex, what's keeping the guy from leaving you? Nothing... He'll use you then leave. I think it's pretty dumb that you think it's no big deal...

#- Hashtag: (Rubbing too hard, and a hard way to die, and dying feels good)

Karly- I swear to God, I hear them kissing Ray and my sister or her. Not little bird pecks either. Open-mouthed, slurping, moaning, and groaning kind of sucking maybe some freaking-kissing. O-oh, crap'n-piss!!! I have to bite my hand off to keep from screaming, or crying, or bursting out laughing, or getting sick or crap myself-or all of the above. A girl in my class named Stephaney Lizarick died for having too much sex, she did like over two hundred times and could not help but coming over and over, and it killed her, what a way to go, I would have loved to die that way to yet not alone as she did. Death is fun, for that want to die, dying is living when you want to live, and lie. Here's Jenny's big secret: she was the one that said she could do this. She did think there was a such-of-a thing and there is not.

Death on the bed, feeling it in my head, things that have been said, things that can be read, all those that have fled, turning it all to black and blue, and feeling the red, what was shed, what led me to feel this way, what would you say?

Life is not worth living, when crying overdyeing, when flying over yourself to see what was never there all up in the air, is all far, to stare at the one that does not care. What should I give and what should I take, what should I forsake, to life to live a life that some won't take away from me, don't you see?

What will it be, just you and me... can it be? What does it need to be? What is free, what is right, if we spend the night, if it's not you and me? I want to sit with you under the angel oak tree, on a branch looking down, we don't care if they all frown, in this town, and they don't need to make a sound, there beneath us on the ground.

Kiss me now, why not just do this, at last, the life of mine is going too fast, it's like gunfire going through my head, everyone wishes we were both dead. What more could be said, I think you get what I mean; about them, all being so mean.

Chapter: 73

You're going to miss me when- I am gone...

Karly- 'Don't be all nice to face- like on the inside... I'll be saying suck on my lady d*ick!!!'

Ellody- Jenny is my little freaked up sister, yet I freaking love this crap, she going with me this weekend to go with us to this party, when I came back for a visit I go to IUP it's my freshman year, and she is partying her ass off, she's awful student yet awesome partyer, yet that all it's about when you go to college than what I have been saying all along. She wants to be like me so much and that cute, yet be who you are not me. -snapping at everybody in half for fun getting crap, that what it's all about in college, getting in the ass or puss. Yeah, I eighteen yet, so what she could freak a guy to my age. It is their freaking choices.

I making fun of Maddie and Liv for having weird food issues yet my sister does more, it's what I do, I said it was okay, yet not too much. I love picking on these little girls, like- making fun of Olive for being such a lush and a pushover and Bi, they try to making fun of me... yet there are never going to be a good as I, for always being the last to do things first and longer, and that goes for FREAKing too. I the best b*tch! I got freak when I was seven, I was in elementary school- still, so I have one on all of them, it may have been before... It was a long time ago and many freakers before. Shut your freaking face if you think I say freak too much, this is me, ass hole.

Emallie- Maddie, Olivia and I knew something must have happened in New York, the time we went on a trip altogether, but Jenny wouldn't tell us when we asked her, and we didn't push it.

You don't push things with those two, I knew they both got it and she was young. I think it freaked her up and make her hate herself, she was like freaking five, who does that to their sister and thinks it's funny?

Jenny was always after some boy to feel whole. It's so monotonous... what she does now, like she learned of her, then one night toward the end of the school year, she went all the way in front of us and everyone, and so did Karly, she made her- I bet you no... this.

All she does is like just lay there and say just freak me, that how she feels, they all do, yet that what they were made to think it was learned like: spelling, or reading or arithmetic, you do what you want, all the same, that's on your teacher too.

Now we were all at Olive garden, this crappy pizza type of restaurant one town over where they do not a card if you want something like water down strawberry foo-foo drink. Or having margaritas and waiting for our dinners to come. Jenny was not really eating, she was yacking it up in the bathroom, so why eat again.

She had not been eating since returning to her sister maybe she cannot because, that makes her nervous you know being around her, being something, she is not. She would not touch the permitted chips, saying she wasn't hungry, and instead, she kept dipping a finger into the salt and another dip, and saying that good enough. I just like one word can set a girl of- like PMS-ing- or in Jenny's case FOOD, or reading, and spelling! She knows nothing but making a guy come, and girls too, yet that not talked about either. And those sweet girls two might just be Bi, and not messed up completely like she is, I think... she is the one taking them all to hell. I would know, I am holding their sets, for them, if you will.

Karly- I was rimming her margarita glass and eating and eating crystals with the other one, that Jenny gives me. 'I think not!' Said- Olivia. 'P*ssy!' She said. I don't want to die yet, I am only sixteen, I have a lot to see and do, and you don't get that. I don't recollect what we were talking about, but all of a sudden Jenny blurted out, 'I had sex sixty times today, soloing and twenty times with different boys.' Just like that... was it true or was it the drug's talking... we don't know? Why is she doing this to herself? Oliva asked within, I was questioning her morals... We all stared at her in stillness, and she leaned forward and told us in a breathless moment, that she was only eighty-five pounds now... and shedding like a dog. Olivia thought to herself that's not that unrealistic, I have soloed twenty times, in one sitting. 'Is that your two front teeth, she bit into a breadstick, I said then adding in- 'Do you have baby teeth?' Jenny was freaking out it was the two in the front both went at last you know the one that everyone could see, she looked like on missed up farmer.

(Going back)

They'd had sex on her sister's California king long bed with Jenny fading in and out, and the guy was so-o uncomfortable, to say the least, she not doing anything really at this point- I think she going to die, there nothing left of her, I said - way back when; like seven or so weeks ago.

(Present time)

'It was only, like, two minutes ago or so it felt I was saying just that,' she said at the end, and I knew then she was shaking it off, that she is walking death.

She is having her midlife creases at seventeen, I swear that what this is... She is not even shaving her underarms anymore, God what do the others look like. Things we'll never talk about, yet this is getting scary to me, I am a friend after all.

(Seven weeks back)

I have lived this more then I want nor need too, and this time It's was in my hands... what will people think happened to me, that I went down with the bridge or was twisted around the tree, what do you see?

Karly- I am taking back in some ways, far off in the corner of her mind, everything it so blared yet so clear to me of what going on, I feel like I can do anything like- jump off a bridge, and fly and feel my wings, which I never- ever have. Or will I...? Ha- I may have them I need to find out, I ran from inside there and found the yellow overpass, and fowl over everything and everyone, with gray wings, it was a night sky, all the light made me glow even more, to the dying world below.

I want to fly to him or her or someone that loves me to get that those white one that I should have I see it all now, or so I think I do; yet will I remember when, I wake up in my bed undead, like all the days before. I killed myself- it's what they all see... I see the three rivers run through me now over my head, yet that is fine, I will- drowned- that's fine- to stop all this... I cannot take what I am doing or see any longer.

I kissed a girl said Jenny, we all just about crap ourselves. I want to go home and sleep this off, said Madalyn was also known as Maddie, wanted you to come home with me, Olivia was also known as Liv, but I- she would not let us or for we all running after crazy Karly that is all freaked up in the head these days. She's going to do it- she's going to do it this time.

Right before the real came, she flows out the door crying. She was freaking out waving her hands like a girl on drugs! Jenny was hugely relieved after telling us- 'She not going to go over, tee-he-ing- Saying 'Chick-en sh-it, freaking- do it.'

And that is when she did, toes hangover she put her left foot out and took the first step down to the water below.

No- the rest of us said to see her fall for what seems like a lifetime plunging to ice-cold death. There was a rescue, up till now she was dead when she smacked her head on the side of the bridge and freaked up her little cute nose, don't you see here her laying out. No one came to this... said thing... that, I don't want to see yet that is life, you have too; it was just us two, we were are it- Maddie and Liv.

Her dad just gave up after the rack, saying 'my baby life is over.'

The little girl...?

The sister, move out with the boy toy, and the mother moved on with some other poor bestirred. The dad just walked out of all their lives and started over the best he could, yet he loves was Karly. She was his baby girl- And Jenny even made fun of that to.

All though she swore to us there was never- ever a pain of death, to her, it was absolute secret- it's the quiet ones you have to look out for- we would see her whole mood changed instantly like she was in a dream as she called it.

#- Hashtag: (Free falling out into nothing, open-air, legs, and arm looked in the lovers hold that lover with-in, saying no.)

Karly- this was not all in my mind!!!

The cards were not- laid out for me to see.

Chapter: 74

You and I

(Going back in time)

Marcel- I remember when Karly was a pretty freshman with heavy eyeliner, and moody-ness, yet fun, have big headphones around her neck all the time, black nail polish or French nails like all the time. I remember before she did all the d*ick-licks in high school. She said she was not much of a singer, yet would you look at this- old video I have, she sings her music here that she worth all by herself, and made her on the album, Yet Jenny said it freaking sucked so she killed it and her voices my making her try and outdo her with the rasp, doing this is something she should not Jenny- 'Like- voice didn't sound- Aguilera at all.' Explain your poor-performance, you b*tch- I say. I know this girl is going to b*tch-slap me so hard you have no idea for this. I think this while walking past the football field seeing all the dumb ass hole though sit that cannot catch, it's like holding their balls...

FOOTBALL GUY's- Hey, resound vagina! They said to Karly- she is getting picked on for being with me. Their asses are- just sore for I am not freaking them... I would love to be with you.

Marcel- Little did she know she always was, on and off, when she could be. She had to do what she did for her friends, showing off to be cool, and I am okay with that, I got her in the end, yet they say how does it feel eating out my d*ick, and all of our leftovers.

Though I've tried before to tell her, of the feelings I have for her in my heart.

Every time that I come near her, I just lose my nerve, as I've done from the start. Every little thing she does is magic. Everything she does just turns me on. Even though my life before was tragic, now I know my love for her goes on... Do I have to tell the story, of a thousand rainy days since we first met? I resolve to call her up a thousand times a day and ask her if she'll marry me in some old-fashioned way but my silent fears have gripped me, long before I reach the phone, long before my tongue has tripped me... Must I always be alone?

(Remembrance- of who I was-)

I could have cried- I am not like that at all.

Karly- They suck baby d*ick don't lesson to it! I say- as we walk past holding eyes were on us ever looked insufferable to our joy, they though a football at my face, 'Oh my- nose! 'Throw the ball back now baby rapper!' 'I can't she was all award with her left hand up to her mouth. I don't get it you a slut if you don't give it all away, and a loser, snob, and wannabe if you don't! And they think you're either gay, or sucking girls' asses, or do yourself and they rub your nose in that too.

Karly- I stopped wearing my glasses to after that day, when Jess Smith walked up and ripped them off my face and broke them in half, and poked me in the boob hard. I miss them, what wrong with glasses, they make you look sophisticated. Why was I so quiet and laid back, and a pushover? Marcel- She runs like everything for the bathroom, like always- not making it very far.

She feels like some poor little girl, with a broken nose, and I remember when that happened. That is when I felt like she was in love with me she took the balls to the face for me. 'I thought you like balls in your face one boy said.' You tripped and falls to the ground, hard, and I picked you up and carried you to safety, and we fall in love, even more, kissing under the bleachers. 'You're a weirdo,' and the kiss was long and – fearing H-O-T! Like, kick your tongue out smoking hot!

It's still not as bad as the time my face was smashed it to a brick wall, by some back boy- and I have to have something done about it, like getting my nose redone, yet I blamed it on my dad.

Jenny- Sing the same girl-ie crap every year, you'll blow chunks all over the place, which never happened, that's why she stopped sing way back when. You can see here doing it on YouTube! Like- It happened!

Jenny says every time some brings it up.

Until some unicycles guy flies into the frame where nothing freaking speedo- showing his tor-pe-do with the American flag up his ass! I don't know if that is patriotic or what the hell that is... I am not sure what to look at. What can you say other than- 'Ew-ah- gross...? Who does that...?'

Marcel- It kind of reunions the magic does it...? I said.

Karly- Yep!

I am glad I cannot see all that anyway!

I am sure yours is better anyway.

(She goes underneath his underwear down for it getting a handful, and does what she feels is right in front of them all. It was more romantic then you would think pervs.) I did it for me and him, I did not give a crap; if they liked it or not... they can all look the other way. I have- a leaning popping lag kisses, and he rubbed his nose on mine saying it- I LOVE YOU! You'll be fine... I'll make sure of that.

Karly- Back it time: We rain from the schoolyard, to my house... stole my dad's Nash and got married. My stepmother casing us down, with a bible in her hand saying where sinners.

Both- We're sinner okay then- we all are- yet love is love even if age is in the way.

Marcel- the very next day, it was all over. Say what you want to say... I know why- how- and who.

It's all good, I know she still loves me... deep down, even if it's hard to remember, and hard to forget, she knows overall.

Marcel- Like with Jenny- Her parents just never- ever took her out of the shrink wrap, she still has the condom on her head, and that explains the brain damage, and why she can't sing a note.

(All at the same time)

Stacey- 'Gett'n- it...'

Becca- 'Yep.'

Stacey- 'Yep!'

Becca- 'Yep...'

Stacey- 'She has no- Undies...?'

Karly- 'Um- she said- when the pants came down.'

Stacey- 'Umm-hum- Marcel and Karly!'

Becca- 'They want some of that.'

Stacey- 'Yes they do!'

Becca- 'Um-hum...'

Stacey- 'You know it.'

Chloe- 'Who is easiest to sleep with? Ray or Marcel?'

Stacey- 'Marcel, her ass is his!'

Becca- 'How would you know?'

Amie- 'He's only been with her, Like- like- it's all over his face that she was it.'

Stacey- Nut-nah! It can't be that he was it too just look at that.

Chloe- 'Holy-Freak- like- crap- um-damn. This ginger needs a drink, God hoses them down... my blood God... Oh, my... Just roll in the grass why don't yah!'

'You want to make out?' Stacey said to Chloe, and then Becca said - I feel left out like always.

Chapter: 75

Schools

You can see the old school sitting next to our new school; the sign is not even there anymore it's nameless. The one door off to the side is off the hinges, all old heavy wood.

There is a small of death, or crap coming from the inside, yet you can smell form far away, why to tear it down, it's falling on its own or so they say why to spend money on it. Look at the old playground swings swaying as the wind knockbacks, the siding boards rusting and off to the one side.

The teeter-totter some up some down some snapped in half, non-rideable the ground full of weeds and tall yellowing grass, in the air... I can hear the faint sounds of young girls laugh, and whisper come inside and play. I know she not that young, yet if she wants me to play I will, I don't see why not, I left my child-sh days behind, so maybe I should.

I this is the old Oak View school, or so they say- but it's where I see the face of a little girl, like looking back at me all ghostly and crap. They say her name is Lily Anderson, I heard the freaked-up story of the girl fallen to her death and crap... we all have, my did pounds it into my little head or he says, I will always be his baby, saying I act like one doing what these girls want me to do.

So-ooo one day at dusk, I have a flashlight that was on the blink, so freak- it was not working for crap, yet it was something, I was load in I swear I don't think my feet took me where I need to go, I feel someone was doing the walking for me.

~*~

(Is the blame on me...? I have been here lots of times looking around.)

-Who gets the blame for this?

-It's all going back to the hex of the four sisters, -I feel- that got her- I could feel it too-

-It was not me, yet I was with her all the way-

-I saw it too-

-I don't get it either-

-How do I explain this one without being crazy-

-I can't tell anyone; they wouldn't believe it-

-It's that unbelievable-

I Karly- want into the abandoned building, to see if this was true.

Like I was walking up to this old abandoned staircase, where every other step was missing holding my hand shaking on top of the one servicing rail, the top of the tree somewhat next to me. The old tree is what shut the school down, after a big rainstorm, and two girl's deaths. She was there out of nowhere, looking- see- feeling me. She went through me, like a knife, yet it was- worm.

She is now holding my hands to her like she was my girlfriend. Saying you look just like her! Her voice was a whisper, but yet strong adequate in an eerie way, she leads me to the window that was never fixed gusting in cold air, it was icy looking, and wispy, blowing back my hair, she said- yes- so like her... in every way, I love that! Creepy- I thought...? -Like- who is this girl she speaks of?

The got louder to me, and her voice softer, and more- lovely, I felt like I was falling for her, yet how...? You never changed, did you? What- I asked... she thought I was someone else at this point, time move on. She was in a flashback I think... yet I don't get it for I have those too.

(Questions- for the radiant girl)

'Why did you do it yourself?'

'Why?'

'Why- would you let them do this?'

Why are you doing it, and not facing you bullies, like I said you should or could even now.'

(It was passed on, yet did she know?)

If you bully would have for you.

(The school outside to in)

Look at this place, it's falling, now look around; Karly it's all still- the- same isn't it? Sure- I say, thinking she might go away, no- she gets closer to me and hugs me and long kisses me on the lips.

She said- I must be here all alone like always, where are you now?

'Home' I said- like what kind of question is that?

I am here for I have to be my soul is not at rest.

I said... 'Cool- what-ever- rock on which-a bad-self.'

The wood floor is- so splintery on my flip-flops like nails are sticking up, poking me and crap, the boards are all cracked and you can see down one story, or more at times. Besides, some floorboards are missing altogether; I feel like I could go through the floor at any time.

(Room 202)

There is no light coming anywhere but her light she is giving off, looking over everything in its interiority, I see that there are boards over the old glass smashed glass window panes; not even the smallest glimmer or flicker of a star or moonlight at this point to guide me, nothing to show the way other than spun web cover over everything, even the hole that should not be cover seemed roached out, look at all the spiders crawling all down me, I don't go in there I was thinking. I went at night so no one would find me. Look even going down the hall the lockers start bang themselves like humpers of the past. I could see kissing here doing that too. Like I could see it all in my mind too, like they all did when the kids slammed their locker in these unhallowed halls, look now there are papers everywhere, just left behind like love notes of the past, I want to read yet it has nothing there to be said, I could get some of it, yet not all... I don't have anything wrong with me, I can't see, should I take it with me?

I do-

(It was tucked in her underwire right strap, her outfit when cut off to be laid out for viewing.)

-It was Nevaeh and Chiaz's first love note.

(Now)

You can foresee what going to happen... can't you- I sure did not in the past nor do I know, yet I do at times. It's a new day, she sat back- crap let's do it a new way today- damn ('Like- I want to choke down my rabbit,') it works for me its good to get that right, or so Jenny said. Yet I was feeling more than that below, and so was she, in my mouth. 'If you are going through hell keep on going don't slow down, if you scared don't show it...!' My love was singing to be will donning this, yet you can't hear that and if you do, you'll hear Maggie coming out.

(Back at the old school)

The hollowing sound of her voices in my face, it blows' a-crossed me and spooks me out, it is so haunted within these falling walls, yet see is not scaring me at this point, I feel somewhat safe. As well as the wind howling as my thought makes, makes me think of who she maybe thinks' I am. I see the hand covered, handrails going up past the old Gym and girl's locker room, looking into the showers it's like- I could see bare ass naked girls, and the steam in the air. With the sounds of: 'O-op-e-s-y- don't drop the soap!' All along with the sounds of girls giggling, hell- I don't want to know what's going on. Water running, just guessing like them... I had the bad thoughts and photos running in my little-wicked mind.

Like the sands of time... not fading all away or turning all too black and white. Up till now the water and sound or the girls are from the past, or so I think and have been long gone away, for them to be real girls, it was abandoned for years, like what is this crap...?

Like the snapping of a towel, my head spun around, as the little girl pulled me to the next room by her resenting glow, In the locker part of the room- I see all the old desks linked together, she's sitting there propping her story to me, her hair brads are freaking cute to me; like no girl does that anymore. Yet who are these girls, I think- I know, yet they don't, see me. They don't even think I see them all up in it. I heard these stories and believe it yet; I don't believe it seeing it now unfolding in front of me. There is some random b*tch putting the redhead face in the capper, with the sound of the flush! I am good she said.

They all don't even believe in this dumb ghost story, or so the girl that feels to death, the kids say that I go with; her noting her but legend and myth. I think about all the haunted love in this ghostly building, hell yeah, I do... that what it's all about. I see the light coming towards me, and then I start to come off my feet into it, weird- into the old library, there is no floor holding me you can see the swimmers in the pool below, just like the auditorium is over there off to the one side.

The shaves are floating too, everything is, there are ghostly-like boards there translucent I am not standing at all my feet are hanging down, floating on nothingness, not even my toes are touching as I seem as if I am sixty feet in the air or more, my arms crossed not wanting to look down, yet I have too.

('Angels Fall' playing in the background)

I see it, I see, I see, the big window at the front see to suck me into it, getting bigger and bigger. I float past all the books that have been forgotten, like the kids of the past must have done also.

Oh- so long ago... The dance like to me in my eyesight and that would be all right if I was crapping myself by it, it cool, yet creepy; they twinkle with wonder as if they want me to know something that lies inside. Like a scrapbook, with a photo of my fall and open up or something, like that. And it did, yet it was not my life that I saw this time it was everyone in my past that I never knew, mom, dad, and going back, it's a slideshow ruining in reverse.

That is when she opened her wing spread to me and said- 'Don't give up without a fight!'

All right- I said.

‘This is what you give up to them’ -She said, (As she is standing in front of me with phenomenon!)

I got to the end and saw me passing and did believe it.

‘So... go-o...’

‘Run!’

‘Or they will kill- YOU!’

‘Like they did me.’

(I didn’t believe it, ha- what was she- like just some dream to me, if you will. It was not something I believed in at all like up or down, I want to say here in-between. I too young to think about death. It’s never-ever on my mind, only when some old dude kicks it, yet who gives a crap, they have nothing to say anyway.

(Nevertheless, they do, open your mind to wander and you’ll see it all. Muddy thinking leaves to muddy water when they piss on you for being a- well- d*ick.)

Yet I saw it all, it is my memory of the last days leading up to the end, and I feel too their scheme. She all wrote to me and see though, she was glissading in her floating gaze, blue eyes peering into mine, she hands something to say, yet I walked away back away from the light that light my way, I tripped into the darkness in the creeped-out hallways. Everything I touch- I drop, like my cell phone, I left behind: I have- well- Dropasea! I walk now, as I descend back to my feet, I feel my body and the weight on my feet now.

I saw it all, it is my memory of the last days leading up to the end, and I feel too their scheme. She was floating all in white in front of me, note haunting- but almost angelic, and see-through, she was glissading I was looking too hard in a gaze, her blue peering into mine, she hands something to say, yet I walked away, backing away from the light, all the way back even if it lights my way, I tripped into the darkness in the creeped-out hallways, falling to them all the next day. Into the darkness I shall creep, now on my feet, I feel as if I am slithering like a snake, looking for the pathway out of the underworld. The pool went from little kids have fun giggling and swimming to little kids burning naked in what seems to be a lake of fire, black wing spread.

As they ruined up and into my face and swirled around sucking the life, or so it seemed, to me, as I feel I was blacking out, by their pulling on my body and lips. I never believed in Devilish entities until then with that thing sucked my face off, with the kiss of death to get it live to demonize onward. Loin- like up till now with horns that slowly started to feel like they were ripping through my soul if there is a such-of-a thing. With a long hollow, I feel me feeling it, go in hard then it did the first time I got freak in the p*ssy. I was hugged in a well-founded way, and they were all welcoming home, staying it fun here- (Yet- is- it?) I felt her hand all over my goodies, seeing if I cut the teen group, or that what she feeds me. I was getting bit up with the lies.

(I did get it- do you?) Then she held my face, like the boy I am love with and she drops away fast, then everything was back as it was before, just some old school, I was walking through. She said- 'I love you-you can be mine, like my girlfriend down here.' I was looking at the tat- it was Bacca or (B- 1441- 669 5033) I feel the of thorns, I see the flames in the eyes it makes me feel warm inside, when I am cold all the time, I feel the rubbing on me and I don't mind it now she has a spell on me that is tempting and lusting, and oh so sexy. Why I would go looking for someone I know wants to slay me, I thought so I never- ever want to go back for that phone, I was being a wimp and wasn't planning on going the back anyways.

Anyway's, like they put this crown-ie thing-ie, on me- and crap. It's in my head now on mine even if you can see it, I always feel the blood dripping down my pretty face, yet I feel okay with this, I am not sure if it was a girl the face was not really there, and hitherto it was moving through mine in a howling scream when she did it. I mean look at me I have a rock-ish each to me that my girl hate, yet I find cute still, I not going to change everything, or did I? I have on blue and white sneakers, I have somewhat messy hair all the time: Jenny calls it sex hair, like hers in nice all belched out with the black roots showing, and her eyebrows in plucked, like all that crap, needs to match too.

What's wrong with wearing a baggie boy type top and having a bra strap showing, so what, hell I just take the bra off and were a flannel red and blue boy style button-down with a few buttons at the top open just to give the guys some to look at other them my brown eyes, you-know. Jenny like her easy accesses skirts and make all feel we need to do the same, I don't- so much, not me, yet I feel it- it is not that hard to push them down some like you get that if you don't have anything on underneath it all the same- right? It's just as fast! I like I have a habit of touching my hair and looping it back behind my ear, quietly, I also talk with my hands and move from side to side or so they say, like now I have skenn-ie black dress-ie pants on, see- ain't they cute. I have long fingers also, that Jenny said- 'I might stab my brain out with when I- am-a picking a booger.'

Groooooosssseeeee!

This top is all checkered, I have a bandanna tied around my wrist, and ring on a chain, that is his, I stole it. Yet he's okay with it or so- I think so... I twist my mouth outwards like I am going to kiss, think it's okay. This T- is pink- gray- and dark blue, it just too-o CUTE! Don't tell um- I said that, do feel that I can be shy at time...? I do... I always kind of was... I think about all the stupid crap I do and get red-faced, like what I did today, crazZzie, I no better, I want to shut them all up.

Like I've shown all that down there- OMG! I don't sleep with all those boys' you-NO, I just cuddle up. I say more than I do- all girls do.

~*~

(Flashback to her)

I saw it all, it is my memory, in the last days leading up to the end; and I feel too their scheme. She was floating all in white in front of me, note haunting- but almost angelic, and see-through, she was glissading I was looking too hard in a gaze, her blue eyes peering into mine, she hands something to say, yet I walked away, backing away from the light, all the way back even if it lights my way, I tripped into the darkness in the creeped-out hallways, falling to them all the next day.

Not all the windows are completely covered over some have the old cracked glass hang in there rattling and hollowing, like the scream of this girl as I was walking away, I ran, she was right there behind me, and then in front- so fast, I could not turn to run fast enough.

The doors of the rooms started to bang as they would open and close all by themselves, the light they come on and off in dissimilar places at different times, and started to flicker, the bullies were walking to me from the end of the hall they're coming after this girl I know as Lily, so they can rap, as she said in this long cold, twisted, painful long ass story of her day in the haunted halls.

So, she screamed in my ear for help. 'I will never be fast enough' she said, as she gripped me and took me to her hiding spout the old and falling in the bathroom. A flicker of light over my head like a light glowing evil, I saw all the faces she did, way back when, looking at her with murder and sodomy in their minds, shining through their inflamed eyes, like squalling catcalling at her, there were going to tear her apart, and that what they did to her every time they could, in the past and every time they could get their hands on her. It was the four sisters- and they want someone to take it all down, or take me down, and they had their eyes on me, they- said- they would get me if I got away, I said that will be the day.

(They got me in the ass, and in the vag., you can say they got all of me.) I ran having like a whole within me with a fire hell pouring out from down below, as I feel down to the lower overall the riff stars, I knew I should not have walled up in here, I would have never run- into them... or so she said. I ran out the doors that just seem to blow open in a whoosh, I looked back and saw her looking out the only window that was not covered up on the second floor. She said I see you soon, Karly- I am there for you. I did get it... I crap myself! And peed too, I would not say that to the girl but I did. I knew I had to go back and spend the night on Saturday with them to see what this was all about, and they did, the next day, and let them see the threaded story and that girl. (Funny she said she had my back.)

Someone from every year is drawn into it... This time I guess it was me, it's something that pulls at you if you don't believe in it. Look at it it's leaning and bricks are falling out, yet I love it- I faking love this old pace of crap, I just never- felt I should go inside, for this reason. It was calling out to me for years! Like the girl's haunting voice. The school was here back when the town was nothing but and run-down ghostly town, now it's a big city, the old school is doffed next to Clit. All the old trees are stumps, and the routs show, like bitter withered arms pulling at your feet, and there is one that is dead, way overhead that has fallen to the grasses of the doorway.

Chapter: 76

Sliding down

We cut loose, and when to the old abandoned track in the sky, it not all there anymore, yet it a cool spot up in the air where the wind blow and you feel as if you are flying. I love having my hair whooshing backward, as I look over the edge. I want to hold his hand and look down feel the ninety-five mile-per-hour wind rushing around me. I want it was our first hook spot ever, and I was like nine ten he was like.

I keep this my dirty little secret for years, he was my true first, yet it was not the most romantic yet it was something, now looking back now how is the loser, it did it long before, yet it was with him so it was not cool, I never- ever said this to anyone, that he took me. Yet play around like that with a boy that was me, he wanted to know so I said okay. It was the first time seeing all that- you know, at least mine was real, and not like time two at a party.

This thing is up so high- I get sick of feeling so short at like four-foot, on top this I can see the world by looking down, and they are looking up at me, my mom and grandmother where all the same size also, if not shorter, or so they say.

The car is old and dusty and looks like no one has been in it for years on the outside, it just blacked and crusty, the only car other than the coal car behind the locomotive, and it too is rusted red-ish orange. The used to have tripped over this thing and park it on the bridge, and you spent the night up in the stars, and so that is what we did on a big full moon night. In the big bed looking out the one side of all those old windows.

The car and train sit here for there was a fire or something on that line, and this becomes the new home of the serving remanences about half a mile in, the train was going over and was near the end on the one said when the wind took it all down, and all the cars but one fall all the many feet to the ground below, yet it never steamed over again. There sits the old Pullman car it's red and has a black, with yellow writing on it, up till now I am not sure what it says. It was a custom car made just for spending the night on top of the linked- mountains the train is all the same color for what I can make out, dating around 1800's or so, that what my dad said anyway we and he was up here, oh so long ago. We both walked up to her me on the left tack him on the right hand-woven tight.

The grass tall the track worn, and feet sore, from the journey there. Over smaller yet high crossings that have known side rails. Inside you can see it is in touch, and all dark wood, I light one of the old lanterns, I though down a towel, and we had juice pouches and P-P and J.

Romantic- No! It's all good, he tried. It wasn't about that anyway.

The bed is off to the back and looks like a five-star hotel room to us, there is a living room spot, where ass naked in the big old sofas... or next to it, we were playing house, and loving it. We were young but we feel- we did on the bed all night long. Looking out over... see the tree sway below. it was cold in the car, yet he keeps me warm, I was fogging up the windows, with my breath Moan it out in a sweet- yet sensual way, I was pressed upon it looking out as I was on top, he was looking up at me, yet I was looking out and at his eyes, at definite times.

I even kissed the glass to live something behind, I wonder if it's still there, and my name covered in the old wood, next to his.

It was like I could hear the bell of the past, from the engine in front. He hands his nose in girl-lie-ness, and he said it smelt sweet, along with the test. You have to give to get it back I thought to be a virgin at the time.

So, I took what he was going to give too, we're just playing, yet it must have been young love, that I feel too. I would say the inside of this car is all Earth tones, soft, the top of the roof all white, and crap.

Damn, there is even a crapper in here, and I used it. Just take a dump onto the tacks. Just take a whiff of that one... I am so-o romantic when I want to be. (Her lip went up, and off to the side.) I saw a shooting star and made the wish to never be lonely, I guess that came true, I should have wished to be with him forever, instead- and never- ever let go. There was a plan that was lower than us up on this thing as we were rocking and a-roll'n.

(Art deco style)

I know that Marcel, wants to be all nice about it us doing this more in his bed or wherever we can, yet we can for we have to take what we can get, like us- being together and all, you know all joined up, it just not happening the way it should. I want to make love more, and feel his love, all the love not just the sex, yet I want- want that also.

However, a girl wants these days is to be satisfied, and not so much hold off-sh, I want candy and flowers, sure but have sex me, Jez-us! So just do me- and he did last night, I know this time, I had to find out- it's a girl thing you know- I think it was the only time too, oh not the only time, only with him. I was afraid that the car would start rucking to much that it would go of the beige and roll down the tracks, where it was ripped off so many years ago.

Get this the bridge was built for one US dollar in like three weeks in the year 1882. The mean of this goes ten cents a week. So they went on the stick and got less crap then that or so I have heard, that may be why it was weaker on that side too, it was done faster, 'Like this one gets me- why would you take out old rivets that are plated in, and put in bolts with thinner plates said my dad, when what was there was stronger they why it was for over a hundred three years.

'It was- too kill-lll- it.' he said 'For it was too freaking high up in the middle. I would know I am an engineer, I said- 'leave it, just go with a lighter train at it would be fine even know if it was rebuilt.

Freak- just re-rivet the thing not a nut and built! Threads give and brake more, or work so there not tight enough to hold strong, and get more brittle then what was there. PA pisses me off for FREAKING with it!'

My dad never says the F-word, in front of me, unless it to my b*tch of a mother. This is how I knew about this place, and how he did, from the historical crap'n thing-ie. My dad worked on the yellow bridge that I went down on, as the Gateway Clipper Cruise would go under, I have been on that thing like seven times, fun crap. I am sure my mom and dad were too; I was on it with Marcel too yet we were going as fiends of so they all thought. I could go to a Steelers game yet freak that too, sports do nothing for me, or my friends, yet Jenny finds a way to get in and be with someone. She was even in the glassed-out part with a man. Money talks for her- not me.

Back in the car, we had the time of our lives... and this is how it went.

Um- Just aw-ha- like- push me up agent you- um-hum.

Aw-wah- standing- sliding, thrusting- pushing- in- out and up and down.

Until the end- never feel as it is going to come.

Not stopping until it goes off... NO!

YES!

-Breath- 'Ahaw'

He was sitting in a puddle of mine, which went a-crossed the room. Going off, at a point together, then started to slide down, with me sliding down the wall with his; penis in my vagina.

In the sitting position, all pushed and back out not too fast not too slow, I could feel it in and go down on his, at this point, I am just SCREAM-ING his name!

YES!

Yet- I am a lady-

I don't give two crap who hears us now!

That was extraordinary!!! -I yelped! Yes, yes it was he said, out of breath

OH my God and I don't say that!

Chapter: 77

Suck it

I want to freaking kill- a teacher at this point, or someone at my school, I feel like I never have a career. So this one of these days, I watched a porno at a high school while the teacher was looking and saying nothing anyways, the music was okay, (Bon-ka wanna- bon ka) I had it blasting out for us all to hear, yet it was only supposed to me, as I have on my big ASS headphones, I did get why everyone was looking simple at me, until the teacher- was in my face look on the screen patting me on the head, like my dad. 'So, you're big into sax solo-ing I see.' Yes, do you want to see me do her on the desk, it the same as what they made me look at in PE min-us the bushes? He jolts up his shoulders making a face as I get it- but then he said- 'Now take your cute down to the office.' Sure- it was shrugged only on the one side- you know... I was rubbing into it also; he saw that- its one-nna of those good ass days. I was hoping to get off and get out of that class like all of them, freak them all, I feel I was doing a good job, or so they said. The teacher's name is Hood, like go and freak off and left up that hood in find it yourself I don't need to show you. Yet that's okay, I was at home.

(Why don't I feel like I was in class doing that- hell if I know?)

I-yah didn't go there, my gut was grumbling so inside, I went to the cafeteria did wash my hand either so yeah- yah-no, I just rubbed it in- anyways, and there were having pork-stuffed burritos with extra sour cream and guacamole, whatever the freak that is- it looks like one big ass turd - sandwich to me on the plat-

Um-mm- that's one big tasty turd!!!

Freak! Ha- I love the word FREAK it can be used as a noun, verb, or adjective.

I am going to prove that- what the freak, this is freaking crap, and I am getting freaked.

Freak it all in the ass hole!

Chapter: 78

By my hair, and everywhere

Marcel- 'Oral sex is the new goodnight kiss, okay...? That's nice... as a guy that sick! What if she finds me, and I have to kiss those lips after she did that, it just like eating out his d*ick- that's sick! No matter how many times she brushes her teeth or floss, or baths I still feel I get what he gave her, and now want I want her to have. I think about you on this one and it turns me so off, maybe that why it never- ever would have worked.

And even if you are doing that and you're with a guy and say you didn't I still think you did, for all girls are like this today, just giving it away. Let's just say you do it with him and then you do that guy now you want to do it to me... One word for it is- gross when it should have been all mine from the start, and only! Girls if that's not run through your mind now it should be.' It was like last year when Karly when went with Ray to Prom, she was all into me then, and I cut in and got my dance, and then we ran off, to my car in the lot and made while you get it, and we did it there I had to think about that as we made out. It just got to the point, which I was like go, I'll find someone else that will love only me. What if she believed in me... what if she did care, what if it was not a waste of time. What if she loves me more than any other, what if it would have just happened sooner, and then she felt she was safe for the words that ricochet.

I recall her saying- 'I am very happy with my boyfriend and I see him in my future so I wish you could respect that.' 'Why should I respect that, when you do not get it and, and I don't have too for that ring is not on your finger, that why I don't have too. And now that is not very wrong it's very right if you would see that, and not be so dumb about it. My God you are not married to the guy. You need to stop listening to your friends so much... what are you so scared of? What...? Just FREAKING say it! WHAT! I think to know why, but just say- why from you! What is wrong with you being so cold, you're not like that.'

Karly- Sex is all I think about- and want, yet can seem to have it in me and right, or was it in the past and I fail to remember, here I am at the best dinner we'd had in years, it was years ago, I said- to myself, as I sit thinking back on that time up there in there and crap.

We all stuffing our faces, even Madilyn, she is drinking margarita after margarita in different flavors- I feel sick just looking at this crap, maybe lovesick in the flashback I was having, I am not sure- really. I feel I need that back, that day, and those sweet thoughts. I want it all that has always been the issue with me, I have to have it my way and that has always got me into something I didn't want to be in. I see them all laughing so loudly, I don't give a freaking crap at this point.

At least one table asked to be moved to a different part of the restaurant, for Jenny was farting too much and loudly I might add, God- I going to toss my cookies as she did. I don't recollect what we were even talking about, but at one-point Madilyn (Maddie) took a picture of Liv wearing flashing her crap, and showing her see-food in her mouth... she was showing the chewed-up bits of crap.

She said- she was going to dump entire thing of hot sauce into Maddie's ass crack. In the corner of the people getting up and walking out, I don't give a crap. I feel like doing that also. I want my old life back I was thinking in another flashback of the past, 'He was romping in my mind, and oscillation in my blood.' At this point, I am on my cell just to hold it all down and gag it all back up, it's not mine- anyway.

I tap on to Jenny Facebook and see nip in my face or whatever those things she has are... ones an innie... I think, looking at how freaked-up her face is on this... one... eyes... is- almost closed, shut. You can see a third of Jenny's profile and it all sexy photos as she calls them, I don't have a name for this crap.

(She's doubling and did-a-ling over them, cracking up, her face was a bright purple. One hand is clutching her stomach. I just want to get off!!!)

What nice table manners and etiquette, NO-?

Yes! I would say...

Liv- Freak- Me- Gross!

Maddie- Piss'n- Sh*t!

Me- As there all huddled around me looking at my phone it's the gayest group hug to be in have, so many girls all up on your junk and crap. I think I was getting some and felt up to like a holy d*ick!

It's- Dope! (Rankle up your nose, and she rolled eyes.)

After dinner, Jenny threw down her mom's credit card to pay for the whole thing. She's only supposed to use it for tragedies, but she leaned forward over the table and made us all grab hands like we were praying. And she said- 'Lord! I want to be freaked SO-Oooooo hard to the night that you hear me say your name, oh- yeah- um- freak- LORED-E, he- he- he, I don't even think you're there, I think all of this is-a- crap is just freaking horse crap! Like- it's all crap, and s-sh-crap on the pages, (Sweetly- A-man.)' The Jenny throw Liv's bible a-crossed the room hitting some old ninety-year-old lady in the face, that said to hush up, eat that crap she said.

You done said Liv- I don't think that was right, I not for it either yet just shut the freak up, you look dumb.

Jenny- 'Hell it is all just fantasy story, of an old man with their d*ick out, sucking each other like all that is in the writing why read it.'

Maddie- 'Like- feel that way okay- we don't want to hear it... stop, look at these faces in here, where getting embraced.'

Me- I don't feel quite that way yet I get the fiction that she is saying. I don't know what to believe in if anything also, yet I try not to think about it, that what they want you to do, be brainwashed, and p*ssy whipped. (Jenny going to hell I know... NOW! Yet I thought that was funny at the time. She can read that is one thing.)

'She, is my friends, yet I feel this has become a disaster,' She laughed because she was being melodramatic as usual, just injudicious. The plan was to go off to a party afterward yet I feel I may get jail time for this crap this time: it's become a tradition, to piss off old crap'n people at the start of the weekend we had the unabridged night ahead of us. Everyone was in a blameless mood. Jenny was being normal, and that if fun to us and piss the old ones off that don't freaking get it.

She went to the bathroom after the woman got up and dumped the margaritas all over saying- 'Find some kind of realign.' I know that she was going to go anyways to fix her makeup, and five seconds after she left the table, the cops came and she was not the one that goes the cuffs it was us girls that went downtown. She- F-n booked, out the bathroom window.

Everyone is laughing at us as we get into the cars, I had to be warning white just my luck-right. Every one of those hit me all at once: old people know how to throw crap. 'Just hose the b*tch down one said. And she was older than my grandmother.'

I'd never had to pee so badly in my life, either being soggy- and wet down there. Yet I sure she didn't even have to piss. I was sprinting for the bathroom when I was talked, still laughing for I had to, while Liv and Madilyn throw at me with a half-eaten sandwich, and crumpled napkins and yelled, 'Jesus is going to get you, Jenny, for freaking him in the ass hole with your strap-on d*ick.' You should have seen the faces now! It was like Niagara Falls duping crap and piss all over me, ah more like there food and crap, but I think you got that right- dumb ass, ah I love yah, keep reading this crap... it is not like you have a life either.'

And 'If it's yellow, you get it!' so another table asked to be moved yet why would they want to say at this point a show and dinner I get it- I think.

The yellow- crap, well- I peed... okay, it happens to us girls.

The bathroom was single-person, I was thrown five feet into the door by the big d*ick of a cop thrown the door and a girl scream as she was latterly crap-ing on the crapper as I fly inwards on her, just hump me I said, and get off. (Brake throw the door, is what she did. It was hugging from one hang...) 'Funny- you like other girls, in your ass.'

Why yes- yes- I do officer. (She's on the floor looking up, just batting those eyes sweetly.) I said- offers d*ick-head; I can flash you to get out of this right?) He said- 'Don't think so sweetie!'

(So, she did...) 'FREAK!' the guys say. The one whiff-ie punched her husband in the face for looking, it was a good ass night. I was looking at the calling yet wondering where Jenny went too, I know where she went it a good hiding spot yet it's my spot- ever-ever hers. You're crazy to be up there now. Hours later after my dad was called, I went up there, thinking I am nuts for going on to this thing I start rattling the handle at the same time, as I was calling out her freaking real name.

‘Jenn-a Jenn-a Tal-ya!’ you’re a p*ssy! I walked in and she was dying! Her face blue, and her skin cold, her eyes wide open, saying help me, she was on the bed ass naked, saying he got me, with a knife in it. She was followed by someone for saying what she said or something that she did, it caught up with her, yet she’ll make it she always does. Her note was left on the other window on the other side, saying- I want it all to stop, I never wanted to do anything to anyone.

Along with these lyrics that she copied off her cell phone, which she looked up: ‘But I’m on the outside... I’m looking in, I can see through you, see your true colors. Because inside you’re ugly; you’re ugly like me. I can see through you, see to the real you. ‘And its- you that I will never feel or have,’ and that was all spelled wrong even though she copied it all.’

~*~

Whom does she want to have?

How or who... I asked- she said- ‘Don’t.’

Jenny- (I did it to myself for the attraction. I am freaked up- okay. That’s why I dyed, they wanted me too.)

(Me- I think it was my sister that did it.) (Ray- it wasn’t me, I got out after a year, I am sitting in this cell for a reason, she’s not believing me, yet I blame Marcel as she did also.) I scream and run, to the cops yet they didn’t believe me.

I guess she’d was in a rush to get in there, for she hadn’t locked the door correctly and it was left somewhat opened, we- I walked through, I was leaning against it, as I flow into the sight of her laying there. I tumbled into the bathroom, to find that she killed me and my sister's kitten, Cotton, she was still laughing when I walked in about killing something that I loved, the girl has just gone nuts, expecting Jenny is standing in front of the I see her in the mirror with her lips beading holding the knife over me, saying it you or your sister take your pick, you both are freaking me over so one shall goes now.

I fought her off me and ran to the door. I feel like I was going to go over the edge the handrail is long gone now. She had me by the neck, saying- 'I shall kill you for this...' What did I do? 'Just be so freaking perfect! I can't stand it I, not you!' She was talking all crazy and crap. I was over she was holding me by my feet and one of my feet gave way, and my shoe was it. I was going to go down with the bridge... I just feel it. and then just like that she goes all nice and crap and started freaking out that she needed to pull me back up, yet there was know why that was going to happen, so I just a few, and I thought I was going to die that time too, yet somehow I live and woke up in my be naked and happy- to go on, yet that was months ago, yet living the same date. It like she keeps trying to get rid of me and she can and crap.

Shove down the toilet was the dissevered head of my little cat, I screamed my head off after the fact, my sis didn't eat, sleep, for days all she did was the cry of our kitten, and the remains were laid to rest next to the old car over a-crossed the way. She flushed but not quickly enough, for all of it to go... I loved my cat she knew all my up and downs in life. I saw two entire undigested tomato pieces swirl down the toilet bowl. All of the laughter left me instantly, as I was going downward quickly. 'I feel safe doing this, yet I thought it was my time this time?' I asked, even though it was obvious.

Your bridges are burning down, they're all coming down, they're all coming around, gather in the ashes, scattered not to be found, as they blow around, they threw me away, living on another day, not much to say, not much I can say, it's all going down there all around, don't make a sound, fallen to the ground.

~*~

It a new day and it starts with me and my sister all over again, freak just learns how to do this yourself, Jesus-H-Crist the girls freaking stupid' faces light up with recognition, as I say sure, and I walk out of the 'Bathroom, get ready for it.' Show me- Show me- what I need to do! God shoot me now, freak! Freak! Freak! Crap! Freak!

Buzz- buzz!

(Mind thoughts not my own)

I am going to hell for this I just know it. I feel like I am being someone robot- that they program, I feel what they want me to feel with me inside, they can get into my body and act it out using my mind, it's like they have the technology up there to run me even if I don't want to run.

I have to go through this to get it or so that say- and I still don't get it. Occupancy with reason with the extraordinary, while let us do the undoable, let us get ready to deal with the indescribable and aforementioned, and see if we may not- freaking goes nuts it after all. I may not have gone where I intended to go, but I think I have ended up where I needed to be, yet I don't get why- do you? I love end even if they're not all happy.

I love the whizzing noises as I fly downward, for it, it's what makes me live, I love the death for the most alive you can be in life itself, it the height of going off that gets you not to feel so low. I want to be high all the time- to keep them off my mind, or even him whomever he may be. I know it must have been Ray... (Think again... a soft voice for with-in said.)

'She lay into the whole enchilada in life with a fusion of bizarre mastermind, and childlike ineptitude and it was often problematical to tell which was right from wrong.'

Time is an illusion... of seconding ticking away to death, everything its death, to have a life. 'Why eat if you're going to die.' Said Jenny, as she was sitting in her hospital bed, looking over her cell on Facebook making sure all her photos looked good and axing the one that didn't show her good side. Before the end was nearing. She asked to see me yet, I was reluctant to go in... Yet I did agent my mom's wishes.

My dad said- 'Folks- who think they know it all is a big frustration to those of us who know are crap.' I was standing by a little niche just before going into the kitchen when he said this at the hospital. 'Don't waste your time going after that crap! Don't be so naïve and simple-minded! She'll eat the crap out of you and come back for more.' He was starting to sound like me on that one, so I think he had enough, of Jenny. He said- 'I'm not going to cry over the girl!'

There's a line of people gathered in front of a closed door. I had to wait for three hours just to see this girl, my mom said I was insane! 'Does this girl have charry tasting nipples or p*ssy for these boys to be rushing in like this...?' My god dad- I said dropping my jaw- 'Crap her harry little mouse should be worn out by now.' It's not hairy- dad! He looked at me with confusion- and said- 'Umm- hum!' ('Sure, that where her mind went, missing ALL the importance.')

So are in the waiting room, one girl has her legs crossed and hopping up and down, saying I have to pee yet I am not giving up my set or spot. She was the most popular girl in the school there where over a thousand people come to her laying-out to see here in this like a see-through nightgown. Even in death she getting the last giggle and has to show off her goodies. She made sure everything looked preteen, down there and back up, her face airbrushed to perfection, it sickens- me for I know I would never get any of the crap, down, or even look that good even alive.

(Old hospital, called: Miners)

I dislike the elevators, the hum- and rattle and I get stuck it one-time, big drafty windows way at the end, you can hear: 'Paging Dr. What-the-freak!' and see bed flying down the halls, kids where have wheelchair races and whiling crap, and one nard was shoved into a body bag, and thrown to the shaft of the elevator, and left, he still might be there...? Kids these days... who do they think they are- me.

(Flashback to the hallway)

There is a line, rapping the six-floor to the six-sixth room, kids are ripping open the door, and Jenny getting off to some I swear to someone on that she is and that's the big man above while okay then, I see her kissing a boy and even down to the youngest girl... and that pissed me off so much, I walked away, saying I saw yet I never did, and maybe that why I feel guilty about passing this up, it's not like I can go back and say goodbye! I kick myself, yet feel it was right yet wrong. Jenny thinks she is a sexy beast! Yet everyone gave her a big head.

Death is all I want to think about, like... at this point, one year ahead!

Leaving without her next to me, I want to die, for her so, I can be with her.

Locking back which would have been, her now that she doesn't remember me, yet she does and does not want me any longer.

'Hey Karly, good to see you again!' (She looks at me the same with love, yet the feel is not being received all the way in.) 'What the heck's her problem?' 'She doesn't want to remember who you are, bra.' 'Oh yeah. I suck at life that's right!'

Karly- I hardly know you.

Olivia- 'Actually sweetie, your kind were dating each other.'

(Karly looks at him)

'Yeah. Sorry, I'm not better looking.'

(Giving a wink)

Chapter: 79

It's Winking at Me!

Books of what right and what's wrong in a teen's life.

(Going back three weeks)

One of them points to her watch and says something I can't hear, but she looks pissed. 'She's been in there for, like, twenty minutes,' a sophomore says, she was eating with her parents- 'like such a loser thing to do, like for real you do that and you may as well so suck a d*ick in front of a Holy-Father, it's the same to us, or so, Liv said. What is she like five I said even my little pain in the butt sis get to go places, all by herself?' 'Yeah but is that a good thing, Liv asked, you know she is freaking boys- and not and not playing with her toys, your boy is her new toy, and I know she is using you power-toys also, always a baby you shall stay, unless you break away for her, that bring you down with her.' My stomach drops to my feet feeling it all want to come back- up. I almost get sick right nearby the bathrooms, I was close by I have pills, for that and that also. I have razors too and, I feel, I could do that, also, and not give two- craps.

People lock themselves in bathrooms' glass when they want to I can do that too, of brake it and cut myself like I want to all so I want to do bad things, like have sex or throw up, freak and never stop, kill something or someone, have a threesome or something unforgivable or unbelievable to be remembered by- for there not kill themselves, to be like me. So far- I do it every day for them, to slice me up one side and down the other, they have end freaked though me, at least my girlfriend can't do that as those boys do.

(Lunchroom)

‘Liv...? Are reading that same pace of crap again?’

‘It sucks, not that heard it better than Twilight pace of horse crap, that I could write better in one day- yet come on, like read something else, I am just in love this man writhing I can’t help it, then read something else, by him, I never even thought of that really, in a dumb moment of Eureka! Do you read Twilight? Are you freaking five... that for babies! Said Ray, boy falls to freaked up face guy, and she has no freaking face yet she looks freaking high all the time, oh may- and thing happens.

You suck for saying this book suck! Said liv is awesome! Where does the daemon come out of? Asked Maddie, Liv- ‘My book says out of there girls’ p*ssy’s.’ Maddie- ‘Smartass that not what that meant at all- sick-o, as she leans over and reads into her open book down on her lap, I can look at the spot art at the banging’s over the chapters, and get what they meant, and that not what I see, her laying on her bed feeling all that she lost. Some of these my mom said are graphic, I don’t think so get with the time’s mom and dad, like a holy freak! It’s just a naked girl like me, sitting in her room, on her octagon window bench, look down at herself showing it all, (like we girls do that you know- I know I do) with her hand just about to touch it, (and more) showing her tight little line of girl-ie-ness, feeling said with a tear running down her cheek.’ (Just- Get over it!)

~*~

-A week has passed-

My days there not supposed to go this way, I read the first page. I’m supposed to say to you. I elbow Liv saying okay can I have this when you’re done with it, sure, you might just get something out of it you need. I get up for the food line and start shoving through the line of people crowded there, all the way to the front.

I’ll read more, yet I know it will time me more time then she took, she knows it off by heart. He taps me on the nose, and I softly with his one finger; like he does after he kisses me, and I am on top of him skin to skin find it so- cute- to me.

(Nevaeh lived a hundred years, yet never-ever meet Karly she was in her little world, or so her mother said.)

‘I feel she didn’t what to know her, her mother that is.’

Nevaeh

Book: 11

A Void She Cannot Feel

Chapter: 80

New start beholding-

-Breath through me, I feel double.

Nevaeh- Hey it good to talk to you again- I said, I would be back, yet I never thought I would meet my grandbaby's up here, and not down there with you all. She a wild one kind of like I was at her age, if you flip some pages back, and read between the lines you'll see me there.

Jaylynn- which possesses all of us, to take crap to give a crap or have crap, or just crap it out? I have inquiries- So, is its natural surroundings that pushes us, it's like a house of horrors and its many faith- that is sarcasm to my life. Freak nurture, freak the universe in the ass with a two by four. The people give nothing and trust like the AL-mighty is a thing of the past yet that fine with me, ass holes. Yet I love you just so you know, I love everyone, ago crap- on. There are more depths made than saved, no lives in this city that have a clear understanding of what they are doing.

Yet you can see that crap, can't you! My mom said, 'I have a potty mouth,' yet I don't see that. I'm living in a persuaded rite, which keeps them in limbo, breaking my back fallen to my ass. I don't follow anything or anybody's crap- I do me because it has become a routine of what they think needs to be identified. So, I prefer to not follow anything, those asses are the one that seems to be lost on their path, not I, or that is the way I see it- do you- d*ick head. Look at how this crap took place they say that kids skip a generation- Karly is so like me, good for her, her mom is like my mom, a dumb ass, that I have to love for she is my mother, yet I never really know her, that was my choice it wasn't hers.

(Dark wings and all you can see me now.)

My path when all downs also, the easy way to hell, yet hell is where the fun is, until you get there, and have to find a way to get it up- he-he- I said get it up. I am still a young girl can you see; I am fifteen jack off's. I am not surrounded by people who are happy or do not need me. I am just a part of its unknown past. I have learned to follow my heart, and go with my gut feeling. Even if that is to cut it open and bleed the feeling out. I have confidence that I do not need to be a bible thumper to have true faith, I didn't see the need too- really- at all- it's all a steamy pull of crap, like a 'Harry Potter' movie, just like Jesus he died at the end I could have told you that, crap. I have faith, is sex, drugs, and rap. WORD! 'All I need is to have a love for the man who breathed his last breath so that I could breathe freely.' 'God, I just need to get freaked, my grandmothers quote suck Harry Potter butt!'

Karly- (Past weeks) - I have to suck in the air on my own, I have the impressions that I have been cut away from the umbilical cord to the uterus of culture's association, like mother must have felt losing out on me, yet the same thing happened to her of so the freaked up story goes that my dad has told to me, over the years every-night for as long as I can remember. I am in a sequence that I need to develop my own, and not have repeated, yet I am not in central of that either, I have no central in anything anymore or so it seems, I am spiraling- I am spiraling, falling- falling- crawling- and always- down on my knees, begging for more.

I want to see me have everything I want to see, I would like to read more pages, and see, some that I need to see I just want to remember me and find out about them, in addition to the one that I need to love, and I see that I had it and give it up. Yet I have to pick the right one- I see, and that is so... me... I don't get what I need, or realized what I had, with them. I don't know if it the childhood boy, or the sweet girl that plays with me that I need the most. Love is a hex, of not knowing what to love more. Just like the general public will come and go. Falling to someone shall stay.

Things will come and there may be modification not foreseen. Yet, is the one a girl or a boy-? I just don't know! Maybe I am just BI- yet how do I get over that?

I have to choose at some point, don't I? Look here- The pages will turn; the chapters will open and close, as I, myself own a book of life, ha- I think I read my own story without ever knowing, yet Liv did that why she read it in front of me to see if I would see the way, to my own life. Some of the text, which was written, will fade away, and a broken heart will mend.

Up till now some of it will endure in my reminiscence unflinching and vibrant. (I may have passed on for reading a bewitched story with I was never- ever meant to read about my family, and the hex of losing everything that I loved, I wonder if the girls set me up for this one?) I can hear whispers, whispers I can feel, whispers that used to give me a thrill, whispers from the ones that kill, whispers that give me a chill, I recall whispers while trying to find love, I hear them whispering, just like the girl in the story that I should have known, that I may need to find.

Even so, I have to comprehend it is all that I want to think of, and not what they choose for me to arouse, I was forbidden to see her... nevertheless, I did, the day before my end. I hear a soft voice! After that moment with her- You know I think that life is all optimal; one can either select to live comfortably or choose to live in fear, and that is what I did the fear, of not fitting in and they kill me for it.

They're still killing me, every day not to I find out what I love the most, and that is not my girlfriends, it comes down to two. I ask him to do more for me, yet is he? Or has he, or has she done it all for me, that is the question. I know that someday he will answer me, and if he doesn't, she will! I feel I want her to; she is the one the most like me, and I feel she needs me more. And I love that about her she needs me, and that is love.

Yet I feel like this- There is nothing to do in this here for me, or then her or should it be him? I know that my dad would disown me for dating a girl, so- I don't get what I should do. I have use thing like with a boy anyway, so I should just go with the real thing inside me, I am not a lez-bo! But that girl could sway me- I don't know. There is just a glow in my mouth- like all the white teeth teen wants me to be, it's all spitting out, yet I have swallowed it, yet they don't. Look at my eyes with bloodshot eyes, with tears running down her cheeks, and everything in-between feeling the same, you could even see all the welt markings of all their words, yet you can't see them.

She did not even know her name... so she was named after his favorite flower, that he had everywhere in his home as I remember. There is nowhere to go, no one to see... and no one or two, which cares about me. How can I live a life of ecstasy? If infrequently one cannot have a choice, yet I want to pick this if I have anticipation, if I have the preference to.

Well, I have to live with the consequences of an entity life with me next to me and even inside me and some, I call my friends. Everyone has to bow down to them, I have been blown to yet not always the way you think I have, my live a life abortion, ripping out my heart blood dripping down my arm, and the demons I just hoping fly out of my piss so, I can strangle them with my come! Yeah, I am the only girl that will say that out loud! CRAP! Moreover, the way I am the one loses out on a life of authorization to make a pronouncement and my selection, crap really- is it me that has this or not. They are the cord that is attached to me; nothing can correspond or takes place in humanity without my friend's approval. Yet, in my life it is like someone- they sieve, network, and monitor all my life's events. They are the ones that give the stipends in the formations in the society's loop.

Chapter: 81

Her real love going inside

Aylden- Moya- I am a- freshmen here at Bill Clinton high, I have some to say- I am in love with you Maggie, I see you every day, and all you have to do is just been in front of me and it drives me nuts.

So, I did the unthinkable and asked her out, and like that she said yes, I was not sure she would and all herring, what I have heard about her, it was not long until I got her pants off, and I was in love with everything that I was looking at her so cute, and just a fourteen-year-old little girl, it refreshing to see she not slut-ing it out.

Girls where what they think boy's thing is sex, so they think they're having lots of sex, this girl she is not like so they just assume she is gay for not have sex with boys, where and when she can get it, I know that she has girls that play round yet what girl has not. I am okay with her past and doing that, it not what you all think it was, there was girly love there yet not a full-blown relationship. If there was, she never said, I just got that she never went that far with a boy, yet she knew what I was going to do. 'Ha that tickles- I have them off to the side. Frilly most girls in my school would call them baby-fi-ed. She is wearing training Briefs, with the scallop up and down banding at the top, their multicolored size six to seven, white background, white edging, and with tiny light blue, and pink hearts on them, and the little white bow in the front- too cute it's just adorable to see a girl do this, and not care what other girls say. I want to keep-um and never wash them to have the scent of her when she is not with me when she is away from me.

Maggie- you want to sniff my panties?

Me- possibly...? (Award saying) Which side the inside or the out?

Me- What do you think?

(She just gives a sweet small- and giggles, as I got it.)

Maggie- The inside right-?

Me- Um-hum!

Here you go you earn these by saying that like that!

Me- Thanks!!! (The first time - like it is a nice keepsake well too look to look back on every time you need to?)

Maggie- How do you know you going to like doing this if you never sniffed them before?

Me- well-ah it is you isn't...?

Okay, I see!

Maggie said to me that- 'Shaving line down there, is not fair to us girls. Yet that the only part of me that I don't shave, God- I have enough to do with my legs and under-arms.' Got-yah! 'I like these I have on their comfy I so glad you like them; I was worried that you would not like me for this...' I am okay with it because I love anything you do or have on, it doesn't matter to me, I said it's cute- go with it. Um- can I have them? Ah- you what these? I sure do, to keep.

Okay then... (Her eyes rolled like why? Her index finger- off to the side of her sweet lips, maybe biting her nail, face down eyes looking up rolled to the side.)

Then she said- 'I am not using a razor down there, that I don't know where it been, God you don't know what you may pick up- like if you get cut or just irritate yourself, I did it once and swore never again, it was Karly saying try it, and where fabric sting up your butt, I think not when I can be comfortable and having it natural feel right to me, do you mind?' Not really! It's not what, I am used to but it's what you want so I love that about you too. It's not about what they think about us and what we're okay with- and I don't mind.

Her underwire bottoms show to me that is most inane still, and also shy, and I find that amusing, and wonderful. Not wearing what all the girls do shows me this is a girl that has something I want and that standing up for her right to do what she wants and believes in like her faith.

Say with me- I love her blue eyes, the way she cries; she never lies to me, always hearing me, always near me, stay what me. Say with me, and make me happy; stay with me, and say you love me, stay with me, and someday marry me- won't you please...? Just stay with me.

I love you!

There was this on time, where a girl felt my girl up and pulled on her hair to see if it was there... and it was, and she okay with felting it, you may just want to do the same... as... I know.

She let her... that's what happened, so she would see what she wanted to do with her style down there.

Maggie- Two week's letter I have completely fallen in love! I changed schools, to be so the girls would not rip us apart, and say crap in the halls, yet when we get off the clock it's on. He here to pick me up, and I go to his place, and we hang out, and do the touching, feeling, kissing things, that I always watering yet never had. I LOVE HIM! Yet how do I get rid of her, come over afterward, just to make sure I am okay, it like she has known idea I have a boyfriend now, she gets lost in me and my eyes, I see it he does the same, Karly want me, yet I just want to be friends at this point, yet I don't want to be mean she was always there for me, know what in the world do I do to say back off. She said she feels me? Okay- if you say so- I felt her then not so much now. I hope she is okay- she been through more than I have.

Having it hairy would keep a boy away wouldn't it, maybe that is why she did it, so she would say it for the one that would not mind it, and for that show, he loves everything about her, regardless.

Aylden Moya- leave her alone you make her feel uncomfortable.

The sex in bed the morning, and at night and when we feel is right, it is out of sight!

Karly- are you kidding me she was mine first- are you saying- that I made you feel like your skin was crawling? Uncomfortable this is what it means- scratchy, painful, tight, and sore, or rough, uncomfortable- bumpy, itchy, and lastly- prickly. Is that insulting or what?

Uncomfortable, like sticking your d*ick in the pencil sharpener, it just feels good, doesn't?

Karly- It was said- Miss. Gibson when he first saw with Maggie when she was five, he did not know how he felt. The feelings of being overjoyed led to the feelings of being horrified at what he was seeing, she had a smashed cut up wrist and boobs and nipples, and her hair all cut off, she was speechless for some years after, she was discovered, standing there in her underwire, you can see there are going up are butt cheeks. They look like she was picked up by them, by someone mean ripping hands. Miss. Gibson was not Maggie's actual mom; awe- she is a horrible mature creature. Just a nasty piece of crap.

The story energies that one day; he had on ring out and she came to the door to see a man holding her up by her underwire saying take her she is going to be euthanized. That is what they do this day just look at the train rushing by, there is no love, just death. Just think in a few years' cars should be flying in the air, look at the buildings now, so modern and space-ie.

She was only ten years old at the time. Why did we all think she was slow, it was for she didn't say much at all, back in middle school... she looked up at her and said- help me, and that is what she did. Mss. Gibson was nasty to everyone, but she is caring for her girl he named Maggie, so for that, it was too far, in that she would not let her go on her own and do the thing, and like any teen, she rebelled and lost her car over it, and she said okay smart ass, know you can walk to school, I said you couldn't drive. She bought the car herself, and start going out agent her mother's wishes.

Karly- She did not like me either, I do not think she like anyone she was a man-hater also, that's why he left sixty years ago too. I think that is why she is so old-fashioned in her ways, just look at who raised her, she thinks I a complete slut even if that the way a girl is. Now and then, I realize what friend she is to me, and more. Start with the stomach area.

Lick kiss and such- me going down on Maggie, I started by working my way down, work her inner thigh, as if she were wearing underwear play and tease outside the outlines... then as you see the labia work their way out into sight juddering on the clitoris. I start up toward it, liking with the tip of your tongue, then she should be going; now work your tongue in between the labia inner and outer, not lick the inside her vagina yet... just the between lips area.

Finger with the index, then go back to the clitoris with my lips on her lips and give it a little more thoughtfulness, it is all about the art of the tease, and the wetness, and the coming. Now droplet downwards and slide as much of your tongue inside the vagina as possible get it wet, with your spit and such, feel it all dripping that's love there, and gross, yet you have to love it, or wetter and relax her up, with her I know that works. She loves me doing this and now she is getting good at giving it back.

I walked into my sis's room... and saw nothing but her ass and spread open p*ssy she is on her knees, on her little bed, with bubbly little mermaid bedding, look at that her butt is shown pointing towards the door, got yah- I see lots of her... and so will my friends... if I send this to them. Payback sister- the wetness running out of her, let's put it that way. I think you know what that crap is. I have to prove I am not a complete p*ssy, and will not put up with my little sister getting more than me, like taking my men.

See this Maddie and Liv say- her but was like in our faces, I knew it would be set to more girls, yet I did not have the heart too. That was up to my friends to see if they were real friends. You can see and hear sighing in her Arial themed room to every inward and outward stroke. I even see her rubbing it in rotating patterns, with her fingers also, she into it. Uh-ah, uh-ha- Oh-ooo-a, ow- yeah, she feels everything deep I will say that for her. Man, she can bend it in, she has known idea I have this all on my cell, and I am looking in at her the door not closed. Look at her next to her stuffed dog, she is rubbing it also on her vag., Maddie said I can send this she seven, and so did Olivia if Jenny was here what do you think she would have done with this video?

(Hall discussions at lockers number 94 and 96.) I wound if she sent this to anyone else, if so that not nice. Locker 95 is now sitting as it was, but with like a drop off of flowers and bars, and photos stuck on the door for her memory. Girls kissing the door, and boys, it is nuts, you don't want to see what inside there, it freaky. Olivia- I wonder if we could get our lockers changed it was nice then when we all wanted to be together, now not so much, this turns me so off. Did you see that Maggie is getting a life now that she is gone?

Olivia- Yes, yes, I did, I wonder if Jenny was the one doing that too.

Maddie- she liked her so I say know.

Liv- maybe...?

Maddie- Do you miss her?

Liv- Not always- yet she pops into my mind once in a while.

Karly about the video (not with the girls, alone.) I showed her one, and now she seems to have it- good for her. I think she does it better than me, b*tch- is what the girls well think too I just know it, I love her, look you can see her face in the pillow, cute right, arched back, putting her two fingers in and out, and I forget how old she, yet see this crap, she looks like a professional, my girls will get it.

Miss. Jo-Anne Gibson- I did the best I could, but I often a spectacle, if my best was well enough, was sufficient, enough. Maybe I was too hard on her or not hard enough. Perhaps she was ill-fated; maybe it was I- mayhap? As you may have guessed- I do blame myself for her being the way she is now, but not then, and you cannot change something wild inside, just look at the gay girl she with all the time, posing her fresh young mined with sin!

~*~

Karly- Anettia- is a freaking b*tch that needs to be shot in the face at point-blank range, for what she did to this girl, I have seen it, lies in the book, and fake reports, no wonder she cannot have a life, until now. Jenny was on that ran and said- she was doing crap she was not. Like, look at girl peeing on the crappers. How would you know if you were looking at her doing the same?

~*~

I remember that Maggie always did have a way of a little crap, and I conjecture she always will be for- I say. It would not have been for me taking in this little girl, she would have given up on life a long time ago, I say also. You can see that, she needs more and more help in the home and out, I need to see if she need more that they are not giving, I have her going to places now and there was a TSS teacher with her at all times, previous years, they say, she doesn't need it to say she does. Now that girl is doing not things to her that I find so- uncouth.

(TSS) is a Teacher Support Specialists, a d*ick of a person, just to be there so you are not a danger to yourself or others. Look at her there just popping gum, sighing yet she cannot, do not blink do not even think. flapping their mouth saying nothing logically, here what she wants to hear, making you fear every little move you make; you can't make a mistake or being a kid at this point you under the light.

She is tapping her pencil, documenting it all for your life to go to hell. You- epic FAIL now! Like get real this girl would not hurt anyone, if anything she the getting hurt yet they all just look away, now it is my time to say, she is okay. Back- OFF!

Chapter: 82

Eat- Yo Sandwich

(Lunch)

It is a foot long;

Ha- better than six inches, said Maddie. Karly- Suck on your meatballs...

'You should know you've done both.' Some girl down the table- said.

Let's talk about books, said Olivia.

God just shot me in the head, so I can die, ha- hey see the sped?

Nice- book's- Maddie- ha ha ha ha ha ha ha!

Karly- I think movies like Twilight freaking suck, (Throwing both middle fingers in the air making skilling face.) The sporting actress made fame, what it is. Look at her and the look at that, what is- that, I love Anna Kendrick?

Teach walking by saying that a mother week Barns.

Liv- I think she would have made a better Bella, than the girl with no personality, yet that's the book I read that thing and it was painful.

I guess that my assignment in life is over my Karly kiss my ass where it brown and holy!

And that another one, sure it is... Suck my clit.

No!

Yes, you want to! (Sexy eyes)

That's it- you're expelled-

Good now I can party and have some fun sleeping and not doing this crap, so you going to punishing me by not being here, freak yeah!

The towing sick of a teacher his name is Mr. Abdélaziz Okay smart-ie, in-school suspension, then right.

Karly- Freaking-, ho-bag, psycho, b*tch, p*ssy-tart- cunt! Under her breath.

(She gets taken out by her hair, by the officer what's his name, roughly, I might add.)

Like who paints a room all black, and face the desks at the wall, where you could only piss two times... no air to speak of and some fat ass smelling like crap farting up and down the five by thirdly long skinny room, next to you is what... I got for six out of seven freaking hours, all week I might add.

~*~

(Flashback)

I loved band yet that not cool so what do you do here?

Freak yeah, at least I made it as one of our dumb ho's... in a short skirt that shows nothing under it, to think I made it, wow good to think... you think I am good enough to be the same look, and size or whatever, yet you can't say the N-word or a knotty little swore ward... Yet-yet- teachers can call me every name you can think of... in the urban book of crap, like I cannot even wear a tank... without a bra in the halls, yet, this girl can... do you see all the bouncing, and nipples pointing, at you, I sure do?

Yet, the face pant keeps me from looking down and up. Can I squeeze this one boob, I said as I walked past going to the office like I do every day, for no true reason, I not the bad girl here, is my line, they just roll their eyes, saying- something like- dumb crap?

Oh, to be oh so freaking cute as one of those, bubal head moraines. That thinks that has the world by the ass, just jumping to a not so sick beat. And I am not talking- about, all the movies either, they all are PMS-ing b*tches, sore if your one, but dumb stop with the snoot-e-ness. I could look like one talk like one yet I don't want to be one of those things, this boys and girls call- tremendous. Oh yeah- so cute, and sexy, NOT! So hairy- and they say that about my arms.

(What- about them?)

I am sure to have you seen her junk? Goddam! Like they want to be an ass of a cheerleader, doing sexy things, hell I can do that in my bedroom naked for my boy. 'I'll spell out your name for ya! Freak and that may be misspelled too!!!

'He- he.' (Cuts to the try-outs, you're up okay she said sweetly) hands up in the air thrust bunch with each, give me a T- give! Give me and me!! Give me a TTTT- mother freaking d*ick sucking, lip biting, come- glopping- eat out my p*ssy- y! Now give me a C, gimme a, L give me an I, then bend me over and freak me for the- crap- piss'n- T.

(Blond haired girl name Holly, blinks a few times fast-ly in a row, saying- I like her, the faces were priceless, she finishes with jazz hands, and firing fake guns with hands, then trips out the door, saying yeah there's nothing wrong with me.) (So, they just said it all back to me, awesomeness!)

'Gooooooooooooooooooooo evening Clit-high! So, how's it hanging, well I can say, yet it's all goooooo, so this is your afternoon amusements, Lex Mithez got, a- a- Goff win, and so did Jackie-sue, and Amy Lue, yeah (girl in calls screw you.) 1-0, 5-9, 5-10 is how high she with is that what that read? And eight, (what) don't forget the football games, and your ticks, there is a jack-off coming up, (a what, the teachers look up in the office) oh that said- said smack off, football, so bout that, oh my.

Um okay then moving on. Don't forget that you need to have your red ribbon on for a dug week, yah- Yaaaaahhhha! (Whaaaa- dugs, and not doing them.) I get a- thumbs up and a good job, ass hole by the d*ick behind me. You could hear it over the intercom. Nice! Don't forget to dress up like some you like a day, and your others will stay home and feel left out.

(That's not what that said either. (I heard from Marcel- yours such a good speller, I loved it was informed the whole school. As he said don't die to get out of the parking lot and slow down and don't forget to pay for you spot money is overdue like just get it down here NOW so I don't have to keep saying this crap. There is a bottle of something in the boy's room that needs to throw away, GOD-!!!

I don't want to ask, what is this? Do I have to- I have to read this... Do we know it's there? (Nod for the p*ssy ass behind me again.) There are con-da-mine-on for sail her in the pyo... ogin-o... okay- OH-shank- rap-room. God, I can read this writing. Thank god it over, it's not let me do this today. Movie! She said imposingly.) (Maddie someone Jizz-ed in a bottle? What is this?)

(Talking to the girls in homeroom, interrupted by this...)

Now I don't remember- what I was saying, I asked, they look at me like... whatever, they're just want to go home, look- you know stoned, mixed with ass freaked and smashed freak'n drunk. I don't remember anything after that, oh yeah- um- that a pad should not show if you're wearing spank-ie-thing-ie-s. And she shows that, ha- Hana, and you don't get kicked out. All they do is dance around sacking their big bubble butts, saying nothing, and freaking every boy, I should be in the locker-room. I don't need to hear you... I runoff... to get pampered up.

And we split, in the clit. (The classic line is away therewith, every girl.)

#-Hashtag: (I don't have anything to say, it's all up there.)

Just think I get the same ass hole, that been here for over fifteen years, I remember back when we had that kiss in-between the buses at the football game, we were both in the band at that time, now he goes it alone, or so they say. I would love to be on that bus now, yet they say that is not the cool one to be in. she pressed him up on the run bus, Diesel Fuel, at night band night playing in the background, it was perfect until the band directors said- 'Don't FREAK it up!'

I had a solo to Beth, at IUP, that when to a sixth-grader, yeah you heard me, what happened here with rolls... and crap. what the hell, every other time. The drum starts up, and I was captain- nope that was taken away to, for he said I could not handle it, will hear me now mother-freakier freak you in the ass with a trombone. At least I do not freak my students! What a night lots of kissing and touching, on the band bus, it dark and the red in the back is all that we need to feel and see it all.

Hands down uniforms I think so... and maybe more, what happened on the band bus stays on the band bus... what do you think I go on the bus? The first time he ever puts his hands on me all up under my top. (I nailed it) Marcel, I was there and I saw the stand ovation!

(One the field with the band of five hounded.)

Karly- it was awesome, having that part echo back at me.

Football game: band-

We combined the old school over there, with our's years ago now where larger and crap, so our uniform had to change to red and blue, and that was a bloodbath, we hate each other still. CHS over OVHS is not cool. They said- OVHS we are number one the best! I think not. When the other school was red white and blue and we were. Clit pride lasts forever! Let's Go Pennies! I am sure mine will never be the same now! This school will diddle with your brain, and make you go insane. At least I, not the p*ssy- saying this, I glad not to be a part of that over there, though! It's a thing of the past... sad- but true- it needed to die, or did they kill it... themselves. All good things come to an end; this is yours now.

Black and gold time 'Hey my little pennies, you're nothing but a bunch of pussies!' Hey, clit, here my d*ick, suck it, I heard on the field. By MCHS, 'Guy team No! A player' of ours said as they were a bent for their ball! Morning Campania...

Okay... inhale here... this is long and hard. Ha- that's what she said. Morningside- Cam- with ia for Cambria parts of Pennsylvania, preia for Pittsburgh areas, mush them all together and you- while getting that steamy turd up there, all up in our asses, and crap.

Hear the band, it should like someone like I took a dump in the sousaphone, I am sure fat Freddie their worst player loves that one. Yeah, suck that crap!) Make it rain! Crap, Fred!

Marcel- This drum keeps messing up here girl I will show you have it done and I am a trumpet player. It just that one left sticking that crap, and it may be the tuning of the snare too, yet I fix it you know- I said they sounded like crap, to your pain in the ass band doctor. (See me saying it!) He just said- you need to learn to respect young man, you have to give it to get it from my asshole!

Head to head- 'Line up kid if you're so smart and belligerent!' He said- I said after- Yeah you beat the crap out of those drums, just break the head, it's fine, you suck! I when here! At practices, this happens the night before the game.

(Drum solo)

~*~

(It is half-time)

Crap- look at the people, so freak'n load. Awesome!

Foo fighters show is the show is playing. Learn to fly, Hearon, Times like Theses, and The Pretender. I have to do something here to show what I can do so I just hit the highest note, at the end of that show. I saw him going Hum, over there, like okay then don't stick to the sheet music, that you that they get paid for. We break it down yet crap.

The other band only played one sound and that was- 'Do Not You Forget About Me,' and Eminem- 'Lose Yourself' (look at them hip-hop dancing on the field, (Garbage can drum solo) and Whitney Houston- 'I Will Always Love You,' and the get this one more: Fergie- 'London Bridge.'

We do need to do that, if I have written and the name makes it happen, I'll garbage can drum solo, and I won't drop my sticks... did you see that 'You trumpet play remember that... said John.' Yeah, maybe so but come on.

~*~

Dad- I thought it was time, Karly you see this it's been at my cost for years, I am giving you this uniform of your mothers, 'Do I want it? I said. Razing up my one eyebrow high, making a snarled face. Like this is not something, I would want to keep in my room, I hate my mother for not being there for me and doing this crap. 'Their baby killers!'

I would not feel that way yet I can not help it. You have to understand my feelings of loss. Yet to all of the girls out there like me in her group or a group, she studs up for herself when no other girls did, she was something else, don't feel like this... it not fair to her, she was doing what she had to do.

Yes, she gave you up but in her mind, that is what she thought was right, don't you see that she didn't have the choice, here it was kind of made for her, she passed on the field at the age of twenty-five saving one of her younger girls that lost her legs after being blasted off, she made back home yet your mom did not yet, here is her uniform, she went through hell to become what she was at so young of an age, look at this thing, she was fully departed, and a female I might add, not easy to do, yet she spoke her mind, to all the boys and got her way. Come hare sit on this bed with me and I will this story here, it was not long after she was just privet, which she went in front of the board asking for dress uniform changes. For the love of God- Just give the same uniform as the boys, yeah- I am a girl my holy hell, 'I think you're a scum-sucking freaking maggot, private, for saying this.'

We are not all the same here can you see this she said to the up squadron, these things have not changed since nineteen forty-two. 'What the fuck is your point her little lady, the sex here is all the same.' I think not sir... 'We don't care really what you think, your part of a thing that is bigger than you and your simple thought, of hormones, and nail polish. Do you want to be here?' Yes, I do sir, is that a question that needs to be questioned about it, I have done everything you said with you snickering in my face, about it.

Okay enough crap around her, about nothing... I love doing this, I just want to feel the same as one of the boys. 'So, what the hell and crap and piss do we do about that to fit your fucking needs here.' Okay, you asked for it- permission to speak my mind. 'You're like I don't kick the crap out of you for even being here, you have seen men die, in trading. I feel I need to talk to another man here, and why are all you men... I have something to say- here me out. I get one little patch on my slave, and my caller here is flapping over all my metals, that I have and yet my racking is the same, and yours all went up, this is not far... 'I don't care you're a girl her- this is what we do.'

We look ridiculous like the nineteen forties, flight attendants. 'Then you can walk out the door and hang your uniform up.' 'I don't see the need to do something you want me to do, when I am the same ranking as you, now.' Commandant- older man said okay what do you want here sweaty- I feel like you do, this is not right she is not wrong here, we see it now. This is what we all girl needs that a tiny like I am, a hat that fits, and a jacket that is the same or even fitted to my covers, this skirt it is sexist, and the pants too baggy, so what do you take the skirt so you're not falling on your face. (She flaps it back and forth shown the out of date look.)

Can you raise them more than slacks that is? No, for my cheat is there and the spenders are maxed out now, and I don't feel that I need to be rubbing this down here either, (point hand moment up and down near vagina.) I am sorry sir for this one granny panties don't work for me! As you can see, they're not on me now.

(She holds them up, saying would you put them on?) 'Now- fuck!' (Guy's that all just look at her like- are you for real.) 'Now we have to ask what down there?' something nice that a girl of today would wear. She flips her hair back, taking off the hat, that's covering her eyes, saying this: I want and need like us all her of the female type- that is short and girls, I want my hair down under my hat if you say yes! 'We have issues as of why you have to do that...' yes- I see- conversely this is my body, and I have the final say, I don't see doing this if just being in a blue dress. I am swimming in this thing- you can see that- no? And where is my white belt that I should have under my boobs? 'Did she say boobs?' Yes, sir- Like- we have them!

He said- 'Sit!' make us look like boys, yet I am wearing a girl's uniform...? Okay keep it if this is what I get to do- and we all should have done here.

The list:

1. Coat: I want something that fits inwards with red piping on it somewhere more than what I have here, and has a fitted clasp caller. Look at all my meats are a cover for I am small and these overlaps, my caller that is, sleeves are too long also. Just give me a black coat here with some buttons on it also, that has the same bagging, give me red cords too, that I should have at this point, at something for my shoulders to so I don't feel so small, that I don't look so small among all these towering men.

2. I do not want to have, these men's look blouse either, what are we high school girls, needing to cover them up. So just give me a necktie to... and it's all good.

3. What: I want just a bucket hat in white and gold, if that works, with insignia on it, yet bigger, you can even see this! Think of a band hat- there adjustable with the stings.

4. Sleeve Cuffs, Black with white piping with two buttons- I would love to have this now for, it makes up for what we never had over the years, and it looks sharp.

5. Pants: White- Hey I where the pleated skirt, if it white also ending above the knees, let's say I am on a date with my husband or something formal, where I need one, or if I not in a lineup, where there is nothing but paints, with all the other man. I would like to have one just for wearing my uniform home. If it's where it should be up here, and it goes all the way up showing off the lags and side of her butt, do you like that boy you should that why I am in it. 'So, where do you want this thing at?' (Here, I need to march in this, and have my legs look nice, do you see this guy. Don't I look cutter now, I think I should be cute and all.) I want them to fit that all, not be all bagged out.

6. I- um- we, want light make- up, I have to look good, it's up-to-the-minute days, standard shads, for our skin tone.

7. A white riffle would be nice.

8. Last name plat.

9. Bayonets I feel are dangerous, and don't need to be there!

10. And I was a drum major, I can outdo you all that are over me, I want master sergeant spot now please! Give someone like me a drum, and I show you how it's done!

(Prove it the next day! Lineup!)

Dad- 'Back in the 90's or so not that long ago- I thought twerking was for tightening lug nuts...? Twerking? Shaking your ass, here I'll change your rubbers for you, don't crap yourself, now you young kids are hummping in midair- I might add, and dumb faces and limp over backward gyrating to this crap. It's all hanging out- ...crap- everything flopping and dropping, up- low and whatnot, I don't get it!'

Mom- 'Word!'

Karly- I walk away busting a lady nut!

So, you feel that you need more now to make up for it. Yes- I do! And what that to keep it!

Yes, keep it forever so you can remember who she was, she gave up everything for this century, yet was what she did the right thing, I don't know, I feel there was not enough do for her there is not even a flag on her gave now, and her husband is not laid to rest next to her yet, they never- ever got much time together for she felt she had to do what she needs to do, for the fear, of what was, and who she was. Give this a week and will see what can be done for a solution to the situation we have here.

And she got it, and this is it, this one here she wore out on nice events or for home and such, and she wore the men's style when on the drill time. She was laid out in the outer one, yet she said that one also, 'you can't keep it... yet you can die in it.'

~*~

Dad- Brandon- We were the age of five at this time, I remember sitting on our branch over the house, looking at the trees and the golden fields, I remember the way she looked at me, oh so long ago, she was everything I ever wanted way back then: 'Just say a tiny bit longer for me!' 'Okay, I will for you!' do you see here in that little sundress. He passed, not ever find someone like her to feel the place that he did, she did not spend any time with him for it was not what she could do, it was all work, and never being together, he was always lonely, or that what they said, it can make a man crack, he passed young of a broken heart. He was okay too, I think.

Chapter: 83

Love is what I had

(I was ten)

Holy, mother of god, we are in the shower together he bubbled up yet not covered up, and back down will it around until I would come, I got some just call me, he was just enjoying me being cute, he washed my hair and played with my body, like my boobs feeling the and rubbing, suck, and kissing them, flicking with his fingers and others, HOT steamy water pouring on our head, as we were hugging it out, and do it all. Rubbing my legs and crap- I say freak, yeah, but I don't swear like that!

I fasten the garter around his hips legs side to side around his hips, and as I am arching my back to slip the silk stocking off my toes, I unclasped my bar for him to see them fall, as we go to bed for the night, we were body unstopped of body, and we even had our toes laced, together on one foot, like our hands. I have to bite my lip to stop my impatient moan from escaping, yet it all comes out of me. Scorching flush rivalries over my skin, my face hot and red that down there pink feeling has a handprint on my body.

My figure is shaking with shock at the news of us doing this tonight at this age. A baby they say I show them? No freaking way, no way should I be doing this yet they will never- ever no, NO WAY!!! Unserviceable my awareness is tiresome to grasp this staggering bit of data. Of why... Like a small child gets out and the woman is here to say, I'm downhearted, helplessly trying to fit everything together in my mind, like I should some time you have to say what the hell and go with it and piss on them.

My inner goddess is quickly losing my virginity, the light in the room fading recklessly as I see it all there looking at it deeply, but I can't settle on that now. I not sure we're ready for all of this just yet. Gritty again I feel as I work its way in, I scan the room for anything I might have elapsed to say when my eyes fall on my ribbons on the wall. I would say anything to make him think about not going in so fast, yet I want it all. The blinking to ever downward moment, see it all so fast what to last, it was hard, not slow and good, I don't remember it all.

Phone's screen draws my attention, I don't look, I do what I need to and that is lying there and take all of it, yet that the way I want it, announcing it. Quickly, I tip the contents onto the bed to paw finished the untidiness, for the things that I needed like my underwire, I all but gasp with the force of the solution, which hits me like a rock to the face, I may be in love, I have fallen too him.

He looks at and his reply, was all I need to hear that this was the love I need to have, or the sex at this point not sure, what to say, and again I hear the suggestion of his self-hate is everything when spooking at this point in my life. 'I'm sorry for being me, 'I'm too un-loveable.' He drops his eyes to at me, what not to love, hiding the mayhem by the conclusion, not looking away at all with ever weird, wacky, and odd, and the gross thing I would say is so nervous.

My heart liquefies instantly as the memory recalls to me in flashing of the day, away it goes- yet will it stay, out of my control, your selfishness, I want here nothing more, yet that what I think about him at this point to it all about getting it in me even on the band bus we try crap, that feels good. Jealousy is they that what to stop it yet they when. It- he or the girls what to pick, you know what I did.

Every part of him has attracted me to him. I'm horrified at that thing to look at it, 'Big enough' I said, looking at his legs to that could crush this little girl I am. I think you had everything you need but not this... I did think it was possible to be so right, and wrong all at the same time. I can see now how I acted without thinking, about it but what the hell, I did before they got it in me. So-o selfish. So, I was young, it better than cummie camming to an asshole that just wants to get off to me.

that what they want, I like it yet I don't, I want to come for him only, yet I have to pick one or the other and I picked the girls, not him- not him- do you see that.

'The consequences you face can change your life, for the right or wrong.' 'I was it just demonstrates, that I am the one who's no good for you.'

Chapter: 84

I dyed on the inside, or is that love?

(Now)

My hair flips over my shoulders, and boobs hiding them some of my shy blush faces I remember it all, now A compounding ache nails at my fragile body into my young heart, and more cries drop onto my shirt and though me. 'I'm still only yours.' I scream in class as I run out the door looking for him, yet here am I, at this point, I don't know. This is not my school and those girls are not my girls. I may be dreaming this yet I not, I feel it all! Uniform though it's a low-slung, protected whisper, it sounds loud in my ears, I hear the call-out within me, and it was him, yet through me, I never stopped loving him and only him. I want him to know that leaving him left me as broken as he still seems to be, even if I feel as if I have died every day, we have been apart.

(Night in his room)

Discovering everything with my fingers. But he's not here I think yearningly. I run my hands over my boob, I do it all the same as always, pausing to feel the erect nipples under my timid, I softly circle my razed hands and then flat fingers over the hills that are the only mine, and touch the beautiful scratchiness within me like when he unzips me down there and blows on my belly and mon into it with every feeling. I pinch the strain that I have down there asking if it's all good,

'I don't mind he said.' Like he was with my hair coming all around me and my body at that time it was down past my ass. Steadfastly, between my thumb and forefinger he plays with me and my hair and hands, the sweet biting and scratching as we do a thing in bed, a silent cry I might make for being happy, it makes me want more... and more what can I say I am a teen girl.

Courageous now I slip my right hand into my sleep shorts, where I instantly, join with his body for sex. I never thought about anything, not even a condom, he can pull out. With my eyes shut I evoke his touch, running through me like come out of me, and whipping it with my undies that he keeps, my finger plummeting on his chest, when we ride for it, then into him sucking off slick and wet desiring as he having sex with me onto. My hot breath, I can almost feel his teeth on my lady's lip, sucking my clit, my jaw and his on my lid skin, the same with him. The other hand is working my left nipple and boob, massaging like his fingers down below, and squeezing there and there and shaking it some too, nerve-wracking my tender nipple, at this point from all the suckage.

It directs the rhythm is right, to his, my body shudders and quivers to the orgasms, which spray and show up like cream, as it recalls the delicious sensations it's capable of. Vaguely I hear my moan as my finger gently circles my clitoris.

Ah! His mouth on me, hot and tingling my lips with his then his mouth flicking goes into my mouth and slid over mine it right. The look in his eyes as he watched me returning the fever of all the responses, and I admission of defeat—smoothly.

My body taking over, my back arching a bow. Everything clenches, stiffening as my orgasm quakes through me. Gently the soft breeze carries me back to earth, yet, I don't want it to I want to come as long as I can at this point. Whoa, incredible, sexy- sixty-three seconds- going into non-stop!

He sucks in a hard breath down on me, eyes pained and jaw clenching tightly around it, the muscles in me moving with his sucking that would not take away, they're running off, yet he keeps going...

'I am not going to stop if she wants more. The taste is everything I wanted too, it's all her like her skin, it's sweet and cute!' I arched up to see this all going down, my eyes finding ever look on his face, that I love, to see, and a new upsurge of anxiety flushes through me, I want more but have to go at some point it ends, with us both breathless for really holding breath, how will we ever get past this, at school we- I see him and tell his guy finds.'

(He never did, is that a good thing?)

Chapter: 85

The feeling of it deep

Remind me why I walked away from that?! Oh, yes, my damned uncertainty! I grimace at myself and they feel okay with a nod. What am I going to say to him today? What do I want? The complex is he as, he stares at me, brow knitted in a tight view. He holds up four fingers for me to see where when it going to go.

'How can you still only be mine?'

My self-esteem undoes at the understanding that it's where I want to be. As tight as I can I gripping back, keen to take the soothing balm his hold proposals for my ravaged soul and his?

Nothing can hold back the break of awesome feelings. Submerged like water running down on me with feeling, I weep- my broken heart out against his firm familiar chest, yes, I cried the first time all girls do! A strangled moan escapes him.

‘Oh, Karly!’ He closes his eyes, creasing them up as he struggles with some internal mêlée. When they open, I see a flicker of resolution before his strong arms wrap around me with such a hold down on me... like a drowning me in so, I don’t go under. He crushes me against his length, his agitated heat almost scorching hot in his body heat.

Chapter: 86

Eyes on this young gorgeous thing

(Back)

Freshman year November 11/11/2012

Hot date with Marcel after school- ‘You have Disney, Pepsi, and a black-ie.’ ‘Your horny and depart, it works! Now sit don’t, and eat something, GOD!’

In front of the bathroom mirror, I stand stark naked I stand thinking about what I did with him. I hate to do this to myself, but it’s time for an honest about everything that does, I love more them or him. I’m half keen, half afraid to see what Marcel sees when he looks at me. It’s been a long while since I’ve had a hard look at myself– why would I? Thankfully my body survived pregnancy well if that happens after tonight, yet I wonder why I don’t remember all this, my t*ts are still nice and full yet I young even now so what the freak am I talking about if anything, a little crazy here and crap. Surely that can’t be a bad thing, I have lost some of it I think over the years, why can I recall it all, why must I go in and out.

(My Free Chat Show)

And panties see-through in light blue, black T-shirt, white and black thigh high socks. The top is off and now you can see my blue bra; I take down all the five-hour energy, that I need to do this all night. And gag on it to move them this long thing, do you like it when I do that? Not really do it to me not that. I will talk about anything on here if you chat I will too, even balls! My life, and how I have a lack of one. Hand on my cheeks, or crossed, saying whatever comes to my mind, there is no filter, I blast it all out, boys like that. Lick your knees, do you like that crap? Maybe...?

Weird!

Doesn't that go under sick fetish?

I's, not ages anything- NOT- even butt-chugging- 'whatever that is! I said.' This one is for your ass hole boyfriend. (Ray- die mother-freaker die!) I just want to play with it.

ME- How are you? And what are you doing with your life? (I wonder if they have one to, to spend so much time on here, get a real girl if you can.) Get my vid- cream-sick-al. Does X-box have a vagina...? What...? I may even pick my nose for you, I've seen me do it. supergluing my vagina is the worst, how would you suck a girl that had that, try pulling it out, have that nightmare at night- F-ers. Come into my house and Jiz-zz all over me and squirt it... one take is all I get to get it right, yet it's so wrong. I tilt my head to the side and continue my stock with my dumb yet cute crap.

My belly is almost as flush as it used to be, but not moderately as tense, yet I have the line that runs down into my vagina. I like being a copycat, I have to take you through this... I don't want to know what you did in a dark early, what dirty man's cock did you put in your mouth for five bucks that worth fifty, ouw-a, honesty in here- b*tch, it's a five-dollar foot long.

Ass in the camera and shake it out, I see it on YouTube why not- on me... like- in my chat room, its PG I am sure, oh my Jesus, it's getting dirty in here. It's not fan fiction that real-life crap- mother-f-er. I don't have to be part of the cool kid's club, are you: taking in the butt- what? Feisty!!! Band-K_cee. O-h I done crap, here, I need a new PC. Having anal sex-n' strangers can complicate things, would not recommend it. I here for advice, not masturbating, I want to take about life, I got you on my mind, so let's take the bar off. Are you feeling hurt? We- got some crap going on. On my sheet I feel all blue you can't see me, rolling around.

THANK YOU! Boobs hugging lying on my bed on my tummy showing the nipples downward fingers on my lips. It's your first time here... let see what you never expect, it's a hump-day what do you expect... we all horny on Wednesday, I say your p*ssy- Hey 'Me- ways: have a chat with me, all you have to do is p-lick me, and you be in. you guy are such weird-o's, showing what I see on my screen. I see- kitties! Go it so hot in here, I have to turn down the heat, BRB!

(Be right back)

I not faking myself- by my videos, are you a mind-reader he just did what I wanted him to do, 357, good tip! No vid- for you- just ass-F-ed by Brad, do you know something about me, I had to be the yellow ranger, and I want to be black. SpongeBob is my hero! This is my life! I question a lot of the choices I have me, almost as natural as letting someone Ass-F-me in the early. I have lots of stuffed animals I regret nothing. I have plenty in being a young woman... doing stuff like a girl? Playing with the elastic of my undies at the top, letting it snap running the rim with my fingers. One Fingers rubbing my lower lip, I like too it feels good to me. Squeezing my boob as I do, feels good, like you do, love'n me as you do. Hell-al-light-blue is my hair on Minnie-cam.

(Gust 69360 show that anyone can get in here.)

Laying on my bed heir flip back, I'll give you the chance, sucking my fingers, holding my one finger to my lips like I do with him, and him only. Here this! I am a movie in ways you don't get, I could cry at this. Pinching my nipples feels so good. Thank you- YOU-AH! I love you- I love you! May sound like something else to you!

(He will get it, he's a smart guy.) I DON'T CARE- song... I am about to blow your mind.

She's My Cherry Pie- song playing in the background. Us- 'Yah you know it!' Maggie and Ray, and I said, and even here sis said damn! Tips make me wet. Lady OJ- is money! Taking the word Christ out of Christmas is wrong, we must barn them to the ground your coffee guys that suck, stop playing so much jazz I don't find it cool. If your agent realigns, I think you need to be burnt down, the cups are just red now- fun! Don't say what I should have for faith, you may get conflicting answers. Queen- 'Bohemian Rhapsody' I am singing for him I know he is a rocker, like me at heart. Do like my butt in this, sliding them down I rub from behind. I have to hit the goal!

Butt in air panties off!

A band for no reason, I was for so face. I was in my friends' cam, and doing crap and they kicked me out. It not like I have a cam for all that long, I am learning.

Don't GO-go! So many songs requests, my God. Here we go- rock me... singing. Grinding it out playing with my hair, dibble handing rubbing my lady-ness. I don't give my height- 5-3', 5-4', 5-10'. BRB!

Some anything things I want to say- I just want to use your love tonight. It's all showing now, to you see my pinkness, I love being naked like this for you all. Hood-rubbing, talking about holidays. Laying down on my stuff-ie bear, and showing my side shot. Hair down there being rubbed, god dog feels good. The Clit-er-stach... Nice, my girl's hair. Do you want me to shave it all off and regrow it?

Showing more for tips, p*ssy shot! I want my bush to go back to full size, don't just creep on me, and tips. (What do you do if you don't want to go to school, I do this.) I had every color you can think of, even a rainbow! The not gray hell with gray and it's fifty shades. (I do more than that and I am twelve years old, and looking back on it.) I touched the butt! END!

~*~

'What happened to my room?' His look is relieved but still surprised as his large eyes look trustingly into mine. I slide into his bed and pull him into the loop of my arms, 'We moved last night after you went to sleep, buddy. Don't you heat it when things fall into a hole and you have to dig it out me myself and I did that one?

Mud-ie!

I wanna chat with my boy, so I am ignoring you guys.

My... iPhone is a piece of poop!

Talk to Howie the owl... BRB!

Smile and I thought you might like this room better.' I'm smiling into his hair as he bands an arm around my neck. 'I have any animals to sleep with.' He breaks my heart, yet I embrace the bear as excitement lights my innocent face, so I feel right about doing the next part.

The show- It looked like the owl eyes where my hotter, see my butt, see me up close to like should have done for you, it's all pink and crap! Owl-humping is on! He's in neck lock now, what the hell I said, moving to the bathroom, I have my mic and PC next to me. Taking a shower, I do everything you want, it's cold to hot, it's a piece of a crap heater in this apartment. The showerhead is too tall for me, any day now shower, I can ever reach it, the knob. The wide eye face and stare that only I would get. Light going off cool, right? Do- dis- crap!

Should I get a vibrator?

Texting him and her and them. Showing my pink-ness one again. Cold as freak! The water hitting me so hard. I don't want to break my phone, don't drop it- oopsie's. But shaking is going down. Thank you! Body wash sparing, and that smile only she can make, rub it in all over, in the front and the back, god it feels good, squeeze the luffa and rubbing on it. I start fingering, I am all wet now for you! Up closer than ever before, I get lots of tips, thank you, hair flipping out and dancing under the water, hair goes black now. You can see my wavy wet, with shampoo and more, going down my young body. Rubbing my whole body up and down on you. See the water as it runs off me, hair dripping down my back, nice, right? Chest gabbing and back ass and vagina shot I am showing at this point, it's all for you squeezing my cheeks, to the hot right! Bonging them up and down, now you get it. Do you want to see me shave- 'Sure...?' I said.

Him- Blue is nice, dance for me! I so love you! Love that but apart back shot! I say what I need there, god I am a parv.

There that smile again, one finger is rubbing now, I have my clit working it around can you see this. Soupy butt and p*ssy fingering in the, from the back, one is in and out now, do you see this so close it feels like you're in here. I don't care if I am just on cam soloing, at least I am not banging some random dude, on the first date forgive me for the sin of being a start teen girl here. And doing me!

~*~

I get two girls to have sex and grinding their things-is together, there face to face and see it all go on, two boys one has to behind, so is it wrong for me to say... boy- on the boy- should- you should not- do that- for you can see your partner, at all regardless of what you do.

'We got tonight, who needs tomorrow, why don't you stay- stay with me.'

~*~

(Future days)

Maggie- Yes, you can have heroes in the forms worshipping a boy. I do not recommend that you do. Love the crap out of them I do. Yet I did her also, but come on growing up and do something with your life now. Why would you want not to they are not going to help you when you need them?

Boys are the crap; one is he's my crap! Always do this... do not fault courage for acumen; be wise in your choices, you may fall to some you never thought you would. It will help you make the right choice. Remember it is better to be sometimes a run-away than not having what you need and that is love and understanding. Make the right choice at the right time, which will please the heavenly hero.

Your boy will continuously help if he can! Remember that... your opponents can help you over time, so always be on the lookout for your hero, if you are a damsel in distress like me, find a girl, and find Mr. Right when he comes along and sweeps you off your feet. I would have to say that what is neat about falling too someone. You do not need to have everything to be one with one just have love and trust, it's a must you see that... I know you do, you just need to be a true friend and lover, with eyes that see the truth behind all the lies, yet that should not happen either, ears that listen for what is straightforwardness, and an expression that will speak up for you, and make you both happy. You know I think all of us have a hero inside when you feel this; I just need to let it speak out and stand up for it, to do this.

For instance, for me, I want him to show him I was a brave, sweet and loving side like he always thought, undeniably to someone like me... is a damsel in distress! I get that, I had to be in my old life... if you want to put it that way, what girl doesn't want that... even if they have this now? That to me is the true definition of a hero and she was one for me at that time, and I am grateful for her being part of me inside and out, like another person that is helping someone who is awkwardly in need of reassuring from another person. She is a hero! No doubt to me, it is someone in my view that can ever part she sticks up for me like no one else has, and does not let someone else's views influence what they need.

Chapter: 87

Squeal it out

Karly- I want to squeal, yet no one is going to hear it. I inquire- am I becoming locked up in chains? Help! I fear the vehicles that follow behind me at night. To this actual day, I still fear not having her at night, though I do love you not in the ways you would think, while completely open to the world I see nothing, that I should and fare nothing but the past, and losing out. Of course, I know you know that about me already. I fear that the world is becoming like a humanoid, with no front-runner in which to follow as she was. Most of all I fear loneliness, and not see any one of them here with me now!

So much fear that the terror it seems as if it will never stop, in this blameless life like mine; plus, I will be saved, by him or her someday- I hope. Maybe- is all that I have. I terror that nobody will ever see my resourcefulness or predictable me for the good in-which I do for others. I sense like I am the only one left in this world is me as I fall off it and fall to them. All the loveliness of life has been crestfallen, and it is all an illumination around me is darkness.

'Affirmative- I terror being in the outside realm of things.' Just as it said- I would be after seeing the forbidden. Magical- Cards of wisdom and blue crystals in my hand, I look for something to show the way to the land of no pain. 'I look to the skies to save me, looking for the sine of life, to make my way back home, I better learn to fly- fly! See the stars, as they go around my head? I am going to: burn out bright!

I think that if I could be left alone, with the one that I want... I could have a life- you know what I am sure of it. I fear that the towering entity will never collapse, and the demons will keep playing in my head. I fear that I will never have a social ability, to be part of the nobility of compatibility.

I fear what society has done to me. I fear that I have no trust in anyone or anything. I fear that my life has no meaning. I fear that I will never get out of this hell. I just want to start my life, and get a degree in music someday from for IUP, if I can make it through all of this. I do not think that is too much ask for- is it?

I am 100 pounds, really tiny; surely there is someone that would find me attractive? I wonder if I can find someone who can think for themselves. I want someone who will love me, for who I am- and not what they want me to be. Most importantly, I need someone that will not use me. Is that too much to ask for?

Fear! Anxiety is something that I have inside, it is the source of the things in which lead to distress. Not finding someone that loves me, for who I am, is some of my fears.

I fear not having a family by my side at all times. I have tears about the overwhelming struggle to rebuild my reputation, which has been destroyed. I ask this question, if I was to die tomorrow would anybody come to my wake, to see me lying there?

I fear the fact that I am most likely going to be alone forever. Another being, that everyone that has meaning in my life is fading away from me it seems.

Chapter: 88

Emotions Dreams

I feel like my skin is crawling with viruses when it is on my figure. It's mid-November and I am standing in the rain, as I ran out the door it is, so cold, so lonely, and so freaking loveless! As I find my way back to him the one, I left behind oh so long ago. Up till now this is not habitual for me, I am always naked around my house, yet this is not a home at all, I don't know what you call this place, it's like a school however not so. I have my reason you'll see, not to say too much, I have someone looking down at me with the eyes and the face and crap. The rain is falling on me, eyes and ears, and boy and girls all like knives inside me, never since the moment I got off the damn bus so it could just run my ass over and get it over with. The rain is matting my long brown hair on me as it lies on down my rump, just like a movie just like the books. Just like me living it, like her.

Some of this shower is cascading off my little face, and it slowly collects on my breasts, where it beads up and separates into two different watercourses down to my belly button. I eyeball it, as it goes all the way down the front of me. Yet I okay with it... at last, I am free. To a fact! I still feel so shut in by all of them. Ten or twenty-five or three minutes have passed, I am still in a similar vary advertisement. 'Girly portion.' Almost like a waterfall gushing in-between my legs. It trickles down to me to where it turns and goes in my butt cheeks, falling too and thrashing my mud exposed toes. After standing so long, holding me upright, weekly my legs so not right give out. Just letting water follow down me.

I'm soaked! Soft thump, sooner or later the pounding gets rains resilient. Making me fall to the ground with where I will remain until I feel that I can get up and over what has happened to me. I can feel the wetness as it lingers in my hair for a while, so unforgivably waterlogged my body even more. That's if I can... like if I can accept it all. It's all because of them! Counting my sanctification, I feel dissatisfied in a way when I do feel it releasing offends my hair. Like it is wiping away everything that happened to me today, away from the day of the past. I feel the dropping rain is weeping for me, like hell's tears of pain and flam it runs out of me as I yell out for his safety in a call of his name.

At this time, it follows the center point on my back. Then down in-between my petite butt cheeks. It streams off my butt to the ground near the heels of my feet. The wetness is still running down the small of my back thirty minutes must have passed. However, it is like it is all pounding down on me at once. I look, up to the sky, lying on my backside. It hits me! Even with all this rain.

I feel that my vagina will surely never feel the same, or like it's clean again. The pain hits me! I start rolling around, like a pig in mud. I have the sensation like I have been ripped in two parts, by all the one that never cared and not seeing it till no yet it too late does he even know my name now, is it all lost and forgotten about, it's been so long now.

Where have I been? I can feel as if that part of me is washed clean from the day that I had to go through. On no account can it be yes, no, maybe! The rainwater can only wash away somewhat of what they have done to me. What he did to me and her- and her and him too all of them all- crappers! Never all of it... never- EVER- NEVER EVER! EVER NEVER! They have sucked! AND FREAK AND now that can suck this... I don't care, kill me! You're doing it anyway; I have read the story just do it! I cannot wash away all my fears that I have. Like being tugged on the hood they suck you off and you have to put up with it. Pending with the thought of bite it off me completely. That is why I'm bleeding out cutting and crap! See this it's for you! All you- I carved the hacker for you! On my lower hip bone. I scrubbed and touched me in all the places. AND FEEL THE GOOD OF IT.

I ripped my black hole wide open, and they see me do it, let sit for him all - all. Fingernails and slashing teeth, see me now he- he sees me, it all for you. Not having you did this to me, same with her, same with losing everything I have ever love and my dad too. I cannot run away, I don't want to stay, I don't want to act gay, or live another day, what more do I have to say.

I need to get away! Come whatever may... I have to get away from them. They always find me! Always. Pledging with Supernatural being saying this has halted. Thus far it goes on every school day on repeat to me only I see the thing that I don't want to yet that don't see it it's right there she talks to me. They don't get that- it's not crazy I see them, I am one. They beat me up for the gratification.

My nipples are raw like me and my skin! I have nowhere to run or to hide! I cannot stop them from point out, assault, and sucking on me! Sometimes it's like I blackout and see it all pass me. I just need to okay! It is like these hallucinations of what my life existence about comes and goes away from me. I know how a candle feels, careworn not to be blustered out by the rushing air, which is stale. It smells like death in this small room, alone. Nothing but my thought to keep me.

'There it is!' I say as I rip it out. The paper is jagged and wet, but I have a farewell note in my hand. I made it earlier in school at lunch when I was sitting alone, on this crumpled up notebook paper. The black ink is running like a watercolor all over all my shaky childlike penmanship handwriting. All have on it all words that need to be said, about my existence in life! They're all there, maybe spelled incorrectly, but there regardless.

I feel like I am existing not living! It is as if I have all these flashbacks, to the point it haunts me. Even at the strangest times, my mind drifts off. Corresponding I said - It is all because of them! The air that is around me now, is making my slit labia skin hurt with burn and sting.

I have every right to be troubled!

Do you even freaking care? Do you? Yes, no, maybe... what do you think? Look at me, and close your eyes tightly. Now can you seem me? I was never like some of you: popular and loved. Or maybe you're like me, which fits in with everything that category is not. Do you see my teardrops, that splash out of my blue eyes? Do you see my brown hair that covers them and hides my true sentiments in class? Do you feel what I feel right now? It just seems that everything in my life is like trickling down my body, and away from me in every way imaginable. As a result, the only thing I can do is get up and raise my hands to the heavens. While shouting the question- 'Why did you let this happen to me?'

Can you feel my hurting insides? Nope did think so, no one can feel it unless they live it! Have you ever had to feel just like I do? Can you see my makeup mixing with my teardrops, as it all falls to the ground like my emotions, passions, and caring? If not you're just as heartless as them!

I hear that small voice in my head again it's a small whisper saying: 'End it! End it!' I have nothing but my split thoughts rushing in my head.

Like a screaming bolt of lightning cracking in the sky above me. GOD-and loving-crap! I give or take! Should I just end it all? I have every day now and they would let me go. But there is not one person around here for me, and he not always here for me. A long time ago, he said no, now look at me so old- gray and not caring at all, I wonder if he is coming to see me, know the past at an old age, crap I remember now, I am ninety-nine and see him all the time, like a rhyme out of time, I am young and so his he, yet those days never made me happy or did he? Not one which is going to miss me at all. The blinds cover the spacy world that I don't recall, it was not real to me. they say it's 2114 is not real to me, I want the past, not the future, yet they have me here in this whiteness that all the same and cold looking, icy and with some blackness, depressing as me... it will be and stay every day until they say I can die.

Would anyone care? I came to that gloomy deduction a would anyone think of me? Hell-with them all! I should end it all right now! I crawl over on my hands and knees, grabbing my minor skirt, pulling the belt out of the guards. I think about me grabbing my uniform, in tugged and unsnapped off myself, and- see the light go out, like days before. The same awful garb they slap on me, I don't want to have on me, oh and how I would do it. So tasty so gory, hag forms the bunk bed, stung by my head, that may work, nope they kill me. KILL ME! KILL ME!

PLEASE JUST KILL ME, so I can live with him up there.

Snapping my neck. I see it over there, the end is nearing I almost see him there, seeing me welcoming to his home. Calling outreach, feel slipping of... I do it to see him, all the way not just the dream of him. To do what must be done! Holding the bedsheets in my small hands. I stop and look at my fingernails, which are painted purple with pink straps. (Eye twitching) I say, will make the black leather belt into a noose, looping, twisting, and coiling it through the shiny silver buckle to make snigger around my neck.

Sure, I am thinking about the sheet, and it but, that pain is nothing like what they put me through. At least with this, it's over and done fast. But I also think about that last fall, that I would take. I have the sheet around my neck attached to the bed frame. All I have to do is a swing and jump off, and it would pull me back through the air.

YES!

Don't you do this it's all for me! Like them, you did this to me too! I blame you two, I see you looking into me.

Oh yes! Ha ha ha...!

So, all this time, I have had to think about why I pasted away as I did. And it was to save my sis, from ending her young life, I had to see what her life was more parishes than my own. To stop her from having sex with Ray and blowing her brains out on Sunday the next day. To tell her not to have sex any boy until she feels she found the one and only. To save myself- I had to save her from being like me, and help out others like Madilyn that needed me along to be there as a friend. So now I will be looking over Kellie and all of you from the sky above. And be the big sis that I should have always been. I am happy to say I have made it, with no regrets. The rest you'll have to discover for yourself when you breathe your last breath.

How are you going to be remembered? What do you value in your life and others? That's worth thinking about... and final note: before you fall, know where you have been, and where you're going! Always fall to yourself first and the one you fall to first, and fall to the ones that truly love you, and then fall to them if you Madilyn need too or you can't leave your life or days without them. It's up to you whom you fall too, just remember that. All along it was Marcel... I felt...it I felt... all of it! All of that all of him all up inside me, and it was his... know our baby, that was left behind inside me, yet I am still not sure how I got pregnant. When did it happen or did it happen? It was through me? Through him- yet inside me? Maybe it was all Marcel in everyone that I did fall for anyway. If I did love him and fall for someone else or made love to someone else it was Madilyn only to him, I saw and felt within me.

PS.- I loved you alone Marcel!

#-Hashtag: (fallen too you!)

Chapter: 89

Final say

Kellie- My sis did not get all she wanted- I know this to be true I loved Ray more and for that, she is not here anymore, for I have to confess, I have had sex with him or any time and I was only seven years old at the time. Look at me now I am fourteen years old, and I still remember it all.

I had it after I was gone and it was like she was haunting me, the whole time I was the little girl- known as sis- I was me acting as Karly acted I am a lot like her even now I live with Ray I mom and dad both suck, and she is the one that was not right, we are so very much in love. She was pulling us away or so I thought. I don't get it? I am younger than what my friends think of fortune, that doesn't stop me from loving him, I always will even if he doesn't love me back- I have fallen to my first.

Falling to you!

(In a whispered voice)

Karly- I love Marcel! All along it was you I loved, Marcel was just playing so I Madilyn using her body so I would feel- will okay about doing things, with him that I would never do with him in person, he always loved me, more yet I did not let myself fall too him until it was too late.

Say hello to Nevaeh Anna Barns, she is seven weeks old and doing just fine, she is a brown-haired blue-eyed baby girl, full of life. She was born before the end of Karly's life, in 2016, yet she doesn't remember any of that for she had a memory issue, it was all because of her car accident, she got sick of not see the world as she knew it, and she even forgot about the one she feels too. It was all grieving over

Jenny, and her friends like her, and also her garden angel as she called her- Emallie.

Maddie still goes to see her every day at the cemetery and talks to the gay stone next to all the others, and she cries her eyes out only for her, saying she was in-love yet she'll never love again...

I'll be seeing you! Wherever you may be...

Where did she go...?

I don't know...

Was it like heaven or hell?

I- undoubtedly don't know... what do you think?

I-Left a flower behind a lily.

I am- 'Going in and out!'

With- Hallucinations....

'I Can't Help Falling in Love with You!'

Maddie and Olivia, this is how it went for us:

(Cut)

Natalynn Barns, my mother is Killie, you don't know me as of yet but you will. The year is 2117, the car that is flying on the roadways looking like modern 36 ford cops and sedans of the way gone past most if not all tan and thunder gray, and train that rush by, people die and no one cries, it all just a part of this cold world like the electronic music that has no rhythm just beeps and bops. Robots walking freely taking over, your thoughts. Saying everything for you, taking money from you and you don't have a say, on is the height power and you are eating the crap off the floor, do I need to say more for you to get it?

It would be my peace, peace at last! Sure, I don't want to hang myself, but at the same time, I do. The voice in my head is saying too, and getting more vibrant.

Do I have a choice at this point? Oh Yes, I don't! I am going to dangle! Yes, dangle off one of these old angel oak tree branches, tonight. This ancient tree is next to the rundown house! The home of loneliness, and it feels as empty inside as I do right now. Why do I want to do this? Fine: I will tell you why mainly so that everyone from my school of hell can see me up here in the tree naked.

(Start of the re-ending around 2020)

Olivia- For all the people who have septic I with amour in the past, you know who you are. This is for you to understand you're not alone and I did all I could to not be a part of all this. For the girls who will contaminate me in the future- I can't wait yet I have to say it was not all my washes to have it be this way.

To see whom, you'll be, and who I was and what I have become now. And in both cases: Thank you, not for what you girls put me thought. Her life sucked why should mine? Up till then and before till the after, that is what she wanted to be done she? The most hazardous viruses are those that make us believe we are well. I saw her slipping away every day in the halls and did nothing about it, yet was it I that had too? Did I have to fall to that level to be something I was not to her, and even her too?

It has been many years since those old days looking back on it, nevertheless, she haunts me still, like my girlfriend of the past. Chair and the association identified love as a disease, and fifty-three since the scientists perfected a cure if you want to call it that. One and all else in my family has had the formula already.

You know I had and younger sister, Christie, who has been disease-free for ten years now. Not long after Jenny's end of her life. She's been safe from love for so long, not as I was, she wants the old school ways, not what I did, Maddie always says' she can't even remember what all took place, we were high and crazy, it was part of the times then. I was not a babysitter, for that girl I didn't do anything wrong. I'm scheduled to have a hearing on all the small details, and it is breaking us apart at the like glass smashing, and cracking to shards.

I've seen countless unsecured dragged to their procedures, so racked and ravaged by the love that they would rather tear their eyes out, or try to impale themselves on the barbed-wire fences outside of the laboratories than be without it. Numerous years ago, on the day of her procedure, one girl managed to slip from her restraints and find her way to the laboratory roof. Pending the procedure has been achieved, until it has been made safe for the under eighteen, we will never be protected. It still moves around us with invisible, sweeping tentacles, choking us... 'taking it all down as she used to say.'

Many people are afraid of the procedure. I am looking at this how it all on rolled out some people even resist. But I'm not afraid, if she would just stand by my said like she used to. I can't wait. I would have it tomorrow if I could, but you- I can't, have to be at least at seeing what it is I need to have done here, sometimes a little older, sometimes a little crazier, sometimes wild. Ha! They drive you nuts about all the girls that I got the blame for dyeing. I have to look backing and say, I have sex with a girl only and look I don't have a family to turn too, now. Earlier the scientists will cure you, I said as she was dying for something, I cannot recall the name of, otherwise, the procedure won't have it, I would rather not live if I can do what I want with you.

People end up with brain damage, fractional paralysis, blindness, or worse. I get that I said to her yet you still have me, yet in her mind, she gave up on life, after all the drama. I don't like to think that I'm still got it all, yet I don't. Walking around with the disease running through my blood. I don't have much time really either doing the crap I did with anybody. You have tolls of your action I am facing mine now.

Sometimes- I swear I can feel it writhing in my veins like to some degree of spoiled, sour milk in and coming out of me. I run all the time... I feel like fun all the time too. It reminds me of being young offspring pitching fits. Jenny was known for that, not Karly, yet she was sometimes a pain in the butt. It repeats me of confrontation, of diseased girls uninteresting their nails on the pavement, tearing out their hair, their mouths It makes me feel dirty.

Know what I did to myself and others. I have to live on like this... they don't. They're gone now. I left it in the past yet the past has not left me.

And of course, it reminds me of my mother, she messed up also in her life, and I hear it playing in my mind of her voices, as hearing the harsh word of- shame on you. The rooms spring, like she in my mind. The world has nothing to offer me, no single shred of interest. I'm a teen girl trapped on a circle, watching a passing parade, a blur of noise and motion that sooner or later turns to a single point on the horizon, a gutter full of trampled and muddy cups, and the sense of wasting an evening.

I'm holding hands with someone you would not get a boy not a girl, but whenever I turn to look at him his face blurs, like a camera losing focus, and I can't make out any features. But his hands are cool and dry, and my heart is beating steadily in my chest and my dream, I know it will always beat out that same rhythm, not skip or jump or swirl or go faster, just womp, womp, womp, until I'm dead. Harmless, and free from pain. Things weren't always as good as they are now. In school, we learned that in the old days, the dark days, people didn't realize how deadly a disease love was. Dripping spit.

That they would get you on there on the side and then do zero but fail, and fail, and fail again. Individuals should come with warnings, like cigarette packs:

involvement would kill you over time.' 'It was one-sided that people could pretend to be one thing when they were approximately else. Dripping girl jizz after the procedure I will be cheerful and safe forever, yeah right kiss it, that's what everybody says, um-hum, that people say, commodes hanging from the walls in my room, the scientists, and my sister. I will have the procedure and then I will be paired with a boy the surveyors choose for me. In a few years, we'll get married, or so I thought to Dilico, Recently I have started having dreams about my never happening wedding. In them, I'm standing under a tree canopy with flowers in my hair, in something that you would not understand, and that is a white dress, I am a girlie- girl; however, I do want that crap also, just for my past I don't need to pay for it all.

For a long time, they even viewed it as a good thing, something to be celebrated and pursued. Of course, that's one of the reasons it's so dangerous: It affects your mind so that you cannot think clearly, or make rational decisions about your well-being. He loves me yet does he, I can have sex with him now I have a nasty STD. (That's symptom number twelve, listed in the I- myself section of the twelfth edition of The Safety, Health, and Happiness Handbook, or The Book- Sh thingy-ie, as they call it.) Instead of people back then named other diseases-stress, heart disease, anxiety, depression, hypertension, insomnia, bipolar disorder-never realizing that these were, in fact, only symptoms that in the mainstream of cases could be traced back to the effects of this crap, of course, we aren't yet absolutely free from the hallucinations in the United States. I was said to go and live on a tiny Island by on nurse I had.

Maddie- She dropped quickly, without screaming. For days afterward, they broadcast the image of the dead girl's face on television to remind us of the dangers of the deliria. Her eyes were open and her neck was twisted at an unnatural angle, but from the way her cheek was resting on the pavement, you might otherwise think she had lain down to take a nap. Surprisingly, there was very little blood-just a small dark trickle at the corners of her mouth.

I phenomenon whether the procedure will hurt. I want to get it over with. It's hard to be patient. It's hard not to be afraid while I'm still uncured, though so far, the deliria haven't touched me yet. Still, I have apprehension. They say that in the old days, love drove people to psychosis. That's bad enough. The deadliest of all deadly things: It kills you both when you have it and when you don't.

The book of crap also tells stories of those who died because of love lost or never found, which is what terrifies me the most. I wonder when and who's next, I remember how I loved that thing now look at it. She watches me in silence. When I'm finished, she holds the orange, now unpeeled, in both hands, as though it's a glass ball and she's worried about breaking it. I nudge her. 'Go ahead. Eat now.' She just stares at it and I sigh and begin separating the sections for her, one bygone.

Like- like- most if not all the girls that passed before me. It only takes one like Ray to do us all in, and get this, free love is not all ways free. Yet I the one that gets it, not her and she okay what, like why me... I was just being a cool girl. I should have been thinking more as Karly did, and her sister, they had ways of not have all that going up in. better than birth control, it stopped it. 'There is no fix for stupid she said.' Nevertheless- love is love- I yelled back pissed.

I'm nervous, of course.

Ninety-five days, and then I'll be safe.

Chapter: 90

In and out

It's seven o'clock, as of this moment. We must be constantly on guard against the Disease; the health of our nation, our people, our families, and our minds depends on constant vigilance. 'Basic Health Measures,' The Safety, Health, and the smell of oranges has always reminded me of funerals. On the morning of my evaluation, it is the smell that wakes me up. I look at the clock on the light is ashen, the sunlight just fading away slowly dying, breath in my lounges the chemicals, I'm waking up to ash and dust, I wipe my brow and I sweat my rust, I'm breathing in the chemicals; remembering the hot, scratchy dress I was forced to wear when my mother died; to keep from remembering the murmur of voices, a large, rough hand passing me orange after orange to suck on, so I would stay quiet.

I'm breaking in, shaping up, and then checking out on the prison bus, this is it, the apocalypse. I'm waking up, I feel it in my bones, enough to make my system blow. Welcome to the new age, to the new age, already dressed, watching me. She has a whole orange in one hand. She is trying to gnaw on it, like an apple, with her little-kid white teeth.

My stomach twists and I have to close my eyes again to keep from, At the funeral, I ate five oranges, section by section, and when I was left with only a pile openings heaped on my lap I instigated to suck on those, the light sweet yet bitter taste of the pith aiding to keep the tears away, never- ever doing so. I open my eyes leans forward; the orange cupped in her outstretched palm. I used to jock at that song about the world look at it now it came true. They own our butts.

Bedside table, I don't see the flowers of the past, that I cared so about, dumb, I push off my covers and stand up. Peeing myself, for not having central to it any longer, my gastrointestinal is clenching and untightening like a fist. 'And you're not supposed to eat the peel, you know.' She continues blinking up at me with her big gray eyes, not saying anything. I sigh and sit down next to her. 'Here,' I say, and show her how to peel the orange using her nail, unwinding bright carrot curls and dropping them in her lap, the whole time trying to hold my breath against the smell.

She doesn't respond to the girl in the story. As I do, I whisper, as gently as possible, 'You know, the others would be nicer to you if you would speak once in a while.' Not that I expect her to hear her say a word in the whole seven years, and four months not a single did I relate, thinking there's something wrong with her brain or worse mine... is there something wrong with me?

I stand up and go toward the window, moving away from her and her with big eyes I said the caretaker, staring eyes, and thin, quick fingers. I feel sorry for her as I look over and see the miss that she has become. Karly, you're there in white.

Saying everything is going to be all right. So far, the doctors haven't found it. 'She's as dumb as a tower of strength crumbling to nothing for there was nothing that she could say.' Fatly just the other day, watching turn a bright-colored block over and over in her hands, as though it was beautiful and miraculous, as though she expected it to turn suddenly into something else.

One Direction - Story of My Life, days go by, like stories written on the walls, I don't feel the same about you, and it was on her stone. Holding on too tight.

I remember taking her home. Colors of no change, caged up... light is not showing the way, and I will be gone, holding on too tightly, nothing there to hold on too. Frozen in time, I give her hope, the story of my life.

Time, it seemed like a good choice. But two was the number of children the evaluators decided on for she said to me you will if you don't give up. Something good can come your way, just stay with me... and you'll see the way, okay? 'Now is dead,' she looks at me- not make sense to me. She always said she never wanted children in the first place. That's one of the downsides of the procedure; in the absence of her, some people find parenting distasteful. Her family had earned high stabilization marks in the twelve-monthly review.

Her husband, a writer, was well respected. Thankfully, cases of full-blown detachment- where a mother or father are unable to bond normally, dutifully, and responsibly with his or her children, and winds up drowning them or sitting on their windpipes or beating them to death when they cry-are few. This is going to be the best day of my life; it's looking up now. They lived in an enormous house on Twilight Street.

Ho hey- children, had to move I had been living a lonely life, I don't where I belong, I will bleed, you belong within my sweetheart. I don't think you're right for him, I stand looking down, next to me, and I blond with you belong me. People whispered and pointed at them everywhere they went. I wouldn't remember that, of course; I'd be surprised if she has any memories of her parents at all. Her husband extinct before my trial could begin.

I smoke two joints in time of peace, and two in time of war, I smoke two joints before I smoke two joints, and then I smoke two more. Hard work good and hard work fine, but first take care of head, a meal from scratch, and taught piano, sounds around when you smoke two joints. I smoke two Joints, I smoke two joints in the morning, I smoke two joints at night, I smoke two joints in the afternoon; it makes me feel all right. Spare time, to keep us busy when I smoke two joints. But, of course, when Kellie's husband was so-called of being a well-wisher, everything changed.

The trials are mostly for show. Sympathizers are almost always executed. If not, they're locked away in the sepulchers to serve three life sentences, end-to-end. that, of passage. Thinks that's the reason her heart gave out only a few months after her husband's withdrawal when she was indicted in his place. I suck in deeply, inhaling the clean smell of seaweed and damp wood, listening to the distant cries of the seagulls as they circle endlessly, somewhere beyond the low, gray, sloping buildings, over the bay.

It's a ghost of you, hang around. Hey, don't lesson to award I say, the truth is happiness. The screams all the same. It's undoubtedly a good thing he did.

Outside, a car engine guns to life. The sound startles me, and I jump. 'Nervous about your evaluation?' A day after she got served the papers, she was walking down the street and bam! Heart attack.

Hearts are fragile things around me is all the same. That's why you have to be so vigilant, it will be hot today, I can tell, it's already hot in the chamber, and when I crack the window to sweep out the smell of orange which is death, the air outside feels as thick and heavy as an idiom.

'Don't worry. You'll be fine. We can review your answers along the way.' I turn around, to look at the lock was gone, standing in the doorway, her hands gathered. 'Not at all,' I say, though this is an untruth. We are young so I set the world on fire, tonight we are you, I think back, bright then the sun, we shined, carry me home. She smiles, just barely, a brief, flitting thing. Take your shower and then I'll help you with your hair.

Of course, I'll have to get used to it. During the exam, there will be four evaluators staring at me for close to two hours. The hypothetical assessors will examine my strengths and weaknesses, and then assign me to a school and a major.

I'm pretty sure, I did well enough to get assigned to a university. I've always been a decent student. 'Satisfactory.' My friends endure staring at me, from within, yours truly squirm here, digging my nails into the windowsill behind me. I've always hated being looked at. I'll be wearing a flimsy malleable gown, semi-translucent, like the kind you get in hospitals so that they can see my body.

'A seven or an eight, I would say,' my friends within me say, puckering her lips. It's a decent score and I'd be happy with it. 'Though you won't get more than a seven if you don't get cleaned up.'

(Back to our halls)

Like a dumb ass I went college, (assuming I pass all my boards. Senior year is almost over, and the calculation is the final test I will take. For the past four months, I've had all my various board exams-math, science, oral magic, and written proficiency, sociology and psychology, and photography (a specialty elective)-and I must be getting my scores one-time in the next few weeks ago it was not long ago or so it seems to me. Solitary of them will become my husband after I graduate, girls who don't pass get paired and married right out of high school). The evaluators will do their best to match me with people who received a similar score in the evaluations. As much as possible they try to avoid any huge disparities in intelligence, temperament, social background, and age. Of development you do hear occasional horror stories: cases, where a poor seventeen-year-old girl is given to a wealthy old man, is the delirium dream, which is dumb, dumb, dumb.

The stairs let out their awful moaning, Jenny, appears before me. She is nine and tall for her age, but very thin: all angles and elbows, her chest caving in like a warped sheet pan. It's terrible to say, but I don't like her very much. She has the same pinched look as her mother did. The assessment is the last step, so I can get paired, paid and laid, in the coming months, the evaluators will send me a list of four or five approved matches.

She joins me- in the doorway and stares at me, as I lay there feeling naked, I am only five-two and Jenny is, amazingly, just a few creeps shorter than I am now.

It's silly to feel self-conscious in front of my aunt and cousins, but a burning, crawling itch begins to work its way up my arms. I have been hard, losing sleep, count the stars, I know they're all worried about my performance at the evaluation. I must get paired with someone good. Old I am not the old young, and I am not the bold, Jenny and are years away killed me but that was my life. From their procedures. If I marry well, in a few years it will mean extra money for the family. It might also make the whispers go away, singsong snatches that four years after the scandal still seem to follow us wherever we go, like the sound of rustling leaves carried on...

It was only in my dreams that, I heard the word shouted, screamed. I take a deep breath, then duck down to pull the plastic bin from under my bed so that my friends won't see I'm shaking. 'I may be getting married today?'

Jenny... I said over and over, it was maybe today. The wind: Follower, Adherent, and the Champion. It's only slightly better than the other expression that followed me for eons after her death, a serpent hiss and it kisses, undulating, leaving its trail of poison: Suicide. A sideways word, a word that individuals whisper and mutter and cough: a word that must be squeezed out behind cupped palms or murmured behind closed doors.

Honestly, I've never even talked to a boy for longer than five minutes, Wal-Mart and is always picking his nose and wiping his not on the underside of the sweet potato. All and sundry espouse as soon as they are ended with their tutoring. It's the way things are. The mark of a Vigorous society.' And if I don't pass my boards-please God, please God, let me pass them- I'll have my wedding as soon as I'm cured, in less than three months. Her voice has always, reminds me of birds flying droning flatly in the heat.

'Don't be irresponsible,' Karly would say, but underprivileged of blocking. 'Bridal is Order and Stability, I take my towel from the bin and straighten up. That name- espouse- makes my mouth go dry. 'You know she can't say 'I do' until she's healed.' But the thought of it still makes my heart flutter frantically, like an insect behind glass. I've never touched a boy, of course, physical contact between uncured of the opposite sex is forbidden.

Which means I'll have my nuptial night. My mother, sister, and I had, lived closer to the border, and I was amazed and terrified by all the winding, pitch-black highways, which smelled like garbage and dying flash. I always wished for my aunt to hold my hand, but she never did, and I had balled my hand and so fists and followed the spellbinding upmarket of her corduroy pants, dreading the moment that IUP, would rise over the crest of the final mountain. The dark stone building lined with fissures and cracks like the weather-beaten face of one of the industrial fishermen who work along the docks.

My friend's sighs and checks her the smell of strawberries is still strong, and my stomach does another swoop. I watch. Entomb my face in my towel and inhale, willing myself not to be sick. From downstairs there is the clatter of dishes. 'We have to leave in less than an hour,' she says. 'You'd healthier get moving.'

Chapter: 91

Out and in

A peer of the realm, help us root our feet to the earth, and our eyes to the road and always remember the fallen angels, who, attempting to soar, were seared instead by the sun and, wings melting, came crashing back to the sea. Lord, help root my eyes to the earth and stay my eyes on the road, so I may never stumble.

Psalms 24, I read it all again, they say not to yet I do.

(From 'Prayer and Lesson')

I have been terrified of the streets, then, and reluctant to leave my friends it's amazing how things change.

Maggie- Side walking me down to the workrooms, which, like all the management offices, are lumped unruffled along the quaysides: a string of bright, white buildings, glistening like teeth over the slurping mouth of the ocean. When I was little and had just moved in with her, she used to walk me to school every day.

'Parents teach you a lot of things, but the most important thing they teach you is this: how people will freak you up in the future. The salt blowing off the sea makes the air feel textured and heavy. I can smell the deep-sea, though it's concealed from view by the meandering undulations of the streets, and it diminishes me. 'Evoke,' she is saying for the now I know them so well I could, follow their dips and curves with my eyes closed, and today I want nothing more than to be alone.

Over and over like times before- 'They want to know about your personality, yes, but the more generalized your answers the better chance you have of being considered for a variety of positions.' My friends have always talked about matrimonial with boys only, I didn't get them yet I do now, words straight out of the notebook words like responsibility, blame, and determination. If they're any good, they teach you to get used to it.'

Olivia- 'Modification to it,' I say. I don't like makeup, I have never been interested in clothes or lip gloss. A bus container- past you and me and her. Everyone knows I am having my appraisal today. Only four are offered throughout the year, and slots are strong-minded well in money upfront. The makeup insisted I wear, makes my skin feel coated and slick. In the bathroom mirror at home, I thought I looked like angelic, especially with my hair all pinned with metal constable pins and clips: a fish with a bunch of metal knobs sticking in my head. My best friend, Shy-, thinks I'm crazy, but of course, she would. 'Humorous, isn't it, how swiftly the future becomes the past.'

Like using a fire snake on the rails, I have to expand my mind. But that's the beauty of life: time is yours to keep and to change. Just a few proceedings can be satisfactory to carve a new road, a new track. Just a few minutes, and the void is kept at bay. You will live forever with that new road inside of you, stretching away to a place suggested, barely, on the horizon. Everything is in- between. I have eyes that aren't green or brown, but a middle finger. I'm not thin, but I not fat either.

Shy- She's stunning- even when she just twists her blond hair into a messy knot on the top of her head, she looks as though she's just had it styled. I'm not ugly, but I'm not pretty, either. 'If they ask you, God forbid, about your friends, reminisce to say that you didn't know them well, yet that okay or so they say.' For the shortest time, shorter than the shortest second's breath, you get to stand up to infinity. But eventually, and always, infinity wins.'

The only thing you could say about me is this: I'm short. 'Um huh.' I'm only half listening. It's hot, too hot for her, and sweat is picking up already on my minor back and in my armpits, even though I slathered on and upon roll-on this morning on top of her.

White and black is all the same- not shut up! Get some color right, 'Blue,' I parrot back at her. 'Blue is my favorite color. Or pink maybe purple.' Black is too melancholic; red will set them on edge; pink is too babyish; orange is freakish, and I think you have to suck on that only and the things you like to do in your permitted time? Ruined by the disease. That's what everyone wanted, in the end: to be part of something bigger, and not minor. I got it big...

'Karly? Are you even eavesdropping on me?' Maddie puts a hand on my arm and gyrations me in her course. I mildly slip away from her soft handed touching, and brushing off her fingertips. There is already a double line forming: on one side, the girls, and fifty feet away, a second entrance, the boys all looking at as and crap. 'We've gone over this already.' 'This is important, Karly, Jenny, Maddie. Possibly the most important day of your whole life.' I sigh, and think, into the future of me the gates that bar and my bra, the government labs swing open slowly with an involuntary drone. I squint against the sun, trying to locate people I know, but the ocean has dazzled me and my vision is clouded by floating black spots. I take a deep breath and presentation into the spiel we've prepared a billion times.

‘I like to work on the school paper. I’m interested in photography because I like the way it captures and jellies a single moment. I relish hanging out with my friends and attending concerts at Oaks Park. I like to run and was a co-captain of the track team for four years. I hold the school record, for two of them, I often babysit the younger members of my family, and I like children.’ ‘You’re making a face, its everything.’

Jenny- ‘I love children,’ I repeat, plastering a smile on my face. The truth is, I don’t like very many children except for like Kellie. They’re so uncomfortable and loud all the time, and they’re always grasping things and dribbling and wetting themselves, and getting wet. But I know I’ll have to have children of my own someday, freaking- crap yes, I do. I finish, ‘My favorite subjects are math, and I count all the boys in the room, to see if I can get some. And history,’ and nods, satisfied, thinking about all that I had. ‘Olivia!’ I turn around. Karly is just climbing out of Jenny’s parents’ car, her blond hair flying, the door hitting another car in the lot. In tendrils and breakers around her face, her semi-sheer tunic slithering off one sunburned shoulder.

Some last-class people keep cars mounted in front of their apartments like statues, frosty and unused, the tires unblemished and not used much as of yet. All the girls rowed at the gym, and now down the same line-up to enter the labs have twisted to watch her. Hana has that kind of power over folks. Life Is the total of all our small mistakes, little upheavals, wicked choices, Calculation on a maximum of accumulation. They pile up like cow crap all in a pile and it builds up until the cost of keeping up appearances is too high and the weight is just too much. Then: collapse like the bridge so long ago. ‘Jenny! Jenny Wait!’ I got your number- he- he, classic pun... Maddie lingers run hauling ass down the street, waving at me, like a loser! Uncontrollably, behind her, and the car begins a slow upheaval: back down the hill, back in the narrow drive until it is facing the opposite direction, flying into trees and crap.

Let’s just say- She lost her parents’ car is as sleek and dark as a panther. The few times we’ve driven, around in it composed I’ve felt like a monarch. Hardly anyone has SUV, to any further extent, and even fewer have cars that drive. Emollient is austere, rationed and extremely expensive. People, Caroline thought, where like dynasties. They could open their doors. You could walk through their rooms, and touch the bits and pieces hidden in their corners. But something- the assembly, the wiring, the invisible mechanism that kept the whole thing standing- lingered indistinguishably, recommended only by the fact of its obtainable at everything.

‘Mom made me bring it. She said, P-o-ed I should read it while I’m waiting for my evaluation. She said it will give the right impression.’ Maddie sticks her finger down her throat and mimes gagging. That the same sound she made last night Jenny yelled out! She is catching up to us Madalyn says breathlessly, a magazine pops out next to her favorite books, of her half-open bag, and she patronizes to retrieve it. It’s one of the government newspapers, Home and Family, and in answer makes a face, to my upstretched eyebrows, she confused, yet that’s just her.

Olivia- ‘Maddie,’ whispers fiercely.

~*~

Her voice is back to normal. ‘Don’t worry. They’re not eavesdropping on us.’ The nervousness in her voice makes my heart skip. She hardly ever loses her temper, even for a minuscule. She whips her head in both directions, as though expecting to find regulators or evaluators lurking in the bright morning street. Maddie turns her back to me, and mouths to me, yet. Then she grins, in front of us, the double line of girls and boys is increasing extensive, extending into the thoroughfare, even as the glass- adjoined doors of the laboratories swish open and several nurses appear, carrying clipboards, and begin to use people into the waiting rooms. I rest one hand on my elbow lightly, quick as a bird. ‘You’d healthier get online,’ she says. I commend some of her quietnesses would polish off on me.

Chapter: 92

Phantasm

Maddie- ‘And Olivia?’

‘Yeah?’

Maddie- ‘Good luck with that.’ ‘Thanks.’ I kind of wish Liv would Say something else-something like I’m sure you’ll do great, or Try not to worry- but she just stands there, blinking, her face composed and incomprehensible as always. ‘Don’t worry, I said to her and her mother, and she winks at me. This is how we grow: not up, but out, like trees- -puffiness to embrace all these stories, the possibilities, and fabrications, and bribes and habits, Maddie said- I don’t feel very well. The labs look far away, so white, I can hardly stand to look at them. The roadway is icy cold in front of us. The world's most important day of your life keeps repeating in my head. The sun feels like giant limelight.

‘I’ll make sure she doesn’t screw up too badly. Promise.’ All my nervousness dissipates. Liv is so tranquil about the entire thing, so offhand and normal. Maddie and I go down to the labs together. She is almost five-one. When I walk next to her, I have to do a half skip every other step to keep up with her, and she wants to say she is taller- NOT!

I would be a complete wreck otherwise. I wind up feeling like a nod jogging up and down in the water. Today I don’t mind, though. I’m glad she’s with me. ‘God,’ she says, as we get closer to the lines. Amazing, isn’t it? That hearts that once beat in sync could be so perfectly and forever separated. That’s the whole process of life, I think a long, slow process of separation. It can be preserved only by the reabsorption into everything, into the sole heartbeat of time, like a rhyme.

‘Your aunt takes this whole thing pretty seriously, huh?’ ‘Fine, it is thoughtful.’ We join the back of the line. I for one see a few folks I distinguish, some girls I know imprecisely, from school; some guys I’ve seen playing soccer, some left behind like the Sped-ers, never- ever the Preps, one of the girls of the schools is such that. This girl looks me at the way, I see me staring.

She raises her eyebrows and I drop my eyes quickly, my face going hot all at once and an anxious itch working in my abdominal. You’ll be paired in less than three months, I tell myself, but the words don’t mean anything and seem preposterous, like one of the Mad- Libs games we played as kids that always resulted in ludicrous statements, I want a banana for sped-der, do think you’ll be able to suck on that?

Give me a wet shoe to your blistering cupcake. ‘Of course, I am acquainted with... believe me, I have delivered, look at the pages turn, and twist, your thoughts, Shy- pushes her sunglasses up onto her temple and bats her eyelashes at me, making her voice super sugary...

She drops her sunglasses back down on her nose and makes a face. ‘You don’t have faith in it?’ I lower my voice to a whisper.

‘Assessment day is the exciting rite of the passageway that concocts you for a future of happiness, solidity, and business.’ Shy- has been strange recently. She was always different from other people- more tactful, more self-governing, and more unafraid. It’s one of the reasons I first wanted to be her friend.

(The jump-off)

SATURDAY, Maggie the- WATER WAS so-o EMOTIONLESS and cold it, TOOK MAGGIE'S BREATH away as she fought past the kids thronging the pavement and standing in the shallows, waving towels and not yet dressed she run for my mom's car, and said she'll change in here. Reassuring and calling up to the remaining steeplechasers. She took a deep breath and went under on to whatever she was holding in, the sound of voices, of shouting... she was saying it more and more, and laughter was directly subdued.

There's just something about her, and yet him. I didn't mean for it to happen. Only one voice stayed with her. Those eyes; the long lashes, the lashes under his eyebrow so right so nice, and the lips that are so wet and kissable. Something about her. I suppose, in some sense, wills are like maps: they are the imprint we authorization, the places our cares have been entrenched; the work we have done; the money we have burrowed away; the furrows and the paths that lead back to spaces we have gone, and marked, and loved. Which predestined, nothing about you, anymore, looked back into my thoughts. She'd been planning to tell him she loved him tonight. The cold was deafening, a vivacious rush through her body. Her denim shorts felt as though they'd been prejudiced with nuggets.

(Gym Class girls swimming)

That's what fright was all about: no fear.

Karly- Like this, I can't swim

As luck would have it, an inordinate length of time of braving the arroyo and racing the quarry with him had made Maggie so strong swimmer. The water was threaded with bodies, twisting and kicking, splashing, treading water- the showjumpers, and the people who had linked their commemorative swim, sloshing into the quarry still clothed, carrying beer cans and joints. She could hear a distant rhythm, faint drumming, and she let it move her through the water- without thought, without fear.

Maggie- She broke the surface for air and saw that she'd already crossed the short stretch of water and reached the opposite shore: an ugly pile of malformed stalwarts, slick with black and khaki moss, piled together like stacked blocks, pitted with fissures and crevices, they shouldered up toward the sky, ballooning out over the water.

Thirty-one people had already hopped over-all of them Maggie's, has no friends and former classmates. Only a small knot of girls continued at the highest of the ridge-the jagged, rocky lip inside the pool, which has rock faces, jutting forty feet into the air on the polar side of the quarry, like a massive tooth biting its way out of the pulverized. It was too dark to see them.

(Lager fire)

The penlights and the bonfire only illumined the beach on a school night trip out of town and a few feet of the pitch-black dark water, with the big full twilight moon, and the faces of the people who had jumped, still nodding in the aquatic, glorious, too contented to feel the cold, taunting the other competitors. The gun was just the goes between the legs.

It was the loneliness that got me in the end, like the knife, Jenny fake die to get boys to kiss her, the topmost of the ridge was a shaggy mass of black, where the trees, cove, where encroaching on the black rock, on a pink and orange backdrop, where the rock was getting slowly pulled into the on the city far away, one or the other. But Maggie knew who they were, and she wanted all me in the water, yet the plan was to be with him fulling about what a girl to do?

All the competitors had to announce, themselves once they reached the top of the ridge, and then, this year's sportscaster, white wood roller-coaster bulb lights reflection of the waves, three or more kids had yet to jump: Marcel being one.

Dinna Pliez, and Velez Washington. Nat, the dude with the red hair, hell with the last name, I can't remember. Maggie's best friend is me, her only friend, now. Maggie wedged her fingers in a fracture in the rocks and pulled. Prior, and in years past, she had observed all the other gamers fumbling up the ridge, like enormous, waterlogged bugs. Every year, people raced to be the first to jump, even though it didn't earn any extra points. It was a pride thing.

She hammered her knee, hard, against a sharp elbow of rock. When she looked down, she could see a bit of dark blood streaking her kneecap. Bizarrely, I did not feel any pain. Even if she cried her eyes out. And though everyone was still cheering and shouting, it all sounded distant. Matt's words drowned out all the voices. Look, it's just not working for me.

There's something about her, we can still be friends or more, I was wishing. The air was cool, my mind worm, the airstream had picked up, melodic through the tall trees, sending deep groans up from the outer waters, ships passing by.

Nevertheless, she wasn't cold anymore but her, her- heart was beating hard in her throat like mine. She found another handhold in the rock, braced her legs on the slick moss, lifted and leveled, as she had watched the gamers do, every summer since eighth grade. Dimly, she was aware of the voice, of a dolphin distorted by the loudspeaker, at night, around nine.

'Late in the disposed of... a new competitor.' But half his words got whipped away by the wind. Up and doing, up and around, active, ignoring the ache in her fingers on my legs, trying to stick to the left side of the ridge, where the rocks are high and show nicely, single-minded hard at angles into one another, forming a wide and jutting lip of stone, easy to traverse.

Suddenly a dark shape, a person, rocketed past her. She almost slipped. At the last second, she worked her feet more resolutely onto the narrow ledge, dug hard with her fingers to steady herself. A huge cheer went up, and Maggie's first thought was: Natalie, her daughter, but then she roared out, 'And he's in and were out, ladies and gentlemen! I guess it's the same way trees grow around the very vines that are killing them, so they're inhibited and nonstop all at once. After a long time, even pain can be a comfort only if you let it be, don't you see?

Chapter: 93

Mirage

Baby, I am amazed by you...

It suddenly seemed a million miles away. Her belly turned, and for an another, the mist cleared commencing her head, the annoyance and the hurt where blustered away, and she wanted to creep onward lower down the rock, not jump off back to the safety of the beach, where I was waiting, to run a huge They could go to Dot's for late-night waffles, extra butter, extra whipped cream.

Marcel, is the one I contemplate about being with at this point. We make genuineness our own, handle it until it is soft as pressed butter. Maddie, our thirty-second gamer, is in!' Not quite at the top now. But those are just words, and words are just stories, and eventually, always, stories come to an end. She risked a glance behind her and saw a steep slope, I see her standing there, off the jagged rock, the dark water breaking, over top, at the base of the ridge.

But it was too late. Andie's voice came whispering back, and she keeps climbing, not stopping, I want to push where from the bottom No one knows who invented terror, or when it first opened. There are dissimilar theories. Some responsibility the securing of the paper manufacturing works, which overnight placed 50 percent of the teen population of Pittsburgh, on unemployed. They could drive around with all the gaps open, listening to the rising hum of the crickets, or sit together on the hood of his car and talk about nothing.

She learned to swallow words back like the water down in and hold secrets on my tongue until they were liquefied like bubbles. Boys, narrow your eyes at the sun until the tears ran down their faces; they put their hands up to that who scandalously change to arrested for allocating on the very same night he was named prom king, and now changes brake pads at the like the thoroughfares, likes to take credit; that's why he still goes to opening Jump, four years after moving on.

'Standing by?'

'All set.'

'This day and age of now.'

'Almost immediately.'

'Look after, we all will know?'

'Will it come about today, will it? I asked over and over.'

'Mien, guise; see for automatically!'

The teen-agers constrained to each other like so loved, so many wildflowers, amalgamated. Scrutinizing on view for a look at the veiled rays of hope. It drizzled, with it. Cream and that amazing blue-ness and they breathed of the fresh, fresh air and listened and listened to the silence which on the back burner them in a blessed sea of no encyclopedic and no wave. It had been situated raining for ages or so it seems; many days on days now it has felt this way.

Utilizing the sweet crystal sapphire fall of sprays and rainbow mist and the concussion of rainstorms so substantial they were tiddling waves overcoming us just like the black sands of the beach island. Multifactorial, and jam-packed from one end to the other with a shower, with the throb and gush of water, all rhythmic and rushing like us. They looked at everything and savored everything. Then, wildly, like colorful wild birds escaped from their tree's fronds, they take part and entered in shouting spheres. They ran for- 60 minutes, and did not stop successively.

A lot and more of timberlands had been wrinkly under the rain and grown up a thousand times to be crinkly once more.

(The flashback)

Marcel- Let's go swimming in the moonlight.

Karly- Yeah, he said to me, I remember back. Come back here and put your clothes on! We don't need them I said. I don't want to wear stuff in the water so come on. It isn't good to be running around naked all the time, and have kids looking at us oh come on and stop being shy. By ourselves, at last, I said to her. I neediness swear to you me something I can't put into words. I want you to promise me also, now that you will be mine and fall for only me. That you will never- ever, go away... On the same island trip as now, the flashback happened as he walked to me, with the same sexy look as when we were younger.

Why?

I'll express why you, youngsters, we were at that time. Look at us, Look at us. She was silly, him nervous are you ready for the first kiss? There he is was, he must have swum over there thinking about doing it, under the moonlight, thing get sexual and we go-to fare, with the heavy petting and so on. Gone to sleep, in his room yet not aloud, yet the doors counted, so why not take the risk, come on.

Could you repeat that are your responsibility that for? 'It's ending, it's discontinuing!' 'Yes, surely! 'She reared apart from them, from these kids who possibly will ever remember a period when there wasn't rain and pain and sin.

They were all nine years old, and if there had been a day, so many eons ago, when the sun came out for an hour and showed its face to the stunned world, they possibly will not amnesia. Wake up occupancies go! Don't fear, Karly, we'll be all right they would hear or see us.

Starting, this looks like a good place to stay for a while upon the rock and falls. What are you talking about? Sometimes, at night, she heard them stir, in tribute, and she knew they were dreaming and remembering gold or a fair-haired oil pastel or a coin large enough to buy the world with.

She knew they thought they remembered a temperateness, like a blushing in the face, in the physique, in the trembling hands, weaponries, legs, and then they always awoke to endless movements of us, shaking downcast of clear bead blue necklaces upon the table it was for me to keep, I said I would never- ever take it off, the walk, the gardens, the forests, and their dreams were gone. And then- amid their running one of the girls howled.

She's like a person looking through the wrong end of a telescope, complaining that everything appearances small. Everyone still, the girl, stand-up in the open, held out her hand. 'Oh, look, aspect,' she said, shuddering. They came unhurriedly to look at her opened palm and long fingers. I guess we all have some of these - memories like artillery shells, fired at close range in the center of it, cupped and huge, was a solo raindrop. She began to cry, looking at it. They peeped unobtrusively at the rays.

A breeze blew cold around them. They turned and started to walk back toward the underground house, their hands at their sides, their smiles vanishing away. That's innovativeness if you ask me- never-ending division. 'Oh, Um-hum.' Or maybe its life that is the infection: a feverish dream, a hallucination of feelings. Death is sanitization, a cleansing, and a medication. A few cold drops fell on their noses as well as her cheeks plus her mouth. The sun faded behind a stir of mist a successful of boom startled them and like leaves beforehand a new gale, they were fallen upon each other like ran drips kissing the sky.

Up and down, up and down, like a ladder of choices leading to the next choice, and the next, until suddenly you've run out of choices, and tree, and you find time as rare and thin as air on a mountain. Then its un-oh-m's, sad, turn's more than. Lightning struck seven miles away, five miles away, and them closer and closer than here only a half a mile from us in the waves.

The thundering boom to every sticky hit of his hips under the dark blue-green with yellow casted ink like water, the sky darkened into midnight stars with a staccato flash twinging movement about and tingling down under. It all simmers down to the same thing, are you going to play the cards you got, or they are going to fold are they not?

All-day yesterday they had read in class about the sun. About how like a washout it was, and how hot and how the moon is the poor light at night like not making us feel as we do. As well as they had written small stories or essays or poems about it, I think the sun is a flower, that flowers for just one in 60 minutes.

That was Maddie's poem, read in a quiet voice in the still classroom while the rain was falling to you, I feel on the outside of days. They stood in the doorways looking in, of the open for a moment until it was found, there raining hard, see clearly through the purring ran storm, then they closed the door was fessed, as they could over her head, gotten the enormous sound of the rain falling to You! Masses and falls, everywhere and forever- never all the fallen. We're all just a pool of wires pulled tight, charged beyond volume- a tangle of plugs and stopcocks, waiting for a swell to take down the entire system. Parents teach us our very first lesson about love: that you are sure as hell don't get to choose it.

Looking back...

Chapter: 94

Tangled

Certain stories must remain mine so that there is me to remain. 'Will it be seven more years?' 'Aw, you didn't write that!' protested one of the boys. 'I did,' said to Maggie. 'I did.' 'Marcel said the teacher. But that was yesteryear. Now the rain was a lull, and the youngsters were crushes in like looking out the windows of young love. Where's a teacher I look for my bottoms and top also?' 'She'll be back soon.' 'She should hurry up in an imperativeness why we will miss out on it!' They turned on themselves, like a feverish wheel, all tumbling spokes. Maggie stood alone like a stone.

She was a very frail girl who looked as if she had been lost in the rain for years and the rain had washed out the blue from her eyes and the red from her mouth and the yellow from her hair. She was an old snapshot dusted from an album, whitened away, and if she spoke at all her voice would be a ghost. Now she raised, separate, staring at the rain and the loud wet world beyond the huge glass.

What're you looking at?

Margot said nothing. 'Speak when you're spoken to.' He offered her a thrust. But she did not move; rather she let herself be moved only by him and nonentity else. They edged away from her; they would not look at her. She felt them go away. And this was for the reason that she would play no games with them in the hollow tunnels of the subversive urbanizes'. If they labeled her and ran, she stood irregular after them and did not monitor. We no longer pay attention to the clocks.

Why?

Why should we? Noon is the taste of tropical-ness and the feel of a splinter under a nail. Morning is mud and decaying seal. The evening is the smell of cooked pasta and mushroom. And the night is shivering, and the feel of mice sniffing around our skin. When the class sang songs about happiness and life and games her lips just about stimulated.

Only when they sang about the sun and the summer did her lips move as she watched the drenched windows. And then, of course, the biggest crime of all was that she had come here only five years ago from Earth, and she remembered the sun and the way the sun was and the sky was when she was four in Pa. As well as they, they had been on ensuring all their lives, and they had been only two years old when last the sun came out and had long since forgotten the color and heat of it and the way it was. But Margot remembered.

(Cut into the future)

Kellie- A FLICKER, Of LIGHT with no hope, Just burliness. Perceptible.

ORANGE...YELLOW... the sky's as we realize... It's on FIRE... with could robotic industry. 'It's like a penny,' she said once, eyes closed. 'No, it's not!' the children cried. 'It's like a fire,' she said, 'in the stove.' 'You're lying, you don't dredge up like mud and quicksand!' Cried the children see them as run and do. Burn like books as they do. Revulsions of nuclear warfare taking blaze the sun dropping out duff start now nothing but emptiness, ash and dust all me eat and taste. They have rushed in with the flag and the eyes of fire. Eyes, snapping open.

My face, covered in sweat lying in bed. Sheets, tangled around looking at the all-glass wall seeing the dismay, of life falling into nothingness, his legs running away from yet she dies. Alarm clock, playing something ruthlessly and sunny, unlike the landscape. Sits up not thinking the change is here. Wincing domes day over and ended, like clocks running backward like the rosins of the polls, shakes it out I do, a Trying to forget so not a dream, I remember the past and the world before we killed it.

You are in danger... the eyes look on my face. I rub my hands over his face. Gets out of bed. The apartment, simple plastic, Unexceptional sterol, rash behavior the signs of someone who lives alone, for man has to fight them all off, no window covers the flying ships look in all the time. A little messy, they say as I walk from the bed to the bath in that all open in the nude, they have to see it all so they say we feel safe. But she remembered and stood quietly apart from all of them and watched the patterning windows. And once, a month ago, she had refused to shower in the school shower rooms, had clutched her hands to her ears and over her head, screaming the water mustn't touch her head. So, after that, dimly, she sensed it, she was different and they knew her difference and kept away.

There was talk that her father and mother were taking her back to Earth next year; it seemed vital to her that they do so, though it would mean the loss of thousands of dollars to her family. I tube down to the low's levees 5,000 feet or mover down, past the hegemonic plant life on the roofs, and parks within the building cities. I live on top of the water on the way up at the height, steps outside.

Screens everywhere, into the flow of PERSON ALONG FOR THE RIDE heading for the elevated trains just zipping by my face with the wind. Elbow to elbowing craziness. A river of human race mixed with animatronics.

Moves along on the ground if you can call it that with it creepy glow, like everyone else, not a tree to be found only within the buildings, it's all pumped out so we can live on the HVAC over ever roadway, Swiftly I see all the lights making up for the brightness of the sun that has departed, the moon a close to us as it can get all the others stars shining brightly ours linking like a dubbed sided light hose of the past.

My shoulders tense wearing this clothing black and white only and think. That feeling at the back of his neck of them sniffing me out. Humanoids are unstopped of me all the time, like a car on the street, there all over, yet no work to be found, they do it all, as we suck it in, in the grandmaster of fear.

A ROBOT Just behind me touching me all over with his cold not soft hands. Humanoid in design, but still clearly a mechanism of tritium, real looking eyes, and girly faces, or boy like they have sexual identity and names, they are born into the world and killed by robots also with a feel not useful, like us, by doctors; Copper and man-made casings covering hydraulic muscles glowing light colors of their personality.

Like this little girl Allie, she glows pink age five, harmless to all, not sufficient to live yet, the choice not chosen yet. Yet what is life to a robot, do they have a soul or have emissions or feel if you are like her then maybe you do, why kill her for being a kid, and meeting their standards, the thing wisdoms her stare.

She Looks up and then dragged away like that guy over there to be put down. Nothing but mutter... is life now and so, the children cut off from us... as they run like nude bugs over the play yards.

Doing the test to live or die, what is right for life? They pick it now us, hated her for all these reasons of big and little consequence. The government overturned, they win, and they hated her shiny articulate face, her waiting silence, her thinness, and her possible future. I am a teacher or so they say in the yard now ever looking as they do the teaching or so they say for us, as they know me than me, 'Get away from him it yells!'

The boy gave her another push. 'What're you waiting for he is injected with it and out?' Then, for the first time, she turned and looked at his eyes still open he said goodbye in a quick breath. There are over ten of these in five years groping a day, and up, and what she was waiting for was in her eyes not to look at her in the way, yet they always do. The kids loved her to understand, how they would not meet the ways of the world.

'Well, don't wait around here!' cried the boy savagely. 'You won't see anything!' Her lips moved. 'Nothing!' he cried. 'It was all a joke, wasn't it?' He turned to the other children. 'Nothing's happening today. Is it?' They all bat an eyelid at him and then, understanding laughed and shook their heads, 'Nothing, and nothing!'

It (death) isn't an infection, she said. She might be right. Then again, we've nested in the walls like bacteria. We've taken over the house, its insulation, and its plumbing- we've made it our own. 'Oh, but,' Margot whispered, her eyes helpless. 'But this is the day, the scientists predict, they say, they know, the sun.' Or maybe it's a life that it's the infection: a feverish dream, a hallucination of feelings. Death is a purification, a cleansing, and a cure. A WORK SQUAD of mysteriously- formed

RUBE GOLDBERG ROBOTS resourcefully repairs the street. No human supervision, on any working like building skyscrapers looks at that on so high, it's nuts to me. They have talked over, ALL!!! A ROBOTIC CLEAN-UP CREW.

Lumbering along the sidewalk.

Washing, sweeping. Trash sucking fix... Humanoid ROBOTS peppering the crowd. Following their past owners. Walking slowly, or fast running so going past. Carrying boxes and crap. Requirements, fake facts document cases, and young bodies. She always imagined their voices entangled somewhere in the wires when they spoke, caught up in a grid she didn't fully understand, passing back and forth. Once the calls were disconnected, she imagined the echoes of old conversations would be trapped there, floating back and forth with no exit, like ghosts. 'All a joke!' said the boy, and seized her roughly.

'Hey, all and sundry, let's put her in a clandestine before the teacher comes!'

The NIGHT TRAIN like long memorials dashing toward me a white line in the front red in the back on the up first of seven uppers. Soaring, gravity-defying OFFICE BUILDINGS dominate the skyline. Older buildings wedged among the new. All protected by huge glass and steel shields. As we get closer congested roads and freeways begin to disappear below ground into a series of subterranean tunnels. The oldie highways have become titanic, voluminous arcades. An elevator opens with a hiss steps out into a flavorless passageway.

MY footpaths, hollowing thought the sky rise, which I am now going into out of the death. MY stops at a set of DISPARATE DOORS. Looks over at one, when the other suddenly OPENS with a command. AS yours truly TIMEPIECE THE SCREENS to see the news around the world all the same. The elevator opens and CLINICIAN phases into the metal corridor. In countless VIEWPOINTS. High, low, close-up, wide.

All facts not known to be composed but tight and young to a point. Death is nearing me, I feel that I see that, they want that. ME- watches the doors open to admit me in the rush upwards. The doors slide closed behind him. Then a muffled red laser-ROUND like an endless machine gun I hear kid yells out. I walk and not look, as they tumble down in a lined-up row, all death no reason. Turns back to the screens.

YOU- I gave you an order... you the order not to kill her I ran to the desk, of the hands that run the government, robotics departments. 'Yes- we hear your cries out for help yet that rain the math that we can, or you don't have.'

FREAK YOU!

She has by the tie, I don't see kill your life, that you don't even understand, I think we can see more than enough looking over the wall screens, at the wastes. You killed my baby girl off- Kantilla! The Robot did not us, she was one point away from life, pushed backing towards the door. The gun on my back- go or die.

Killer robots, not of the laws, I never thought it possible.

Shaking in its hand, I see as mothers' cry. Happy for the clean-up as they say. Bodies burnt in a large firebox in the mid-city, see the black smoke for kilometers. Mass-graves are wanted and have been in place now, it's all the same no name to be remembered by, just a large hologram in the full finger, saying lines- as I love you, on your wrist is not life to me or having them here. I am desperate and unclear, be incompatible.

She touches the WALL PANEL making her way back to her appearance in the high rise, without her young life. The doors slide open. The Robot, said I am sorry for your loss today, 'Anything I can do,' as she goes and weeps,

'Yeah FREAK OFF!'

'NO! Need for luggage, or you be put down,' Turning to RUN as the doors begin to shut... 'Then do it ass hole!!!' do you see all the fold up taxies flying by and also lined up changing, I wanted to run a grab one I have played into it for years, ten dollars a day, and everyone one of them you can take and use if you see it? You know them by the yellow glass they have and the bubble and one-person compact coup shape.

Only people that have the many for a grandmaster car or on like it doesn't-use the people's transportation, like the trains. If you have the money for biofuel to run them, and that seven dollars a gallon. You can see the grayness rushing out the side finders. Everything else is an electric, see some war man working man for nothing at the coal mines to keep light up and flying, see them all way down yonder.

It could easily be a robots' job, yet man needs money for their partners, weeding is a thing of the past we just live together regales of sex, we reproduce at age 17 and 19 and, to kids, male and female, if younger or older you have them terminated. They find the right boy at 14 for you yet you say okay if you fall to them.

My girl never has that neither did I thankfully, she may be better off, then live in this world. Robots have they're on the little box-like huller trucks with titanium sides all swoop.

The Robot turns steps out into the metal corridor. To look at her, WEAPON running through her pointing to the floor. Looking out the high-rise, car races up to and down a RAMP slow showing up by the window, you can see a grandmaster in pink, and the roadway becomes a 14- as races in the building, lane underground tunnel system. A river of HEADLIGHTS stretches forever in both directions.

Chapter: 95

Specter

#- sis- #- wannabe!

(Flashback contented)

The rain stopped... they crowded to the huge door. The rain slacked still more. It was as if, amid a film vis-à-vis an inundation, a cyclone, a gale, a volcanic outburst, something had, first, gone wrong with the all-encompassing apparatus, thus deadening and finally spiteful off all noise, all of the blasts and ramifications, and thunders, and then, second, ripped the film from the projector and inserted in its place a beautiful tropical slide which did not move or tremor.

Then, laughing, the turned and went out and back down the tunnel, just as the teacher arrived. 'No,' said Maggie, falling back on to her backside. They surged about her, caught her up being a smart aleck to her, complaining, and then imploring, and then crying, back into a tunnel, an area, a closet, where they slammed and locked the door.

She was frustrated, to say the least. They stood looking at the door and saw it tremble from her beating and throwing herself against it. They heard her muffled cries. 'Ready, Kiddies?' She glanced at her watch. 'Yes, yes we are!' Said everyone or in some way like that.

'Are we there yet?'

‘Yes!’

Decent mood, bad mood, ugly, pretty, beautiful good-looking girl and then him all brilliant out before me like the sun and the night moon, what have you, the right person will still think the sun shines out your ass. That's life, that's the kind of person, that's worth sticking with the world ground to a standstill. The hush was so immense and fantastic that you felt your ears had been stuffed or you had lost your hearing altogether. In my opinion, the best thing you can do is find a person who loves you for exactly what you are.

The sun came out. The children put their hands to their ears. They stood apart. The door slid back and the smell of the silent, waiting world came into them. It was the color of flaming bronze and it was very large. And the sky around it was a blazing blue tile color. And the jungle burned with sunlight as the children, released from their spell, rushed out, yelling into the springtime.

‘Oh, it's improved than the sun up-lighters, exist it?’

‘Nowadays, don't go too far,’ called the teacher after them like wildfire and heat. ‘You've only two hours, you know. You wouldn't want to get jammed out.’ But they were running and turning their faces up to the sky and feeling the sun on their cheeks like a warm iron; they were taking off their jackets and letting the sun burn their arms.

‘Abundant, much recovering the sun!’

It was the shade of neoprene and slag, this rainforest, from the many years without the sun. It was the color of stones and white cheeses and ink, and it was the color of the moon. They stopped running and stood in the great jungle that covered the moon, which nurtured and never stopped growing, peacefully, even as you watched it. The children lay out, laughing, on the jungle mattress, and heard it sigh and squeak under them resilient and alive. It was a layer of octopi, clustering up great arms of bodily tidy, wavering, flowering in this brief mainspring. And so, the lion fell in love with the lamb...’ he murmured... I looked away, hiding my eyes as I thrilled to the word. ‘What ill-advised mutton- what is it what might it be?’ I moaned. Could you repeat that a sick, masochistic lion?

I like the night, and its sky and the moon setting inside. With the dark, we'd never see the stars as the clouds past till now hand and hand looking up on the beach. I decided as long as I'm going to hell, I might as well do it thoroughly. Unfluctuating more, I had never meant to love him. One thing I truly knew- distinguished it in the depths of my belly, in the center of my frames, knew it from the summit of my head to the soles of my feet, and knew it deep in my empty boobs- was how love gave somebody the power to break you... I know love and lust don't always keep the same company. Its nightfall the darkness is so liable, don't you think this, yet I ponder the fact? It's the safest time of day for us. The easiest time, but also the saddest, in a way...the end of another day, the return of the night. I remember it all eye not if it at the same time. No matter how perfect the day is, it always has to end.

Chapter: 96

Damocles

They ran among the trees, they slipped and demolish, they pushed each other, they played hide-and-seek and tag, but furthestmost of all they squinted at the sun until the tears ran down their faces; they put their arrows up to that blueness and that amazing yellowness into gray whiteness, and they breathed of the fresh, fresh air and listened and listened to the silence which suspended them in a blessed sea of no sound and no motion.

Everyone stopped. The girl, standing in the open, held out her hand. They gazed at everything and savored everything. Then, wildly, like animals escaped from their caves, they ran and ran in uproar circles. They ran for an hour and did not stop running and then- of all the midst of their consecutively one of the girls wailed. 'Oh my- wow- oh- look at that WO-ow, gaze, stare,' we all trembling his arm around me at this time. They came sluggishly to look at her un-opened palms.

In the center of it, cupped and huge, was a single raindrop.

She began to cry, looking at it. What is she to me? Except for a hazard a danger, you've chosen to inflict on all of us. They glanced quietly at the sun. 'Oh. Oh. And OH!' A few cold drops fell on their noses and their cheeks and their mouths.

The sun faded behind a stir of mist. His voice is nearly noiseless. He turned to look at me with a wistful manifestation. The wonderful eyes held mine, and I lost my train of believed. I stared at him until he looked away. 'You haven't asked me, with a wind blew cold around them. Are you still fainting from the run? Or was it my kissing expertise? They turned and started to walk back toward the anti-establishment house, their hands at their sides, their smiles vanishing away.

Lightning struck... A flourishing of thunder startled them and like leaves before a new hurricane, they stumbled upon each other and ran. Ten miles away, five miles away, a mile, a half-mile. The sky darkened into midnight in a flash. They stood in the doorway of the underground for a moment until it was raining hard. Then they closed the door and heard the gigantic sound of the rain falling in heaps and falls, everywhere and forever. 'Will it be seven more years, till?'

'Yes. Seven.' Then one of them gave a little cry.'

You- her- she- Karly! 'What?' 'She's still in the closet where we locked her.' They stood as if someone had driven them, like so many stakes, into the floor. They observed at each other and then beheld and looked away. They could not encounter each other's glimpses. They glanced out at the world that was raining now and drizzling and raining progressively.

IT'S ALL RUNNING OUT OF ME!

It's a -Full moon...

I FELT LIKE I WAS IMPRISONED IN ONE OF THOSE CHILLING... hallucinations, the one where you have to run, trip until my lungs would surely burst to my heartbeat, but you can't make your body move fast enough nor your breath to your heart. Holding it all in... My legs seemed to move sluggish, leisure- liner and dawdling as I clashed my way finished the callous horde, but the hands-on the huge like timepiece of the tower didn't slow me the way. With unyielding, heartless strength, they turned inescapably in the direction of the termination of the whole thing.

I have to say more, more needs to be said, my life has to go on, I have to get those days back, I have too. They up or down there will not stop me from doing just that. But this was no dream, and, unlike the nightmare, I wasn't running for my life like always; run for them or agents, run to him and they yet run away, I was battling to save something substantially more prized, valued, and treasured. My own life meant little more than most in the past to me nowadays then way back in- between or before and now. The clock ding-donged again, and the sun beat miserable from the particular center argument of the heavens.

Olivia had said- Thus it did not substance to me that we were enclosed by our particularly dangerous opponents. 'There was a good chance we would both die here someday up on this thing looking at the new moon. Perchance the aftermath would be unlike if she weren't trapped by the brilliant sunlight or midnight moon, solitary I was free to run across this bright jam-packed quadrangular; as well as I might not run speedily amply. As the clock began to ring out the hour, vibrant less than the soles of my lethargic bottoms, I knew I was too nighttime- and I was glad something murderous waited in the dark wings. For in failing at this, I forfeited any desire to live.

Chapter: 97

GET-TOGETHER

SURE, I WAS- dreaming- yes, I was maybe not- why? It could be all.

The whys and wherefores, I was so unsure where that primary, I was stand-up in a lively channel of sunbeams- the sympathetic of extraordinary strong rays that never be skilled at on my wet new hometown in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, I was looking at my dad. Like you hadn't changed much; his face looked just the same as I remembered it. Some years move on and I get out of that place I was in, I go looking for him, I did not know what I would find, yet my dad was the first step towards the way like following the moon at night.

I remember now him- the crust was soft and emaciated, bent into a- many miniature wrinkles that hugged moderately to the maxilla beneath. Like a dehydrated apricot, but with a wisp of profuse silver hair standing out in a mist around it. Our doorways- hers a crinkly picker-blowout into the same flabbergasted demi-beam at just the same time as I. Ostensibly, she makes certain been expecting to see me, one or the other.

On the other hand, she opened her mouth when I did, so I stopped to let her go first. She paused, too, and then we emo- smiled at the little gracelessness. I was about to ask her a question; I had so many-what was she doing here in my dream? What had she been up to in the past six years? Was popular okay, and had they found each other, everywhere they were?

'Karly!'

I was awake or asleep... or even dead, I'd bet. The voice I'd walk through fire for-or, less dramatically, slosh every day through the cold and endless rain for, Marcel; It wasn't the dad who called my name, and we both turned to see the accumulation to our small reunion. I didn't have to look to know who it was; this was a voice, I would know anywhere- know, and retort to, whether even though I was always electrified to see him- mindful or otherwise-and even though I was almost positive that I was dreaming, I lose your nerve as Marcel walked toward us through the conspicuous sunlight.

I freak out because dad didn't be acquainted with, that I was in love with an angel- nobody knew that- so how was I personally, hypothetical to give details the fact that the wonderful sunbeams where shattering off his skin into a thousand polychromatic ruins like he was made of diamond or crystal-like in the rain? Well, dad, you might have noticed that my girlfriend gleams in white. It's just something she does... in her glow for only me. Don't disquiet about it... you would not understand he still thinks; I sound senseless- even if I know she is true.

~*~

What was his responsibility? In that subsequent, I wanted that I was not the one omission to his mysterious talent; I usually felt appreciative that I was the only person whose thoughts he couldn't hear just as clearly as if they were spoken aloud.

The in one piece of purpose he lived in Pittsburgh, the rainiest place in the world, was so that he could be outside in the daytime without exposing his family's secret.

Marcel- still smiling so strikingly that my heart, felt like it was going to swell up and burst through my container- put his arm around my- assume and turned to face my mother. Up until now here he was, strolling charmingly toward me- with the most fine-looking smile on his seraph's face- like hers in the night as if I were the only one here. But now I wished he could hear me, too, so that he could listen to the warning, I was earsplitting in my skull. I shot a panicked glance back at my dad and saw that it was too late at night.

My dad's manifestation surprised me. She was just turning to stare back at me, her eyes as alarmed as mine. I promise to love you forever- never- ever- ever, important go not one solo day of forever. Does it bother you, me being half-naked all the time I was thinking to myself, like me dressing like this? Simply then, as I looked at the better- quality picture, did I warn the huge gilt frame that enclosed my mother's method.

~*~

She copycatted the effort exactly, mirrored it. But where our fingers should have met, there was nothing but cold glass... With a dizzying thunderbolt, my hallucination abruptly turns out to be horrendous. There was no dad here for me at this time yet, I knew he would be there for me if I needed him. Instead of looking depressed, she was staring at my self- consciously, as if waiting for an admonishment. Besides she was standing in such an outlandish position- single arm held awkwardly away from her body, stretched out and then curled around the air.

Like she had her arm around someone I couldn't see, someone invisible... Inexpressive, I raised the hand that wasn't wrapped around Marcel's waist and reached out to touch her. That be there me, I in a stand- up in the glass looking am I, in my opinion, and myself looking back by me. Me- prehistoric, wrinkled, and faded. Marcel stood beside me, casting no reflection, agonizingly lovely and forever fourteen. He pressed his freezing, perfect lips against my wasted cheek and hands-on my backside all at once.

'Happy birthday,' he whispered. It was my birthday all right- 'I wanted my birthday sex!' I woke with start-my eyelids nipping open wide- and wheezed. Cloudy gray light, the used to the light of a gloomy morning, took the place of the blinding sun in my daydream. I coveted you. I had no right to want you- but then again yours truly reached out and took you anyway. And now look what's become of you! Trying to seduce an angel. As well as the all-encompassing of your heart,' he continuous.

'It's the most significant sound in my biosphere. I'm so attuned to it now; I curse I could pick it out from miles away. But neither of these things matter. This,' he said, taking my face in his small hand. 'You. That's what I'm keeping. You'll always be my Karly, you'll just be a little more durable just a dream, Dream happy dreams. You are the only one who has ever touched my heart. It will always be yours.

All through the perfect summer- the happiest summer I had ever had, the happiest summer anyone anywhere had ever had, and the rainiest summer in the history of the Olympic Cape- this bleak date had lurked in ambush, waiting to spring. Sleep, my only love or so I feel that it is like not eating is my next. I told myself. It was only a hallucination or a daydream into a nightmare. I took a deep inhalation and then hurdled again when my alarm went off like always. The little schedule in the angle of the clock's display knowledgeable me that today was September thirteenth. Only a dream, but far- nearsighted enough in one way, at a minimum.

Today was my birthday. I was officially eighteen years old. I have personally been being terrified of this day for months, and longer or more than that even. In addition to knowing that it had hit, it was even of inferior quality than I for one to be afraid of it would be present. I could feel it- I was adult, every day I got grown- up more than the last, but this was dissimilar, worse, inferior, shoddier, poorer, not as good as, and eviler than they.

Measurable... was I- fourteen.

Me- my- eyebrows hang-up about wedged in a worried line, over my nervous brown eyes. Besides Marcel never- ever would be all mine, nor did I see it being that way, on that day at the time, in that year at the moment in the flashback. When I went to brush my teeth, I was almost surprised that the face in the mirror hadn't changed. It was just a dream, I reminded myself again, just at freaked up dream, crap, piss, just freaking crap! Just a dream- God- A- crap... but also my worst nightmarish thing-ie. You detained out your hand out at me, and I took it shorn of bringing to an end to make intelligence of what I for one set upright doing.

Aimed at the original time in nearly a period, I touched courage.

Crap- I skipped breakfast, in a hurry to get out of the house as quickly as a freak. I wasn't entirely able to avoid my dad, and so I had to spend a few minutes acting cheerful, myself didn't give a freak at that either, crap- suck- and freak a p*ssy!

He- he- p*ssy farts!

Chapter: 98

Feel the inside of me

Don't you just loooooovvvveeee here she's so-ooo -like me!- #- sis!

Look at this photo of the past- not like mine either!

You saw how I was remembered... what did you think?

(Story)

Cave of wonders her vajaja, and the one next to it all the girl there in their seats- I honestly tried to be excited about the gifts, I for one requested him not to get me, but every time I had to smile, it felt like I might start crying.

HOLY Soggy box- I struggled to get a grip on myself as I drove to school. The vision of Gran-I would not think of it as me-was hard to get out of my head. I couldn't feel anything but despair until I pulled into the familiar parking lot behind

Pitt- Clit High and spotted Marcel leaning motionlessly against his polished silver Volvo, like a marble tribute to some forgotten pagan god of beauty.

Titties- I stared at myself, looking for some sign of impending wrinkles in my ivory skin. The only creases were the ones on my forehead, though, and I knew that if I could manage to relax, they would disappear. I couldn't...

He- he- I said pitt- cl*t- and t*ts!

Well they go together don't they...? make the beast with two backs-

Hand on d*ick- and his winner there in my mind- The dream had not completed him justice. And he was in the making there for me, just the same as every other day. Hopelessness momentarily missing; wonder took its place. Even after half a year with him, I still couldn't believe that I deserved this degree of good fortune. The sight of sis waiting there- her tawny eyes brilliant with excitement, and a small silver-wrapped square in her hands- made me frown. I for one told Kellie, I didn't want no matter which for anything, not gifts or even attention, for my birthday. Understandably, my wishes were being passed over.

My ass of a sister Kellie was standing by his side, waiting for me, too. So not cool, so not- crap- b*tch, Of course, Marcel and she weren't related (in Pittsburgh the story was that all the Cullen siblings were adopted by Dr. Parlis and his wife, Ilsmel, both too young to have teenage children), but their skin was precisely the same pale shade, their eyes had the same strange golden tint, with the same deep, bruise-like shadows beneath them. Her face, like his, was also startlingly beautiful. To celebrity in the know- big shot like me- these resemblances marked them for what they remained. I see Mr. King in class today saying- 'How's it hanging!' he was struggling some poop freaker.

(That man over there- look... with that again you get it he yells crap out not saying anything like- but butt-pug and crap with piss and honey whole beeped out- run of words here- that he said ending with hamburger. We Have to keep it PG- 13 here, more for mom and dad; so- they don't freaking crap themselves, yet the teenagers, feel it's all good. -Yeah, suck on this crap- MR. KING! SEXY is it NOT? It's good crap... is it not? Here is my pooper scooper. Good boy!)

Mr. King is barking at kids again, I said looking at Olivia! He's nuts-o and sometimes creepy. Butt-poop-ie- I slammed the door of my 50 Nash- a burst of rust specks trembled down to the wet blacktop-and walked slowly toward where they waited. Olivia skipped forward to meet me, her fairy face glowing under her spiky black hair.

‘Shh-it!’ I whispered, glancing around the lot to make sure no one had overheard her. The last thing, I wanted to be some kind of celebration of the obscure event. She ignored me. ‘Do you want to sweep your present now or later?’ She asked eagerly as we made our way to where Marcel still waited.

Olivia would have ‘seen’ what my parents were planning as soon as they'd decided that themselves. ‘Nope no presents- no mothers and dad either damn.’ I moaned in a murmur. She finally seemed to process my mood. ‘Satisfactory... later, then. Did you like the notebook your mom sent you, as well as the phone from daddy?’ I groaned and felt the crap inside me move downwards, that duping feeling and crap- of course, she would know what my birthday presents where. Marcel wasn't the only member of his family with few and far between skills of random crap.

‘Yeah, they are awesome, grand, and everything, I wanted- freak, not.’

‘I think it's a nice idea. You're only a senior once. Might as well document the experience.’ ‘How numerous times have you been a senior or backward in life?’ ‘That's different to me yet the same it's all the same yet not it's rolling off me like water or something else that is thicker. Not all blood do I have coming out of me.’ ‘I am one- down with your bad-self, kick-ass emo- chick!’

We reached Marcel then at that point in the room, in that place, here now, and there, we looked, we saw, it was, he held out his hand for mine. I took it eagerly, forgetting, for a moment, my glum mood. His skin was, as always, smooth, hard, and very cold. He gave my fingers a gentle squeeze. I looked into his liquid eyes, and my heart gave a not-quite-so-gentle squeeze of its own. Hearing the stutter in my heartbeats, he smiled again.

He lifted his free hand and traced one cool fingertip around the outside of my lips as he spoke. ‘So, as discussed, I am not allowed to wish you a happy birthday, is that correct?’ ‘You know I love you right?’

‘I know,’ he breathed, his arm tightening automatically around my waist.

‘You know how much I wish it was enough.’ ‘Naturally, that is truthful.’ I could never quite mimic the flow of his perfect, formal articulation. It was something that could only be picked up in an earlier century.

‘Just checking.’ He ran his hand through his tousled bronze hair. ‘You might have changed your mind. Most people seem to enjoy things like birthdays and gifts.’

Olivia laughed, and the sound was all silver, a wind chime. ‘Of course, you’ll enjoy it. Everyone is supposed to be nice to you today and give you your way, Kar. What’s the worst that could happen?’ She inescapable it as a linguistic interrogation.

‘I am getting older and wiser every mother- freaking day- mother,’ Dad- I answered anyway, and my voice was not as steady as I wanted it to be. Nevertheless, I said that in front of her so points for me. She was so pissed you would not get it... if you tried too.

Beside me, Marcel’s smile tenses up into a solid line. Like I am freaking, love this butt- a cute crazy girl! ‘Fourteen ain’t even that- very old,’ Olivia said. Marcel- ‘Good grammar,’ he said out loud to her nuzzled to me. ‘Don’t girls usually wait till they’re twenty to get upset over birthdays?’ I going to die in a year of old age- oh no!

‘It’s older than Marcel,’ I mumbled.

He sighed. Not as the pad you have on that I can whiff in the durable form right smack- dab- here.

‘Gross! A-hole!’ said Liv.

Hard to Let Go

Chapter: 99

‘Technically,’ she said, gripping her tone knowledge. ‘Simply by one little year, though.’

And I understood... if I could be sure of the expectation I required, sure that I would get to spend always with Marcel, and Olivia and the rest of the Barn’s like my little sis Kattie- may, she is on three, (willingly not as a wrinkled tiny old lady...) at that following a year or two one course or the other wouldn't matter to me so considerably.

Then Marcel was inanimate set corresponding any future that changed me.

Inconsiderably future that made me like him- that made me immortal, extravagantly.

You are protected inside your consciousness. Not one can reach you there. Or so I believed was true- until this time, I should live over and over, like the day before it, the same yet not so. A dead-end, he baptized this.

I couldn't see Marcel's point, to be accurate. What was so numerous about destruction? Being angel didn't look like such a terrible thing-not the way the Barn's did it, nevertheless.

‘What point will you be at home?’ Olivia declared, changing the subject. Of her profile, she was up to stipulate the kind of thing I'd been dreaming to elude.

‘I didn't recognize I had layouts to be there.’

‘Oh, be fair, Bell!’ She bellowed. ‘You aren't going to exhaust all our entertainment like that, are you?’

‘I revived my birthday was about what I demand.’

‘I'll get her from Mr. Anderson's right after school, ‘Marcel told her, disregarding me collectively.

‘I have to work,’ I complained.

‘You don't, truly,’ Olivia informed me smugly.

‘I previously spoke to Mrs. Newton of such... She's trading your shifts. She spoke to inform you she wishes you a: 'Happy Birthday.'"

‘I- yet can't come over,’ I resolved, clambering for an excuse. ‘I, well, I mustn't watch Romeo and Juliet yet for English.’

Olivia squealed, ‘You have Romeo and Juliet memorized.’

‘Although Mr. Smith proclaimed, we obliged to notice it performed to thoroughly acknowledge it that's how Shakespeare intended it to be presented.’

Marcel rolled his eyes.

‘You've already seen the movie,’ Olivia accused.

‘Although not the nineteen-sixties version. Mr. Smith said it was the best.’

Subsequently, Olivia lost the self-satisfied smile and glared at me.

‘This can be obvious, or this can be troublesome, Bell, but one way or the others’

Marcel interrupted her threat. ‘Relax, Olivia. If Karly wants to watch a movie, then she can. It's her birthday.’

‘So there,’ I added.

‘I'll bring her over around seven,’ he continued. ‘That will give you more time to set up.’

Olivia's howling sounded again. ‘Sounds immeasurable good. See you tonight, Bell! It'll be fun, you'll see.’ She grinned- the wide smile revealed all her perfect, glistening teeth-then pecked me on the cheek and danced off moving her first class before I could respond.

‘Marcel, please-’ I started to beg, but he clasped one crisp finger to my lips.

‘Let's review it later. We're going to be late for school.’

No one bothered to stare at us as we took our representative seats in the back of the classroom (we should almost every class together now-it was amazing the favors Marcel could get the female administrators to do for him.)

Marcel and I had been together too long now to be an object of gossip anymore. Even Lance didn't bother to give me the glum stare that used to make me feel a little guilty.

He smirked now alternatively, and I was glad he had trusted that we could only be friends.

Lance had developed over the summer-his face had lost some of the completeness, making his cheekbones more outstanding, and he was diminishing his pale blond hair a new way; alternatively, of bristly, it was exceptional and gelled into strictly inconsistent disarray.

It was simple to see where his stimulus came from- but Marcel's look wasn't something that could be delivered through imitation.

As the day continued, I contemplated ways to get out of whatever was going down at the Natalie house later.

It would be bad enough to have to celebrate when I was in the mood to mourn. Nevertheless, more dangerous than that, this was sure to involve attention and benefits.

Chapter: 100

Wishes

Mindfulness is nevermore a good thing, as any other accident-prone fumbler would accept. No one wants a floodlight when they're likely to stumble on their face.

Moreover, I would extremely pointedly be asked- well, ordered really-that no one give me any presents this year. It seemed like Mr. Anderson and Ayanna weren't the only ones who had decided to overlook that.

I would have never had much wealth, furthermore, that had nevermore disturbed me. Ayanna had raised me on a kindergarten teacher's wage.

Mr. Anderson wasn't getting rich at his job, either he was the police chief here in the tiny town of Pittsburgh.

My only personal revenue came from the four days a week I worked at the local Goodwill store. In a borough this small, I was blessed to have a career, after all the viruses in the world today having everything shout down.

Every cent I gained went into my diminutive university endowment at SNHU online.

(College transpired like nothing more than a Plan B. I was still dreaming for Plan A; however, Marcel was just so unreasonable about leaving me, mortal.)

Marcel ought to have a lot of funds I didn't even want to think about how much. Cash involved alongside to oblivion to Marcel or the rest of the Barns, like Karly saying she never had anything yet walked away with it all.

It was just something that swelled when you had extensive time on your hands and a sister who had an uncanny ability to predict trends in the stock market.

Marcel didn't seem to explain why I objected to him spending bills on me, why it made me miserable if he brought me to an overpriced establishment in Los Angeles, why he wasn't allowed to buy me a car that could reach speeds over fifty miles an hour, approximately how? I wouldn't let him pay my university tuition (he was ridiculously enthusiastic about Plan B.)

Marcel believed I was being gratuitously difficult.

Although, how could I let him give me things when I had nothing to retaliate amidst?

He, for some amazing incomprehensible understanding, wanted to be with me. Anything he gave me on top of that just propelled us more out of balance.

As the day went on, neither Marcel nor Olivia brought my birthday up again, and I began to relax a little.

Then we sat at our usual table for lunch.

An unfamiliar kind of break survived at that table. The three of us, Marcel, Olivia, including myself hunkered down on the steep southerly end of the table. Now that the 'superb' and scarier (in Emmah's case, unquestionably.)

The Natalie siblings had finished we were gazing at them they're so odd, Olivia and Marcel arranged not to seem quite so intimidating, and we did not sit here alone.

My other compatriots, Lance, and Mikaela (who were in the uncomfortable post-breakup association phase,) Mollie and Sam (whose involvement had endured the summertime...)

Tim, Kaylah, Skylar, and Sophie (though that last one didn't count in the friend category.)

Completely assembled at the same table, on the other side of an interchangeable line.

That line softened on sunshiny days when Marcel and Olivia continuously skipped school times before there was Karly, and then the discussion would swell out effortlessly to incorporate me.

Marcel and Olivia didn't find this minor elimination fragmentary or dangerous the way I would hold.

They scarcely noticed this at all.

Characters always felt remarkably hostile at leisure with the Barn's, around anxious for some purpose they couldn't justify to themselves.

I implied a unique exemption to that precept. Seldom it confused Marcel whence very satisfied I was withstanding adjacent to him.

He deemed he was dangerous to my health-a feeling I rejected vehemently whenever he uttered that.

The midday moved briskly.

School completed, and Marcel walked me to my truck as he customarily prepared. Disregarding this time, he held the pilgrim entrance open for me. Olivia must have obtained using his automobile home so that he could restrain me from making a charge for this.

I wrapped my arms and performed no move to get out of the downpour. 'It's my birthday, don't I get to drive?'

'I'm faking it's not your birthday, just as you yearned.'

'If it's not my birthday, then I don't have to proceed to your home later...'

'All right,' He closed the passenger door and shuffled past me to open the driver's side. 'Happy birthday.'

'Sh-h,' I shushed him halfheartedly. I climbed through the opened door, begging he'd exercised the other suggestion.

Marcel played with the radio while I drove, shaking his head in dissatisfaction.

'Your radio has awful treatments.'

I scowled; I didn't like it when he picked on my truck. The truck was transcendent in its nature.

'You want a pleasant stereo? Drive your vehicle.' I was so annoyed about Olivia's plans, on top of my already discouraged feeling, that the words came out sharper than I'd anticipated them.

I was barely ever bad-tempered with Marcel, and my tone made him press his lips together to keep from smiling.

When I parked in front of Mr. Anderson's house, he stretched over to take my face in his hands.

He handled me very thoroughly, touching just the tips of his fingers softly against my temples, my cheekbones, my jawline. Like I was exceptionally breakable.

Which was specifically the case-compared with him, at most limited.

'You should be in a good mood, today of all days,' he muttered.

His unseasoned breath fanned across my face.

'Moreover, if I don't want to be in a good mood?' I asked, my breathing irregular.

His golden eyes smoldered. 'Too bad.'

My head was already spinning by the time he leaned closer and pressed his icy lips against mine. As he intended, no doubt, I forgot all about my worries and concentrated on remembering how to inhale and exhale.

His mouth lingered on mine, cold and smooth and gentle until I wrapped my arms around his neck and threw myself into the kiss with a little too much enthusiasm. I could feel his lips curve upward as he let go of my face and reached back to unlock my grip on him.

Marcel had drawn many careful lines for our physical relationship, with the intent being to keep me alive. Though I respected the need for maintaining a safe distance between my skin and his razor-sharp, venom-coated teeth, I tended to forget about trivial things like that when he was kissing me.

‘Be good, please,’ he breathed against my cheek. He pressed his lips gently to mine one more time and then pulled away, folding my arms across my stomach.

My pulse was thudding in my ears. I put one hand over my heart. It drummed hyperactivity under my palm.

‘Do you think I'll ever get better at this?’ I wondered, mostly to myself. ‘That my heart might someday stop trying to jump out of my chest whenever you touch me?’

‘I hope not,’ he said, a bit smug.

I rolled my eyes. ‘Let's go watch the Capulets and Montagues hack each other up, all right?’

‘Your wish, my command.’

Marcel sprawled on the couch while I started the movie, fast-forwarding through the opening credits.

When I perched on the edge of the sofa in front of him, he wrapped his arms around my waist and pulled me against his chest. It wasn't exactly as comfortable as a sofa cushion would be, what with his chest being hard and cold-and perfect-as an ice sculpture, but it was preferable. He pulled the old afghan off the back of the couch and draped it over me, so I wouldn't freeze beside his body.

‘You know, I've never had much patience with Romeo,’ he commented as the movie started.

‘What's wrong with Romeo?’ I asked, a little offended. Romeo was one of my favorite fictional characters. Until I'd met Marcel, I'd had a thing for him.

‘Well, first, he's in love with this Rosaline-don't you think it makes him seem a little fickle? And then, a few minutes after their wedding, he kills Juliet's cousin. That's not very brilliant. Mistake after mistake. Could he have destroyed his happiness any more thoroughly?’

I sighed. ‘Do you want me to watch this alone?’

‘No, I’ll mostly be watching you, anyway.’ His fingers traced patterns across the skin of my arm, raising goosebumps. ‘Will you cry?’

‘Probably,’ I admitted, ‘if I’m paying attention.’

‘I won’t distract you then.’ But I felt his lips on my hair, and it was very distracting.

The movie eventually captured my interest, thanks in large part to Marcel whispering Romeo’s lines in my ear-his irresistible, velvet voice made the actor’s voice sound weak and coarse by comparison. And I did cry, to his amusement, when Juliet woke and found her new husband dead.

‘I’ll admit, I do sort of envy him here,’ Marcel said, drying the tears with a lock of my hair.

‘She’s very pretty.’

He made a disgusted sound. ‘I don’t envy him the girl-just the ease of the suicide,’ he clarified in a teasing tone. ‘You humans have it so easy! All you have to do is throw down one tiny vial of plant extracts...’ ‘What?’ I gasped.

‘It’s something I had to think about once, and I knew from Chiaz’s experience that it wouldn’t be simple. I’m not even sure how many ways Chiaz tried to kill himself in the beginning... after he realized what he’d become...’ His voice, which had grown serious, turned light again. ‘And he’s still in excellent health.’

I twisted around so that I could read his face. ‘What are you talking about?’

I demanded. ‘What do you mean, this something you had to think about once?’

‘Last spring, when you were... nearly killed...’ He paused to take a deep breath, snuggling to return to his teasing tone. ‘Of course, I was trying to focus on finding you alive, but part of my mind was making contingency plans. As I said, it’s not as easy for me as it is for a human.’

For one second, the memory of my last trip to Phoenix washed over my head and made me feel dizzy. I could see it all so clearly-the blinding sun, the heat waves coming off the concrete as I ran with desperate haste to find the sadistic angel who wanted to torture me to death. James, waiting in the mirrored room with my mother as his hostage-or so I’d thought. I hadn’t known it was all a ruse. Just as James hadn't known that Marcel was racing to save me; Marcel made it in time, but it had been a close one. Unthinkingly, my fingers traced the crescent-shaped scar on my hand that was always just a few degrees cooler than the rest of my skin.

I shook my head as if I could shake away the bad memories-and tried to grasp what Marcel meant. My stomach plunged uncomfortably. 'Contingency plans?' I repeated.

'Well, I wasn't going to live without you.' He rolled his eyes as if that fact were childishly obvious. 'But I wasn't sure how to do it- I knew Emmah and Joh would never help... so I was thinking maybe I would go to Italy and do something to provoke the Ministry.'

I didn't want to believe he was serious, but his golden eyes were brooding, focused on something far away in the distance as he contemplated ways to end his own life. Abruptly, I was furious.

'What is Vulture?' I demanded.

'The Ministry is a family,' he explained, his eyes still remote. 'A very old, very powerful family of our kind. They are the closest thing our world has to a royal family, I suppose. Chiaz lived with them briefly in his early years, in Italy, before he settled in America-do you remember the story?'

'Of course, I remember.'

I would never forget the first time I'd gone to his home, the huge white mansion buried deep in the forest beside the river, or the room where Chiaz Marcel's father in so many real ways-kept a wall of paintings that illustrated his personal history. The most vivid, most wildly colorful canvas there, the largest, was from Chiaz's time in Italy.

Of course, I remembered the calm quartet of men, each with the exquisite face of a seraph, painted into the highest balcony overlooking the swirling mayhem of color. Though the painting was centuries old, Chiaz-the blond angel-remained unchanged. And I remembered the three others, Chiaz's early acquaintances. Marcel had never used the name Ministry for the beautiful trio, two black-haired, one snow white. He'd called them Aron, Caius, and Marcellus, nighttime patrons of the arts...

‘Anyway, you don't irritate the vulture,’ Marcel went on, interrupting ray reverie. ‘Not unless you want to die-or whatever it is we do.’ His voice was so calm, it made him sound almost bored by the prospect.

My anger turned to horror. I took his marble face between my hands and held it very tightly.

‘You must never, never, never think of anything like that again!’ I said. ‘No matter what might ever happen to me, you are not allowed to hurt yourself!’

‘I'll never put you in danger again, so it's a moot point.’

‘Put me in danger! I thought we'd established that all the bad luck is my fault?’ I was getting angrier. ‘How dare you even think like that?’ The idea of Marcel ceasing to exist, even if I were dead, was impossibly painful.

‘What would you do, if the situation were reversed?’ He asked.

‘That's not the same thing.’

He didn't seem to understand the difference. He chuckled.

‘What if something did happen to you?’ I blanched at the thought. ‘Would you want me to go off myself?’

A trace of pain touched his perfect features.

‘I guess I see your point... a little,’ he admitted. ‘But what would I do without you?’

‘Whatever you were doing before I came along and complicated your existence.’

He sighed. ‘You make that sound so easy.’

‘It should be. I'm not that interesting.’

He was about to argue, but then he let it go. ‘Moot point,’ he reminded me. Abruptly, he pulled himself up into a more formal posture, shifting me to the side so that we were no longer touching.

‘Mr. Anderson?’ I guessed.

Marcel smiled. After a moment, I heard the police cruiser pulling into the driveway. I reached out and took his hand firmly. My dad could deal with that much.

Mr. Anderson came in with a pizza box in his hands.

‘Hey, kids.’ He grinned at me. ‘I thought you'd like a break from cooking and washing dishes for your birthday. Hungry?’

‘Sure. Thanks, Dad.’

Mr. Anderson didn't mention Marcel's obvious lack of appetite. He was used to Marcel passing on dinner.

‘Do you mind if I borrow Karly for the evening?’ Marcel asked when Mr. Anderson and I were done.

I saw at Mr. Anderson. Maybe he had some concept of birthdays as stay-at-home, family affairs-this was my first birthday with him, the first birthday since my mom, Ayanna had remarried and gone to live in Amelia Island, so I didn't know what he would expect.

‘That's fine-the Navigators are playing the Sox tonight,’ Mr. Anderson explained, and my hope disappeared. ‘Accordingly, I won't be any kind of partnership... Hereabouts.’ He scooped up the camera he'd gotten me on Ayanna's scheme (because I would need pictures to fill up my scrapbook,) furthermore threw it to me.

He ought to know better than That-I'd always been coordinatively questioned. The camera brushed off the tip of my finger and tumbled toward the floor. Marcel snagged it before it could collapse onto the Congoleum.

‘Nice save,’ Mr. Anderson noted. ‘If they're doing something fun at the Barn's' later, Bell, you should take some pictures. You know how your mother gets she'll be wanting to see the pictures faster than you can take them.’

‘Good idea, Mr. Anderson,’ Marcel said, handing me the camera.

Pictures

I turned the camera on Marcel and snapped the first picture. ‘It works.’

‘That's immeasurable. Hey, say hi to Olivia for me. She hasn't been over for a while.’ Mr. Anderson’s mouth pulled down at one corner.

‘It's been three days, Dad,’ I mentioned him. Mr. Anderson was crazed regarding Olivia. He'd convert added last may if she'd helped me through my cumbersome convalescence; Mr. Anderson would be forever beholden to her for saving him from the horror of an almost-adult daughter which required help showering. ‘I'll tell her.’

‘Okay, all youngsters have fun later.’ It was a dismissal. Mr. Anderson was already edging toward the living room furthermore the TV.

Marcel beamed, champion, and took my hand to pull me from the kitchen.

When we got to the truck, he opened the passenger door for me again, and this time I didn't argue.

I still had a tough time finding the obscure turnoff to his house in the nightfall.

Marcel drove north within Pittsburgh, visibly chafing at the speed limit required by my ancient Chevy.

The engine groaned even louder than usual as he pushed it over fifty.

‘Take it easy,’ I warned him, I say.

‘You know what you would love? A nice little coupe. Very quiet, lots of power...’

‘There's nothing wrong with my truck. And speaking of expensive nonessentials, if you know what's good for you, you didn't spend any money on birthday presents.’

‘Not a dime,’ he replied virtuously.

‘Satisfying.’

‘Can you do me a kindness?’

‘That depends on what it is.’

He sighed- his lovely face serious. ‘Bell, the last real birthday any of us had was Emmah in 1934. Cut us a little slack, and don't be too ambitious later. They're all very passionate.’

It always surprised me a little when he brought up stuff like that. ‘Exceptional, I'll act.’

‘I probably should warn you...’

‘Delighted.’

‘When I say they're all excited... I do mean all of them.’

‘Everyone?’ I gasped. ‘I thought Emmah and Rose were in Cape Verde.’

The rest of Pittsburgh was under the hypothesis that the older Barn’s had gone off to college this year, to Dartmouth, but I knew better. ‘Emmah wanted to be here.’

‘Nevertheless... Rose?’

‘I know, Bell, like don't disturb, she'll be on her most vigorous behavior.’

I didn't answer. Like I could simply not despair, that straightforwardly. Unlike Olivia, Marcel’s other ‘adopted’ sister, the golden blond and lovely Rose didn't like me much.

The feeling was a little bit stronger than just objection. As far as Rose was affected, I was an undesirable intruder into her family's mysterious behavior.

I felt guilty about the present circumstances, suggesting that Rose and Emmah's continued absence was my responsibility, also as I furtively relished not having to see her Emmah, Marcel’s playful bear of a brother, I did miss.

He was in many ways just like the elder brother I would always want... only much, much stronger and to be terrifying.

Marcel decided to change the question.

‘Therefore, if you won't let me get you the Cadillac, isn't there anything that you'd like for your birthday?’

The messages spread out in a disclosure. ‘You know what I want.’

A profound frown carved creases into his marble forehead. He wished he'd stuck to the subject of Rose.

It felt like we'd had this argument a lot today.

‘Not tonight, Bell, please.’

‘Well, maybe Olivia will give me what I want.’

Marcel growled a deep, menacing sound. 'This isn't going to be your last birthday, Bell,' he promised. 'That's not fair!'

I thought I heard his teeth clench together.

We were pulling up to the house now. A bright light shined from every window on the first two floors. An extended line of gleaming Chinese lanterns hung from the porch eaves, reflecting a soft radiance on the huge cedars that surrounded the house. Big bowls of flowers-pink roses-lined the wide stairs up to the front doors.

I moaned...

Marcel took a few deep inhalations to tranquilize himself. 'This is a party,' he reminded me. 'Try to be a good sport.'

'Certainly,' I muttered...

He came around to get my door and offered me his hand.

'I have a question.'

He waited warily.

'If I develop this film,' I said, toying with the camera in my hands, 'will you show up in the film?'

Marcel started laughing. He helped me out of the car, pulled me up the stairs, and was still laughing as he opened the door for me.

They were all set in the huge white living room; when I walked through the door, they greeted me with a loud chorus of 'Happy birthday, Bell!' while I blushed and looked down. Olivia, I assumed, had covered every flat surface with pink candles and dozens of crystal bowls filled with hundreds of roses. There was a table with a white cloth draped over it next to Marcel's grand piano, holding a pink birthday cake, more roses, a stack of glass plates, and a small pile of gold-wrapped gifts.

It was a hundred times worse than I'd imagined.

Marcel, sensing my distress, wrapped an encouraging arm around my waist and kissed the top of my head.

Marcel's parents, Chiaz and Esme-impossibly youthful and lovely as everywhere the closest to the door. Esme hugged me carefully, her soft, caramel-colored hair brushing against my cheek as she kissed my forehead, and then Chiaz put his arm around my shoulders.

'Sorry about this, Bell,' he stage-whispered. 'We couldn't rein Olivia in.'

Rose and Emmah attained behind them. Rose didn't smile, but at least she didn't frown. Emmah's face was stretched into a huge grin. It had been months following,

I'd seen them; I'd forgotten how gloriously wonderful Rose was-it almost hurt to look at her. And had Emmah always been so... consequential?

'You haven't changed at all,' Emmah said with mock disappointment. 'I expected a perceptible difference, but here you are, red-faced just like always.'

'Thanks a lot, Emmah,' I said, blushing deeper.

He laughed, 'I have to step out for a second'-he paused to wink conspicuously at Olivia-'don't do anything funny while I'm gone.'

'I'll try.'

Olivia let go of Joh's hand and skipped forward, all her teeth sparkling in the bright light. Joh grinned, too, but kept his distance. He pitched long and blond-haired person, upon the post at the foot of the stairs. Throughout the days we'd had to spend cooped up together in California, I'd thought he'd gotten over his aversion to me. But he'd gone back to exactly how he'd acted before avoiding me as much as possible the moment he was free from that transient responsibility to shield me. I knew it wasn't personal, just a precaution, and I tried not to be overly sensitive about it. Joh had more struggle attaching to the Barn's' diet than the rest of them; the scent of human blood was much harder for him to resist than the others he hadn't been trying as long.

'Time to open presents,' Olivia declared. She put her cool hand under my elbow and towed me to the table with the cake and the sparkling cases.

I put on my best scapegoat face. 'Olivia, I know I told you I didn't want anything.'

'However, I didn't listen,' she interrupted, smug. 'Open it.' She took the camera from my hands and replaced it with a big, old-fashioned grayish crate.

The case was so light that it felt empty. The card on top declared that it was from Emmah, Rose, and Joh. Self-consciously, I tore the paper off and then stared at the box is concealed.

It was something electrical, with lots of numbers in the name. I opened the box, hoping for further illumination. But the box was empty.

‘Um... gratitude.’

Rose cracked a smile. Joh laughed. ‘It’s a stereo for your truck,’ he explained. ‘Emmah’s installing it right now so that you can’t return it.’

Olivia was always one step ahead of me. ‘Thanks, Joh, Rose,’ I told them, grinning as I retained Marcel’s complaints about my radio this afternoon all a setup. ‘Thanks, Emmah!’ I called more loudly.

I heard his booming laugh from my truck, and I couldn’t help laughing, too.

‘Open mine and Marcel’s next,’ Olivia said, so excited her voice was a high-pitched trill. She held a small, flat square in her hand.

I turned to give Marcel a basilisk glare. ‘You promised.’

Ere he could respond, Emmah ricocheted through the doorway. ‘Just in time!’ She crowed. she pushed in behind Joh, who had also drifted closer than usual to get a good look.

‘I didn’t spend a dime,’ Marcel assured me. He brushed a strand of hair from my face, leaving my skin tingling from his touch.

I breathed sincerely and turned to Olivia. ‘Give it to me,’ I sighed.

Emmah smiled with pleasure.

I took the little package, rolling my eyes at Marcel while I stuck my finger under the edge of the paper and jerked it under the tape.

‘Gauntlet,’ I muttered when the paper sliced my finger; I pulled it out to examine the damage. A single drop of blood leaked from the miniature construction.

It all appeared very quickly then.

‘No!’ Marcel shouted.

He threw himself at me, flinging me back across the table. It fell, as I did, scattering the cake and the presents, the blossoms, and the silverware. I landed in the mess of shattered crystal.

Joh pushed into Marcel, and the quality was like the crash of fieldstones in a rockslide.

There was another vibration, a grisly snarling that appeared to be beginning from deep in Joh's ribs. Joh tried to shove past Marcel, snapping his teeth just inches from Marcel's face.

Emmah grabbed Joh from behind in the next instant, locking him into his massive steel grip, but Joh struggled on, his wild, hollow eyes concentrated only on me.

Surpassing the shock, there was also a pain. I'd fallen to the floor by the keyboard, with my arms thrown out intuitively to catch my fall, into the jagged shards of glass. Only now did I feel the searing, stinging endeavor that poured from my wrist to the crease inside my elbow.

Unconscious and disoriented, I looked up from the bright red blood pulsing out of my arm-into the fevered eyes of the six swiftly voracious angels.

Part: 1 July

This one more of how where remember these days.

Photos online, and cam videos all that are my memories- of me to others.

Part: 2 August

Compare... them then and now- naked slut girl or 1940s modesty.

I remember having the old photo album spread out on the bedroom floor.

Oh! Wow! Look at this one... do you like how she was remembered better than me?

TIME PASSES

Craziness... look at my life here... all board...

'I am home,' I mumbled, confused- not even more.

'What did I do?' I felt my face wrinkle. It was so unfair.

My behavior... here is wow...

After that first week... of doing this...

How do I look... which neither of us ever mentioned what we do?

I hadn't missed a day of school or work.

My grades were perfect.

Yet this show it all going to shit- no?

This is what I did here... showing everything that makes me a girl!

Now I am passing down- to her- yah me- is it wrong? I must live with it.

#- A cam video and all these photos of her online now are worth 1,000 words! #-0-okay
then what does this one says then?

My little sis- and she is frapping harder than I do- in this- damn, she is my Minnie me!
She started young than me even- yet that is all girls, her age.

Here is one with here dressed wow seem weird to see her with something on anymore-

(Swipe- and the phone in your hand would make a click sound...)

Oh, this one-

She loves these, beautiful white lace kid's girls' shorts- so girl- girl-ie- from Wal-Mart, yet she was band form wearing them in school without anything under them, yet I look around and all other girls do it.

Yet, on Facebook- and Instagram 1, you get one persona and on Google images a whole other- just like Snap Chat you have her as your girlfriend for the night yet have- yet she is your striptease only- and the other Instagram- that grammar should never- ever see- yet this is how to get popular- and stay popular.

Besides then there is the community of internet nudists- on MFC. And the profile- she now has too, a legacy to be remembered by no? Yet, when you have no education to speak of and working for some d*ck head is just out of the question, over they think you're not worthy of their time- were you're not making anything, and at this point in Pa she too young to work, yet is old enough to have unprotected sex... Um- and then I wonder- yet she needs the money- for school coming up- because your mommy and daddy don't have it, and all for fun, boys, and a girls night of fun- and partying- and being crazy. Money is everything... and why girls do what they must do...

Part: 9

Penetrating

'Her residence, 'Marcel said, his husky voice low and intense.

Someone answered, and Marcel altered in an instant. He straightened up, and his hand dropped from my face. His eyes went flat, his face blank, and I would have bet the measly remainder of my college fund and that it was Olivia.

I recovered myself and held out my hand for the phone. Marcel ignored me. 'He's not here, 'Marcel said, and the words were menacing.

There was some very short reply, a request for more information it seemed because he added unwillingly, 'He's at the funeral.'

Then Marcel hung up the phone. 'Filthy bloodsucker,' he muttered under his breath. The face he turned back to me was the bitter mask again.

'Who did you just hang up on?' I gasped, infuriated. 'In my house, and on my phone?'

'Easy! He hung up on me!'

'He? Who was it?'

He sneered the title. 'Dr. Chiaz Natalie.'

'Why didn't you let me talk to him?!'

'He didn't ask for you,' Marcel said coldly. His face was smooth, expressionless, but his hands shook. 'He asked where Mr. Anderson was, and I told him. I don't think I broke any rules of etiquette.'

'You listen to me, Marcel Black-'

But he wasn't listening. He looked quickly over his shoulder as if someone had called his name from the other room. His eyes went wide and his body stiff, then he started trembling. I listened too, automatically, but heard nothing.

'Bye, Bells,' he spits out and wheeled toward the front door.

I ran after him. 'What is it?'

And then I ran into him, as he rocked back on his heels, cursing under his breath. He spun around again, knocking me sideways. I bobbed and fell to the floor, my legs tangled with his.

'Shoot, now!' I protested as he hurriedly jerked his legs free one at a time.

I struggled to pull myself up as he darted for the back door; he suddenly froze again.

Olivia stood motionless at the foot of the stairs.

'Bell,' she choked.

I scrambled to my feet and lurched to her side. Her eyes were dazed and far away, her face drawn and whiter than bone. Her slim body trembled to an inner turmoil.

'Olivia, what's wrong?' I cried. I put my hands on her face, trying to calm her.

Her eyes focused on mine abruptly, wide with pain.

'Marcel,' was all she whispered.

My body reacted faster than my mind was able to catch up with the implications of her reply. I didn't at first understand why the room was spinning or where the hollow roar in my ears was coming from. My mind labored, unable to make sense of Olivia's bleak face and how it could relate to Marcel, while my body was already swaying, seeking the relief of unconsciousness before the reality could hit me.

The stairway tilted at the oddest angle.

Marcel's furious voice was suddenly in my ear, hissing out a stream of profanities. I felt vague disapproval. His new friends were a bad influence.

I was on the couch without understanding how I got there, and Marcel was still swearing. It felt like there was an earthquake-the couch was shaking under me.

‘What did you do to her?’ He demanded.

Olivia ignored him. ‘Bell? Bell, snap out of it. We have to hurry.’

‘Stay back,’ Marcel warned.

‘Calm down, Marcel Black,’ Olivia ordered. ‘You don’t want to do that so close to her.’

‘I don’t think I’ll have any problem keeping my focus,’ he retorted, but his voice sounded a little cooler.

‘Olivia?’ My voice was weak. ‘What happened?’ I asked, even though I didn’t want to hear.

‘I don’t know,’ she suddenly wailed. ‘What is he thinking?!’

I labored to pull myself up despite the dizziness. I realized it was Marcel’s arm I was gripping for balance. He was the one shaking, not the couch.

Olivia was pulling a small silver phone from her bag when my eyes relocated her. Her fingers dialed the numbers so fast they were a blur.

‘Rose, I need to talk to Chiaz now.’ Her voice whipped through the words. ‘Fine, as soon as he’s back. No, I’ll be on a plane. Look, have you heard anything from Marcel?’

Olivia paused now, listening with an expression that grew more appalled every second. Her mouth opened into a little O of horror, and the phone shook in her hand.

‘Why?’ she gasped. ‘Why would you do that, Rose?’

Whatever the answer was, it made her jaw tighten in anger. Her eyes flashed and narrowed.

‘Well, you’re wrong on both counts, though, Rose, so that would be a problem, don’t you think?’ she asked acidly. ‘Yes, that’s right. She’s fine- I was wrong... It’s a long story... But you’re wrong about that part, too, that’s why I’m calling... Yes, that’s exactly what I saw.’

Olivia’s voice was very hard, and her lips were pulled back from her teeth. ‘It’s a bit late for that, Rose. Save your remorse for someone who believes it.’ Olivia snapped the phone shut with a sharp twist of her fingers.

Her eyes were tortured as she turned to face me.

‘Olivia,’ I blurted out quickly. I couldn't let her speak yet. I needed a few more seconds before she spoke, and her words destroyed what was left of my life.

‘Olivia, Chiaz is back, though. He called just before...’

She stared at me blankly. ‘How long ago?’ she asked in a hollow voice.

‘Half a minute before you showed up.’

‘What did he say?’ She focused now, waiting for my answer.

‘I didn't talk to him.’ My eyes flickered to Marcel.

Olivia turned her penetrating gaze on him. He flinched but held his place next to me. He sits awkwardly as if he were trying to shield me with his body.

‘He asked for Mr. Anderson, and I told him Mr. Anderson wasn't here,’ Marcel muttered resentfully.

‘Is that everything?’ Olivia demanded, her voice like ice.

‘Then he hung up on me,’ Marcel spit back. A tremor rolled down his spine, shaking me with it.

‘You told him Mr. Anderson was at the funeral,’ I reminded him.

Olivia jerked her head back toward me ‘What were his exact words?’

‘He said, ‘He's not here,’ and when Chiaz asked where Mr. Anderson was, Marcel said, ‘At the funeral.’”

Olivia moaned and sank to her knees.

‘Tell me, Olivia,’ I whispered.

‘That wasn't Chiaz on the phone,’ she said hopelessly.

‘Are you calling me a liar?’ Marcel snarled from beside me.

Olivia ignored him, focusing on my bewildered face.

‘It was Marcel.’ The words were just a choked whisper. ‘He thinks you're dead.’

My mind started to work again. These words weren't the ones I'd been afraid of, and the relief cleared my head.

'Rose told him I killed myself, didn't she?' I said, sighing as I relaxed. 'Yes,' Olivia admitted, her eyes flashing hard again.

'In her defense, she did believe it. They rely on my sight far too much for something that works so imperfectly. But for her to track him down to tell him this! Didn't she realize... or care...?' Her voice faded away in horror.

'And when Marcel called here, he thought Marcel meant my funeral,' I realized. It stung to know how close I'd been, just inches away from his voice. My nails dug into Marcel's arm, but he didn't flinch.

Olivia looked at me strangely. 'You're not upset,' she whispered.

'Well, it's rotten timing, but it will all get straightened out. The next time he calls, someone will tell him... what... really...' I trailed off. Her gaze strangled the words in my throat.

Why was she so panicked? Why was her face twisting now with pity and horror? What was it she had said to Rose on the phone just now? Something about what she'd seen... and Rose's remorse; Rose would never feel remorse for anything that happened to me. But if she'd hurt her family, hurt her brother...

'Bell,' Olivia whispered. 'Marcel won't call again. He believed her.'

'I. Don't. Understand.' My mouth framed each word in silence. I couldn't push the air out to say the words that would make her explain what that meant.

'He's going to Italy.'

It took the length of one heartbeat for me to comprehend.

When Marcel's voice came back to me now, it was not the perfect imitation of my delusions. It was just the weak, flat tone of my memories. But the words alone were enough to shred through my chest and leave it gaping open. Words from a time when I would have bet everything that I owned or could borrow on the fact that he loved me.

Well, I wasn't going to live without you, he'd said as we watched Romeo and Juliet dies, here in this very room. But I wasn't sure how to do it I knew Emmah and Joh would never help...

so I was thinking I would go to Italy and do something to provoke the Ministry... You don't irritate them. Not unless you want to die.

Not unless you want to die.

'NO!' The half-shrieked denial was so loud after the whispered words, it made us all jump. I felt the blood rushing to my face as I realized what she'd seen. 'No! No, no, no! He can't! He can't do that!'

'He made up his mind as soon as your friend confirmed that it was too late to save you.'

'But he... he left! He didn't want me anymore! What difference does it make now? He knew I would die sometime!'

'I don't think he ever planned to outlive you by long,' Olivia said quietly.

'How dare he!' I screamed. I was on my feet now, and Marcel rose uncertainly to put himself between Olivia and me again.

'Oh, get out of the way, Marcel!' I elbowed my way around his trembling body with desperate impatience. 'What do we do?' I begged Olivia. There had to be something. 'Can't we call him? Can Chiaz?'

She was shaking her head. 'That was the first thing I tried. He left his phone in a trash can in Rio-someone answered it...' she whispered.

'You said before we had to hurry. Hurry how? Let's do it, whatever it is!'

'Bell, I-I don't think I can ask you to...' She trailed off in indecision.

'Ask me!' I commanded.

She put her hands on my shoulders, holding me in place, her fingers flexing sporadically to emphasize her words. 'We may already be too late. I saw him going to the Ministry... and asking to die.' We both cringed, and my eyes were suddenly blind. I blinked feverishly at the tears. 'It all depends on what they choose. I can't see that until they decide.'

'But if they say no, and they might-Aron is fond of Chiaz, and wouldn't want to offend him- Marcel has a backup plan. They're very protective of their city. If Marcel does something to upset the peace, he thinks they'll act to stop him. And he's right. They will.'

I stared at her with my jaw clenched in frustration. I'd heard nothing yet that would explain why we were still standing here.

‘So- if they agree to grant his favor, we're too late. If they say no, and he comes up with a plan to offend them quickly enough, we're too late. If he gives in to his more theatrical tendencies... we might have time.’

‘Let's go!’

‘Listen, Bell! Whether we are on time or not, we will be in the heart of the Ministry city. I will be considered his accomplice if he is successful. You will be a human who not only knows too much but also smells too good. There's a very good chance that they will eliminate us all- though in your case it won't be punishment so much as dinnertime.’

‘This is what's keeping us here?’ I asked in disbelief. ‘I'll go alone if you're afraid.’ I mentally tabulated what money was left in my account and wondered if Olivia would lend me the rest.

‘I'm only afraid of getting you killed.’

I snorted in disgust. ‘I almost get myself killed daily! Tell me what I need to do!’ ‘You write a note to Mr. Anderson. I'll call the airlines.’

‘Mr. Anderson,’ I gasped.

Not that my presence was protecting him, but could I leave him here alone to face...

‘I'm not going to let anything happen to Mr. Anderson.’ Marcel's deep voice was gruff and angry. ‘Screw the treaty.’

I glanced up at him, and he scowled at my panicked expression.

~*~

‘Rush, Bell,’ Olivia intervened enthusiastically.

I ran to the kitchen, dragging the drawers apart and submitting the contents all over the floor as I hunted for a pen.

A smooth, coffee-colored handheld one out to me.

‘Thanks,’ I grumbled, picking the cap off with my teeth. He wordlessly handed me the pad of paper we wrote phone messages on. I tore off the top sheet and threw it over my shoulder.

Dad, I penned. I'm with Olivia. Marcel's in crisis. You can ground me when I get back. I grasp it's a critical time.

So-o sorrowful.

I love you so much. Bell...?

‘Don't go,’ Marcel murmured. The anger was all concluded now that Olivia was out of sight.

I continued to waste time arguing with him. ‘Please, please, take care of Mr. Anderson,’ I said as I hurled back out to the room. Olivia was waiting in the doorway with a bag over her shoulder.

‘Take your wallet-you'll need ID. Please notify me you have a passport. I don't have time to forge one.’

I nodded and then raced up the stairs, my knees weak with gratitude that my mother had wanted to marry Phil on a beach in Hawaii.

Of course, like all her plans, it had fallen through. However not before I'd made all the functional arrangements I could for her.

I shredded through my room. I packed my old pocketbook, a plain T-shirt, and sweatpants into my backpack, and then threw my toothbrush on top.

I hurled myself back down the stairs. The sense of Deja vu was nearly stifling by this duration. At least, unlike the last time when I would run away from Pittsburgh to escape thirsty angels rather than to find Them-I wouldn't have to say goodbye to Mr. Anderson in person.

Marcel and Olivia were locked in encounter in front of the open door, occupying so far apart you wouldn't believe at first that they were having a dialogue. Neither one resembled to notice my boisterous reappearance.

‘You might restrain yourself on occasion, but these bloodsuckers you're taking her to-’ Marcel was furiously challenging her.

Part: 10

Puzzlement

She glared in bewilderment. ‘Someone uprooted you out?’

‘Yes. Marcel protected me.’

I accepted curiously as an enigmatic range of changes flashed across her face. Was something troubling her, wrong reasoning? Though I wasn't certain. Then she purposely leaned in and inhaled my arm.

I stopped, at that moment at that time in that place I was.

‘Don't be laughable,’ she whispered, inhaling at me some further.

‘What are you preparing?’

She neglected my problem. ‘Who was with you out there just now? It sounded like you were battling.’

‘Marcel.’

‘He's... variety of my best friend, I assume. At least, he was...’ I considered of Marcel's mad, frustrated face, and questioned what he was to me now.

Olivia nodded, appearing preoccupied.

~*~

‘Whichever...?’

‘I don't understand,’ she said. ‘I'm not positive what it imports.’

‘Well, I'm not dead, at most invisible.’

She circled her eyes. ‘He was a fool to think you could endure simply. I've nevermore witnessed anyone so prone to life-threatening stupidity.’

‘I remained,’ I tended out.

She was believing of something different. ‘So, if the currents were too much for you, how did this Marcel manage?’

‘Marcel is... compelling.’

She heard the hesitation in my communication, and her eyebrows raised.

I nibbled on my lip for a moment. Was this a secret, or not? Besides, if it was, then who was my most distinguished loyalty to?

Marcel, or Olivia?

It was too hard to keep secrets, I decided. Marcel knew everything, why not Olivia, additionally?

‘Observe, well, he's... sort of a lycanthrope,’ I announced in a dash. ‘The Quileute converts into gourmands when angels are encircling. They know Chiaz a long time before.’

Continued you with Chiaz back then?’ Olivia rubbernecked at me for a moment, and then recovered herself, blinking immediately. ‘Well, I guess that explains the smell,’ she muttered. ‘But does it explain what I didn't see?’ She frowned, her porcelain forehead creasing.

‘The smell?’ I reproduced.

‘You smell awful,’ she said absently, still scowling. ‘A lycanthrope? Are you positive about such?’

‘Very certain,’ I declared, wincing as I cherished Paul and Marcel fighting on the road. ‘I imagine you weren't with Chiaz the last time there were lycanthropes here in Pittsburgh?’

‘Neither. I hadn't discovered him yet.’ Olivia was still lost in thought. Abruptly, her eyes increased, and she turned to stare at me with a dismayed character. ‘Your best friend is a lycanthrope?’

I drowsed sheepishly.

‘How long has this been going on?’

‘Non-long,’ I answered, my call sounding frustrating. ‘He's only been a lycanthrope for just several weeks.’

She scowled at me. 'A young lycanthrope?

Even worse! Marcel was right you are an electromagnet for exposure.

Weren't you assumed to be visiting out of the problem?'

'There's nothing wrong with lycanthropes,' I grunted, stung by her critical tone.

'Continuously they misplace their sturdiness.' She shook her head distinctly from side to side. 'Leave it to you, Bell.

Anyone else would be better off when the angels left town. But you have to start hanging out with the first monsters you can find.'

I did not want to argue with Olivia- I was still trembling with pleasure that she was, absolutely here, that I could touch her marble skin and hear the wind-chime voice-but she had it all wrong.

'No, Olivia, the angels didn't leave-not all of them, anyway. That is the whole trouble. If it were not for the lycanthropes, Maggie would have gotten me by now. Well, if it weren't for Maggie and his friends, Sophiet would have gotten me before she could, I guess, so-'

'Maggie?' She hissed. 'Sophiet?'

~*~

I nodded a teensy bit alarmed by the expression in her black eyes. I pointed at my chest. 'Danger magnet remember?'

She shook her head again. 'Tell me everything-start at the beginning.'

I glossed over the beginning, skipping the motorcycles and the voices, but telling her everything else right up to today's misadventure. Olivia did not like my thin explanation about boredom and the cliffs, so I hurried on to the strange flame I had seen on the water and what I thought it meant. Her eyes narrowed to slits at that part. It was strange to see her look so... so dangerous-like angel. I swallowed hard and went on with the rest of Harry.

She listened to my story without interrupting. Occasionally, she would shake her head, and the crease in her forehead deepened until it looked like it was carved permanently into the marble of her skin. She didn't speak and, finally, I fell quiet, struck again by the borrowed grief at Harry's passing. I thought of Mr. Anderson; he would be home soon. What condition would he be in?

‘Our leaving didn't do you any good at all, did it?’ Olivia murmured.

I laughed once-it was a slightly hysterical sound. ‘That was never the point, though, was it? It's not like you left for my benefit.’

Olivia scowled at the floor for a moment. ‘Well... I guess I acted impulsively today. I probably shouldn't have intruded.’

I could feel the blood draining from my face. My stomach dropped. ‘Don't go, Olivia,’ I whispered. My fingers locked around the collar of her white shirt and I began to hyperventilate. ‘Please don't leave me.’

Her eyes opened wider. ‘All right,’ she said, enunciating each word with slow precision. ‘I'm not going anywhere tonight. Take a deep breath.’

I tried to obey, though I couldn't quite locate my lungs.

She watched my face while I concentrated on my breathing. She waited till I was calmer to comment. ‘You look like hell, Bell.’

‘I drowned today,’ I reminded her.

‘It goes deeper than that. You're a mess.’

I flinched. ‘Look, I'm doing my best.’

‘What do you mean?’

‘It hasn't been easy. I'm working on it.’

She frowned. ‘I told him,’ she said to herself.

‘Olivia,’ I sighed. ‘What did you think you were going to find? I mean, besides me dead. Did you expect to find me skipping around and whistling show tunes? You know me better than that.’

‘I do... But I hoped.’

‘Then, I guess I don't have the corner on the idiocy market.’

The phone rang.

‘That must be Mr. Anderson,’ I said, staggering to my feet. I grabbed Olivia's stone hand and dragged her with me to the kitchen. I wasn't about to let her out of my sight.

‘Mr. Anderson?’ I answered the phone.

‘No, it's me,’ Marcel said.

‘Maggie!’

Olivia scrutinized my expression.

‘Just making sure you were still alive,’ Marcel said sourly. ‘I'm fine. I told you that it wasn't-’

‘Yeah. I got it. 'Bye.’

Marcel hung up on me.

I sighed and let my head hang back, staring at the ceiling. ‘That's going to be a problem.’

Olivia squeezed my hand. ‘They aren't excited I'm here.’

‘Not especially. But it's none of their business anyway.’

Olivia put her arm around me. ‘So, what do we do now?’ she mused. She seemed to talk to herself for a moment. ‘Things to do. Loose ends to tie.’

‘What things to do?’

Her face was suddenly careful. ‘I don't know for sure... I need to see Chiaz.’

Would she leave so soon? My stomach dropped.

‘Could you stay?’ I begged. ‘Please? For just a little while. I've missed you so much.’ My voice broke.

‘If you think that's an innovative idea.’ Her eyes were unhappy.

‘I do. You can stay here-Mr. Anderson would love that.’

‘I have a house, Bell.’

I nodded, disappointed but resigned. She hesitated, studying me.

‘Well, I need to go get a suitcase of clothes, at the very least.’

I threw my arms around her. ‘Olivia, you're the best!’

‘And I think I'll need to hunt. Immediately,’ she added in a strained voice.

‘Oops.’ I took a step back.

‘Can you stay out of trouble for one hour?’ she asked skeptically. Then, before I could answer, she held up one finger and closed her eyes. Her face went smooth and blank for a few seconds.

And then her eyes opened, and she answered her question. ‘Yes, you'll be fine. For tonight, anyway.’ She grimaced. Even making faces, she looked like an angel.

‘You'll come back?’ I asked in a small voice.

‘I promise-one hour.’

I glanced at the clock over the kitchen table. She laughed and leaned in quickly to kiss me on the cheek. Then she was gone.

Part: 11

Bottomless

I took a deep breath. Olivia would be back. I suddenly felt so much better.

I had plenty to do to keep myself busy while I waited. A shower was first on the agenda. I sniffed my shoulders as I undressed, but I couldn't smell anything but the brine and seaweed scent of the ocean. I wondered what Olivia had meant about me smelling bad.

When I was cleaned up, I went back to the kitchen. I couldn't see any signs that Mr. Anderson's child was eaten recently, and he would be hungry when he got back. I hummed tunelessly to myself as I moved around the kitchen.

While Thursday's casserole rotated in the microwave, I made up the couch with sheets and an old pillow. Olivia wouldn't need it, but Mr. Anderson would need to see it. I was careful not to watch the clock. There was no reason to start myself panicking; Olivia had promised.

I hurried through my dinner, not tasting it-just feeling the ache as it slid down my raw throat. Mostly I was thirsty; I must have drunk a half-gallon of water by the time I was finished. All the salt in my system had dehydrated me.

I went to go try to watch TV while I waited.

Olivia was already there, sitting on her improvised bed. Her eyes were liquid butterscotch. She smiled and patted the pillow. 'Thanks.'

'You're early,' I said, elated.

I sat down next to her and leaned my head on her shoulder. She put her cold arms around me and sighed.

'Bell. What are we going to do with you?'

'I don't know,' I admitted. 'I have been trying my hardest.'

'I believe you.' It was silent.

'Does-does he...' I took a deep breath. It was harder to say his name out loud, even though I was able to think about it now. 'Does Marcel know you're here?' I couldn't help asking. It was my pain. I'd deal with it when she was gone, I promised myself and felt sick at the thought.

'No...'

There was only one way that could be true. 'He's not with Chiaz and Esme?'

'He checks in every few months.'

'Oh.' He must still be out enjoying his distractions. I focused my curiosity on a safer topic. 'You said you flew here... Where did you come from?'

'I was in Denali. Visiting Tanya's family.'

'Is he here? Did he come with you?'

She shook her head. 'He didn't approve of my interfering. We promised...' she trailed off, and then her tone changed. 'And you think Mr. Anderson won't mind my being here?' she asked, sounding worried.

'Mr. Anderson thinks you're wonderful, Olivia.'

'Well, we're about to find out.'

Sure enough, a few seconds later I heard the cruiser pull into the driveway. I jumped up and hurried to open the door.

Mr. Anderson trudged slowly up the walk, his eyes on the ground and his shoulders slumped. I walked forward to meet him; he didn't even see me until I hugged him around the waist. He embraced me back fiercely.

'I'm so sorry about Harry, Dad.'

'I'm going to miss him,' Mr. Anderson mumbled.

'How's Sue doing?'

'She seems dazed like she hasn't grasped it yet. Sam's staying with her...' The volume of his voice faded in and out. 'Those poor kids. Leah's just a year older than you, and Seth is only fourteen...' He shook his head.

He kept his arms tight around me as he started toward the door again.

'Um, Dad?' I figured I'd better warn him. 'You'll never guess who's here.'

He looked at me blankly. His head swiveled around, and he spied the Mercedes across the street, the porch light reflecting off the glossy black paint.

Before he could react, Olivia was in the doorway.

'Hi, Mr. Anderson,' she said in a subdued voice. 'I'm sorry I came at such an inconvenient time.'

'Olivia?' Peered at the slight figure in front of him as if he doubted what his eyes were telling him. 'Olivia is that you?'

'It's me,' she confirmed. 'I was in the neighborhood.'

'Is Chiaz...?'

'No, I'm alone.'

Both Olivia and I knew he wasn't asking about Chiaz. His arm tightened around my shoulder.

'She can stay here, can't she?' I pleaded. 'I already asked her.'

'Of course,' Mr. Anderson said mechanically. 'We'd love to have you, Olivia.'

'Thank you, Mr. Anderson. I know it's horrid timing.'

'No, it's fine. I'm going to be busy doing what I can for Harry's family; it will be nice for Karly to have some company.'

'There's dinner for you on the table, Dad,' I told him.

'Thanks, Bell.' He gave me one more squeeze before he shuffled toward the kitchen.

Olivia went back to the couch, and I followed her. This time, she was the one to pull me against her shoulder.

'You look tired.'

'Yeah,' I agreed and shrugged. 'Near-death experiences do that to me...

So, what does Chiaz think of you being here?'

'He doesn't know. He and Esme were on a hunting trip. I'll hear from him in a few days when he gets back.'

'You won't tell him, though... when he checks in again?' I asked. She knew I didn't mean Chiaz now.

'No. He'd bite my head off,' Olivia said grimly.

I laughed once and then sighed.

I didn't want to sleep. I wanted to stay up all night talking to Olivia. And it didn't make sense for me to be tired, what with crashing on Marcel's couch all day. But drowning had taken a lot out of me, and my eyes wouldn't stay open. I rested my head on her stone shoulder and drifted into more peaceful oblivion than I had any hope of.

I woke early, from a deep and dreamless sleep, feeling well-rested, but stiff. I was on the couch tucked under the blankets I'd laid out for Olivia, and I could hear her and Mr. Anderson talking in the kitchen. It sounded like Mr. Anderson was fixing her breakfast.

'How bad was it, Mr. Anderson?' Olivia asked softly, and at first, I thought they were talking about the Clearwater's.

Mr. Anderson sighed.

'Bad.'

'Tell me about it. I want to know exactly what happened when we left.' There was a pause while a cupboard door was closed and a dial on the stove was clicked off. I waited, cringing.

'I've never felt so helpless,' Mr. Anderson began gradually. 'I didn't know what to do. That first week- I thought I was going to have to hospitalize her. She wouldn't eat or drink, she wouldn't move. Dr. LORENZO was throwing around words like 'catatonic,' but I didn't let him up to see her. I was afraid it would terrify her.' 'She locked out of it though?'

'I had Ayanna suit to take her to the islands. I just didn't want to be the one... if she had to go to a clinic or something.

I expected to be with her mother would attend. Exactly when we started gathering her dresses, she woke up energetically. I've never more beheld Karly throw a tantrum like that before she was insane. She was never one for the tantrums, but, boy, did she fly into violence.

She threw her dresses wherever and squealed that we couldn't make her leave-and then she finally started sobbing. I imagined that would be the transforming position. I didn't argue when she insisted on staying here... and she did seem to get better at first...'

Mr. Anderson pursued off. It was hard accepting of this, knowing how much pain I'd caused him.

'However?' Olivia assisted.

'She went back to school and work, she ate, masturbated, and napped in the nude and did her homework.

She acknowledged when someone questioned her a direct question. Although she was... questionnaire. Her eyes were empty of feelings colorless. There were lots of little things-she wouldn't listen to music anymore; I found a bunch of records crushed in the debris.

She didn't read; she wouldn't be in the corresponding room meanwhile the TV was proceeding paid programming, not that she watched it so much already. I finally concluded it out-she was withdrawing everything that might prompt her of him.

'We could hardly talk; I was so worried about saying something that would upset her-the littlest things would make her flinch-and she never volunteered anything. She would just answer if I asked her something.

'She was alone all the time. She didn't call her friends back, and after a while, they stopped requesting.

'It was a night of the living decedent round hereabouts. I still hear her screaming in her slumber...'

I could almost see him shuddering. I shuddered, too, remembering. And then I sighed. I hadn't fooled him at all, not for one second.

'I'm so melancholy, Mr. Anderson,' Olivia said, speech glum.

'It's not your fault.' The way he said it made it clear that he was holding someone responsible. 'You were always a good friend to her.'

'She seems more valid now, though.'

'Yeah, ever since she started hanging out with Marcel, back- I've regarded a real improvement. She has some color in her chops when she comes home, some light in her eyes.

She's hilarious.' He hesitated, and his speech was modified when he articulated repeatedly. 'He's a year or so more fashionable than her, and I know she used to think of him as a friend, but I think maybe it's something more now or headed that direction, anyhow.'

Mr. Anderson said this in an almost opposing nature. It was a lesson, not for Olivia, but for her to pass along. 'Maggie's old for his ages,' he proceeded, still blowing defensive. 'He's taken care of his father the way Karly took care of her mother emotionally. It culminated him. He's a good-looking kid, too-takes after his mom's view. He's good for Bell, you know,' Mr. Anderson insisted.

Before play-

It's all flying by...

Going back in forth in my life...

(Her in the past)

Marcel- What she does to me for me that goes through me- I want her to draw arbitrary things on me with a Sharpie marker in whatever color she feels is right or fits her fancy.

Like a little heart in my mid- palm that is arched like only she can do with tapered arches. I say I love you every time I stare at it when not with her in some random class or something like that, it's kind of dainty, adorable, and beautiful; in a moderately cute primary way, I prefer seeing her girlie-ness on me, very sweet overall.

(Don't you see, this hand opens to reveal the humble yet brave portrayal?)

I love her for this... adorable things like this one are what make her all mine! AWE! I would tattoo it if she wanted me too.

Oppositely just have it drawn again if washed continuously. Just like her crying that I whip away, she hates yet I am okay with it and find it sweet. She mine! <3

Karly- The devil is the root of all evil, don't criticize any moron like you or mom for instance for what he is arranging, even I want to say I get that one too, that fool is continuously up my ass; go to hell and stay there. Smell your rump for a- while.

Marcel- 'I am virtually frightened to touch her for the fear -that- I might break her.'

(Intumesce significances in the origins.)

Kissing- Noses don't regularly really hit, they interlock collectively side by side touching and touching, and rubbing on the tip afterward -perfectly- when we kiss. Dreamily she is made for me only.

~*~

(Recollection)

Marcel sucked in a breath. 'He got that close?'

'He got precise, right up on me.'

Me- And- I felt ever cover and molding-ness of her girlie body.

I stroked my hair with your fingers and feel my boobs and in- between my boobs and rub my body soft loft non- stop in a holding hug and unbraced- feel my vagina backing forth intake hold of yet in a- teasing, playful, jokey, mischievous, bantering, and joshing why.

Press held tight, feel, kiss, feel, kiss, stop to breath, feel, and then kiss -panting- in-love kissing. Arms a laced, in braced, pulled in tighter, which each movement into our bodies.

'Loving in braced, looking at her lovely face... time held still so we could feel, freewheel. You and I- they cannot deny- love is real when you can see it and feel, they try to steal us apart breaking a heart.

They're not smart, missing the dart- that smashes us isolated... crossed the hart, broken glass- breaking and quivering us up fast...

I asked- like, well it last? Going so quick, time that has past slowly, yes ever so fast- falling to you down like thundershower and pain with an endeavor, comparable to a speeding train, spring- gone, winter love materialized in the haze, love stayed, we misbehaved- in love, notwithstanding them being the cold inside to hide. Accesses denied.'

Part: 12

'Then it's good she has him,' Olivia agreed.

Mr. Anderson sighed out a big gust of air, folding quickly to the lack of opposition.

'Okay, so I guess that's overstating things. I don't know... even with Marcel, now and then I see something in her eyes, and I wonder if I've ever grasped how much pain she's really in

It's not normal Olivia, and it... it frightens me. Not normal at all. Not like someone... left her, but as someone died.' His voice cracked.

It was like someone had died-like I had died. Because it had to be more than just losing the truest of true love as if that were not enough to kill anyone. It was also losing a whole future, a whole family- the whole life that I'd chosen...

Mr. Anderson went on in a hopeless tone. 'I don't know if she's going to get over it-I'm not sure if it's in her nature to heal from something like this. She's always been such a constant little thing. She doesn't get past things, change her mind.'

'She's one of a kind,' Olivia agreed in a dry voice.

'And Olivia...' Mr. Anderson hesitated. 'Now, you know how fond I am of you, and I can tell that she's happy to see you, but... I'm a little worried about what your visit will do to her.'

'So am I, Mr. Anderson, so am I. I wouldn't have come if I'd had any idea. I'm sorry.'

'Don't apologize, honey. Who knows? Maybe it will be good for her.'

'I hope you're right.'

There was a long break while Pittsburgh scraped plates and Mr. Anderson chewed.

I wondered where Olivia was hiding the food.

'Olivia, I have to ask you something,' Mr. Anderson said awkwardly.

Olivia was calm. 'Go ahead.'

'He's not coming back to visit, too, is he?' I could hear the suppressed anger in Mr. Anderson's voice.

Olivia answered in a soft, reassuring tone. 'He doesn't even know I'm here.

The last time I spoke with him, he was in South America.'

I stiffened as I heard this added information and listened harder.

'That's something, at least.' Mr. Anderson snorted. 'Well, I hope he's enjoying himself.'

For the first time, Olivia's voice had a bit of steel in it. 'I wouldn't make assumptions, Mr. Anderson.' I knew how her eyes would flash when she used that tone.

A chair scooted from the table, scraping loudly across the floor. I pictured Mr. Anderson getting up; there was no way Olivia would make that kind of noise. The faucet ran, splashing against a dish.

It didn't sound like they were going to say anything more about Marcel, so I decided it was time to wake up.

I turned over, bouncing against the springs to make them squeak. Then I yawned loudly.

All was quiet in the kitchen.

I stretched and groaned.

'Olivia?' I asked innocently; the soreness rasping in my throat added nicely to the charade.

'I'm in the kitchen, Bell,' Olivia called, no hint in her voice that she suspected my eavesdropping. But she was good at hiding things like that.

Mr. Anderson had to leave then-he was helping Sue Clearwater with the funeral arrangements. It would have been a very long day without Olivia. She never spoke about leaving, and I didn't ask her. I knew it was inevitable, but I put it out of my mind.

Instead, we talked about her family-all but one.

Chiaz was working nights in Ithaca and teaching part-time at Cornell. Esme was restoring a seventeenth-century house, a historical monument, in the forest north of the city.

Emmah and Rose had gone to Europe for a few months on another honeymoon, but they were back now.

Joh was at Cornell, too, studying philosophy this time. And Olivia had been doing some personal research, concerning the information I'd accidentally uncovered for her last spring. She'd successfully tracked down the asylum where she'd spent the last years of her human life. The life she had no memory of.

'My name was Mary Olivia Brandon,' she told me quietly. 'I had a little sister named Cynthia. Her daughter-my niece-is still alive in Biloxi.'

‘Did you find out why they put you in... that place?’ What would drive parents to that extreme? Even if their daughter saw visions of the future...

She just shook her head, her topaz eyes thoughtful. ‘I couldn't find much about them. I went through all the old newspapers on microfiche. My family wasn't mentioned often; they weren't part of the social circle that made the papers. My parents' engagement was there, and Cynthia's.’ The name fell uncertainly from her tongue. ‘My birth was announced... and my death. I found my grave. I also filched my admissions sheet from the old asylum archives. The date of the admission and the date of my tombstone is the same.’

I didn't know what to say, and, after a short pause, Olivia moved on to lighter topics.

The Barn's were reassembled now, with the one exception, spending Cornell's spring break in Denali with Tanya and her family. I listened too eagerly to even the most trivial news. She never mentioned the one I was most interested in, and for that I was grateful. It was enough to listen to the stories of the family I'd once dreamed of belonging to.

Mr. Anderson didn't get back until after dark, and he looked more worn than he had the night before. He would be headed back to the reservation first thing in the morning for Harry's funeral, so he turned in early. I stayed on the couch with Olivia again.

Mr. Anderson was a stranger when he came down the stairs before the sun was up, wearing an old suit I'd never seen him in before. Mr. Anderson hung open; I guessed it was too tight to fasten the buttons. His tie was a bit wide for the current style. He tiptoed to the door, trying not to wake us up. I let him go, pretending to sleep, as Olivia did on the recliner.

As soon as he was out the door, Olivia sat up. Under the quilt, she was fully dressed.

‘So, what are we doing today?’ She asked.

‘I don't know do you see anything interesting happening?’

She smiled and shook her head. ‘But it's still early.’

All the time I'd been spending in La Push meant a pile of things I'd been neglecting at home, and I decided to catch up on my chores. I wanted to do something, anything that might make life easier for Mr. Anderson-it would make him feel just a little better to come home to a clean, organized house. I started with the bathroom-it showed the most signs of neglect.

While I worked, Olivia leaned against the doorjamb and asked nonchalant questions about my, well, our high school friends and what they been up to since she'd left. Her face stayed casual and emotionless, but I sensed her disapproval when she realized how little I could tell her. Or I just had a guilty conscience after eavesdropping on her conversation with Mr. Anderson yesterday morning.

I was up to my elbows in Comet, scrubbing the floor of the bathtub, when the doorbell rang.

I looked to Olivia at once, and her expression was perplexed, almost worried, which was strange; Olivia was never taken by surprise.

'Hold on!' I shouted in the general direction of the front door, getting up and hurrying to the sink to rinse my arms off.

'Bell,' Olivia said with a trace of frustration in her voice, 'I have a fairly good guess who that might be, and I think I'd better step out.'

'Guess?' I echoed. Since when did Olivia have to guess anything?

'If this is a repeat of my egregious lapse in foresight yesterday, then it's most likely Marcel Black or one of his... friends.'

I stared at her, putting it together. 'You can't see werewolves?'

She grimaced. 'So, it would seem.' She was annoyed by this fact very annoyed.

The doorbell rang again-buzzing twice quickly and impatiently.

'You don't have to go anywhere, Olivia. You were here first.'

She laughed her silvery little laugh-it had a dark edge. 'Trust me-it wouldn't be an innovative idea to have me and Marcel Black in a room together.'

She kissed my cheek swiftly before she vanished through Mr. Anderson's door-and out his back window, no doubt.

The doorbell rang again.

THE FUNERAL-

I SPUNTED DOWN THE STAIRS AND THREW THE DOOR open.

It was Marcel, of course. Even blind, Olivia wasn't slow.

He was standing about six feet back from the door, his nose wrinkled in distaste, but his face otherwise smooth-masklike. He didn't fool me; I could see the faint trembling of his hands.

Hostility rolled off him in waves. It brought back that awful afternoon when he'd chosen Sam over me, and I felt my chin jerk up defensively in response.

Marcel's Rabbit idled by the curb with Jared behind the wheel and Embry in the passenger seat. I understood what this meant: they were afraid to let him come here alone. It made me sad, and a little annoyed. The Barn's weren't like that.

'Hey,' I finally said when he didn't speak.

Maggie pursed his lips, still hanging back from the door. His eyes flickered across the front of the house.

I ground my teeth. 'She's not here. Do you need anything?' He hesitated. 'You're alone?' 'Yes.' I sighed.

'Can I talk to you a minute?'

'Of course, you can, Marcel. Come on in.'

Marcel glanced over his shoulder at his friends in the car. I saw Embry shake his head just a tiny bit. For some reason, this bugged me to no end.

My teeth clenched together again. 'Chicken' I mumbled under my breath.

Maggie's eyes flashed back to me, his thick, black brows pushing into a furious angle over his deep-set eyes. His jaw set, and he marched-there was no other way to describe the way he moved-up the sidewalk and shrugged past me into the house.

I locked gazes with first Jared and then Embry-I didn't like the hard way they eyed me; did they think I would let anything hurt Marcel? ...Before I shut the door on them.

Marcel was in the hall behind me, staring at the mess of blankets in the living room.

'Slumber party?' He asked, his tone sarcastic.

‘Yeah,’ I answered with the same level of acid. I didn't like Marcel when he acted this way. ‘What's it to you?’

He wrinkled his nose again like he smelled something unpleasant. ‘Where's your 'friend'?’ I could hear the quotation marks in his tone.

‘She had some errands to run. Look, Marcel, what do you want?’

Something about the room seemed to make him edgier-his long arms were quivering. He didn't answer my question. Instead, he moved on to the kitchen, his restless eyes darting everywhere.

I followed him. He paced back and forth along the short counter.

‘Hey,’ I said, putting myself in his way. He stopped pacing and stared down at me. ‘What's your problem?’

‘I don't like having to be here.’

That stung. I winced, and his eyes tightened.

‘Then I'm sorry you had to come,’ I muttered. ‘Why don't you tell me what you need so you can leave?’

‘I just have to ask you a couple of questions. It shouldn't take long. We have to get back for the funeral.’

‘Okay. Get it over with then.’ I was overdoing it with the antagonism, but I didn't want him to see how much this hurt. I knew I wasn't being fair. I'd picked the bloodsucker over him last night. I'd hurt him first.

He took a deep breath and his trembling fingers were suddenly still. His face smoothed into a serene mask.

‘One of the Barn's is staying here with you,’ he stated.

‘Yes, Olivia Natalie.’

He nodded thoughtfully. ‘How long is she here for?’

‘As long as she wants to be.’ The belligerence was still there in my tone.

‘It's an open invitation.’

‘Do you think you could... please... explain to her about the other one- Maggie?’

I paled. ‘I told her about that.’

He nodded. ‘You should know that we can only watch our lands with Natalie here. You'll only be safe in La Push. I can't protect you here anymore.’

‘Okay,’ I said in a small voice.

He looked away then, out the back windows. He didn't continue.

‘Is that all?’

He kept his eyes on the glass as he answered. ‘Just one more thing.’

I waited, but he didn't continue. ‘Yes...?’ I finally prompted.

‘Are the rest of them coming back now?’ he asked in a cool, quiet voice. It reminded me of Sam's always calm manner. Marcel was becoming more like Sam... I wondered why that bothered me so much.

Now I didn't speak. He looked back at my face with probing eyes.

‘Well?’ He asked. He struggled to conceal the tension behind his serene expression.

‘No!’ I said finally. Grudgingly. ‘They aren't coming back.’

His expression didn't change. ‘Okay... that's all.’

I glared at him; annoyance rekindled. ‘Well, run along now. Go tell Sam that the scary monsters aren't coming to get you.’

‘Okay,’ he repeated, still calm.

That was it. Marcel walked swiftly from the kitchen. I waited to hear the front door open, but I heard nothing. I could hear the clock over the stove ticking, and I marveled again at how quiet he'd become.

Part: 13

Calamity

What a disaster... How could I have alienated him so completely in such a short amount of time? Would he forgive me when Olivia was gone? What if he didn't?

I slumped against the counter and buried my face in my hands. How had I made such a mess of everything? But what could I have done differently? Even in hindsight, I couldn't think of any better way and perfect course of action.

'Bell...?' Marcel asked in a troubled voice.

I pulled my face out of my hands to see Marcel hesitating in the kitchen doorway; he hadn't left when I'd thought. It was only when I saw the clear drops sparkling in my hands that I realized I was crying.

Marcel's calm expression was gone; his face was anxious and unsure. He walked quickly back to stand in front of me, ducking his head so that his eyes were closer to being on the same level as mine.

'Did it again, didn't I?'

'Did what?' I asked, my voice cracking.

'Broke my promise. Sorry.'

'O-okay,' I mumbled. 'I started it this time.'

His face is twisted. 'I knew how you felt about them. It shouldn't have taken me by surprise like that.'

I could see the revulsion in his eyes. I wanted to explain to him what Olivia was really like, to defend her against the judgments he'd made, but something warned me that now was not the time.

So-o, I just said, 'Sorry,' again.

'Let's not worry about it, okay? She's just visiting, right? She'll leave, and things will go back to normal.' 'Can't I be friends with you both at the same time?' I asked, my voice not hiding an ounce of the hurt I felt.

He shook his head slowly. 'No, I don't think you can.'

I sniffed and stared at his big feet. 'But you'll wait, right? You'll still be my friend, even though I love Olivia, too?'

I didn't look up, afraid to see what he'd think of that last part. It took him a minute to answer, so I was right not to look.

'Yeah, I'll always be your friend,' he said - gruffly. 'No matter what you love.'

'Promise?'

'Promise?'

I felt his arms wind around me, and I leaned against his chest, still sniffing.

'This- sucks...'

'Yeah.' Then he sniffed my hair and said, 'Ewe-ah.'

'What?' I demanded. I looked up to see that his nose was wrinkled again.

'Why does everyone keep doing that to me? I don't smell!'

He smiled a little. 'Yes, you do you smell like them. Blech. Too sweet sickly sweet. And... icy. It burns my nose.'

'Really...?' That was strange.

Olivia smelled unbelievably wonderful. To a human, anyway. 'But why would Olivia think I smelled, too, then?'

That wiped his smile away. 'Huh. I don't smell so good to her, either.'

'Huh!'

'Well, you both smells fine to me.' I rested my head against him again. I was going to miss him terribly when he walked out of my door. It was a nasty Catch-22-on the one hand, I wanted Olivia to stay forever. I was going to die-metaphorically when she left me. But how was I supposed to go without seeing Maggie for any length of time? What a mess, I thought again.

'I'll miss you,' Marcel whispered, echoing my thoughts. 'Every minute. I hope she leaves soon.'

'It doesn't have to be that way, Maggie.'

He sighed. 'Yes, it does. Bell. You... love her. So-o, I'd better not get anywhere near her. I'm not sure that I'm even-tempered enough to handle that. Sam would be mad if I broke the treaty, and'-his voice turned sarcastic-'you probably wouldn't like it too much if I killed your friend.'

I recoiled from him when he said that, but he only tightened his arms, refusing to let me escape. 'There's no point in avoiding the truth. That's the way things are, Bells.'

'I do not like the way things are.'

Marcel freed one arm so that he could cup his big brown hand under my chin and make me look at him. 'Yeah. It was easier when we were both human, wasn't it?'

I sighed...!

We stared at each other for a long moment. His hand smoldered against my skin. In my face, I knew there was nothing but wistful sadness- I didn't want to have to say goodbye now, no matter how short a time. At first, his face reflected mine, but then, as neither of us looked away, his expression changed.

He released me, lifting his other hand to brush his fingertips along my cheek, trailing them down to my jaw. I could feel his fingers tremble-not with anger this time. He pressed his palm against my cheek so that my face was trapped between his burning hands.

'Bell,' he whispered.

I was frozen...

No! I hadn't made this decision yet. I didn't know if I could do this, and now I was out of time to think. But I would have been a fool if I thought rejecting him now would have no consequences.

I stared back at him. He was not my Marcel, but he could be. His face was familiar and beloved. In so many real ways, I did love him. He was my comfort, my safe harbor. Right now, I could choose to have him belong to me.

Olivia was back for the moment, but that changed nothing. True love was forever lost. The prince was never coming back to kiss me awake from my enchanted sleep. I was not a princess. So, what was the fairy-tale protocol for other kisses? The mundane kind that didn't break any spells.

It would be easy-like holding his hand or having his arms around me. It would feel nice. It wouldn't feel like a betrayal. Besides, who was I betraying, anyway? Just myself.

Keeping his eyes on mine, Marcel began to bend his face toward me. And I was still undecided.

The shrill ring of the phone made us both jump- but it did not break his focus. He took his hand from under my chin and reached over me to grab the receiver, but still held my face securely with the hand against my cheek. His dark eyes did not free mine. I was too muddled to react, even to take advantage of the distraction.

Part: 14

Grimacing

‘Yes. You're right, dog.’ Olivia was snarling, too. ‘The Ministry is the very essence of our kind-they're the reason your hair stands on end when you smell me. They are the substance of your nightmares, the dread behind your instincts. I'm not unaware of that.’

‘And you take her to them like a bottle of wine for a party!’ he shouted.

‘You think she'd be better off if I left her here alone, with Maggie stalking her?’

‘We can handle the redhead.’

‘Then why is she still hunting?’

Marcel growled, and a shudder rippled through his torso.

‘Stop that!’ I shouted at them both, wild with impatience, ‘argue when we get back, let's go!’

Olivia turned for the car, disappearing in her haste; I hurried after her, pausing automatically to turn and lock the door.

Marcel caught my arm with a shivering hand. ‘Please, Bell; I'm begging.’

His dark eyes were glistening with tears. A lump filled my throat.

‘Maggie, I have to-’

‘You don’t, though. You don’t. You could stay here with me. You could stay alive... for Mr. Anderson... for me.’

The engine of Chiaz’s Mercedes purred; the rhythm of the thrumming spiked when Olivia revved it impatiently. I shook my head, tears spattering from my eyes with the sharp motion. I pulled my arm free, and he didn’t fight me.

‘Don’t die, Bell,’ he choked out. ‘Don’t go... Don’t.’

What if I never saw him again?

The thought pushed me past the silent tears; a cry, moan, snuffle, and cry, broke out from my chest.

I flung my arms around his waist and hugged for one too-short moment, burying my tear-wet face against his chest. He put his big hand on the back of my hair as if to hold me there.

‘Bye, Maggie.’ I pulled his hand from my hair and kissed his palm. I couldn’t bear to look at his face. ‘Sorry,’ I whispered.

Then I spun and raced for the car. The door on the passenger side was open and waiting. I threw my backpack over the headrest and slid in, slamming the door behind me. ‘Take care of Mr. Anderson!’ I turned to shout out the window, but Marcel was nowhere in sight.

As Olivia stomped on the gas and with the tires screeching like human screams-spun us around to face the road, I caught sight of a shred of white near the edge of the trees. A piece of a shoe. HATE- WE MADE OUR FLIGHT WITH SECONDS TO SPARE, AND THEN the true torture began.

The plane sat idle on the tarmac while the flight attendants strolled-so casually- up and down the aisle, patting the bags in the overhead compartments to make sure everything fit. The pilots leaned out of the cockpit, chatting with them as they passed.

Olivia’s hand was hard on my shoulder, holding me in my seat while I bounced anxiously up and down.

‘It’s faster than running,’ she reminded me in a muffled voice.

I just nodded in time with my bouncing.

At last, the plane rolled lazily from the gate, building speed with a gradual steadiness that tortured me further. I expected relief when we achieved liftoff, but my frenzied impatience didn't lessen. Olivia lifted the phone on the back of the seat in front of her before we'd stopped climbing, turning her back on the flight attendant who eyed her with disapproval. Something about my expression stopped the flight attendant from coming over to protest.

I tried to tune out what Olivia was murmuring to Joh; I didn't want to hear the words again, but some slipped through.

'I can't be sure, I keep seeing him do different things, he keeps changing his mind... A killing spree through the city, attacking the guard, lifting a car over his head in the main square... mostly things that would expose them-he knows that's the fastest way to force a reaction...'

'No, you can't.' Olivia's voice dropped until it was inaudible, though I was sitting inches from her. Contrarily, I listened harder. 'Tell Emmah no... Well, go after Emmah and Rose and bring them back... Think about it, Joh. If he sees any of us, what do you think he will do?'

She nodded. 'Exactly. I think Karly is the only chance-if there is a chance...

I'll do everything that can be done but prepare Chiaz; the odds aren't good.' She laughed then, and there was a catch in her voice. 'I've thought of that... Yes, I promise.' Her voice became pleading. 'Don't follow me. I promise, Joh.

One way or another, I'll get out... And I love you.'

She hung up and leaned back in her seat with her eyes closed. 'I hate lying to him.'

'Tell me everything, Olivia,' I begged. 'I don't understand. Why did you tell Joh to stop Emmah, why can't they come to help us?'

'Two reasons,' she whispered, her eyes still closed. 'The first I told him. We could try to stop Marcel ourselves-if Emmah could get her hands on him; we might be able to stop him long enough to convince him you're alive. But we can't sneak up on Marcel. And if he sees us coming for him, he'll just act that much faster. He'll throw a Brick through a wall or something, and the Ministry will take him down.

‘That's the second reason, of course, the reason I couldn't say to Joh. Because if they're there and the Ministry kills Marcel, they'll fight them. Bell.’ She opened her eyes and stared at me, imploring.

‘If there were any chance, we could win... if there were a way that the four of us could save my brother by fighting for him, maybe it would be different. But we can't, and, Bell, I can't lose Joh like that.’

I realized why her eyes begged for my understanding. She was protecting Joh, at our expense, and at Marcel's, too. I understood, and I did not think badly of her.

I nodded...

‘Couldn't Marcel hear you, though.’ I asked. ‘Wouldn't he know, as soon as he heard your thoughts, that I was alive, that there was no point to this?’

Not that there was any justification, either way. I still could not believe that he could react like this.

It made no sense! I remembered with painful clarity his words that day on the sofa, while we observed Romeo and Juliet kill themselves, one after the other.

I wasn't going to live without you, he'd said as if it should be such an obvious conclusion. But the words he had spoken in the forest as he'd left me had canceled all that out-forcefully.

‘If he were listening,’ she explained. ‘But unbelievably, it's possible to lie with your thoughts. If you had died, I would still try to stop him. And I would be thinking 'she's alive, she's alive' as hard as I could. He knows that.’

I ground my teeth in mute frustration.

‘If there were any way to do this without you, Bell, I wouldn't be jeopardizing you like this. It's very wrong of me.’

‘Don't be stupid. I'm the last thing you should be worrying about.’ I shook my head impatiently. ‘Tell me what you meant, about hating to lie to Joh.’

She smiled a grim smile. ‘I promised him I would get out before they killed me, too. It's not something I can guarantee-not by a long shot.’ She raised her eyebrows as if willing me to take the danger more seriously.

‘Who is this Ministry?’ I demanded in a whisper. ‘What makes them so much more dangerous than Emmah, Joh, Rose, and you?’ It was hard to imagine something scarier than that. She took a deep breath, and then abruptly leveled a dark glance over my shoulder. I turned in time to see the man in the aisle seat looking away as if he wasn't listening to us.

He was a businessperson, in a dark suit with a power tie and a laptop on his knees. While I stared at him with irritation, he opened the computer and very conspicuously put headphones on.

I leaned closer to Olivia. Her lips were at my ears as she breathed the story.

‘I was surprised that you recognized the name,’ she said. ‘That you understood so immediately what it meant when I said he was going to Italy. I thought I would have to explain. How much did Marcel tell you?’

‘He just said they were an old, powerful family-like royalty. That you didn't provoke them unless you wanted to... die,’ I whispered. The last word was hard to choke out.

‘You have to understand,’ she said, her voice slower, more measured now.

‘We Barns are unique in more ways than you know. It's... abnormal for so many of us to live together in peace. It's the same for Tanya's family in the north, and Chiaz speculates that abstaining makes it easier for us to be civilized, to form bonds based on love rather than survival or convenience. Even James's little coven of three was unusually large-and you saw how easily Sophiet left them. Our kind travel alone, or in pairs, as a rule. Chiaz's family is the biggest in existence with one exception. The Ministry.

‘There were three of them originally, Aron, Caius, and Marcellus.’

‘I've seen them,’ I mumbled. ‘In the picture in Chiaz's study.’

Olivia nodded. ‘Two females joined them over time, and the five of them make up the family. I'm not sure, but I suspect that their age is what gives them the ability to live peacefully together. They are well over three thousand years old. Or it's their gifts that give them extra tolerance. Like Marcel and I, Aron and Marcellus are... talented.’

She continued before I could ask. ‘Or maybe it's just their love of power that binds them together. Royalty is an apt description.’

‘But if there are only five-’

‘Five that make up the family,’ she corrected. ‘That doesn’t include their guard.’

I took a deep breath. ‘That sounds... serious.’

‘Oh, it is,’ she assured me. ‘There were nine members of the guard that was permanent, the last time we heard. Others are more... transitory. It changes. And many of them are gifted as well-with formidable gifts, gifts that make what I can do look like a parlor trick. The Ministry chose them for their abilities, physical or otherwise.’

I opened my mouth and then closed it. I didn’t think I wanted to know how bad the odds were.

She nodded again as if she understood exactly what I was thinking. ‘They don’t get into too many confrontations. No one is stupid enough to mess with them. They stay in their city, leaving only as duty calls.’

‘Duty?’ I wondered.

‘Didn’t Marcel tell you what they do?’

‘No,’ I said, feeling the blank expression on my face.

Olivia looked over my head again, toward the businessperson, and put her wintry lips back to my ear.

‘There’s a reason he called them royalty... the ruling class. Over the millennia, they have assumed the position of enforcing our rules-which translates to punishing transgressors. They fulfill that duty decisively.’

My eyes popped wide with shock. ‘There are rules?’ I asked in a voice that was too loud.

Motivations...

‘Got it!’ he crowed. ‘Another promise to keep.’

‘What are you talking about?’

He let go of my hand and pointed toward the southern edge of the beach, where the flat, rocky half-moon dead-ended against the sheer sea cliffs. I stared, uncomprehending.

‘Didn’t I promise to take you cliff diving?’

I shivered... strongly.

‘Yeah, it’ll be pretty cold-not as cold as it is today. Can you feel the weather changing? The pressure? It will be warmer tomorrow. You up for it?’

The dark water did not look inviting, and, from this angle, the cliffs looked even higher than before.

Nonetheless, it had been days since I’d heard Marcel’s voice. That was part of the problem. I was addicted to the sound of my delusions. It made things worse if I went too long without them. Jumping off a cliff was certain to remedy that situation.

‘Sure, I’m up for it. Fun.’

‘It’s a date,’ he said and draped his arm around my shoulders.

‘Okay-now let’s go get you some sleep.’ I didn’t like the way the circles under his eyes were beginning to look permanently etched into his skin.

I woke early the next morning and snuck a change of clothes out to the truck. I had a feeling that Mr. Anderson would approve of today’s plan about as much as he would approve of the motorcycle.

The idea of a distraction from all my worries had me almost excited. It would be fun. A date with Marcel, a date with Marcel... I laughed darkly to myself. Maggie could say what he wanted about us being a messed-up pair- I was the one who was truly messed up. I made the werewolf seem downright normal.

I expected Marcel to meet me out front, the way he usually did when my noisy truck announced my arrival. When he didn’t, I guessed that he might still be sleeping. I would wait-let him get as much rest as he could. He needed his sleep, and that would give the daytime to warm a bit more.

Maggie had been right about the weather, though; it had changed in the night. A thick layer of clouds pressed heavily on the atmosphere now, making it almost sultry; it was warm and close under the gray blanket. I left my sweater in the truck.

I knocked quietly on the door.

‘C'mon in, Bell,’ Billy said.

He was at the kitchen table, eating cold cereal.

‘Maggie sleeping?’

‘Err, no.’ He set his spoon down, and his eyebrows pulled together.

‘What happened?’ I demanded. I could tell from his expression that something had.

‘Embry, Jared, and Paul crossed a fresh trail early this morning. Sam and Maggie took off to help. Sam was hopeful- she's hedged herself in beside the mountains. He thinks they have a good chance to finish this.’ ‘Oh, no, Billy,’ I whispered. ‘Oh, no.’

He chuckled, deep and low. ‘Do you like La Push so well that you want to extend your sentence here?’

‘Don't make jokes, Billy. This is too scary for that.’

‘You're right,’ he agreed, still complacent. His ancient eyes were impossible to read. ‘This one's tricky.’ I bit my lip.

‘It's not as dangerous for them as you think it is. Sam knows what he's doing. You're the one that you should worry about. The angel doesn't want to fight them. She's just trying to find a way around them... to you.’

‘How does Sam know what he's doing?’ I demanded, brushing aside his concern for me. ‘They've only killed just the one angle that could have been lucky.’

‘We take what we do very seriously, Bell. Nothing's been forgotten. Everything they need to know has been passed down from father to son for generations.’

That didn't comfort me the way he intended it to. The memory of Maggie, wild, catlike, lethal, was too strong in my head. If she couldn't get around the wolves, she would eventually try to go through them.

Billy went back to his breakfast; I sat down on the sofa and flipped aimlessly through the TV channels. That didn't last long. I started to feel closed in by the small room, claustrophobic, upset by the fact that I couldn't see out the curtained windows.

‘I’ll be at the beach,’ I told Billy abruptly and hurried out the door.

Being outside didn’t help as much as I’d hoped. The clouds pushed down with an invisible weight that kept the claustrophobia from easing. The forest seemed strangely vacant as I walked toward the beach. I didn’t see any animals-no birds, no squirrels. I couldn’t hear any birds, either. The silence was eerie; there wasn’t even the sound of wind in the trees.

I knew it was all just a product of the weather, but it still made me edgy. The heavy, warm pressure of the atmosphere was perceptible even to my weak human senses, and it hinted at something major in the storm department. A glance at the sky backed this up, the clouds where churning sluggishly despite the lack of breeze on the ground. The closest clouds where a smoky gray, but between the cracks, I could see another layer that was a gruesome purple color. The skies had a ferocious plan in store for today. The animals must be bunkering down.

As soon as I reached the beach, I wished I hadn’t come- I’d already had enough of this place. I’d been here every day, wandering alone. Was it so much different from my nightmares? But where else to go? I trudged down to the driftwood tree and sat at the end so that I could lean against the tangled roots. I stared up at the angry sky broodingly, waiting for the first drops to break the stillness.

I tried not to think about the danger Marcel and his friends were in. Because nothing could happen to Marcel. The thought was unendurable. I’d lost too much already-would fate take the last few shreds of peace left behind? That seemed unfair, out of balance. But I’d violated some unknown rule, crossed some line that had condemned me. It was wrong to be so involved with myths and legends, to turn my back on the human world. Maybe...

No... Nothing would happen to Marcel. I had to believe that, or I wouldn’t be able to function.

‘Argh!’ I groaned and jumped off the log. I couldn’t sit still; it was worse than pacing.

I’d been counting on hearing Marcel this morning. It seemed like that was the one thing that might make it bearable to live through this day.

The hole had been festering lately like it was getting revenge for the times that Marcel’s presence had tamed it. The edges burned.

The waves picked up as I paced, beginning to crash against the rocks, but there was still no wind. I felt pinned down by the pressure of the storm. Everything swirled around me, but it was perfectly still where I stood. The air had a faint electric charge- I could feel the static in my hair.

Farther out, the waves were angrier than they were along the shore. I could see them battering against the line of the cliffs, spraying big white clouds of seafoam into the sky. There was still no movement in the air, though the clouds roiled more quickly now. It was eerie looking like the clouds were moving by their own will. I shivered, though I knew it was just a trick of the pressure.

The cliffs where a black knife edge against the livid sky. Staring at them, I remembered the day Marcel had told me about Sam and his 'gang.' I thought of the boys-the werewolves-throwing themselves into the empty air.

The image of the falling, spiraling figures was still vivid in my mind. I imagined the utter freedom of the fall... I imagined the way Marcel's voice would have sounded in my head furious, velvet, perfect... The burning in my chest flared agonizingly.

There had to be some way to quench it. The pain was growing increasingly intolerable by the second. I glared at the cliffs and the crashing waves.

Well, why not? Why not quench it right now?

Marcel had promised me cliff diving, hadn't he? Just because he was unavailable, should I have to give up the distraction I needed so badly needed even worse because Marcel was out risking his life? Risking it for me.

If it weren't for me, Maggie would not be killing people here... just somewhere else, far away. If anything happened to Marcel, it would be my fault. That realization stabbed deep and had me jogging back up to the road toward Billy's house, where my truck waited.

I knew my way to the lane that passed closest to the cliffs, but I had to hunt for the little path that would take me out to the ledge. As I followed it, I looked for turns or Pittsburgh, knowing that Maggie had planned to take me off the lower outcropping rather than the top, but the path wound in a thin single line toward the brink with no options. I didn't have time to find another way down- the storm was moving in quickly now. The wind was finally beginning to touch me, the clouds pressing closer to the ground. Just as I reached the place where the dirt path fanned out into the stone precipice, the first drops broke through and splattered on my face.

It was not hard to convince myself that I didn't have time to search for another way- I wanted to jump from the top. This was the image that had lingered in my head. I wanted the long fall that would feel like flying.

I knew that this was the stupidest, most reckless thing I had done yet. The thought made me smile. The pain was already easing as if my body knew that Marcel's voice was just seconds away...

The ocean sounded very far away, somehow farther than before, when I was on the path in the trees. I grimaced when I thought of the probable temperature of the water. But I wasn't going to let that stop me.

The wind blew stronger now, whipping the rain into eddies around me.

I stepped out to the edge, keeping my eyes on the space in front of me. My toes felt ahead blindly, caressing the edge of the rock when they encountered it. I drew in a deep breath and held it... waiting. 'Bell.'

I smiled and exhaled.

Yes? I didn't answer out loud, for fear that the sound of my voice would shatter the beautiful illusion. He sounded so real, so close. It was only when he was disapproving like this that I could hear the true memory of his voice-the velvet texture and the musical intonation that made up the most perfect of all voices.

'Don't do this,' he pleaded.

You wanted me to be human, I reminded him. Well, watch me.

'Please. For me.'

But you won't stay with me any other way.

'Please.' It was just a whisper in the blowing rain that tossed my hair and drenched my clothes-making me as wet as if this were my second jump of the day.

I rolled up onto the balls of my feet.

‘No, Bell!’ He was angry now, and the anger was so lovely.

I smiled and raised my arms straight out, as if I were going to dive, lifting my face into the rain. But it was too ingrained from years of swimming at the public pool-feet first, the first time. I leaned forward, crouching to get more spring...

And I flung myself off the cliff.

Part: 15

Midair

I screamed as I dropped through the open air like a meteor, but it was a scream of exhilaration and not fear. The wind resisted, trying vainly to fight the unconquerable gravity, pushing against me, and twirling me in spirals like a rocket crashing to the earth.

Yes! The word echoed through my head as I sliced through the surface of the water. It was icy, colder than I'd feared, and yet the chill only added to the high.

I was proud of myself as I plunged deeper into the freezing black water. I hadn't had one moment of terror-just pure adrenaline. The fall wasn't scary at all. Where was the challenge?

That was when the current caught me.

I'd been so preoccupied with the size of the cliffs, by the obvious danger of their high, sheer faces, that I hadn't worried at all about the dark water waiting. I never dreamed that the true menace was lurking far below me, under the heaving surf.

It felt like the waves were fighting over me, jerking me back and forth between them as if determined to share by pulling me into halves. I knew the right way to avoid a riptide: swim parallel to the beach rather than struggling for the shore. But the knowledge did me little good when I didn't know which way the shore was.

I couldn't even tell which way the surface was.

The angry water was black in every direction; there was no brightness to direct me upward. Gravity was all-powerful when it competed with the air, but it had nothing on the waves- I couldn't feel a downward pull, a sinking in any direction. Just the battering of the current that flung me round and round like a rag doll.

I fought to keep my breath in, to keep my lips locked around my last store of oxygen.

It didn't surprise me that my delusion of Marcel was there. He owed me that much, considering that I was dying. I was surprised by how sure that knowledge was. I was going to drown. I was drowning.

‘Keep swimming!’ Marcel begged urgently in my head.

Where?

There was nothing but the darkness. There was no place to swim, I thought.

‘Stop that!’ He ordered. ‘Don't you dare give up!’

The cold of the water was numbing my arms and legs. I didn't feel the buffeting so much as before. It was more of just dizziness now, a helpless spinning in the water.

But I listened to him. I forced my arms to continue reaching, my legs to kick harder, though every second I was facing a new direction. It couldn't be doing any good. What was the point? ‘Fight!’ he yelled. ‘Damn it, Bell, keep fighting.’

Why?

I didn't want to fight anymore. And it wasn't the light-headedness, or the cold, or the failure of my arms as the muscles gave out in exhaustion, that made me content to stay where I was. I was almost happy that it was over. This was an easier death than others I'd faced. Oddly peaceful.

I thought briefly of the clichés, about how you were supposed to see your life flash before your eyes. I was so much luckier. Who wanted to see a rerun, anyway?

I saw him, and I had no will to fight. It was so clear, so much more defined than any memory.

My subconscious had stored Marcel away in flawless detail, saving him for this final moment. I could see his perfect face as if he were there, the exact shade of his icy skin, the shape of his lips, the line of his jaw, the gold glinting in his furious eyes. He was angry, naturally, that I was giving up. His teeth were clenched, and his nostrils flared with rage.

‘No! Bell, no!’

My ears were flooded with the freezing water, but his voice was clearer than ever. I ignored his words and concentrated on the sound of his voice. Why would I fight when I was so happy where I was? Even as my lungs burned for more air and my legs cramped in the icy cold, I was content. I'd forgotten what real happiness felt like.

Happiness. It made the whole dying thing bearable.

The current one at that moment, shoving me abruptly against something hard, a rock invisible in the gloom. It hit me solidly across the chest, slamming into me like an iron bar, and the breath whooshed out of my lungs, escaping in a thick cloud of silver bubbles. Water flooded down my throat, choking and burning. The iron bar seemed to be dragging me, pulling me away from Marcel, deeper into the dark, to the ocean floor.

Goodbye, I love you, was my last thought.

PARIS AT THAT MOMENT, MY HEAD BROKE THE SURFACE.

How disorienting. I'd been sure I was sinking. The current wouldn't let up. It was slamming me against more rocks; they beat against the center of my back sharply, rhythmically, pushing the water from my lungs. It gushed out in amazing volume, absolute torrents pouring from my mouth and nose. The salt burned, and my lungs burned, and my throat was too full of water to catch a breath and the rocks were hurting my back.

Somehow- I stayed in one place, though the waves still heaved around me. I couldn't see anything but water everywhere, reaching for my face.

'Breathe!' a voice, wild with anxiety, ordered, and I felt a cruel stab of pain where I recognized the voice-because it wasn't Marcel's.

I could not obey. The waterfall pouring from my mouth didn't stop long enough for me to catch a breath. The black, icy water filled my chest, burning.

The rock smacked into my back again, right between my shoulder blades, and another volley of water choked its way out of my lungs.

'Breathe, Bell! C'mon!' Marcel begged.

Black spots bloomed across my vision, getting wider and wider, blocking out the light.

The rock struck me again.

The rock wasn't cold like the water; it was hot on my skin. I realized it was Marcel's hand, trying to beat the water from my lungs. The iron bar that had dragged me from the sea was also... warm... My head whirled; the black spots covered everything...

Was I dying again, then? I didn't like it-this wasn't as good as the last time. It was only dark now, nothing worth looking at here. The sound of the crashing waves faded into the black and became a quiet, even whoosh that sounded like it was coming from the inside of my ears...

'Bell?' Marcel asked, his voice still tense, but not as wild as before. 'Bells, honey, can you hear me?'

The contents of my head swished and rolled sickeningly like they'd joined the rough water...

'How long has she been unconscious?' someone else asked.

The voice that was not Marcel's shocked me, jarred me into a more focused awareness.

I realized that I was still. There was no tug of the current on me-the heaving was inside my head. The surface under me was flat and motionless. It felt grainy against my bare arms.

'I don't know,' Marcel reported, still frantic. His voice was very close. Hands-so warm they had to be his- I brushed wet hair from my cheeks. 'A few minutes? It didn't take long to tow her to the beach.' The quiet whooshing inside my ears was not the waves-it was the air moving in and out of my lungs again. Each breath burned-the passageways were as raw as if I'd scrubbed them out with steel wool. But I was breathing.

And I was freezing. A thousand sharp, icy beads were striking my face and arms, making the cold worse.

'She's breathing. She'll come around. We should get her out of the cold, though. I don't like the color she's turning...' I recognized Sam's voice this time.

'You think it's okay to move her?'

'She didn't hurt her back or anything when she fell?'

'I don't know.'

They hesitated.

I tried to open my eyes. It took me a minute, but then I could see the dark, purple clouds, flinging the freezing rain down at me. ‘Maggie?’ I croaked.

Marcel’s face blocked out the sky. ‘Oh!’ he gasped, relief washing over his features. His eyes were wet from the rain. ‘Oh, Bell! Are you okay? Can you hear me? Do you hurt anywhere?’

‘J-Just m-my throat,’ I stuttered, my lips quivering from the cold.

‘Let’s get you out of here, then,’ Marcel said. He slid his arms under me and lifted me without effort-like picking up an empty box. His chest was bare and warm; he hunched his shoulders to keep the rain off me. My head lolled over his arm. I stared vacantly back toward the furious water, beating the sand behind him.

‘You got her?’ I heard Sam ask.

‘Yeah, I’ll take it from here. Get back to the hospital. I’ll join you later.

Thanks, Sam.’

My head was still rolling. None of his words sunk in at first. Sam didn’t answer. There was no sound, and I wondered if he were already gone.

The water licked and writhed up the sand after us as Marcel carried me away like it was angry that I’d escaped. As I stared wearily, a spark of color caught my unfocused eyes-a small flash of fire was dancing on the black water, far out in the bay. The image made no sense, and I wondered how conscious I was.

My head swirled with the memory of the black, churning water-of being so lost that I couldn’t find up or down. So, lost... but somehow Marcel...

‘How did you find me?’ I rasped.

‘I was searching for you,’ he told me. He was half-jogging through the rain, up the beach toward the road. ‘I followed the tire tracks to your truck, and then I heard you scream...’ He shuddered. ‘Why would you jump, Bell? Didn’t you notice that it’s turning into a hurricane out here? Couldn’t you have waited for me?’ Anger filled his tone as the relief faded.

‘Sorry,’ I muttered. ‘It was stupid.’

‘Yeah, it was really stupid,’ he agreed, drops of rain shaking free of his hair as he nodded. ‘Look, do you mind saving the stupid stuff for when I’m around? I won’t be able to concentrate if I think you’re jumping off cliffs behind my back.’

‘Sure,’ I agreed. ‘No problem.’ I sounded like a chain-smoker. I tried to clear my throat- and then winced; the throat-clearing felt like stabbing a knife down there. ‘What happened today? Did you... find her?’ It was my turn to shudder, though I wasn’t so cold here, right next to his ridiculous body heat.

Marcel shook his head. He was still more running than walking as he headed up the road to his house. ‘No. She took off into the water-the bloodsuckers have the advantage there. That’s why I raced home- I was afraid she was going to double back swimming. You spend so much time on the beach...’ He trailed off, a catch in his throat.

‘Sam came back with you... is everyone else home, too?’ I hoped they weren’t still out searching for her.

‘Yeah. Sort of.’

I tried to read his expression, squinting into the hammering rain. His eyes were tight with worry or pain.

The words that hadn’t made sense before suddenly did. ‘You said... hospital. Before, to Sam. Is someone hurt? Did she fight you?’ My voice jumped up an octave, sounding strange with the hoarseness.

Marcel’s eyes tightened again. ‘It doesn’t look so great right now.’

Abruptly, I felt sick with guilt-felt truly horrible about the brainless cliff dive. Nobody needed to be worrying about me right now. What a stupid time to be reckless.

‘What can I do?’ I asked.

At that moment the rain stopped. I hadn’t realized we were already back to Marcel’s house until he walked through the door. The storm pounded against the roof.

‘You can stay here,’ Marcel said as he dumped me on the short couch. ‘I mean it-right here I’ll get you some dry clothes.’

I let my eyes adjust to the darkroom while Marcel banged around in his bedroom. The cramped front room seemed so empty without Billy, almost desolate. It was strangely ominous-probably just because I knew where he was.

Marcel was back in seconds. He threw a pile of gray cotton at me. 'These will be huge on you, but it's the best I've got. I'll-a, step outside so you can change.'

'Don't go anywhere. I'm too tired to move yet. Just stay with me.'

Marcel sat on the floor next to me, his back against the couch. I wondered when he'd slept last. He looked as exhausted as I felt.

He leaned his head on the cushion next to mine and yawned. 'Guess I could rest for a minute...'

His eyes closed. I let my slide shut, too.

Poor Harry. Poor Sue. I knew Mr. Anderson was going to be beside himself. Harry was one of his best friends. Despite Maggie's negative take on things, I hoped fervently that Harry would pull through. For Mr. Anderson's sake. For Sue's and Leah's and Seth's...

Billy's sofa was right next to the radiator, and I was warm now, despite my soaked clothes. My lungs ached in a way that pushed me toward unconsciousness rather than keeping me awake. I wondered vaguely if it was wrong to sleep... or was I getting drowning mixed up with concussions...? Marcel began softly snoring, and the sound of it soothed like a lullaby. I fell asleep quickly.

For the first time in a very long time, my dream was just a normal dream.

Just a blurred wandering through old memories-blinding bright visions of the Pa-sun, my mother's face, a ramshackle treehouse, a faded quilt, a wall of mirrors, a flame on the black water... I forgot each of them as soon as the picture changed.

The last picture was the only one that stuck in my head. It was meaningless just a set on a stage. A balcony at night, a painted moon hanging in the sky. I watched the girl in her nightdress lean on the railing and talk to herself.

Meaningless... but when I slowly struggled back to consciousness, Juliet was on my mind.

Marcel was still asleep; he'd slumped down to the floor and his breathing was deep and even. The house was darker now than before, it was black outside the window. I was stiff but warm and almost dry. The inside of my throat burned with every breath I took.

I was going to have to get up at least to get a drink. But my body just wanted be-a here limp, to never move again. Instead of moving, I thought about Juliet some more.

I wondered what she would have done if Romeo had left her, not because he was banished, but because he lost interests. What if Rosalind had given him the time of day, and he'd changed his mind? What if, instead of marrying Juliet, he'd just disappeared?

I thought I knew how Juliet would feel.

She wouldn't go back to her old life, not really. She wouldn't ever have moved on; I was sure of that. Even if she'd lived until she was old and gray, every time she closed her eyes, it would have been Romeo's face she saw behind her lids.

She would have accepted that, eventually.

I wondered if she would have married Paris in the end, just to please her parents, to keep the peace. No, not, I decided. But then, the story didn't say much about Paris. He was just a stick figure-a placeholder, a threat, a deadline to force her hand.

What if there were more to Paris?

What if Paris had been Juliet's friend? Her very best friend? What if he was the only one, she could confide in about the whole devastating thing with Romeo? The one person who understood her and made her feel halfway human again? What if he was patient and kind? What if he took care of her? What if Juliet knew she couldn't survive without him? What if he loved her, and wanted her to be happy?

And... what if she loved Paris? Not like Romeo. Nothing like that, of course. But enough that she wanted him to be happy, too?

Marcel's slow, deep breathing was the only sound in the room-like a lullaby hummed to a child, like the whisper of a rocking chair, like the ticking of an old clock when you had nowhere you needed to go...It was the sound of comfort.

If Romeo was gone, never coming back, would it have mattered whether Juliet had taken Paris up on his offer? She should have tried to settle into the leftover scraps of life that were left behind. That would have been as close to happiness as she could get.

I sighed and then groaned when the sigh scraped my throat. I was reading too much into the story.

Romeo wouldn't change his mind. That's why people still remembered his name, always twined with hers: Romeo and Juliet. That's why it was a delightful story.

'Juliet gets dumped and ends up with Paris' would have never been a hit.

I closed my eyes and drifted again, letting my mind wander away from the stupid play I didn't want to think about anymore. I thought about reality instead of jumping off the cliff and what a brainless mistake that had been. And not just the cliff, but the motorcycles and the whole irresponsible Evil Knievel bit. What if something bad happened to me? What would that do to Mr. Anderson? Harry's heart attack had pushed everything suddenly into perspective for me. The perspective that I didn't want to see because if I admitted to the truth of it-it would mean that I would have to change my ways. Could I live like that?

Maybe... It wouldn't be easy; in fact, it would be downright miserable to give up my hallucinations and try to be a grown-up. But I should do it. And I could. If I had Marcel.

I couldn't make that decision right now. It hurt too much. I'd think about something else.

Images from my ill-considered afternoon stunt rolled through my head while I tried to come up with something pleasant to think about... the feel of the air as I fell, the blackness of the water, the thrashing of the current... Marcel's face... I lingered there for a long time. Marcel's warm hands, trying to beat life back into me... the stinging rain flung down by the purple clouds... the strange fire on the waves...

There was something familiar about that flash of color on top of the water. Of course, it couldn't be fire-

My thoughts were interrupted by the sound of a car squelching through the mud on the road outside. I heard it stop in front of the house, and doors started opening and closing. I thought about sitting up and then decided against that idea.

Billy's voice was easily identifiable, but he kept it uncharacteristically low so that it was only a gravelly grumble.

The door opened, and the light flicked on. I blinked, momentarily blind.

Maggie startled awake, gasping, and jumping to his feet.

'Sorry,' Billy grunted. 'Did we wake you?'

My eyes slowly focused on his face, and then, as I could read his expression, they filled with tears.

'Oh, no, Billy!' I moaned.

He nodded slowly, his expression hard with grief. Maggie hurried to his father and took one of his hands. The pain made his face suddenly childlike-it looked odd on top of the man's body.

Sam was right behind Billy, pushing his chair through the door. His normal composure was absent from his agonized face.

'I'm so sorry,' I whispered.

Billy nodded. 'It's going to be hard all around.'

'Where's Mr. Anderson?'

'Your dad is still at the hospital with Sue. There are a lot of... arrangements to be made.'

I swallowed hard.

'I'd better get back there,' Sam mumbled, and he ducked hastily out the door.

Billy pulled his hand away from Marcel, and then he rolled himself through the kitchen toward his room.

Maggie stared after him for a minute, then came to sit on the floor beside me again. He put his face in his hands. I rubbed his shoulder, wishing I could think of anything to say.

After a long moment, Marcel caught my hand and held it to his face.

'How are you feeling? Are you okay? I probably should have taken you to a doctor or something.' He sighed.

‘Don't worry about me,’ I croaked.

He twisted his head to look at me. His eyes were rimmed in red. ‘You don't look so good.’

‘I don't feel so good, either, I guess.’

‘I'll go get your truck and then take you home-you probably ought to be there when Mr. Anderson gets back.’

‘Right...’

I lay listlessly on the sofa while I waited for him. Billy was silent in the other room. I felt like a peeping tom, peering through the cracks at a private sorrow that wasn't mine.

It didn't take Maggie long. The roar of my truck's engine broke the silence before I expected it. He helped me up from the couch without speaking, keeping his arm around my shoulder when the chilly air outside made me shiver. He took the driver's seat without asking, and then pulled me next to his side to keep his arm tight around me. I leaned my head against his chest.

‘How will you get home?’ I asked.

‘I'm not going home. We still haven't caught the bloodsucker, remember?’ My next shudder had nothing to do with the cold.

It was a quiet ride after that. The chilly air had woken me up. My mind was alert, and it was working very hard and very fast.

What if? What was the right thing to do?

I couldn't imagine my life without Marcel now-I cringed away from the idea of even trying to imagine that. Somehow, he'd become essential to my survival.

But to leave things the way they were... was that cruel, as Lance had accused?

I remembered wishing that Marcel was my brother. I realized now that all I wanted to be a claim on him. It didn't feel brotherly when he held me like this. It just felt nice-warm and comforting and familiar. Safe. Marcel was a safe harbor.

I could stake a claim. I had that much in my power.

I'd have to tell him everything, I knew that. It was the only way to be fair. I'd have to explain it right so that he'd know I wasn't settling, that he was much too good for me. He already knew I was broken, that part wouldn't surprise him, but he'd need to know the extent of it. I'd even have to admit that I was crazy-explain about the voices I heard. He'd need to know everything before he decided.

But even as I recognized that necessity, I knew he would take me despite it all. He wouldn't even pause to think it through. I would have to commit to this-commit as much of me as there was left, every one of the broken pieces. It was the only way to be fair to him. Would I?

Could I?

Would it be so wrong to try to make Marcel happy? Even if the love I felt for him was no more than a weak echo of what I was capable of, even if my heart was far away, wandering and grieving after my fickle Romeo, would it be so very wrong?

Marcel stopped the truck in front of my spooky house, cutting the engine so it was suddenly silent. Like so many other times, he seemed to be in tune with my thoughts now.

He threw his other arm around me, crushing me against his chest, binding me to him. Again, this felt nice. Like being a whole person again.

I thought he would be thinking of Harry, but then he spoke, and his tone was apologetic. 'Sorry. I know you don't feel exactly the way I do, Bell. I swear I don't mind. I'm just so glad you're okay that I could sing and that's something no one wants to hear.' He laughed his throaty laugh in my ear.

My breathing kicked up a notch, sanding the walls of my throat.

Wouldn't Marcel, indifferent as he might be, want me to be as happy as possible under the circumstances? Wouldn't enough friendly emotion linger for him to want that much for me? I thought he would. He wouldn't begrudge me this: giving just a small bit of love he didn't want to my friend Marcel. It wasn't the same love at all.

Maggie pressed his warm cheek against the top of my hair.

If I turned my face to the side-if I pressed my lips against his bare shoulder... I knew without any doubt what would follow. It would be very easy. There would be no need for explanations tonight.

But could I do it? Could I betray my absent heart to save my pathetic life? Butterflies assaulted my stomach as I thought of turning my head.

And then, as clearly as if I were in immediate danger, Marcel's velvet voice whispered in my ear.

'Be happy,' he told me.

I froze... to that look...

Marcel felt me stiffen and released me automatically, reaching for the door.

Wait, I wanted to say. Just a minute... But I was still locked in place, listening to the echo of Marcel's voice in my head.

Storm-cooled air blew through the cab of the truck.

'OH!' The breath whooshed out of Marcel like someone had punched him in the gut. 'Holy crap!'

He slammed the door and twisted the keys in the ignition at the same moment. His hands were shaking so hard I didn't know how he managed it.

'What's wrong?'

He revved the engine too fast; it sputtered and faltered.

'Fallen Angel,' he spits out.

The blood rushed from my head and left me dizzy. 'How do you know?'

'Because I can smell it. Damn it!'

Marcel's eyes were wild, raking the dark street. He barely seemed aware of the tremors that were rolling through his body. 'Phase or get her out of here?' he hissed at himself.

He looked down at me for a split second, taking in my horror-struck eyes and white face, and then he was scanning the street again.

‘Right. Get you out.’

The engine caught with a roar. The tires squealed as he spun the truck around, turning toward our only escape. The headlights washed across the pavement, lit the front line of the black forest, and finally glinted off a car parked across the street from my house.

‘Stop!’ I gasped.

It was a black car a car I knew. I might be the furthest thing from an audiophile, but I could tell you everything about that car. It was a Mercedes S 55 AMG. I knew the horsepower and the color of the interior. I knew the feel of the powerful engine purring through the frame. I knew the rich smell of the leather seats and the way the extra-dark tint made noon look like dusk through those windows.

It was Chiaz's car.

‘Stop!’ I cried again, louder this time because Marcel was gunning the truck down the street.

‘What?’

‘It's not Maggie. Stop, stop! I want to go back.’

He stomped on the brake so hard I had to catch myself against the dashboard.

‘What?’ he asked again, aghast. He stared at me with horror in his eyes.

‘It's Chiaz's car! It's Barns. I know it.’

He watched dawn break across my face, and a violent tremor rocked his frame.

‘Hey, calm down, Maggie. It's okay. No danger, see? Relax.’

‘Yeah, calm,’ he panted, putting his head down and closing his eyes. While he concentrated on not exploding into a wolf, I started out the back window at the black car.

It was just Chiaz, I told myself. Don't expect anything more. Esme... Stop right there, I told myself. Just Chiaz. That was plenty. More than I'd ever hoped to have again.

‘There's an angel in your house,’ Marcel hissed. ‘And you want to go back?’

I glanced at him, ripping my unwilling eyes off the Mercedes-terrified that it would disappear the second I looked away.

‘Of course,’ I said, my voice blank with surprise at his question. Of course, I wanted to go back.

Marcel’s face hardened while I stared at him, congealing into the bitter mask that I’d thought was gone for good. Just before he had the mask in place, I caught the spasm of betrayal that flashed in his eyes. His hands were still shaking. He looked ten years older than me.

He took a deep breath. ‘You’re sure it’s not a trick?’ he asked in a slow, heavy voice.

‘It’s not a trick. It’s from Chiaz. Take me back!’

A shudder rippled through his wide shoulders, but his eyes were flat and emotionless.

‘No.’

‘Maggie, it’s okay-’

‘No. Take yourself back, Bell.’ His voice was a slap- I flinched as the sound of it struck me. His jaw clenched and unclenched.

‘Look, Bell,’ he said in the same hard voice. ‘I can’t go back. Treaty or no treaty, that’s my enemy in there.’

‘It’s not like that-’

‘I have to tell Sam right away. This changes things. We can’t be caught on their territory.’
‘Maggie, it’s not a war!’

He didn’t listen. He put the truck in neutral and jumped out the door, leaving it running.

‘Bye, Bell,’ he called back over his shoulder. ‘I hope you don’t die.’ He sprinted into the darkness, shaking so hard that his shape seemed blurred; he disappeared before I could open my mouth to call him back.

Remorse pinned me against the seat for one long second. What had I just done to Marcel?’

But Remorse couldn’t hold me very long.

I slid across the seat and put the truck back in drive. My hands were shaking as hard as Maggie's had been, and this took a minute of concentration. Then I carefully turned the truck around and drove it back to my house.

It was very dark when I turned off the headlights. Mr. Anderson had left in such a hurry that he'd forgotten to leave the porch lamp on. I felt a pang of doubt, staring at the house, deep in shadow. What if it was a trick?

I looked back at the black car, almost invisible in the night. No, I knew that car.

Still, my hands were shaking even worse than before as I reached for the key above the door. When I grabbed the doorknob to unlock it, it twisted easily under my hand. I let the door fall open. The hallway was black.

I wanted to call out a greeting, but my throat was too dry. I couldn't quite seem to catch my breath.

I took a step inside and fumbled for the light switch. It was so black-like the black water... Where was that switch?

Just like the black water, with the orange flame flickering impossibly on top of it. The flame that couldn't be a fire, but what then...? My fingers traced the wall, still searching, still shaking- suddenly, something Marcel had told me this afternoon echoed in my head, finally sinking in... She took off into the water, he'd said. The bloodsuckers have the advantage there. That's why I raced home -I was afraid she was going to double back swimming.

My hand froze in its searching, my whole body froze into place, as I realized why I recognized the strange orange color of the water.

Maggie's hair, blowing wild in the wind, the color of fire...

She'd been right there. Right there in the harbor with me and Marcel. If Sam hadn't been there if it had been just the two of us...? I couldn't breathe or move. The light flicked on, though my frozen hand had still not found the switch.

I blinked at the sudden light and saw that someone was there, waiting for me.

VISITOR UNNATURALLY STILL AND WHITE, WITH LARGE BLACK EYES intent on my face, my visitor waited perfectly motionless in the center of the halt, beautiful beyond imagining.

My knees trembled for a second, and I nearly fell. Then I hurled myself at her.

‘Olivia, oh, Olivia!’ I cried as I slammed into her.

I’d forgotten how hard she was; it was like running headlong into a wall of cement.

‘Bell?’ There was a strange mingling of relief and confusion in her voice.

I locked my arms around her, gasping to inhale as much of the scent of her skin as possible. It wasn’t like anything else—not floral or spice, citrus, and musk. No perfume in the world could compare. My memory hadn’t done it justice.

I didn’t notice when the gasping turned into something else—I only realized I was sobbing when Olivia dragged me to the living room couch and pulled me into her lap. It was like curling up into a cool stone, but a stone that was contoured comfortingly to the shape of my body. She rubbed my back in a gentle rhythm, waiting for me to get control of myself.

‘I’m... sorry,’ I blubbered. ‘I’m just... so happy... to see you!’

‘It’s okay, Bell. Everything’s okay.’

‘Yes,’ I bawled. And, for once, it seemed that way.

Olivia sighed. ‘I’d forgotten how exuberant you are,’ she said, and her tone was disapproving.

I looked up at her through my streaming eyes. Olivia’s neck was tight, straining away from me, her lips pressed together firmly. Her eyes were black as pitch.

‘Oh,’ I puffed, as I realized the problem. She was thirsty. And I smelled appetizing. It had been a while since I’d had to think about that.

‘Sorry.’

‘It’s my fault. It’s been too long since I hunted. I shouldn’t let myself get so thirsty. But I was in a hurry today.’ The look she directed at me then was a glare. ‘Speaking of which, would you like to explain to me how you’re alive?’

That brought me up short and stopped the sobs. I realized what must have happened immediately, and why Olivia was here.

I swallowed loudly, 'you saw me fall.'

'No,' she disagreed, her eyes narrowing. 'I saw you jump.'

I pursed my lips as I tried to think of an explanation that wouldn't sound nuts.

Olivia shook her head. 'I told him this would happen, but he didn't believe me. 'Karly promised,' her voice imitated his so perfectly that, I froze in shock while the pain ripped through my torso. 'Don't be looking for her future, either,' she continued to quote him.' 'We've done enough damage.'

'But just because I'm not looking, doesn't mean I don't see' she went on. 'I wasn't tracking you, I swear, Bell. It's just that I'm already attuned to you... when I saw you jumping, I didn't think, I just got on a plane. I knew I would be too late, but I couldn't do anything. And then I get here, thinking I could help Mr. Anderson somehow, and you drive up.' She shook her head, this time in confusion. Her voice was strained. 'I saw you go into the water and I waited and waited for you to come up, but you didn't. What happened? And how could you do that to Mr. Anderson? Did you stop to think about what this would do to him? And my brother?

Do you have any idea what Marcel?

I cut her off then, as soon as she said his name. I'd let her go on, even after I realized the misunderstanding she was under, just to hear the perfect bell tone of her voice. But it was time to interrupt.

'Olivia, I wasn't committing suicide.'

She eyed me dubiously. 'Are you saying you didn't jump off a cliff?'

'No, but...' I grimaced. 'It was for recreational purposes only.' Her expression hardened.

'I'd seen some of Marcel's friend's cliff diving,' I insisted. 'It looked like... fun, and I was bored...' She waited.

'I didn't think about how the storm would affect the currents. I didn't think about the water much at all.'

Olivia didn't buy it. I could see that she still thought I had been trying to kill myself. I decided to redirect. 'So, if you saw me go in, why didn't you see Marcel?'

She cocked her head to the side, distracted.

I continued. 'It's true that I probably would have drowned if Marcel hadn't jumped in after me. Well, okay, there's not about it. But he did, and he pulled me out, and I guess he towed me back to shore, though I was kind of out for that part. It couldn't have been more than a minute that I was under before he grabbed me. How come you didn't see that?'

Part: 16

Acting of us-

You got to love the p*ssy fart vid- I do!

His eyes bulged, and his face turned a strange, sallow color under the tan exterior. He looked like he was about to be sick. Marcel noticed because he held the hand I moved. 'Whatever's that I ponder with suspicion?' He traded hands, examining my right. 'This is your funny scare, the cold one.' He looked at it closer, with new eyes, and gasped.

'Naturally, it's what you think it is,' I whispered. Love isn't something you find. Love is something that finds you. 'He kissed me so hot, startlingly, and tastefully.'

Let us always meet each other with a smile, for the smile is the start of love. Keep love in your heart. A life without it is like a sunless garden when the flowers are dead. Love is composed of a solo soul inhabiting two bodies. A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have treasured you, so your commitment to fall in love with one another.

True love is like ghosts, which everyone talks about and few have seen. You can't blame gravity for falling in love. Immature love says: I love you because I need you. Mature love says 'I need you because I love you. Love finds each other that has caught fire as no other can do. It is quite sympathetic, conjoint self- assurance, distribution, and forgiving. It is faithfulness through good and wicked eras. It settles for less than faultlessness and makes pin money for human weaknesses. Sometimes the heart sees what is invisible to the eye. The best thing to hold onto in life is each other. Love is life. And if you miss love, you miss life.

‘Definitely not,’ I said curtly. I couldn't imagine that the wolves running faster than an angel. When the Barn's ran, they all but turned invisible with speed. ‘As a result, tell me something I don't know,’ he said. ‘Something about angels. How did you stand it, being around them? Didn't it creep you out?’ I have never found anybody who could stand to accept the daily demonstrative love I feel in me and give back as good as I give. Love is when the other person's happiness is more important than your own.

It did mean something to me. My tone made him thoughtful for a moment.

‘Say, why your bloodsucker would kill that James, anyway?’ He asked suddenly. ‘He was trying to kill me I feel maybe not all the way yet some shit like that- it was like a game for him. He lost. Do you remember last spring when I was in the Kennywood at night?’

‘But if he kissed you...?’

‘Shouldn't you be... dating someone else?’

(Jenny never wanted this she wanted him more than what they thought.)

He choked. Of any kind, you happen to be feeling at the twinkling is fine with them. That's what real love amounts to- letting an individual be what he is. In-Lovers- can help each other. A loyal friend is nobody who lets you have total freedom to be yourself- as well as particularly to sense, or, nonsense. Love like a rose- flower cannot blossom without sunshine, and man cannot live without love.

‘Marcel saved me twice from myself in falling to someone, not for me, I feel that.’ I believed. ‘He sucked the kiss out of me here and there- you know, like with a never before.’ I twitched as the pain lashed around the edges of the hole. The sweetest of all sounds is that of the voice of the woman we love. But I wasn't the only one twitching. I could feel Marcel's whole body trembling next to mine. I believe that imagination is stronger than knowledge. That myth is more potent than times gone by. That dreams are more prevailing than facts. That always hopes victories over experience. That laughter is the only cure for sorrow. And I believe that love is stronger than death. Existence deeply loved by someone gives you métier, while loving somebody severely gives you nerve.

In the car on the speed drive:

Even the car shook.

‘At least we have each other,’ he said, clearly comforted by the thought.

I was comforted, too. ‘At least there's that,’ I agreed.

And when we were together, it was fine. But Marcel had a horrible, dangerous job he felt compelled to do, and so I was often alone, stuck in snubber for safety, with nothing to do to keep my mind off any of my worries. I felt awkward, always taking up space at Marcel's. I did some studying for another life test that was coming up next week, but I could only look at the math for so long. When I didn't have obvious to do in my hands, spread love everywhere you go. Let no one ever come to you without leaving happier. I felt like I ought to be making conversation with Marcel the pressure of normal societal rules. But Marcel wasn't one for filling up the long silences, and so the awkwardness continued. Oh like- stolen kisses are always sweetest and are the best ones I can have!

She criticized lightly about the increase in the boy's cravings from all their extra successively, but it was easy to see she didn't mind taking care of them. It wasn't hard to be with her; we were both wolf girls now. I tried hanging out at Maggie's place afternoon night, for a change and more than only to girls can do for girls. At first, it was nice.

Maggie was cheerful sitting still lusting for me. I go with the flow behind her while she flitted around her little house and yard, scrubbing at the spotless floor, fixing a broken hinge, pulling a tiny weed, tugging a string of fabric through an antique loom, and always cooking, too. A kiss is a lovely trick designed by nature to stop speech when words become unnecessary. Kindness in words creates confidence. Sympathy in thinking creates a degree. Kindheartedness in giving creates in-love with lovers, or so I feel like this day.

But Sam checked in after I would be- there for a few hours. I only stayed long enough to make certain that Marcel was fine and there was no news, and then

I had to discharge, like she. ‘It's not always pretty- yet that is love.’ The aura of love and contentment that surrounded them was harder to take in concentrated doses, with no one else around to thin it like this.

Love doesn't make the world going around. Love is what makes the ride meaningful. So that left me wandering the beach, pacing the length of the rock-strewn crescent back and forth, repeatedly, and more, and so on.

Sh*t! You can search throughout the entire universe for someone who is more deserving of your love, and fondness than you are physical wants and needs, in addition to that person is not to be found anywhere. You physically, as much as any person in the entire cosmos deserve your love and affection.

Alone time wasn't good for me. Thanks to the new honesty with Marcel, I'd been talking and thinking about the Barn's way too much. I have decided to stick with love. Detestation is too great a weight to tolerate. On the other hand, heat is easier for some, don't you see that?

No matter how I tried to distract myself and I had plenty to think of: I was honestly and desperately worried about Marcel- I was getting in deeper and deeper with Marcel without ever having consciously decided to progress in that direction and I didn't know what to do about it- none of these very real, very deserving of thought, very pressing concerns could take my mind off the pain in my chest for long. At the end of the day, I couldn't even walk to any further extent, because I couldn't breathe. I sat down on a patch of semidry rocks and curled up in a ball. We love life, not because, we are used to living but because we are used to loving.

His warmth made me tremble, but at least I could breathe with him there. 'I'm adulteration your spring break,' Marcel suspects himself as we walked back up the shore. 'On no account, you are not. I didn't have any plans. I don't think I like spring disruptions, anyway.' A teen girl knows the face of the man she loves as a seafarer knows the open sea. Marcel found me like that, and I could tell from his expression that he understood. 'Sorry,' he said right away. He pulled me up from the ground and wrapped both arms around my shoulders. I hadn't realized that I was cold until then.

~*~

Marcel is so cute- saying:

Boob play- is like wax on and wax off.

~*~

Vagina play- is like paint the fence.

~*~

Clitoris play- is like nipples- would be sand the floor.

~*~

Butt play of hers- is like side by side.

~*~

just think of this and it's all good! And you can touch a girl well!

~*~

Piss the day started, and I am in bed- messed up in the head- God- GOO!

‘I'll take tomorrow morning off. The others can run without me. We'll do something fun. ‘Fun is exactly what you need. Hammam...’ he gazed out across the heaving ashen waves, deliberating. As his eyes glance at the skyline, he had a flash of the stimulus.’ The word seemed out of place in my life right now, barely comprehensible, bizarre.

‘Fun? Is it not?’

Part: 17

Silence

‘Sh-h!’

‘Shouldn't somebody has mentioned this to me earlier?’ I whispered angrily. ‘I mean, I wanted to be a... to be one of you! Shouldn't somebody have- already- like, explained the rules to me?’

Olivia chuckled once at my reaction. ‘It's not that complicated, Bell. There's only one core restriction-and if you think about it, you can probably figure it out for yourself.’

I thought about it. ‘Nope, I have no idea.’

She shook her head, disappointed. ‘Maybe it's too obvious. We just have to keep our existence a secret.’

‘Oh,’ I mumbled. It was obvious.

‘It makes sense, and most of us don't need policing,’ she continued. ‘But, after a few centuries, sometimes one of us gets bored. Or crazy. I don't know. And then the Ministry steps in before it can compromise them, or the rest of us.’

‘So-o Marcel...’

‘Is planning to flout that in their city-the city they've secretly held for three thousand years, since the time of the Etruscans. They are so protective of their city that they don't allow hunting within its walls. Volterra is probably the safest city in the world-from angel attack at the very least.’

‘But you said they didn't leave. How do they eat?’

This is what she becomes because of me... what do you think of here... do you like her or heat? Are you going to hate her for this?

~*~

‘They don't leave. They bring in their food from the outside, from quite far away sometimes. It gives their guard something to do when they're not out annihilating mavericks. Or protecting Volterra from exposure...’

‘From situations like this one, like Marcel,’ I finished her sentence. It was amazingly easy to say his name now. I wasn't sure what the difference was. Maybe because- I wasn't planning on living much longer without seeing him. Or at all, if we were too late. It was comforting to know that I would have an easy out.

‘I doubt they've ever had a situation quite like this,’ she muttered, disgusted.

‘You don't get a lot of suicidal angels.’

The sound that escaped out of my mouth was very quiet, but Olivia seemed to understand that it was a cry of pain. She wrapped her thin, strong arm around my shoulders.

‘We'll do what we can, Bell. It's not over yet.’

‘Not yet.’ I let her comfort me, though I knew she thought our chances were poor. ‘And the Ministry will get us if we mess up.’ Olivia stiffened. ‘You say that like it's a good thing.’

I shrugged.

‘Knock it off, Bell, or we're turning around in New York and going back to Pittsburgh.’

‘What?’

‘You know what. If we're too late for Marcel, I'm going to do my damndest to get you back to Mr. Anderson, and I don't want any trouble from you. Do you understand that?’

‘Sure, Olivia.’

She pulled back slightly so that she would glare at me. ‘No trouble.’

‘Scout's honor,’ I muttered.

She rolled her eyes.

‘Let me concentrate, now. I'm trying to see what he's planning.’

She left her arm around me, but let her head fall back against the seat and closed her eyes. She pressed her free hand to the side of her face, rubbing her fingertips against her temple.

I watched her in fascination for a long time. Eventually, she became utterly motionless, her face like a stone sculpture. The minutes passed, and if I didn't know better, I would have thought she'd fallen asleep. I didn't dare interrupt her to ask what was going on.

I wished there was something safe for me to think about. I couldn't allow myself to consider the horrors we were headed toward, or, more horrific yet, the chance that we might fail—not if I wanted to keep from screaming aloud.

I couldn't anticipate anything, either. If I were very, very, very lucky, I would somehow be able to save Marcel. But I wasn't so stupid as to think that saving him would mean that I could stay with him. I was no different, no more special than I'd been before. There would be no new reason for him to want me now. Seeing him and losing him again...

I fought back against the pain. This was the price I had to pay to save his life. I would pay for it.

They showed a movie, and my neighbor got headphones. Sometimes, I watched the figures moving across the little screen, but I couldn't even tell if the movie was supposed to be a romance or a horror film.

After an eternity, the plane began to descend toward New York City. Olivia remained in her trance. I dithered, reaching out to touch her, only to pull my hand back again. This happened a dozen times before the plane touched down with a jarring impact.

‘Olivia,’ I finally said. ‘Olivia, we have to go.’

I touched her arm.

Her eyes came open very slowly. She shook her head from side to side for a moment.

‘Anything new?’ I asked in a faint voice, conscious of the man listening on the other side of me.

‘Not exactly,’ she breathed in a voice I could barely catch. ‘He’s getting closer. He’s deciding how he’s going to ask.’

We had to run for our connection, but that was good-better than having to wait. As soon as the plane was in the air, Olivia closed her eyes and slid back into the same stupor as before. I waited as patiently as I could. When it was dark again, I opened the window to stare out into the flat black that was no better than the window shade.

I was grateful that I’d had so many months’ practice with controlling my thoughts. Instead of dwelling on the terrifying possibilities that, no matter what Olivia said I did not intend to survive, I concentrated on lesser problems. Like, what I was going to say to Mr. Anderson if I got back: ‘That was a thorny enough problem to occupy several hours, and Marcel?’

He had promised to wait for me, but did that promise still to apply? Would I end up home alone in Pittsburgh, with no one at all? I didn’t want to survive, no matter what happened.

It felt like seconds later when Olivia shook my shoulder-I hadn’t realized I’d fallen asleep.

‘Bell,’ she hissed, her voice a little too loud in the darkened cabin full of sleeping humans.

I wasn’t disoriented-I hadn’t been out long enough for that.

‘What’s wrong?’

Olivia’s eyes gleamed in the dim light of a reading lamp in the row behind us.

‘It’s not wrong.’ She smiled fiercely. ‘It’s right. They’re deliberating, but they’ve decided to tell him no.’

‘The Ministry?’ I muttered, groggy.

‘Of course, Bell, keep up. I can see what they're going to say.’

‘Tell me.’

An attendant tiptoed down the aisle to us. ‘Can I get you, ladies, a pillow?’ His hushed whisper was a rebuke to our comparatively loud conversation.

‘No, thank you.’ Olivia beamed at up at him, her smile shockingly lovely.

The attendant's expression was dazed as he turned and stumbled his way back.

‘Tell me,’ I breathed silently.

She whispered into my ear. ‘They're interested in him-they think his talent could be useful. They're going to offer him a place with them.’

‘What will he say?’

‘I can't see that yet, but I'll bet it's colorful.’ She grinned again. ‘This is the first good news-the first break. They're intrigued; they truly don't want to destroy him-wasteful,’ that's the word Aron will use-and that may be enough to force him to get creative. The longer he spends on his plans, the better for us.’

It wasn't enough to make me hopeful, to make me feel the relief she felt. There were still so many ways that we could be too late. And if I didn't get through the walls into the Ministry city, I wouldn't be able to stop Olivia from dragging me back home.

‘Olivia?’

‘What?’

‘I'm confused. How are you seeing this so clearly? And then other times, you see things far away things that don't happen?’

Her eyes tightened. I wondered if she guessed what I was thinking of.

‘It's clear because it's immediate and close, and I'm concentrating. The faraway things that come on their own-those are just glimpses, faint. Plus, I see my kind more easily than yours. Marcel is even easier because I'm so attuned to him.’

‘You see me sometimes,’ I reminded her.

She shook her head. ‘Not as clear.’

I sighed. ‘I wish you could have been right about me. In the beginning, when you first saw things about me, before we even met...’

‘What do you mean?’

‘You saw me become one of you.’ I barely mouthed the words.

She sighed. ‘It was a possibility at the time.’

‘At the time,’ I repeated.

‘Actually, Bell...’ She hesitated, and then seemed to make a choice. ‘Honestly, I think it's all gotten beyond ridiculous. I'm debating whether to just change you myself.’

I stared at her, frozen with shock. Instantly, my mind resisted her words. I couldn't afford that kind of hope if she changed her mind.

‘Did I scare you?’ she wondered. ‘I thought that's what you wanted.’

‘I do!’ I gasped. ‘Oh, Olivia, do it now! I could help you so much and I wouldn't slow you down. Bite me!’

‘Shh,’ she cautioned. The attendant was looking in our direction again. ‘Try to be reasonable,’ she whispered. ‘We don't have enough time. We must get into Volterra tomorrow. You'd be writhing in pain for days.’ She made a face. ‘And I don't think the other passengers would react well.’

I bit my lip, ‘If you don't do it now, you'll change your mind.’

‘No.’ She frowned- her expression unhappy. ‘I don't think I will. He'll be furious, but what will he be able to do about it?’

My heartbeat faster. ‘Nothing at all.’

She laughed quietly and then sighed. ‘You have too much faith in me, Bell. I'm not sure that I can. I'll probably just end up killing you.’

‘I'll take my chances.’

‘You are so bizarre, even for a human.’

‘Thanks.’

‘Oh well, this is purely hypothetical at this point, anyway. First, we have to live through tomorrow.’

‘Good point.’ But at least I had something to hope for if we did. If Olivia made good on her promise-and if she didn't kill me-then Marcel could run after his distractions all he wanted, and I could follow. I wouldn't let him be distracted.

When I was beautiful and strong, he wouldn't want distractions.

‘Go back to sleep,’ she encouraged me. ‘I'll wake you up when there's something new.’

‘Right,’ I grumbled, certain that sleep was a lost cause now. Olivia pulled her legs up on the seat, wrapping her arms around them and leaning her forehead against her knees. She rocked back and forth as she concentrated.

I rested my head against the seat, watching her, and the next thing I knew, she was snapping the shade closed against the faint brightening in the eastern sky.

‘What's happening?’ I mumbled.

‘They've told him no,’ she said quietly. I noticed at once that her enthusiasm was gone.

My voice choked in my throat with panic. ‘What's he going to do?’

‘It was chaotic at first. I was only getting flickers; he was changing plans so quickly.’

‘What kinds of plans?’ I pressed.

‘There was a bad hour,’ she whispered. ‘He'd decided to go hunting.’ She looked at me, seeing the comprehension on my face.

‘In the city,’ she explained. ‘It got very close. He changed his mind at the last minute.’

‘He wouldn't want to disappoint Chiaz,’ I mumbled. Not at the end. ‘Probably,’ she agreed.

‘Will there be enough time?’ As I spoke, there was a shift in the cabin pressure. I could feel the plane angling downward.

‘I'm hoping so-if he sticks to his latest decision, maybe.’

‘What is that?’

‘He's going to keep it simple. He's just going to walk out into the sun.’

Just walk out into the sun. That was all.

It would be enough. The image of Marcel in the meadow-glowing, shimmering like his skin was made of a million diamond facets-was burned into my memory. No human who saw that would ever forget. The Ministry couldn't allow it. Not if they wanted to keep their city inconspicuous.

I looked at the slight gray glow that shone through the opened windows.

‘We'll be too late,’ I whispered, my throat closing in panic.

She shook her head. ‘Right now, he's leaning toward the melodramatic. He wants the biggest audience possible, so he'll choose the main plaza, under the clock tower. The walls are high there. He'll wait till the sun is exactly overhead.’

‘So-o we have till noon?’

‘If we're lucky. If he sticks with this decision.’

The pilot came on over the intercom, announcing, first in French and then in English, our imminent landing. The seat belt lights dinged and flashed. ‘How far is it from Florence to Volterra?’

‘That depends on how fast you drive... Bell?’

‘Yes?’

She eyed me speculatively. ‘How strongly are you opposed to grand theft auto?’

A bright yellow Porsche screamed to a stop a few feet in front of where I paced, the word TURBO scrawled in silver cursive across its back. Everyone beside me on the crowded airport sidewalk started.

‘Hurry, Bell!’ Olivia shouted impatiently through the open passenger window.

I ran to the door and threw myself in, feeling as though I might as well be wearing a black stocking over my head.

‘Sheesh, Olivia,’ I complained. ‘Could you pick a more conspicuous car to steal?’

The interior was black leather, and the windows were tinted dark. It felt safer inside, like nighttime.

Olivia was already weaving, too fast, through the thick airport traffic-sliding through tiny spaces between the cars as I cringed and fumbled for my seat belt.

‘The important question,’ she corrected, ‘is whether I could have stolen a faster car, and I don't think so.’

Part: 18

Godsend

‘I got lucky.’

‘I'm sure that will be very comforting at the roadblock.’

She trilled a laugh. ‘Trust me, Bell. If anyone sets up a roadblock, it will be behind us.’ She hit the gas then as if to prove her point.

I should have watched out the window as first the city of Florence and then the Tuscan landscape flashed past with blurring speed. This was my first trip anywhere, and my last, too. But Olivia's driving frightened me, even though I knew I could trust her behind the wheel. And I was too tortured with anxiety to see the hills or the walled towns that looked like castles in the distance.

‘Do you see anything more?’

‘Something is going on,’ Olivia muttered. ‘Festival. The streets are full of people and red flags. What's the date today?’

I wasn't entirely sure. ‘The nineteenth, maybe?’

‘Well, that's ironic. It's Saint Marcellus Day.’

‘Which means?’

She chuckled darkly... 'The city holds a celebration every year. As the legend goes, a Christian missionary, a Father Marcellus- of the Valium, in fact-drove all the angels from Volterra fifteen hundred years ago.

The story claims he was martyred in Rockville, still trying to drive away from the angel scourge.

Of course, that's nonsense-he's never left the city. But that's where some of the superstitions about things like crosses and garlic come from. Father Marcellus used them so successfully. And angels don't trouble Volterra, so they must work.' Her smile was sardonic. 'It's become more of a celebration of the city, and recognition for the police force-after all, Volterra is an amazingly safe city.

'The police get the credit.'

I was realizing what she meant when she'd said ironically. 'They're not going to be very happy if Marcel messes things up for them on St. Marcellus Day, are they?'

She shook her head, her expression grim. 'No. They'll act very quickly.'

I looked away, fighting against my teeth as they tried to break through the skin of my lower lip. Bleeding was not the best idea right now.

The sun was terrifyingly high in the pale blue sky.

'He's still planning on noon?' I checked.

'Yes. He's decided to wait. And they're waiting for him.'

'Tell me what I have to do.'

She kept her eyes on the winding road-the needle on the speedometer was touching the far right on the dial.

'You don't have to do anything. He just must see you before he moves into the light. And he has to see you before he sees me.'

'How are we going to work that?'

A small red car seemed to be racing backward as Olivia zoomed around it.

‘I'm going to get you as close as possible, and then you're going to run in the direction I point you.’

I nodded slightly... ‘Try not to trip,’ she added. ‘We don't have time for a concussion today.’

I groaned. That would be just like me-ruin everything, destroy the world, in a moment of klutziness.

The sun continued to climb in the sky while Olivia raced against it. It was too bright: and that had me panicking. He wouldn't feel the need to wait until noon.

‘There,’ Olivia said abruptly, pointing to the castle city atop the closest hill.

I stared at it, feeling the very first hint of a new kind of fear. Every minute since yesterday morning it seemed like a week ago-when Olivia had spoken his name at the foot of the stairs, there had been only one fear. And yet, now, as I stared at the ancient sienna walls and towers crowning the peak of the steep hill, I felt another, more selfish kind of dread thrill through me.

I supposed the city was very beautiful. It terrified me.

‘Volterra,’ Olivia announced in a flat, icy voice.

VOLTERRA- WE BEGAN THE STEEP CLIMB, AND THE ROAD GREW CONGESTED. As we wound higher, the cars became too close together for Olivia to weave insanely between them anymore. We slowed to a crawl behind a little tan Peugeot.

‘Olivia,’ I moaned. The clock on the dash seemed to be speeding up.

‘It's the only way in,’ she tried soothing me. But her voice was too strained to comfort.

The cars continued to edge forward, one car length at a time. The sun beamed down brilliantly, seeming already overhead.

The cars crept one by one toward the city. As we got closer, I could see cars parked by the side of the road with people getting out to walk the rest of the way.

At first- I thought it was just impatience-something I could easily understand. But then we came around a switchback, and I could see the filled parking lot outside the city wall, the crowds of people walking through the gates. No one was being allowed to drive through.

‘Olivia,’ I whispered urgently.

‘I know,’ she said. Her face was chiseled from ice.

Now that I was looking, and we were crawling slowly enough to see, I could tell that it was very windy. The people crowding toward the gate gripped their hats and tugged their hair out of their faces. Their clothes billowed around them. I also noticed that red was everywhere. Red-shirts, red hats, red flags dripping like long ribbons beside the gate, whipping in the wind as I watched, the brilliant crimson scarf one woman had tied around her hair was caught in a sudden gust. It twisted up into the air above her, writhing like it was alive. She reached for it, jumping in the air, but it continued to flutter higher, a patch of bloody color against the dull, ancient walls.

‘Bell.’ Olivia spoke swiftly in a fierce, deep voice. ‘I can't see what the guard here will decide now-if this doesn't work, you're going to have to go in alone. You're going to have to run. Just keep running in the course they tell you too. Don't get lost.’
